CHEER UP.

When it's cold it's good for ice;
When it's hot it's good for corn;
What we get is always nice,
Just as sure as you are born.
There's no need of feeling blue,
Happiness is in the air,
You will find that this is true.
If you'll search for it with care,
Something good is in the haul;
Something good is in the bush,
Something good just where you stand,
Something good wherever you push.
Very often we are blind;
Do not see the use of things;
What looks cruel may be kind;
Birds' great may turn to wings,
Grapes are crushed to get the wine,
Wheat is ground to get the flour;
Melting metal makes it fine;
Heating water renders power.
So just wipe that tear away;
Stop that sighing—sing a song;
Night is good as well as day—
What God does cannot be wrong.
When it's cold it's good for ice;
When it's hot it's good for corn;
What we get is always nice,
Beat the drum and blow the horn.
—George W. Crofts.

LONG TIME MARRIED.

Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Martin celebrate their Golden Wedding. The old adage has it: "Blessed is the bride whom the sun shines upon." Perhaps that is the reason why Mr. C. D. Martin and wife have lived together so happily all of the speeding years, since January 14th, 1859, when they stood together at the marriage altar and took upon themselves the solemn obligation that joined them in the holy bonds of wedlock. Be that as it may, on last Thursday, at their home in Wayne, they observed the 50th anniversary of that event which took place at Honey Creek, Wisconsin, in which state they lived until 1870 when they moved to western Iowa, coming to Nebraska in 1883, and buying a farm near Wayne, on which they resided until 1893, when they moved to their present home in Wayne, and where they have formed a large circle of acquaintances and friends, who are glad that their lives have been spared to celebrate this event. There were between forty and fifty guests present to participate in the joyous events of the day, mostly relatives and intimate friends. Those out of town were a daughter, Mrs. Richmond of Exeter, Nebraska; Miss Westfall, a sister of Mrs. Martin, from Stanton, Neb., and Mr. and Mrs. C. G. McLeod, of Stanton, Neb. The gifts included Haviland Sugar bowl and pitcher from A. J. Laughlin and wife; gold gravy ladle from C. R. Witter and wife; China plate from John Soules and wife; China plate from grandma Davies; embroidered doilie from grandma Gildersleeve; and $29 in gold from other Wayne friends. T. O. Martin and family gave $15 in gold; Geo. McLeod and wife, Long Beach, California $10 in gold; H. B. McLeod Long Beach, California $5 in gold; Charles McLeod and wife Stanton, Neb., $5 in gold; O. C. Westfall, Amsterdam, New York, $5 in gold; Mr. Decker, Clarence, Iowa, gold plated mantle clock; Mrs. Brink, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, two silver spoons with name and year engraved on them; F. C. Dinmore and wife, Denver, Colorado, gold souvenir spoon; S. H. Alexander and wife, Denver, Colorado, gold cream spoon, all evidences of respect and esteem and well wishes for many more years of happy married life.

I want to buy direct from the owner $0 to $20 acres of good Wayne county land. No high priced improvements. Must be worth the money and bottom price for cash. Address: giving numbers, price, descriptions, and rent values. J. W. Curry, Red Oak, Iowa, 516-4th St.

LECTURE COURSE

The Fourth Number Will be given January 28th.

On next Thursday evening, at the Wayne opera house, will occur the 4th lecture in this season's course. It is to be given by Rev. Samuel Parkes Cadman. The career of Dr. Cadman in America is a phenomenal one. He is a graduate of Richmond College, London, England, and became a pastor in New York City in 1891. For six years he had charge of the Metropolitan Temple there and in the fall of 1900 he was called to his present position as pastor of the Central Congregational Church, Brooklyn, perhaps the strongest church of its order in the world today.

The principal universities, colleges and lyciums of the United States of America and Canada have heard him with delight and profit, and he is as popular beyond the Atlantic as he is among his fellow citizens of this country.

A description of Dr. Cadman's manifold gifts is almost beyond us. He must be heard to be appreciated. At his best he is a strong and peerless orator, with an amazing width of knowledge and depth of insight. The pastoral care of more than two thousand members in his church leaves him but little time to devote to the lecture platform, and these fortunate enough to secure his services will say that this fragmentary notice does him but scanty justice.

Will Corn Advance?

The vital topic of the day among farmers is the price of corn. In fact two corn-raisers who meet on the road cannot talk five minutes without asking each other's opinion on that absorbing question: "Is corn going up?" The price of corn has advanced in the past so often in the spring that many farmers are in the habit of looking forward to it; the same as they look forward to the spring raise in the rivers and to the northern flight of geese. Last year the man who braved the panic and steadfastly held to his corn till summer, reaped a rich harvest, for he obtained from twenty to thirty cents per bushel more than he could have realized had he sold in October or early November. This year, however, conditions are different. While corn is reported short in some states the demand is reported even shorter. In nearly every stock paper from Omaha, Chicago, St. Louis and Kansas City are interviews with prominent feeders from all over the corn belt. With few exceptions they all have the same story to tell, i. e., that farmers who usually feed from one to three, or four loads of cattle are not feeding this year but are holding their corn for the spring raise. Hogs, also, have been shipped very close in many sections to avoid feeding high-priced corn. While the uses to which corn may be put have multiplied in the last few years by far the largest per cent of the corn crop is fed to cattle and hogs. Since prices of any commodity are governed by the law of supply and demand to what do the above mentioned conditions point? Farmers who have expected and waited the customary rise are getting uneasy, for with the limited demand they realize that if any large proportion of corn holders should decide to cash in, the price of corn might tend downward instead of upward.

New Swindle

A new scheme is being worked on the public in this part of the state. Two men come to town and dress themselves up as farmers, secure an old scrubby team and a broken down wagon and next, they ship in a lot of packing house cured meat, and after robbing it over with wood ashes go about selling it to the people as extra fancy cured meat. They make a nice talk and ask 3 cents extra per pound because of the "extra labor" of country curing their meat. The strangest part of the swindle is that many of these so-called hams turn out to be shouldlers, which packing companies trim up to resemble hams.

Fine Violinist.

Mr. Johnson, of Wayne, the violin teacher who has been coming here for the past year or more, came down last Friday instead of Saturday his usual day of coming, as his class has grown so large that he has to devote more time to it. And as he is here over Friday night he has organized an orchestra consisting of the following: Mr. Johnson, Miss May Howard, 1st violin; Willie Kemp, 2nd violin; Mrs. F. L. Shoop, 1st cornet; Howard Shumway, 2nd cornet; Miss Hildegard Shoop, piano; F. L. Shoop, trombone. They had their first practice last Friday night at the home of F. L. Shoop. Mr. Johnson is certainly a fine violinist and instructor. —Wakefield Republican.

Worth The Money.

We don't know why so many of the papers in north-east Nebraska are kicking so hard on the proposition to have the state purchase the Nebraska Normal at Wayne and make it into a state institution. This part of the state is surely entitled to a state normal school and this being the case, why not buy Mr. Pile's school. Under the guidance of Prof. Pile the Wayne school has gained the reputation of being one of the best schools in the state. It is surely worth the money asked and if the state is to put a normal school in this part of the state we cannot see why they should not just as well invest the money in an established and meritorious institution. Randolph Reporter.

Her Impressions

After the reading of the reports, Mrs. J. M. Pile was introduced and gave an entertaining and instructive address on her impressions of the British Isles as acquired during her recent trip across the ocean. She was one of 500 teachers who were delegated by the government to inspect the schools of Great Britain. She said that the one thing that impressed her more deeply than anything else was the great respect which the people of that country entertain for Americans. This sentiment was manifest not only among the older people but among the children everywhere. In speaking of the conditions there Mrs. Pile stated that while she did not know as they had any better laws than the United States they were more strictly enforced. —Madison Chronicle.

Men and Horses

You can invariably judge the character of a man by the way he treats his horses. If you see a teamster whose horses are shod with good, sharp shoes, and who carefully covers their steaming backs with blankets when the animals are standing patiently at the post, you may safely infer that there is a man who is kind to his family, who is honest with his neighbors and who has a better chance for Heaven than the rich man who opens wide his purse or pays loudly from the house tops. Not all men who neglect their horses are extremely bad citizens, but the treatment of an animal is so excellent an index to human character that the study of men in their relation to horses becomes a topic of more than common interest. —Lincoln Star.

A Peculiar Railway Rate.

Just why flour and grain should be shipped cheaper from Minneapolis and Chicago than to these points, is causing the milling interests of this state no little concern. The millers claim that the rate is detrimental to the milling interests of this state and is partial to those of the north. The reason for the rate, as claimed by the railroad officials, is that many more cars are shipped to the northern points than are shipped the other way. Thus it is beneficial for the roads to give a smaller rate from Chicago here than the other way. The interstate commerce commission sanctioned the policy of the railroads, according to the assertions of local shippers. The Nebraska millers are claiming that they have to compete with Minnesota flour in this state when they cannot do so in the northern states on account of the difference in the rate. In other words, the millers believe that there is something materially wrong with the reasoning of the commerce commission. They assert that the commission has been flimflammed by the railroad officials.

SEARCHES ROOM OF A HEARST ATTORNEY IN GUTHRIE.

Valuable Data Is Seized—Scott Mac Reynolds Charged with Conspiracy Papers in Sheriff's Hands—Declarer He Has Been Victim of Spies

On a warrant sworn out by Gov. Haskell, charging conspiracy to defeat the governor, Scott Mac Reynolds, attorney and special agent for William E. Hearst, was arrested Monday night at Guthrie, Okla. Armed with a search warrant, also sworn to by Gov. Haskell, Mac Reynolds' rooms at the Ione hotel were searched by Sheriff John Mahoney and Orville T. Smith, private attorney to the governor, and a large amount of data and papers seized pertaining to the $600,000 libel suit instituted by Hearst against Mr. Hearst.

Mac Reynolds immediately demanded of the county court through his counsel, Judge John H. Burford, the whereabouts of his papers. They were found in the private office of the governor and taken over by Sheriff Mahoney at the court's orders.

Mac Reynolds had collected a vast amount of data, all secured in confidence. In a statement made Monday night, he declared that Gov. Haskell's purpose in obtaining his arrest and seizure of his papers was to obtain possession of this information to ascertain its importance and to learn from whom he had obtained it.

Mrs. A. A. Beard, treasurer of the Children's Hospital association at Denver, Colo., a society leader, prominent in the American Revolution and a Colorado native, is a confessed embezzler of nearly $2,000 of the hospital association.

She not only admits the charges but takes the matter with considerable coolness. She says she took the money and "just simply spent it." She makes no further explanation to Chief of Police Armstrong, who quizzed her thoroughly. The embezzlement was not a matter of impulsive whimsy.

Her method was deliberate. She kept her bank accounts and so jugged the money that the auditing committee was fooled.

UNDER A NEW FLAG.

Self Government Again to Be Conferred on Cuba.

On January 28 at noon the Cuban people will come into their own for the second time at the hands of the American government. It was on May 20, 1902, that the American flag, hoisted after the war with Spain, was hauled down in favor of the blue striped, single starred ensign of Cuba.

Then in September, 1906, a company of marines landed at the palace from the United States cruiser Denver and halted a victorious revolutionary army on the outskirts of Havana, and American intervention, which first came against a foreign power, was once more a reality, this time to set things right among the Cubans themselves.

The members of the Cuban congress had become indifferent and for months prior to the revolution it had been impossible to secure the attendance of a quorum. This necessitated government by presidential decree and it was quickly followed by the cry that President Palma was usurping the power and asserting the right of dictation.

The American provisional governor, Charles F. Magoon, says it was impossible for him to prevent a recurrence of this state of affairs only by decreasing that of congressmen who do not attend the sessions shall not receive pay. These rules, however, have already been declared dictatorial and irksome by the congressmen, and an attempt undoubtedly soon will be made to repeal or to amend them.

The congressmen also are even now discussing an increase in their salaries from $300 to $400 a month, although the Cuban constitution, like that of the United States, declares that an increase in salary shall be effective only by congress amending the law.

The liberal party, which claims to be the party of the common people, goes into power as the result of an almost unanimous ballot, its overwhelming success at the polls being one of the points for the belief that Cuba is about to enter into a period of long contentment.

Most of the newspapers say the majority of the people are deeply mollified that the intervention became necessary, and urge the politicians of all parties to remember the mistakes of the past and to do nothing that would make another and longer intervention possible.

Mrs. Gen. Jose Miguel Gomez, the new president, has declared that although the conservative party voted in the recent election was almost nothing, that party shall have 30 per cent of the appointive offices.

NEW JUDGES.

Gov. Shaubertberger Appoints Three Men to Supreme Bench.

Gov. Shaubertberger Saturday afternoon appointed the following supreme judges: John J. Sullivan of Omaha, Judge of Courts; and Jesse L. Root of Platteville, and James W. Fawcett of Omaha, and S. A. Hocomb of Broken Bow, for the one-year terms.

These appointments were made immediately after the governor issued his proclamation declaring the constitutional amendment voted on at the last election applied in accordance with the canvass made by the state legislature in joint session last week. This canvass was made upon a printed abstract of the vote certified by the secretary of state as being "practically" a copy of the original abstracts on file in his office.

Secretary of State J. A. Smith refused to sign the proclamation of the governor, as is customary, so it was filed without being attested.

The new judges are to take the places of the judges appointed by Gov. Sheldon, who acted upon the canvass of the vote of the people at an amendment made by the state canvassing board.

SOLVES TRAMP PROBLEM.

Lodging, but No Food and Chance to Walk Out of Town.

The Ashland authorities have devised a method of dealing with the city of tramps that has proven successful beyond all expectations. Until about a month ago the town was overrun with tramps, as many as six to ten being nightly lodged in the local jail. It had been customary to turn them loose every morning, allowing them to beg from door to door for breakfast. Now, however, the tramps are provided with accommodations in the jail, which is heated but are given no food or water and are not released until the afternoon following the night of their incarceration. They are then marched to the city limits and told to keep moving. Within ten days after this rule was put in effect tramps were no longer a wide berth, and in the last three weeks there has not been one tramp seen in the town.

BIGGEST JAP IN AMERICA

Mr. Owan Many Stores and a Large Shingle Mill in Oregon. The wealthiest Japanese in the United States, is in Denver for the week, says the Denver Post. Mr. Ban Owan stores in Denver, Portland (Ore.), Sheridan (Wyo.), Salt Lake and two in Japan, one of these being one of the largest in Tokio. In addition he has extensive timber interests and a large shingle mill in Oregon.

Twenty-one years ago Mr. Ban came to the United States. He was wealthy in Japan, and says that he came to the United States as a place where money could be made rapidly.

"The United States is a wonderful country for any race," said he. "It is the country of opportunities. I have worked hard since I have been in this country and I have been rewarded for my Japanese."

The Japanese who come to this country come here to work. You will never find Japanese vagrants. In the last two years Japanese farmers have been coming over to this country and a great many of them have come to Colorado. There are, I am told, more than 30,000 acres in Colorado cultivated by Japanese. One owns a farm of 2,500 acres near Sterling and other own lands, varying from a few acres up to 400 acres. These farmers paid their own way from Japan; that is, they were not brought over by any company or colonization agent.

"This immigration, however, as is at present, is retarded now by the Japanese government and extreme care is being exercised in my country in issuing passports."

The Resigned Old Worker. The "birds" was looking over his shoulder when he met the venger. That morning he had sung the Benedicite. The venger said: "This morning I followed the Benedicite closer than usual, and they mentioned all things but the venger."

Sincerely, said the venger, smilingly, they mention all green things upon the earth. (Illustrated Bits)

The writer of that piece on flying is accused of plagiarism, he said. "It's awful," she exclaimed, "the way these men go about the country marrying innocent women! Wipe your microscope clean."

How the Trouble Started. The hen had just crossed the road. "I had no particular reason for crossing," she said, "but I thought I'd like to see how many fools would ask why I did it."

CHAPTER XI.

Manwood owned a garden of very tolerable dimensions, but it was already crowded when the Merle and their appearance at the table on Thursday afternoon. The lawn was covered by gayly dressed people; (certain had not yet begun, but the band was playing. As soon as Alison had greeted her hostess she looked round anxiously for Anna. She had no desire to linger beside Mrs. Harwick; she desired to see the grounds of Manwood already in search of her friend, Miss Harwick came up to them in company with a tall, dark man.

"Mabel, dear," she said, almost ignoring Alison, "I must introduce Tony to you—my cousin, Captain Harper. Tony, this is my special friend, and I shall expect you to pay her a great deal of attention, on my behalf."

"Is this another special friend of yours, Eva?" he observed, twisting his mustache and looking full at her as he spoke. Miss Harwick made the introduction somewhat reluctantly. Alison bowed a little haughtily; she was not prepossessed with Captain Harper's appearance, and she detested him as she detested the man who seemed about to speak to her, but she turned suddenly to Miss Harwick.

"I do not see your sister," she said, in a low voice. "Oh, I fearfully not," she answered, carelessly. "I never knew Anna ever ready for anything she is not half dressed, I suppose. Now, Tony, you must take Mabel for your partner in the first set, and Edgar Dawson and Miss Freeman for the second."

"We had better take our places then," drawled Captain Harper, and left to herself, Alison turned to Roger and asked him to walk with her to the house. "I am going in search of Anna," she said as she left him, and she asked one of the servants who was just entering the tea room to take her to Anna's bedroom. The maid looked surprised, but she put down her tray at once and preceded Alison upstairs.

"This is Miss Anna's room," she said, pointing to the door; "she is dressing, I believe. A hamper of flowers came, and she has only just finished arranging them."

"I don't say I shall be able to help her," returned Alison, knocking at the door. "My dear child," exclaimed Alison, in a surprised voice, as she entered, "why you have not begun to dress? Why you are standing at the window in her gray gown, evidently watching the gray scene, but the tears were rolling down her cheeks."

"Oh, I kissed her," she sobbed as Alison entered the room. "It is so late, and I am so tired; Eva said the flowers must be done, and I have only just finished them. I saw Mr. Roger and you and Mabel come in, and I did so long to come out, but now I am just tired out, and I can't do anything more."

"You will be cheer up directly, and I am going to stop and help you," returned Alison, brightly. "But the other eyes with some eau-de-cologne and water; I will be back in a moment." And running downstairs Alison made her way into the tea room, and after a few words with the good-natured maid she had already accosted, she was soon provided with a cup of coffee and some delicious looking cake.

"Now you are to leave off crying and take those good things I have brought you," said Alison, and then she will help you to dress. You are tired and worried, but the coffee will refresh you. But Anna's answer was a fresh burst of tears, as she threw her arms round her neck.

If my sister looked as dowdy as Anna generally does, the afternoon passed like a happy dream to her. (She played another game with Roger, who seemed bent on having her for a partner; and afterward, when Alison had succeeded in shaking off Captain Harper by infusing into her manner a fine degree of girlish hauteur and coolness not easily to be mistaken, the three sat together, passing kindly remarks on the rest of the company.)

By the crowning happiness of the afternoon, Anna was when Miss Harwick addressed her in the condescending manner of one who confers a benefit. "You have not been to see us lately," she said, quite graciously. "I was told by the captain that you sometimes come to talk to Alice." And after this Anna's cup of joy seemed overflowing.

"Thank you, Mabel dear, for what you have said to me," said Alison, gratefully, as she left the grounds of Manwood. "Oh, of course, I gave Eva a place of my mind. She is always so reasonable and sweet-tempered that I never have any difficulty. Anna may come to The Holms as often as she likes. Then, with a perceptible effort to seem at her ease, she continued hurriedly: "Eva is going to bring her cousin to afternoon tea to-morrow. I hope it will be fine, and then we can sit on the table under the lime trees, and I will be able to see you."

"Do you mean Captain Harper is coming?" returned Alison. "Oh, Mabel! how could you ask him? I am sure papa will not be pleased. I do not like him at all; his manners are so artificial and disagreeable."

"It is a pity you did not stop at Riverston," she returned, in an injured voice. "For none of our Chesterton folk, with the exception of that stupid Anna, seem good enough for you. I think Captain Harper is a very nice man, and you ought to be pleased with him unless you set him against the poor fellow." And here Miss Harwick decidedly crossed.

"You may be sure that I shall say nothing to papa," replied Alison, with so much dignity that Miss Harwick was silenced. But she was terribly annoyed all the same, and took Roger into her confidence, exacting from him a promise that he would be present at all risks.

"Perhaps I am wrong," she remarked, candidly. "I am always so ready with my likes and dislikes. But I can not bear Captain Harper, and it is odious to me to part for his room set at rest. The party from Manwood, including Anna, had not long been gathered under the lime trees before Mr. Merle made his appearance, greatly to her delight and Miss Harwick's discomfiture. Alison never found out if Roger had betrayed her trust and given his father warning of the expected guest. But there was no mistaking the coolness of his manner to Captain Harper. That unlucky individual was clearly not at his ease, and certainly no inducement was held out to him to repeat his visit.

As soon as the unwelcome visitor had departed Mr. Merle expressed himself as much displeased to find Captain Harper there, indeed, his severity quite overwhelmed Miss Harwick, and she retired in floods of tears. "Papa is never angry with me," she sobbed; "this must be your fault, Alison. You have come home to stir up strife and turn papa against me."

"Don't be absurd, Mabel," returned Alison, a little crossly. "You have brought it all on yourself. Papa seems angry with me, and you know I am not at all in fault. I don't do wrong, and you must bear to be scolded. Papa says he is quite shocked at our forwardness. You see, he blames me, too. He says no one but himself or Roger ought to invite gentlemen to the house, and Miss Leigh says the same. He told me after you left the room that he would take care that Captain Harper should not repeat his visit, as he was not the sort of man whose acquaintance he could approve for his daughters."

Miss Harwick dissolved into fresh tears on hearing this. "I am sure it is not papa's real opinion," she persisted in saying. "But don't let him try to tempt you. He will quarrel with me about every trifling; but it takes two to quarrel properly, and I do not mean to take up the cudgels to please you." And here she gave her a playful shake, that so astonished Miss Harwick that she speedily grew more amiable, and her temper had never been so set aside before.

Roger had been looking very worried and careworn for some days, and Alison was afraid from her father's grave face and silence with his son, that things had gone wrong again at the mill, and that, as usual, the blame had been laid on Roger. She was waiting for an opportunity to speak to him, for his engagements had taken him out several nights, when one evening she met him as she was returning from the town.

has been troubling you for the last few days," she said. "Something has happened, very wrong, you know, but I don't know what it is. I have been terribly afraid all the week, and yesterday you were too worried to take me into your company; dear, perhaps I could find some way of helping you."

"I wish you could, Alice," he returned, sadly. "I wish I could see a way out of our terrible difficulties. Promise me you will be as secret as a statue, and I will tell you a little of what has happened."

"Oh, you may trust me," she replied, lifting her honest brown eyes to his face. "I believe I may, and it will be a relief to speak. Alice, Ferguson is going to the bank. I am convinced in my own mind that he has tampered with the accounts; we shall come to a crash directly."

"What do you mean?" turning a little pale. Roger spoke so vehemently. "I would take too long to tell you all, but I will say the very briefest. You know my father went to Lancaster the other day. I'll check in payment for a consignment of timber was unexpectedly paid in during his absence. Of course I indorsed the check, wrote out a receipt, included it in an envelope and put it in the usual rack for postage. I then made an entry in the ledger, and was just going to lock up the book and the check in the safe, as it was nearly time for closing, when after the first cessation of the machinery told me some accident had happened, and of course I ran out of the office; and so did Ferguson, our manager."

"Oh, I know! when poor Mitchell was hurt," returned Alison, with a shudder. "I remember seeing both you and Mr. Ferguson standing bare headed among the men in the yard; you were sending Timothy for a doctor."

"Yes; I was detained for nearly half an hour. Ferguson must have gone back to the office—at least I think he had not the first few minutes. When they had taken Mitchell and the hospital I went back to lock up things for the night. Ferguson was just coming out of the office and handed me the keys. Everything was locked up, he said, and the messenger had fetched the letters. I had put the check into my father's private drawer and had locked the drawer, but the ledger had been left open on the table, with my entry written on the top of a blank page. I had noticed the page was a little loose, as though the corresponding one had been cut out some time previously, but I was in a hurry, and I thought it did not matter. I locked up Ferguson told me everything was locked up for the night, and handed me the office keys, to take them. Alice, what do you suppose my feelings were when you opened the private drawer the next morning and there was no check there? Neither was my entry in the ledger; the loose page was gone, and to add to my perplexity, the firm who had paid in the check wrote to complain that there had been no acknowledgment or receipt; and yet I had written both myself and placed the stamped envelope among the other letters."

AS TO A CAREER IN SCIENCE. Excellent Opportunities for Young Men but No Great Money Reward. The members of the Illinois State Academy of Sciences recently discussed the opportunities for young men to earn a living in various branches of science. On the whole, they think the opportunities are excellent, though they offer nothing great in the way of financial compensation.

John G. Coulter, the well-known professor of botany, said that the demand for trained botanists exceeds the supply. The most extensive employer of young botanists in this country is the United States government. The bureau of the Department of Agriculture are not yet able to obtain all the men they need adequately trained in the various branches of botany, say the New York Sun.

The market for teachers of botany is brisk and good teachers who are doctors of philosophy in botany command beginning salaries which average about 50 per cent more than those offered eight years ago.

There is a fine field for botanists in the Philippines, where a trained man is wanted in every province to take charge of the educational side of botany, especially from the standpoint of agricultural science.

COMMERCIAL AND FINANCIAL

CHICAGO.

Heavy financial operations incident to the January settlements and the annual elections made busy times at the banks. A lower commercial mortality again appears and credit conditions gather strength, although liquidation is not yet at all quiet. Severe weather interrupted outdoor construction and crop market prices, but stimulated the demand for winter apparel, food supplies and fuel. The leading industries progress steadily as expected, new demands for raw materials and finished products yet showing conservatism, but the prospects generally brighten with the restoration of confidence. Distribution of commodities shows a gratifying recovery, absorption being much strengthened by improved purchasing power. Most markets are conspicuously clear of burdensome stocks and in some instances carry-over from last year is remarkably small. Clearance rates in the leading retail branches are well advanced, but temperatures here high in the reduction of seasonable goods. Failures reported in the Chicago district number 27, against 21 last week, 47 in 1908 and 22 in 1907. Those with liabilities of more than $5,000 number 10, against 51 last week; 19 in 1908 and 6 in 1907.—Dun's Review of Trade.

NEW YORK.

Trade during the first half of January shows expected progress. New undertakings are encouraged by the more settled policy regarding large financial and industrial affairs and ample funds are available. Leading industries gradually increase the working forces and output, and while in most lines both continue below normal, the gains established in the declining months of last year are fully maintained.

Disappointment is manifest in the iron and steel markets, demand lacking and requirements coming out in a hesitating way. Better buying was expected, owing to cheaper money and the fact that the entire country is practically bare of finished goods. Little inquiry is received from the pig-iron. Some weakness is noted in railroads, and one large block is under negotiation. Business in rails continues quiet. Wire products show the nearest approach to normal activity.—Dun's Weekly Review.

CUBANS TO MAKE LAWS

New Congress Takes First Steps Toward Restored Independence.

Although the reins of self-government will not be officially turned over to the Cuban authorities until Jan. 28, when the inauguration of President Jose Miguel Gomez and Vice President Alfredo Zayas will take place, the legislative Wednesday of the new Cuban Congress in its first session marked the beginning of the end of the second period of American intervention in the island, which began with the breaking out of the revolution in August, 1906.

Little of a public interest was manifested in the gathering of the legislators, the purpose of the meeting being merely to pass upon the credentials of members. At the Senate building the twenty-four Senators met shortly after noon and submitted their credentials. The eighty-two members of the House gathered in the new House of Representatives building, formerly the Admiralty Palace, which has been entirely reconstructed.

For the first time in the history of the republic the House enjoyed the dignity of occupying its own home, having met during the former period of independence in an old tobacco warehouse. The decree issued by Provisional Governor Magón, convoking the Congress, set a very strict requirement for the attendance of members. Neither Senators nor representatives will receive pay when absent from roll calls without leave, and neither house will be permitted to grant leaves of absence to more than one-sixth of their memberships at one time.

Bills establishing co-education and a national lottery will be among the first to be introduced.

T. J. HAINS HELD NOT GUILTY

Acquitted of Murder in Annis Case—Jury Out Twenty-two Hours. At Flushing, N. Y., Thornton Jenkins Haines, the writer, was declared not guilty as a principal with his brother, Capt. Peter C. Hains, Jr., in the killing of William E. Annis. The jury was out twenty-two hours and took fifteen ballots. Judging from the general opinion at the district attorney's office, Capt. Hains will never be brought to trial.

This is the second time T. Jenkins Hains has been acquitted of the charge of murder. Seventeen years ago he shot Edward W. Hamilton in an open boat in Hampton Roads and a jury declared he was not guilty. Jurors stated that the first ballot stood 8 to 4 for acquittal.

Officials of the district attorney's office in Queens county are quoted as saying that Capt. Hains probably will be surrendered into the care of his family or the federal government.

Under the verdict it is perfectly safe for any person who is ingenious.

WOMAN DEAD; FAMILY IS HELD

Police Say Skull Was Crushed Before Fire Was Started. Mrs. Sarah Gesterlin was found dead from burns and other injuries in her home on the Shark river shore near Asbury Park, N. J., and the county authorities are investigating the case on the theory that she was murdered. Mrs. Gesterlin's five daughters, Rose Vaughn Layton and Mrs. Mammie Gispson, together with James Layton and Edwin Hoffman are held without bail. According to statements made by the prisoners, Mrs. Gesterlin's charred body was found lying in the kitchen. Her face and breast were burned, but little of her clothing was burned, and nothing in the room took fire. According to the police, the wife's nose was broken and her skull crushed in before her clothing was set on fire.

Don Pedro's Little Joke.

Don Pedro I, Emperor of Brazil, was one of royalty's strong men. On the occasion of a carnival he arranged matters so that he was standing on the bow of the royal barge between two of his staliest courtiers.

Suddenly, in the midst of the festivities the King reached out, grasped a courtier with each hand, and, after holding them for a few moments, he sprang into the air and began to be whisked in the air and griping to be released. He relaxed his grip and allowed them to drop plump into the water, amid the frantic applause of the huge crowd that had assembled to view the monarch. The King joined heartily in the general hilarity, but when the drenched courtiers thought about this exquisite joke he is not recorded.

Where Swallows Go

The swallows all spend the winter in Central America and the south part of Mexico. They appear in the southern states as early as the middle of February, but seldom get as far north as New England until the month of May. The robins winter in the southern states and in northern Mexico. They are to be seen in flocks the winter through in the gulf states.

TOLD TO USE CUTICURA

After Suffering Failed to Cure My Itching, Hoisting Discharge, Headache, Tortured and Enraged—Had Sores, Curd of Bread, Humors. I contracted eczema and suffered intensely for about ten months. At times I thought I would scratch myself to pieces. My face and arms were covered with large red patches, so that I was ashamed to go out. I was advised to go to a doctor who was a specialist in skin diseases, but I received very little relief. I tried every known remedy, with the same results. I thought I would never get better until a friend of mine told me to try the Cuticura Remedies. I tried them, and after four or five applications of Cuticura Ointment I was relieved of my unbearable itching. I used two sets of the Cuticura Remedies, and I am completely cured. An Easy Shave

The other day a man walked into a barber's shop, deposited upon a table a number of articles which he took from a satchel, and arranged them with artistic care.

"This is pomade," said the visitor. "I am well supplied," said the barber.

"This is bear's grease."

"I am full up with bear's grease."

"Here is some fine bay rum."

"Don't doubt it, but I make my own bay rum and put on foreign labels. No body knows the difference."

"Here is some patent cosmetic for the mustache."

"I know it is for the mustache, also for the whiskers and that, but I'm thoroughly stocked and reeking with cosmetic at present."

"Here are an electric brush, a duplex elliptical hair dye, lavender water, and a patent face powder."

"I don't want any of them."

"I know you don't."

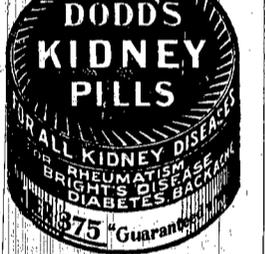

"Then why do you ask me to buy them?"

"I did not ask you to buy them. Did I say anything to you about buying them?"

"Come to think about it, you didn't. I did not come here to sell anything. I wish to let you know that I possess all the toilet articles that a gentleman has any business with. Now give me an easy shave without asking me to buy anything.—Every body's Marzani."

Claim of John Short for 90 cents filed December 2nd 1908, for a refund of recording was on motion rejected.
Comes now Frank Weible with an affidavit filed September 14, 1908, with tax receipts attached showing that for the year 1908, he paid under protest the village tax, or tax for city purposes on lots 1-2-3-4-5-9-10-11-12-13-14-19-20-21-22 of Weible's addition to Winside which tax amount to the sum of 45 cents.
Also for the year 1904 on lots 1-2-3-4-5-9-10-11-12-13-14-19-20-21, which tax amounts to the sum of 70 cents.
That for the year 1905 he was assessed with both the village tax and water bond tax on lots 1-2-3-4-5-9-10-11-12-13-14-19-20-21 Weible's add. to Winside, which tax amounts to the sum of $27.72.

That for the year 1906 he was assessed with both the village and water bond tax on lots 7-2-3-4-5-9-10-11-12-13-14-19-20 Weible's add. to Winside, which tax amounts to the sum of $1.82.
That for the year 1907 he was assessed with both the village and water bond tax on lots 1-2-3-4-5-9-10-11-12-13-14-19-20 Weible's add. to Winside, which tax amounts to the sum of $2.09.
He now asks for a refund of said taxes for the years 1903-1904-1905-1906-1907, for the reason that the said lots are not within the corporate limits of the Village of Winside, and not subject to said tax.

Comes now Mrs. G. F. Sobald and asks for a refund of taxes for the years 1903-1904-1907, amounting to the sum of $21.25-23.13-31.49 respectively, on a part of S. E. 1/4 of N. W. 1/4 of 13-26-3 which she has paid under protest for the reason that the same is too high.
The Board after due consideration rejects each and all of the accounts in said application.
Report of B. F. Feather, clerk of the district court, showing amount of fees collected by him for the quarter ending December 31st, 1908, amounted to the sum of $154.80, was on motion duly approved.
On motion the following resolutions were adopted: Resolved—
1. That the Board of Health for the county be appointed by the County Board, the same to consist of three members, one of whom shall be a practicing physician.
2. That said Board of Health be and they hereby are empowered to enforce such regulations as may be adopted by this board to prevent the introduction of contagious, infectious or malignant diseases into the unincorporated territory of the county, and to enforce quarantine rules made for that purpose by it or the board of commissioners.
3. That in case in their judgment it shall become necessary to establish a pest house, and if the pest house be established by the county board, the same shall be under the supervision of the Board of Health, and the said Board of Health shall have the power to cause such persons to be removed thereto as they may deem necessary in order to enforce the quarantine rules and prevent the introduction and spread of such contagious diseases.
4. The said Board of Health or any member thereof may enter any premises in the county not within the corporate limits of any city or village for the purpose of determining whether or not any contagious diseases exist therein and shall adopt such rules and regulations for their own control and for the carrying out and enforcement of the quarantine rules and regulations adopted by this board as in their judgment they deem necessary. They shall elect such officers from their own body as they deem necessary and shall keep a record of all of their proceedings and persons quarantined.

5. The expense of said board of health which are not properly chargeable to the persons affected with such contagious diseases, or persons occupying the premises where the same exists shall be paid from the county treasury, upon bills duly allowed, by the Board of county commissioners, in the same manner as the other indebtedness against the county.
The compensation of the members of this board of health shall be the reasonable value of their services actually rendered. They shall be allowed by the county board and paid from the county treasury in the same manner as other bills against the county.
6. The county board may at any time remove any member of said Board of health and appoint another in his place.
7. All persons who have been quarantined and the premises quarantined, shall be thoroughly fumigated in the manner provided by the rules of quarantine and adopted by this board, at the expense of such persons and the occupant of the quarantined premises and no quarantine shall be raised until such persons and premises have been thus fumigated.
Provided, that paupers and premises occupied by paupers may be fumigated at the expense of the county.
All fumigation shall be under the personal supervision of one member of the board of health, under the personal supervision of a practicing physician.
On motion the following regulations and rules for quarantine of contagious, infectious or malignant diseases were adopted.
1. Whenever, within the limits of this county, and without the corporate limits of any city or village, a person is suspected of having small pox, scarlet fever, diphtheria or other contagious disease he shall be immediately isolated within his own household as carefully as possible, and as soon as contagious disease is recognized it will be the duty of the attending physician and household to give written notice of the same to the clerk of the county, giving the name of the disease and of the family where it exists; with the number exposed and all other particulars that may be of any value.
2. The premises where above contagious disease exists shall be duly quarantined by the county Board of health through its proper officers or an appointee (a) by placing upon the house or some conspicuous point upon the premises, a placard giving the name of disease in letters not less than three (3) inches in height, (b) by a verbal or written notice to the householder to remain on the premises and in no way mingle with other persons nor allow others (except the physicians) to approach nearer than thirty (30) feet to any house or person thus quarantined. This rule to apply also in cases of exposure.
3. Such quarantine to continue until in the opinion of the medical advisor of the board of health, the last case of the disease likely to occur therein has completely recovered and is ready for disinfection, provided, however, that in cases of extreme necessity one free from disease may be released earlier after thorough disinfection of person and clothing and with a certificate from the above medical advisor.

4. The necessities of life, as often as occasion demands may be carried within thirty (30) feet of the quarantined house by a neighbor or other duly appointed messenger, but no nearer, nor shall any effects whatever be brought away from the household until thoroughly disinfected.
5. In case of death from contagious disease there shall be no public funeral and the body of the deceased shall be closely wrapped in sheets well saturated with disinfectants and closed in a tight casket, this to be again wrapped with a disinfected cloth, and in such cases the corpse shall not be carried to or near any body of people while on its way to the cemetery.
6. When in any school district or community several families—say five to eight—are infected with contagious disease, or very many exposures have occurred, the Board of Health may prohibit all gatherings of people in that community including sessions of school, until in their opinion the emergency is past.
7. All physicians should use due precaution in their visits to quarantined households to avoid the dangers of contagion to the well.
8. When in the opinion of the medical advisor of the Board of Health, quarantine can safely be raised, it shall be done with fumigation with a 40 per cent. solution of formaldehyde, using at least five ounces to each 1000 cubic feet of air space. Solution to be applied by an approved evaporation or by the sheet method. The room to be sealed at least six hours. All persons to receive a disinfecting bath and their clothing to be fumigated and the house thoroughly cleaned. This is to be done in accordance with the suggestions of the State Board of Health to physicians.
9. When in the opinion of the Board of County Commissioners a hospital is needed to which individual cases of contagious diseases may be removed, or when such method will accommodate those without homes at which less public expense or for any other reason it is deemed best, a building, slated to their needs shall be provided.
