Gets Top Price for Hogs

A South Omaha live stock paper printed Friday says: "F. M. Griffith of Wayne marketed a prime load of Durac Jersey hogs this morning averaging 204 pounds that sold at the top figure of the day, $8.05. This sale is as high a figure as has been paid on this market for hogs since 1893. In 1902 the same top was paid. Mr. Griffith is well known as a breeder and raiser of good hogs."

Loses Valuable Diamonds

Norfolk, Neb., July 16. Mrs. C. H. Bowers today lost diamonds worth $1,000 on the streets of Norfolk and has not recovered the gems yet. The jewels were in a chamois bag which was lost in the business part of town. There were four rings with five diamonds and a ring with six pearls. Mrs. Bowers is the wife of C. H. Bowers, a linotype operator. Her diamonds were probably the most beautiful assortment owned in Norfolk. It is feared that the gems have been found by someone who may have hid them.

Got Their Scalps

The Wayne Commercial Club base ball club came home Friday evening with banners flying and horns tooting over the victory they won on the Pilger diamond that afternoon, defeating the Pilger nine by a score of nine to five. An umpire was taken from here but the Pilger club objecting to him, they were allowed to select their own, and then with Cooper, their best pitcher, in the box they went down to defeat. Sabs and Sken were the battery for the Wayne boys and did excellent work, the Pilgerites only being able to get four safe hits off from Sabs. Capt. Witter also made a few changes of positions in the field which materially strengthened the team.

A Daylight Fair

Acting on the belief that the crowds see between eight o'clock in the morning and six o'clock in the evening, enough fair for one day, the management of the Interstate Live Stock Fair, Sioux City, Iowa, has decided to condense all the entertainment to be given at the Fair Grounds into afternoon programs. This arrangement will keep thousands of visitors downtown, and as a consequence, the thoroughfares of the business district will swarm with carnival throngs. The Fair Association has engaged Liberati's band to furnish evening concerts at the new auditorium. All the theatres of the city will provide special bills and there will be various other forms of amusement. The downtown streets will be brilliantly illuminated and the stores and office buildings will be decorated in holiday garb. There will be nightly "battles" between the confetti throwers.

Will Recover

A. B. Nicholas, who went to Chicago some time ago and underwent a surgical operation to remove the cause of facial neuralgia from which he had been a severe and constant sufferer for a long time, passed through the operation successfully and a letter received from him Monday morning bore the cheering information to his friends that his full recovery and restoration to health was now an almost assured certainty. The operation was of such a delicate nature that the celebrated Mayo Brothers at Rochester, Minnesota, would not undertake it. An incision was made in his head over the brain and a piece of the bone removed and then the large nerve that runs from the brain along the right side of the face was entirely removed. To show how delicate an operation it really was we have only to cite the fact that had the delicate membrane over the brain, as thin as the white of an egg, been penetrated death would have been instantaneous.

Engineer York Is Injured

Rushing down a steep grade near Emerson, Nebraska, Friday morning and crashing into an extra freight that was on the main track, the engine of train No. 17 on the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha line was demolished, the engine of the extra damaged, and the engineer of No. 17, Oliver J. York, of South Sioux City, dangerously hurt. He was taken to the St. Joseph's hospital in Sioux City.

The train was going down the grade at a rate far above its usual speed, and the crew of the extra supposed that they would have time to get off the main track before the regular arrived. This was impossible, owing to the speed of No. 17, however, and the two trains collided head on. The members of both crews, with the exception of York, who pluckily stuck to his post, jumped, but the engineer was caught in the collision and his left leg so badly crushed that it probably will have to be amputated.

Mr. York is a well-known and popular engineer, having been in the employ of the Omaha road for nearly eight years.

If people with symptoms of kidney or bladder trouble could realize their danger they would without loss of time commence taking Foley's Kidney Remedy. This great remedy stops the pain and the irregularities, strengthens and builds up these organs and there is no danger of Bright's disease or other serious disorder. Do not disregard the early symptoms. Felber's Pharmacy.

Something Beautiful

If you have an eye for beauty and wish to see something really fine, you cannot do better if you have the money and time than to take a trip on the train any of these fine mornings over this part of the state. As you travel along there is an ever recurring change of light and shadow sweeping over the landscape as fleecy clouds, like great birds with outstretched wings pass underneath the sun. In the distance, on the hillsides and in the undulating vales, there are varying shades of green, denoting the different kinds of grain or grass growing in the field that by its golden color shows that it is ready for the sickle of the husbandman, while others are tinged in various degrees of ripening, each glistening in its fascinating fashion as the summer breezes play hide and seek amid the fields of growth, the heads nodding and bowing to each other in stately grace as they are touched by the cooling breeze. Close at hand and stretching away in every direction are great fields of corn, almost as high as a man's head, dressed in all the vivid greens such as only the master hand can paint, all giving rich promise of golden ears when the October winds and frosts shall have changed the myriad stalks from a green to a gray. Here and there on either side of your speeding train can be seen hundreds of cattle feeding upon the succulent grass, which in the wintry days to come, will be fed the golden corn that now flanks their pasture lots on either side. Setting on the hillsides or resting in the valleys can be seen the big red barns and happy farm homes nestled in a setting of trees and surrounded by evidences of thrift and prosperity. These and many other things can you see as you journey through this part of our fair state, and in your mind's eye you can catch a view of other days and scenes when as a young man or woman you longed to get out into the wide world, away from the quiet of the farm life, and battle for yourself with the stern forces all around you. The passing years gave you your desire all too soon, and now, having been jostled and scarred by the active duties that have been thrust upon you in the years ago, you would fain oftentimes go back to the home nest of long ago and lay your head at rest for a time on mother's lap, but these things are not to be, as mother and father have passed from the shores of time and strangers are installed where once loved ones used to dwell. If you can see things it will do you a world of good to get out away from home for even a day these growing weeks of July.

Our Eastern Neighbor

Friday morning we paid our first visit to Wakefield, our nearest neighbor to the east, and found there a very thriving town indeed. All classes of business are represented there and the stores give evidence of being presided over by a wide awake lot of men, who keep their stores and stock in fine condition. We do not know whether the prizes that have been offered for the best kept lawns and streets have had anything to do with the appearance of the town, but the residence streets give ample evidence that the owners of the houses and lots are doing their full share in adding to the general good looks of the town. We called at the Republican office, and there we found something certainly new for a printing office. He had a lady at work mopping the floor, and says that it is his custom to have her do it twice a month the year round. The office gives evidence of this careful forethought as everything was in a corresponding condition to the floor, nice and clean. The Republican is a good paper printed in a good town and deserves to prosper, which it is doing.

The ride between here and there showed that the corn was nearly as tall as a horse's back, and most of the fields were in a very good condition as to being free from weeds, much better than we supposed it would be. The fields were very uniform as to color, height, and general conditions, and nearly all fields were laid by last week, having become too large to cultivate. Some fields of barley or winter wheat, and perhaps both, seemed to be ripe enough for the harvester. The early oats were beginning to turn and the later ones well headed out. The meadow lands gave evidence of

Wayne County Teacher

(Mrs. Elsie Littel)

So far only twenty directors have notified this office of contracts made with a teacher for next year. We presume, of course, that many more have hired, but failed to send in notice. If they have not we will be in want of teachers. Out of the number who have notified us two pay $55, eight pay $50 and the others $45. The demand for experienced teachers has exceeded the supply this year.

There seems to be a general carelessness among those aspiring to teach this fall in regard to the class of certificate and the grades to be placed thereon. The opinion seems to be that if they can get grades high enough for a third grade, that is enough. This is not as it should be. Such an attitude could never be commended, but aside from this it is of commercial advantage to have as high a grade of certificate with as good grades upon it as it is possible to secure.

To date some districts have failed to send in their reports for the year just closed. Our annual report has been kept open for these delinquents, but it seems in some cases the officers are determined to cause the district to lose its state money by failing to attend to this matter. We are willing to do all in our power to aid in making out these reports providing that the proper officer cannot do so, but after this is done we feel that we have done our part.

The Wayne county institute will be held in the court house beginning the 23d of August. This is the week the schools begin and since all who do not live in Wayne county and expect to teach school here can arrange to attend this institute easily on that account, we do not intend to excuse anyone from institute except for exceptionally good reasons. Prof. Gregg, of Peru, Supt. Conn. of Columbus, and Miss Lura Phillips, of Cedar Falls, are the instructors for the week.

being covered with an abundant crop of hay and some little of it was being cut. Some few pieces of small grain on the low land appeared to be largely composed of weeds, so much so that to our eye they did not appear as though they would be worth cutting. The pastures were in good condition and hundreds of head of cattle might be seen therein, showing that much of the wealth of the farming community comes from this source. There was practically no evidence of there having been too much rainfall in this part of the state this year, and altogether the prospects of a good crop were pleasing, at least to a novice like myself.

Aggravating Things

There are a great many aggravating things in this world but some times a combination of events makes it seem as though there were a conspiracy of the elements or some other cause to cause men to lose their tempers and get on edge. Howard Whalen fully expected to have been moved into his new building by today and would have been if it were not for an untoward event that no one seems able to untangle. A part of the new furnishings were shipped from Quincy, Illinois, nearly two weeks ago, and up to Monday afternoon the railway companies had been unable to get any trace of the missing articles even, let alone delivering them. As it is Mr. Whalen just simply has to wait until they arrive, as he can do nothing in the way of putting on the wall paper and getting the other fixtures in place until those he is looking for arrive. It is certainly annoying. But it may be said in passing that when Mr Whalen gets the building in readiness for use the word "Whalen" will mean one of the very neatest, nicest and best appearing places of its kind in this section of the state. The name is already a synonym for lots of good things and under the new regime it will mean perfection in detail as well as quality.

Speaking of aggravating things leads us to say that no one profession or calling seems to be able to have them all its way. Over a week ago the weather conditions were such that our job rollers failed to do good work so we sent one set to Sioux City to have some new ones made. The other set we had were doing fairly good work until we sent the others away, when out of spite or for some other reason they simply refused to do anything at all and we have been forced to disappoint those who wanted work done. To make the matter doubly worse the firm at Sioux City has been having troubles of its own. In answer to our complaint of their being dilatory in filling the orders they say that the rollers have been cast at least six different times, but the weather conditions, or some other cause, has made it utterly impossible for them to get the rollers to pull out of the casting mold without tearing to pieces. They have some twenty other orders in like condition. All we can do is to watch and wait.

Some unknown philosopher says: We love the man who roses on his tongue, the man who sees the boy's dirty face, but mentions his bright eyes; who notices your shabby coat, but praises your studious habits; the man who sees all the faults, but whose tongue is quick to praise and slow to blame. We like to meet a man whose smile will light up dreariness, whose voice is full of music of the birds, whose handshake is an inspiration and whose 'God bless you' is a benediction. He makes us forget our troubles as the raven's dismal croak is forgotten when the thrush sings. God bless the man of cheer.

Sunday School LESSON

TARIFF MUST BE LOWER IS TAFT'S ULTIMATUM

President Tells Standpatters He Intends to See That Downward Revision Wins.

STATEMENT AS THREAT OF VETO

Executive Meets Arguments of Congressmen by Declaring Party Pledges Shall Be Kept.

President Taft clarified the tariff situation Friday by issuing his first formal statement on the subject. This statement, made after a conference with twenty-two Republican and one Democratic representative who demanded a high protective tariff, follows:

"Mr. Young of Michigan opposed free ore; Mr. Mondell opposed free coal or reciprocity with Canada and free hides; each on the ground that the policy would injure the interests in his State, and a discussion was participated in by other representatives, who urged that the doctrine of free raw materials was not a Republican doctrine.

"The President replied that he was not committed to the principle of free raw materials, but that he was committed to the principle of a downward revision of the tariff which he had promised, and that he was obliged to look at the matter not from the standpoint of any particular district, but from the standpoint of the whole country, and also from the standpoint of responsibility for the entire Republican party.

"He said the question in each case was a question of fact, to be determined by evidence, as to whether the present duty was needed for protection or whether the rates were excessive, so that a downward revision, or putting the article on the free list, would not injure the industry.

Taft Defines the Issue. "He repeated the platform of the Republican party and said that he had always understood that it meant a downward revision in many instances, though perhaps in some few instances an increase might be needed; that he reached this construction of the platform on what he understood to be the principle of protection and its justification—namely, that after an industry was protected by a duty equal to the difference between the cost of production in this country, including a fair profit to the manufacturer, the energy and enterprise of American business men and capitalists, the effectiveness of American labor and the ingenuity of American inventors under the impulse of competition behind the tariff wall would reduce the cost of production, and that, with the reduction in the cost of production, the tariff rate would become unnecessarily high and ought to be reduced.

"This was the normal operation of the tariff as claimed by the defenders of the protective system—not in every case, but as a general rule—that of course a revision of the tariff could not be perfect, must have defects and inconsistencies, but in so far as his influence went when called upon to act in connection with legislation it would be thrown in the direction of performing the promises of the party as he understood them; and that if iron ore and oil and coal and hides did not need protection and the conditions were such as to enable the ore producers and the oil producers and the coal producers and the producers of hides to compete successfully, without reduction of wages, with the producers from abroad, then they did not need a duty and their articles should go on the free list.

"It was a question of fact which he hoped to make up his mind with respect to, on such evidence as was available to him in order to carry out what he understood to be the promises of the party to the whole people. He said he felt that his position as the titular head of the Republican party and as President, with the whole people as his constituency, gave him a somewhat broader point of view than that of a single member of Congress in respect to articles produced in his district. He felt strongly the call of the country for a downward revision within the limitations of the protective principle, and he hoped to be able to respond to that call as he heard it, as well in the interests of the party as of the country."

STEAMERS COLLIDE; 14 DROWN.

Ore Freighter Sinks in Three Minutes—Crashes with New Boat.

Three minutes after the steel steamers Isaac M. Scott and John B. Cowle had collided in Lake Superior early Monday morning, about a mile and a half off Whitefish point lighthouse, the Cowle had gone to the bottom in fifty fathoms of water, carrying with it fourteen members of its crew. The Scott, although badly damaged about the bows, put back to Sault Ste. Marie, where it arrived in the afternoon with part of the crew of the Cowle.

A heavy fog was responsible for the collision. The Scott, a new boat on its maiden trip to the head of the lakes, had just passed the light at Whitefish point and straightened out its course up the lake when suddenly the John B. Cowle loomed up through the fog broadside to the Scott and only a few feet away. The Cowle was downbound with 8,000 tons of iron ore in the hold.

The ships were so close that it was said to be impossible to avoid a collision and the Scott crashed into the side of the heavily laden Cowle. For fifteen feet the bow of the Scott penetrated the side of the Cowle. Tons of water rushed into the great opening. Immediately after the collision a line was thrown from the deck of the Scott to the forward deck of the Cowle and three members of the crew escaped to the deck of the upbound boat by this means. The rest of the crew who were saved jumped from the sinking steamer into the lake, some without life preservers, and were picked up by the Scott and the steamer Goodyear, which was a short distance astern of the Scott when the collision happened. Capt. Rogers of the Cowle, was one of those who were rescued by the Goodyear.

BIG COUNTERFEITING PLOT.

Secret Service Men Say Gang Has Operated for 2 Years.

What the secret officers declare is an international counterfeiting plot with agents throughout Italy and the United States was revealed the other day when operatives arrested two Italian women and two Italian men in Chicago. A fifth arrest is expected. The officers refuse to divulge the names of the prisoners. According to the secret service men the gang has been operating in this country for four years. The plot where the counterfeiters are made in Italy, they declare, and is under the eyes of the Italian police. The operatives say thousands of dollars of bogus $5 and $10 silver certificates have been passed which were so well made that even experts had difficulty in detecting them. Secret Service Officer Ritchie recently told members of the gang at Warren, Mass. It is said, but made no arrests, hoping by following them to locate the plant. The Italian police later discovered the plant in Italy.

NAGEL OUSTS 100 EMPLOYEES.

Commerce and Labor Secretary Find Them Inefficient.

The greatest "shake-up" that has ever occurred in the personnel of the Department of Commerce and Labor in Washington took place Monday, when approximately 100 employees were reduced and the resignation of about ten others accepted. This action was taken by Secretary Nagel as the result of an investigation into the "efficiency record" of the employees. The reductions were made, it is stated, because the employees were found to have "loafed on the job," while those allowed to resign were found to be inefficient. The secretary's determination to inject new life into his department prompted the radical step. Further dismissals are to be made and resignations asked for; it was intimated, as soon as Secretary Nagel completes his examination of the efficiency report. Many of the clerks will receive promotions as a result of these changes.

Work of Congress

The House, after four hours' debate Monday, adopted by a vote of 317 to 14 the joint resolution submitting to the various legislatures for ratification the proposed amendment to the Constitution empowering Congress to levy an income tax. The Democrats voting for the amendment. Adjournment was taken until Thursday.

The Senate was in session twenty minutes Tuesday, adjourning at 12:20 until Friday. The major portion of the time of the sitting was devoted to a discussion of the unanimous consent agreement not to transact any business while the tariff conference is in progress. Senator Carter tried to have passed a bill pertaining to the affairs of the District of Columbia on the ground that the bill was "such a little one" that no harm could result from its passage. But Senators Lodge and Culberson, standing guard over the interests of the two sides of the chamber, objected and thus prevented action. The House was not in session.

The Senate was not in session Thursday. After a lively debate the Democrats in the House failed in their efforts to have a provision brought in by Mr. Tawney appropriating $25,000 for President Taft's traveling expenses ruled out or stricken out of an urgent deficiency bill. The latter measure was under consideration throughout the session. Members of the Democratic side were upbraiding their charges of bad faith, because the House at the last session, as they alleged, pledged itself not to make any additional allowances to the President. Mr. Rainey of Illinois gave as the reason for its presentation at this time the desire of the President to "boost" the League of Republican Clubs throughout the country.

The Senate was in session only eighteen minutes Friday, adjourning at 12:18 p. m. until Tuesday. In addition to the swearing in of Senator Clay of Georgia, the business consisted of the presentation of petitions and the introduction of bills of minor importance. Feverish excitement over the baseball game scheduled between teams representing the Democratic and Republican sides of the chamber was responsible for a short session of the House. Chairman Tawney's desire was to conclude consideration of the urgent deficiency appropriation bill, but strenuous pressure was brought to bear upon him, and the Speaker caused them to agree to let the bill go over until Monday. The only action of importance in connection with the deficiency bill was the striking out of the appropriation of $50,000 for participation by the United States in the Brussels exposition. At 2:44 p. m. the House adjourned until Monday.

HAS REPTILES TO TRADE.

Snake Expert at Bronx Zoo to Make Exchanges in Europe.

Raymond L. Ditmars, curator of the reptile house at the Bronx zoo, New York, has gone to Europe with several crates of poisonous American snakes and a number of surplus animals which have found birth in the zoo. These he will trade to the zoological gardens in England, Germany, France and other countries for other snakes, and animals which the Bronx zoo desires. In specially constructed crates he has taken a dozen vipers, a dozen diamond rattlers, a dozen common rat-tlers, a dozen coral snakes, several lance-head vipers from South America, a dozen moccasins and a few other deadly reptiles. In exchange for them Mr. Ditmars will bring back specimens of the cobra, asp, and other deadly snakes which are to be found in the East. The snakes and small animals of the Bronx zoo have been multiplying so rapidly that it has been found advantageous to trade them abroad for specimens not represented here.

Model Homes for Cities.

No utterance made at the recent Conference on City Planning at Washington has attracted wider attention than that of Henry Morgenthau, who said: "We now have in the ninety-one largest cities in the United States 25,000,000 of population at least. Many are dependent upon incomes of less than $500 a year. In twenty years this number will be doubled. What a great service to this nation it would be to solve their housing problem, make healthy, patriotic citizens the mainstay of the republic, instead of letting them drift into a disease-infected, socially-spendingly inclined mass, and then spending millions of dollars on hospitals to cure them, provisions to punish them and police to repress them."

COMMERCIAL FINANCIAL

CHICAGO.

The usual indices of trade activity continue to reflect accumulating strength and better disposition toward increasing active capacity in manufacturing. Weather conditions favor the growing crops and marketings of farm products are well sustained, those of live stock showing considerable increase. The markets for breadstuffs remain quiet, but packing is more extended, and there is good absorption of provisions for both domestic and export consumption. High temperatures stimulated demand for seasonable needs in the leading retail lines, and there is ample reduction of merchandise stocks here and at interior points.

Wholesale trade in the principal staples promises to show expansion. Buyers come forward in large numbers, and the demand is strong in textiles, clothing, footwear, food products and furniture. Compared with this time last year, there is larger forwarding of goods to country stores, while current bookings indicate gain in deliveries to be made of fall and winter lines. High prices and reasonable assurance of great crops make a remarkably prosperous position in agriculture, and this encourages more effort in the distribution of finished products and farm supplies.

Bank clearings, $269,236,328, exceed those of the corresponding week in 1908 by $41,167, and compare with $243,483,389 in 1907. Failures reported in the Chicago district number 29, against 20 last week, 50 in 1908 and 21 in 1907. Those with liabilities over $5,000 number 12, against 3 last week; 10 in 1908 and 5 in 1907. —Dun's Weekly Review of Trade.

NEW YORK.

Despite irregularities in crop and weather conditions, midsummer influences in trade and industry and conservatism in placing orders ahead, business is of fairly good volume for the season of the year and shows a perceptibly steady advance toward normal proportions. In retail trade clearances are universal, but there are numerous reports that reduced purchasing power offsets the stimulus offered by this means of inducing buying. Wholesale trade for immediate delivery and jobbing business in summer goods is of a light volume. Fall trade reports are still relatively the best of any branch. Still, there are reports of quiet in the Southwest, and Chicago seems to be the most active market in the country, with the Northwest coming next, as regards favorable reports.

Business failures in the United States for the week ending with July 15 were 206, against 182 last week, 215 in the like week of 1908, 177 in 1907, 13 in 1906 and 165 in 1905. Canadian failures for the week number 36, as compared with 27 last week and 23 the corresponding week of 1908.—Bradstreet's.
