

Political Comment

Recall Things Taft Has Done, and His Way of Doing Them.

Too many people look upon one of the few truly great Americans as merely a good, typical, average citizen...

How many people think to-day of the country abuzz with excitement and song and shouting and warbling hurrahs to the victor?

Even here they do not appreciate that diplomacy fully for Europeans do not understand the complex prejudices of our varying racial communities.

Outside of Kentucky there will be but one judgment. Goebel will never fill the role of a martyr, except in the estimation of his own narrow partisans.

When the dark days of last October came upon this country, the people of Iowa thank for the bountiful crops of 1907.

Of winter wheat there is estimated a field of 440,000,000 bushels, an increase of 61,000,000 over the estimate made at this time a year ago.

Public confidence, that most mysterious of all our financial possessions, might long escape fingers like these.

There is no panic. There is no reason to expect one. If such a contingency were imminent, the best and surest way to avoid it would be to patronize the banks instead of the brokers.

COMMERCIAL AND FINANCIAL

Developments are hardly favorable in their general effect upon the future course of trade. The government crop report proved as good as looked for, and with the splendid prospects for greater harvests than last year...

Midsummer quiet still reigns in general trade and industry, but the advance of the season and the promise of good average crops have increased the feeling of confidence...

W. J. BRYAN IS NAMED FOR THE THIRD TIME

Democratic Party Hoists Him as Standard Bearer in Battle for Presidency.

CHOSEN ON THE FIRST BALLOT.

Convention's Progress Is Delayed by Slow Work of the Resolutions Committee.

Denver correspondence: William Jennings Bryan of Nebraska was nominated for the presidency by the Democratic party in national convention at 3:40 o'clock Friday morning.

Mr. Bryan was nominated on the first ballot, the vote standing: Bryan, 892 1/2; Johnson, 49; Gray, 59 1/2.

The nomination was made unanimous on motion of W. S. Hammond, of Minnesota, who had nominated Governor Johnson.

Thursday was the biggest day of the convention, with the stage all set for the nomination of William J. Bryan for the presidency on a platform practically drafted by himself.

The recess was also made necessary because the resolutions committee was not ready to report.

Mr. Bryan was placed in nomination before midnight by Ignatius J. Dunn, of Omaha, but it was after 3 o'clock before the balloting began.

Mr. Bryan's first nomination was made amid scenes of frenzied enthusiasm. The result came after an all night session, which was kept in a constant state of turmoil up to the culminating moment when the Nebraska man was proclaimed the choice of the convention.

Over 150 leaves of what is alleged to be underwritten bread have been confiscated by W. D. McCall, inspector of bakeries, Minneapolis. It is said that the very inspector is on the trail of a number of bakers who are furnishing their customers with short weight loaves.

The plant of the Royal coal mines, at Argentine, Pa., was destroyed by dynamite. The loss will exceed $20,000. Windows in forty-six residences were shattered. For some time past labor troubles have been experienced at the mines and recently it was believed the difficulties had been adjusted.

WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN.

James M. Guffey has been Democratic national committeeman from Pennsylvania since 1897, and long previously controlled his party in the State, although he has not run for office since 1878.

The announcement of the vote was the signal for a wild demonstration, equaling in disturbances if not in duration, the record-breaking display which on Wednesday afternoon greeted the first mention of Mr. Bryan's name in the convention.

The scene within the amphitheater at the moment the nomination was made was one of stirring animation. From pit to dome the vast building was packed with 10,000 people, thinned out in the remotest galleries after hours of waiting and the intense discomforts of the hot night.

When for a moment order could be secured out of this tempestuous chaos of demonstration State after State which had at first recorded its vote for Johnson or Gray fell into line with the overwhelming column and the nomination was made unanimous by acclamation.

Without cessation or lessening volume the roar continued for forty-five minutes before anybody in the hall resumed his seat. The yelling continued unabated for a quarter of an hour longer and was finally hushed when the sergeant-at-arms turned out the lights of the auditorium.

The convention adjourned at 3:50 o'clock Friday morning until 1 o'clock in the afternoon, after having been in session continuously for more than eight hours.

tacular dress of their wives, all moving under varied-colored tops of electric light and under a canopy of flags and bunting made the Cooney Island carnival look like a Sunday school picnic.

Bryan cheered for 88 minutes. William Jennings Bryan, although four hundred miles away, was cheered for one hour and twenty-eight minutes in the Democratic convention. It was the longest political demonstration and unquestionably the most in the history of the United States.

The words that ripped the lid from the great assemblage and sent the thunder rolling over the 12,000 men and women were spoken by Lind Senator Thomas P. Gore of Oklahoma. Senator Gore was discussing the Oklahoma constitution when he said this:

Each "Bill" has a brother, "Chas." There's a "Brether Charlie," too, in the Bryan campaign for the Presidency, so much was said.

“Wayne Chautauqua”

Next week will be “Chautauqua Week.” Wayne must look her prettiest. Weeds must be cut, alleys cleaned and everything put in tip-top shape. There will be a large attendance if the weather permits. We must have a smile of welcome for all, but people cannot exist very long on smiles alone. They must have something more substantial, something good to eat, something that cheers without inebriating. Right here is where we STEP IN to help YOU OUT. We manufacture flour. This flour is of an uncommon quality. With it you can make the finest kinds of bread, rolls, muffins, cakes and pies. Although wheat and other brands of flour are advancing our prices are the same. Superlative $1.50 per sack, Snow Flake $1.35 per sack. Don't use any other kind if you wish to please the visitors who will flock to Wayne to attend the Chautauqua.

All Wayne Merchants handle it.

The General Demand

of the Well-Informed of the World has always been for a simple, pleasant and efficient liquid laxative of known value...

In applying that demand with its excellent combination of Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna, the California Fig Syrup Co. proceeds along ethical lines and relies on the merits of the laxative for its remarkable success.

That is one of many reasons why Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna is given the preference by the Well-Informed. To get its beneficial effects always buy the genuine—manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co., only, and for sale by all leading druggists.

She Said So, Anyway. The young man who was endeavoring to win the favor of Bobby's pretty sister met her on the street one morning...

CHAPTER X

In due time, to Joshua's great delight, the lottery ticket reached him. It was several days in coming, and he had almost given it up...

But at length the long-expected letter arrived. Joshua did not like to open it in the postoffice, lest it should attract the attention of the postmaster...

Dear Sir—We regret to say that we are unable to send you a prize this time. We hope, however, you will not be discouraged...

"I suppose I ought to have him arrested," he said. "I hope you won't do that. He may be able to explain it."

"I am sorry to say," said Walter, not knowing what else was expected of him. "No doubt you are sorry," sneered Mr. Drummond...

"You hear what he says, Mr. Nichols," said Mr. Drummond. "You see how he adds falsehood to dishonesty. But that is not uncommon. It is only what I expected."

Two days later two women entered Mr. Drummond's store. One was Joshua's customer and she wore the same shawl which she had purchased of him.

"I have not sold a shawl like that for two months. I know the price well enough, and I wouldn't sell it for less than ten dollars."

"I don't pretend to account for it, and don't feel called upon to do so. All I have got to say is that I did not sell the shawl, nor pocket the money."

"I did not buy the shawl of him." "Didn't you say you bought the shawl of the boy?" asked Mr. Drummond...

"Yes, but it was not that boy. Come and think of it, I believe it was your son," said Mrs. Blakes...

"My son—Joshua!" exclaimed Mr. Drummond. "Yes, I think it must be he. He's got rather an old-looking face, with freckles and reddish hair; isn't so good-looking as this boy?"

"Joshua!" repeated Mr. Drummond, bewildered. "He doesn't tend in the store." "It was about dinner time," said Mrs. Blake...

"A mistake has been made," said Mr. Drummond, hurriedly, to the ladies. "A mistake that you have profited by. I shall not be able to sell you another shawl for less than ten dollars."

"Are you sure you looked back far enough?" he asked. "To make sure, I looked back four weeks. The woman said only a fortnight, you know."

"I know. Then it seems Conrad has concealed the sale and kept the money." "Perhaps," suggested Nichols, who rather liked Walter, "he forgot to put it down."

"If he did, he forgot to put the money in the drawer, for the cash and the sales have always balanced. He's an ungrateful young rascal," continued Mr. Drummond, harshly...

"I am sorry to say," said Walter, not knowing what else was expected of him. "No doubt you are sorry," sneered Mr. Drummond...

"I don't pretend to account for it, and don't feel called upon to do so. All I have got to say is that I did not sell the shawl, nor pocket the money."
