TAFT CARRIES HIS HOME STATE.

Reports on Governorship Unfavorable to Harris.

Cincinnati, Nov. 4.—Notwithstanding the meagerness of the early returns from Ohio they seemed to give a fair indication of the result, although a positive statement of plurality was impossible. All sections of the state, both city and country, were included in the first returns; and the same ratio continued would give a plurality for Taft for president in his home state of about 50,000.

The early indications as to plurality for Taft were cut down as fuller reports came in, but the Republican candidate seemed to have a good safe lead. The vote came in so very slowly that beyond the general indications little positive information was possible. For the governorship, the reports were unfavorable to Harris, Republican, the present incumbent.

G. O. P. Carries Wisconsin.

Milwaukee, Nov. 4.—The Republican national and state tickets were victorious in Wisconsin by a plurality of 75,000. The congressional delegation will remain about the same as two years ago, nine Republicans and two Democrats. The legislature, which will elect a United States senator to succeed Isaac Stephenson, will be overwhelmingly Republican, the returns indicating the election of 73 Republicans, 21 Democrats and 6 Social Democrats in the assembly, and 27 Republicans, 4 Democrats and 2 Social Democrats in the senate.

Taft Carries Indiana.

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 4.—Indications are that William H. Taft has carried Indiana by about 15,000 plurality. Thomas H. Marshall, Democrat, is elected governor by about 5,000 plurality over James E. Watson, the Republican candidate. The chances are favorable for the Democrats to have seven out of the 13 congressmen from Indiana.

The legislature on joint ballot is in doubt. The next legislature will select a successor to James A. Hemenway, Congressman Jesse Overstreet (Republican) congressman from the Seventh district claims his election by 300.

Close Vote in Colorado.

Denver, Nov. 4.—Colorado, which gave Mr. Roosevelt a majority of 34,832 in 1904, has again gone Republican, but by less than 8,000. Jesse F. McDonald has been elected governor, and three Republican representatives have been chosen.

Kansas Still Republican.

Topeka, Kan., Nov. 4.—Kansas is again in the Republican column this year. Mr. Taft's majority in the state is 40,000, 86,093 less than Mr. Roosevelt's majority in 1904. Walter B. Stubbs, Republican, has been elected governor.

Pennsylvania Is Republican.

Party's Vote Cut Down in Cities Where Labor Element Is Strong.

Philadelphia, Nov. 4.—Pennsylvania has gone Republican by a majority of 200,000, the figures being as follows: Taft, 600,000; Bryan, 400,000. In 1904 Roosevelt carried the state by 505,619, and two years ago Stuart, Republican, was elected governor by 43,435. This city, Pittsburg, Harrisburg, Altoona and other cities have given Mr. Taft pluralities, but Scranton, Wilkesbarre and towns in which the so-called "labor" vote is strong have gone Democratic.

The election in Pennsylvania turned almost entirely on national issues, the highest state officer voted for being a judge of the superior court. For that office William D. Porter, Republican, has been elected by a majority of 50,000 over Webster Grim, Democrat.

The vote in the country districts was, as usual, heavily Republican. The state's representation will again be Republican in the Sixty-first congress, the Democrats having gained only one seat. The figures will be as follows: Republicans, 24; Democrats, 8.

NEW ENGLAND REPUBLICAN.

Taft Successful in Massachusetts and Other Eastern States.

Boston, Nov. 4.—The Republican national and state candidates carried the state and all eleven Republican congressmen were re-elected. Both branches of the legislature will be Republican by heavy margins. Returns indicate a plurality for Taft of 120,000. The plurality of Lieutenant Governor Eben S. Draper, Republican for governor, is estimated at 60,000.

Boston, Nov. 4.—Complete vote of Massachusetts for president: For Taft, 250,221; Bryan, 165,860. Taft's plurality, 84,361. For governor, Draper (Rep.), 233,874; Vahey (Dem.), 173,335. Draper's plurality, 60,539.

Rhode Island.

Providence, Nov. 4.—With about two-thirds of the 161 precincts heard from, the figures indicated a probable plurality of 16,000 for Taft in the state. The Republican state ticket, headed by Aram J. Pothier, candidate for governor, has undoubtedly been successful.

New Hampshire.

Concord, N. H., Nov. 4.—New Hampshire gave Mr. Taft almost as large a vote as it did Mr. Roosevelt four years ago. The halving resulted in a majority of 20,000 for the Republican candidate, which is a decrease of 185 since the last presidential election. Henry B. Quincy, Republican, has been elected governor.

Vermont.

White River Junction, Vt., Nov. 4.—William H. Taft carried Vermont by about 27,000. Returns from about all the cities and 144 of the 240 towns gave Taft 27,531; Bryan 8,345. In 1904, the same places gave Roosevelt 28,200 and Parker 6,977.

KEPT GETTING WORSE.
Five Years of Awful Kidney Disease. N. P. Anderson, Greenwood, S. C., says: "Kidney trouble began about five years ago with dull backache, which got so severe in time that I could not get around. The kidney secretions became badly disordered and at times there was almost a complete stop of the flow. I was examined again, and again and treated to no avail and kept getting worse. I have to praise Doan's Kidney Pills for my final relief and cure. Since using them I have gained in strength and flesh and have no sign of kidney trouble."

A Cure for Hog Cholera.
Hog Cholera or Swine Plague as it is sometimes called is a highly contagious disorder.
When a hog shows any symptoms of this disease, he should be isolated at once and the pen fumigated in order to save the other hogs if possible.
Mix one part Sloan's Liniment with two parts milk in a bottle and give every sick hog a tablespoonful of this mixture night and morning for three days. Sloan's Liniment is a powerful antiseptic, kills the disease germs, soothes all inflammation and acts as a tonic to the animal.

A. J. McCarthy of Itaville, Ind., says: "My hogs had hog cholera three days before we got Sloan's Liniment, which was recommended to me by a neighbor who was using it with success. I have used it now for three days and my hogs are almost well. One hog died before I got the Liniment, but I have not lost any since."

Mr. G. W. Balesbaugh of Peru, Ind., writes: "I had four pigs that were coughing and were not doing well. I gave them some of Sloan's Liniment and they got better at once."
Sloan's book on Horses, Cattle, Hogs and Poultry sent free. Address Dr. F. M. Sloan, Boston, Mass.

Fighting Formosan Tribes.
Several weeks ago ten communities of the Nan-Ow aboriginal tribe in the Gran province of Formosa proposed to the government to submit, says the South China Post. Upon this the government gave them the following terms of conditions under which the government was disposed to admit their submission:
1. The aborigines concerned should hand over to the government those skulls which had been cut off the bodies of the other tribes whom they killed and are keeping in their houses, according to their habits.
2. Their arms and ammunition should all be surrendered to the government.
3. The aborigines agree to the former condition, but many of them objected to the latter, and thereupon they gave up the idea of submission. Since then they are again offering resistance against the government troops, appearing here and there in the vicinity of the Apeo hue (a guard line established by the government against the unsubdued aborigines), but the government troops having finished the construction of their guardhouses, telephone lines and wire entanglements, and thus almost attained their object, are now chiefly paying attention to their guard service, attaching less importance to their submission.

COFFEE AT BOTTOM OF TROUBLE.
It takes some people a long time to find out that coffee is hurting them.
But when once the fact is clear, most people try to keep away from the thing which is followed by ever-increasing detriment to the heart, stomach and nerves.
"Until two years ago I was a heavy coffee drinker," writes an ill stockman, "and had been all my life. I am now 56 years old."
"About three years ago I began to have nervous spells and could not sleep nights, was bothered by indigestion, bloating and gas on stomach affected my heart."
"I spent lots of money doctoring—oh doctor, told me I had chronic catarrh of the stomach; another that I had heart disease and was liable to die at any time. They all died me until I was nearly starved, but I seemed to get worse instead of better."
"Having heard of the good Postum had done for nervous people, I discarded coffee altogether and began to use Postum regularly. I soon got better and now, after nearly two years, I can truthfully say I am sound and well. I sleep well at night, do not have the nervous spells and am not bothered with indigestion or palpitation. I weigh 82 pounds more than when I began Postum, and am better every way than I ever was while drinking coffee. I don't say too much in praise of Postum, as I am sure it saved my life. There's a reason."

Women of Gussie's stamp are as elusive, as intangible, as running water, and when, with painstaking zeal, some poor, deluded mortal attempts to corner the elusive, sparkling thing—be it a girl or a girl's heart—she slips through his fingers to ripple gaily down hill.

"No, don't speak," Gerald shook himself determinedly. "I think I see how things are, and there's no use in losing one's temper." He spoke tersely. "Bel Divo's a very different affair from your other amusements! This fellow's got money and position, and he's in earnest. It's just this. Things have come to a point where you've got to decide which of us it is to be, Gussie. You can't put the any longer, or know the worst, you know. Come! Which of us is it to be?"

"Gerald!"
Poor Gussie Waring felt all the natural irritation of a professional gamester whose hand is forced unwarrantably by a clumsy amateur.

"How absurd and uncalled for this is!" she objected petulantly. "I might just as well call you to account for the time you spend with Annette. You're certainly not alone when the prince and I are together and Annette is here. You'll forget me quick enough!" Her voice grated. "Just as conveniently as you forget that I am to see you again. That is the reason I am about to ask for your card."

"I stopped short, struck, startled even, by the deep flush that swept over the girl's clear skin at his slight words. She looked down hurriedly, however, and, searching for a card in the bag on her lap, handed it to him silently with eyes averted.

"Does that mean," she faltered, "that your Highness is really thinking of coming to Washington?"
Again Sartre wondered over her irresponsible agitation, with a faint, curious thrill somewhere in the region of his collar-bone.

"Who knows?" he returned laughingly. "I am nothing but a feu follet, what you call will-o'-the-wisp, appearing now here, now there. Who knows where I may turn up?" and he pocketed the strip of pasteboard, conscious that Mrs. Waring's eyes were upon him, viewing the incident with a keen favor.

"We've really got to be off," she now announced curtly. "Gerald, just tell the man the St. Regis, please. Well, prince, holding out her hand as that individual came lustily round. "I'm going to be in Washington for a week of getting to rights before leaving for Newport. We'll off by the four o'clock train this afternoon." She bent towards him, dropping her voice. "Don't you leave then, too?"

Sartre looked at her an instant. There was a queer, twisted smile about his mouth and a very weird look in his eyes. "Why do you tempt me?" he asked reproachfully.

"Tempt you?" Gussie laughed. "Dear me! There is nothing going on in Washington at this season. Every one has left, even your friend Count Souravieff is in Newport now. I have positively no inducement to offer you."

"Except the only one that matters to me," finished the other in a very low tone.

He glanced around. Buist was shouting directions to the cabman, and at the other end of the cab sat the girl looking determinedly out of her window. Then, with a daring and a dash that he could not resist for a few days.

"Four o'clock then."
And he drew back as the carriage started off, his parting look more than his words haunting Gussie for the rest of the morning, filling her with an agreeable sense of satisfaction—and Mrs. Waring needed satisfaction.

Never in the course of her successful career had she been so baffled. For, in spite of the enforced proximity given by a long business voyage, exposed to the romantic influences of the sea and every opportunity that art could devise and capricious chance, the incredible fact remained that the Prince del Divo had not proposed!

The cab with its two inmates had rolled away, and Sartre was making off, his eyes on the ground, mechanically retracing his steps into the quay office, when he bumped violently against some one who was hastening in the opposite direction.

A middle-aged person, evidently a foreigner, in a light gray spring suit, with a striped waistcoat, laid tie, and immaculate white shirt.

Throwing a casual glance at his face, the man was passing rapidly by him with an angry exclamation in French, when a sudden idea made him stop short and whistled spasmodically round on his heel.

"Sartre!" he cried, still in French. "Why! It is my old friend Ludovic Sartre!"

Flushing and paling by turns, the chauffeur stood still, gazing about him with swift apprehension.

"I never!" Buist had taken himself off just in time! Recalling himself, "M. le Comte Souravieff" he said also in French, with a deferential bow. "This is indeed a pleasure."

"You came over with the prince, I take it," the other returned, with a smile. He had remarkably white teeth and keen gray eyes that lit up pleasantly, the effect of his well-modelled, strong jawed face being, however, somewhat marred by a large aquiline nose shaped like a vulture's beak.

"By the way, where is Son Altesse?"
Sartre glanced around, his abnormally alert mind sorting out the possibilities of the situation just as an experienced gamester looks over his hand. "Where is Son Altesse?" he asked wonderingly. "But a moment ago he was handing some ladies into a cab, and now I see him not anywhere."

"Gone!" ejaculated the other blandly. "And I came to the docks especially to meet him. What can have become of him, do you suppose?"

The chauffeur shrugged his shoulders. "Who knows?" he said, in his characteristic way. "My orders are to await Son Altesse at the Hotel Waldorf. That is all I can tell you."

"There was a moment's pause while Souravieff seemed to be considering the situation.

"Well," he said at length, hailing a cab, "there is nothing to be done, so far as I can see, but to return. Come, my friend, I will give you a lift to your hotel. It is in my own direction. Diab!" he jumped into the trap with a word to the driver, Sartre following. "Duresse take these steamship companies. There have I been, since eight o'clock this morning, kept my heels in the wetted streets, and I am now only granted my permit in time to go—parbleu!—to see the prince, whom I especially wanted to see, has already departed."

"Top bad!" ejaculated the chauffeur hypocritically. "If your Excellency had only reached there five minutes earlier—"
For a moment, as the latter settled himself on the cushions and the cab rolled off, Sartre felt to wondering over the Count's recognizing him in the disguise which had so successfully taken in his late employers, and yet—what could be more natural? They remembered him as the mustached and bearded chauffeur, disguised by an all-concealing motoring get-up, and he had been clean shaven during that tour in the Tyrol when he was thrashed with Souravieff.

"Well, my friend Sartre," the latter remarked wittily, "after a short pause occupied in lighting a cigar, 'how has the world gone with thee since we last met?'—well, judging by thine opulent appearance, Ma foi! With that Parisian overcoat and expensive hat, one would almost take thee for the prince himself. Ah!" he chuckled and blew great rings of smoke into the air, "last thou forgotten the little masquerade at St. Moritz, when thou personated the prince in the Casino so that he might prove an alibi in that affair we knew of? Ha, ha! His Highness was not any too well pleased when he had to pay for the money thou lost for him that night, thou rogue!"

A slight smile crept over the chauffeur's impassive face. He was thinking of other and greater escapades since then and asking himself with decided curiosity if the count read daily papers.

"Son Altesse has not been well of late," he ventured guardedly. "He was quite seriously ill at Liverpool, and those English journals have it that he is down with some malignant disease at the present moment."
"I am not surprised!" assented the other indifferently. "The reporters probably say the same things about myself. I never have time to read anything nowadays but the foreign dispatches. A diplomat's life is no secure in this country, where one is feted and entertained from night till morning! A ball here, a dinner there, a carnival beyond—one can scarcely keep one's appointments at the Embassy." He yawned. "Ah, bah! I have not slept for a week, and the appetite it comes no more in eating. Sartre, thy simple, uneventful existence, my man, is more to be envied. The fatigue! To-night I am at Newport—only here for the day to meet some ladies," he rubbed his nose wearily. "whom, alas! I have not met. Pique take those steamship companies!"

And he, fell silent, musing over his wrongs, while the chauffeur gazed out of the window and the cab pursued its tortuous way.

"At last Count Souravieff turned his keen gray eyes on his companion."
"There were two American ladies on board the Majestic," he said suddenly, "friends of mine—Madame Reebard, Watreign and her dame de compagnie, vous les avez remarque, mon ami Sartre?"

THE "WIZARD" EDISON.

Not long ago, says E. A. Jones in "Thomas Alva Edison," a Parisian paper published the following amusing sketch, which imagines Mr. Edison in his laboratory, hearing the news of a declaration of war between Great Britain and the United States. A young man, his assistant, rushes in, pale and out of breath, and exclaims to the great electrician:

"Oh, master, war is declared! It is terrible!"

"Ah," says the master, "war declared, eh? And where is the British army at this moment?"

"Embarking, sir."

"Embarking where?"

"At Liverpool."

"At Liverpool, yes. Now, my friend, would you please join the ends of those two wires hanging there against the wall? That is right. Now bring them to me. Good! Now be kind enough to press the button."

"Very well," says the inventor. "Now do you know what is taking place in Liverpool?"

"The British army is embarking, sir."

The inventor pulls out his watch and glances at the dial. "There is no British army," he says, curtly.

"What?" screams the assistant.

"When you touched the button you destroyed it."

"Oh, this is frightful!"

"It is not frightful at all. It is so commonplace. Now, every time a British expedition embarks at any port, please come and tell me at once. Ten seconds afterward it will, simply be out of existence. That is all!"

"There seems to be no reason why America should be afraid of its enemies after this, sir."

"I am inclined to believe you," says the master, smiling slightly. "But in order to avoid further trouble, I think it would be best to destroy England altogether."

"To—destroy England—?"

"Kindly touch button No. 4 there!"

The assistant touches it. The inventor counts—"eight, nine, ten. It is all over. There is no England."

"Oh! oh!" screams the young man.

"Now we can go quietly on with our work," says the master. "And if, we should be at war with any other nation, you have only to notify me. I have an electric button connected with every foreign country which will destroy every foreign country in the world, the United States included."

"Be careful, now, that you don't touch any of those buttons accidentally. You might do a lot of damage."

A Difference.
"Did I understand you to say," asked the court, "that there had been collusion between this husband and wife?"

"No, your honor," responded the lawyer, "but by a mighty sight. Look at my client's black eye. I said 'collusion.'"—Philadelphia Ledger.

PAPERS BY THE PEOPLE

IMPROVED LABOR CONDITIONS.

By Vice President Fairbanks.
There has been during the past few years a very noticeable improvement in labor conditions. This has been due in a large degree to the perfection and influence of labor organizations and to the cooperation of many thousands who have believed that the improvement of the conditions of labor was a matter of the very first importance to the great body of our citizenship.

Such gratifying improvement is due to a great body of our citizenship. The education of the people as to its condition and as to its real and just needs.

In the earlier days those who advocated an improvement of the conditions of labor and sought to enact laws for its protection were regarded by many as agitators, as encroaching upon certain vested or natural rights of employers. Much progress has been made since then. The reforms which have been effected and which are now generally regarded as just, the improvement of conditions in many hazardous undertakings, the protection of the persons and lives of operatives, the improvement of unsanitary conditions which surround many places of labor and other improvements are proof of the wisdom of organized effort and of discussion.

SCOPE OF MAN'S WORK.
By Prof. Kenyon L. Butterfield.
The sharp distinction sometimes drawn between vocational studies and culture studies is already being modified. Some time it may be obliterated. Probably we shall have a new definition of culture. At any rate, vocation hereafter is to be glorified not only for what it contributes to national and individual prosperity, but for its educational possibilities. Vocation is not merely technique. It is not merely vocational training. At its best it is a form of social service in which the whole man is engaged. It relates itself to most of the individual demands for growth and even more vitally to the social demands of family and of state and of civil society. Hence we shall discover a way of making vocational training also a liberal training.

THE DAISY-FIELD.
Man looked upon the sky by night,
And loved its tender azure, bright
With many a softly beaming light,
And sang his Maker's praises.

"The sun declares thee in Thy dead,
But from the stars Thy peace is shed:
Would that by day Thy comforted,
God heard; and made the daisies."

Their golden orbs now float, serene,
Twinkling with rays of silvery sheen,
To comfort him who gazes.

Back Home

When Alzora Dunn had shaken the dust of Brattleville from her feet—literally, for it was a hot dry summer—and departed for Chicago, Gus Mitchell of course had been at the railroad station to see her off.

Brattleville boasted only 700 inhabitants and the school collar was still regarded with favor in its society circles. Around his celluloid collar Gus wore a narrow black string tie with fringed ends and there was a photograph button of Alzora in the lapel of his coat. He also had ablative shell cuff links.

In spite of this he had a good, square jaw and a look in his eyes that a woman could trust. He had a heroic smile on his face as he crushed Alzora's fingers at parting.

"You're sure, Zory?" he asked, a trifle tremulously. "There isn't any hope for me?"

"You don't care?"
"For an instant Alzora Dunn, her yellow hair shining in the sun, her pretty, frivolous face pink with the excitement of her departure, felt a sudden qualm. Ever since she could remember Gus had tagged around after her. Of course she liked him—but marry him, never!

Of late she had felt that she was born to shine in higher circles. The letters of a girl friend who had gone to Chicago and was a clerk in the store where a position now awaited Alzora had caused her to look at Brattleville with scornful eyes. She shuddered at the thought that she might still be stupidly measuring ribbons in Gus Mitchell's father's general store had it not been for Carrie's letters.

When Alzora spoke to Gus at parting it was as from a great height, bending down to one in a lowly rut, one for whom she had a friendly, pitying regard.

"No, Gus," she said, "I like you and all that—but I don't love you!"

The train whistled long as it spun across the bridge. As Gus Mitchell stood watching it with a lump in his throat he thought of Alzora at parties, at dances, in his buggy, laughing up at him. He had felt she cared for him and it came hard.

Alzora rarely thought of Gus the first few weeks in Chicago. The newness, the excitement, the rush dominated her entirely, and underneath ran the current of expectation. It didn't get a girl at the white goods counter upstairs married only the previous week a traveling man who made $2,000 a year. There were six in Alzora's family and never had her father's income exceeded $900. Only two—and $1,000 each to spend! Not that Alzora was distinctly mercenary, but such things were like fairy tales to her.

It was not long before the floorwalker in her department began finding that the best vantage point for him was near Alzora's counter. At first it made her nervous, for the girls stood rather in awe of him. Then her coquetry asserted itself when she found nine times out of ten that if she looked up he was looking at her.

"Gee, Hutton's struck, isn't he?" Carrie said to her at last. "Never allowed a girl before—too stuck-up for us. He can't keep his eyes off you!"

Alzora blushed. Hutton was very tall and stiff, like a clothier's dummy, and wore marvelous collars and wonderful neckties. No one would ever connect the idea of ablative shell cuff links with him. One knew by instinct that he wore links of plain gold. He had beautiful pink finger nails. He looked like the heroes in the paper novels Alzora had read as a school girl, and she felt ashamed of herself because she remembered that look in Gus' eyes, but she dreamed rosy dreams as to what she would do when she was Mrs. Hutton. It meant a six-room flat at least and a girl and a new tailor suit twice a year and gloves to match, always.

When Gus wrote she put his letters aside and neglected to answer them. She could think of nothing to say.

It was quite by accident one day that Alzora went into the stockroom just before closing time and across the room saw Mr. Hutton seize a small boy in overalls who had stumbled against him. He shook the boy violently, cuffed his ears and swore at him, then in his hurry stumbled over a box and swore some more. His face was black and ugly. He flushed as he met Alzora and then his countenance cleared magically. He was suave, polite and majestic as usual when he spoke to her.

"Are you going to be at home this evening?" he asked. His very presence dared her to remember him as he had been two minutes before.

"No, I—I shan't be home to-night," Alzora heard herself stammering as she turned and fled.

She felt of a sudden very homesick and afraid and disillusioned. What would it be to have one's husband look at one that way when he was annoyed—or speak that way?

For a long time Alzora sat in the dark at her window thinking that night and then she turned up the gas and, getting out Gus' letters, sat down and answered them. It was almost as good as talking to him.—Chicago Daily News.

ing. Agriculture is to be applied recognized in the schools, if agriculture, properly defined and taught, is efficient educational material. Both city and country boy may profit by it, the one because he will reach a knowledge of and a sympathy with nature not easily secured in any other way, the other because he is utilizing his environment—physical, industrial and social—as a nucleus of education.

"PINK TEA" DIPLOMACY.
By Spencer Eddy, U. S. Minister to Argentina.
The old conception placed on diplomacy by Americans is fast disappearing. It has not been so many years back since the impression prevailed that a diplomatic post was nothing more than a medium through which our country maintained its social entente cordate with other nations. And this interpretation of the functions of the office was held also by the men in the service themselves. Not men of pink tea proficiencies are to longer wanted in the service.

A school for instruction for those who wish to enter the service, conducted on the lines of some institution like West Point or Annapolis, would raise the standard of American diplomats still further. It is impossible for a youngster to jump into the field and compete with older heads, but with three years of hard training in such a school he would be fully qualified for the work cut out.

LACK OF POLICE SUPERVISION.
By President Eliot of Harvard.
In no other civilized country of the world is there such absence of effective police supervision as in the United States. One must say that there is no police in our country districts and that in urban districts it is ordinarily ineffective. Even well-known members of the criminal class are under no effective control, and by merely changing from time to time their field of operations often succeed in preying on the community for years. The law has no strong arm.

SOME CHINESE MILLS ARE CRUDE
Beans or Grain Dumped Into Hollow Piece of Masonry and Rolled.
China in the interior of the empire presents many odd sights to the traveler. In some sections the mills for the grinding of cereals, while not up to the standard of European and American plants, are fairly well equipped, but far inland, where the forces of civilization have not made material headway, the mills present a ludicrous sight to the one familiar with the 12,000-barrel plants in the flour centers of the United States.

Grinding beans in the interior of China is a laborious job. A stack of round masonry is set up and hollowed. The beans or grain is dumped in and then rolled to the proper degree of coarseness or otherwise. Two persons operate the roller and, like the Indians, the men have no scruples against assigning the women to the task, a task comparable only with the treadmill.

In 1920. "Prisoner," said the magistrate severely, "you are charged with being a millstone. How did you happen to fall?" "Your honor," responded the smiling man at the bar, "in a moment of weakness I made a book on the waves."

"You're not invariable," rejoined the magistrate, who at heart was not unkind. "Go and reform by playing the book of some other fellow. Dismissed."

I AM A MOTHER
How hilly American women in lonely homes to-day long for this blessing to come into their lives, and to be able to utter these words, but because of some organic derangement of this happiness is denied them. Every woman interested in this subject should know that preparation for healthy maternity is accomplished by the use of LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND.

Mrs. Maggie Gilmer, of West Union, S. C., writes to Mrs. Pinkham: "I have grown so much in health from a weakness peculiar to my sex, when Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended to me. It not only restored me to perfect health, but to my delight I am a mother."

Mrs. Josephine Hall, of Bardonia, Ky., writes: "I was a very great sufferer from female troubles, and my physician failed to help me. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound not only restored me to perfect health, but I am now a proud mother."

FACTS FOR SICK WOMEN.
For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has positively cured thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, that bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, dizziness, nervous prostration, etc.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Address, Lynn, Mass.

HOUSEHOLD TALKS
Increased Its Capacity.
The metal towel rack which is to be seen in every properly furnished bathroom, is a popular piece of furnishing, as attested by its general use. Up to very recently it has consisted of a straight bar of metal or glass, held at a convenient height above the tub by supports secured in the wall.

The storage capacity of this article has been greatly increased by a slight change in the design. This feature is particularly desirable from the fact that it permits of fresh towels being placed on the rack, while the towels in use may hang from the front.

Peach Butter Pudding.
Fill a pudding dish with peeled and halved peaches, pour over them one pint of water, cover closely and bake until the peaches are tender, then drain off the juice and let it cool. Add to the juice one pint of milk, four well-beaten eggs, one cupful of sugar, one tablespoonful of melted butter, one tablespoonful of salt and one cupful of flour mixed and sifted with one teaspoonful of baking powder. Beat well, pour the batter over the peaches and bake until a rich brown. Serve with sweetened cream.

Potato Croquettes.
A delicious way of serving potatoes is the following: Boil and mash twelve medium sized white potatoes, using one tablespoonful of butter instead of milk. When they are nearly cold add beaten yolks of three eggs, one teaspoonful of chopped parsley, one-quarter teaspoonful of grated nutmeg and six drops of onion juice. Stir these ingredients together until they are smooth. Make up into small conical croquettes and stand away to harden.

Boiled Custard.
Into a quart of milk stir a pinch of baking soda, then heat to the boiling point in a double boiler. Beat five eggs light with a half-cup of granulated sugar and pour the scalding milk gradually on these, beating steadily. Return to the double boiler and cook, stirring constantly until the custard coats the spoon. Take from the fire, flavor with vanilla and set aside to cool. When cold turn into glasses, with meringue on top and serve.

Cranb Apple Jelly.
Allow one pound of juice and one half pound of sugar. Wash apples, put them into an enameled kettle, cover with cold water and cook until tender. Then press them through a sieve with juice. The next day pour from settlings, weigh and put on fire with sugar and skim them occasionally. Cook for one hour and it will become a good red. Fill jelly glasses and cool.

Delicious Corn Oysters.
One dozen ears of young corn grated; one beaten egg; three tablespoonfuls of cream; two tablespoonfuls of flour; one tablespoonful of melted butter. Mix thoroughly; drop with a dessert spoon into sautepan and fry as you would oysters.

Baked Eggs.
Beat a tablespoonful of butter in a small granite pan; when hot break in as many eggs as you wish cooked, season with salt and pepper and pour over with sweet cream to cover eggs. Place in the oven for a few minutes.

Potato Pancakes.
Grate eight large raw potatoes, drain off the water, add one cup of boiling milk, two eggs, flour enough to make a nice pancake batter. This must be baked in sufficient hot fat.

Short Suggestions.
Water kept in bottles on the ice, instead of breaking the ice into the water, reduces ice bills.
Growing parsley, sage and other herbs in a kitchen window garden gives better seasoning at less money.
To make pancakes without greasing the griddle, add one tablespoonful of butter or a half-cup of cream to the batter.
If your soup is found too salty add a few slices of raw potatoes and cook a little longer. The potatoes will absorb the surplus salt.

Paraffin used on the tops of preserve glasses can be saved until the next season by washing in cold water and putting in a tin box with a tight lid.
To extract juice of lemon or orange much more juice will be obtained if the fruit is first covered with cold water and allowed to come to a boil before the fruit is cut.
Taped trays should never be touched with hot water, for it will cause the varnish to crack and peel off. To clean these trays, rub a little olive oil on and then polish it off with a flannel.
When broiling steaks in the gas oven put water in the pan beneath the broiler. It catches all grease which, when cold, can be skimmed off. This keeps the oven clean and saves labor in cleaning the pan.
The soot that settles at the bottom of the teacettle, caused by being on the fire, will keep the top of the kitchen stove blackened. Dampen a cloth, rub on the bottom of kettle, then over the stove, and it will keep the stove bright.
A handy disinfectant for household use is made of bicarbonate of lime equal-sized with water in equal parts. If mixed with water in the cellar all the time, and in case of sickness a few drops scattered about will purify the air in the room.

FARM AND GARDEN
was sown. With my present knowledge I would not again think of sowing ground in the condition that this was in. It would have been called in good shape to plant corn, but all the weeds should be destroyed for alfalfa. The seed was sown broadcast and harrowed in with a weeder. It came on well, but on account of the weeds did not make a fair stand. We have cut now for five years. Two years thirty-one wagon loads for the seven acres, three crops each year except in 1900, then four crops were secured. The second and third years there were but few weeds except clover. The crop of 1907 was the smallest of any, about three tons per acre. It sold for $12 per ton in the mow.—Clay in Farmers' Guide.

Commercial Fertilizer.
It would be much better if the users of commercial fertilizers would get into the habit of adapting the fertilizer to the soil instead of seeking a fertilizer that is adapted to the crop grown. The object in using fertilizer should be the building up of the soil rather than growing a certain crop, and a fertilizer which will balance up the plant food already in the soil is an economical fertilizer to use on any crop, since the effects of its application will show on any crop that is adapted to the locality. A farmer cannot afford to buy all of the plant food that his crop will use in its growth, then why should he buy anything that his soil will furnish to the crop in sufficient quantities? True, some crops will take more of a certain element of plant food than another will. Some crops have the power of getting more food from a soil than others have. It is better to remedy this by adopting a judicious rotation of crops in which legumes will come in frequently. The legumes will supply the nitrogen and help to keep up the humus supply.

It is unfortunate for the farmer that the fertilizer manufacturers have adopted the plan of recommending certain mixtures for special crops and thus to adapt the fertilizer to the crop rather than to soil the goods on their merits for the nitrogen, potash and phosphorous acid they contain and leave the farmer to select the goods best adapted to his soil and conditions.

Making Denatured Alcohol.
Denatured alcohol is a good thing, but up to date farmers of this country have taken little interest in making it. The rosy dreams that some people had in which they saw a revolution in the methods of producing power, riches for the farmers in the rotten potatoes and other waste products of the farm have not come true. The business languishes.
Alcohol is dearer than kerosene. People have not learned how to use alcohol even if they were inclined to buy it at the price.
There has been very little farm-made alcohol because there are no small stills for farm use and because government rules governing the manufacture are so drastic and complicated—thanks to the friends of Standard Oil in Congress—that nobody dares to go against them.
Secretary Wilson, who has always had great faith in the proposition, is determined to help farmers to get into the business of making alcohol, and will equip the experiment stations with small stills and teach the interested ones how to do it.

Snow as a Fertilizer.
From experiments conducted at Ottawa, in Canada, it appears that there are some slight grounds for the widely accepted opinion among agriculturists that snow is a direct fertilizer, says the Pharmaceutical Journal. It is found to contain total nitrogen equivalent in round numbers to about a pound per acre of land covered by an average winter snowfall in that district. The amount of nitrogen as free ammonia was high, but fluctuated greatly from .082 to .580 parts per million; the nitrogen as albuminoid ammonia ranged from .033 to .078 parts per million, and the nitrogen as nitrates and nitrites ranged from .027 to .330 parts per million. The average of twelve determinations, from February 21, 1907, to May 4, was: Nitrogen, as free ammonia, .256; as albuminoid ammonia .462; and as nitrates and nitrites .148 parts per million. The value of snow as a direct fertilizer would appear, so far as the nitrogen content is concerned, to be greatly overestimated. It is intended to continue the experiments both in summer and winter to determine definitely the manifold value of both snow and rain.

Good Forage Crops.
One of the best forage crops when the prospects for hay are not very promising, is peas and oats. The one with which it can be put in also recommends it. As soon as the ground is fit to plant spread broadcast upon the land a bushel and a half of peas to the acre and plow under to the depth of five inches. As soon as the peas begin to come up, sow over them the same amount of oats per acre and drag in, going over in both directions, so they will be thoroughly covered.
When the oats are in bloom is the time to harvest if you depend upon them for hay. Cure as you would clover and you will have a fine hay that everything likes. It is especially good for cows and hogs, and the peas and chaff furnish as fine a feed for laying hens in the winter as I have ever used.

Neglect of Drainage.
It is necessary to closely study the physical conditions of soils, that we may have healthy and flourishing condition of plants. Through want of proper drainage or other neglect, land is often allowed to get into an unhealthy state, which sooner or later is reflected in the character of the herbage growing upon the soil.
The chief danger is probably poor drainage, with consequent excess of water and lack of sufficient oxygen in the soil. (Such a condition is weakening and often results in the death of the roots of plants growing in such soils. Especially is this so to crops growing in heavy clay soils, and where there is an impervious subsoil. In such cases many of the feeding roots of plants are killed by suffocation during protracted wet seasons.
Very often roots that may just be forming are killed in a few days, should the soil become saturated with water. Not only is there a loss of these feeding roots, but the vitality of the entire plant becomes weakened.
Plants growing where the surface is caked and packed often suffer from want of oxygen for the roots. This is especially applicable to trees. In such cases the annual growth is not only retarded, but the plants lose vitality and become prey of insects and fungus pests.
The remedy for such a condition is deep and careful cultivation, and the provision of some organic fertilizer. This will provide plant food for new growth of the roots and also lighten the physical nature of the soil. Lime is also recommended for this latter purpose in the case of heavy clay soils.

An Experience with Alfalfa.
My first sowing of alfalfa was on ground that had been in potatoes the year before, but being a wet year was quite weedy, especially with net grass and foxtail. The ground was plowed and cultivated until June 10 when it

NEW DISTRICTS AND NEW RAILWAYS.
Western Canada affords better conditions than ever for settlement. To the Editor—Sir: Doubtless many of your readers will be pleased to have some word from the grain fields of Western Canada, where such a large number of Americans have made their home during the past few years. It is pleasing to be able to report that generally the wheat yield has been good. It will average about twenty bushels to the acre. There will be many cases where the yield will go thirty-five bushels to the acre and others where fifty bushels to the acre has been recorded. The oat and barley crop has been splendid. The prices of all grains will bring to the farmers a magnificent return for their labors. An instance has been brought to my notice of a farmer in the Placer (Southern Alberta) district, where winter wheat is grown, who made a net profit of $19.55 an acre, or little less than the selling price of his land. Thirty, forty and fifty bushels yields are recorded there. The beauty about the lands in Western Canada is that they are so well adapted to grain-raising, while the luxuriant grasses that grow everywhere in abundance makes the best possible feed for fattening cattle or for those used for dairying purposes.

The new homestead regulations which went into force September, 1908, attracted thousands of new settlers. It is now possible to secure 160 acres in addition to the 160 acres as a free grant, by paying $3 an acre for it. Particulars as to how to do this will as to the railway rates can be secured from the Canadian Government agents.

The development throughout Western Canada during the next ten years will probably exceed that of any other country in the world's history. It is not the statement of an optimistic Canadian from the banks of the Saskatchewan, but of Mr. Leslie M. Shaw, of New York, ex-Secretary of the United States Treasury, under the late President McKinley and President Roosevelt, and considered one of the ablest financiers of the United States. "Our railway companies sold a good deal of their land at from three to five dollars an acre, and now the owners are selling the same land at from fifty to seventy-five dollars, and buying more up in Canada at from ten to fifteen."

The editor of the Monticello (Idaho) Express made a trip through Western Canada last August, and was greatly impressed. He says: "One cannot cross Western Canada to the mountains without being impressed with its immensity of territory and its future prospects. Where I expected to find frontier villages, there were substantially built cities and towns with every modern convenience. It was formerly supposed that the climate was too severe for it to be thought of as an agricultural country, but its wheat-raising possibilities have been amply tested. We drew from Ontario many of our best farmers and most progressive citizens. Now the Americans are immigrating in greater numbers to Western Canada. Seventy-five per cent of the settlers in that good country are from southeast of Moose Jaw and Regina are Americans. Canada is well pleased with them and is ready to welcome thousands more."

Probably Inoculated.
"Mr. Hankinson," said the mother of the young woman to the youth who she suspected of an ambition to become a member of the family, "have you ever been baptized?"
"Once, I think," he answered, hesitatingly.
15 YEARS OF SUFFERING.
Burning, Painful Sores on Legs—Tortured Day and Night— Tried Many Remedies to No Avail— Cured by Cuticura.
"After an attack of rheumatism, running sores broke out on my husband's legs, from below the knee to the ankles. There are no words to tell all the discomforts and great suffering he had to endure night and day. He used every kind of remedy and three physicians treated him, one after the other, without any good results whatever. One day I ordered some Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment, and Cuticura Resolvent. He began to use them and in three weeks all the sores were dried up. The burning heat stopped, and the pains became bearable. After three months he was quite well. I can prove this testimonial at any time. Mrs. V. V. Albert, Upper Frenchville, Me., July 21, 1907."

THE LANDSLIDE DID NOT SLIDE.
BRYAN CAN STILL PUBLISH HIS COMMONER WHILE TAFT GOES TO THE WHITE HOUSE.

It Cannot be said that Bryan did not make any Progress in his last campaign, for he carried his own precinct, city, county, and probably his state, something he has never done before, and he also reduced the pluralities in many states.

Wayne County Polled the Largest Vote in its History and gave a Substantial Republican Majority for every Candidate as the Table Given Below Shows.

"Shall the people rule?" They certainly will, and at Tuesday's election they for the third time repudiated Mr. Bryan and his vagaries by a very large and decisive vote. While Nebraska and one or two other states are still hanging in the balance, it is certain that Taft will have over 300 votes in the electoral college. Elsewhere will be found an extended account of the general result. In the third congressional district it is almost certain that Latta, democrat, has defeated Boyd by a small majority. Randall, republican candidate for State Senator in the 11th district, wins by about 100 majority. We are sorry to announce that honest John Morris was defeated for Representative in the 17th district. While his home county, Wayne, gave him a good endorsement the Stanton county majority for his opponent was too large for him to overcome. A. R. Davis' friends rejoice with him over his election as county attorney, by a much larger majority than he anticipated. In fact A. R. would not have given two cents and a fish hook for his chances to win on the afternoon of election day. The table below gives the vote in the county in each precinct outside of Wayne, and the three wards in the city. The following are the Republican majorities in Wayne county; Taft, 226; Sheldon, 160; Williams, 332; Boyd, 140; Randall, 287; Morris, 236; Davis, 136.

The Omaha Bee of this morning says that everything in Nebraska has gone democratic, the republicans losing the legislature and only electing one congressman. In view of the defeat elsewhere and the majority in this county it is evident that the county central committee in Wayne county is deserving of especial credit for the manner in which it conducted the campaign.

Hon. Richard Closson, that sounds good, the lawyer editor of the Carroll Index, held a joint political debate at the opera house Monday night, taking the republican side, while Hon. W. E. "They grew in beauty side by side, they filled one home with glee." That is not quite the way it was with the two large pictures of Taft and Bryan. They hung on opposite sides of the street suspended from a wire the first of the week. The democrats got their's up some time Friday night and the republicans lifted Taft up Saturday morning.

The funeral of the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Shorten, of Orchard, Nebraska, was held at this place last Thursday. Mr. and Mrs. Shorten are former Wayne residents and have the sympathy of the entire community in their bereavement.

Born—To Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hamilton, of Frankfort, Kentucky, October 20th, a son. Mr. Hamilton will be remembered as having been connected with the Lyric moving picture show in Wayne for a couple of months. He has a good position where he is.

The new firm of W. L. Fisher & Son, of Wayne, Nebraska, will open up their business in the I. O. O. F. building across from the Union hotel on Saturday, November 7, 1908. They will have in operation a few samples of the Alamo, Gasoline engines, also an independent electric light plant. They will make a special price on all engine orders given on that day. If you are thinking of buying a gasoline engine in the near future give them your order and take advantage of their special price. 37w2

High School Notes.

Report cards are going to be given out this week.

Miss Wallace's room is learning a poem for every month.

Mr. Wilson is attending the state teachers meeting at Lincoln.

The outlook shows that the 9th grade is ahead in tardiness.

Minnie Miller is absent from school having an operation for appendicitis.

The 6th and 7th grades are working up a program to be given Thanksgiving day.

Miss Hughes' room are preparing drawing and gems of poetry put in booklet form.

The 2nd and 3rd grade are making a series of pictures to illustrate Thanksgiving.

Four of the high school pupils are preparing to give a debate on "Whether the U. S. should have a large navy or not."

Miss Manning's room is endeavoring to make a high per cent of attendance. The attendance for the last two months was ninety-eight per cent.

Taft should be elected because he has the greatest understanding said a high school pupil to his chum.

You speak the truth, for Taft has the largest of teeth, replied his companion.

Mrs. Pile Keeps Her promise. Tuesday P. M., 1908.

My Herald friends:

As per promise I will write a few lines before we land.

We left New York Tuesday the 14th. The day was an ideal one. Everything so strange that my time was so occupied taking in the surroundings, that no thought of being homesick entered my mind. We went aboard an hour before sailing. This gave us an opportunity to watch the loading of the ship with human freight. The ship itself, the Majestic, is well named. It is one of the fast ships but not one of the largest. It is a mail steamer, and has several hundred sacks of mail aboard. At this time of the year travel, first and second class, is not so heavy as earlier in the season, although there are accommodations for six hundred passengers of these two classes there is only one sixth that number on board. The steerage has about 350. These are mostly Armenians and Italians, returning to the land of their nativity. As I look down at them from our deck, I cannot help but feel glad they have decided to leave the U. S. Some of them are fierce looking men and women.

We have had three days of very bad weather. As a result all have had a tinge of sea-sickness. I am sure it is no laughing matter. My spell only lasted a few hours, but it was dreadful while it did last. At first I was afraid I was going to die, then I reached the point where I was afraid I would not die. But I soon recovered and although the last part of our journey has been very stormy, I have really enjoyed it. Many pleasant friendships are formed on board. The day is spent in reading, writing, eating and visiting. Sunday, Divine Service was held in the saloon. The minister was of the Church of England. In his prayer he invoked the divine blessing on the President of the United States.

Monday evening we had a very fine concert on board. The Americans sang our National Hymn as well as Home Sweet Home. These songs never sounded so good to me before.

My friend, Miss Brown, of Kearney, has not been out of her berth much of the time. She was very tired when we started and still complained of a tired feeling.

We land at Plymouth then to Exeter, Stratford on Avon, Warwick, Oxford London. We expect to spend a week or ten days in London, thence to York, New Castle on the Tyre, Edinburgh, Glasgow to Liverpool. Liverpool to Dublin, a little run into Ireland, then back to Fishguard, thence to France. Returning to South Hampton, where we embark for New York.

The President of Mont. State Normal and two teachers from Philadelphia make up our party.

I hope in my next letter to give you something of interest regarding the schools of England. The great Training schools at Exeter will be the first one we are to visit.

Hoping what I write may interest my friends, I am

Yours truly,
MRS. PILE.

Among The Churches

Items of Interest Concerning the Churches in Wayne

The Supreme Being and Book will be the subject of the service at the Baptist church next Tuesday evening, Nov. 10th, when Dr. J. A. Sutton will preach his first sermon in Wayne. Dr. Sutton is pastor of the First Baptist Church, of Enid, Okla, a town of 20,000, and his church is a large and prosperous one with a membership of over 500. The pastor of the local church was formerly a member of a church of which Mr. Sutton was pastor and has great confidence in him as a man and as a minister of the Gospel and believes that Wayne is to have a great treat in the few days the Dr. will be here. We wish to urge the people to come out and hear him.

The Methodist Sunday school will observe its rally day next Sunday. There will be a good program at the regular hour of morning worship.

District Supt. Tindall preached an excellent sermon at the M. E. church Sunday morning, the first quarterly meeting of this conference year, on the "Power of the gospel." At the close of the sermon a very large number partook of the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. Mr. and Mrs. Fisher had their infant child baptized and there were seven united with the church by letter.

Rev. Sharpe was greeted with a large audience at the M. E. church Sunday evening to listen to his sermon on the modern Apollyon. It was a strong temperance sermon and at the close the speaker exhorted all of the voters to lay aside all party prejudices and vote for the candidates for the legislature who were in favor of wiping out the saloons, or at least giving the voters and taxpayers a chance to say whether or not they were in favor of a continuance of the iniquitous traffic.

At the Presbyterian church Sunday morning, Rev. T. C. Osborne addressed himself particularly to the first voters, but there was also in it some very practical thoughts for those who are older in life. Men as a rule, look upon the matter of casting their ballots with too much indifference, in fact as a sort of a child's play, when in reality it is a serious matter as it not only affects the individual of the present but also those who are to come after him, therefore such sermons as Rev. Osborne presented are timely and worth considering. His thought was first that the voter is a sovereign as he stands in the election booth prepared to cast his ballot, and the first voter, at least should regard it in the right light as it is an important event in his life. Secondly, the voter stands not only as a sovereign but also as a representative, as he represents his family and expresses their convictions as well as his own, and thirdly as the acts of our forefathers has an influence upon us and our surroundings, so our votes will have an effect upon the future generations.

For Sale Cheap

Whalen serves fresh separated cream with all of his hot drinks.

If any one should like a copy of the Scientific American for one year we can furnish it to them cheap if they will call at the office and let us know about it.

The up-to-date woman will make her new fall waists with long sleeves. Only the very dressiest, most elaborate blouses for evening show the short sleeves. Every other kind of separate waist must have the long sleeves.

All fashionable skirts are narrow. Many are circular, others gored; but all are sheath-fitting. Consequently, they appear scant in many instances and this has brought lengthwise skirt trimming into use. Rows of buttons, panels or braiding, or shaped panels of silk or satin, heavily outouched, are among the forms of line trimming seen of late.

The work on the foundation of the new school house is progressing in very good shape. By the end of the week if the weather holds good the entire outer wall will be ready for the stone work, which is to rise five feet above the brick foundation before the laying of the water table. This rock foundation is to be of Kesota, Minnesota, stone, and they began arriving Tuesday, several loads being hauled that day. They are handsome in appearance and durable in quality and will make a foundation that will stand for a generation to come.

Several weeks ago we had an item to the effect that a "little wee bit of humanity" had been born to Cal. Ritchie and wife. It was all true but very few knew how really small it was. When born the child did not weigh more than two pounds and probably less than that amount, and for three weeks the doctor in charge kept it wrapped in cotton batting and bathed it with sweet oil. Since that time the baby has begun to grow and develop and now bids fair to be as lusty as any youngster should be.

Nearly every man who buys a Sunday newspaper can have an experience like the who writes:

"I spent five cents for the Sunday Dart, and hauled it home in a two-wheeled cart; I piled the sections upon the floor, till they reached as high as the kitchen door; I hung the chromos upon the wall, though there wasn't room to hang them all, and the room was littered some ten feet deep, with "comic sections" that made me weep; and there were sections and magazine and sheets of music to which if played would make an audience fade; and there were patterns for women's gowns and also for gentlemen's hand-me-downs; and a false mustache and a rubber doll, and a deck of cards and a parabol. Now men are busy with dray and cart, a hauling a way the Sunday Dart."

Now and then a carping critic will be found who will cry out against the government paying pensions to old soldiers, and with a sneer will allege that it was not patriotism that caused them to enlist but the pay that they received. Oh yes, they pay was very large during the days of the civil war, $13 to $16 per month. Do you think that a man like Alfred Swanson, whose obituary appears in this issue, would risk his life on 21 hard fought battle fields and in sixty skirmishes, for his adopted country for the sake of $13 a month, alone? Not one of those who find fault about the pension laws would be willing to be shot at once for that paltry sum let alone hundreds of times, besides all the weary marches in the heat, rain and mud and on the army rations furnished.

Times Have Changed

How times have changed, says an exchange. When we were young, people had bad colds, soaked their feet in hot water and got well. Now they have grip, take quinine and feel sick all summer. Then they had a sore throat, wrapped a piece of fat pork in an old sock, tied it around the neck at night and went to work the next morning. Now they have tonsillitis, a surgical operation and two weeks in the house. Then they had stomach ache, took castor oil and recovered. Now they have appendicitis, a week in the hospital and six feet of cast and west six feet perpendicular. They worked then, they labor now. In those days they wore underclothes, now they wear lingerie. Then they went to restaurants; now they go to a cafe. Then they broke a leg; now they fracture a limb. People went crazy; they have a brain storm now. Politicians then paid good hard cash for support; now they send government garden seeds. Yes, times have changed, and we all change with the times. That's progression.

The chilly weather of the past week has caused our hardware men to get busy in the stove line, and they have had their hands full getting stoves ready for their customers. It is almost base-burner weather.

Grumbling at the weather gets to be a habit with some. They find the most fault when the weather is the most propitious. The fact is the weather is all right all the time, for the purpose for which it is intended.

Look out for the young woman who is traveling asking aid for the "House of Hope," located at Grand Island. It appears a number of women have been working South Dakota during the past two months, and that they are frauds—but their graft worked, and they took in considerable. They may not have the audacity to try the scheme in the state wherein they claim the institution is located.

The pure food commission has taken up the question of scales, and has a representative going through the state testing them. In Omaha and Lincoln many of the stores were found using short weight scales. Some of the confectionery stores were using scales that were one ounce short. State Veterinarian Chas. A. McKim of Lincoln and Deputy T. H. Knaak of Coleridge were here one day last week to examine some horses that were reported to have glanders. They found only one animal afflicted with the disease and it was killed. The animal belonged to A. H. Brogden. The rest of his horses are under strict quarantine, but so far they show no symptoms of having the disease. —Laurel Advocate.

Paper from cornstalk, is the discovery announced by the department of Agriculture, and here in midst of the corn belt it gives promise not only of stopping the waste of timber in the making wood pulp, and of a saving to newspaper publishers, but also of new wealth for the farmers that will run into millions of dollars annually. The raw material for paper making as given in government report, and nearly all of it is for wood pulp, costs annually over $300,000,000, this can all be easily supplied by the farmers of the corn growing states, this would probably add $10,000,000 to the value of the corn crop every year in each of the great corn growing states. Owing to the bulky nature of the raw material the paper mills must be located near the source of supply, this would build up local industries that would be of great benefit to the whole community. The report says the department has for years been trying to find some substitute for wood pulp for paper making and they say they have solved the problem, the different parts of stalk furnishing suitable material for various kinds of paper. Of all the good things the Department of Agriculture has given to the country this promises to be the best, for Nebraska at least.

What Happened to Hank

The Dallas News tells the following amusing incident regarding a former well known resident of Wayne county and which will no doubt interest those who used to know him: Hank Slaughter had the novel experience of an automobile runaway Thursday out in Tripp county. He was ten miles from town when his auto got stuck in the mud. He started it on the low speed, which is the most powerful on the pull. He put his shoulder to the back of the car and pushed. He released the car from the mud and it started down the road. Everything then would have been all right had not something happened to Hank. When he started to go after the car, he didn't start. In working around in the mud to push the car out he had mired both feet and the car was gaining speed ahead down trail. Hank finally extricated his feet and ran after the car. He did not overtake the machine until he had run a quarter of a mile.

An Indiana farm hand has written the farm commission appointed by President Roosevelt, a letter which contains many good points as to why it is so hard to get men to work on a farm. Here is an extract:

"I have been a farm hand just long enough," says the President's correspondent, "to learn the cause of so many sons and daughters and well-meaning, reliable farm hands leaving the beautiful farm and country and going to the city. A lack of order and system on the farm and too long hours for a day is what is driving the best minds from the farm to the city and shop. What can we expect of a hand or the farmer's wife and her posterity, in the way of intellectual development when they get out of their beds at 3:30 in the morning and work from that time until 8 or 9 p. m. And no attention paid to the sanitary condition of the home, and necessary conveniences on the farm for doing the farm work with the least labor and time."

Who Were the Men?

Two men, one a democrat and the other a republican were arguing politics the other day and the republican asked the democrat what the democratic party had ever done for the poor man when they were in power and had full control of the government. A stranger standing by spoke up and said: "I can tell you one thing it has done, there were two men living side by side on farms near Wayne and one offered the other $30 an acre for his farm before the last democratic administration and he would not take it, but after the democrats came into power and the hard times came on he sold it to the same man for $50 an acre and he in turn sold it this fall for $125 an acre." —Pilger Herald.

Exhibits Go to Omaha Free

Baggage cars will be furnished by the railroads going into Omaha to carry exhibits to the National Corn Exposition, free of charge and those who desire to send exhibits will be notified as to the days these cars will be carried by the railroads. The plan is to have cars at all county seats in the states which will exhibit at the show in Omaha. Exhibitors need only express their corn, wheat, oats, alfalfa or other exhibits to the nearest point where the baggage cars stop to have the exhibits brought to Omaha without charge. The exposition will furnish an attendant with each baggage car, who will be in charge from the starting place of the car until it gets to Omaha, seeing that the exhibits are properly handled. This insures the exhibits arriving in Omaha in the best possible condition and in good time.

Taps Have Sounded

Gustaf Alfred Swanson, was born in Linkoping Lan Sweden Sept. 16, 1839. Died at his home in Hoskins, Neb., Oct. 28th, 1908, aged 69 years, 1 month and 12 days. His father John Swanson and his mother Catherine Swanson were natives of the same state. In 1853 they came with their family of seven children, three sons and four daughters, to America, Hanover, Henry County, Ill. Gustaf Alfred Swanson lived with his parents on the farm. On the 14th of Aug., 1862 he enlisted in Co. H, 112th Ill. Volunteer Infantry, and served in the army of the west, and participated in all the active battles of his regiment, which were 21 general engagements and 60 skirmishes. He was honorably discharged June 20, 1865 having served almost three years. On the 25th of January 1869 he was married to Miss Caroline C. Larson, daughter of Lewis J. and Mary C. Larson. To them were born nine children, Joseph E., Luther E., Sophia C., Alfred N., Amara C., John P., Lida A., Otto S., Samuel Edgar. In 1885 they came to Wakefield, Dixon county, Neb. The deceased is survived by two brothers John V. and Swan. Two daughters Mrs. F. Sederstrom and Mrs. Amanda Neff, four sons Luther E., Alfred N., Otto S. and Samuel Edgar. Those of the family who preceded him in death were Lydia A. who died in infancy, Joseph E. 1897, John P. 1902, and his wife in 1905.

The funeral was held on Friday afternoon. A short service was held at the home in Hoskins, by his pastor, Rev. C. J. Ringer, after which the body was brought to Wayne on the 2:15 p. m. train, where the funeral services were held at the St. Paul's Lutheran church of which he was a faithful member; and then the remains were laid to rest on the family lot in Greenwood cemetery. The members of the Grand Army of the Republic and other old soldiers met the remains at the train and did honor to their fallen comrade by marching ahead of the procession to the church, and had charge of the service at the grave. He who had often listened to the stirring bugle call and followed the flag on many a hard fought battle field, lies quietly sleeping the sleep that knows no awakening here.

NORMAL COLLEGE

Misses Robertson and Van Conett spent Sunday visiting at the home of the former's uncle.

Prof. Sauntry made a business trip to Emerson Saturday afternoon. He returned Sunday evening.

Mrs. J. A. Maronda, formerly Miss Emma Palmer, and little daughter of Emerson, spent Saturday and Sunday with College friends.

Prof. Puffer has the Scientific class in geology this term. Several who are not members of the regular class are taking the work.

Several new students enrolled Saturday and Monday, some of them to enter the graduating classes and some to prepare for county examinations.

Mrs. Pile had a safe and pleasant voyage, arrived safely in England and is enjoying her visit very much. She will return about the 20th of December.

Rev. Sharpe visited the Hill Tuesday morning. He conducted Chapel exercises and gave the students an inspiring talk. We are glad to welcome visitors to all our exercises.

Prof. Hunter gives the lecture at one o'clock Saturday. He will speak of some phase of manual training work. His talk will be interesting as well as instructive. The public is invited to attend.

The new catalogs are ready for mailing. They differ but little from the old one, except that the manual training and agriculture departments are well written up.

The Halloween social held in the gymnasium Saturday evening was in charge of the young women of the Christian association. Several appropriate attractions were in evidence. A neat little sum was raised to go into the Y. W. C. A. treasury.

Miss Virginia Mayden, of Craig, enrolled Saturday for the term. Miss Mayden was a student here several years ago and finds things much more pleasant now than formerly.

Last Friday evening, being President Pile's birthday anniversary, the members of the Girls' Athletic Club gave him a pleasant surprise at supper time and presented him with a neat traveling bag.

Pres. Pile, Profs. Fred Pile, Bright, Sauntry, and Miss Kingsbury went to Lincoln Wednesday to attend the state teachers' association. They will return Saturday. They have supplied teachers for their classes and school work goes on as usual.

During the pleasant weather of the past week, work has been started on a running track on the Hill. More attention will be paid to this sort of work in the future than has been done in the past.

August Nordgren, of the Scientific class, has found it necessary to drop out of school work for a month. Lack of help on the farm during the corn picking season makes it necessary for him to be home at that time.

James Pile has spent some time this fall fixing up new cases and rearranging things in the museum, which now occupies the old library room. The museum will be open for inspection Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Visitors are welcome, however, at all times.

Prof. Bright addressed a union meeting of the Christian associations Sunday afternoon. A large number of students attended the meeting. Prof. Bright made a thorough visit to the Holy Land last summer and is well qualified to speak on the many interesting things to be found there.

Among pleasant visitors on the Hill this week were Misses Nannie Cassell and Rebecca Moore of McLean, and Miss Gleason of Hoskins. These young ladies are all teaching and have a few weeks' vacation during corn picking. Miss Moore will spend her vacation taking review work with us.

DEMOCRATS LEAD IN NEBRASKA.

Incomplete Returns Indicate Plurality of 10,000 for Bryan.

Lincoln, Nov. 4.—Indications this morning are that Nebraska has gone Democratic by a plurality not far from 10,000 for Bryan and a plurality scarcely less for Shallenberger, Democrat, for governor. The result was a surprise and disappointment to Republican managers, who, while admitting the state was doubtful on the national ticket, confidently expected their state ticket to be elected. The tremendous gain for Bryan in the city of Lincoln was the sensation of the election. Not only did Mr. Bryan reverse a Republican plurality of 1,500 in his home city, but he carried it by a plurality something in excess of 600. Lancaster county will increase his plurality to probably 800. Bryan carried his precinct, 196 to 52 for Taft. The vote in Omaha was also a surprise. Returns outside of Lincoln and Omaha show an average Democratic gain of eight to the precinct. If this is maintained throughout, Bryan has won by a little over 8,000, aside from Lincoln and Omaha, and Shallenberger is elected governor by practically the same plurality.

While returns are incomplete on congressmen, indications are for the election of Pollard, Republican, in the First district and Hinshaw, Republican, in the Fourth. Hitchcock, Democrat, wins in the Second and the Third, Fifth and Sixth are in doubt. No returns have been received on the legislature, but the strong trend towards Democracy indicates a possible Democratic legislature.

Indications this morning were that Boyd, Republican, had been defeated for re-election to congress by Lafta, Democrat, by perhaps 1,000. Boyd won two years ago by 255.

The Republican state committee was not ready to make any statement. It was held by the committee that the later returns might change the complexion of the returns materially, especially those from the western end of the state.

T. S. Allen, chairman of the Democratic state central committee, said: "Bryan has carried Nebraska by 15,000. Shallenberger has carried it by more than that. We base our estimates on 2,000 precinct returns."

Omaha, Nov. 4.—On the face of returns received this morning, the Democratic ticket in Nebraska has a slight lead, but the varied elements entering into the vote leaves the state in doubt, both on the national and state tickets. Mr. Bryan has been the recipient of a heavily increased vote, but its extent will not be known until further returns have been received. Shallenberger, Democratic candidate for governor, will follow the national ticket closely.

The returns received thus far have been from cities and towns, which were expected to show a large gain for Bryan and Shallenberger, and the final issue will depend upon the farmer vote, which is in doubt.

Bryan Silent on Election.

Fairview, Lincoln, Nov. 4.—William J. Bryan received at his home, Fairview, the returns which early told him that for the third time he had been defeated in the greatest ambition of his life. Confident of victory to the very last, he was not prepared to believe that his cause was lost until the pluralities of his Republican opponent piled up in such proportions as to leave no room for doubt. After nearly three hours spent in his library, Mr. Bryan came upstairs and talked to the newspaper men and others who had assembled in the "work room." He read some further returns, but they told the same story of defeat, and he announced that he would not have any statement to give out at the present time.

Minnesota Governorship in Doubt.

St. Paul, Nov. 4.—The governorship in Minnesota hangs in the balance, the results being so close, with not sufficient returns to indicate what it will be, that both Chairman Day of the Democratic state committee and Chairman Brown of the Republican state committee claim the state by small majorities. The vote is so close that in all probability the governorship will not be determined until the returns are all in. But using such returns as were definite, it was evident at 11 o'clock that Jacobson had nearly, if not quite, overcome the 73,000 Johnson plurality of two years ago.

Minneapolis, Nov. 4.—Governor John A. Johnson's effort in behalf of the Democratic national ticket have not succeeded in giving the electoral vote of the state to Mr. Bryan, but have availed in re-electing him by a small majority.

Close in Maryland.

Baltimore, Nov. 4.—Belated returns from the counties show continued gains for Bryan, and Republicans now admit that Taft will carry the state by only about 800, basing this on advices received here. The Republicans have lost very heavily in both the Fifth and Sixth districts. Congressman Mudd's plurality of 3,393 of two years ago is reduced to about 300 and Congressman Peaire, who two years ago carried his district by 4,904, will this time have only about 400 votes to spare, according to returns thus far received. The count is far from complete and while Republicans do not expect further changes against them, they are not impossible.

Congress Still Republican.

Chicago, Nov. 4.—It is now certain that the Republicans will have control of the next national house of representatives. The returns from 355 congressional districts give Republicans, 198; Democrats, 159; missing 36; Necessary majority for control, 198.

Rev. R. G. Frank, pastor of the Christian church at Liberty, Mo., says of Lincoln McConnell, who is to lecture here next Thursday, the 12th, the following:

I rather think there is in no other American lecturer such a rare combination of humor, pathos and eloquence as is found wrapped up in Lincoln McConnell. There is laughter without a tinge of poison in his stories and caricatures, there are tears which relieve and sweeten the heart in his touching of the chords of memory, and there are mighty stirrings of determination in his eloquent portrayals of that which is noble and good. You may take him as he is! He does not need to be issued in "expurgated editions."

Hallowe'en was fittingly observed by the Shakespeare Club at the home of S. D. Relyea, about twenty ladies being present. The beautiful home was elaborately decorated with autumn leaves and black cats of all sizes. On the porch was an attractive illumination, designed by Mr. Relyea, bearing the letters S. C. guarded by a black cat perched above. Upstairs the decorations were in the club colors, lavender and white. Upon arrival, each guest was conducted to a tent which had been arranged in the bow-window, where her future was revealed by a gypsy fortune-teller impersonated by Miss Josephine Graves. Then followed music, games, and various other forms of entertainment. During the evening seasonable refreshments were served. At a late hour the company separated, voting it one of the most pleasant events of the season. The club were delighted with the kind hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Relyea in opening their home to them. Out of town guests were Miss Rena Olmstead of Norfolk, and Miss Clara Hickert of Red Oak, Ia.

Now that election is over people will be turning their attention to other matters, and the Wayne lecture course should receive some attention. The first number will be given next Thursday evening, November 12th. It is a lecture by Lincoln McConnell. "His success as a public speaker is not accounted for solely by his wit and humor. He is a logician and reasoner of high ability, and he will stick tremendous truths to your minds with his inimitable manner that will abide long after the pleasure of the hour has passed and the laugh died. His lectures are not 'a mere string of stories,' for he believes that life is too short for you or him to laugh over nothing, when there are plenty of things helpful to be laughed over. Thousands have gone away with heavy hearts and feeling that life was hardly worth the effort, to hear this magnetic man, and have gone away with the blues all gone, and hope in their hearts, made better and more able to fight the battles of life, by the uplifting message of cheer that he so delights to give." Hear him at the opera house next Thursday evening and you will be glad you did so.

The sale of real estate for delinquent taxes took place at the court house Monday. There was not a very large list to sell and all was disposed of but about half a dozen pieces. There was only one piece of farm property to sell and that was the nw 1/4 29-26-1, which was bought by J. T. Mummert.

Since the new naturalization laws went into effect 148 citizens have taken out their second papers and perfected their citizenship, 35 this year. Those who have taken out their first papers, which is simply a declaration of their intention to become citizens number 99 since the new law went into effect, and 37 this year, which is the number of new voters in the county from this source. These first papers gives the man the right to vote, but does not carry the right to his sons, so if the father never goes any farther than this the son does not have a right to cast his ballot, although it is said there are a good many in this county who have been voting for a number of years on the supposition that they were legal voters because their fathers had taken out his declaration papers. Another peculiar feature of the new law is this: Any woman, no matter if born in this country of native born parents, loses her citizenship and becomes a citizen of the same country as her husband if she marries a foreigner before he has taken out his second papers and becomes fully a citizen of Uncle Sam's domain. On the other hand the full naturalization of a father in taking his second papers, naturalizes the wife and all of his children under eighteen years of age. We are under obligation to B. F. Feather, clerk of the district court for this and other information, he being busy Monday morning making out his monthly report to the government of the business in that department of his office.

Pleasant Social Gathering

The pleasantest social gathering of its kind this season was held at the home of Mr. Graves on north Main street Monday evening in honor of Mrs. Scanton, mother of Mrs. Graves, who has been with her since last August and who expects to return to her home at Bolivar, Mo., this week. It might be considered a kind of a farewell reception, and was given by members of the Bible Circle, with whom Mrs. Scanton has been meeting and working while in our city. There was a very large number in attendance, both ladies and gentlemen and the passing hours were spent in social conversation, interspersed by the reading of some letters from the fields where the circle is doing some very effective work both at home and abroad. There was some excellent cornet and piano selections by the two young sons of Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Young, and Mr. Johnson played several fine selections on his violin, accompanied by Miss Moles on the piano, both having the touch of experienced musicians, and edifying their listeners with their excellent rendering. Light refreshments were served. Many pleasant acquaintances were formed and altogether it was as pleasant a gathering as one could wish to attend.

Sunday School Convention

The Wayne county Sunday school Association held its annual convention in the Methodist church at Winside October 29th and 30th, and every session was of special interest. State workers, Prof. H. M. Steidley and Miss Mina Stooker, were present to give most helpful instruction on every phase of Sunday school work, and they were ably assisted by Rev. Chas. N. Lewis of Lincoln in address and Bible teaching. F. H. Jones of Wayne, county president, was in the chair and E. B. Young, county missionary, also of Wayne, acted as secretary.

There were ten schools represented by delegates, forty-one in all. Local workers also had a part in the program, and the choir and pastor of the church, and the people of Winside did everything possible to make the visitors have a pleasant time and succeeded. Carroll was selected as the place for holding the next convention, and the officers chosen were Chas. S. Debe, president; O. A. King, vice-president; F. H. Jones, secretary and treasurer; Prof. E. P. Wilson, Supt. of teacher training; Mrs. C. A. Grothe, Supt. Home department; Miss Mary Mason, Supt. of Elementary department; Mrs. Geo. Yaryan, Supt. Temperance department; Rev. A. W. Ahrendts, Supt. of Adult department; Rev. C. J. Ringer, Supt. of Pastors department. Wayne county was the banner county last year, having fulfilled every requirement. The pledges and offerings amounted to $39.87.

A Gay Old Girl

The theatrical event of the season will be the management of Mr. Reginald Poole, the prince of comedians, in "A Gay Old Girl," a screaming farce comedy in three acts. This attraction comes to the Wayne Opera House, Monday November 9th, with the original company, carrying their own special scenery, electrical effects and offering for the first time outside the larger cities the original pony ballet, recitations and the Sheath Gown girls.

Remember the date, Monday, November 9th. Prices 25c, 35c and 50c. Seats now on sale at usual place.

WILL SEEK NORTH POLE.

Norwegian Expedition Prepares to Drift Five Years If Necessary.

Definite plans have been drawn up for a Norwegian north pole expedition under the leadership of Amundsen, who took the first ship through the northwest passage...

The central idea is Nansen's but the lesson of the explorer's voyage led to the conclusion that a vessel entering the ice considerably nearer the point where the Fram was not frozen in would probably drift farther north and be carried over close to the pole.

Amundsen proposes to enter the north polar zone through the Behring strait and fasten his ship in the ice northwest of Point Barrow, the most northerly point in Alaska. He is prepared to drift for five and possibly six years.

Elect to Shoot at Targets.

The flagship Connecticut, the Vermont, Nebraska and Georgia, of the first squadron of the Atlantic battleship fleet, came to Manila Monday for target practice for coal and stores...

NO ACTION AGAINST CASTRO.

Time Limit in Holland's Ultimatum Expires.

The Netherlands government fixed Nov. 1 as the time for Venezuela to revoke the decree of President Castro, issued on May 14, prohibiting the trans-shipment of goods for Venezuelan ports at Curacao.

President Castro has refused to revoke this decree, but as yet so far as known the Netherlands government has not decided upon definite action. There has been much activity at Willemstad of late, but in an interview Sunday the governor of Curacao said that Venezuela had not revoked the decree at the last hour of the day fixed according to the ultimatum...

The opinion is held among naval officers that no direct steps would be taken within a week.

Saturday evening the governor of Curacao received an important telegram from Holland and he immediately called a meeting of his council and the commanders of the warships. The deliberations were lengthy, but the result has not been made public. The people of Curacao are confident that the ships now there will soon be reinforced.

There is no question that Venezuelans believe the Netherlands government is preparing to blockade their ports. Advice received by the steamer Europa, from Caracas, state that it was reported on Oct. 24 that President Castro had ordered the mobilization of 50,000 troops to be ready Nov. 2.

TOO OLD TO WORK.

San Francisco Vegetarian, Aged 112, Applies for Charity.

Forced to apply for charity after he had added a dozen years to his record as a centenarian, Capt. G. Ed. Diamond, well known in San Francisco and Oakland, Cal., as a lecturer on health topics and publisher of a pamphlet on vegetarianism, Monday appeared at the emergency hospital in San Francisco and asked to be admitted to the county poor farm.

The man with 112 years in his credit was in the shadow of Plymouth Rock in 1798 and he recalls well the expedition against the Barbary pirates, the war of 1812 and other facts that the grandfathers of the present generations have not remembered since their school days. He embraced the vegetarian diet in the spring of 1828, he says, and he is a strong advocate of the turnip and the onion. He still walks with considerable sprightliness, although he guards against falls with a heavy stick.

GAS MAIN BURSTS.

Three Towns Supplied from Kansas Left Without Light or Heat.

The main line of the Kansas Natural Gas company, which supplies gas to consumers between the gas fields at Independence and the cities of Atchison, Kan., and St. Joseph, Mo., which furnishes all the gas used in the two latter towns burst three miles north of Leavenworth Sunday afternoon. The pressure was the cause of the break.

The accident left the towns of Lawrence, Atchison and St. Joseph completely without gaslight and heat over Sunday, but the break was soon repaired.

Rescued Crew of Burning Ship.

The crew of the schooner Lullie L. Pollard, of Philadelphia, was brought to port in New York Sunday by the steamer Admiral Selley, having been rescued at sea from their burning vessel. The Pollard, bound from Fennandina for Philadelphia with a cargo of gas company, which supplies gas to fumes caused an explosion following the striking of a match by the steward.

Is Shot Down in His Cell.

A mob of thirty masked men attacked the Roane county jail at Kingdon, Tenn., and killed George Cook, held on the charge of murdering John King. It is presumed the men intended to hang Cook, as they had ropes in their possession, but when his cell was reached he offered resistance and was rescued by a mob, whereupon the invaders quickly shot Cook dead.

Tragedy at Football Game.

Cadet G. Coog Ferabee, a son of G. B. Ferabee, of Norfolk, Va., died from concussion of the brain due to an injury in a game of football between Virginia Military Institute and Roanoke college, played at Lexington, Va., Saturday afternoon. The score at the end of the first half stood: Virginia Institute, 67, Roanoke college, 0. The second half was not played.

Julia A. Curjey, Poetess, Dead.

Mrs. Julia A. Curjey, author of "Little Drops of Water" and various popular poems and hymns, died at Galesburg, Ill., Sunday after a long illness. She was born in Lancaster, Mass., on April 6, 1823.

Fatal Political Fight.

In a political quarrel at Foraker, Okla., Frank S. Seward, a prominent hardware merchant and local democratic committeeman, shot and killed John Millam, a well known farmer of Pawhuska, Okla. The shooting occurred in Seward's store. The men became engaged in a heated political debate. Suddenly Seward drew his revolver and fired five shots into Millam's head.

Fatal Duel in Kentucky.

A double tragedy occurred at Holdersburg, in the county, Ky., Sunday. Ephraim Angel and Harve Ross engaged in a duel and Angel was shot and killed and Ross was so badly injured that he is not expected to recover.

MRS. WILLIAM ASTOR DEAD.

Aged New York Society Leader Passes Away.

Mrs. William Astor, who for thirty years has been regarded as the social leader of New York, died Friday night of heart disease at her home in Fifth avenue. For nearly four weeks Mrs. Astor, who was 82 years old, had been in a critical condition owing to the return of a heart affection that had given her trouble for years. There is not a name in the social register so well known as that of Mrs. Astor. Despite her advanced age she continued to hold social domination up to a year ago, when failing health compelled her to retire into comparative seclusion.

It was in the summer of 1907 that Mrs. Astor's friends learned of her ill health. While she was abroad last year her son, Capt. John Jacob Astor, made the summer home of Mrs. Astor at Newport, would not be opened, and this led to the discovery that she was in poor health. Word came later from Mrs. Astor, while she was in Paris, saying that she would open her Newport villa after all and that she would make the season. This promise was not fulfilled, however, for when she came back from abroad she broke down in Boston and had to return to New York. She had remained at her home ever since.

The society functions given and presided over by Mrs. Astor have gone down into history as among the most brilliant on record. It is said that the ball room in the mansion in Fifth avenue will accommodate 1,000 people. It was Mrs. Astor who established the famous "400," her visiting list being confined to that number of names. In 1905, however, she was said to have "let the bars down" when she invited 1,200 persons to one of the most memorable social events ever given in New York.

Mrs. Astor received her guests at these gatherings seated in a high back chair beneath a portrait of herself painted by Carolus Duran. The Astor jewels were worn by her on these occasions. It is said the Astor emeralds are the finest in the world.

HIDE ON BURNING SHIP.

Passengers and Crew of a Steamer Have Thrilling Experience.

The steamer S. V. Luckenbach, from New York to San Juan, arrived at San Juan Thursday night with a fire in her hull burning. All her passengers and crew were well. The fire was discovered the morning of Oct. 26, when the vessel was 680 miles south of Sandy Hook. The passengers were at once awakened and the small boats brought out, provisioned and made ready to lower away in case it should become necessary to abandon the steamer.

The steamer Philadelphia was soon sighted and the plight of the Luckenbach reached here. The heat and smoke from the fire forced the passengers to withdraw from the cabins, and temporary cots and eating tables were placed on the promenade deck for them. The passengers behaved well and adopted resolutions congratulating Capt. McLean and the crew upon their brave conduct.

ANOTHER BOMB FOR GAMBLERS.

Police Mystified by Repeated Raids on Chicago Joints.

Another bomb, the twenty-fourth in the series which have been directed against alleged gambling resorts, was exploded in Chicago Friday night in the rear of a saloon owned by F. F. Brennan, in Cottage Grove avenue. Windows were shattered and the whole neighborhood was startled. For months the police and public have been mystified by the bomb hurler, who inspite of all sorts of ruses and traps laid to catch him has invariably escaped.

WHITMORE PROVES ALIBI.

New Jersey, Man Accused of Wife Murder Acquitted.

After being out two hours the jury in the case of Theodore Whitmore, of Jersey City, N. J., on trial for the murder of his wife, whose battered body was found on Dec. 26 of last year in a swamp near Harrison, N. J., Friday night returned a verdict of not guilty. Whitmore's defense was an alibi, which he was able to establish by a number of witnesses who testified to having seen him in New York at the time of the commission of the crime in New Jersey.

Whitmore was much affected by the verdict. As the foreman made known the decision he threw his arms around his attorney and affluently kissed him.

OFFICIAL IN HASTY FLIGHT.

Messervy Justice of Peace Fleighted by Mob.

In order to save his life, which he believed to be in danger from the assault of a mob of hoodlums which attacked his residence by breaking through the windows and hurling stones and sticks against the house and shouting vile language, Justice J. J. Stauffer, of Messervy, made his escape through a rear exit in his dressing gown and slippers and was driven three miles to the home of John Luche, his father-in-law. Thinking that he was still in danger there, he walked with no shirt or footwear than his slippers three miles farther to Thornton, where he remained till the trouble had quieted down and he thought it safe to return.

The outbreak was the result of the recent action of a Mason City justice, court, in which Mayor Fischer, Town Marshall Lewis Jones, J. Wilson and J. C. Brown were held to the grand jury for alleged conspiracy, and W. P. Van der Zalm, Robert Goboll and J. J. Wilson, who were connected with the affair, of possessing an officer in his endeavor to execute a writ of attachment against J. C. Brown's household goods, for which the mayor and two others were found guilty.

"Fang him" "Tar and feather him" and other violent language was used by members of the mob with their showers of stones. The attack came late in the evening, when most people of Messervy had retired. Justice Stauffer has been very active for the past year in routing out booze joints, and is severe upon those convicted of drunk-mess. In one of his recent campaigns, a farmer $100 for coming to town, getting drunk and blaspheming on the streets.

DAIRY HERD HALF CONDEMNED.

Sixty Cows Out of 111 at Mt. Pleasant Tubercular.

Assistant State Veterinarian P. J. Neiman, of Marshalltown, has just returned from Mt. Pleasant, where, in company with Veterinarians D. B. Baughman and Earl Dodge, and F. E. Parker of Oskaloosa, he has been inspecting the state's dairy herd at the state hospital for the insane, with startling results. Since the inspection and condemnation of the herd at independence hospital, the state board of control has ordered every state herd inspected, in order to weed out the dairy cattle afflicted with tuberculosis. The veterinarians have inspected 111 of the 171 herds at Mt. Pleasant, and of this number 60 head were found afflicted with tuberculosis and were condemned for dairy purposes.

GIRL DIES OF FRIGID.

Dog Playfully Set Upon Child by Neighbor Boy.

Frightened into unconsciousness by a dog which was playfully set upon her by a neighbor boy, Gertrude, the little daughter of Engineer and Mrs. John Hawker, of Creston, died at an early hour Saturday morning. The fright took place several days ago and developed into brain fever from which she rapidly grew worse until the end. Her little brother, who was held by the time, in a high state of nervous tension and physicians fear he is developing the same condition of the brain.

WAS CRAZED FOR A BLOW.

A Burlington Football Player Committed Suicide in Hotel.

Crazed from a blow on the head received in a football game two weeks ago, Irvine Timmerman, of Burlington, journeyed to Fort Madison and committed suicide by shooting himself in a hotel. He was 19 years old. He had been acting queerly ever since the accident, but no importance was attached to his behavior. The boy had written a note to a girl friend justifying her of his proposed act, but it was received too late to interfere.

An Accident or Suicide?

Ole Olson, a young Norwegian, who has lived in this country but a few months, was found dead in his bed with the gas turned on, the door locked and the windows down. The authorities concluded that death was accidental and that he did not turn off the gas completely when he left. Others think it suicide.

INTERESTING HAPPENINGS

FROM DAY TO DAY CONDENSED FOR OUR BUSY READERS

Illinois Central is Now in Line on the Passenger Fare.

The Illinois Central has received notice from its Chicago headquarters that that road has acquiesced in the rate of one and one-half fare for round trip during the National Corn exposition in Omaha. Its rates will, like those of the Milwaukee, apply to the general Western Passenger association territory and observe what limit it will impose on the roads these cars will carry on the railroads.

Other roads are expected to announce their rates now any time. Baggage cars will be furnished by the railroads coming into Omaha to bring exhibits to the National Corn exposition free of charge and those who desire to send exhibits will be notified as to the limits these cars will carry on the railroads.

This arrangement was announced Wednesday by the corn show management, which has had the matter up with various railroads for some time. The first railroad to agree to furnish the cars was the Chicago Great Western, General Passenger Agent J. P. Fisher writing as follows: "We are permitted by law to move exhibits for fairs and expositions and we, shall, therefore, take great pleasure in arranging baggage cars as you request."

Other railroads have been quick to follow and before the end of the week all roads are expected to furnish the cars, which means much to both exhibitors and the corn exposition. The plan is to have cars at all county seats in the states which will exhibit at the show in Omaha. Exhibitors need only express their corn, wheat, oats, alfalfa or other exhibits to the nearest point where the baggage car stops to have the exhibits brought to Omaha without charge.

The exhibition will furnish an attendant with each baggage car, who will be in charge from the starting place of the car until it gets to Omaha, seeing that the exhibits are properly handled. This insures the exhibits arriving in Omaha in the best possible condition and in good time.

DISMEMBERED BODY IS FOUND.

Evidently That of a Woman About 20 Years of Age.

All Governor of Dry Valley, was in Ansley Monday and in speaking of the finding of a human arm under a bridge last Friday said that the arms, legs and head had been found and that the parts already found indicated a young woman about 20 years old, that the head had been about seven days. The rumor is that the head has been identified. The arm was found under a bridge last Friday morning by John Govier, a brother of All Govier. Over 100 men were on the ground Sunday searching for the balance of the body. Great excitement prevails. Nothing has developed to indicate the identity of the victim.

SAUND COVERED HEAD WHEN ABSCONDING.

Life Had Left Her.

Caught in a big "cave-in" at a high sand bank where her brothers had gone for a load of sand, little 4-year-old Milla Dames was buried four feet deep by the cave-in. After a long search the child was rescued there was a little gasp of breath as the air left her lungs, but the little girl was dead. When the sand bank came over the little girl she was deeply covered with the sand, while the two boys narrowly escaped with their lives. They had to go a mile and a quarter for help.

PLAGUE OF LOCUSTS.

Vast Areas in South America Are Being Ravaged by Them.

Vast regions in South America are being devastated by locusts. This is the third successive season in which they have appeared in countless swarms and every vestige of vegetation on which turtle and sheep exist is being destroyed. The countries chiefly affected are Argentina, Bolivia, southern Brazil, Paraguay and Uruguay. In these countries the swarms have been steadily increasing for a number of years. They are supposed to originate in the southern part of the Amazon basin and in the Chaco of Bolivia and of northern Argentina. They had come from the north in clouds that sometimes darkened the sun and some of the swarms have been estimated to be 60 miles long and from 12 to 15 miles wide. But these billions of flying insects are only the forerunners of the greater mischief to come.

They make desolate the area in which they settle, but often jump wide areas in their flight. Before they take to the wing they lay billions of eggs in the warm earth which in a few weeks become hoppers. It is this young, voracious brood, before it can fly, that utterly strips the land of everything green as though it had been burned over.

All the governments are fighting the evil. Two years ago the Argentine government organized a commission for the destruction of the locust. Last year the Argentine Congress placed $4,500,000 at the disposal of this commission. Sub-committees represent the general commission in every department exposed to these invasions and they extend from the northern limit of agriculture in the republic to the Naucuyo river, almost to Patagonia. Everything possible is done to minimize the damage.

A fine of 100 pesos is imposed upon any settler failing to report to the sub-committee in his district the presence of locust swarms or hopper eggs on his land. An organized service embracing thousands of men is in readiness at any moment to send a force to any place where danger is reported. The most effective war is waged against the young hoppers.

The official report is that as many as 52,000 hopper eggs have been counted in a space less than three and a half feet square. A prodigious number of the young insects are destroyed soon after hatching by means of sprinkling carts filled with arsenic water or other poisonous liquids. Still many of them escape and the country they cover is too vast to be entirely treated with the sprinkling process. Fortunately the young hoppers have a habit that facilitates the destruction of millions more of them. By the time they are two weeks old they have developed an enormous appetite. But they do not set out to eat up the world in thin army or scattered detachments. They collect here and there in compact masses to move forward on the food and when an army of hoppers advances from one space to another there is nothing left to eat on the ground they have deserted. They cannot fly, they move forward only from 400 to 600 feet a day.

EVANGELIST IS FINED.

Georgia Court of Appeals Affirms Former Conviction.

The Rev. Walt Holcombe, a son-in-law of the late Sam P. Jones of Cartersville, Ga., must pay a fine of $500 for using improper language in the pulpit when there were women in the congregation. The Court of Appeals this week affirmed the verdict of the lower court. In affirming the conviction the Court of Appeals said: "It was not the ribaldry of some low-grade comedian in a second-class theater; it was the indecent jest of a minister of the gospel, made in a house devoted to the services of God, in the presence of some 3,000 worshippers, aimed at a female member of the congregation whose excess of adipose happened to excite his attention."

Helin's Greatest Discovery.

A summary of the important discoveries made by Sven Helin, the Swedish explorer, during his latest journey into the forbidden land of Tibet, according to a Simla interview telegraphed to the London Times, is as follows: He found the two sources of several important rivers, including the Brahmaputra and Indus, and rediscovered the Pamir Knot, which had been before his time by a European. That his greatest discovery was that of a continuous mountain chain which, taken as a whole, is the most massive range on the earth's surface. Although its peaks are from 4,000 to 5,000 feet lower than Mount Everest its passes average 3,000 higher than those of the Himalayan range. Not a tree or a bush grows on this range and there are no deep cut valleys, for rain is scarce. Helin proposes to call this range the Trans-Himalaya. At first the explorer tried to conceal his identity from the Tibetan and Chinese officials, but when discovered he boldly dared them to harm him, at the same time warning them that they would be made to suffer if they did so.

Oil Trust Enters Steel.

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Colorado Fuel and Iron Company it was announced that a policy of expansion had been decided upon which would enable the company to supply most of the railroad equipment west of the Missouri river. At the same time the company had withdrawn from the contract of the Dakota, now holding in that regard that John D. Rockefeller had been asked to name the managers. This is taken to mean that the oil trust is about to wage battle with the steel trust.

"You mean the 'Broadway' New...
York?" he was asked when he said said

New York was the cause of it all.

"I mean the 'Broadway, New York,'... he answered, quietly. "I mean the gorgeous hotels and restaurants, the bars, gambling houses, the myriad of theaters, palatial apartment houses, turning... night into day. I mean the flood of money in New York upon which this... life is borne along, the craving for vast incomes by which alone such a life can... be lived.

TWO PACIFIC PIRATES.

Belgian and Boy Forced Captain and...
Mate to Walk the Plank.

G. C. Alexander, acting Attorney...
General for the Fiji Islands, is on his way to Callao, Peru, where he expects... to file up a story of piracy that will rival the daring deeds on the Spanish...

Main. Two men, J. Morelman, a

Belgian, and T. Skerret, are being held... in Serbia on the usual charge of piracy, and it is alleged they forced the... captain and mate of the schooner Neureigne to walk the plank. Then they... changed the name of the vessel to White Rose and sailed the South Seas... until they were washed on a reef on

Atampana Lagoon, in the Gilbert Islands group, where the stolen ship now... lies, high and dry.

According to the story the ship sailed... from Callao last November with a crew of four men, the captain and the mate... being Italians. Skerret, who seeks to throw the blame on his companion, says... that after two days out, Morelman attacked the Italians with a meat chopper and chased them to the rigging.

affair has been kept quiet.

During the sessions of the British...
Clerical Congress at London Socialism was the leading topic of discussion and... the trend of the talk was distinctly pro-fore-able. The archbishop of Melbourne... told of the good effects of collectivist socialism in Australia and the Rev. Alphonse West declared that since Socialism was bound to come it would be so... much the worse for the church and the nation if Socialism came without the... church.

The record for September of the Minnesota Bureau of Grain Inspection broke a record, the number of cars inspected... being almost double the number inspected in September last year. The figures... show the total number of cars inspected at 23,705, while the number for the corresponding time last year was 12,570 cars.

The largest individual day was Sept. 20... when 1,200 cars were inspected. The department attributes the excellent record... to the good roads of the country this year, early movements of grain, and top...

market prices.
