NORFOLK-YANKTON RAILROAD

H. E. Owen of Norfolk, a railroad contractor, is authority for the statement that a railroad may be built from Yankton to Norfolk this summer. Mr. Owen has been asked to go to Yankton this month to consult with parties who are said to contemplate building the new line. And Mr. Owen thinks there is a fair prospect of securing the new road.

It is claimed for the new project that money has already been subscribed in Europe for the railway. Arrangements to bridge the Missouri at Yankton are said to have been completed.

Norfolk has become partially immune to Norfolk and Yankton railroad stories. But at the same time every new story has in it elements to arouse interest. For Norfolk believes that some day that railroad is going to be built.

Twenty years ago the Norfolk and Yankton project filled Norfolk hearts with hope. Intelligent reasoning saw ample room at that time for the new line. And it stands to reason that if there was enough in the territory to support the story then, there must be still more now, with that territory more than ever filled up.

Some day there is going to be a railroad between Norfolk and Yankton, a good many people believe. Like truth, the project, crushed to earth, rises again.—Norfolk News.

D. A. REGEN, AN EXPERIENCED MINER, EXAMINES THE KING SOLOMON TUNNEL ON A RECENT VISIT TO FRISCO

Writes an interesting letter to The Little Miner of mining in the Ten Mile Range. Says all the veins cut in the King Solomon Tunnel are true fissure veins and the poorest looking ones may prove to be the best upon development. Our location an ideal one and vein No. 2 as good showing as any in the district.

Mr. D. A. Regen of Denver on a recent visit to Frisco spent a half day in the King Solomon tunnel with President Dinsmore. He was so well pleased with what he saw and spoke in such enthusiastic terms that we requested him to write a letter for The Little Miner, which he consented to do. Mr. Regen is well acquainted with the Frisco district. He has thirty years' experience in mining in Colorado and a large portion of the time has been spent in Frisco and surrounding camps.

He located and sold to Mr. Wiborg the Excelsior mine just across the gulch from us. He directed work on the Victoria years ago that led to it being changed from a prospect to a mine. Mr. Regen also worked the Queen of the West at Kokomo for twelve years and made of it a paying mine. Later he sold it and it has produced about $300,000. These are only indications of his knowledge of mining. Other mines could repeat the story as EVERY MINE WHICH HE HAS DIRECTED HAS PROVEN A SUCCESS.

These facts will cause you to read his letter with increased interest. We have a great deal of confidence in Mr. Regen's judgement and are greatly encouraged over his report.

Frisco, Colorado, May 20, 1908.

Editor Little Miner—

In accordance with your request, I have just made an examination of the King Solomon tunnel and must say that I am more than pleased and surprised with the good showing in mineral, size and width of the different lodes in the tunnel, all of which are well defined.

The veins have increased from a few inches in width on the surface to that many feet in width in the tunnel.

On the surface, on the line of the tunnel, the veins are naturally exposed for a mile or more on their course, like benches or made trails, along the mountain or canon side. Those on the first end of your tunnel appeared too small for conservative miners and prospectors to locate from the surface showing, but now the wonderful improvement and increase by depth shown in your tunnel furnishes a radical and conclusive proof that here in this Frisco district even the small true fissure veins, such as yours are, will by depth make paying mines.

Heretofore all ores that have been shipped from Frisco district have been taken out at only comparatively shallow depths, but now we will soon have some great and permanent shipping mines, and I believe you have the best chance of all the mines in the whole district for your tunnel is the most ideal that any man can find in any district in this state, for it will pierce the very heart and center of the visible lodes of the district.

From the appearance on the surface over the tunnel for the first fifteen hundred feet, no paying ore can be expected until the larger veins are cut on their dip into the mountain, which is generally about forty-five degrees.

After thirty years' experience in mining, I am satisfied that when you have reached a distance of 2,500 to 3,500 feet from the portal of the tunnel you will cut into a large vein every few hundred feet.

How can anyone doubt the above statement when those surface stringers show so well at the small depth at which they are cut in the tunnel so far.

In driving a cross cut tunnel there is not one chance in a hundred that the vein will be cut in an ore shoot, for in fissure veins usually ninety per cent is either barren or of such low grade that it will not pay to ship. A ten foot hole in a 1,000 foot circle cannot disclose much, if I may so express my illustration that you may understand the fact. Sinking, drifting or raising on a vein will eventually disclose the ore shoots and make a mine, and often only one vein will make a string of mines, sometimes for miles, and may take several generations to exhaust. No bottom to true fissure veins has ever been reached.

Many mines have been closed down because of mismanagement, or because they were supposed to be pinched out, but when work has been resumed they have turned into paying mines, making fortunes for new owners or leasers.

Have you, yourself, thought of the stupendous possibilities of your matchless tunnel proposition? Each vein a string of mines, and where is the limit to the number of veins you will cut by pushing ahead along the center of the Ten Mile Range, cutting them at a depth of 2,000 to 3,000 feet? There are ahead of your tunnel unclaimed and undeveloped veins which will be yours if you push your tunnel fast enough.

As you know, in the older mining districts tunnels are now run to cut worked out mines where millions have been spent in pumping and hoisting, which expenditure can now be saved. It is a fact that all important mining camps of this state could have doubled their dividends if they could have saved the enormous amount expended for machinery and pumping and hoisting. All this you can avoid by your tunnel enterprise.

After a time even the small lodes will take care of themselves without cost, by leasing them, and eventually some of them will pay royalties enough to keep the tunnel going ahead and even pay dividends like some transportation tunnels that do not own any mines. You will own the mines yourselves. There is the point.

You are now at the point where all heavy expenses are already paid. You are through the shell of the most expensive rock and dead ground and have a splendid plant of machinery sufficient for any amount of power you may need. Your enterprise will go ahead for generation after generation as long as mineral and gold are wanted. Should one company fall others will take it up and open more and more mines.

It is expensive to mine, but frequently the result of the work of one week will pay for the work of one year of development or prospecting.

It is said the Newhouse tunnel in Clear Creek county, now in over three miles, did not happen to cut pay ore in any one of the many veins cut, but by drifting and upraising and connecting with the different mines above, thousands of dollars are taken out every day, and this will continue for years and years to come.

I should not close this letter without mentioning the fact that the first strong vein which shows on the surface of your tunnel line is the Golden Centrum. This vein dips about 45 degrees, but may straighten up some, or on the other hand it may flatten out some after leaving the surface. You should cut it from the 2,000 to the 2,500 foot point in your tunnel. You may cut it any day, however, and you may have to go further than the 2,500 foot point, owing to the dip which is not definitely determined. You should remember though that after passing under the apex for each three feet you gain one foot of stoping ground if the dip is 45 degrees. While the delay of cutting the vein may be disappointing to you it will mean more ore above the tunnel line the longer the delay.

In conclusion I would say that all of the veins in your tunnel are true fissure veins. The poorest looking vein may prove the best by development, as most veins carry mineral at some point, and the real value of a vein can only be ascertained by development. At this time vein No. 2 has the best ore disclosed and the showing in that vein is equal to that in any mine. As I said in the beginning I was not only pleased, but surprised, with what I saw in your tunnel. I wish you abundant success in your enterprise and congratulate you and your stockholders upon the development you have done, the equipment you now have and the manner in which your enterprise is being conducted. Yours very truly,

D. A. REGEN.

United States Forest Land.
The United States Forest Service now has administration over more than 16,000,000 acres of land. This is slightly more than one-fifth of the country's total forested area; the remainder is in the hands of private owners. Nearly all the timber land of the unappropriated public domain is now in the national forests. This means that it is being protected against fire, theft, and wasteful exploitation; that its power to grow wood and store water is being safeguarded for all time, and that nevertheless its present supply of useful material is open to immediate use whenever it is wanted.

How to Cut Cabbage.
It does not occur to many amateurs that there is a right and a wrong way of cutting cabbage. To do it properly, press the left hand between the headed part of the plant and the larger lower leaves so as to make room for the knife; then make a slightly slanting cut close under the headed part, thus removing the cabbage, but leaving as long a stump as possible. In case the

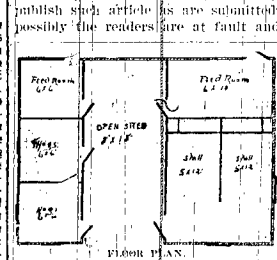

FARMER'S CORNER

A Handy Small Barn.
A Missouri subscriber of "Farm and Home" forwards a device for a handy and inexpensive barn, and in describing same says: "Many small farmers, poultrymen, fruit and truck growers have no use for a large barn such as those usually published by the papers. I send the plan here illustrated in the hope that it will be of some use to those wishing a small barn. It is 18 ft. 2 in. wide and divided as shown in the floor plan. The open shed is used for tools, a wagon, buggy, or a shop, and sometimes simply as a place to store manure. In some of the older States doors should be provided for the shed, and possibly the partitions extended to the ceiling. The structure is ten feet at the eaves and fourteen to sixteen feet in front. The roof is hooped over eight feet above the grade line. This provides ample storage space for hay and rough feed and the two feed rooms are ample for grain and bran. These may be floored or not, as desired. The outer walls are boarded up and down and battened. The roof should be covered with some rather light material not over eight inches thick, and this is turfed with any of the prepared roofing felt now on the market. The barn has been built several times at a price ranging from $50 to $80, and can be built some cheaper where native lumber is used. When neatly painted it will make a very good appearance. I was pleased to submit the sketch from several articles written by subscribers stating that small barn plans never appeared in the journals, and as it is very evident that they can only publish such articles as are submitted, possibly the readers are at fault and

Wearing Pig.
It will soon be time to take young pigs from the sows, and in weaning their much care will be necessary to avoid starting them or stopping their growth. When about three weeks old the young pigs will begin to look around for feed, and a pen should then be provided for them where they can be coveyed and given a little fresh milk. It takes very little after they have once tasted the milk they may be easily called to their feed. Corn should be constantly kept in this pen and the little pigs have free access to it at all times. Milk or swill should be fed to them, a little at first, and increased gradually daily. It will be beneficial to give them all the fresh clean swill they will drink up clean at each feed. Never feed little pigs anything sour, or so much swill that it will stand in the trough and sour. Feed from this way until you see that the sow is dried up, then remove her and the pigs will be weaned.

Seedling Clover.
There are positions which are rightly adhered to in the sowing or planting of staple crops. Clover is usually sown on wheat land in the spring, the seed being scattered over the ground when it is covered with snow in order to facilitate the work. One of the vital rules is to sow a certain quantity of seed (as little as possible if seed is high), and should the stand be light the cause is ascribed to everything but the quantity of seed that has been used. That fact is that seed should be used more liberally, as much of it is destroyed in various ways before germination, the saving of seed causing a loss of clover. Another point is to harrow the wheat, seed down the clover, and then use a roller on the land. The better the preparation for clover, the more seed will germinate and the more perfect the "catch."

Don't Neglect the Garden.
In summer the farmer has plenty of work on hand, and work that must have prompt attention, but the work needed in the garden is that which he should not neglect. His living depends on it, at least he ought to think so, and act on that belief. It is certain that there is no other part of his entire work so important to the health and comfort of his family and himself, and the actual saving of expenses which a bounteous garden bestows is a feature which alone warrants him in making a good garden, no matter what other work may cause him to defer. It is presumed that he has by this time of year made all necessary preparations for a supply of fruit for family use during the entire summer, and much of the provision for a supply of staple vegetables should be completed, but there is time for much more, and it will not pay to neglect it.

Debt Sometimes Justifiable.
Any young man of enterprise, energy and sound health is justified in going into debt for a reasonable amount, depending somewhat on his own capacity and the opportunity which may offer for discharging it. In case he is married much will depend upon the disposition and strength of his wife, who, whether he will or no, is bound to share a portion of the responsibility as well as the work incident to liquidating the obligation. Of course this advice is only for young men of determination, earnestness and sobriety. Chaps of any other type are likely to fare better if they stay out of debt, as will also those on whom they might be inclined to borrow.

Skim Milk for Children.
The West Virginia experiment station made a 122-day test to determine the value of the skim milk as a check on feed. They selected twenty-two heifers and fed them skim milk with the result that they secured 1244 eggs in this time. Another lot of twenty-two heifers fed with mash wet with water had 966 eggs in the 122 days.

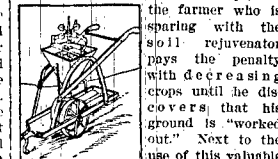

stumps are intended for a production of fresh growth, do not remove the large leaves until the sprouts have been given an opportunity to attain some size.

Mixed Breeding.
In mixed breeding, or cross breeding, nothing is accomplished beyond the first cross, says a Colorado veter. In his bulletin. While a few good individuals may be secured, the tendency is for the progeny to be lower rather than above the average. A man conducting his breeding in a haphazard way is contenting with fearful odds, groping in the dark following a will-o'-the-wisp. In a hundred years he would be just where he started. Incidentally this is just what we have been doing in this country from the beginning, and the reason why we have so few pure breeds of live stock and are after all this time sending our good money across the water for pure-bred steers which we should produce at home.

After animals have been graded up to a practical purity of blood, the longer they are bred along this line the more potent they become, and the more certain that the offspring will uniformly possess general excellence of form, quality, action and utility.

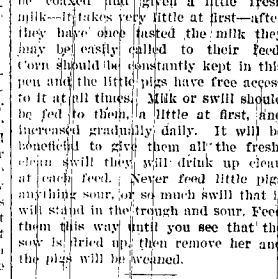

The same is, of course, true of all live stock. The only certain method of raising the average standard of excellence is by persistent breeding to the same breed until the native blood is obliterated and the progeny uniformly possesses all those desirable qualities of the pure breed employed.

Distributes Fertilizer.
Fertilizer is the life of the farm. The man who applies it generously is rewarded by large and fine crops, but the farmer who is sparing with it is disparaging his ground so that his ground is "worked out." Next to the use of this valuable material is the matter of its application. The best results are obtained by its even distribution over the ground, so that all parts will obtain the benefit. Where it is scattered in lumps and heaps, much of its virtue is lost. In order to accomplish this operation in the most approved manner the apparatus shown herewith has been invented by a Virginia genius. He claims that it is the most effective and compact of all the machines for the purpose, and besides this it is capable of very fine adjustment, so that the amount of fertilizer may be regulated to a nicety.

Wearing Pig.
It will soon be time to take young pigs from the sows, and in weaning their much care will be necessary to avoid starting them or stopping their growth. When about three weeks old the young pigs will begin to look around for feed, and a pen should then be provided for them where they can be coveyed and given a little fresh milk. Feed from this way until you see that the sow is dried up, then remove her and the pigs will be weaned.

Corner Post for Wire Fence.
This contrivance is intended for the attachment of a portable woven wire fence at the ends. Two posts centered together at both top and bottom about four inches apart are set in the trench at each end. Two pieces of one by four inch oak are bolted on the fence in the form of clamps, placing one on each side of an upright wire to prevent slipping of the laterals.

A LATE PICTURE OF SECRETARY TAFT.

William Howard Taft, secretary of war and leading Republican presidential candidate, was born in Cincinnati Sept. 15, 1857. A graduate of Yale and Cincinnati Law school, he began work as a reporter. In 1887 he became judge of the superior court of Cincinnati; in 1890 he was appointed United States solicitor general; in 1892 he became United States circuit judge; in March, 1900, he went to the Philippines, to organize the American government there; Feb. 1, 1904, he was appointed secretary of war. He has rendered conspicuous service in the Philippines; in negotiations with Pope Leo; in Cuba; in Panama, and to American interests throughout the world.

Republican Convention

As the Herald goes to press the bulletines from the big convention hall tell of the adoption of the republican national platform and the preparations for the nomination of the next president who will be William Howard Taft, of Ohio. Nearly all the interest of the big convention so far has been over who shall be named for vice-president and out of the many talked of the contest seemingly has narrowed down to Fairbanks and Governor Cummins of Iowa, although there is still a possibility of it going to a New York man. There is great enthusiasm shown and the mention of President Roosevelt's name yesterday was greeted by cheering for forty-five minutes.

Announcement for Senate

I desire to announce to the republican voters of the eleventh Senatorial District, that I am a candidate for the nomination for Senator of the said District at the Primary Election to be held September 1st, 1908. I hereby earnestly solicit the support of every Republican in the District.
—R. Y. Appleby.

Announcement for Senate

I hereby announce that I am a candidate for the nomination for senator in this Eleventh senatorial district, subject to the will of the republican voters at the primaries to be held September 1, 1908.—C. A. Randall.

College Notes.

Henry Raubach spent some time visiting friends on the hill last week. He left Saturday for Creston.

Helen Pile returned home Thursday from Rochester, N. Y., where she has spent the past year studying in the Mechanics Institute.

Mr. Busted of Madison visited his daughter Lizzie, Friday and Saturday. Mr. Brewer, of Madison, came over to see his niece, Miss Gleason.

Prof. Sauntry returned Sunday from Columbus, Ohio, where he has been taking some special work in penmanship. He will take up his regular work this term.

All classes for this term were organized at the end of last term. This plan has done away with a great deal of confusion at the beginning of the term, and thus the work starts off very smoothly.

Miss Austin of Norfolk, visited over Sunday with college friends. Miss Austin has completed the work of the Professional Course and will return in August to receive her diploma.

Miss Soost of Magnet visited with her brother for a few days last week. She attended school here last year and spent the past year teaching in Cedar county. Her brother finished the work of the Commercial course this term.

The regular term reception was held Tuesday evening and a very pleasant time was spent by all present. After a program of talks by the teachers, and some special music, all adjourned to the gymnasium where the remainder of the evening was spent in various amusements.

Five young men who finished the work of the Commercial class last term held their graduating exercises at Chapel Thursday morning. Mr. A. L. Tucker gave the address, taking for his subject "The Moral Risk in Commercial Life." Mr. Tucker always has something of interest and profit to say to young people and his talk Thursday morning was very much enjoyed. A selection by the orchestra closed the exercises for the morning.

Will Likely Celebrate

A movement is on foot for celebrating the Fourth here and it now looks as though it would be done, though the committee in charge will not know for sure until they hear from some attractions they are trying to get, among which is a balloon ascension and a high dive. They will probably know for certain tonight.

Additional Local

Sheriff Mears took Peter Wagner to Lincoln Tuesday to be treated in the inebriate asylum. Constable John Soules went out to Altona last Thursday night and brought Wagner to town after the latter had strenuously objected to coming over to the county seat. He was brought along however, and given a hearing before the commissioners. It was claimed that Wagner had been on a "high lonesome" for about three weeks during which time he had kept the family terrified by dire threats of what he was going to do to them. The idea of going down to Lincoln didn't appeal to him at all but the commissioners were insistent that it was the proper thing to do.

On Friday evening the beautiful home of Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Matheny was the scene of a large dancing party, about seventy guests being invited to meet Mr. and Mrs. Will McCade of Omaha and the Misses McGurk, Stowits and Johnson, the Brownell Hall friends of the Misses Mary and Zoe Mellor who have been visiting at the Mellor home for a week. The artistic home was elaborately decorated for the occasion. Penants were hung in all of the rooms and Brownell Hall and Wentworth Military Academy colors were stretched from the chandeliers to corners of the different rooms. Peonies and bridal wreath were used in decorating. The orchestra furnished splendid music and after refreshments were served the jolly young people danced until the midnight hour.

A talk of organizing a band was heard on the streets again this week. It is hoped that this talk will one of these days crystallize into an effort to perfect such an organization. All it needs is for someone to take initiative and go ahead. No doubt but that they would receive encouragement. There are enough players here in town at present to make a good band and no doubt but what a number of boys and men would be glad of the opportunity to learn to play some instrument.—Carroll Index.
The Nebraska farmer, darting in and out between showers to get ever so short a whack at the weeds in his corn field or the hay in his alfalfa field, would swell somewhat with a sense of his importance could he see with what playful hope his efforts are being regarded in the manufacturing east. The New York papers talk about crops more than the Nebraska farmers. The farmer is going to be fairly comfortable, whether his crop is a "bumper" or only an average. The east believes that one big crop will start all its wheels to going, and it gloms over the government's rosy prognostications with infinite delight. It will grieve them more than we if the rains rust the wheat.—Lincoln Journal.

At Norfolk last week occurred the marriage of Wm. Perdue of that place and Mrs. Blakeslee of Wayne, manager of the Long Distance Telephone. The many friends of the contracting parties extend congratulations. They will make their home in Norfolk.

Only a few of the near friends and relatives were present to witness the ceremony which was performed by Rev. Sharpe, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church. After the ceremony a delicious three course luncheon was served. Mrs. J. W. Norris of Grinnell, Iowa, a sister of the bride, was among the out of town guests present at the wedding. The bride has been a resident of Wayne for several years and has a host of friends who will wish for the new married couple a happy and prosperous future. The joyous occasion which calls forth these lines was that of the marriage of Roy L. The bride is a young lady of fine accomplishments and the groom is well and favorably known as a young man of industrious habits and as a token of the esteem in which they are held they received many handsome wedding gifts. Death of Mrs. Kelliher
Death at any time fills the heart with gloom and sorrow, but when it strikes down the mother and thus deprives a family of little children of her love and tender care, it is doubly sad. And this is what happened on last Friday morning, when Mrs. Kelliher, the wife of our former townsman, Mr. Dennis Kelliher, passed peacefully away in Sioux City.
The funeral was held from St. Mary's church of Wayne on Monday morning at 10:30 o'clock. The conductors of the Solemn Requiem High Mass was the Rev. Wm. Kearns, assisted by the Rev. M. O'Toole of New Castle and the Rev. J. McNamara of Bloomfield as Sub-Deacon. After the Mass the Rev. Father O'Toole delivered the sermon.
Mrs. Kelliher was a woman beloved by all who knew her, as was evident from the great concourse of people who came from far and near to show honor to her memory. Her devoted husband and loving family of little ones have the heart-felt sympathy of the entire community in their great sorrow.
$10,000 Worth of Stock

Mr. Owen is feeling pretty good thank you and says that he is ready to vote for Taft or Roosevelt whichever is named for president. Stand up for Nebraska and republican prosperity.

Can You Raise Hogs Successfully?

Some men are successful hog raisers but fail to make cattle pay. Some are successful cattle men but the hog raising is a failure. You know men that you would like to have some of his hogs but would not care for any of his cattle. For that reason you buy your hogs from a hog man and your cattle from a cattle man. Some men have fine looking horses but fail to take much interest in cattle or hogs. If you want the best you must do business with men that are successful doing business with the article you want. You can not be successful if you do business with a man that is a failure with the article he has for sale. We wish to remind you that you take chances in buying clothing from any one that has not been successful in the clothing business. Clothing is like raising stock. No one can know all about a good suit unless they have had years of experience. To raise cattle or hogs successfully you must know when you look at them that they are doing all right, and it takes experience to know that. So with clothing, you must know, (not guess at it) that a suit is made right and that the material is right when you look at it. If you have not had experience in the clothing business your customers take chances in buying your clothing. We wish to say that our experience has been long and we have been successful in the clothing business. For more than thirty years we have devoted ourself to the clothing business and for nearly twenty of that time we made clothing by hand.

Now don't it look reasonable that with the fact that we have the largest stock in the county and our long experience that you make a mistake if you fail to investigate this store before you buy any clothing. Our prices are the lowest and strictly one price to all. So that there is no chance of your making a mistake by patronizing this store. We have many special things that cannot be bought of any other merchant in this county. Our store is better and our stock is larger than ever before and you are invited to call and investigate this store.

When will we see you?
John H. Kate
(The 2 Johns)

DAKOTAN RETURNS TO RUSSIA FOR GOVERNMENT

Secretary Wilson Seeks Means of Increasing Supply of Cattle in Order to Reduce the Price of Beef to the Consumers.

To increase the supply of beef and thereby lessen its cost to the American household is one of the principal objects underlying the efforts of the department of agriculture to secure clover, alfalfa or other grass that will thrive in the semi-arid regions of the northwest.

THE REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CONVENTION

The national Republican convention this year is the fourth held since the organization of the Republican party in 1856 and the seventh to meet in Chicago. Six of the thirteen conventions which have passed into history have been held in Chicago and three in Philadelphia, where the party's first candidate, Gen. John C. Fremont of California, was nominated. Baltimore, Cincinnati, St. Louis and Minneapolis have each had the honor of entertaining the Republican delegates once. All but two of the conventions have been called in June. The conventions of 1860 and 1868, which nominated Lincoln and Grant, were held in May.

Two conventions particularly memorable by the length of their sessions were those of 1880 and 1888. Both of these met in Chicago, the first lasting from June 2 to June 8. Three days of the 1880 convention were spent in perfecting the organization. The fight for the nomination of Grant for third term being on, thirty-six ballots were taken before a dark horse candidate, James A. Garfield of Ohio, was nominated. The convention of 1888 was in session six days, had thirteen candidates, the largest number ever before a Republican convention, received votes before Benjamin Harrison was chosen on the eighth ballot.

Twice in the history of the party but one candidate has been presented for the two offices voted upon. In 1900 William McKinley was unanimously nominated for President in the first ballot. For Vice President Theodore Roosevelt was unanimously nominated on the first ballot. In 1904 the same unanimity prevailed. The only names presented were those of Roosevelt for President and Charles W. Fairbanks of Indiana for Vice President. Each was therefore unanimously nominated on the first ballot.

The conventions of 1868 and 1872 gave Grant the full vote on the first ballot, but the vote for Vice President was divided. Other Republican presidential candidates who have been nominated on the first ballot are Fremont, 1856; Lincoln, 1864; Grant, 1868 and 1872; Benjamin Harrison, 1888; William McKinley, 1896 and 1900; and Theodore Roosevelt, 1904. William L. Dayton of New Jersey, Fremont's running mate; William A. Wheeler of New York, named with Hayes in 1876; and Whitelaw Reid, who went down to defeat with Benjamin Harrison in 1892 share with Theodore Roosevelt and Charles W. Fairbanks the honor of having received the vice presidential nomination by a unanimous vote of the convention on the first formal ballot.

Three within the fifty-two years of its history the party has had to face the problem of disaffection manifested in double conventions. Since the convention of 1840, no attempt to enforce the unit rule has been made. The convention of 1854 rejected the candidate selected by the national committee as temporary chairman and chose another.

have worked out the scheme of holding a national convention and nominating party candidates without any national or constitutional law to guide them. Consequently the system is rather rugged at the edges.

In theory the two delegates from each congressional district are chosen at district conventions, made up of delegates who are themselves chosen by primary elections. All members of the party in good and regular standing are supposed to vote at these primary elections. Often the public at large pays no attention to these preliminary steps, and the delegates chosen at the district conventions are the men named by the local party leaders.

The first business that faces a national convention is to determine who are the properly chosen delegates entitled to take part in its proceedings. This question is first passed upon by the national committee and is later passed upon by a committee on credentials appointed by the delegates who are first seated in the convention.

The party's national committee is made up of a member from each State and Territory. The committeemen are chosen by each State delegation and

TEMPORARY CHAIRMAN OF THE REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CONVENTION.

JULIUS CAESAR BURROWS.

Julius Caesar Burrows, temporary chairman of the Republican national convention, has been for many years prominently before the public of the United States. He is 71 years old and has been in politics since the year 1864, when he was elected prosecuting attorney of Kalamazoo County, Michigan. His career as a Congressman began in 1873, and he has been Senator from Michigan since 1895.

On the presumption that the saying "Nothing succeeds like success" holds good in politics, there must be good satisfaction to Mr. Burrows in looking back over his long record. He has been uniformly successful in whatever he has undertaken to do.

While the Senator is regarded as a conservative, his course has been mainly in accord with the policies of President Roosevelt. Senator Burrows was in the forty-ninth, fiftieth, fifty-first, fifty-second, fifty-third and fifty-fourth congresses and resigned in 1905 to succeed the late Senator Stockbridge. He was re-elected in 1906 and again in 1907. On the latter occasion his great popularity was attested when he received the vote of every member of the Legislature.

OTHERS ARE HURT FATALLY.

OVER SCORE OF DEAD IN TRAIL OF STORM

Tornadoes in Nebraska and Kansas Kill Many and Ruin Crops.

OTHERS ARE HURT FATALLY.

Enormous Property Losses from Storms and Floods in the Western States.

The tornado which passed over southern Nebraska and portions of northern Kansas Friday evening was the most destructive and occurred the most terribly in any similar storm which has visited the State in many years. At least twenty-five are known to be dead, the fatality figures and a score of others hurt, some of them dangerously. Several persons were killed in the towns of Byron, Neb., and Courtland, Kan.

The storm was general throughout at least four counties, Ellmore, Webster, Franklin and Thayer, on the southern border of the State and reached over into Kansas from where reports come of great destruction. The towns of Carleton, Fairfield, Dresher, Shickley, Geneva, Franklin, Ong and Riverton are among those visited by the storm, and in no one of them did the elements spare life or property.

At Carleton five residences and two churches were destroyed, while a new school building and thirty houses were badly wrecked. The home of Lester Carter was demolished and his wife and baby killed, while Carter himself and another child received possibly fatal injuries. At Geneva the storm wrought great destruction and in the adjacent country killed five victims, two of whom were claimed outright and three fatally injured. The scene at Fairfield is indescribable, more than forty buildings were more or less wrecked and some of them, including three churches, were entirely demolished. The loss there will exceed $100,000. In the vicinity of Shickley farm houses received the brunt of the storm.

A telephone message from Chester, Kan., reported twelve deaths in the vicinity of Byron, Neb. The storm was evidently most severe in the vicinity of Byron, and nothing could withstand its fury. Following the tornado a hard rain which lasted well into the night soaked the storm-stricken sufferers, making their lot doubly without shelter, and the storm occurred late in the evening that it was impossible for them to seek either shelter or relief during the night. A telephone message from Hardy, Neb., said the town of Courtland, Kan., just across the Nebraska line, was struck by the storm and several casualties occurred.

Cyclone Sweeps Iowa Town.

Two persons were killed, three are missing, and 200 houses and barns were destroyed by a cyclone which passed over Charles City, Iowa, Sunday. Much damage was done in the surrounding country. The path of the storm was ten miles long and about twelve rods wide. It started three miles southwest of Charles City, tearing down farm houses, barns and killing many head of stock. It struck the city in the southwest part, plowing a path to a point in the northeast part of town, where it crossed the river. The path of the cyclone included no business buildings, but the residence part of town was made a wreck and household goods were scattered in all directions all over town.

Near Mauston, Wis., a tornado killed John Dalton, a farmer, and his 12-year-old son. The other occupants of the house received only slight injuries. No other damage was done by the tornado.

Five Die in Montana Flood.

Never before in the history of Montana has there been such a flood as recently swept down the valley of the Missouri river and its tributaries. Five lives already have been lost in the waters in the vicinity of Great Falls, and the damage to farms, railroads and industrial and commercial institutions will run into the millions. Saturday night the river was at the highest point ever known since the first settlement of Montana. Some of the smaller outside towns have been in even worse condition than is Great Falls. Choteau was completely surrounded by water, and all bridges were gone. A large part of Belt was partially under water, and the people took to the high ground. Sand counties reported severe loss and the ranches partially flooded. In some instances the river has cut entirely new channels through the bottom, completely ruining farms.

TELEGRAPHIC BRIEVITIES

For the first time in years the lid was slipped on the beer gardens and dancing halls in Toledo.

Fire in Ford & Co.'s planing mill and lumber yard at Mansfield, Ohio, caused a loss of about $100,000.

Brig. Gen. Ewan Niles, retired, who served in the Civil, Indian and Spanish wars, died in San Francisco.

The pipe shop of the Best Manufacturing Company, Twenty-fourth street and Allegheny Valley railway, Pittsburgh, was destroyed by fire. Loss $75,000.

The Montana wool for this year is estimated by the wool growers' association at 35,000,000 pounds, which at 20 cents means $7,000,000 for the flock master.

After beating the messenger, J. B. Perrine, to insensibility, robbers on a Great Northern express train between Seattle and Vancouver looted the express safe and made way with between $1,000 and $10,000.

Fines of $20,000 against the Omaha railroad and $2,000 against H. E. Pearce, its general freight agent, imposed in rebate cases, were affirmed by the United States Circuit Court of Appeals at St. Paul.

ODDS & ENDS OF SPORT

Tired after their long trip away from home, the Fargo college boys fell before the Hamline team at North field, St. Paul, by a score of 14 to 8. The game was listless and neither team displayed much ginger.

In starting Powers Bros. Newgate was knocked almost to his knees at Toronto. Poley quickly pulled him together and after running an eighth of a mile the horse stumbled and fell on his head, breaking his neck.

August Belmont leads the list of winning owners in England, his horses having piled up a total of about $300,000 in the last six weeks. Richard Croker is second in the list with $28,000, while Lord Rosebery is third with only $10,000.

With Ed Carson, the little south-paw, pitching, shutout ball, Macalester closed its 1908 baseball season by defeating the fast Fargo college team by a score of 3 to 2. The game was full of plays worthy of being featured and was fast and clean.

President A. L. A. Linnell Wright of the United States Reviser Association, has announced that four experts of this country will be sent to the Olympic games to take part in the international competition of July 7 with the list and reviewer. Trial competitions are open to every citizen of this country.

In the shoe of the Mount Pleasant, Iowa, Gun Club, George Maxwell, the one-armed expert, broke 197 targets out of a possible 200, making a record among the local professionals. O. Beckwith also made a record for local amateurs by breaking 190 out of 200.

Manager Hugh Jennings of the Detroit team was suspended by President B. B. Johnson of the American League, pending an investigation of alleged acts of rowdiness during games between New York and Detroit, resulting in Jennings and Pitcher Donovan being ordered from the field by Umpire Hurst. Donovan was suspended also.

COMMERCIAL FINANCIAL

Next to the immediate stimulant for the lower costs established for various commodities, the most important favorable development was the government forecast of the early crops and its magnificent promise under normal conditions of agricultural enrichment. Business generally reflects a strengthened tone and the outlook has a brighter aspect, although the volume of new demands in manufacturing branches does not yet show the expansion expected. Where heavy commitments are involved, the outlook is with-held until after the distribution of the Republican convention next week. The management is being held by a firm that source in adding recovery from trade depression. It is desirable the endorsement should be placed upon the effort to secure more adequate waterways and minimum freight cost for the production of this class of commerce.

Seasonably weather greatly aided the activity in certain classes and the demand for men and women apparel, however, was not so strong as usual. A gratifying advance. Merchandise stocks have undergone sharp reduction, and this has caused frequent replenishments for both local and country needs.

Mercantile collections throughout the interior occasion little trouble, and the record of defaults maintains the recently noted conservatism.

Failures reported in the Chicago district numbered 21, against 22 last week and 14 a year ago. Those with liabilities over $50,000 numbered 8, against 5 last week and 3 in 1907.—Dun's Review of Trade.

The new teachers, Prof. L. M. Puffer, who will have charge of the science, and Prof. E. J. Hunter, who will superintend the manual training, will be with us this term. The work in each of these departments promises to be quite heavy for the summer.

The school board at Cedar Rapids knew what they were doing when they re-elected Hattie Schulteis, S., '07, to teach their intermediate department with an increase in salary. Miss Hattie was a hard worker in her student days and inspires her pupils to follow her good example.

C. L. Wright, S., '05, was re-elected principal at Dixon. He has given splendid satisfaction. He told us last Monday how two weeks' married life found him; don't forget, Claude, you promised to give us another report this year. Bring Mrs. Wright with you—she belongs to us, T. P. C., '06.

Clara Whitney, S., '06, will continue her good work in the Newcast schools next year. She went into their school after the holiday vacation last winter and proved her worth, giving them the best of satisfaction, and was re-elected. She will spend the summer at her home in Wayne.

Gomer Jones, T. P. C., '07, has given up school teaching and gone into the mercantile business at Randolph. While we do not like to see him leave the school room, we are satisfied he will do well in his present work. You ought to come down and spend another year with us.

Those who are to take part in the contests during commencement week have their parts and all are hard at work. From the subjects to be handled and persons to handle them, we are willing to wager that the literary contest this year will equal, if not far exceed any previous one. The same may be said of the various contests.

Albert Berry, who entered this school when it was in its very infancy, has sold his store in Wayne. He is thinking of locating in the west. He has been very successful in his business dealings in our town, and his many friends regret to see him take his departure. Wherever he locates, he will have the good wishes of his many friends.

Edna Britton, S., '05, retains her position in the schools at Centralia, Washington, next year. She has been in that state since graduating and enjoys her work very much. She also finds that her health has improved in that climate. Many former students have taken up their residence in Washington, all of whom are doing very well in their work.

Gay Strickland, S., '06, has returned to Oregon, where he holds a responsible position with a railroad company. He spent the winter at his home in Wayne and took some work at the college. His friends are all glad to see that he is advancing in his line of work. All the members of his class have good positions, and are doing the best of their work in every way.

Agnes Richardson has been notified of her election to the assistant principalship of the school at Cook, Neb. She will graduate from the Scientific course this summer, and is well qualified for a position of this nature. Of all the strong members of the Selenic class this year, Agnes ranks up near the top of the roll in all her work. She is a model young lady in every way.

Chas. Bertrand, who was a student here several years ago, has sent the office a post card showing the battle ship fleet off Bellingham Bay. He lives on a ranch 12 miles from Bellingham and likes the country very well. He married an N. N. C. girl, formerly Minnie Gaertner, music, '98. Our people now living in Washington could build up quite an Alumni Association.

The Young Men's Christian Association sent as delegates to the Western Students' Conference, this year, Dan T. Burruss and Chas. R. Chinn. The Conference is held at Cascade, Colorado. The State Secretary, Mr. Slmonds, visited our association not long ago and was well pleased with the condition of affairs. The Y. M. C. A. has grown both in membership and influence here this year.

Maude Grothe, S., '07, has returned to her home in Wayne, where she will spend the summer. She has spent the past school year at Nehawka, where she had a good position in the schools. The same position was offered her for next year. She thinks of going to North Dakota, however, as she has been asked to accept a position there with better wages than she receives this last year.

Rose Bredlin, T. P. C., '05, has moved up on her claim in South Dakota and has been teaching in her home county since that time. She has had a very successful experience in school work and has the reputation of being one of Cedar county's best teachers. As far as we are able to ascertain, only two members of her class are now engaged in the teaching profession, all the others being married.

The Omaha World-Herald of Sunday, May 24th, contained a long article concerning John G. Nelhardt, T. P. C., '06. He is a regular contributor to the "Outing Magazine," and, in company with a photographer, from Bancroft, will take a trip down the Missouri to secure material for an article to be published in "Outing." He has received very favorable criticism from the leading reviewers of the best magazines.

They expect to reach Wayne some time in July, prepared to take up their work in the Normal.

A STORY OF HEROISM

Showing How Brave Men Can Calmly Meet Death.

WRECK OF THE BIRKENHEAD.

The Way This British Vessel Went Down Off the Cape of Good Hope. Most of the Crew Were Lost, and All the Women and Children Saved.

Visitors to the hospital of the old pensioners at Chelsea will perhaps have noticed in the colonnade a simple memorial tablet, placed there by order of the late Queen Victoria to record the heroic constancy and discipline of the officers and soldiers who lost their lives in the wreck of the transport Birkenhead off the Cape of Good Hope on Feb. 24, 1902. On Jan. 7 in that year, after embarking re-enforcements amounting to fifteen officers and 470 men for the troops engaged in the Kaffir war, the Birkenhead left Ireland for the Cape. On board were also 100 women and children, the wives and families of soldiers. All went well till the transport reached Simon's Town, where ten officers and eighteen men were landed. The ship continued her course on the evening of Feb. 25. But the captain in his anxiety for a quick passage unfortunately kept so close to the shore that during the night the ship got among the rocks which line the coast. About three miles off Danger point at 2 o'clock in the morning of the 26th, while all except those on watch were sleeping peacefully in their hammocks, the ship struck with a violent shock. The bulk of the men on board were young soldiers.

The rush of water on the Birkenhead striking was so great that most of the soldiers on the lower troop deck were drowned in their hammocks. The remainder, with all the officers, appeared on deck, many only partly dressed, and fell in as orderly and as quietly as if on the barrack square. Calling the officers round him, Lieutenant Colonel Seton of the Seventy-fourth highlanders, the senior officer on board impressed on them the necessity for preserving order and silence among the men. The services of the next senior, Captain Wright, Ninety-first highlanders, were placed at the disposal of the commander of the ship to carry out whatever orders he might consider essential. Sixty men were put on the chain pumps on the lower after deck and told off in three reliefs. Sixty more were put on the tackles of the fore and aft derrick boats, and the remainder were brought on to the poop to take the fore part of the ship, as she was rolling heavily. The commander then ordered the officers' charges to be pitched out of the gangway. The phalanx and terrified horses were got up and cast over; five of them managing to swim ashore. The cutter was then got ready for the women and children, who had been collected under the poop awning, and they were passed in one by one. There being room in the boat for one or two more, the order was given for any trumpeter or bugler boys to be taken. A young drummer standing near was told by an officer to get into the boat, but, drawing himself up, exclaimed that he drew men's pay, and would stick by his comrades. The cutter then shoved off in charge of one of the ship's officers, and the women and children were safe.

No sooner was she clear than the entire bow of the vessel broke off at the foremast, the bowsprit going up in the air toward the foretopmast. The funnel also went over the side, carrying away the starboard paddle box and boat and crushing the men on the tackles. The paddle box boat capsized on being lowered, and the large boat in the center of the ship could not be got up.

The men were then ordered on to the poop, where they stood calmly awaiting their fate. Within a few minutes the vessel broke in two, crosswise, just abaft the engine room, and the stern began rapidly to fill. In this extremity the commander called out: "Those who can swim jump overboard and make for the boats!" but the officers begged the soldiers not to do so, as the boat with the women and children would be swamped. They were young men in the prime of life, with all before them, yet no one moved, nor did any sign of terror or fear escape them. Lower and lower sank the vessel into the deadly sea. The old transport shivered, gave a final plunge and disappeared, carrying with her the band of heroes on deck and those working below at the pumps.

Men of all ages and ranks they were—the colonel and the drummer boy, officers of gentle birth and men from the workshop, the plow and the mine; but all animated with the same heroic resolution, fortitude and chivalry—as cool as though they had been on their parade ground, with as much courage in action in the field. A few managed to cling to the rigging of the mainmast, part of which remained out of water, while others got hold of floating pieces of wood and were eventually rescued. But of fourteen officers and 458 men no fewer than nine officers and 340 men perished, many falling prey to the attacks of the sharks, which surrounded the ship in shoals, waiting for their victims. Every man and child was saved.

Perhaps the greatest compliment ever paid to the memory of the brave was the order of the king of Prussia for the account of the wreck of the Birkenhead to be read on three successive parades at the head of every regiment of infantry in Prussia and Germany.—London Globe.

No Tears Nor Hills.

In the days when Rowley Hill was bishop of the Isle of Man one of his clerymen bearing the name of Tears came to say adieu to his bishop on getting preferment. The parson said: "Goodby, my lord. I hope we may meet again, but if not, here in some better place."

The bishop replied, "I fear the latter is unlikely, as there are no Tears in heaven."

"No doubt," wittily answered the parson, "you are right that our chance of meeting is small, as one reads of the land of paradise, but never of any hills there."—London Queen.

Badly Sprained Ankle Cured

Three years ago our daughter sprained her ankle and had been suffering terribly for two days and nights—had not slept a minute. Mr. Stallings, of Butler, Tenn., told us of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. We went to the store that night and got a bottle of it, and bathed her ankle two or three times and she went to sleep and had a good night's rest. The next morning she was much better and in a short time could walk around and had no more trouble with her ankle. —E. M. Brumitt, Hampton, Tenn. 25c and 50c sizes for sale by Raymond's Drug store.

Weak women should try Dr. Shoop's Night Cure.

These soothing, healing, antiseptic suppositories go direct to the seat of these weaknesses. My "Book No. 4 For Women" contains many valuable hints to women, and it is free. Ask Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis., to mail it. Ask the doctor in strictest confidence any questions you wish answered. Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is sold by Felber's Pharmacy.

Born in Iowa

Our family were all born and raised in Iowa and have used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera, and Diarrhoea Remedy (made in Des Moines) for years. We know how good it is from long experience in the use of it. In fact when in El Paso, Texas, the writer's life was saved by the prompt use of this remedy. We are now engaged in the mercantile business at Narcoossee, Fla., and have introduced the remedy here. It has proven very successful and is constantly growing in favor.—Ennis Bros. This remedy is for sale by Raymond's drug store.

"Health Coffee" is really the closest coffee imitation ever yet produced. This clever coffee substitute was recently produced by Dr. Shoop of Racine, Wis. Not a grain of real coffee is in either. Dr. Shoop's Health Coffee is made from purest roasted grains, with malt, nuts, etc. Really it would fool an expert—who might drink it for coffee. No 20 or 30 minutes tedious boiling. "Made in a minute" says the doctor. Sold by Ralph Rundell.

No Need of Suffering from Rheumatism

It is a mistake to allow rheumatism to become chronic, as the pain can always be relieved, and in most cases a cure effected by applying Chamberlain's Pain Balm. The relief from pain which it affords is alone worth many times its cost. It makes sleep and rest possible. Even in cases of long standing this liniment should be used on account of the relief which it affords. 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by Raymond's Drug Store.
