WAYNE COUNTY IN BRIEF

A Brief Summary of Wayne and Wayne County

So far as we have been able to learn there has never been a great deal written or published regarding the early history of the town or county of Wayne, so we have thought that the following portion of the write up of the town and county in last Sunday's Omaha Daily Bee might be of interest to many of our readers. It can be cut out and pasted in a scrap book for future reference.

BEGINNINGS IN WAYNE COUNTY
The pioneer settlers of Wayne county were B. F. Whitten and Mr. Bean, who located on the Logan in the summer of 1868. William Jones followed shortly after and took up a homestead. In the same year a small colony from Illinois at the head of which was Willard Graves, entered the county and settled mostly in the southeastern corner on Coon Creek.

The first postoffice was established September 8, 1870, near the Logan bridge and called Taffe, after Hon. John Taffe, of Dakota City. William Agler was the first postmaster. First child born in the county was Patience C. Hunter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hunter, December 16, 1870. The first marriage in the county was that of Mr. T. Sperry to Miss Sarah Ann Eays May 14, 1871, and the first death that of a son of Mr. and Mrs. William Vroman, August 6, 1870. First sermon preached in the county was by Elder Vanduser of the Methodist church at the home of A. S. Miner near the Logan bridge in October, 1870. First school was taught by Miss Jane Olin in the summer of 1871, at LaPorte, the whole county then being in one school district. The first practicing physician was R. B. Crawford.

ORGANIZED UNDER GOVERNOR BUTLER

The county was organized by the proclamation of Governor David Butler, in the fall of 1870. The first election was held September 5. The electors of the county have voted bonds at different times and for different purposes. On February 24, 1874, they voted bonds for $15,000 for the purpose of building a court house. Total vote of the county was forty-seven. There were 26 for and 21 against. The next bond election was held January 18, 1876, when $80,000 in bonds were voted to aid the Covington, Columbus & Black Hills Railroad company. The bonds carried by 50 votes and 50 majority, no vote being cast against them, but they were never issued.

The Burlington and Missouri Railroad company owned originally 23,000 acres of land in this county. There was at first twenty-five sections of agricultural college land. There has never been much government homestead land in the county, as there are not more than about thirty homesteads in the county. More than one-half of the entire county was at one time owned by private parties, none of whom held for higher prices.

The village of LaPorte, formerly located seven miles southeast of the present city of Wayne, was laid out May 22, 1870, by Solon Bevins. It was located on high rolling prairie on the north side of the valley of Coon Creek. It was made the county seat in the fall of 1871, and the courthouse was erected in the fall of 1874, at a cost of $11,983. The school district of LaPorte contained forty-three children. The postoffice was established February 21, 1871, with C. H. Hunter, postmaster. The people of Wayne county held their first Fourth of July celebration at this point in 1871, with C. H. Sperry as orator of the day. M. T. Hunter read the Declaration of Independence and R. B. Crawford had charge of the singing. There is little left of LaPorte, except the old court house, to tell the story of the deserted village.

WHEN WAYNE WAS BORN

The village of Wayne was laid out by the St. Paul & Sioux City Railroad company in June 1881, and it has been a success from the start. The first house was built by R. T. Maxwell in July, 1881. The first store was opened August 1, and within a month a general store was opened by Britton, Hardenburgh and Johnson. The Logan Valley bank was moved here from LaPorte October 1. N. F. Bennett commenced the first hotel about the same time. The Wayne County Review moved from LaPorte in November, publishing the first number in Wayne December 3. The depot was completed May 1, 1882, yet the railroad reached Wayne in the fall of 1881.

SOIL AND WATER

Wayne county is one of the choicest bodies of farming land in the state of Nebraska. If there is a poor quarter section, we are at a loss to locate the same. The county has 256,700 acres in farms, with 168,900 acres under a high state of cultivation. During the continuance in force of the statute of February 26, 1879, the county was without definite boundary. Wayne county lying on the divide between the Elkhorn and Logan valleys is mainly upland. From one-third to one-fourth of the surface is valley.

This county is quite fortunate in its surface soil. It lies east of the sand deposits and both its valleys and rolling prairies are composed of exceedingly fertile soil. The county is well watered by the Logan creek and its branches, Dogtown, Rattlesnake and Coon in the eastern, northern and central portion. Plum Bumping and Spring creeks have their sources in the southern part and flow south into the Elkhorn.

PRESENT AND FUTURE

The county has seven banks and fourteen grain elevators. Wayne county has sixty miles of railroad and six railroad stations.

The county from the start has had an active school life. There are eighty-one school districts with ninety school buildings and 125 teachers. Wayne county is making rapid progress in the dairy industry. At the present time these farmers have 6,874 cows on their farms, where they are using 583 hand separators. Last year they sold and shipped out 6,500 pounds of butter and 26,700 gallons of cream. At the present time these farmers have 16,000 acres seeded to alfalfa.

The poultry industry bids fair to become more and more prominent each year. Last year there was marketed by the farmers 119,000 dozens of eggs and 232,000 pounds of dressed poultry. A better impression of the resources of the county can be obtained when we state that last year the farmers produced 92,800 acres of corn, over 7,000 acres of wheat and 57,500 acres of oats.

It is encouraging to note the progress that is being made over the entire county and the special pains that are being taken on nearly every farm to produce enough fruit for home consumption. It is an exception to find a farmer who has neglected to provide himself with an unlimited supply of strawberries and in most cases raspberries as well. At the present time the farmers have growing and in full bearing 39,000 apple, 58 peach, 1,300 peach, 15,800 plum and 12,000 cherry trees.

It would be difficult to get a correct impression of this county without driving out to some of the prosperous farms and the large feeding pens. One soon forms the impression that their chief industry is in the growing and fattening of well-bred live stock. It is quite plain that a large share of the farmers' income comes from this source. Last year the farmers of this county sold and shipped out more than 26,000 head of beef cattle, 47,400 fat hogs, 264 well bred horses and 500 mutton sheep. Besides these these farmers sold and shipped out 455,000 bushels of corn, 56,000 bushels of wheat and 662,000 bushels of oats.

The present condition of the county is one of thrift and prosperity. Go where you may in this commonwealth and you will find little indication of poverty. It is not a large county, but it is one of the richest counties of its size in the entire state. To the stranger traveling through this county, it is little wonder that contentment and good cheer reign supreme. It is settled by an excellent class of people who have made the most of their opportunities and have carved out homes from the raw prairie that would be an honor to any of the old settled states. Many farmers own automobiles, several carriages and a piano, and there is a general feeling of peace, plenty and prosperity. The county at the present time has a valuation of $21,951,800.00 and it has a population of about 14,000. But few counties in the state are as well provided with free rural routes and rural telephones as Wayne. There are fourteen rural routes in the county that serve on an average of about 500 people each and more than eighty per cent. of the rural population are in touch with the outside world by telephone. In some localities they have a regular hour for a neighborhood chat, which does much to keep them in touch with their county, state and world at large.

Worth Considering

As our city is about to put in an extensive sewerage system we believe the following enquiry to a question in the Scientific American of June 12 will be of interest, especially so as our city has an abundance of trees whose roots must be contended with in the years to come. The questioner wanted information in regard to sewer pipe joints in order to prevent tree roots from intruding themselves into the joints and thus proving a detriment to the sewer system. The American replies as follows:

Provided the sewer pipe is laid upon a perfectly solid bed, so that the joints are unlikely to be disturbed at all by the filling in of material above the sewer, subsequent traffic over it, or otherwise, we should say that as far as the prevention of the entrance of roots into the joints is concerned, the oakum might better be omitted and a joint of neat Portland cement substituted. It is of course essential that any flow of water through the sewer should be unobstructed until the cement has had time to set. Otherwise a small quantity trickling through the joints will wash out a small part of the cement and leave interstices in it. The object of oakum or similar fibrous packing is to provide a small amount of "give" or "spring," so that any slight distortion or settlement of the pipe will not be attended by expansion of the packing, and water will have opportunity to break the pipe or flanges; but such water, when described, are quite capable of growing through the oakum, even when the latter, apparently, tightly fills the joints.

Better Outlook

There has been a decided change in opinion as to the condition of the oat crop in this neighborhood in the past week or so. On account of the dry weather and high winds earlier in the season, it was thought that few fields of oats would amount to much; in fact several farmers plowed up their fields and put in other crops. The late rains, however, have worked a wonderful change, and many of those who plowed up their oat fields are feeling sorry for having done so. Aside from a little unevenness in the stand, most fields look as good as the average year and will yield probably more bushels to the acre than last year.

Bruhn proposed to start a saloon near Ritts' pool hall. The Crofton council issued the license anyway. And now Ritts has appealed to the district court for a writ of mandamus or order to the city council to withdraw the license. The case will be tried at the regular term of the district court, July 1, at Center, the county seat of Knox county.

Give Them a Chance

The question of what is going to become of the wage earner and consumer does not appear to enter into all this discussion pertaining to the tariff, and the combination of capital into trusts, or of the producers to restrain or command trade. It looks as if the consumer and the wage earner were to be ground to pieces between the upper and nether mill stones of high prices on everything they have to buy and as low a wage scale as it is possible to force men to accept, and so long as there is no restraint placed on immigration there will always be an over-abundance of unskilled labor, men who are willing to toil at a much lower wage scale than the native American can afford to do, as, according to an old saying, these men can live on nothing and board themselves. In the discussion of economic questions along the lines of what is best for the whole, these two classes cannot afford to be overlooked, for they are largely the bone and sinew of the nation.

Better Than Ever

The new models that the X-Ray Incubator company have made for their 1910 trade show that the new machines have many points of excellence over those they have heretofore put out. The company has had an extensive and very satisfactory business this season, far in excess of any year since the business has been established, and the new machines will prove a better seller than the old ones have, as they have a nicer appearance, are more substantially built. The factory building will be enlarged this season so that more men will be employed, and by the close of next season the company expect to be in a position to put up a factory that will be a credit to the town and of substantial benefit in many ways. The poultry industry is bound to continue to grow and this company intends to be in a position to meet all demands made upon it.

Foley's Honey and Tar is especially recommended for chronic throat and lung troubles and many sufferers from bronchitis, asthma and consumption have found comfort and relief by using Foley's Honey and Tar. Felber Pharmacy.

Dunoucan and I lifted the chest before us and as it opened we laid out the goods our party of four withdrew from them. When we came to the edge we halted, and after a few whispered words turned towards the shelter of the cliff. We were some quarter down it when from the pines at our back came a loud halloo. Almost simultaneously a man sprang out of the shadows before us, and called "Stop!"

"Run, Mr. Felix," cried Charles, and I saw him jump at the struggling man and pull Isip free.

Dunoucan and I ran, caring nothing for shelter now, but making straight for the ship. The enemy must have numbered half a dozen. There were voices behind us, and a bullet whizzed into the cliff on our left. Another shout, and we knew that the men in full pursuit, with Rodney and Charles acting as our rear-guard.

Luckily the chest was not heavy, and when we came to the rocks we could scramble over them without delay. Into the water we plunged, and, reaching the side of the ship, heaved the chest on board. Then we scrambled up, dripping and we pulled our rear-guard over the side.

Another splash, and I fired straight down the channel. At the shot the enemy retreated, and, cursing, took himself back to the rocks where his friends stood, a mark against the sky.

"Well, get that pirate!" one of the men called. There was silence on the ship. More threats and curses followed, and then the enemy retired, promising to rout us on next day.

"Rodney was the first of us to speak. "Up anchor and off for the Spanish Main!" he cried. "I really feel like a pirate!" "Where's Dunoucan?"

"He's here!" I answered, and saw our admiral burst into a laugh. "To think that not one of them knew what it was you were carrying! They must have thought that we were foraging for food."

"We had all four come out of the scrimmage unscathed, except for a few bruises, but were too much excited to sleep. With much ceremony, we took the chest below and placed it inside of that other sea-burnt box that had waited so long for the treasure. I was sure that Rodney was eager for a look at the inside of Dunoucan's box, and, to tell the truth, I was also hoping for a peep at it, but Dunoucan preferred to keep its secrets entirely to himself. He was communicative only to a certain point; beyond that he was a very sphinx, and in some way the facts he told us seemed to envelop him in more mystery.

"I went up on deck, where Charles was making ready for the start. "You asked Mr. Isip from a very bad position, Charles," I said. "How did you manage to get that fellow so soon?"

"With an upper-cut I learned in the old country, sir. I left him fast asleep. He'd been prowling round the kitchen, and making himself generally disagreeable, and I was glad to settle the score."

"Then, so we left our trussed like a pig behind, and another night on the beach. This began to look serious."

"Mr. Felix; that's what I've been trying to myself for the last half-hour. We spent that night in a state of suppressed excitement—that is, all of us except Dunoucan, who seemed to regard a trial by bullets as nothing out of the usual."

"CHAPTER XV.

I watched the east turn opalescent with the coming sun, and the sea pearly with the pale, translucent colors of the albatross and the infinitely soft mother-of-pearl. Then the hues deepened, and the sun, not yet too bold for the eye, rose like the center of a gorgeous flower. The sea-gull was his, and through and over the vast spaces of it glittered his tiny messages of living flame. They came even to the side of the ship and silvered themselves radiantly against its side, green-green wings and white bodies, and, as they came, they seemed to be dancing colors, the ship and its early-morning memories. That awe and veneration which steals over the watcher of dawn—as though witness to a birth both physical and spiritual—stole over me, and I wondered how often in the ages just past, gull-watched had marvelled from this deck. Life was new and strange and sweet, and as boundless as the ocean before me.

"Water, water everywhere, and not a drop to drink. There's no use disguising it any longer; we'll be caught here like rats in a trap," I said. "We'd better get away before we fall to eating horse-leather."

"I have plenty of water and food in my house. It'll stand a good long siege. If any of those rascals are living in it, I'll like to turn them out. What do you say?"

"It sounds pretty good to me," assented Rodney. Dunoucan nodded, and so it was arranged that we should leave the ship. There were no two ways about it, to go or stay and be starved into surrender.

CHAPTER XVI.

Our change of base was to be made after sunset, between those hours when the darkness should first steal across the beach, and those when our enemy might expect that we would venture forth under the shade of night. We decided to leave Dunoucan's chest where it was for the present in the belief that the enemy would be too busy with their attention to our escape, and that the box would be safe in some such place as that described above.

"I'll be right-hand, we prepared, glad to be about watching. We went to the water's edge. I fired, Rodney went, his wooden arm in a sling, then Dunoucan, and finally Charles, with some little space between us. We cleaned and loaded our revolvers, and about 8 o'clock, when we could no longer see the sail-boat standing out against us, we took to the water. The ship, slid over the side into the sea, crossed through it, and crept over the rocks.

"I turned and signalled to Rodney to come on, and saw the boat and see his lower himself by one arm and find a footing. Then, with a silent prayer that no stray bullet might lodge in one of us before we reached shore, I stepped gingerly on to the beach. You have seen pictures of African warriors stealing tip-toe through the jungle, their whole bodies alert for any noise. So I went, my sense of hearing abnormally acute, my eyes straining into the twilight for peril. I could neither run nor stop, but stepped on with the precision of an automaton, hoping that in time the stretch of sand would have slipped past beneath my feet and I came to the refuge of the dunes. I did not look back, but knew that three other men were creeping as silently behind me, keen as I was to break into a dash. So on and on I went, for endless time it seemed then—hearing only the sob of the ebb and flow of the tide and the soft, sibilant hiss of the water as it slipped here and there over stones.

I heard the cottage, had come one-half, two-thirds, three-fourths, of the way, and then of a sudden a screaming whirlwind above my head, and, without thought save that I must break this tension, I shot forth full running for the house. I raced over the hard sand, over the soft sand, and when I came to my cottage, fell panting in the wide arms of the dunes, quivering, breathless. A moment later the three others had fallen near me, and we all lay there like so many bags of meal.

"That's a game!" said Rodney. "I know how it comes without any cause."

After a time Charles rose and stole to the kitchen-window. He looked in and shook his head. Then he disappeared around the other side. "Nobody there," he presently reported.

I looked at my pistol and led the way. The front door was ajar, and without any more ado I entered my house on tip-toe. I was in the kitchen, and I looked in it. I went into the kitchen, and it also empty, and secured that entrance; then, with the same care, we four filed up the stairs and into my study. A man sat in my Morris-chair, smoking my meerschaum pipe. I covered him with the revolver as he looked up.

"Hello!" said he. "Never mind the gun. I'm alone in the house, and my gun's not in shooting order."

"Suppose I see sir," said Charles, and a moment later he found the revolver in his hand, and appropriated it. "Well," I demanded, "what have you to say to breaking into a man's house in his absence?"

The other—you could see he had a sense of humor from the very smile he made—leaned back and cocked his eye at me. "I heard you'd gone to sea," he answered, "and wouldn't be coming back soon."

"Ah, that's where I have the advantage of you, and a very considerable advantage. What I want is the Frenchman over there. He looked just as if Dunoucan said, 'I come in for gold when I capture him.'"

I signalled to Charles, and in a trice he had bent the man's arms tight around the back of the chair. I found a rope and tied him there fast. We bound his mouth securely, so that even his very smile disappeared, and then left him.

THE WEEKLY HISTORIAN

RAM'S HORN BLASTS.

Warning Notes Calling the Wicked to Repentance.

When he had out what God is able to do for us we know what He is willing to do. What a fever is against the horns is the enemy of all that is good. Before faith can move a mountain it must have something to stand on while it lifts.

Every reform that comes to stay begins in the heart. Wrong thinking is much harder to stop than wrong doing. The moment Adam had a need God could give him a promise. The truly wise man will never worry about what he cannot help.

The right kind of man never falls simply because he has a poor chance. All believing that gives rest is believing that rests on the word of God. Better be a nail in the right place than a telegraph pole in the wrong place.

If we would only do our best some other folks would do much better than they do. If you are more than filling your present place you are on your way to a better one. Every step taken about the walls of Jericho had something to do with the taking of the city.

If there is any pig in a man you don't have to travel with him long before it will begin to squeal. The man who is so anxious to pick the mote out of your eye never dreams that there is anything the matter with his own optic.

OLD-TIME MILITARY DRILL

The style of drill described below is calculated to please any seasoned martinet. One can imagine the well-ordered ranks after they had been put through the evolutions. This gathering of militia took place in Canada, and is described in "Humors of '37," by Robins and Kathleen Macfarlane Zars.

There was scope for much originality of uniform in the drill of the militia. For the cavalry a carving knife fastened on the end of a pole sometimes served as a spear or lance. Of the infantry, a few had coats, a few jackets; most were in their shirt sleeves. Some carried brooms, some old swords. The greater number had walking sticks, and there was an occasional umbrella. Commands were given as follows:

"Gentlemen with umbrellas, take the ground to the right." "Gentlemen with walking sticks, take ground to the left." All ran after each other, elbowed, kicked, chattered, and if the commanding officer turned his back sat down. The captain was apt to be obsequious in his orders.

"Now, gentlemen, I am going to carry you through the evolutions of manual exercise, and I hope you will be patient. I shall be as short as possible, and if I should be going wrong, I hope you will put me right. With your permission I will read the words of command."

"Tention! Please observe at the word fire you must fire, all of you who have guns. You gentlemen who have sticks, filing switches and corals take ground to the right, but stand as you are." "Draw rammer! Those who haven't my rammer needn't draw! Charge bayonets! Excuse me, that is wrong; I turned over two pages at once." "Advance arms! Very well done, gentlemen; you improve wonderfully."

TIBET'S GREAT TEMPLE.

Unquestioned Magnificence of the Potala, Home of Buddhist Divinity. By European standards, it is impossible to judge this building. Perhaps in the austerity of its huge curtains, of blank, unvelled, unadorned walls, and in the flat, unembellished slants of its tremendous southeastern face, there is a suggestion of the massive grandeur of Egyptian work, but the contrast of color and surroundings, to which no small part of the magnificence of the sight is due, Egypt cannot boast. The vivid white streaks of the buttressing curtains of stone, each a wilderness of close-ranked windows, and the home of the hundreds of crimson-clad dwarfs who sun themselves at the distant starboards, strike a clean and harmonious note in the sea of green which washes up to their base. Once a year the walls of the Potala are washed with white, and no one can gainsay the effect. Moreover, in height and twenty-five acres, hangs like a cross of hair down the very center of the central sanctuary, hiding the central recess.

VISITING HOUSEKEEPER.

A Profitable Profession Followed by a New York Woman. "My earnings amount to $30 a week and I have named my trade visiting housekeeper to business women," said a young New York widow who has the support and education of four small children to look after. "It was a question of putting my children in an institution or of finding some way by which I could make a living at home. There are several business women who live in the same uptown flat house with me. None of them feels that she is able to keep a regular servant, and the cleaning woman who came to them weekly never did what they wanted.

"They were always envying me my neat rooms. One day they thought struck me and I offered to do their weekly cleaning and mending. My charges were $2 a week for cleaning and 50 cents for mending. To the cleaning woman who always accompanies me I pay $1 a day besides giving her three meals.

"This woman comes in at 8 a. m. and after eating her breakfast helps me to get the children off to school. Then we set my own little flat to rights. After this is properly accomplished we begin the real work of the day making the flats of my patrons shine like new.

"While my woman scrubs, cleans, airs and makes the beds I read and prepare the clothes, house linen and personal apparel for the laundry. I see that the curtains are kept fresh and clean, that the china and glass are washed and polished. I clean the silver and knives and do the thousand and one little things necessary to make a flat look home-like.

"When I was beginning women refused to consider my proposition because they said that while they trusted me they didn't feel that I could guarantee my cleaner. Although I now trust my cleaning woman and would leave her in my own home without the slightest hesitancy, I see that she has precious few opportunities of pilfering if she should be so inclined."

LITERARY LITTLE BITS

Sir William Butler, the pro-Boer general in the British army, is writing a book on the military career of Napoleon.

A novel by William Dean Howells recently announced for spring publication has been postponed. A little volume, made up of two dramatic poems, will take its place.

Mrs. Charlotte Perkins Gilman, in discussing what Professor Thomas calls sex infatuation, argued recently that "such a great social force as education does more to advance humanity in a century than does Master Cupid in a thousand years." At the same time, in spite of the effects of the social evolution which she has described in her "Women and Economics," Mrs. Gilman does not repudiate marriage as the logical destiny of most women. She urges, on the contrary, that the single woman should feel no shame in candidly facing the truth that marriage is more to be desired than celibacy. "Everyone knows that it is other things being equal. If marriage laws are evil, mend them. If marriage customs offend, alter them. If other people's marriages are unfortunate, improve on them. But marry."

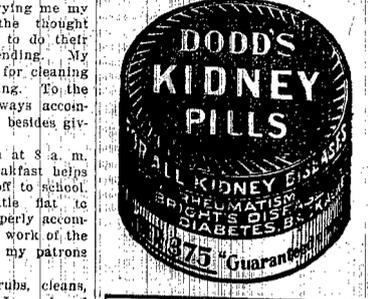

It was Disraeli who called Mme. Novikoff "Member of Parliament from Russia." And Mr. Stead's collection of Mme. Novikoff's letters just published is entitled "The M. P. from Russia: Reminiscences." Mme. Olga Novikoff, Mme. Novikoff met Gladstone and Disraeli on the same day and she and Gladstone began a friendship which was marked by a manifold correspondence. There are innumerable letters in the book, many of which have never been published before. Her friends included Kinglake, Froude, Freeman, Tyndal and others. In the '70s and '80s of the last century Mme. Novikoff was the center of a salon in London where celebrated people assembled. She had an aversion to writing about herself and could never be persuaded to publish her reminiscences, but her life and its work is shown in the letters presented in Mr. Stead's book.

In answer to a complimentary letter from Ensign W. L. Calhoun on the "forty-four Fort or Fight," Mr. Emerson, though explains the extent to which he followed history: "of course you know that the novelist cannot be exact in his history. There was, however, a Nicholas Trist, a much older man than I make my hero to be. He really did execute the treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo between this country and Mexico, as described in the epilogue of the book. The Senora Yvito Ritz there is historic warrant in the character of the adventuresome American. Viscount, who flourished a few years before the time of my story, and who resided for a time near Ogdensburg, N. Y. She came mighty near getting a land grant through Congress in her own behalf. This you see that I do not pretend to give exact history; indeed, no more than the color of his life, its framework of historical events is valid; said in the case of Mr. Calhoun I confess an endeavor to be just and accurate to a man who was always, as it seems to me, been misunderstood. I was born in the west, of Virginian parents, and have always voted the Republican ticket; but I am pretty sure that had I lived in the south before the war I would have made a fair working specimen of what I remember in my youth to have heard called a rebel."

A girl who has been engaged as many as three times must have a heart that looks as badly mused up as the top bureau drawer.

Norman Duncan, at a Dinner in Lawrence, said of a brother author:

"His nature studies are fascinating but false—false as so many of our Kansas cyclone rags. They are hard to beat. I heard a new one yesterday. A stranger, on the way through the fertile farm lands of the State, pointed to a tall plum-tree-like thing that rose up in the clear sky at the distance. "What's that tall chimney doing there?" he said. "Is somebody starting to build a factory?" "Oh, no," said a native. "That's no chimney. It is Jabob Green's well. Cyclope turned her inside out."

Why the Silk Ties. It seems that the silk hat of advanced civilization has invaded Japan though not with everybody there is it in high favor. A Japanese newspaper says that it is now an inevitable and laughter-provoking feature of public functions, but it can't understand how it happens that people who are famous for their artistic taste should have come to adopt it. The silk hat resembles whiskers in one respect. Almost everybody knows or can find out when whiskers originated, but nobody knows why they were tolerated. This is the case with the hat in question. It has been traced back to its beginnings, but why it was invented and worn has remained a mystery. As nearly as can be ascertained it was designed to be ludicrous, and yet that is about the only purpose it serves.

Origin of the Corset. The Corporation of Glovers and Stay-makers of Paris has just celebrated the seventh centenary of its industry with a banquet and ball. The origin of the corset is essentially unscientific. A butcher in the thirteenth century had a talkative wife, who was, in addition something of a vivago. To reduce her to silence he imprisoned her body in the first pair of stays! Wives have limited and improved upon the idea of the thirteenth century butcher, but stays and silences have ceased to be synonymous. As lately as two centuries ago they were forbidden in France in churches at the King's Court when the King was present, and in the courts of law. In the first part of the eighteenth century they almost passed out of fashion, but Paris followed London in such matters; as it does to-day, and when in 1830 it was known that the London ladies wore six different kinds of gowns each day, the fashion returned to Paris, and has never left it.—Dundee Advertiser.

Doesn't Work Both Ways. The long-haired orator had gathered a huge crowd around him in one of the public parks and was making a fervid political speech. "You'll have to stop that," said one of the sparrows, cawing up to him. "We don't allow that kind of talk in this park, sir." "I see," roared the orator, descending from his soap box. "You want to keep your park system in politics, but you won't allow politics to your park system."

Conversational Opportunities. "So your wife is a suffragette? Why does she want to vote?" "She doesn't want to vote, answered M. Meekton. "She wants to make speeches."—Washington Star.

PRESSED HARD. Coffee's Weight on Old Age. When prominent men realize the injurious effects of coffee and the change in health that Postum can bring, they are glad to lend their testimony for the benefit of others. A superintendent of public schools in one of the southern states says: "My mother, since her early childhood, was an inveterate coffee drinker, had been troubled with her heart for a number of years and complained of that 'weak all over' feeling and sick stomach. "Some time ago I was making an official visit to a distant part of the country and took dinner with one of the merchants of the place. I noticed a somewhat peculiar flavor of the coffee, and asked him concerning it. He replied that it was Postum. "I was so pleased with it, that after the meal was over, I bought a package to carry home with me, and had wife prepare some for the next meal. The whole family were so well pleased with it, that we discontinued coffee and used Postum entirely. "I had really been a times very anxious concerning my mother's condition, but we noticed that after using Postum for a short time she felt so much better than she did prior to its use, and had little trouble with her heart and no sick stomach; that the headaches were not so frequent, and her general condition much improved. This continued until she was as well and hearty as the rest of us. "I know Postum has benefited myself and the other members of the family, but not in so marked a degree as in the case of my mother, as she was a victim of long standing." Read "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason."

Farm lands in Wayne county seem to be in very active demand this year and the prices are steadily advancing. P. G. Phillo sold his farm Wednesday to Ferdinand Podol for a lump sum of $15,000. Mr. Podol does not buy for investment, but will make it his home. The Ross farm south of town has been sold the past week to Ed. Dornier for an even $100 per acre and a farm six miles out toward Winside changed hands at $85 per acre.

Bought 240 Acres Near Ashton

C. M. Craven and John T. Bressler were visitors in Ashton the first of the week from Wayne, Nebraska, and while here purchased 240 acres of land about four miles south of town. These gentlemen attended a land opening in southern Idaho prior to coming here but did not like it as well down there as they did here so invested in our part of the country. The above named gentlemen are friends of Frank Owen and in company with C. C. Moore and R. D. Merrill took dinner at the Owen home on Tuesday last.—Ashton (Idaho) Enterprise.

New Officers

The Epworth League held a business meeting Tuesday evening and elected the following officers for the next six months: President, Mrs. Lois W. Seeber; 1st Vice-president, Bessie Marsteller; 2nd Vice-president, Frank Kloppling; 3rd Vice-president, Mabel Elliot; 4th Vice-president, Blanche Elliot; Secretary, Luverne Garwood; Treasurer, Claude Ferrell; Chorister, Bessie Rennie; Organist, Bessie Crockett; Ushers, Cecil Graves, Claire Lamberson, Harold Mears and Clement Crossland. After the election of officers a social was held at which games were played and ice cream and wafers served.

Had a Good Thing

A. G. Carlson, of Sholes, was a caller Wednesday morning. He had come down to Wayne for the purpose of introducing and placing on sale his patent wrench and tongs. It is certainly a very practical tool, one of the very best for all practical purposes on a farm or about machinery that we have ever seen. Its construction is of the simplest kind, therefore it is easily handled. It is made of pressed steel and can be put to many practical uses. He has placed them on sale with some of our hardware dealers, and has an ad in the Herald. Read it, and then ask to see the wrench. Mr. Carlson has not only invented and patented his wrench but he has also made a machine for cutting them out, thus cheapening them from the first one he put out. He has a good thing and you will also have if you buy one.

Children's Day

Many of those who are now past middle life and who go to Sunday school when they were boys and girls can remember the old song: "Who shall sing, if not the children? Why to them were voices given—bird-like voices, sweet and clear, why, unless the songs of heaven they begin to practice here?" In those times there was no Children's Day—a day set apart especially for the children in which they could feel that they had a right at the head of the procession, so to speak. But in these later years the church has grown wiser and come to realize that it is the work with, and for, the children that counts in the moral uplift of the community and the nation. So in most of the churches the second Sunday in June has been designated and set apart for the children. This day was duly observed in Wayne last Sunday. Each of the churches was decorated with plants and flowers and the exercises were appropriate.

At the morning hour the Presbyterians had their program for the day and a large attendance, and at the Baptist and Methodist churches the evening hour was taken up. At the Baptist church the cantata "Summertime" was rendered in a pleasing manner to a large audience while at the M. E. church an audience that filled the edifice listened to a mixed program of recitations and songs, mostly by the little folks, which was well given and received. A collection was also taken for the cause of education.

Will Not Leave

It is being reported around the town and country that Dr. Leisenring has sold out and will leave Wayne. This is not the case, however, as the general doctor's host of friends, gathered in over a quarter of a century residence in Wayne, will be glad to know. Having what he deemed a good chance to dispose of his residence property, where he lives, he did so, receiving therefor $10,000. Phil Kohl was the purchaser and the doctor takes Phil's residence in the deal. Mr. Kohl comes into possession September 1st of a piece of property that is as desirably located and as fine a home as there is in Wayne, having 75 feet frontage and running back the entire length of the lot. The doctor has his plans already drawn for a new residence, on the old colonial style, that will cost in the neighborhood of $4,000, and will either build this fall or next spring.

Finest in This Part of State

Howard Whalen is an apt illustration of the saying that "Nothing succeeds like success." His past efforts in the production of high-grade bakery products, ice cream and confectionery has given him an enviable reputation not only at home but abroad, and he is a large shipper of bakery goods and ice cream to other points. To enable him to better handle his increasing business and serve his home patrons he will in the near future occupy the new Henney block, a room 28x80 feet, which has been built expressly for his business. The entire fixtures and furnishings are to be of quarter sawed oak polished to a high degree, and all of the goods will be kept and displayed behind glass cases along the side of the walls or show cases of special design. The furnishings are to be new throughout. The cost of this improvement will be no small matter, but as Mr. and Mrs. Whalen spend a good deal of their time in fact the most of it, in their store room they decided that they might as well get some satisfaction out of having things of the very best, as well as being able to serve their patrons more acceptably. Therefore the new room will reflect credit upon their individual thrift and tastes as well as upon our little city.

The Bible Circle

will meet at the home of Mrs. Rennie, next Wednesday afternoon at 2:30. Conveyances will be waiting at the Methodist parsonage to take all who can attend. All persons interested in the study of the Bible are most cordially invited.

FIRST GAME OF BASEBALL

A GOOD ATTENDANCE

There is Some Good Material, But It Will Take Lots of Practice to Bring It Out

Tuesday afternoon's game of baseball between the young men who had signed as members of the baseball club, and a nine selected by the Commercial club, was played on the grounds near the race track and was witnessed by a goodly number of intensely interested baseball fans. It was not only the first game for this year, but with most of the players the first game for a good many years, therefore it was not up to Scientific baseball and yet was interesting throughout. Attorney Berry acted as umpire and the game was two hours in length. The position of the players was as follows:

CLUB	REGULAR	TEAM
Sabs.....p	Fisher.....p
Pryor.....c	Skeen.....c
Welch.....1b	Witter.....1b
Harrington...2b	Sherbald...2b
Harborne.....3b	Roybahn...3b
Hartford.....rf	Morgan.....rf
Art, Ahern...lf	Woodruff...lf
Mellor.....cf	Seace.....cf
Jno. Ahern...ss	Ringer.....ss

At the end of the game the score stood as follows:

1 2 3 4 5 6 7 8 9
Regular.....0 0 0 0 5 0 1 1—8
Commercial..0 2 0 0 1 0 0 3—6

The receipts of Tuesday's game were about $45 and it is estimated that there must be an attendance of 160 at each game in order to meet expenses, so it will be largely up to the people whether a team will be put in the field and maintained through the season.

Another June Bride

Again Cupid was successful in uniting two lives as one, when on last Saturday, June 19, Miss Francis Leslie and Mont Shinn, of Sioux City, were married in Omaha. Frank Leslie, brother of the bride, accompanied them as best man, and Miss Mont Fletcher as bridesmaid. From Omaha the newly married couple went to Carson, Iowa, where they will visit for about a week.

The bride is one of Wayne county's best and most popular school teachers having taught near Wayne the past year. She was a graduate of the Wayne Normal and was at all times a bright scholar and teacher. The bridegroom is a freight conductor and a splendid young man. Of a quiet disposition and given to hard services of the road.

Mr. and Mrs. Shinn will reside at Bloomfield, as he will have charge of the Bloomfield to Sioux City freight train. The very best wishes of their many friends go with them to their new home.—Hoskins Headlight.

Notice

Belthasar Court No. 14, Tribe of Ben Hur, holds its regular meetings on the first and third Thursday of each month, by order of Court.

The editor of an exchange got into trouble knee deep. A couple of young people, Newton Lord and Jennie Helper, got married, and the editor used the usual hyphenated heading Lord-Helper, in his write-up of the event.

William Everette Hall, author of the well-known sentence "Look up and not down. Look forward and not back. Look out and not in. Lend a hand." died last Thursday aged 87 years. He was a prominent author.

Mr. and Mrs. Ebert, who have been living at Northfield, Minnesota, arrived here Wednesday evening, and are at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Gamble. They are on their way to Scotts Bluff, Nebraska, where Mr. Ebert will engage in the hardware business.

The Nebraska law requiring prompt movement of live stock trains has been upheld by the supreme court and statutory damages allowed for delay. The next thing demanded will be a law giving two-footed passengers a claim for reimbursement for failure to reach their destination on time.

What do you think of the justice of a law that will send a man to the penitentiary for life because he stole chickens? Such a case is reported from Syracuse, New York. If a man commits murder here in the west he very often only gets from two to five years in the penitentiary. Is not a human being of more value than a chicken?

Miss Bertha Heinemann, a resident of West Point, has been adjudged insane and was taken to Norfolk by Sheriff Malchow. Her malady is supposed to have been caused by being accidentally struck on the head by a ball thrown by children at play. The concussion affected her brain so seriously as to detrone her reason.

The amended primary law enacted by the recent democratic legislature requires the governor to issue a proclamation sixty days in advance of the primary date, announcing what offices are to be filled, but the sixty-day limit will have been passed before the law becomes operative. Here is another legal puzzle, that it would take a Philadelphia lawyer to solve.

Preserving Fence Posts

It is estimated that a fence post, which, under ordinary circumstances, will last for perhaps two years, will, if given preservative treatment costing about 10 cents, last eighteen years. The service of other timbers, such as railroad ties and telephone poles, can be doubled and often trebled by inexpensive preservative treatment.

Don't Worry

Isn't this just about time that the annual worry about the corn crop should begin? Somehow our people get disturbed in June by too much rain, or in July about too much sunshine. Some of the corn has not been planted yet. It is also reported that the cut worm is busy destroying the corn. There is anxiety—too much of it. When the city folks get up in the morning and see the clouds still dark and somber they immediately begin worrying about whether the poor farmers will get a crop of corn. The farmer doesn't lose much sleep on the proposition. Nebraska corn of late years has a habit of finding the road out of all difficulties. A day or two of hot sunshine will kill the cut worms in a jiffy, and in a few hot nights the corn will climb to its regulation height.—Fremont Herald.

Potato Cultivation

Most farmers do not cultivate their potatoes the most profitable number of times. It must be remembered that the potato crop suffers readily from drought and that frequent cultivation is practically the only means by which moisture can be conserved. Frequently cultivation sets free much plant food that otherwise would remain locked up in the soil. Potatoes should be cultivated once a week from the time their rows can be followed until the cultivator wheels injure the plants. An ordinary six-shovel corn cultivator is probably the most practicable. More and smaller shovels would be better in a clean, mellow soil. The wheels must be set closer together than for corn, so that they will not run on the rows until the plants become quite large. Level culture should be the general aim, or only slight riding for its aid in controlling the weeds in the rows. The first cultivation may be deep and fairly close if there is plenty of moisture in the soil. It cuts off some of the roots, but at this stage does more good than harm by loosening the soil up deeply, and thus leaving it in better condition for the future growth of the tubers and the roots.

After the first cultivation the shovels should always be run shallow, about two or three inches deep, never deeper. Sometimes it is observed after the farmer has cultivated the last time and hilled up or laid by the crop.—Journal of Agriculture.

Married

At high noon Saturday, June 12, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Britton, in Wayne, Miss Edna Britton was united in marriage to Mr. Alex. W. Stewart, of Minneapolis, Minnesota. Rev. T. C. Osborne, of the Presbyterian church spoke the words that made the couple one under the law. There were no guests present except immediate relatives of the bride in Wayne, and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Stewart, of Omaha, a brother, and wife, of the groom. Miss Britton has the honor of being the first child born in Wayne, and was named Edna. Wayne Britton in memory of that important event, therefore she has a large acquaintance in our little city. As her life has been spent in our midst, the newly married couple took the afternoon train Saturday for Minneapolis where they will reside, and the warm wishes of a host of Friends goes out to the bride that all the happiness possible may come to her in this new relation in life.

It beats all how thirsty some men are in the morning. Some of those who come off the early morning trains cannot wait until the trains stop until they seek a thirst parlor. The man who claims to have a copyright on "A. Loyal Church," certainly has a snap as the same article, word for word, except the names, appeared in half a dozen of our exchanges last week. There were but few farmers in town Saturday. The frequent showers of the afternoon prevented very many people getting about with the result that the big rush usually on hand Saturday did not take place. Monday, June 23, is the date of the annual school meeting and election for each school district in the state. Women as well as men are entitled to a part in this meeting and to a vote on the candidates and on the policies to be pursued. The Wayne Marble Works are sending out this week two fine specimens of their work. Ahern is enjoying a visit from his brother John, who resides in Chicago, and he assisted the Commercial club in their baseball game Tuesday. Philleo, who had been in a hospital at Sioux City for two or three weeks, came home Saturday evening. While she is not well, she was able to be brought home, and is gaining strength every day. Nine car loads of stock were the shipments out of this station Tuesday afternoon, all to Omaha. Of these Ted Perry shipped five cars of cattle, E. Harrington three cars of cattle, and Wm. Gildersleeve one car of hogs. They were a prime lot and should bring the shippers a neat sum of money. Sheriff Mears went to Emerson Monday to attend a meeting of the sheriffs. The call was for a meeting of all the sheriffs along the Missouri river from Omaha to Yankton, South Dakota. He would not really be long to that class, but as they sent him an invitation to attend he went down to see what kind of a dust they were going to kick up.

Some choice Millet seed for sale at the Feed Mill. Try a Club House Sundae. Leahy sells them. Buy bread of Whalen. It is fresh baked each day. For Sale—Dipping tank, cheap, at Leahy's drug store. A. J. Ferguson and wife went to Sioux City this morning. The first crop of alfalfa is now ready for cutting and some of it is being harvested. There has been a goodly amount of much needed sunshine for a number of days past, though the temperature has averaged a little below normal. Farmers are making good use of the more favorable weather for cultivating their corn. Mrs. Davey and children, of Ponca, who had been spending a week or more at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Skeen, returned home to Ponca Tuesday morning, accompanied by Esther McNeal, who went there to spend a portion of her summer vacation. Henry Brownson, who had been visiting his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Woodruff, for a week, went to State Center, Iowa, to visit an aunt and uncle Monday. Heckert has added a fine piece of mechanism in the way of an electric motor, operated by a potash battery for the purpose of drilling and smoothing teeth. It is a whole lot better than the old foot power method of operating the machine and does quicker and more satisfactory work. With all due modesty we believe the home paper is the most important institution in any town. It is the medium through which the town speaks to the outside world and is the means of communication between the people of the town and vicinity. Long ago, under inspiration to himself, and this truth was never more apparent than it is today. No man can retire from activity and live. He must know what is going on around him. Subscribe for the Herald, as many others are doing, and you will get all the news in a readable manner.

I. W. Alter has been on his ranch in Holt county all the week. Do not send to Sioux City for your bread. Buy at home of Whalen and get it fresh baked every day. Hufford went to Beatrice, Nebraska, Tuesday morning and will be absent most of the week, going there as a delegate from the local P. E. O. society to the state meeting. Mr. Gilmore, who resides east of the college and who was operated on two weeks ago by Dr. Lutgen for stones in the bladder, is making rapid progress toward recovery and will soon be in better health than for a long time past. Theo. Duerig and S. R. Theobald left for San Antonio, Texas, Tuesday morning, on business. On their way home Mr. Duerig will stop a couple of weeks at Excelsior Springs, Missouri, and try the beneficial effects of the waters on his system. A special train load of stock—ten cars—was sent out of this station Saturday afternoon, of which F. E. Strahan had six cars of cattle, Ed. Owen three cars of cattle, and D. L. Strickland one car of horses, all going to Chicago. They were all a prime lot and represented a large money value. Monday was "Flag Day" and there were several of the business firms put out flags in honor of the day. The one that floated from the courthouse flag staff was a pretty sight as the strong northwest wind flung its silken folds out into the air and brought forcibly to mind the song "The Star Spangled Banner." Oh, long may it wave o'er the land of the free and the home of the brave. Rev. J. W. Kirkpatrick, J. E. Marsteller, Miss Mason and Mrs. L. C. Gildersleeve of the M. E. Sunday School, and Miss White, of the Presbyterian Sunday School, went to Kearney, Nebraska, Monday morning to attend the State Sunday School convention as delegates from Wayne. The convention is to be held the 15th, 16th and 17th. About 1500 delegates were in attendance. William Nangle, a former resident of Wayne, his mother still residing here, has accepted the position as manager of the Chicago House at Sioux City and entered upon his new duties Monday. He is one of the best known hotel men in the northwest, having been steward at the Hotel Mandamin for many years. He recently returned to the Sioux City from Sioux Falls, where he served as steward for the Hotel Cataract.

Mrs. C. W. Hiscox and children were passengers for Madison, Nebraska, Wednesday forenoon, whither they went on a visit. Mrs. Engke, who had been visiting the Wendt family between here and Carroll returned to her home at Emerson Wednesday morning. Mrs. Frank Powers and children went to Pierce, Nebraska, Wednesday forenoon to spend a week with relatives and old time acquaintances. The summer term of the Nebraska Normal began Monday and for a couple or three days the first of the week the trains were loaded with incoming students. The X-Ray Incubator Co. are still sending out a large number of their incubators. Every day sees from two to half a dozen going by express to all parts of the country. Mesdames Davies, Price, Durrin, Sherbahn and Misses Clark and Livinghouse went to Laurel Wednesday morning to attend a district meeting of the Rebekahs. It costs $10.00 to send a message from here to the Philippine Islands, as Judge Hunter found out by sending a message to his daughters there, in regard to his illness. It takes five weeks time to make the trip. Miss Jennie Nelson, a student at Morningside college, Sioux City, who has made her home with Mr. and Mrs. Ben Elliott for a number of years, was here over Sunday, returning to her school duties Monday morning. Mrs. Miller, who has been confined to her bed at the home of her son James for several months, does not make any improvement in health but is gradually growing worse. Not much hopes of recovery are entertained. A number of our business and professional men have been attending a Swat-fest every evening the past week, swatting the festive baseball as if their lives depended upon it. It is good exercise but tough on the beginners. Walter Savidge, and his company, gave three entertainments last week that drew large crowds each evening and gave good satisfaction. He starts out from here with a larger aggregation than any previous year, having added some carnival features, and the company will be known as the Savidge Amusement company. We shall have lots of strawberries, raspberries and currants for sale this year, but owing to poor health will not be able to deliver them. Parties desiring fruit of this kind can get them cheap by calling at the residence six blocks west of Main on 1st Street. Mrs. Sebald. Despite the fact that there were very high prices prevailing for grain there were in the hands of the farmers when the assessors made their rounds the past spring, 974,223 bushels of corn and 138,005 bushels of oats. These figures indicate that Wayne county farmers are living on an easy street. There is quite a little demand for an all day electric service, and the need will be increased. There are a good many small industries that would be glad to make use of such power now if they could only get it. It might be well for the city to look into the matter and if there were enough users to warrant it to give an all day service to do so. Monday was the banner day for the Wayne Butter Co. since they have engaged in business. On that day they made fifty-five tubs of butter weighing sixty-two pounds each. The increase is not alone owing to the enlarged yield of cream among their old patrons but they are gradually reaching out into other fields and could do even better had they the time to get out and work up the business at surrounding towns. A meeting of the Wayne Sunday school workers was held at the Presbyterian church Sunday afternoon. There were some short addresses and music, and the following district officers were elected for the coming year: President, Dr. Gamble; Vice President, J. E. Marsteller; Secretary and Treasurer, Chas. Nicholas; Home Department, Mrs. Young; Teacher Training, Miss Mason; Adult Bible Class, Rev. Parker Smith; Primary Superintendent, Mrs. Cross; Pastor Department, Rev. Kirkpatrick; Temperance, Miss White. The executive committee of the Commercial club held a lengthy meeting Tuesday evening at which time the baseball question was talked over extensively in all its phases, and it was decided to put a team in the field. The team is to be selected from the aggregation of ball tossers who appeared on the diamond Tuesday afternoon, and a board of managers, J. E. Hufford, J. W. Johnson and A. B. Jeffries from the Commercial club, and C. R. Witter and Martin Ringer, from the ball team, was selected. Over forty persons were in attendance at the Bible Circle Wednesday afternoon which met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Fisher, just south of town. The program was very interesting and instructive. The influence of this organization is not confined to our own little city as it is supporting five Sunday schools in foreign lands and the ladies will now assure the support of a local preacher in Africa. It is only another evidence of what can be accomplished by a small band of consecrated, praying, christian women. We were favored Friday afternoon with a pleasant social call from J. H. Kemp, of St. Edwards, Nebraska, who is to be Wayne's Supt. of Schools for next year. He is a comparatively young man and has been engaged in school work about eight years. He impresses one as being fitted for the position he has been chosen to occupy. This is the third time he has visited Wayne and he is more pleased with it each time he sees it. His wife accompanied him on the last trip and she was charmed with the appearance of our little city and its people. They expect to move here in August.

TROOPS IN PURSUIT

PHILIPPINE MUTINEERS NOW HIDING IN MOUNTAINS.

Several Columns of Soldiers, Both Regular and Constabulary, Are Already in Field Bent on Capturing Detachment of Runaways.

Big Gen. Harry H. Bandholtz, chief of the Philippine constabulary, who at present is on a tour of inspection of the island of Jolo, will at once proceed to Davao, Mindanao island, the scene of the mutiny of the Second company of constabulary on June 6, news of which reached Manila Sunday. Big Gen. Bandholtz will assume personal command of the constabulary forces sent in pursuit of the mutineers. The regular government is determined to make an example of the mutinous constabulary who fled to the mountain fastness in the interior with their rifles and equipments, and the pursuit will be pressed with the utmost vigor until the last of the mutineers have been captured. Several columns of troops, both regular and constabulary, already are in the field.

Acting Gov. Gen. Forbes, who returned Monday from the province of Pampanga and was soon in conference with Maj. Gen. William J. Duval, commanding the division of the Philippines, said:

"This affair, deplorable as it seems to have been, has not changed my opinion of the native constabulary nor my belief in the general excellency and loyalty of the force. Judgment must be reserved until we receive further details of the mutiny and the causes that brought it about."

No additional details of the mutiny and of the three hours' fight made by Gov. Walker and the Americans in the church at Davao have been received here. No telegraph connects with Davao. The only communication is by steamer from Zamboanga, a naval station on the extreme southwestern point of Mindanao, or from Malabang. There is no indication of any extensive military plans aside from the ordering of several detachments to follow the mutineers.

75 TO 100 ARE DEAD.

Injured Met Is as Large in French Earthquake.

From 75 to 100 dead and 100 injured is Saturday's estimated total casualty as the result of the earthquake which devastated several small towns and villages in the southernmost part of France, particularly in the departments of Herault and Brouches du Rhone.

Great suffering is reported from the remote places, owing to a lack of bread and the necessities of life before the arrival of aid. The casualties may be greatly increased, as the ruins have not yet been entirely searched. The village of St. Canat and Rognes were completely demolished by the earthquake, and Lambesc, which is twelve miles from Aix, suffered heavily. According to advices received here a number of wounded are still imprisoned in the ruins and soldiers are working desperately to rescue them.

Survivors are sleeping in tents and the streets are impassable. In many places they have been torn up and are incumbered by masses of rock. Houses, public office buildings and churches were crumpled to pieces. Among other villages seriously damaged are Vernagues, Villenas, Palissannes, Puy Ste. Repard and Argillies.

The victims at St. Canat and Rognes were horribly mutilated. There were evidences that several of the victims had lived for hours imprisoned by the debris before they died. The people rushed into the streets when the first shock occurred, crying out in terror. Many of them returned to the rescue of their families.

Porto Rican Bakers Strike.

The bakers' union of Mayaguez, which is affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, has gone out on a strike. The men demand an increase of wages and that Sunday be a day of rest. The bakers have suspended and the employers have organized a co-operative shop in order to supply the trade with bread.

Lightning Hits a Steeple.

MURDER ON A RANCH.

Two Men Found in a Well Near Kadoka, S. D.

The bodies of two men were found in a well on the Artie McNally ranch, two miles north of Kadoka, S. D., Friday morning. Mr. McNally had occasion to visit the well for water and made the discovery. The bodies proved to be those of two men who had been running a breaking outfit, J. Golder, of Rock Valley, Ia., or Rock Rapids, Ia., and W. D. Toney, 1617 Hamilton street, Sioux City. They and a man who went by the name of Mike Maloney shipped a car of horses and machinery from Chamberlain on May 18 and started breaking a few days later for Artie McNally on his claim north of town. Golder and Toney seem to be partners, and Maloney was working for them. Maloney came to town on Thursday, May 27, and said he had bought Golder and Toney out for $980 and the night before had taken them to Philip.

After this time Maloney seemed to have plenty of money, while before this he had been broke. After this Maloney tried to sell several of the horses, and did dispose of three or four head. Last Monday morning Maloney left for the west, taking seven head of horses with him. The discovery of the bodies in the well Friday morning places the crime on Maloney.

The well is located about ten rods from where Maloney was camped. The circumstances all point to Maloney as the perpetrator of the foul deed. Instead of taking the men to Philip, he murdered them in cold blood and dumped the bodies into the well to cover up the crime, and after that had camped for over a week at the scene of the deed.

Robbery was the motive for the crime. Golder was known to have considerable money on his person, and when found his pockets had been rifled, leaving nothing whatever to identify him. J. T. Duly, of Kadoka, identified him as a party who had been breaking for him near Kimball last year. A letter and a sale ticket from a Sioux City feed store identified the other man as W. D. Toney, 1617 Hamilton street.

Marshal Whitfang started on the trail of the suspected murderer and captured him Friday evening at Cottonwood.

GUARDED BY OFFICERS.

Man Held for Murder of Father of Girl He Betrayed in Danger.

Charged with the murder of the father of the girl he is alleged to have betrayed, Clay Smith, aged 25 years, married, is held in the Mulhensbers, Ky., jail, guarded by a squad of officers, as citizens have declared they will lynch him. In an adjoining cell, named as accessory to the murder, is Bessie Kimble, aged 15 years, whom Smith is said to have hit treated.

On the night of May 16 M. J. Kimble was shot and killed when in his bed. Later his daughter Bessie was seen to throw several packages into a pond. Officers recovered the packages and say they contain letters demonstrating Smith's guilt. The letters had been written by Smith. It is said, and told of the intimacy between Smith and the girl, of her condition and of his demand that she kill her father, as the latter would kill her when he learned the truth. The girl lacked the courage and Smith wrote it is charged, that he would kill the father himself. Smith's wife is the girl's sister.

HONOR FOR WRIGHTS.

Brothers Center of Interest at White House.

The appreciation, good will and congratulations of the American people were extended to Wilbur and Orville Wright, the American aviators, by the president of the United States Friday. The occasion was the presentation of the gold medals awarded to the Wright brothers by the Aero Club of America to commemorate the conquest of the air. In the presence of distinguished statesmen, foreign diplomats, members of the cabinet, noted scientists and prominent aeronauts and aviators the two inventors of the first successful flying machine heavier than air received the public recognition of their achievements from their fellow countrymen. President Taft in handing the medals to the brothers expressed keen admiration for their work and ventured the belief that their flying machine will be the basis of the future aerial craft and made the prophecy that the dawn of the age of flight is here.

The Wrights were introduced to the president by Representative Herbert Parsons, of New York, who paid a glowing tribute to their personal qualifications. A. Holland Forbes, winner of the national balloon race and acting president of the Aero Club of America, turned the medals over to the president on behalf of the Aero club.

Miss Katherine Wright, sister of the aviators, accompanied them here and was quite as much honored. After President Taft had congratulated the brothers individually he turned to Miss Wright and said:

"And I want to congratulate the most important member of the family."

Preceding the meeting at the White House a luncheon was given at the Cosmos club to the Wrights and the visiting members of the Aero Club of America by the Aero club of Washington.

The day was one of celebration in honor of the Wrights from the time the arrived early in the morning until 7 o'clock Friday night, when they left for Dayton.

HUNDREDS IN GREAT PERIL.

Steamer Meets with Accident Near New York.

The Spanish steamer Antonio Lopez, with 526 passengers and a crew of 135 men, grounded on Fire Island near New York City Wednesday night and lay on the beach all night, pounded by heavy seas. Rockets sent up for assistance warned the summer life saving crew at Point O'Woods life saving station, but they could do nothing until daylight. Early Thursday wrecking tugs reached the stranded steamer, a lifeboat was launched through the surf and the work of transferring the women and children passengers to the wrecking tugs was begun. The sea was still too high to permit the passengers to be landed. The steamer appeared to be undamaged and in no immediate danger, as the sea was subsiding. Most of the passengers were from Italian and Spanish ports, including Naples, Genoa and Cadiz, and they were bound for Vera Cruz, Mexico, to which port the steamer intended to proceed after touching at New York.

The loss was not discovered until the train had departed. The sack taken was a through pouch from Chicago to St. Louis.

May's Record Small.

May's record of excavation on the Panama canal—2,986,096 cubic yards—was the smallest for any month during the past year.

COMMERCIAL FINANCIAL

CHICAGO.

Further evidences of the improving state of business generally are seen in a lower record of failures and a new high five-day exhibit of heavy payments through the banks. The official report and other advices indicate that the crops make seasonable progress, the growing condition being entirely favorable. Unsettled weather here retarded full activity in the leading retail lines, but considerable demand developed in the wholesale branches of general merchandise and shipments by dry goods houses were larger than usual at this period. Transportation of freight and passengers show expansion. There is a notably increased marketing and outgo of grain, and heavier movements occur in finished products of the mills and factories and in lumber, wool and building materials.

Improved demands strengthen the conditions in iron and steel, and this causes more drawing upon capacity of furnaces, forges, foundries and car shops. Railroad needs come forward quite freely now and are of more variety and extent than recently noted. The effect stimulates preparations for extended enterprise in manufacturing and more hands find re-employment. Numerous bookings strengthen operations in pig iron, rails, equipment, brass working and furniture. Heavy consumers find the cost of supplies rising, and this induces wider buying to protect future requirements. The markets for raw materials are amply stocked, except hides, which decreased in variety and have firmer prices for the better qualities. Industrial prospects would be brighter with an early settlement of tariff revision, but much encouragement is derived from the excellent outlook in agriculture, values of the principal farm products assuring an accession of wealth to advance manufactures and distribution.

Bank clearings aggregate $75,108,417 for five days and exceed those for six days a year ago by 2.6 per cent. The total for the corresponding week in 1907 was $246,844,613.

Cultures reported in the Chicago district number 21, against 25 last week, 21 in 1908 and 14 in 1907. Those with liabilities over $5,000 number 4, against 6 last week, 8 in 1908 and 5 in 1907.—Dun's Review of Trade.

NEW YORK.

Reports from leading industries are, on the whole, favorable, so far as looking of future orders is concerned, iron and steel are active in finisher lines, though output is still below normal in some districts. Some wage advances are reported and resumption of blast furnaces are reducing the floating labor supply. There is reported a widening demand for cotton goods; print cloths have regained the loss of a few weeks ago; woolen goods trade reports are of good business booked or pending, and wool, though less active than of late, is still very strong at high-level prices. The leather trade is active, with high prices ruling in sympathy with hides and skins, which are apparently scarce. Eastern shoe orders are fair. Shipments are 24 per cent larger than a year ago, but smaller than in any previous year back to 1902. Building trade reports confirm earlier predictions of a record spring construction in an enormous total far surpassing all previous monthly records ever compiled.

Business failure for the week ending with June 10 in the United States were 197, against 191 last week, 253 in the like week of 1908, 161 in 1907, 170 in 1906 and 175 in 1905. Failures in Canada for the week number 22, which compares with 29 last week and 24 in the like week of 1908.—Bradstreet's.

WHOLE NATION PAYS HOMAGE TO WRIGHTS

Aviators in Washington Receive Aero Club Medals from President Taft.

THOUSANDS ATTEND CEREMONY

Governors Send Laudatory Messages Which Are to Be Given to the "Conquerors of the Air."

The achievement of man-flight, for which men have striven for more than 4,000 years, was celebrated in Washington Thursday. After receiving a message from the rulers of Europe, Wilbur and Orville Wright, of Dayton, Ohio, on that day received their first public recognition by their fellow countrymen. In the east room of the White House President Taft presented to the inventors the gold medals awarded to them by the Aero Club of America to commemorate the invention of the first successful flying machine.

The event was one of national interest. The governors of the various States sent laudatory messages congratulating the Wrights on their success. These, together with the resolutions adopted by the numerous scientific organizations and letters written by prominent scientists, have been put in book form and will be presented to the Wrights.

The Wright brothers, after being entertained at luncheon by the Aero Club of Washington, proceeded to the White House. They were presented to the President by Representative Herbert Parsons of New York, who told of their great achievements. In presenting the medals, President Taft spoke briefly. More than 1,000 invitations had been sent out for the White House ceremony.

At its annual meeting last year the Aero Club of America, the pioneer aviation club in the United States, decided the Wrights to honorary membership and decided to award to each a gold medal. These were prepared at a cost of $2,300, obtained through the subscriptions of its members. The medals bear the likenesses of the two brothers on one side and an inscription on the reverse side.

Wilbur and Orville Wright, accompanied by their sister, Miss Katherine Wright, were met at the station by a delegation from the Aero Club of America. The Wright brothers were taken to the Cosmos Club, where they were entertained.

ARSENIC IS FOUND IN BREAD.

Rich Indiana Woman Thinks Poison That Killed Farmer Was for Her.

The presence of arsenic in the bread sample sent to the food and drug laboratory of the State Board of Health by former Congressman John C. Cheney of Sullivan, Ind., has been established by a test just completed, and on the strength of the discovery preparations are being made to investigate the cause of the recent death of Spencer Spriggs, living in Haddon Township, Sullivan County. In addition to the bread samples, a sample of flour was sent to the laboratory, but this has not yet been tested. Spriggs and Sam and Howard Whitfield are said to have been poisoned May 24, the symptoms being typical poisoning. The two Whitfields recovered, but Spriggs died.

Mrs. Flora Haddon believes the poison was placed in the bread in order to cause her death. Spriggs lived on her farm. Mrs. Haddon had told of receiving three anonymous letters recently on which were pictured a skull and crossbones, telling her to leave or she would be killed. Mrs. Haddon was recently defendant in a suit brought by Frank Crawford, postmaster in the Hawaiian Islands, involving land valued at $200,000. The jury decided in her favor.

CAPITOL COMMENT

The daily mail of the President of the United States averages about 400 letters; and it has been falling off gradually since the inauguration. During the month of March he received as high as 600 letters a day. The greater part of them were purely formal, conveyances of congratulations, congratulations and commendation for office, suggestions, communications, suggestions, suggestions and newspaper reports of his policy. The average number of letters used to receive an average of 500 letters a day. President Cleveland usually used other Presidents, and since Cleveland's time the number of letters has more than doubled. Probably President Roosevelt received more letters than any other man that ever lived, and they spread over a wide range of subjects. If the President tried to read all of them he would have to have very little time for anything else. The mail is not read, opened, read, sorted and classified according to the subjects it contains. This is done by confidential clerks of experience, who have specific instructions. All letters referring to routine matters of general interest to various bureaus and departments of the government are placed in a basket by the subject matter of their contents; all purely formal letters are answered by a corps of secretaries under the direction of the department secretary of the President, who signs them; communications of a special, official or confidential interest are placed in a basket for the President and the President reads one-fourth of the letters that have been placed in this basket. The President reads one-fourth of the letters that have been placed in this basket. The President reads one-fourth of the letters that have been placed in this basket.

Secretary of War Dickinson, in the light of the fact that the army has triumphed, has ordered Maj. George O. Squier of the Signal Corps to prepare plans for the aerial defense of the Atlantic coast, the same to serve as a model for similar works on the Gulf and Pacific coasts of the country. A general plan in contemplation is to have the coast defended by zones of balloons, of 250 miles each, at the ends of which balloons would be constructed, with supplies for maintaining modern airplanes and dirigibles. Each balloon will patrol the coast for 125 miles on each side of the zone. If Congress can be prevailed upon to spend money for this purpose, the station will have a fleet of aeroplanes for scout work and the air arm will be charted.

Estimates for defraying expenses of collecting the customs revenue, which have been sent to Congress by Secretary Cortes, show the rate of gate expense throughout the country is $1,047,222. Of this amount $5,000 is expended for temporary employees and miscellaneous traveling, $200,000 for salaries and expenses of special inspectors and $847,222 for special agents. The largest expenditure made at any one port is at New York, where the outlay amounts to $170,950.

The Internal Revenue Bureau has issued a modification of its ruling as to the packing of small quantities of coloring matter in manufacturers' original packages of uncolored oleomargarine. In the new regulation the former ruling is construed as holding that while the law does not specifically prohibit the packing of small quantities of coloring matter in original packages of oleomargarine, it is a practice which cannot be proved because of the opportunity it affords for the adulteration of the product.

There is little prospect that the army will be replaced by motor engines in the transportation of supplies to troops in the field. Changes in the engines would be more effective and economical have not been made to the military experts. The general staff reports to the War Department that the adoption of the engine is not advisable. In transporting supplies in a country where good roads do not prevail experts agree that horses and mules are better than engines.

Ten thousand dollars for the purchase of the site upon which Fort M. in Baldwin County, Alabama, stood, and for the erection of a monument, appropriated in a bill introduced by Representative Wiley (Ala.), Nov. 11 of the men, women and children occupying the Garrison at Fort M. were massacred by the Creek Indians on Aug. 30, 1832.

Many cities and civic organizations have asked Congress to provide condemned cannons and rifles, but the first request of the kind from this country has been received. It came from the Union Guard, a military organization attached to the Church of the Most Holy Trinity of Brooklyn, N. Y., which asked to be furnished with fifty condemned rifles.

FIND BLACK HAND LAIR; GANG IS RUN TO EARTH

Postoffice Inspectors Discover Band Whose Operations Extend Over State of Ohio.

BOMB HAD NOTE PINNED TO IT

Arrests Made of Men Said to Be Chiefs of Italian Blackmailing Organization.

In several arrests made in Columbus, Marion and Denison, Ohio, Tuesday federal inspectors and detectives who worked in conjunction with them in the case believe that as a result of months of effort they have unearthed the biggest and best organized branch of the Black Hand in this country. Marion, Ohio, being probably the head of the organization. Chief Postoffice Inspector Charles Holmes of Cincinnati is authority for the statement that evidence has been secured showing that the gang operating from Marion and with lines reaching into a number of the cities of the country, has received different persons in that and other States out of thousands of dollars in the last few months by the application of Black Hand methods.

The men arrested were Sam Lima and Joe Rizzo, at Marion; Antonio Vicario, at Columbus, and A. Maris, at Denison. Lima is said to be the chief of the band. Inspector Holmes said he was expecting word from Bellefontaine, Ohio, of two more arrests, and these, he said, would be of vital importance in connection with those already made.

The Big Booby.

Inspector Holmes says that the gang which conducted its operations from Marion was composed of Italians and worked exclusively upon their countrymen. He has obtained evidence that has late as two weeks ago they sent from the Marion post office money orders aggregating $1,000 to confederates in Italy, this being the division of blackmail funds in one case. Many such bits of evidence, it is claimed, are in possession of the inspectors.

Among those who refused demands for money were John and Charles Ann, Columbus commission merchant. The sum of $10,000 was sought from each. In January Mrs. John Annion found in the rear of the house a dynamite bomb and fuse, wrapped with one of the letters demanding payment from her husband. Several Columbus Italians are believed to have paid $1,000 each. Two Italian murders in Marion are generally charged to the gang, but there has been no proof. The gang also is charged with assassinations in Bellefontaine and Denison.

Followed to Italy. After demands for money had been ignored an attempt was made in April, 1908, to blow up the some of Agostino Genarino, Columbus. Genarino fled to Italy and did not return until a month ago. While in Italy he received a letter mailed in Italy, renewing the demand, with a threat that there was no escape in returning to his old home.

Black Hand letters in the hands of the officials, written to Italians in Columbus, Cincinnati and other cities, are all said to be written by the same person, an Italian, with the same ink and on the same kind of paper. In the raid at Marion, ink and paper were captured which is identical with that used in making the demands.

Most of the letters received in Columbus and other Ohio cities were mailed in Pittsburgh, where the money was to be paid. It is believed that they were written in Marion and passed through the hands of several messengers in different cities before being mailed.

WOMAN HELD IN TRAIN HOLDUP.

Federal Authorities Detain Italian Woman as Witness.

John Shelton, alias Jack Gordon, and William Stephenson arrived in Omaha the other night in charge of two deputy inspectors. Shelton will be charged with being one of the men who held up and robbed the Overland Limited train on the Union Pacific and the woman will be held as a witness. The Stephenson woman said she would tell all she knew. She declared she had heard nothing of the holdup until her arrest, and that Shelton had given no information on that subject. The authorities gave up the idea that there was a fifth man in the holdup and will proceed with the prosecution of the four men now arrested.

Floods due to heavy rains, in some instances approaching cloudbursts, and melting snow is causing damage in many sections of Colorado. Four lives have been lost in swollen streams, and much destruction of property caused. Train service in all directions has been interrupted. The Grand Junction water system is threatened by a flood in the Grand and Gunnison rivers, and other enterprises there face heavy damage. Around Greeley the lowlands are being flooded by a sudden rise in the Cache la Poudre River. A dam southeast of Denver burst, and the water swept through the lower parts of the suburban town of Englewood, causing considerable damage. In the neighborhood of Limon the junction point of the Rock Island and the Union Pacific Railroads, a cloudburst changed the Big Sandy from a dry bed to a roaring river, flooding many farms in the low sections.

SHELT IN COFFEE TRADE.

Deal Indicates Sugar Company May Abandon Branch Business. Norman Siolek, of Crossman & Siolek, coffee importers and exporters of New York, has bought the Wolsen Spice Company from the H. O. Hageneyer estate and other stockholders. The consideration is not divulged. Siolek will erect a greatly enlarged new plant. The deal is said to mean that the so-called sugar trust will abandon the coffee branch. Mr. Siolek is a stockholder in the American Sugar Refining Company.

DR. E. E. HALE IS DEAD; END COMES SUDDENLY

Famous Preacher and Chaplain of the Senate Expires at Roxbury, Mass.

WAS AN AUTHOR OF NOTE.

Born in 1822 of Revolutionary Stock and Showed Precocity as Child—Ordnained at Age of 20.

Rev. Dr. Edward Everett Hale, chaplain of the United States Senate, died at his home in Roxbury, Mass., Thursday. A week previous he was present at a celebration in honor of the nineteenth birthday of Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, his contemporary in many of the reform movements with which both had been identified for more than fifty years. At the bedside were Mrs. Hale, Philip L. Hale, a son; Ellen, a daughter, and the family physician.

As an advocate of world peace and a humanitarian whose activities have been many and forceful, Dr. Hale, who was pastor emeritus of the old South Church of Boston, which pulpit he filled regularly from 1856 until 1900, had a career of usefulness that is unique in American history.

Born in Boston April 3, 1822, Dr. Hale came of famed New England stock. His father, Nathan Hale, was a nephew of the patriot whose dying utterance, "I only regret that I have but one life to lose for my country," is graven deeply in the chronicles of the nation's struggle for liberty. His mother was a sister of Edward Everett, for whom his son was named.

It was cradled in the sheets of a newspaper, for his father was publisher of the Boston Advertiser, the first daily to be published in New England. Educated for a life of letters, the boy made rapid strides in school, and at 17 was graduated from Harvard University. At 20 he was licensed to become a minister. He regarded war as a barbarism which settled old questions of military strength and not questions of right and wrong, and he had a large part as editor of the Peace Crusade, in bringing about the Hague tribunal. As an author, in which his aim was moral rather than artistic, Dr. Hale produced several enduring works.

In defiance of advancing years, Dr. Hale continued in the public eye until stricken by his last illness. On the death of Dr. William H. Milburn, the blind chaplain of the Senate, Dr. Hale succeeded him, his hoary head and rugged frame haking an impressive figure in that chamber.

Steamer Burns; Nine Escape. The steamer Irons Age of Huron, Ohio, burned to the water's edge off Bar Point in Lake Erie. Captain William J. Willoughby and his crew of nine men escaped in small boats.

U. S. GAINS IN CANADA TRADE.

Reports Show That British Are Losing Dominion Business.

Merchandise from the United States forms a steadily increasing share of the imports of Canada, as shown by figures from Canadian official publications just received by the Bureau of Statistics of the Department of Commerce and Labor in Washington. Furthermore, Canada's imports from Great Britain have declined during their period of increase from this country. Whereas imports from the United States to Canada increased from 34.02 per cent of the total importations of Canada in 1869 to 60.4 per cent of the fiscal year ending March 31, 1909, the imports from Great Britain have decreased during the same period from 55.2 per cent to 22.69 per cent. Two-thirds of Canada's imports are manufactured, amounting in 1907, the last year for which statistics are available, to $166,000,000. Of this amount $89,000,000 worth, 53 per cent of the total, were from the United States, and only $54,000,000, or 33 per cent, from Great Britain. Merchandise entering Canada from the United Kingdom and most of the British colonies is admitted at rates materially below those of the general tariff paid by merchandise from the United States.

$650,000 FIRE; MAN KILLED.

Big Mill and Elevator of Cereal Company at Decatur, Ill., Destroyed.

In a fire which started shortly after 1 a. m. Tuesday from electric wiring on the sixth floor of the mill of the Decatur Cereal Company, the entire plant was destroyed, with a loss of $650,000. The insurance is $165,000. In addition to 80,000 bushels of corn in an adjacent elevator, also owned by the Decatur Cereal Company, were destroyed. In an effort to rescue some of the office effects of the firm, John Sheehy, a fireman, was struck on the head by a falling timber and was instantly killed. The buildings were situated at Eldorado and Vanduyke streets, with a frontage of two blocks on the Wabash railroad. The elevator had a capacity of 100,000 bushels of corn. The entire local fire department responded to the general alarm, but from a lack of water pressure they could do nothing to check the progress of the blaze. The company manufactured starch, but one of its main products was corn grits, used largely by brewers. It employed a large number of men and was one of the biggest manufacturing concerns of Decatur.

TAKES OUTS ARMY'S COST.

On Orders of President Estimates Are Reduced $22,000,000.

Following the dictum of President Taft that the War Department estimates to be submitted to Congress for the fiscal year 1911 be cut to $20,000,000 below the appropriations for the fiscal year 1910, the officials have brought them down to nearly $22,000,000 below the appropriations for 1910. They are now to be taken in hand by Secretary Dickson for final revision and the possibility is the figures may be increased somewhat before he finishes with them. Officials regret that the great cut in appropriations will mean the elimination of practically all construction work during the fiscal year 1911, except such as is under contract.

Try to Kill Ex-Sultan.

A London news agency publishes a dispatch from Constantinople saying that an unsuccessful attempt is reported to have been made by the reactionaries to kidnap Abdul Hamid, the deposed Sultan of Turkey, from the house where he is residing in Saloniki. Several officers are said to have been killed in the struggle.

POLITICS and POLITICIANS

Walter E. Clark, a Washington newspaper man, has been appointed governor of Alaska, and William S. Washburn, of New York, has been appointed civil service commissioner to succeed James T. Williams, resigned.

Because they consider it an affront to the dignity of the lower house, the seven Wisconsin assemblymen subpoenaed by the Senate committee investigating the re-election of Senator Stephenson ignored the command of the upper house and their action was approved by the assembly. The committee wish to continue it until the extra session next January, when it will be able to bring before it the assemblymen who have taken advantage of their constitutional privilege as legislators.

The Wetmore bill, which had passed the Michigan Senate and provided a salary of $5,000 for the clerk of the Supreme Court, was defeated. It came up for consideration again in committee of the whole in the House and the farmers renewed their fight to have the figure placed at $3,500. They failed. The clerk will now receive the fees of the office, which amount to much more than $5,000.

A campaign is well under way to elect Gov. Johnson United States senator from Minnesota to succeed Moses E. Clapp, whose term expires in 1911.

THOUSANDS TO GET MORE PAY.

Steel Companies Announce Good Trade Will Enable Increase.

Wages of the 7,000 men in the Pennsylvania Steel Company at Steelton, Pa., which were cut 10 per cent on April 1, are to be restored on July 1. The 2,000 employees of the Maryland Steel Company at Baltimore are also to profit by the same increase because of the improvement in trade.

Ground has been broken at Sparrow's Point, Md., for the new open heart steel department of the Maryland Steel Company, to cost $1,000,000. It also is announced that the National Tube Company's Riverside works will resume operations in the steel plate and tube departments, employing 5,000 men. The United States Steel Corporation is now operating 80 per cent of its blast furnace capacity, the highest level reached since the panic of October, 1907. Orders have been coming in at the rate of between 30,000 and 40,000 tons a day.

WANT TO EXPEL PROF. FOSTER.

Baptist Ministers Say Educator's Views Proclaim Him Unitarian.

The efforts of the Chicago Baptist ministers to expel Prof. George Burman Foster from the church and if possible from the faculty of Chicago University have stirred up the biggest row the church there has seen in many years. The ministers declare that Dr. Foster's views, as laid down in his latest book, "The Function of Religion in Man's Struggle for Existence," proclaim him no longer a Baptist. They say he is a Unitarian and has insulted his fellow clergymen. Foster refuses to resign and asserts he is a "typical old-fashioned Baptist, of the kind that fought, bled and died for human freedom."

WOMAN KILLS SON AND HERSELF.

Dr. Foster's 17-year-old son, George, has added humor to the serious situation by his action when he defended his father on "constitutional grounds." He demanded that the ministers "review the book, not the man," saying it was against the constitution of this government to restrict a man's thoughts.

WOMAN KILLS SON AND HERSELF.

Witness of Boy Is Believed to Have Worried Politician's Wife. Mrs. Elizabeth Sharp, well known in society and the wife of G. V. Sharp, a politician and manufacturer of Salem, O., killed her 12-year-old son, Harold, and then herself with a revolver. The motive for the tragedy is believed to be the woman's sorrow over the incurable nature of her son's malady. He had been mentally deficient from birth. Mrs. Sharp was 43 years old.

WOMAN KILLS SON AND HERSELF.

Extend the Age of the Earth. Information derived from a recent experiment with a chunk of thorite leads R. J. Strutt, son of Lord Rayleigh, to the conclusion that it could not have been accumulated in less than 240,000,000 years, thus tending to confirm the geological theory of the age of the earth. Certain eminent physicists have estimated that the sun itself could not have existed more than 115,000,000 years, but this view is now discredited in favor of the geologists' estimate of 230,000,000 years.

OCEAN LINER IS WRECKED.

Slavonia Goes Ashore in Azores—110 Passengers Safely Taken Off.

The transatlantic steamer Slavonia of the Cunard line, bearing 110 saloon passengers and 300 steerage passengers, was stranded Friday off Flores Island in the Azores group. The vessel is practically a wreck and it is thought that refloating will be impossible. The vessel was bound from New York to Naples and Genoa.

None of the passengers was lost in the wreck, however, owing to the quick work of rescue which was done by the liner Princess Irene of the North German Lloyd line and the Hamburg-American liner Batavia. These two vessels, summoned by wireless from the Slavonia, stood by and took off all of the passengers, the saloon guests being taken aboard the Princess Irene and the steerage passengers being taken off by the Batavia. The list of cabin passengers as given out by the Cunard line contains but few addresses, but the first class passengers are practically all Americans.

The weather conditions were not mentioned in the dispatches, but it is surmised that the sea was calm and that the stranding of the Slavonia was due to foggy weather. Flores island is the most westerly of the Azores group with dangerous and precipitous cliffs. The island is about 20 miles long and nine miles wide. It is thickly populated and has a hilly surface of which the highest point is an extinct crater. The inhabitants raise cattle and poultry and wheat for the Spanish markets.

The Slavonia was a sister ship of the Ultonia, Pannonia and Carpathia and one of the best liners in the Mediterranean trade. It was a steel twin screw of 10,600 tons gross and 510 feet long. It was valued at about $750,000.

things, what's he here for, anyway? Deputy State Food Commissioner S. L. Mains has issued the following circular to cream patrons, relative to the handling of cream.

Office of State Food, Drug and Dairy Commission. Bulletin No. 6. To all Cream Patrons. Owing to the fact that a large amount of the cream now being sold in Nebraska has been held too long before delivery and has otherwise not been properly cared for, we are offering the following suggestions for improving the quality and thus increasing the price received by the producer for his dairy products.

How to Handle Cream

Milk the cow in a clean manner and in clean surroundings. Remove the milk as soon as possible from the barn and strain before separating. Separate at once and cool the fresh cream before mixing with that being held for delivery. If possible cool to 50 or 55 degrees and keep at that temperature until delivered. Stir all cream that is being collected for delivery at least two or three times a day and do not hold longer than four days in cold weather and three days in warm weather. Separate the cream to test 45 per cent. or 50 per cent. if possible, and do not let it run below 30 per cent. Rich cream will keep better than thin cream and you save the skimmed milk.

A Hard Road

Man comes into the world without his consent and leaves against his will. During his stay on earth his time is spent in one continuous round of contraries and misunderstandings by the balance of the species. In his infancy he is an angel, in his boyhood he is a devil, in his manhood he is everything from a lizard up, in his dotage he is a fool. If he raises a small check he is a thief and then the law raises the devil with him. If he is a poor man he is a poor manager, if he is rich he is a dishonest. If he is a politician he is a grafter, if he is out of politics you can't place him and he is an undesirable person. If he is in a church he is a hypocrite. If he is out of church he is a sinner and he is damned. If he donates to foreign missions he does it for show, if he doesn't he is stingy. When he first comes into the world everybody wants to kiss him, before he goes out they all want to kick him. If he dies young there was a great future before him, if he lives to a ripe old age he is simply living to save funeral expenses. Life is a funny road, but we all like to travel it just the same.—The Worker.

Stream of Gold

The pastures of Nebraska are now as luxuriant as ever they were since the moment this old world was flung from the hand of the Creator. And by that token the loving kine are knee deep in clover, which is to preface the observation that the June flow of milk and other dairy products is at the flood. Simply amazing is the volume of this business, which has grown in this state by leaps and bounds. The stream of gold that is coming by reason of it helps to account for the glittering procession of automobiles skimming along the public highways of Nebraska, and filled with laughing, dimple-cheeked maidens—and others—and the bulging, plethoric condition of the banks of the commonwealth.

The Old Silver Dollar

How dear to our hearts is the old silver dollar when some kind subscriber presents it to you. The liberty bond, without motto or collar. And all the strange things that to us seem so new. The wide-sweeping eagle, the arrows below it. The stars and the words with the queer things they tell. The coin of our fathers! We're glad that we know it. For some time or other 'twill come in right well.

Serious Losses

Hog breeders west of town report a peculiar malady among their herds this spring. Brood sows and young pigs get poor and scrawny, go blind and finally die. I. O. Bingham has lost upwards of the hundred sows and pigs, and others have suffered severely.—Hartington Herald.

Where Do They Go?

The largest pin factory in the world is at Birmingham, England. It turns out 37,000,000 pins every day. Bilious? Feel heavy after dinner? Tongue coated? Bitter taste? Constipation? Liver needs waking up. Doan's Regulents cure bilious attacks. 25 cents at any drug store.

School Officers and Teachers

The director must file his reports with the county superintendent on or before July 8. It is the duty of the moderator to preside at all school meetings. He is the chairman or president.

All teachers except those holding life certificates will be expected to attend the teacher's institute this year.

If your teacher has given satisfaction, rehire her if possible. Don't take chances, by making changes often.

Let good enough alone when it comes to changing teachers and school officers. No one is so bad, that we cannot find someone who is worse.

All district treasurers are required to give bond and no bond is for less than $500. It is the duty of the director, the moderator and the county treasurer to see that the district treasurer gives proper bond.

Parents who reside nearer to the schoolhouse in an adjoining district, should make application to the county superintendent before June 28, if they desire to be transferred to the adjoining district for school privileges.

The treasurer should keep an accurate account of all school funds under his control and make a report of his receipts and expenditures at the annual meeting. Mr. Treasurer, be prepared to read your report to the meeting this year.

The Annual School Meeting will be held at your schoolhouse June 28. If you are dissatisfied with your school officers in any way, then is the time to speak out. If the members are giving satisfaction, retain them. A change is a bad thing, in such cases.
