HINTS ON HATCHING

Some Helpful Pointers on the Hatching, Housing and Brooding of Chicks

(By C. Frank Whitmy, Wayne, Neb., in Western Poultry Journal, Cedar Rapids, Ia.)

I have learned a lot of things from the columns of the poultry press since I have been fooling with chickens and expect to continue to do so. I have also learned a lot more things from practical experience. In this review of our methods of feeding, hatching and housing stock at our plant I will not doubt mention a lot of things that many already know, but while doing that I expect also to teach some of the beginners some handy and practical methods that they perhaps don't know.

To start with, one of the most important things to be considered in beginning the season's campaign is the selection and feeding of breeding stock for the highest possible per cent. of fertility of hatching eggs. It is generally conceded to be, and is, we believe, a fact that pullets that have been forced for winter egg production make poor breeders from the standpoint of egg fertility. Personally I prefer yearling hens as early breeders. Pullets hatched early enough to be fully matured in time for early breeding will generally begin laying before the arrival of cold weather and if given the ordinary attention that any flock should have will continue to produce eggs during the winter months, thereby lessening the per cent. of fertility during the spring hatching season. For late breeders, however, we believe that pullets hatched a little later in the season, enough later so that they do not begin laying in the late fall, and still not too late to be fully matured when the pens are to be mated up, are fully as good as the hens. Of course, much depends upon the breed, as to the age the pullets will begin to lay, properly mature for breeding, etc. Ours are the Plymouth Rocks and it is to this breed that we here refer. So much for breeding for fertility.

As to feeding, there are perhaps hundreds of schemes that are better than the one we employ, and no doubt our differ greatly from many of the so-called "scientific" or "secret" methods, but it has worked like a charm for us and we give it here for a trial by those who have found some other method unsuccessful. If the feeding scheme you are already using is giving satisfaction, stick to it. This is not for you. We learned a long while ago that it was necessary to couple a whole lot of judgment and horse-sense with the "dry-mash," "wet-mash" and "balanced-ration" feed menus that we read about in the poultry papers. Some of them are good, parts of others are good, and many that have been very successful under certain conditions are all wrong under others. So I say, if you have found a ration that does the business, keeps your stock healthy and gives you plenty of eggs of fairly high fertility, don't pass it up for one that you believe, because of its simplicity, will be easier to handle or for another that appears "scientific" because of its complication or the high-sounding names of some of its ingredients.

Our ration is very simple. Writers for poultry papers as a rule seem to be somewhat prejudiced against the first and principal article on the daily bill-of-fare of our flock—wheat screenings. They tell you they prefer good, clean grain, and recommend wheat instead—at $1 or more per bushel. Now if we were hopper feeding, so that it would be necessary or possible for the fowls as they gobbled up a mouthful of feed to take with it the dust contained in wheat screenings, we would not use it as a feed. But with each of our yards we have arranged an open shed the dirt floor of which is kept covered with straw and used as a scratching room, winter and summer, and all screenings are fed in that straw, where it is necessary for the fowls to pick it out a grain at a time, only eating such grains and seeds as they would get upon free range. The screenings we feed are a fair grade, never any damp or moldy grain, just small and broken grains of wheat, weed seeds of many kinds—and, of course, some dirt. These screenings cost us eighty cents per cwt., when wheat, none too good, either, sold at $1 per bushel, or about twice the price of the screenings. We believe that at least two-thirds of the screenings are good wholesome grain. If so, the difference in cost of the two is easily apparent. Why the screenings would not be as clean as the $1 wheat, when both are scattered in the litter of the scratching-shed, someone will have to show us. Of course it is necessary to feed a little more of the screenings than of the pure grain. In the morning we fed about one quart to every ten hens. Nothing else at that time but good, pure water. Fresh water is given regularly THREE TIMES EVERY DAY, the year round, cool in summer and warm in winter. At noon a mash composed of equal parts of bran and alfalfa meal mixed with table scraps, potato parings and enough water to form a crumbly mass, is given, just what they will clean up, no more. In the evening a few handfuls of clean wheat or oats are fed on the bare ground where it can be cleaned up quickly. On colder evenings corn is fed in lieu of the other grains. Beef scrap, oyster shell and grit are kept before them at all times. This constitutes the menu for our breeding hens. The cocks are fed a little extra corn from cans tacked up high enough on the wall so they will be beyond the reach of the hens. We have found the foregoing method the best we have ever used, both for number and fertility of eggs. While we have never specialized in extra heavy egg production, our flock of breeders have averaged better than eight eggs per day for each ten hens since February 1, and as to fertility, several hens have hatched every egg placed under them, except one, accidentally broken now and then, which is a record unequalled by me in the several years that I have been a breeder of poultry.

We incubate with hens altogether, buying the early hatches anywhere they can be secured. In this locality we pay about seventy-five cents each for broody hens. They can easily be sold for this money when the hatching season is over if they are properly fattened. This can be done by confining them in small quarters and feeding for fifteen days upon any good fattening ration, with plenty of grit and fresh water. This method we believe better than the use of incubators and brooders, unless one wishes to bring out several hundred chicks in a season, or to hatch the year round. We believe the small breeder can use the money to better advantage that he would have invested in hatching machinery which would be idle practically three-fourths of the year. Another reason that we use the hen is that, like many other of the smaller breeders of thoroughbred stock, our orders for hatching eggs at times exceed the number available and we find it much easier to save out one or two or three settings of eggs at a time for our own use than it would be to get together enough for one or more incubators and fill incoming orders at the same.

If possible, it is best to move the broody hens after nightfall to the nests you wish them to occupy. However, we have had to set many of them this season in daylight and have had no trouble with them leaving the nests, some of them being brought in common crates from a distance in the country. For the reason that we use the two-compartment orange boxes which we can buy at the fruit and grocery stores here for five cents each and which make a very convenient nest box, exactly the right size and as good in every way as made to order. Before using we spray thoroughly with a strong solution of Zenoleum, lime water or other good disinfectant and when dry fill with clean straw and dust well with louse killer. The top board is removed from the front of the box, also the front one from the top. This plenty of room is given the hen in going to and coming from the nest. It is sometimes necessary to lift her from the nest for one reason or another and if there is not plenty of room above to lift her clear of the eggs I have found that the average hen has a nasty habit of pedaling about among the eggs during the operation and will generally succeed in breaking two or three of them before she can be extricated. The hens and nests are then covered with a piece of old carpet or burlap, the hen being given a chink egg or two the first night and the setting the second night, or as soon as you are quite sure she means business.

One-half of one of our houses a pen eight by sixteen, is being used as a hatching-room this season. The nests are arranged around the walls and all are covered with burlap. Each nest is numbered in pencil with a number corresponding to the one on the leg-band placed on the hen when she is set. Thus it is possible to see that each hen after feeding returns to her own nest. While some hens seem to be satisfied on any nest, others are not and unless they can return to their own box are much more apt to break the eggs or leave them to get cold. The hens are thoroughly dusted with louse-killer when first placed on the eggs and every four or five days thereafter during the hatch, the house being thoroughly sprayed with Zenoleum every two weeks. We have been bothered but little with mites in the house and do not believe there is a louse on the hens or chicks hatched thus far. The hens are fed and watered daily, the burlap being lifted from the nests and all allowed to get at the same time. If fed regularly every day they will not be main off long and we stay with them until they have finished and see that they return to their respective nests. A "hatching record" is kept of every hen set, showing band number, date to hatch, number of eggs placed in nest, number of pen the eggs are from, number of chicks hatched by each hen and the mark placed in foot of chicks to show the number of the pen. All eggs are sprinkled with warm water the day before they are expected to hatch, the eggs and nest being well sprayed during the time much of the credit for our extra good hatches this season is due to this dampening of the eggs, as the season has been an exceptionally dry one and we hear much complaint of chicks dying in the shell at hatching time. Chicks are taken from the nest as soon as hatched and placed in baskets lined with warm woolen cloth. Many poultrymen who hatch with hens will tell you to keep away from Biddy during hatching time and some of them are so emphatic upon this point that it seems they are afraid some one will take the hen away altogether as soon as they see the eggs pipping so they can watch the hatch. However, we believe that a bird in the basket is worth two in the nest. We would rather take a chick from under the hen, even though not entirely dry, if it could be placed in a basket with others, than to leave it under the mother hen half a day.

We always set two or more hens at the same time so as to place the chickens hatched by the two with one of them, thus economizing on coop room and enabling us to reset about half the hens. We use the galvanized iron brood coops altogether and find that with them a hen can care for twenty or even twenty-five chicks in good shape. The galvanized coop we find much more satisfactory in every way than the boxes, half-barrels, etc., generally used. Anyone who has carried leaky boxes under shelter every time a shower came up for a season or two can appreciate a coop with a good tight roof, one that need not be carried about day or night, a coop that does not absorb moisture or afford a breeding-place for insects. Every other day the coops are cleaned and hens dusted with insect powder. This, we believe is all that is necessary to keep the chicks free from vermin. As soon as the hatch is finished the hen is placed in the coop, fed a little corn, and the chicks given to her. Straw is placed upon the floor of the coop for the first few days, thus making it easier for the little fellows to get about. Water, grit and charcoal is placed before the chicks, but no food is given them until the THIRD DAY after they are hatched. Some poultrymen advise us to feed in forty-eight hours, but experience has taught us that even four days is better than two or less. Our feed for the first week consists of equal parts of hard-boiled egg, toasted or very dry bread crumbs and oatmeal. Feed lightly at first and about five times a day. When the chicks are ten days old we begin feeding a chick food for the mid-forenoon and mid-afternoon meals, increasing it gradually until the entire ration consists of this feed, with, of course, the grit and pure water. The chick food that we use we have especially prepared and consists of one part of finely cracked corn, two parts of cracked wheat and two parts of millet. This feed, we believe, gives as good, or better satisfaction than the commercial chick feeds and costs us one-half a cent a pound less. When the chicks are three weeks old this feed is placed before them in whole feed. When six weeks old they are fed coarser cracked corn and whole wheat in the same manner. When they have outgrown the brood coops they are removed to our brood houses. These houses are built four by eight feet, four feet high in front and two feet in rear, well ventilated and covered, and accommodate fifty or more chicks until they are old enough to roost in the larger houses.

PURE LIME WATER

As lime water is mostly used for babies too much care cannot be taken in its preparation.

Ordinary builders' lime and city water are not good enough according to our idea.

We use pure lime and distilled water in making our lime water. Made fresh each week. A purer article cannot be produced. It costs no more than other lime water.

People Tell Each Other About Good Things.

Sixteen years ago few people in the world knew of such a preparation as a Powder for the Feet. Today after the genuine secret of Allen's Foot-Powder has been told year after year by one grateful person to another, there are millions who would as soon go to the moon as to be without Allen's Foot-Powder. It is a clean, wholesome, healing, antipruritic powder to be brushed into the shoes which are worn, and which are kept clean and soft by the use of it. It cures itching, smarting, scalding, burning, chafing, pricking and wear of the stockings and will save you from sore feet all winter. It is a powder for the feet, not a powder for the feet. It is a powder for the feet, not a powder for the feet. It is a powder for the feet, not a powder for the feet. It is a powder for the feet, not a powder for the feet.

She Didn't Care.
Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish, at a luncheon in New York, said with good-humored modesty of the fashions of the day: "They keep on, their outfits, really. It will become as natively selfish as Mrs. Dash's. Mr. Dash, as his young wife posed before the mirror in a doll-dresses gown from the dearest shop in the Rue de la Paix, regarded the pretty little lady indulgently, and said with a sigh: "You do look nice in that frock, dear, but it cost me a heap of money." "You dear old boy," she cried, "what do I care for money when it's a question of pleasing you?"

Flowers at Funerals.
The custom of having flowers at funerals is very ancient. The Greeks carried flowers to the Christian burial, and the Romans decked the funeral couch with leaves and flowers and spread flowers, wreaths and fillets on the tomb of friends. Most of our funeral customs are derived from the Romans such as dressing in black, walking or riding in procession, raising a mound over the graves, etc. and among the rest is that of using flowers at funerals.

The land is well watered, and the crops are abundant. The people are industrious and enterprising. The country is well adapted for agriculture, stock raising, and mining. It is a land of opportunity for the brave and bold." — Prof. Shaw.

RELIGION IN LIFE.
By Henry F. Cope.
"I will lift up mine eyes unto the hills from whence cometh my help." — Psalm xlii, 1.
It is not so strange that many should say they have no need for religion in their lives. To some it seems rather a mark of weakness than of strength. A yielding to superstitious fear or to popular custom or a sacrifice of the independent judgment in favor of a scheme which has been devised by the few for the deception of the many.
There is a good deal that goes under the name of religion that one ought to be ashamed not to disown: there are types of piety that are but confessions of poverty of intellect, and there are forms of faith that are only evidences of cowardly and superstitious fear. Wherever religion means being less a man, means dwarfing, shrinking the life, then one dare not acknowledge allegiance to it.
But there are so many imitations, so many pretenses of religion simply because the thing itself is so essential to the life of man. So far from the religious life being one of lesser living, so far from religion signifying the sacrifice of powers, the denying of reason, judgment, and the will, the truth is that no life can be in any sense complete without its spirit and power.
If there is one thing of which a man might well be ashamed of it is the loss of the spirit and ideals of religion in his life. Those characteristics which mark the trained, developed, ordered, educated life are the attributes of religion. There is no fullness of life, no mastery of the world, no conquest of the art of living without it.
No man can be a gentleman by the process of memorizing books of etiquette any more than he can find fullness of health by reading books on medicine and hygiene. The life of courtesy and the life of vigor and health have their hidden sources. Every life that realizes fullness and beauty has its hidden sources in the religious spirit. This is the power and secret of the perfect life.
The world is full of half-developed lives; men and women who are competent in spots; as strong in some things as they are weak in others, brilliant as to some of their ways and walking in darkness as to others; the man of affairs loses vision, the philosopher loses practical sense, the scientist loses an unbounded, soulless zeal, and all for the want of an aim that would preserve a balance and harmony in the life.
A man can so give his hand to business in that he becomes nothing but a hand; another can give his mind to intellectual problems so that he becomes only a brain carried around on stilts, while yet another becomes a stomach and no more. But religion gives to all lives the spirit and aim that appertains to every part its true function, subduing all to a purpose great enough to enlist all the powers and to bring them to harmonious fullness.
Religion means living for the sake of life itself; it means finding a sufficient motive in living. It is the point of view and the spirit in life that sets things in right relations, helps one to find true values and to know the things that are worth living for, to set the tools of life and the products of life in right relations.
Who is sufficient for living without this spirit? He who lives the right life knows that he has struck true and, true with the eternal laws of the universe; he who lives for love finds the real law of goodness; he who finds the truth and goodness, the life and love that are the heart of all, becomes a certainty to all of those who follow the light they have, who do the will of love.
The life of faith is living in loyalty to faith in life's best, in its higher values. This is the faith we need to nourish: faith in the righteousness of the universe, faith in goodness, truth, honor and right as over and against lust and meanness, falsehood and cowardice. He only has the truth who dares bend to the vision he has, who lives in the freedom of his light.

THE MISTAKE OF THOMAS.
By Rev. J. Z. Miller, D. D.
But Thomas one of the twelve, called Didymus, was not with them when Jesus came; and never returned with them. It is a mystery which the apostles, when Jesus came to them on the evening of the resurrection. By his absence he missed seeing Jesus. The others went out with hearts full of joy. We have no record of what happened that week, but we are sure they were wonderfully glad. But think of Thomas all the week. He had missed seeing the risen Jesus. His sorrow was unconquerable.
There is a story of a colored man in the north, who walked several miles to his church and never failed to attend. One week he was absent, by a white man, trudging every step through slush and rain. "Why do you go so far to church these stormy nights?" the neighbor asked. "I should think you would stay at home when the weather is so bad." The old man took off his hat in the cold rain, and said with deep reverence: "You see, we are praying in our church for a blessing; and I would not dare stay away, even for one night, for that might be the night the blessing would come, and if I were not there I should miss it."
Thomas was not with them when Jesus came, and he missed the blessing. We do not know what divine message may come to the worshippers in our church any Sunday. You may be in sorrow. The word that day may be a message of comfort. Those who hear it thank God and go away with a song; but you, sitting in your home, waiting your good miss, the message had go into another week

unhelped, to walk all the way through gloom and shadow.
Many people yield to discouragement, and discouragement hurts their lives. Discouragement is a sort of mental and spiritual malaria. It poisons the blood. Much of certain forms of sickness is only discouragement darkening the sky, putting out the stars, quenching all joy and hope. It was discouragement which kept Thomas away from the meeting that night, and the mistake almost wrecked everything for him. If Jesus had not been so patient with him, giving him a second chance, a week later, Thomas would never have got back into the apostolic family. But if he had been present at the meeting, he would have seen Jesus when the others did, and his discouragement would have changed both faith and joy.
Let us miss no opportunity to be where Christ may be, to stand where He may pass by, to go where He may come. The mistake of Thomas was that in his gloom and discouragement he was not with the apostles that continually miss our opportunities of seeing the Lord and of having his doubts and griefs swept away by the light of faith and love. Many of us continually miss our opportunities of gladness and beauty. We nurse our sorrows and turn not our faces toward the comfort of God. We stay in our little dark rooms with the shutters closed, and go not out into the blessed sunlight. We live in the mist and fog of the valley when we might be dwelling on the mountain tops. We neglect our opportunities of receiving divine revelations, and then say we cannot believe. Let us open our hearts to the beauty and grace of Christ, however it may come to us. Then we shall have no more doubts and fears, but shall find all the beauty and the joy of Christ.

CHRIST, THE SEEKER.
By Rev. W. Robertson Nicol, D. D., LL. D.
For the Son of Man is come to seek and save that which was lost.—Luke 19, 10.
Christ is seeking as He sought in the day of His flesh, pursuing the wanderer with unwearied love, with prayers, with tears, with entreaty through the long reach that comes to an end only when He finds. He is seeking as the shepherd seeks for his lost sheep, with eyes like the eyes of eagles, and the ears attent to catch the faintest sound. He goes on seeking years and years, and years, that He may find at last. Many a time He is in strange places that He comes upon His own.
Not the most eloquent preacher, not the profoundest scholar or thinker, not the humble, patient, resolute, prayerful seeker of souls, the best minister is the best seeker.
Most of us learn very soon the tides and counter-tides of temptation and impulse that retard our work. We are quickly made aware how little we can accomplish by mere power and charm, of the obscurity to which we are relegated, if of the stubborn resistance of these we are fain to win. In the gloom of such discoveries the temptation is to become listless, dark and dead. But we may be good seekers for all that. If we are we shall refuse to be discouraged and rebuffed, and put aside, and balked of our aim. We are to go on seeking with love as indefatigable as the Saviour's own. We are to go on seeking with an unquenched patience and hope, and if we go on seeking long enough we shall find souls, and all the pain of the seeking will be forgotten in the amazement and joy of the finding. For there never yet was a good seeker who did not find. Those who say and who feel, "Give me souls or I die," must have souls for their hire. There are endless disappointments, no doubt. There are those of the Christian life that are dark enough. We have received this ministry and we have received this mercy, and the result of it all is that we faint not. The greatest gifts bestowed by God and man take us no further than that. We take to ourselves the whole armor of God, not to crush our enemies in a completed triumph, but simply to withstand in the evil day, and having done all, to stand, that is, merely to hold our own. Or, to put it in another way, we have done our part in this poor life if at the end we are still seeking souls. If we have sought them in spite of ourselves, if we shall know at the end of our life that we have sought, that we have found, that we have saved, that we have benefited, setting by J. V. Elliott, while in the letter no particular title has been commonly assigned to it.)
O Jesus, I have loved thee since I was a child, and ever I shall love thee more; I shall love thee ever near me;
By thy Master and my Friend; I shall not fear the battle
If thou art by my side, Nor wander from the pathway
If thou wilt be my guide.
O, let me feel thee near me;
The world is ever near me;
I see the lights that dazzle,
I feel the heat that scorches;
My foes are ever near me;
Around me and within;
But Jesus, draw thou nearer,
And shield my soul from sin.
O Jesus, thou hast promised
That all who follow thee
That where thou art in glory
There shall thy servant be;
And Jesus, I have promised
To follow thee wherever thou art;
O, give me grace to follow,
My Master and my Friend.
Don't expect hoarded affection to enrich the heart.

Hollow Concrete Fence Posts.
To construct hollow re-enforced concrete fence posts a few modifications of the ordinary mold are necessary. In addition to the core to be placed in the center of the post, writes C. A. Cook. The mold for an ordinary 4x4 inch post 7 feet long consists of a bottom, two sides and two end gates, all of which are held together by three iron clamps placed over the top of the sides after they are put together. The sides are held to the bottom by small dowel pins inserted in holes in the bottom, so that the sides may be readily revolved, leaving the finished post lying on the base to harden. One end gate must have a two-inch hole in it through which the core may be withdrawn.
The wooden core is constructed of 6 pieces and is 2 inches in diameter, its full length should be 7 3/4 feet. A round piece of soft wood was sawed into five strips, so that when the central portion is withdrawn the narrow sides and then the wider sides may be removed from the concrete post.
The galvanized iron core tapers from 2 inches in diameter at the large end to 1 1/2 inches at the top, for a 7-foot post is 7 feet 2 inches long. This can be made by any tinmith from good heavy galvanized iron, and should be closed at the smaller end. The mold is fastened together, and about one inch of concrete is placed on the bottom before the core is put in position. After being wrapped with paper the core should be passed through the hole in the lower end gate. The paper covering will permit the removal of the core in twenty to thirty minutes after the post is made. The galvanized iron core may be greased, but the paper is fully as effective.
The wooden core extends entirely through the post, and two end gates with two-inch holes in them are used with it. The metal core should be placed in the mold so that the smaller end is about two inches from the top of the post. After the core is in position the remainder of the concrete can be put in and the post set aside to harden until the core and molds can be removed.

The Origin of the Potato.
The cultivated potato is a native of the Chilean and Peruvian Andes, but extends to original type as far north as Colorado, where a wild form is occasional. Wild varieties of the potato exist in many parts of the world, but nowhere was it cultivated before the discovery of the western continent save in North and South America. It was taken to Europe, probably from Peru to Spain, early in the sixteenth century. It seems Sir Francis Drake introduced it into England in 1588, though Sir Walter Raleigh is said to have done this a year before. It was first regarded as a curiosity, and so remained until the latter part of the eighteenth century, though the Royal Society of London in 1663 recommended it as a possible safeguard against famine among the Irish peasants.

The Morgan Horse.
Forty years ago the Morgans were the favorite road horses. This strain traces to a single ancestor, Justin Morgan, foaled in Vermont in 1793, his blood being largely thoroughbred. From him descended the Black Hawk, Bashaw, Goldust, Ethan Allen, Ben Franklin, General Knox and Daniel Lambert families. The Morgan type is short of leg, thick and round barrel, intelligent, and of great courage and endurance.

A New Insecticide.
Prof. C. P. Gillette, of the Colorado Agricultural College, has discovered a new insecticide for the codling moth, which has proved effective in destroying the worms, and probably will be found not so injurious to apples as other arsenical poisons. Sulphide of arsenic in the name of the new poison. It comes cheaper than the arsenicals now in use.

London, May 14.—Dr. Sambon, a member of the Field Committee which has been investigating the disease pellagra, telegrams from Rome that the committee has definitely proved that maize or Indian corn is not the cause of pellagra.
The committee finds that the parasitic conveyer of the disease is "sillum repans," a species of biting gnat.

Soil Moisture.
To produce any crop it requires from 300 to 500 pounds of water to make a pound of dry matter. It is important that soils have a great deal of mois ture, and that it is not lost by evaporation. Deep plowing makes soils hold more moisture and frequent cultivations prevent its loss by evaporation.

Green Food for Chickens.
If you have your own greens feed as great a variety as you have. Cracked wheat, cracked kafir corn and cracked corn are all good, but something in place of meat should be given, either beef scraps or blood meal, also char coal and grit.

The Floor of the Brooder.
Some poultrymen use bran on the floors of the brooders, and it is a good thing, provided it is replenished every day. It is more apt to get foul than dry alfalfa leaves. There is just about as much nourishment in the one as the other.

The Honey Product.

Women's Secrets
There is one man in the United States who has perhaps heard more women's secrets than any other man or woman in the country. These secrets are not secrets of guilt or shame, but the secrets of suffering, and they have been heard by Dr. R. V. Pierce in the hope and expectation of advice and help. That few of these women have been disappointed in their expectations is proved by the fact that ninety-eight per cent. of all women treated by Dr. Pierce have been absolutely and altogether cured. Such a record would be remarkable if the cases treated were numbered by hundreds only. But that record applies to the treatment of more than half a million women in a practice of over 40 years, it is phenomenal, and especially in the treatment of women's diseases.
Every sick woman need consult Dr. Pierce by letter, absolutely without charge. All replies are mailed, sealed in perfectly plain envelopes, with no printing or advertising whatever, upon them. Wayne is Still Climbing Upward in its Postal Receipts

Postmaster McNeal received news this week that the postal receipts at Wayne had reached the point where, after July 1 the office would be placed in the second class. This has several advantages. It places the town in position whereby, when certain requirements are complied with we can have free mail delivery. In addition to that it gives Postmaster McNeal a raise of $100 per year in salary, making it now $2,400, gives him an assistant and the government pays what additional clerk hire is needed in the office. Heretofore the postmaster has had to bear that burden out of his salary. Now if the government would only inform itself as to the actual needs of the office in the way of room and make arrangements for our needs we would be happy.

CHANGE IN OFFICIALS

The Citizens National Bank Elects New Officers

During the past week there has been much talk and many rumors regarding changes at the Citizens National Bank. Last week two gentlemen were here from Oskaloosa, Iowa, looking over the town and bank with a view of investing in it, taking the stock that A. L. Tucker has had in the institution and it was reported that they had purchased, but this did not prove to be true. However, the home stock-holders in the institution, learning that Mr. Tucker was desirous of selling a good portion of his stock, he wishing to live permanently at Boise, Idaho, where he now has large interests and where the climate is better for his health, as well as other reasons, none of which affect the business interests of the bank here, which he has always considered a paying investment, decided to purchase the stock and keep it all in the home institution, and this has been done. H. C. Henney, who has been vice-president, invests more largely in the bank and becomes its president, and in the course of a few weeks will arrange to enter the bank and devote his full time to the furthering of its interests. Mr. Henney has long been identified with the business interests of Wayne, is a man well suited to the position, and no doubt will keep pace with the advancement of the community. A. L. Tucker will be vice-president. H. B. Jones, who has been assistant cashier for some time, is advanced to the position of cashier, to the mutual pleasure of himself and his large circle of friends in Wayne and vicinity, and is only a just recognition of his services and ability, and a promotion of which he is entirely worthy. P. H. Meyer, who has been with the bank only a few months, has proven himself so efficient and painstaking that he becomes assistant cashier. These various changes will all help to strengthen this popular financial institution and we congratulate all the new officers on their advancement and the outlook for the future of the institution.

We have appointed a committee on school room decoration composed of Mesdames A. M. Jacobs, M. A. Phillips, C. A. Chace, Dan Harrington and J. W. Epler. The object of having this committee is to have our school rooms systematically and appropriately decorated. Whenever any money is to be expended for pictures, statuary, etc., it is to be turned over to this committee. Our school rooms need considerable decorating and we are planning on a school fair for next fall for the purpose of raising money for this purpose. Make something or prepare something for this fair.

A MUCH LARGER FACTORY

The X-Ray Company Have Bought and Will Build Extensively

While there have been several other towns that were anxious to secure the location of the X-Ray incubator factory in their midst and have stood ready to offer a bonus of no small amount to secure it, we are glad to state positively this week that its proprietors, J. H. Kate and E. J. Raymond, have decided definitely to remain in Wayne. They have been resting about for some time to secure a location that suited them but it looked for a while as though they might be thwarted in their worthy desire owing to the high price those who owned the property they had in mind asked for it as soon as they thought there was any possibility of selling, and one man lost a good chance to sell by holding his property so high that they could not reach it, and afterward, when it was too late, offered to sell for $1500 less than he first asked. The lots the firm finally secured are on the corner just south of the city power house, being 95x150 feet. It is the purpose of the X-Ray company to begin in the very near future on the lots a factory 40x150 feet, at least twelve feet high, having floor space and machinery to employ one hundred hands all next season. It will be equipped, in addition to the fine machinery already in the plant, with whatever is modern and best for their use. In addition to the factory proper there will also be erected a lumber shed of sufficient dimensions to hold ten car loads of highly seasoned lumber and a warehouse for the galvanized iron and other metals used in the construction of the incubators and brooders, that will hold six or seven car loads of stock.

This will be a small outlay on the part of the firm and, while Messrs. Kate and Raymond are old, respected citizens of our thriving city, it should be a source of pride to all of our people that they have not listened to the blandishments of outside towns and been led away to follow false goals elsewhere, but have decided to stand by Wayne and use their influence in building up a larger and better town. To further aid in the enterprise, the city council has ordered substantial cement walks built along the west side of Main Street south from the depot to the street running east and west south of the power house and will also put in a cement gutter from the power house south in front of the factory property. This substantial improvement ought to assist in the valuation of property in that part of town and will surely be a good thing for our city in various ways. The business this firm is doing is no small help to the express and freight business, both out and in, while their postal expense is by no means a small item and with the increased facilities and expansion they will largely be the means of advancing the receipts of the postoffice to such a point that we will be entitled to and receive free mail delivery. We say again that Wayne is to be congratulated on the fact that this firm has decided to stay in our midst and they are worthy all the words of help our citizens can give them, as the product they turn out is of the very highest class of excellence and is doing more advertising for Wayne than any other unless it be the State Normal School. It has not yet been definitely settled but it may be that at least the main building of the factory will be built of cement, thus adding to the stability and permanent character of the structure.

Obituary

Rebecca Quinn was born in Croghan county, Ohio, on March 24, 1836. She removed with her parents to Warren county, Illinois, in 1850, where she grew to womanhood. In November, 1853, she married Robert M. Wallace, of Monmouth, Illinois, and to them were born eight children, four sons and four daughters. In April, 1883, she came with her family to Wayne, Nebraska, to make a home amid the privations of frontier life.

In early life she became a Christian and united with the United Presbyterian Church, continuing in the membership of that church until her removal to Wayne county, when she transferred her letter to the Presbyterian church of Wayne, and remained in fellowship with that church until the day of her death.

She was intensely interested in all the avocations of church work and while her duties and delicate health deterred her from actually engaging in them, her mind was ever upon them. All moral questions were of vital interest to her and the greatest desire of her life was the advancement of the Kingdom of Jesus Christ.

In January, 1909, she was taken ill with an attack of pericarditis, hovering for weeks and months near death's door. After a time she became able to be about when she was stricken with a disease of the eyes which continued to ravage until total blindness ensued. Operations on the eyes and the best medical skill failed to relieve the trouble and without a murmur she submitted to the loss of eyesight.

During the latter part of the winter and spring, it became evident to her family that she was gradually failing. The best of medical skill and nursing was given her but without avail and on the evening of June 3, 1910, she passed away. During the seven months of her illness, no word of complaint passed her lips and her faith in the Savior never weakened.

She leaves to mourn her death five children, three sons and two daughters, the husband and three children having gone on before. The funeral services, which were largely attended, were held at the home on Monday afternoon, Rev. Alexander Corkey officiating.

G. A. Hanssen is down from Randolph assisting his brother during carnival week. He has sold his business at Randolph.

The Epworth League held a business meeting and social at the M. E. church Tuesday evening and elected the following officers for the ensuing term: President, Mrs. Lois W. Seeber; 1st Vice-president, Bessie Marsteller; 2nd Vice-president, Carrie Carpenter; 3rd Vice-president, Julia Moody; 4th Vice-president, Clement Crossland; Secretary, Blanche Elliott; Treasurer, Elder Kirkpatrick; Organists, Lavern Garwood and Bessie Crockett; Chorist, Ernie Johnson. Delegates elected to attend the district convention at Ponca beginning June 21 were Bessie Marsteller and Mrs. Lois W. Seeber, Blanche Elliott alternate.

Last night the finance committee of the Commercial Club reported that the business men had gladly contributed sufficient funds to enable the Club, to provide a 4th of July entertainment for our friends and visitors from the surrounding country and towns. Committees were appointed to take up all the different work necessary and make preparations to entertain in the good old-fashioned way. It was voted to dispense with the balloon ascension, high dive, open air acrobatic act and familiar stunts of doubtful entertaining value and devote all the time and money at our command in getting up an old-fashioned Fourth. Look for a more detailed program and account of the entertainment in next week's paper.

Expenses are most reasonable.

A Double Move

A deal was completed last Saturday whereby June Conger came into the ownership of the A. L. Tucker handsome residence west of the court house, to be given immediate possession. The result of this was that Mr. Conger and H. J. Felber got together and made arrangements to exchange residences. Monday the change was made, the Conger family moving into their handsome new home and the Felber family moving into the Mears house vacated by Mr. Conger, which they will occupy until their own new home is finished later in the summer.

VERDICT FOR WOMAN.

Jury Acquits Mrs. Dooey of Murder Charge.

Mrs. Dora Elizabeth Dooey of St. Louis, Mo., was found not guilty Friday night of the charge of murdering William J. Erder.

The verdict was returned at 9:23 o'clock. The eight hours and twenty-five minutes after Judge Grinnam ordered the jury to retire for deliberation Friday afternoon, Mrs. Dooey wept hysterically as her acquittal was announced. When the clerk had nearly finished reading the document handed to him by Foreman Sanford of the jury, and just as he had reached the words, "We, the jury, find the defendant not guilty," she shrieked and simultaneously the audience started a cheer which was quickly suppressed by deputy sheriffs.

In the excitement which followed the acquittal Judge Grinnam left the bench, forgetting to tell the defendant she was free. He returned to the bench and called her before him and then formally discharged her. Leaving on the arm of her aged father, Jefferson Fuller, and her attorney, former Lieut. Gov. Charles F. Johnson, Mrs. Dooey thanked and shook hands with the jurors.

She was led from the courtroom by her father and sisters, Mrs. M. L. Morris of Evanston, Ill., and Mrs. F. Grace Lathrop of Omaha, Neb., and escorted to a hotel for the night.

It was stated that the jury took three ballots before reaching an agreement, two before dinner and the last after reaching the courthouse at 9 o'clock.

The first ballot is said to have been 3 for acquittal, the second 10 to 2, and the last unanimous for acquittal.

EMPEROR'S FINANCES LOW.
German Ruler's Yearly Allowance to Be Increased to $5,000,000.

A semi-official declaration was issued Friday explaining the causes of the financial straits under which the emperor of Germany finds himself and the requirements for an increase in the civil lists of the king of Prussia as agreed upon by the leaders of the Prussian diet Thursday. It has been decided to introduce a bill to bring his majesty's allowance up to about $5,000,000.

The public is reminded that the Prussian crown surrendered to the state in 1820 properties yielding at that time nearly $1,000,000 annually, and the value of which has been greatly augmented since. The increased cost of living renders the present allowance inadequate, the statement says.

ROOSEVELT IS GUEST.
Spends the Day at the Country Home of Col. Lee.

Mr. Roosevelt was a guest Friday at the country home of Col. Arthur H. Lee, where he was also entertained John Burns, president of the local government board; Sgt. Henry Hamilton Johnston; and Capt. Robert E. Scott, the antarctic explorer.

The former president arrived early in the forenoon, having stopped en route to have luncheon with William Northrup McMullan, during the expedition in Africa. Mr. Roosevelt stopped for several days at McMullan's African quarters at Ju-Ju ranch.

RATES GO SKYWARD.

Roads Unquieted by Uncle Sam's Interjection.

Undaunted by the government's proceedings under the Sherman anti-trust act, by which a part of the proposed increase of freight rates in the territory west of the Mississippi river was suspended by injunction, railroads in the east and in the middle west Thursday filed with the interstate commerce commission tariffs embodying increased rates.

Attorney General Wickersham declined to indicate what course he will pursue in behalf of the government, and the senate, just on the verge Thursday of passing the administration bill, hesitated and finally postponed action until Friday.

Thursday night practically every railroad system from the Atlantic to the Pacific had filed with the interstate commerce commission the legal notification of proposed increases in commodity rates. The increases range from 3 to 31 per cent.

Thursday started off by the filing of schedules of increases by the New York Central, the West Shore and the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western. Their official proposition of the roads traversing routes from Chicago to Milwaukee to Indianapolis and Ohio river points, twenty-three in all, was taken into the commission. During the afternoon increased tariffs from the Atlantic to Chicago, St. Paul and Intermediate points were filed.

The Baltimore and Ohio filed with the commission a revised tariff on commodity rates from Chicago to the eastern seaboard.

Like the schedules filed by the roads west of the Mississippi, increased tariffs from the Central Freight association territory were filed in concert. On the other hand, the eastern railroads filed their revised tariffs individually.

REWARD IS OVER $5,000.
Expected that $10,000 Will Be Offered for Slayer.

With the contribution by the Louisville, Ky., city council of $2,500 to the fund which will be offered for the arrest and conviction of the slayer of Alma Keltner, whose body was found buried in a cellar of St. John's parochial school, the sum has reached $5,500. This will be augmented by an offer by Gov. Wilson of $500 on behalf of the state. Smaller subscriptions of from $5 to $100 were tendered Thursday by citizens of Louisville, and it is expected that the reward will soon reach the $10,000 mark.

Chief of Police Lindsay says that he has received information which leads him to believe that Joseph Wendling, the missing janitor, remained in Louisville as late as March 1.

A man answering the description of Joseph Wendling, the suspected murderer of Alma Keltner, purchased a ticket from New York to Antwerp on January 20.

COAL MINERS STRIKE.
No Change in Situation in Pennsylvania District.

There was no change Thursday in the strike of the 12,000 anthracite mine workers in the Pittston, Pa., district. The officials of the Pennsylvania Coal company declare no agreement can be reached until the strikers' first return to work according to the rule of the strike commission.

The strike leaders, on the other hand, claim that the employees of the company will not wait for a decision from the consultation board, but want a written agreement from Manager May. Many of the strikers show only slight and the state police are in readiness to move to any point in the region at short notice.

Both Held for Fraud.
Gibson Oliver, treasurer of the grain firm of Durkin & Elmard, and Henry C. Palmer, former freight agent of the Delaware and Hudson, were arrested in New York Thursday on charges growing out of alleged manipulation of bills of lading, by which it is claimed the firm was able to borrow hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Kidnaping Charge Against a Hastings Man.

Divorced proceedings are pending for Mr. and Mrs. Cole. By order of the court Cole is allowed to visit his children, and taking advantage of the privilege he went to the home of his wife's parents. It is alleged, seized the girl and carried her into Hall county in a buggy. Sheriff McCleary was immediately sent in quest of them and returned the girl to her home.

Adjutant General Hartigan has issued an order granting permission to the National Guard of Massachusetts to cross the state fully equipped for war. Man Who Makes Specialty of Working Church People Sent to Jail.
Dressed like a Christian and parading in the disguise of a Christian of nearly every denomination, a middle aged man, with a club fast on his right leg, drifted into Lehigh last Saturday and proceeded to pull off a clever grafting stunt. He first went to the home of W. I. Walling and asked that gentleman if he was a member of the Methodist church. Assured that he was, the stranger inquired about a family whom he claimed had moved there about a year ago and had also joined the Methodist church. He claimed that he had forgotten the name of this family, but that they were friends of his and that he wanted to go to them for aid. He stated that he had a horse and buggy stolen from him and that he wanted to go to his home, which he claimed was at Lexington.

The man secured no money from Mr. Walling and went on to other homes, professing to be a Catholic at the home of a Catholic family, a Christian Scientist to a young woman of that faith and was a Congregationalist when he called on Rev. Mr. Sealey, of the Congregational church. He gave his name as H. W. Brown, and told his hard luck story in such a straightforward manner that Rev. Mr. Sealey decided he would let him have $3, which he thought would be sufficient to take him to Lexington. When he was convinced that the man was not for real money, he was arrested for $3.50, stating that he might be delayed at Hampshire. This receipt Mr. Sealey returned, fraudulently upon his departure Mr. Sealey became suspicious and upon investigation found that the fellow had a different story for every victim. Rev. Mr. Sealey called up Lexington by phone but could not find a single person who knew him. He then had the man arrested for obtaining money under false pretenses and Justice Walling sentenced him to thirty days in jail.

ELOPES WITH HIRED MAN.
Police Call to Find the Runaway Couple.

Miss Elsie Tipton, not quite 16 years of age, daughter of a wealthy farmer near Walhalla, and Charles Aldrich, several years her senior, with whom she eloped Sunday night, have not yet been found, although the police in Sioux City and neighboring cities have been notified.

The girl's father said that Aldrich's attentions to his daughter never had been noticed by him and that he never suspected that the two might have a love affair. Aldrich, he said, was his hired man. Sunday night the two drove to Walhalla and started on their honeymoon.

"I say 'God bless you' and let it go at that," declared Mr. Tipton, "but my wife is against the match and makes me try to get her over the moon trying to locate them. Miss Elsie will be 16 Friday, and her mother thinks the child is too young to be married."

The description of the couple was given to the police Monday night over the long distance telephone from Onawa, Ia., by the father of the bride, who went there to look for the runaways. Mr. Tipton got little satisfaction from the police officials, but said Patrolman Harvey had told him he had seen a couple arrive in Sioux City answering the description.

FARMERS LOSE BIG ELEVATOR
Ten Thousand Dollars' Loss Sustained by Fire.

Fire broke out at 10:30 p. m. Monday night and destroyed the Farmers' elevator and the water tank of the Burlington company which stood behind it. The loss on the elevator is estimated at $10,000. The building was valued at $1,500 and in it were from 5,000 to 6,000 bushels of grain. The fire was discovered in the top of the elevator, and as the only water supply was the hose at the station, which would not reach, the highest, the flames spread with uninterrupted progress. The elevator was burned to the ground at 1:30; there was nothing remaining but the beams of lacing iron. The loss in the railroad company for the destruction of the water tank is not at present known.

Must Buy Waterworks.
The city of Omaha will be required to purchase the waterworks system of the Farmers' Waterworks company for $6,263,295.19, under a decision of the supreme court of the United States announced Monday. The court affirmed the judgment of the circuit court of appeals in the matter.

CORPORATION TAX IS DELAYED UNTIL FALL
Supreme Court, Closely Divided, Orders Rearing Before Full Bench.

MISSOURI LAW IS NULLIFIED.
Statute Barring Corporations That Sue in Federal Courts Is Held to Be Illegal.

"Restored to the docket for reargument before a full bench" was the wholly surprising order made by the Supreme Court in the corporation tax case. This, a Washington dispatch says, means, practically beyond reasonable doubt, that the highest tribunal has divided four to three on the question of the constitutionality of the corporation tax provision of the Payne-Aldrich law. There now can be no determination of the validity of the tax until after next fall's election, but the broadly important fact is that the court is in divided opinion and that Mr. Justice Hughes, when he assumes the judicial robe in October, may be called on to cast the deciding vote. Governor Hughes will not enter the bench until fall. Justice Moody has been ill for months and his presence when the court reconvenes is uncertain. The language used by the Chief Justice, indicates that the court will insist on a full bench.

There were hurried conferences at the Treasury Department between Secretary MacVeagh, Assistant Secretary Hillier and their aids. An immediate decision was made to go ahead with the collection of the tax. Refunding of the money without any act of Congress can be made in the event of a decision adverse to the government. The $27,000,000 to be paid by the corporation tax this year, has been counted on to meet running expenses.

The statute of Missouri, passed March 13, 1907, prohibiting foreign corporations from doing business within the State, if they seek litigation in the United States courts, was declared unconstitutional. The opinion replied forcibly to the critics of the federal courts for "interfering with State affairs."

Ask Governor to Stop Fight.
At the session of the Fresno, Cal., General Assembly of the State, a resolution was adopted calling on Gov. Gillett of California to stop the prize fight which is proposed to hold in that State on the Fourth of July. The resolution concludes: "The law is your hands, and the public at large has a right to expect you to execute it."

Last Sunday's session was started by the following statement from Rev. Charles L. Steidley, superintendent of the Department of Church and Labor: "When 60,000 industrial workers are killed by the government, industrial system is something wrong in our industrial system. In some cases it is nothing short of murder. The railways of America alone kill nearly 12,000 people every year and injure 120,000 more. These greeted the mention of Speaker Cannon in connection with the proposed compromise legislation advanced by Commissioner Bennett. Delegates said they would not have the speaker appoint a committee to deal with this subject."

Our Share of Chinese Loans.
Representatives of Germany, France, England and the United States met in Paris Tuesday and signed the joint loan agreement with China, whereby the four nations are to share equally in the purchase of $30,000,000 of Chinese railroad bonds. It only remains for the Chinese government to give its formal consent, which has already been promised. Word of the signing was called by Ambassador Bacon to Washington, where the administration gave the news to the press, with unfeigned delight, as a diplomatic victory of the first magnitude.

The American share of the loan is to be financed by a syndicate headed by J. P. Morgan & Co., the National City Bank and the First National Bank, all of New York.

New York's New 'Jug Law.'
Mayor Gaynor finally has approved of the bill passed by the Legislature authorizing the city to establish a farm colony, a hospital and a commission to deal with the problem of imprisonment. The city Board of Estimates authorizes the expense, this new law will have a court hear each case of a person arrested as an inebriate, and if so adjudged he may on his own request be committed to the Board of Insane for from one to three years. The board, at its discretion, may parole him or keep him on the industrial farm at his own expense if he has money and where his weakness will be treated as a disease.

Upper Berths with Windows.
The New York Electric Railway Journal has published a widely quoted article describing the new type of sleeping car adopted recently by an international railway system in Illinois. The object is to compete with the ordinary sleepers of the steam railroads. The upper berths are provided with windows the same as the lower, for light and ventilation, and another novel feature is an arrangement which permits the lower berth to be folded up in the morning independently of the upper. Each berth has a push-lined steel locker with Yale locks. The beds are detachable, so as to be taken out for airing and cleansing.

It is reported that British Ambassador James Bryce wishes to be relieved from further duty. The ambassador was greatly affected by the death of King Edward. This, coupled with advancing years and the desire to conclude the third volume of his "American Commonwealth," on which he has been working, is assigned by his colleagues as leading cause to the report.

A Railroad's Safety Record.
That only one person was killed out of 299,762,488 passengers carried by the Pennsylvania Railroad at the past two years is shown by figures now published by the officials of that road. In that time 370 passengers were injured in train wrecks. In only three were two less passenger collisions and fifteen less freight collisions than in 1908.

Non-inflammable Celluloid.
Prof. Gauchier submitted to the Academy of Science at Paris an account of a process discovered by Dr. Estrella, which renders celluloid non-flammable. The principal point in the process is the use of ether silicate instead of pure ether with alcohol as a solvent of celluloid.

finger send the last bag jangling down at his feet. This would mean that he would be sent to the foot of the class and would until another opportunity gave him a chance to retrieve himself in the eyes of the Fagin.

The methods of teaching the pupils vary, of course, but as soon as they are regarded as sufficiently expert they are sent out with one of the lieutenants. When the evening's work is over they meet again to talk over their experiences and adventures. In this way these dangerous gangs of youthful criminals are formed. As they grow up most of them lose their allegiance to their Fagins and start out for themselves as full-fledged thieves. Often they graduate into a higher school of crime as burglars and begin to crack "cribs" and look for bigger game. Sometimes young girls are included in the Fagin bands, but generally speaking they are not as successful as the boys. Shoplifting is the best line for the girls, and there are many crime-hardened women ready to teach them the business, as indicated by the fact that they often instruct their own offspring and place them in this nefarious calling.

Fault with Parents

The first fault rests with careless parents. They should keep their

BECAUSE little is printed of late about the arrest of child pick-pockets and precocious thieves the impression generally prevails that crimes of this character committed by children are on the decrease. As a matter of fact, there is as much, if not more, of such lawlessness on the part of mis-trained children of the streets than there ever has been, declares a writer in the Chicago Record-Herald. There are today many Fagins whose ingenuity and depravity easily equal that of the famous and repulsive creature so graphically described in the story of Dickens. Modern Fagins, however, have progressed with the times. While many of them have the finished ingenuity of the English thief of crime, by the adoption of modern methods to arouse the interest of children, and by reason of the growing lack of inbred morality and the increasing lack of parental care the field of operations is much wider, and their profits much greater. They run the risk of detection than when the original Fagin conceived the idea of his little pick-pocketing school.

"I can't no use tryin' to do the right thing when the cops come get a time on 'em. Once had always had, is the way they finger it, an' they ain't no use tryin' by that, I guess." The boy was speaking earnestly to a city magistrate. He was the typical shifty-faced youth of 13 or 14 years that you would find in the districts that breed the "cumecum." He was deformed, the tip of his nose as "Humpty," and that was part of the name he cried out when he was called from the prisoner's cage. He was picked up on suspicion—though he had been arrested before and was known to the police as a pick-pocket.

With a dejected air he eyed the magistrate, as he continued: "I wasn't doin' anything, y' honor, I've been straight for near a year tryin' to be good an' help mother. I was a kid when they first pinched me an' ain't know nothin'. The Fagins got me—they did—an' made me a bad un, but I'm all right now if the piece will let me be."

"That's true enough, too," broke in an aged woman, standing at the side of the boy. "You see, sir, my boy"—he old eyes pale and faded grew tender—"never had a chance. That's hard, it is never had a chance. 'It makes it awful hard. The piece won't let my boy be good, that's the way it seems, there was no bitterness, simply passive submission. She spoke truly and went to the depths of a mother's heart. 'Humpty' was the victim of the school of crime. As a mere child he was taught to pick pockets and this he did until he was jailed for the first time."

Most every magistrate that has held court in the poorer sections of the city says a writer that he has heard repeatedly of the Fagin schools, but he is rarely able to get evidence against them. It is only by the confession of one of the small pupils that an arrest can be made. This seldom happens, however. The Fagin rarely permits his scholars to know his home address, so that he can give a possible clue for a call by the police. His pupils are of varying ages, but in general they are unknown. He conceals them around him in tenement basements, in disreputable houses and in places where he is likely to be unobserved and after, in some cases, administering the most terrifying oaths of secrecy, gives them lessons in pick-pocketing.

The slums of poorer sections of large cities there are hundreds of boys, organized into gangs, who are taught to pick pockets. When they come to what they think is a "piece" they go to their instructors. When they receive some unsuspecting person of an article of jewelry it is the Fagin in disguise, it is his "piece." As he only realizes a comparatively small part of its real value he can readily see that the pupils that commit the actual thefts get but a mere pittance.

School Children Recruits.

The existence of these schools of crime has been repeatedly brought to the attention of the police. Their investigations have many times revealed a state of affairs shocking to even those who are familiar with the fact that a large percentage of the youths of these gangs are made up of pupils from public schools in the congested districts. There are dozens of pupils from these schools who learn reading and spelling, writing and arithmetic by day and attend the mysterious classes of their individual Fagins during recesses, after school hours and in the evenings. Some of these Fagin classes number as many as a dozen pupils and have an alibi of hundreds. Boys who hang around corners, and boys who have been in petty encounters with the police are sought for by the assistants, or "drummers-in," of the Fagin schools.

One Fagin who originally in his criminal methods manufactured a counterfeit which he sold in the streets, his subjects had plenty of patience and the finger so much desired in that class of work. He had a dozen handbags of assorted shapes and colors which contained a purse of money and change or other valuables. Several long strips of wood were then placed on about a level with a person's hand when at rest. With the aid of six feet separating each, the handbags were hung carefully from the strips, the slightest sag being sufficient to cause one of them to fall to the ground. Then the students were gathered and sent down the street with instructions to open each bag as they came to it, rob it of its contents and then close it again. This was not easy by any means, for often a pupil would get at the end of the line after successfully stealing the contents of the other bags and then by one careless twitch of a children closer to the streets, keep them off the streets, where they run wild, make sure of the character of their playmates; ascertain that any display of spending money has been earned in the right way; prevent their hanging about dive corners of the doors of cheap theaters, where they are likely to hear crime freely discussed by those fully acquainted with it; and last, but not least, exercise a general and careful supervision over their education, morals and manners, for as the old adage says: "As the twig is bent so will it grow."

It is also the imperative duty of every citizen to help in this work. If he should see small boys associating with older ones of bad character he should notify the parents or the society that looks after children in such cases. These children are not bad in the beginning. They are victims of environment, associations and the evil teachings of the crime-hardened. Until some such course is adopted, or until city or State governments look more closely into the matter, these boys will become pupils of Fagins, then Fagins themselves, leaving to posterity a lasting heritage of crime.

It is a fact well known to the pupils of the Fagins, as well as to the older criminals, that it is harder to pick the pocket of the man from the country or small town than that of the average person in a large city. This man from the country, hamlet or village, not being used to crowds, feels every finger that touches him. He is alert because he is not familiar with the pushing press and is most always suspicious of such a proceeding. It comes to town with his money in his inside pocket and believes that every stranger that gets close to him has designs on it.

On an average several million dollars is stolen annually by pickpockets in the larger cities of this country. Of this amount a great proportion is lost in the crush of passengers on car lines, at theaters, parades and in crowded elevators. The detective bureaus of these cities assign men to each line, public meeting place and spots where crowds are wont to congregate. Wherever these men are the public is protected, but they cannot be everywhere at once, and consequently the Fagin bands love about. Keeping a weather eye open for the officers of the law. Many arrests are made, many convictions secured; but this does not act as much of a deterrent to those that follow. The preventative lies far below this surface. You will find that most of these children who become pupils come from the slum sections, where they are allowed to run about at will and associate with any companions they may choose. This important matter is left to their childish judgment.

KEY WEST A GIBRALTAR

Commodore Beehler's Plan to Use Old Battle Ships as Permanent Forts.

DEFENSES ARE INADEQUATE.

With Small Expense and by Utilizing Discarded Ships Harbor Could Be Made Impregnable.

The transformation of Key West into a great naval and military station which shall rival in importance the fortress of Gibraltar, is advocated at considerable length in an article by Commodore W. H. Beehler, U. S. N., commanding of the Seventh Naval District, which appears in the journal of the military service institution. The first part of the commodore's paper is devoted to an urgent plea for the more complete cooperation of the army and navy forces. "Their co-operation in the defense of any particular naval base should be definitely arranged in time of peace and after shooting and maneuver and drill, now under the command of a designated officer of the post defense service, whether he be an army or a naval officer," says the writer.

In his proposal to make of Key West an impregnable Gibraltar it is pointed out that the present defenses at Fort Taylor are inadequate, for the reason that battle ships can lie at the entrance in two, seven miles south of Fort Taylor, beyond the range of the twelve-inch anti-aircrafts, and destroy Key West from that point without being exposed to any danger, the penetrating velocities of projectiles from the aircraft being insufficient to penetrate the armor of any battle ship, whereas these same shells coming from a battle ship could and the city of Key West and completely destroy it.

to greatly lengthen the useful life of the battle ship. Many obsolescent ships, because of their powerful armor and armament, would be perfectly well able to stand up in the first fighting line, if they only possessed the requisite speed and maneuvering quality; and if it should be found practicable to utilize them in the way suggested by Commodore Beehler their powerful armor and heavy projectile would render them most formidable when mounted as part of the permanent fortifications of our sea coast defenses.

GRATEFUL CHINAMEN.

One of the Chinamen's most engaging peculiarities is his strong gratitude, which is not merely personal but racial. So, at least, the Rev. John Sheepskins says in his book, "A Bishop in the Rough." In 1850 he was a young missionary stationed at Port Hope, British Columbia, and he came in contact with Chinamen.

On board the river steamer there was a Chinaman with whom I conversed, and who was much astonished at my acquaintance with the religions of China, and inquired my name. It appears that he mentioned the circumstance to his fellow countryman with whom he was to lodge, and it happened that this man had been for a few months at New Westminster, and I had thought him to read. So he set to work to find out where I was staying, and presently brought me an offering of a very handsome purse and a bracelet of sandalwood. Right glad he was to see me, and we shook hands and he bowed and grinned at each other heartily.

The next day I called upon him at his store, and he served up refreshments for me. The Chinamen are not only personally grateful for benefits or kindness received, but they have a racial gratitude. Because I did my best to teach a few Chinamen at New Westminster, and was of course courteous and kind to them, I was always most kindly and hospitably received by Chinamen throughout the colony. When I visited Victoria I was welcomed by Chinese storekeepers there, and invited to partake of refreshments whenever I called.

Meyerbeer, like Handel, composed best in a thunderstorm. He had a room made at the top of his house with glass roof and sides, so that he might enjoy these conditions to the full whenever they presented themselves. Wherever he was he would leave at the first premonitory rumble.

IS DEATH A HOAX?

Millionaire Convicted as Vote-Buyer Declared Alive in France.

The startling declaration that Dallas C. Byers, multi-millionaire steel manufacturer and indicted grafter, who was supposed to have died in France last August, and whose funeral was held in Pittsburgh a month ago, is really alive, and enjoying life in a secluded French village, is now made. A Leo Well, president of the Pittsburgh Voters League, which has pushed the count-down bribery investigation, says that reports of his detectives in France and Switzerland prove this absolutely.

Among the facts which lend color to the report are: Byers turned his vast holdings of stocks, bonds and real estate into cash by the shipping away from Pittsburgh and the bribery investigation. He realized something like $14,000,000. He left Pittsburgh for the distribution of his holdings, really among relatives, making it unnecessary for him to leave a will. He permitted all his business policies to lapse, sooting, it is said, the searching investigations which the companies would make when he was ready to die. No one in Pittsburgh saw the body ever which services were held and which was buried with due honors in a Pittsburgh cemetery. The casket was being stored in France.

It was not long after his flight from Pittsburgh that dispatches were received from Dinan, France, stating that the steel millionaire had suffered a stroke of apoplexy, and that physicians had given up hope for his recovery. On August 25 the word came that he had died.

KELLNER GIRL'S BODY FOUND.

Prisoner's Husband Is Missing Tenant of Church-Graze in Cellar.

The body of Alma Kellner, who disappeared last year, was found the other day in the cellar of St. John's Parochial School, five blocks from the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred F. Kellner, in Louisville, Ky.

Mrs. Lena Wendling, wife of Joseph Wendling, who was janitor of St. John's Roman Catholic Church, and who disappeared Jan. 14, has been arrested, charged with being an accessory to the murder. Mrs. Wendling was housemaid for Father George Schulmann, the pastor. Wendling, who is 24 years old, left no word as to his destination, his wife asserted.

The child's body when found was incased in carpet, sewed together lengthwise, and the child had evidently been slain and then thrown through a trapdoor. Almost every bone was broken and the skull was fractured. It was evident that quicklime had been used and that attempts had been made to burn the body. Alma Kellner was 8 years old, and left her home to attend mass Wednesday morning, Dec. 8. It was thought she had been kidnapped, and rumors of demands for money had been frequent. The carpet wrapped around the body, it is alleged, belonged to Wendling, and the police have found some of his clothing in a room in the school.

The identification is thought to be complete. The body was found by Richard B. Sweet, a plumber, who was pumping water from the cellar. The ground had been scooped out to a depth of six inches, making a shallow grave.

Nebraska Teacher Pays Fine for Balking Census-Taker.

Discarding my desire of placing her name in contempt of the census department of the United States of appearing impudent to an enumerator, Miss Sarah E. Peck, member of the normal faculty of Union College in Lincoln, Neb., paid a fine of $10 in the federal district court and thereby purged herself of an indictment brought against her. At the same time Miss Peck relieved herself of the necessity of revealing her age. Lewis Terry, the enumerator who complained against Miss Peck, charged that she refused him information on three occasions and that when he warned her that she was liable to a fine replied that she had the money to pay it.

WORLD-WIDE PEACE PLAN.

Suggestion Made to Give Movement the Name of King Edward.

A proposal to inaugurate a world-wide movement bearing the name of King Edward was made by Sir William Mather at a meeting of the Peace Society in London. The suggestion met with prompt approval, and speakers who followed Sir William intimated that there was reason for the belief that Emperor William is desirous of taking a very important part, if not the actual leadership, in promoting a peace league of the world.

New Ship Makes Big Gun Record.

A new world's record for the big gun shooting, which incidentally emphasizes the superiority of United States naval marksmanship, has just been made by the new battle ship South Carolina. With forward turret 12-inch guns the vessel made sixteen "bullseye" target hits out of sixteen shots in four minutes and fifty-one seconds.

Clergy's Average Pay 963.

The average annual salary of a minister of the gospel was but $63 in all denominations represented in a special report on the census of religious bodies for 1906, which is now in press preparatory to submission to Census Director Durand.

Norfolk having decided to pave, there is now a race on among the residents of some of the streets to get additional paving.

After all is said and done, the wife who allows her home to be mortgaged to buy an automobile will only get what's coming to her.

Prof. W. H. Myers, who has been superintendent of the Catholic schools for a number of years, has been elected to a like position at Blair with a good increase of salary.

Several people were injured at a picnic in the Crystal Theater at Norfolk Thursday evening, caused by the explosion of the moving picture films. Considerable damage was done.

A tennis association has been formed at Walthill with a membership of about twenty. They will maintain three courts, one in the business part of town and two near the ball grounds.

It has been decided that Carl J. Lord, of Randolph, will be the editor-in-chief of the Daily Nebraskan, the paper issued by the State University, next year. He has been managing editor the past year.

Queer, isn't it? Senator Cummins announced that he would vote for the administration railroad bill in the senate, and that, too, after nearly every amendment offered by the insurgents had been voted down.

The Blair Pilot is out with a long spiel to the effect that George Lawson Sheldon is the proper man for the republicans to nominate for governor. He made a good official when he held the office.

The assessor at Pender took the census at the request of the Times editor and he reports that the population of the town has decreased 180 since 1900. At that rate it will be some time before it becomes a city of the first class.

Professors J. A. Doremus of Auburn, W. W. Theissen of Beemer, and W. H. Steinbach of Bancroft, and Mrs. Marian Crawford of Peru, will be the instructors in the Cumming county teachers' institute, which will commence at West Point August 8.

The young Egyptian committee at Geneva, Switzerland, whoever they may be, declare that Roosevelt's speech in England was not only an insult to Europe and Egypt, but the whole civilized world. We have not noticed anyone in this country feeling particularly bad about it, but perhaps we are not civilized.

Frank S. Perdue, formerly county superintendent of Madison county, is being discussed as state superintendent of Nebraska to succeed Mr. Bishop, who goes to the Ames, Iowa, faculty. Mr. Perdue is at present deputy state superintendent and is giving excellent satisfaction.

Dr. L. A. Lansing has moved back to Wakefield but he will not be permitted to practice. When he left that place about a year ago he signed a contract by which he agreed to stay away from Wakefield and the surrounding country for a radius of fifteen miles for a period of five years.

It is said that "Hope deferred maketh the heart sick." The present talk of building a railroad from Sioux City to Nebraska brings the old saying to our mind in view of the fact that in 1880, according to a copy of the LaPorte Review before us, the Sioux City Journal talks about the same line of road and says that its construction is devoutly hoped for by Sioux City business men.

The Pilger Herald charges that state fish commissioner Donovan and one of his deputies got on a glorious drunk while at Pilger one day last week, and says: "When a man appointed to fill a position of honor and trust and drawing a salary of $1800 per year, will so disgrace the office as did these men here Friday, it is enough to make the taxpayers rebel against paying taxes to support such men."

Bloomfield, like so many other towns, evidently has some young men or youths so morally depraved that they hate not even the semblance of decency in their inner make-up, and some of them have been making it known by writing obscene things in public places. The Monitor says: "The public whipping post and cat-o-nine-tails should be re-established for the punishment of such brutal and coarse vulgarity and forty lashes prescribed for the naked backs of such cattle as persist in this wholly contemptible work."

We are very sorry that we do not seem to be able to please our amiable friend, C. E., of the Windsor Tribune. We felt quite encouraged a few weeks ago when he said we were doing the best we knew how. When a man does that he cannot very well be held responsible for anything more than that.

The election for $10,000 water-works bonds at Osmond carried by a vote of 105 for to 2 against. The application was truly. With the new $18,000 school house, the new $15,000 Catholic church, which will be begun this year, and water-works we can hold up our heads with our sister towns and look forward to a greater Osmond.

Emigration laws more and more rigorously search out the individual undesirable, but until the time comes when the economy of the nation cries out for a prohibition of any increase by emigration from any source whatever—a prohibition which will enforce itself automatically no justified protest can be made against any European nation "in bulk."

We would commend to the editor of the Sioux City Tribune, and a whole lot of its imitators, an article in the June McClure's Magazine regarding the Speaker and the National House of Representatives. If he will read it he will ascertain that nearly everything that paper has had to say on that subject is mere froth of substance. The whole trouble with the Tribune is that it is so widely wrapped up in one little Iowa tin god that it has no vision for anything else. Some of these days the paper will find that its idol is nothing but the simplest kind of human clay, full of ambition and self conceit.

Almost every farmer in the Ozark mountains, so it is reported, owns a telephone regardless of his financial standing. Some of the "call" lines carry as many as fifty phones.

Sixty per cent of the patents granted yearly in this country are worthless. Nearly ninety per cent of the electrical patents are practical.

Scared into Sound Health
Mr. P. F. Kelley, Springfield, Ill., writes: "A year ago I began to be troubled with my kidneys and bladder, which grew worse until I became alarmed at my condition. I suffered also with dull heavy headaches and the action of my bladder was annoying and painful. I read of Foley's Kidney Pills and after taking them a few weeks the headaches left me, the action of my bladder was again normal, and I was free of all distress." Felber's Pharmacy.

The fact that the electric automobile runs smoothly without the jarring strains of the gas engine gives it a life of about twice as long as the engine driven machine.

The Conservation of Nature's Resources
Applies as well to our physical state as to material things. C. J. Budlong, Washington, R. I., realized his condition, and took warning before it was too late. He says: "I suffered severely from kidney trouble, the disease being hereditary in our family. I have taken four bottles of Foley's Kidney Remedy, and now consider myself thoroughly cured. This should be a warning to all not to neglect taking Foley's Kidney Remedy until it is too late." Felber's Pharmacy.
