By notice elsewhere in this issue it will be seen that Dr. O'Neal has decided to give up his veterinary practice here and remove with his family to southern California. He has been a Wayne resident a long time and successful in his business but feels that the change is for the best.

Tennis Tournament

Last week we had a little item in the Herald that the Northeast Nebraska Tennis Tournament would be held at Wakefield this year. We are informed by J. G. Miller, one of Wayne's best players at that sport, that this is not true. The tournament is to be held in Wayne this year and there are to be three days of the sport, the dates being August 16, 17 and 18. Wayne has a large number of good players and the boys are planning for a great event. Further particulars later.

Where He Stands

William Prince, of Winside, has his announcement in the Herald this week as a candidate for representative.

Mr. Prince is a resident of Wayne county, having lived on a farm near Winside for the past twenty-one years. He is a progressive republican and stands squarely upon the republican platform—especially so in regard to the county option plank, believing that the farmers of Nebraska who bear the burden of taxation are entitled to a vote on this question, and if he is nominated and elected will work to that end.—Pioneer Herald.

Flece Out on Bail

Ponca was the scene of many pilgrimages and much excitement Friday and Saturday of last week, the occasion being the preliminary examination of Wm. Flece charged with the murder of his sister Louise, Kingsbury, the county attorney of Dixon county, and A. R. Davis, of Wayne, appeared on the part of the state while J. J. McCarthy and W. D. McCarthy, of Ponca, and F. A. Berry, of Wayne, were the attorneys for the defense. A number of witnesses were examined, among them Eichtencamp, and the result of the trial was the binding Flece over to the grand jury at the next term of court in Dixon county. He was admitted to bail in the sum of $15,000, which was furnished by his brothers, Henry and Fred, his brother-in-law, Wm. Frevert, and himself, and he is now at his home northeast of Wayne.

Are you going to that "Shower Social" at the M. E. Church this evening? There is sure to be a good time with refreshments. You can help the ladies aid society in several ways by your presence.

Something About the State Normal Faculty

Supt. H. H. Hahn, of Blair, who is elected as head of the Department of Education, is recognized as one of the strongest school men in the state. He has been at Blair for ten years and is always in demand as an institute worker.

Prof. I. H. Brittel, who has been elected as head of the Department of Physical Science, has been principal of the High School at Columbus for fifteen years. There are few High Schools in the West in which the Science work has been brought to such a high standard as has been done in Columbus under Prof. Brittel's direction. He is an enthusiastic teacher and the Normal is to be congratulated upon securing his services.

Supt. H. H. Hickman, of Wausa, was a teacher for several years in Normal and College work before becoming Superintendent at Wausa. He is a specialist of very high order in his line, and is regarded by those who know his work best, an exceptional teacher.

Miss Sara Killem, who has been elected as teacher of Drawing and Industrial Art, at present is assistant in this work in the Kearney State Normal. For some time she was Supervisor of Drawing in the Lincoln Public Schools, and is also a graduate of the State University.

Prof. J. T. House, of Chicago, is a classmate of Chancellor Avery of the State University. He graduated from Crete, has been President of Kingfisher College, Oklahoma, for ten years, and is now receiving his Doctor's Degree from Chicago University.

D. W. Redmond, who has been elected as Registrar, was Registrar at Peru Normal for seven or eight years, and about five years ago resigned that position to become Assistant State Superintendent. He is regarded as the best qualified man for this work who has ever been in the Peru State Normal School.

Miss Mary L. Smith, who has been elected as teacher of Commercial work, has occupied a similar position for some years in the Massachusetts State Normal School, and, at present, is completing work in the Michigan State University at Ann Arbor for her Master's Degree.

A little of our Foot Powder sifted in your shoes in the morning will keep you comfortable all day. Our reduces inflammation resulting from excessive perspiration and prevents chafing. It cools, soothes and heals. No need of your having feet that smart and burn.

Miss Elsie Ford Piper, teacher of Latin and Preceptress, is a woman of several years' High School experience, and is a graduate of the State University.

Miss Lillian Jewell, who has been elected as teacher of Geography and Assistant in Mathematics, is a High School teacher of wide experience and a graduate of Peru State Normal in the advanced work.

The other members of the faculty, Supt. U. S. Conn, of Columbus; Prof. and Mrs. E. H. Bright, Elizabeth Kingsbury, E. J. Huntmer, and Edith Stocking, need no introduction to Wayne people.

Prof. L. G. W. Lewis, of Broken Bow, held a Professorship for some years in Grand Island College. He has been County Superintendent two terms, of Custer County. He is a graduate of the State University, and has a Master's degree.

Miss Rachel Fairchild, who has been elected Grammar Critic, for several years has been Superintendent of Schools at Spencer, Nebraska. She is an Institute instructor of considerable experience, and is a graduate of the advanced course of the Peru State Normal.

The School and State is certainly to be congratulated upon having such an excellent faculty. All the men of the faculty, except Prof. Huntmer, have families, which will become permanent additions to Wayne.

Some Questions

How many kinds of poisonous serpents are there in Nebraska?
One, the rattlesnake.

How many representatives and how many representative districts are there in Nebraska?

Sixty-seven legislative representative districts, with one hundred representatives; six congressional districts and six congressional representatives.

When a tenant leasing a property installs buildings on the property to whom do they belong, himself or the owner of the property?

If the lease is silent on the subject then the tenant has no interest at all in the buildings except a right to use them during the term of his lease. When the lease expires the tenant is to give up possession of the land and of all the permanent improvements he has placed upon it, unless there is a contrary provision in the lease.

Should Take the Hint

The chautauqua at Wayne this year was one of the best ever held in this part of the county, and it was well attended. More people would have attended from Laurel and vicinity, had they known of it in time. It was hard to find out what the program was and when the various attractions were to be given until the chautauqua was half over.—Laurel Advocate.

Our Last Offer to the Public

In this great world of ours you will find two classes of men. One class is made up of prejudice and indecision. They are the failures you meet in every community. They are too narrow and prejudiced to investigate anything out of the ordinary routine of daily life. They never aspire to anything greater, therefore they never attain any higher degree. They belong to the class of people who think all the good things in life were intended for the other fellow.

Then there is the other class of men, made up of clear, broad minds; men of decision; men who are willing to investigate; men who are willing to see their neighbors prosperous; men who are above the petty jealousies; who are too busy for such things; men who feel that they are just as good as the next fellow; men who remember that at one time Carnegie, Rockefeller, Marshall Field and a score of others were mere bare-foot boys, without a roof over their heads, but they became men with a purpose in life. They became men who believed in themselves, in their ability, in their propositions and their fellow men. They knew they were just as good as the other fellow, and they proved it. J. Pierpont Morgan has such decision of mind that not long ago he spent five minutes in considering a proposition, then gave his check for eight million dollars.

LISTEN: You who are reading this article belong to one or the other of these two classes. Today one of the greatest opportunities is presented to you for the last time and you are either going to reject or accept. That decision rests entirely with you. It rests entirely with you whether you will live along in the same old rut or get in with us and reap a harvest.

DO YOU KNOW that 30,000 shares were sold last week; that the mail orders are coming in every day?

DO YOU KNOW that now is the accepted time and that thirty days from now you will be too late?

ONLY A LIMITED AMOUNT OF STOCK is left for sale and it is now or never.

DECIDE TODAY to either buy or go with us next Monday to the annual meeting, and then to the mine and see for yourselves. We expect the balance of the stock to be taken at that time.

RESTORED TO HEALTH.

After Suffering With Kidney Disorders for Many Years.

Mrs. John S. Way, 209 S. 8th St. Independence, Kans., says: "For a number of years I was a victim of disordered kidneys. My back ached constantly, the passages were irregular and my feet and ankles were badly swollen. Spots often appeared before my eyes and I became very nervous. After using numerous remedies without relief I was completely cured by Doan's Kidney Pills. This seems remarkable when you consider my advanced age."

Remember the name—Doan's. For sale by all dealers, 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Taking Father's Job. Why should you beg? You are both young and strong. That's right, but my father is old and weak and can no longer support me. Important to Mothers. Examine carefully every bottle of CASTORIA, a safe and sure remedy for infants and children, and see that it bears the Signature of Dr. J. C. Watson. In Use For Over 30 Years. The Kind You Have Always Bought.

Carrying His Audience With Him. Nobody was more witty or more bit for than Lord Ellenborough. A young lawyer, trembling with fear rose to make his first speech, and began: "My lord, my unfortunate client—My lord—my unfortunate client—My lord—Go on, sir, go on," said Lord Ellenborough, "as far as you have proceeded, insofar as the court is entirely with you."

A Protection Against the Heat. When you begin to think it's a personal matter between you and the sun to see which is the hotter, buy your self a glass or a bottle of Coca-Cola. It is cooling—relieves fatigue and quenches the thirst. Wholesome as the purest water and lots nicer to drink. At soda fountains and carbonated in bottles—5c everywhere. Send 2c stamp for booklet "The Truth About Coca-Cola" and the Coca-Cola Baseball Record Book for 1910. The latter contains the famous poem "Casey at the Bat," records, schedules for both leagues, and other valuable baseball information compiled by authorities. Address: The Coca-Cola Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Merely a Prevaricator. A doctor relates the following story: "I had a patient who was very ill and who ought to have gone to a warmer climate. He resolved to try what hypnosis would do for him. I had a large sun painted on the ceiling of his room and by suggestion induced him to think it was the sun which would cure him. The ruse succeeded and he was getting better rapidly when one day on my arrival I found he was dead."

Did it fall after all, then? asked one of the doctor's hearers. "No," replied the doctor, "he died of sunstroke." The Dentist's Joke. At a recent dinner of the Author's club in London to Mr. Owen Seaman, the editor of Punch, Mr. Walker Emahiser, another member of the staff of Punch, referred to the fact that the man with the largest sense of humor he had ever struck was an Englishman—a dentist. He went to him, after suffering long with the toothache. He refused to have gas, and the dentist pulled out a tooth, leaving him writhing in pain, and took the tooth to the window where he laughed quite heartily. He groaned, "What's the joke?" "Wrong tooth," said the dentist.

A Simple Matter. "Charley, dear," said young Mrs. Torkins, "the paper says that the Probationists have trouble with boot legs." "I believe so." "Men are so stupid! Why don't they put a stop to it by compelling everybody to wear low shoes?" In the Night School. Teacher (of night school)—"What do you understand by the terms 'life sentence'?" Give an example of one. Shaggy-haired Pupil—I pronounced my husband and wife—Chicago Tribune.

Know How To Keep Cool? When Summer's sun and daily toil heat the blood to an uncomfortable degree, there is nothing so comforting and cooling as a glass of Iced Postum served with sugar and a little lemon. Surprising, too, how the food elements relieve fatigue and sustain one. The flavour is delicious—and Postum is really a food drink. There's a Reason! POSTUM CEREAL CO., Ltd., Battle Creek, Mich.

THE QUICKENING BY FRANCIS LYNDE

Copyright, 1906, by Francis Lynde

CHAPTER XVII. In these days of slowing wheels and plencen anvils South Tredegar had his own troubles, and when some one telephoned the editor of the Morning Tribune that Chas. was consolidated had succumbed at last, he did not deem it worth while to inquire whether the strike at Gordonia was the cause or the consequence of the sudden shut-down.

But a day or two later, when rumors of threatened violence began to trickle over the telephone wires, a Tribune man called, in passing, at the general offices in the Coosa Building, and was promptly put to sleep by the astute Dyckman, who, for reasons of his own, was quite willing to conceal the true state of affairs. Yes, there was a suspension of active operations at Gordonia, and he believed there had been some hot-headed talk among the miners, but that would be no trouble. Mr. Farley was at present in London negotiating English capital. When he should return the capital stock of the company would be increased, and the plant would probably be removed to South Tredegar and enlarged.

All of which was duly jotted down to be passed into the Tribune's archives, and the following morning Tom, doing guard duty with his father, the two fellers and a squad of the yard men at the threatened plant, read a pointless editorial in which misstatement of fact and sympathy for the absent and struggling miners were equally and bravely blended. "Look at that!" he growled, wrathfully, handing the paper across the office desk to Caleb. "One of these fine days I'm going to land that fellow Dyckman in the penitentiary."

The iron-master put on his spectacles and plodded slowly and conscientiously through the editorial, turning the paper, at length, to glance over the headlines on the telegraphic page. In the middle of it he looked up suddenly to say: "Son, what was the name of that Indiana fellow with the big water-pipe contract?" Tom gave it in a word, and Caleb passed the paper back, with his thumb on one of the press dispatches. "Read that!" he said.

Tom read, and the wrathful scowl evoked by the editorial gave place to a fitting smile of triumph. There was trouble in the Indiana city over the awarding of the pipe contract. In some way unknown to the press reporter, it had leaked out that a much lower bid than the one accepted had been made. A municipal election was pending, and the people were up in arms. Rumors of a wholesale indictment of the suspected officials were rife, and the city offices were in a state of steps.

"You put the paper down and smote on the desk." "I thought perhaps I could give them a run for their money." "You?" said Caleb, removing his spectacles. "How's that in the dark, and I didn't want to brag beforehand," he explained. "I wrestled it out Saturday night when I was tramping the hills after Doc Williams had brought mother around. One member of the purchasing committee was ready to go down to Louisville. I didn't see anything in it then but revenge; but afterward I saw how we might spend some money to a possible advantage."

"I reckon I'm sort o' dull, Baddy; what's the idea?" "I wired the disgruntled one that there was a letter and a check in the mail for him to be followed by another and a bigger one if his polo proved long enough to reach the personation of the old man." "The old man walked the floor, six steps and a turn. After a little he said: 'Tom, is that business?'" "It is the modern definition of it."

"What's goin' to happen up yonder in Indiana?" "If I knew, I'd be a good bit vander my mind. What I'm hoping is that the rumpus will be big enough to make 'em turn the contract out way." "Where's your heart, Baddy? Would you take the chance of sending these fellows to jail for the sake of gettin' the contract?" "Cheerfully," said Tom. "They're rascals; I could have bought them if I had money enough; and the other fellow did buy them." "The old man assumed his monotonous tone and down the room. This was the end of Tom's voice unnerve him. After another interval of silence the spoke again. "I wish you hadn't done it, son. It's a dirty job, and you look at it!" "Nonsense," said Tom, "it's a condition, not a theory, and he's right. We are living under a new order of things, and if we want to stay alive, we've got to conform to it. It seegged me at first; I reckon that was the first process of the old man's tradition left. But, pappy, I'm going to win. That is what I'm here for. There is nothing for us to do out to all tight and wait. If we get a telegram from Indiana before these fellows get their heads and necks into a riding and burning, we shall have a fighting chance. If not, we're smashed."

ROAD and FARM IMPROVEMENT FACTORS FOR ROAD BUILDER

Climate is Important Matter to Consider—All Road Forms Should Have Good Crown. (By W. L. Spoon.) The climate is a factor of importance for the road builder to consider. In the eastern sections, where the soil is plastic, the rains are most abundant while in the western sand hills the climate is semi-arid and quite strong south winds prevail. These conditions introduce an important matter for consideration. Sand roads are best when wet, and clay roads when dry, but climatic conditions operate adversely and must be taken into consideration seriously.

The rains make the eastern roads muddy, while dry weather makes of the western roads deep shifting sand. The suggestion offered by this natural condition is to add sand to the eastern clays and clay to the western sands in order to bring about an excellent roadway. The English sparrow is looked upon by the Minnesota state entomologist as a menace to farmers, not only destroying grain, but also driving away useful birds. The division of entomology suggests that a very humane way of destroying them is to feed them wheat for a few mornings in the winter, in a straight line, in yard or field, and when the birds have become accustomed to the system to rake the line with a gun loaded with fine shot. Wheat, it has been said, may be soaked in whisky and eaten by the sparrows inducing such intoxication that they may be picked up and killed. Destroying sparrows' nests several times in succession, as they were built, has discouraged nesting in the locality. Destruction by means of active poisons is not recommended by the division because the dead birds are eaten by cats, poultry, etc. The entomologist has discouraged their roosting during the winter under the eaves of his own home and defiling the building by the use of a small collecting pistol of fine shot, shooting them off their perches at dusk.

When the resident returns an official visit he is fetched in the same vehicle, and in the same curious style. Visits are generally paid by the resident at 7 o'clock in the evening, and the carriage is then accompanied by torch bearers, which adds to the fantastic appearance of the cortege and causes great excitement among the islanders, who flock to watch the procession. It takes half an hour to reach the palace from the resident's house, and at the foot of the steps, surrounded by lackeys holding lighted candles. On arrival of the resident, the Sultan offers him his arm and leads him up the steps to his reception hall, where a few chairs covered with red velvet have been placed beforehand. The resident takes a seat to the right of the Sultan, and the native secretaries place themselves at once as the resident is seated. A servant brings a basin of water for his excellency to wash his hands. If he wishes to do so, but as a rule the resident waves him off. Tea and cakes are next presented; after which a troupe of royal woman dancers, to the number of half a dozen or so, walk slowly in stately fashion, one behind the other, accompanied by a clarinet player in the uniform of the Napoleonic period.

At the end of the performance the ladies walk out in the same slow and stately manner, and then there is a pause, during which cigars and sweets are presented. At the termination of the interval another set of dancers—this time of the male sex—in, followed by a large number of musicians playing violins, flutes and drums. The dance of the Sultan consists of a series of high jumps and acrobatic performances, ending by their forming themselves into a human pyramid. The male dancers wear curious haremlike costumes with three-cornered hats ornamented with birds-of-paradise feathers, the sight of which would turn any European lady green with envy. It is now time for the resident to return home, and the ancient carriage, with its quaint harness and torch-bearers, is once more placed at his disposal.

After Dinnering the Knife. Discussing international matters, Senator Tillman said humorously at a dinner in Washington: "Think, too, of their queer foreign manners. They knot their napkins about their necks, you know, like bibs. They say that a Czech nobleman, a short time after his marriage with a Chicago heiress, appeared at the club with his face covered with fine scars." "Dear me, count!" cried a friend. "Your face! Duelling again! Don't you know that your life is more valuable now?" "Ah, no, count, the other answered, touching his own countenance gravely: 'I have not been duelling. It is my American wife. She insists on my eating with a fork.'"

SULTAN OF TERNAPE. Quint Entertainment Furnished by the Comic Opera Butler. There was a time when the Sultan of Ternape had great power and riches, and lived in grand style. But nowadays, when this potentate shows himself to his people, he rides in a state carriage—a gift from the government, dating from a very remote period in the coach building art, which is dragged and pushed by natives, whose business it is to take the place of horses. It is said that horses are scarce on the island, and that the Sultan resents the idea of placing a native coachman in a more elevated position than himself; therefore, he prefers to drive out at a snail's pace, towed by coolies.

When the resident returns an official visit he is fetched in the same vehicle, and in the same curious style. Visits are generally paid by the resident at 7 o'clock in the evening, and the carriage is then accompanied by torch bearers, which adds to the fantastic appearance of the cortege and causes great excitement among the islanders, who flock to watch the procession. It takes half an hour to reach the palace from the resident's house, and at the foot of the steps, surrounded by lackeys holding lighted candles. FARM NOTES. The only really successful garden is the clean garden. Good fruit and vegetables in clean attractive packages need no salesman. Turnips as a second crop more than pay the time and work put in on them. Making a good garden is a man's job. Do not leave the hard work to the women folk. With good equipments and willing workers having is not altogether a disagreeable task. Cauliflower can be grown more easily than cabbage. It is always in demand and at good prices. Plant seeds of string beans every fortnight, so that there will always be a supply of tender pods. Wagons, rakes, forks, ricks, and everything should all be in good order before the harvest begins. Celery blanches nicely if a six-inch drain tile is slipped over each plant, when the time comes for blanching. Make sowings once a week of such quick-growing vegetables as lettuce and radishes, to insure a continuous succession. Any delay made to repair harvesting tools not only subjects the farmer to loss of money by hindering the field hands, but subjects him to loss by prolonging the time of gathering his crops. As soon as the grass gets into the proper condition, it should be gathered in just as early as possible, for when allowed to fully ripen before cutting a great portion of the nutriment is lost. Clean out the chaff and hay seed on the barn floor and scatter it over bare places in the lots and pastures. This scattered seed represents good money value and it should be put to good purpose. Clearing up and removing all growths along the margins of a garden and fields with thorough, continuous cultivation will give almost complete immunity from cut worms, grubs, etc. A hired man at two dollars a day can make good money for you by sprouting the corn field at the time of plowing. A day's sprouting in the corn field will make it look five dollars better. The same is true of the oats and hay field.

Habits of the Mole. The mole is a stout, thick-set, animal-eating insect, living underground, where it constructs galleries often of great extent and complexity. The mole is the most voracious of mammals, and if deprived of food is said to succumb in from 10 to 12 hours. Moles have been seen by various observers, as if maddened by hunger, to attack animals nearly as large as themselves, such as birds, hares, frogs and even snakes. If two moles are confined together without food the weaker is invariably devoured by the stronger. They take readily to the water. A Dry-Weather Crop. There are few seasons so dry that well-cultivated mids make so little yield as a fair crop of grain. It will produce 15 bushels per acre of grain under conditions so dry that corn will be a total failure. In favorable seasons it produces more grain than corn, with a greater feed value.

A Goodbye Word

On September 10, 1908, I said my first word in an editorial way to the people of Wayne and the readers of the Herald. This week we say our last one, the paper having passed into other hands. In the months intervening from that time to this, we have tried to chronicle the weekly happenings of the community and bring to you a message of good cheer. The weeks that have passed into the bygone have been pleasant ones, as we have tried week by week by voice and pen to set forth the advantages of Wayne and vicinity, to encourage the young people to grasp the opportunities for advancement and make of themselves the best that was in them. We have rejoiced in the progress of the town and its prospects for the future; and have been pleased with the words of commendation and patronage received and have tried to reciprocate all the kindly feelings extended, all of which have been appreciated. We have made mistakes, of course, who does not, but we have aimed to be fair and square with all.

The paper has been sold to E. W. Huse, who is no stranger to our people, therefore needs no words of commendation at our hands, he having previously been engaged in the newspaper work here, managing the Herald. He speaks for himself as to the future, but he comes with the determination to give Wayne and its people a better paper than ever before. We bespeak for him the same generous support given the Herald the past two years.

Again thanking you for all past favors and wishing you an abundance of peace and happiness, I bid you all goodbye.

A. E. WOODRUFF.

We've Come Back

We are back in Wayne, and we expect to stay. A deal was closed Tuesday evening by which the Herald passes into our possession. According to the terms of the transfer, all bills owed by the Herald up to August 1st, are to be paid by the retiring management, and all accounts due the paper on advertising and job work up to that date are to be collected by said management. The subscription list, however, comes into the hands of the new ownership as it stood August 1st, those paid in advance to be supplied by us, and those owing for the paper to pay the undersigned.

Our purpose is to improve the Herald as rapidly as conditions will warrant. First and foremost, it will endeavor to serve Wayne and Wayne county, and will cover this territory as fully as possible. By a system of correspondence we hope to soon have all parts of the county represented in these columns.

We believe Wayne is a better city, with brighter prospects, than ever before. We believe it is surrounded by richer agriculture than any other part of the state. Optimism, unity and high vital essentials to growth and prosperity, are nowhere more apparent than here. This fact encourages investment and insures progress and upbuilding. A united city, operating for improvement and the public good through an active and zealous commercial club, is reassuring.

Evidence of public and private improvement is seen on every hand. A splendid new schoolhouse, new business houses and new residences are proof of the right spirit. Acquisition of the normal college as a state institution is a source of great value to the city and county. The growing incubator factory, as an important industry, will be felt and appreciated more and more from year to year. The cement works and creamery have added to the value of Wayne's productive institutions since we left here a few years ago. All these things are important, and others will follow as local needs and opportunities are pressed forward.

The Herald will continue as a republican paper, but will not be narrow and intolerant in the expression of its political views, nor neglect to give respectful consideration to those who disagree with it. In politics especially, no paper can always say the thing that will suit every body. We can usually agree on questions of particular importance to the city and county.

On account of the time of assuming control, Mr. Woodruff, retiring editor, will supply the contents of this week's paper, aside from this brief announcement.

Conn, of Columbus; dean and head of department of education, Superintendent H. H. Hahn, Blair; mathematics, Prof. Charles H. Bright, Wayne; physical science, I. H. Brittle, Columbus; biological science, H. H. Hickman, Wausa; history, civics and economics, J. G. W. Lewis, Broken Bow; English, J. T. House, Chicago; registrar, W. D. Redmond, Lincoln; Latin and preceptor, Elizabeth Gorman and preceptor, Elizabeth Kingsbury, drawing and industrial art, Sarah J. Killen, Adams, Nebraska; manual training and athletics, E. J. Mrs. J. M. Pile, of Wayne, was quite strongy endorsed by our business men for registrar of the institution, for which she was an applicant, but the Board saw fit to give the position to another. It will be seen that there are a number of those in the school now, or who have been identified with it in the past, among the new faculty, add it looks on the surface as if the teaching force would be a successful one and the school sure to prosper.

NEBRASKA NORMAL COLLEGE

The Last Commencement Under the Old Name

With the present commencement exercises of the Nebraska Normal College, which begins today, the school passes out from under the control of the Piles—both father and son. J. M. Pile, the founder, built a school upon a solid foundation, and since his death his son, Fred M. Pile, has conducted it along the same general lines of excellence. That the school has been a success is fully attested by the attendance year after year and the hundreds who have gone out from its portals into the broader avenues of active life, well fitted to take up the duties that come to them in different spheres. The following will be the program of the week:

August 4, 8 p. m. Contest of Literary Societies.

August 5, 8 p. m. Department of Elocution, Play.

August 6, 8 p. m. Prize Oration Contest, Jones Prize.

August 7, 3 p. m. Baccalaureate Sermon, by Rev. Alexander Corkey, D. D.

August 7, 8 p. m.—Joint Meeting Y. W. C. A., Y. M. C. A., Catholic Club.

August 8, 8 p. m.—Prize Recitation Contest, Mines Prize.

August 9, 8 p. m.—Prize Debate Contest, Craven Prize.

August 10, 8 p. m.—Graduating Exercises, Address to Class by R. I. Elliott.

August 11, 9 a. m.—Alumni Program, Five minute addresses by twenty-nine class representatives.

PETER MEARS PASSED AWAY.

The Oldest Man in Wayne, if not in the County is Dead

After many months of suffering and weary watching, Peter Mears departed this life at the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. M. Cherry, early Tuesday morning. Deceased was born January 26, 1819, at Wigan, Lancaster, England, and died at Wayne, Nebraska, August 2nd, 1910, aged 91 years, 6 months, and 6 days. In the year 1826 he emigrated with his parents to America, landing at Philadelphia, Pa., where they remained one year, and then moved west, settling in Guernsey county, Ohio. He was married May 23rd, 1844, at Zanesville, Ohio, to Lydia Marshall, who died January 3, 1898. In September, 1855, he moved to Iowa, and lived at Mt. Pleasant, Brooklyn, and afterwards at Fry, Iowa. He came to Wayne county in 1879, and bought a farm one mile southwest of where Wayne now stands, where he lived until the town of Wayne was platted, since which time he has been a resident of the town, and for many years took an active interest in its affairs.

Nine children were born to him, eight of whom survive. They are William and Grant S. Mears, Mesdames Jennie S. Stallsmith, Mary G. Cross, Edith M. Cherry, Esther A. Hoague, of Spokane, Washington, Lydia Benson, of Lakeside, Washington, and Sarah E. Mills, Nekoma, Kansas. He left 22 grand children and 13 great grandchildren.

In early life he united with the Baptist church, his father being a Baptist minister and school teacher. The funeral services are to be held at the Baptist church in Wayne this afternoon, Rev. Parker Smith, officiating, and burial will be made in Greenwood cemetery.

Held to the District Court

Two o'clock Tuesday afternoon was the date and hour set for the preliminary examination of Henry Hogrefe, the Altona blacksmith, charged with causing the death of his wife by administering poison in the form of strychnine. At the time appointed, the prosecuting attorney, A. R. Davis, County Judge, James Britton, the prisoner accompanied by Sheriff Mears, were in their places as well as the witnesses, but it was fully 2:30 before F. A. Berry, the attorney for the defense, appeared, being detained on business. F. E. Berry also assisted in the defense.

At the opening of the testimony there were possibly 125 people in the court room, only a few of them women. There were five witnesses examined, Charles Eiling, who testified as to the life and character of Mrs. Hogrefe from girlhood up to the health of the deceased, also to having seen her at 5:30 on the morning of her death, out of doors, when she appeared as well as usual, also that she was called to the Hogrefe home about six o'clock the same morning by the prisoner, saying that his wife was very sick; also testified to the symptoms and that deathly occurred about twenty minutes after she reached her side, there being all the indications of poison. Mr. Panning, the store keeper at Altona, also testified to a conversation with Hogrefe. Dr. Williams, county coroner, told of being called and the examination made and the conclusion reached before the stomach was sent away for analysis. The testimony of witnesses examined at the coroner's inquest led him to suspect strychnine poisoning and the analysis confirmed his suspicion. Miss Moseman testified that she was a domestic in the Hogrefe household from October, 1909, to the 15th of May, 1910. That on this distant occasion in that time the prisoner had made proposals of marriage to her, the first one in January, 1910, the second one in March, 1910, and the third one at a later date, all of which she refused.

After listening to the testimony introduced, which only occupied a couple of hours, the above being only a synopsis of it, Judge Britton bound the prisoner over to the district court without bail, which means the prisoner will have to remain in jail until November unless Judge Welch shall decide to try the case by itself.

What Church?

A subscription paper was circulated last Saturday to raise money to help buy the church building at Wayne, which the German Lutherans propose buying and moving here. The building has seats and an organ in it and is considered very cheap at the price asked for it. Wakefield Republican.

The Open Air Service

The union open air service will begin, as usual, next Sunday with a praise service at 6:30. Preaching at 7:00 p. m. The court house lawn, where these services are held has proved a most appropriate place as it is convenient, well shaded and cooler than almost any other part of town.

Presbyterian Notes

"The Elder Brother" will be the subject of the morning sermon at the Presbyterian church next Sunday. The object—sermon to boys and girls will be on "Keys."

The Sunday School meets at 11:45 a. m., following the morning worship.

There will be no midweek services held during August.

Two Games

It is very probable that there will be more than two games of baseball on the home grounds next week, but two are assured. These will take place Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons and will be between the Wayne club and the fast Le Mars, Iowa, team. The latter will be on their way to Randolph to participate in a baseball tournament there. Wayne has a very strong infield now and are putting up good games so that the games on Tuesday and Wednesday are sure to be closely contested and interesting. Be sure to see them and help the Wayne nine to win. There may be a game, and very likely will be, on next Thursday afternoon, also on Friday, but nothing definite has as yet been arranged for.

Old Settlers' Picnic

The tenth annual reunion of the Pioneers and Old Settlers Association of Wayne county, Nebraska, will be held this year on the college campus in Wayne on next Thursday, August 11, 1910. Rev. Alexander Corkey of the Presbyterian church will deliver an address at two o'clock in the afternoon. This will be followed by a short business meeting and then games. Good music will be given. Bring your baskets and eat under the trees. Everybody welcome and everything free. Arrangements are being made for a good game of baseball on the college grounds at four p. m. Let all of the old settlers take an interest in this annual meeting. Come together and enjoy an outing, revive old memories of the early days, and have a good time.

Some one at West Point, who has been keeping track of the weather, finds that in the forty-one days from June 15 to July 25, there was only a rain fall of 4.06 inches, which is way below the average and the mean maximum temperature for that time was ninety-two degrees, which was very high.

The Tokamah Journal well says: You cannot promote temperance by advocating it publicly, when the public knows you have your cellar in such a shape that you wouldn't invite a thirsty crowd to inspect it. That kind of temperance activity smacks of hypocrisy.

Stopovers of length on little or no cause will not be allowed by the railroads of the country after October 1 of this year. For some time the railroads have been trying to get together on this question and now an agreement of practically all the large lines of the United States that wherever the stopover reads to extend the time limit beyond the original extent of the ticket it shall not be allowed.

Canadian northwest is suffering this year because it is a "one crop country." Having lost on wheat, the settlers have nothing to fall back on to carry them through the long, hard winter that will be upon them before they know it. If they return by thousands now to the United States it will be the most natural movement imaginable. It has been burned into the minds of the farmers by bitter experience that nature is too capricious to make it profitable to risk one's whole season on a single throw. The really prosperous agricultural districts are those with diversified crops. Nebraska with wheat, corn, alfalfa, live stock and dairying, feels that the day of crop failures is gone forever.

Clyde Oman and family were passengers Tuesday morning for Alamosa, Colorado, and other points in that state, expecting to be absent about three weeks. The outing will be a pleasant one for them.

The baseball club went over to Stanton Tuesday afternoon and were defeated in a closely contested game 5 to 3. The Wayne boys as good as had the game won twice but costly errors caused them to lose out at the last.

W. S. Davies, who is in the hospital at Rochester, Minnesota, is not expected home for two or three weeks yet, at least. While he has improved materially he may have to undergo another operation, and if he does it will still further delay his home coming.

E. T. Kennick went to Omaha Tuesday morning. There he was joined by his brother James, of Pillager, and together they journeyed down into the Panhandle country, Texas, to look at some land James has there. It was E. T.'s first trip to that part of our country.

Supt. J. H. Kemp, of our city schools, and his wife, who have been at Pawnee City, Nebraska, for three weeks or more, returned home Friday evening. They looked as if they had enjoyed their vacation and they did, every moment of it, despite the heat.

A large number of our citizens got badly stung on the Carroll-Wayne baseball game at Carroll last Thursday. Eight automobiles and a large number of buggy loads went up there expecting to see something good in the ball line. But, oh, my! Our boys ran themselves nearly to death, making twenty-five scores in seven innings to Carroll seven, and were then so tired that they quit and came home.

We received quite a long article Tuesday afternoon through the mail entitled "Dancing vs. Saloons." We should not have objected to running the article over the signature of the writer, had one been attached, but as there was none it was not even worthy of this notice, as everyone knows that anonymous communications do not go in a printing office, except in the waste basket. No man should be ashamed to father what he writes; if he is, he had better not write it.

This immediate locality was treated to the heaviest rainfall Tuesday evening of any time for many weeks. Wherever they received its beneficial effects the corn crop is assured. The only trouble is that it does not appear to have been as widespread as it was hoped it might be, for we understand that three miles east they did not get any at all, but that the wind did considerable damage in the way of blowing over windmills and the like.

We enjoyed a half hour chat Friday afternoon with Bro. Nevin, of the LaPorte Advocate, and found him a very congenial gentleman to meet. He and his good wife know how to run a good paper, clean in every respect. He has purchased a new automobile this year and those two worthy people not only get a whole lot of enjoyment out of the machine themselves but do not forget their friends as well, thereby making it serve a double purpose. The good book says: "It is more blessed to give than to receive" and they find it so. It was the first time we had ever met Mr. Nevin but found that he came from a very near the same part of Iowa that we did and that we knew a number of the same people, which made our meeting the more pleasant.

Prof. J. H. Kemp and wife, Rev. Alexander Corkey, wife and daughter, went to Crystal Lake Tuesday morning for a couple of weeks camping under W. H. Morris and wife intended to accompany them but W. H. was laid up with an attack of quinsy and could not go for a day or two yet.

J. E. Marsteller and family left Monday for a visit at his old home in Mercer county, Pennsylvania, going back to the old house where he was born, and will spend most of this month among the scenes of his early life and with relatives there. They stopped in Chicago a couple of days on their way there.

We are glad to say that W. L. Fisher and family have come back to Wayne to live. While they liked it fairly well out at Keystone, in the western part of the state, they like Wayne better, and as W. L. had a good chance to rent his land for a term of five years, he decided to do so. Their friends welcome their return.

Robert Smith is out of the race as a candidate for the nomination of representative on the republican ticket from this district. He and Wm. Prince are old neighbors and would not be pitted against each other, even after some of their friends had filed for them, and they settled as to which one it was to be to make the race by flipping a dollar, and Prince won.

Wm. Prince, republican candidate for the nomination as representative from the Wayne-Stanton district, was a caller Saturday afternoon. Mr. Prince informs us that he has been a resident of Wayne county for the past twenty-one years, having resided on the same farm where he now lives all those years. This gives him a wide acquaintance with the needs of the district. He is in favor of redistricting the state, favors county option, and stands on the state platform as adopted at Lincoln last week.

Mrs. J. M. Pile has let the contract for the remodeling of the house she has recently purchased at the corner of Pearl and 4th streets, to Clasen & Nelson Bros. It calls for a full two-story residence of both, the main building and the south ell; an eight-foot porch along the west side, a cement block foundation, a large cellar, furnace heat, sewerage connections and all the necessary fixtures for bath and other purposes. The corner is a good one and the property, when graded and fixed as Mrs. Pile has in mind, will be among the best in the city, which is saying a good deal.

A young man, aged about twenty-four years, son of Charley Maas, residing six miles west of Winside in Wayne county, had both legs cut off in a reaper accident Monday forenoon. No one knows just how the accident happened but in some manner he got in front of the sickle bar with the above result. The right leg was cut entirely off a few inches above the ankle, and the team running away with the young man on the binder platform, it was some little time before the foot could be found. A doctor from Winside amputated the left leg and some of the bone on the right leg and dressed the wounds. It is thought he will recover.

Coal Situation Bad

On account of the strike situation in several states, dealers in coal in the middle west are wondering what will be the outcome with the public this fall. Just at this time most cities report very little movement of coal to the consumer. Most dealers claim they are behind at least thirty days in starting their fall deliveries. As soon as the mines are in operation the railroads will begin stocking for fall. This will require all the coal the mines will be able to get out, aside from the fact that it will take a great many cars out of regular service. Then there is the crop movement, which from reports will cause as much of a shortage as usual, if not more.

There will be no doubt that everyone will get coal before cold weather sets in. It will perhaps be at an advance price, and may have to be taken in small lots. The experience the local dealers had last season has taught them a lesson, and they are urging their trade to take in their coal, especially anthracite, while it can be had at a summer price, and guarantee delivery and quality.

RECALLS HER ENVOY

THE VATICAN AMBASSADOR IS ORDERED TO RETURN AT ONCE.

RUPTURE ALMOST COMPLETE

Church and State Question May End in a Civil War—Pretender to the Spanish Throne, Don Jaime, Issues Manifesto to His Followers.

San Sebastian, Spain.—At the conclusion of a conference Friday afternoon between King Alfonso and Premier Canalejas it was announced that Marquis Emilio de Ojeda, Spanish ambassador to the vatican, had been recalled.

At the same time the opinion was expressed that a rupture with the vatican was inevitable. (Senor Canalejas told the king that the government could not accept the conditions of the vatican's note and that the vatican would see to it that the rupture was complete.)

Premier Canalejas will continue his anticlerical program, counting upon the support of King Alfonso.

The order to Marquis de Ojeda was to leave his post signifying that the rupture which Senor Canalejas designated as inevitable is now an accepted fact.

Marquis de Ojeda in addition to pleading illness, has been insisting on his return on the ground that the position of the government at Rome no longer was tenable and that he considered a rupture between the vatican and the government imminent.

Premier Canalejas, referring to the vatican's last note, which declared that unless the decree of June 11, permitting non-Catholic societies to display an insignia of public worship was withdrawn, negotiations looking to the revision of the concordat would be discontinued, said the government would tolerate no imposition.

Spain's recalling Ambassador de Ojeda, it is expected, will be followed by the departure from Madrid of Mar Vico, the papal nuncio, when the rupture will be complete.

TO OUST OFFICIALS

THE GOVERNOR TAKES ACTION AGAINST OMAHA OFFICERS.

KARBACH FILES A COMPLAINT

Alleges Liquor Is Illegally Sold at Many Places and that Officers Refuse to Take Action.

Governor Shallenberger has directed the attorney general to bring quo warranto proceedings to oust from office Chief of Police Donahue of Omaha, Fred Hove, William J. Hunter and William P. Wappich, members of the Omaha Fire and Police board, for failing to enforce the liquor laws in Omaha.

The governor acted upon a complaint filed with him by Charles J. Karbach, member of the Omaha Fire and Police board. In the complaint it is charged that houses of prostitution to the number of 255 have taken out government licenses to sell intoxicating liquors and have no city license, and that they sell beer at all hours of the day and night and on Sundays.

Karbach also charges that he personally visited the red light district and was solicited to enter the houses by girls, and that he informed Chief Donahue of what he saw. The reply the chief made to the complaint, he says, was this: "You a liar and don't know anything about it."

Karbach calls attention to the fact that Mayor Dahlman, in a speech on June 22, said that the 8 o'clock law was being violated all over the state. He said that the mayor, as ex-officio member of this board, has knowledge of the conditions in Omaha.

Governor Shallenberger's letter to the attorney general directing the latter official to begin action against the three members of the fire and police board and Chief Donahue follows:

"Dear Sir: I am enclosing you herewith copy of a complaint filed in my office by Charles J. Karbach against John J. Donahue, chief of police, and Fred Hove, William J. Hunter and William P. Wappich, members of the board of fire and police commissioners, city of Omaha, Nebraska.

This is the third complaint that has been filed against these officers, the charges all being similar, within the last year. The evidence adduced upon the former complaints showed that there were violations of the liquor laws in the city of Omaha, but upon the express promise of the chief of police that such violation would be discontinued if they were given an opportunity to enforce the laws, I withheld taking any steps to remove such officers at that time.

During the past two months my attention has been called to repeated and continued violations of the liquor laws in the city of Omaha, and I am convinced beyond a doubt that there is no effort being made on the part of those whose duty it is to see that the laws are enforced in that city to in any way eradicate the evil or remedy the existing conditions.

This last complaint having been filed by one who is a member of the board of fire and police commissioners, convinces me that the defendants named in this complaint are not acting in good faith with reference to doing their duty in this matter. I am not satisfied that these officers are unable to bring about an observance of the liquor laws in the city of Omaha, but on the contrary am thoroughly convinced that they have no desire so to do, and are in fact willfully neglecting and refusing to enforce the law.

You are therefore directed to institute and prosecute quo warranto proceedings in the supreme court, as by law provided, against the defendants named herein, for the purpose of ousting said defendants from the official positions so held by them.

Attorney General Thompson will begin his suit at once. Although the supreme court will not be in session again until September, the taking of testimony in the case will begin at once. A majority of the supreme court will be called together to appoint a referee to take testimony.

Water Company a Money Maker.

The water department has made a better showing, figured as if it were a private company, than it did last year. The city auditor for years has complained in such a way as to excite the criticisms of opponents of municipal ownership, by showing that the city makes money even if its conditions are those of a private company.

City Auditor Ozman figures that in the year ending March 31, 1910, the city made $33,147.72 on its water department.

Supplies Are Rejected.

Recently canned goods delivered to the soldiers' home at Grand Island on contract were refused on the ground that they were not equal in quality to the sample bid on. A quarter of a ton of coffee, furnished by the same contractor to the same institute has also been rejected as not being equal to the kind contracted for by the state.

A sample from the coffee and some of the coffee delivered was sent to Land Commissioner Cowles, and after he compared the two he approved commander's decision.

Sample of Nebraska Property.

In the little town of Macon, on Macon prairie in Franklin county, a town with perhaps 100 houses and no railroad, Colonel Fese, secretary to Governor Shallenberger, who went there to speak at a political meeting, said he counted twenty-seven automobiles standing around the corner grocery. "The automobiles were not owned by pleasure-seekers, but belonged to the farmers who live around the town, and some of them were driven into town by farmers who are comparatively new settlers."

The following table shows the assessment by counties for the years 1909 and 1910, as equalized by the state board last year and returned by the county boards this year.

Cattle also show a material increase, some of the counties reporting the average assessed value $1 more this year than for 1909.

Bogus Money Swindlers.

An Omaha newspaper reports that two roofing house keepers there have recently been swindled by men who paid them bogus $20 bills in payment for lodging, for which good money was given as change. The worthless currency consisted of old bills issued in 1856 by a bank in Georgia, which has not been in existence for fifty years.

Court House Bonds Delivered.

Court house bonds from Phelps county, in the amount of $50,000, were delivered to the state treasurer last week. These bonds were contracted for many months ago for the purchase of bonds.

Investigation of Irrigation.

State Engineer Simmons went to North Platte to investigate the complaints regarding the order of the board, shutting down the head gates in the North Platte river. At this time the river is practically dry and there is much complaint because of the order of the board. Under the law, water is apportioned according to priority of application filed with the board and it happens that the parties entitled to the water are further down stream. Those above are deprived of water and are making complaint.

BOY DODGES DEATH FOR MANY DAYS

SOLE SURVIVOR OF ONE OF THE NICARAGUAN BUTCHERIES TELLS STORY.

WOUNDED BY LEADEN HAJ

Paul Mason, a Young New Yorker and Estrada Soldier, Stares Into Eternity Time After Time, But Finally Escapes.

New Orleans, La.—Sole survivor of what was one of the most bloody skirmishes in the recent Nicaraguan campaign, Paul Mason, a specky New York boy, who was a lieutenant colonel on the staff of Gen. Luis Mena, arrived here on the steamship Imperator from Bluefields. Mason had had a most remarkable series of experiences since his killing by the Estrada cause about five months ago, but the most thrilling have been during the last 40 days. Wounded and captured by the enemy after having made a charge into the face of the Estrada machine gun fire, escaping death at the hands of a Madriz colonel only to be sentenced to death by that officer after a drumhead court-martial, pardoned by the Madriz, commanding general, and threatened with imprisonment by Managua, left for dead in a Madriz hospital camp and so reported to his friends in Bluefields, and finally recaptured by the forces of General Mena and carried to Bluefields for treatment, are a few of the things which he went through.

Young Mason, who is barely twenty-four years old, arrived here en route to New York, a subscription having been taken up by Americans in Bluefields to send him to his home. His right leg is almost useless, he having been, as he expressed it, "blam-strung" by a machine gun bullet which passed through his thigh and caused partial paralysis. He was with the unfortunate Milwaukee boy, Rosenzweig, who was killed by a stray bullet in the battle of San Augustin, a Young Rosenthal was an adjutant to General Corral, and it was while he was retreating under orders from his chief that he was shot and killed. The charge in which the young New Yorker was shot and captured was said to be one of the most remarkable in the fighting around Bluefields.

"I haven't the slightest idea how I ever reached the trenches alive. I had been commanding a battery of machine guns at San Augustin when General Corral ordered me and my squad of 100 men to draw the fire of a detachment of Echavarria's men, who were in a trench up a little hill. Behind this trench were machine guns which swept the hillside. I started to lead the men and went on until I reached the trench. Only four of my fellows had come with me, and when we reached the trench I ordered them to lie down. Before they could do it, they were killed. I was left alone, and as I crouched to escape the fire, my machete was shot from my hand. When I saw I was alone, I started to retreat, and as I did so, was shot through the thigh. I tried to crawl back to my battery, but before I could do that I was captured.

"One of Madriz's colonels came up with his machete and wanted to finish me for being a meddlesome gringo. Four of his soldiers compelled him to desist, threatening to shoot him if he killed me. They insisted that I be tried by court-martial. This was done, and I was notified that night I should be shot at daybreak. I owe my life to General Echavarria, the commander of the Madriz forces at Rama. He had seen the charge, and when he came up to where I was lying, he shook hands with me and told me that I would not be shot, but taken back to Managua.

"For 15 days I was with the wounded prisoners back of Rama, but finally 500 of Mena's men, the vanguard of his troops, began to chase Echavarria's rear. They thought that the force was much greater, so they fled, leaving the wounded, of which I was one. I was captured and taken to Mena's camp and sent thence to Bluefields for treatment. It was a month before I could walk. Then the Madriz army was demoralized and their supplies cut off.

Help to Find Gold.

Wanted, Conn.—Shimou Lake, submarine boat builder, has invented a machine which he claims will revolutionize gold hunting. It is designed primarily for the extracting of river bottoms where gold is known to exist and separate the particles of gold from the sand, mud and other particles with which it is mixed.

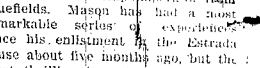

The invention is partly the outcome of the efforts to recover the cargo of the sunken treasure ship Lutine, which went down off the coast of Iceland more than a century ago. It will prove especially useful at the mouths of many of the Alaskan streams.

wanted the leadership of their state organization. From William J. Bryan the issue of county option was decided by the voters registered there. In his present policies after declining an impassioned appeal from Mr. Bryan, who declared the liquor interests were in an organized attempt to secure political control of the state. The minority plank submitted by Mr. Bryan was brief, and his opponents declared was an effort to reduce his former radical attitude.

The majority plank was a direct appeal to the voters against the county option plank was unopposed and adopted by a large majority.

Mr. Bryan, speaking from the platform in behalf of the minority plank presented by him, was greeted by shouts of applause and was listened to with interest.

He said in part: "I have advocated that which is not good for the state let me feel your wrath. If you find I have done anything that is not good for the Democratic party I do not ask your mercy."

"Who less than I could desire to disrupt the Democratic party? Am I not aware what a reputation at your hands will mean to me? It has been said that I am making this fight because I am not a democrat. Nothing could be more untrue."

Mr. Bryan here referred to the political battles he had waged and declared that he had been fearless when his own future seemed at stake.

"Continuing he said: 'I have been called a traitor for expressing my opinion. Your candidates here today have expressed their sentiments. My wife and I am compelled to remain silent. When I feel that the good name of my state is at stake?'

"I have been said that I am aggrieved because I have been sold out by the liquor interests of my own state. I have been sold out by these liquor Democrats in my own state and saved by the votes of self-respecting Republicans who refused to aid in it. I expect to be in politics for many years yet. I expect to aid in the work of the Democratic party and will not remain silent when a hand of political assassins attack me."

The speaker then attacked the seated speaker of Douglas county, declaring that they were not the choice of the Democrats of the county.

"I am not willing to admit that this is a final settlement of this question," continued Mr. Bryan, "and on a moral question I am not afraid to express my opinions and stand on it if I have to stand alone."

Plot to Betray the State. Mr. Bryan declared that he had learned on his return from South America of the plan to betray Nebraska to the hands of the liquor interests. He said that the election of United States senators and the state officials was a part of the conspiracy, and that he felt called upon to prevent the political burglary of the state.

The Republican party and the Populist party of this state have adopted county option. Mr. Bryan in concluding his speech said: "It becomes an issue. Your speakers say it is turning toward democracy in the local issues; then make your fight on them, not in defense of the liquor traffic."

Mr. Bryan made no comment after the vote, and in answer to questions referred to his speech in which he proclaimed his fealty to the Democratic party and its platform.

A tumult of cheers from the former followers of William J. Bryan, prominent Chairman Smythe of the Democratic platform convention, today heard the result of the test vote taken at the gathering which practically decided the fate of Nebraska, which he had just come on a motion made by Congressman G. M. Hitchcock, a candidate for the senatorial nomination, and in fact was to eliminate the introduction of platform planks, with accompanying speeches, unless submitted as a section of the majority or minority report of the committee on resolutions.

Mr. Bryan, seated as a member of the Lancaster county delegation, was upon his feet at once with a protest and proffered an amendment that would modify the intent of the original resolution.

The temporary organization was made permanent and Chairman Smythe, after a brief speech, selected a committee on resolutions. Mr. Bryan, who had been seated at the head of the table, was the only one to rise and speak.

He said: "I have a letter to write to my old man who has lots of money."

"Why don't you?"

"He hasn't any bad habits and comes of a long-lived family."—Chicago Record-Herald.

an was among the first two of the committee of seven named. Congressman Hitchcock made his motion to restrict discussion. The opponents of Mr. Bryan asserted that if individual introduction of platform planks had been permitted, with a speech or speeches on each one, it would have materially delayed the progress of the body. While they asserted their willingness that he should speak on the minority report, which he was expected to introduce, the action practically prohibited any other speech from him in the convention.

Governor Shallenberger received a great ovation. He said the big convention was a forerunner of victory in November, a Democratic governor was so rare in Nebraska that he was not amazed that others, like Mayor Dahman, also wanted the honor. He, too, loved a fight. He had never won anything without one. The governor said that the tariff alone would defeat the Republican in Nebraska this year.

He defended the acts of the last legislature and said that of the 207 bills passed a Republican court had only declared three unconstitutional. He said the Democratic administration had reduced taxes and by bringing in property no previously on the tax list it had saved the people a million dollars a year.

The Republican state platform reviews achievements of the party and endorses the work of its leaders.

Favors the creation of a non-partisan board of control for state institutions.

Favors restricting of the state for legislative purposes.

Endorses direct legislation.

The Republican party of Nebraska has declared for county option. This fall it will go before the people of the state with its candidates endorsing that issue as a further regulation of the liquor traffic and a plan for the election of candidates for governor to sign.

The party also declares that the people should have a right to vote on a constitutional amendment referring to direct legislation, or initiative and referendum, non-partisan control of state institutions, and the hearty endorsement of the activity of President Taft in his insistence on needed legislation. The county option plank was recommended by the committee, as was also the administrative plank and the non-partisan board of control. The direct legislation plank came before the convention as an appeal from the majority of the committee.

The convention was absolutely in the hands of the county optionists. Little had been heard about direct legislation, but when the appeal from the committee came it secured almost as strong endorsement as the county option plank. Two days of hard work by the majority would have had the platform silent on the liquor question did not move many of the delegates from their position. Two hours in the committee resolutions failed to move the majority of one member from an insistence in a straight plank declaration. "Speeches in the convention against the measure were listened to with much impatience. The wording of the plank which was adopted the night before the convention as a sane and moderate one was finally forgotten by the convention by an overwhelming majority, and amid scenes of wild excitement and enthusiasm.

All other matters of political importance had been subordinated to the one chief issue, the wildest scenes of enthusiasm and energy were witnessed during the discussion which touched on the subject and during the roll call which was to decide whether the convention would refuse to touch the matter or take a pronounced attitude.

At times it was impossible for Chairman Brown to maintain order. W. W. Young of Stanton county tried to argue in favor of a silent platform, but was interrupted and roared until he quit the platform, vanquished by the smiling good naturedness. Although the motion which resulted in the test vote was so twisted by parliamentary practice that "no" meant "yes" and vice versa, the delegations made no mistake and the vote was announced by each county with energy and clearness.

When Douglas county announced that it cast 34 votes against the county option plank, the enthusiasm of that side of the discussion reached such heights that the roll call was temporarily suspended. Likewise when Judge Frost of Lancaster announced clearly that 56 votes from Lancaster county were on the county option side, pandemonium broke loose. Delegates threw up their hats and cheered. Old men shook hands over the backs of seats. Others pounded the seats.

As inserted in the platform the county option plank reads: "For the further and better regulation of the liquor traffic in Nebraska we favor the passage of a county option law by the next session of the legislature, and pledge our candidate for governor if elected, to sign such a law on that subject as the legislature may enact."

This was the only motion made by Senator King of Osceola and accepted by the county option leaders. Omaha members had stood in committee for Webster's draft, which related to the liquor question.

Congressman Norris had been turned down for chairman by a vote of two to one, and had come to the platform at the invitation of his successful opponent, Senator Brown, and had declared that the utmost harmony and understanding prevailed between himself and the senator. While the resolutions committee was reporting he appeared a second time, the only direct part he took in the convention. He asked permission to introduce an amendment to the platform as signed by the entire committee, relating to the national administration. He read it as follows:

"Every protest against the wrong is insurgency for the fight. We are unalterably opposed to the system known as 'Cannontism' and are in hearty sympathy with the insurgent movement in and out of congress. We herewith urge our senators and representatives to continue to use their votes and influence along progressive lines in the future.

Roll call was asked for, but the chairman put it viva voce and declared it carried.

THE PROHIBITIONISTS. Lincoln.—"We rejoice that the issue for which we have so long stood is the dominant issue in Nebraska politics."

This was all the state convention of the prohibitionists had to say Tuesday about county option in an official way. In several addresses county option was spoken of in a disparaging manner. It was called "half way measures, based upon practical rather than conviction." D. H. Gilbert, the chairman of the state central committee, in a stirring exhortation for party loyalty said: "If we can get 50,000 votes this fall on the prohibition ticket instead of 8,000 polled at the last election we will do more good than all the county option will do."

While the platform committee was drawing up a report the convention listened to several addresses. T. M. C. Birmingham, who has fled for the United States senatorship on the tickets, made the following statement: "Local option is not sufficient to solve the liquor traffic. If all the states in the Union were dry and the District of Columbia wet, under our present interstate commerce laws the whole country would be flooded with whiskey from that territory. Besides, we need to make Washington a clean city and to present it to the nation with even face."

THE SOCIALISTS. Lincoln.—Representatives of the Socialist party in Nebraska passed lightly over the county option question in their state convention, but adopted a lengthy platform declaring for radical governmental steps embodying the community idea.

Let the Lights Go Out. It is a lonely little fishing bay in a corner of the Cornish coast, but it is a lighthouse on its queer old quay and also a story concerning it and its ancient keeper. The light was noted to be a little erratic, and so one day to the ancient keeper thereof came an officer of the coast guard. "What is this I hear?" he demanded. "Is it true that your light is never alight after midnight?" "That's right, sir," assented the ancient one equably. "It's a trick and well known that all the boats in the bay and for 12 miles around it will be saved the light. And he looked smiling for approbation.—St. James Gazette.

"The rest in the teeth means to throw defiant reproaches of insults politely, as one would cast a stone at the exposed teeth of a snarling dog. "Wonder," she began, "if you could tell me whether George Washington was a sailor or a soldier?" The boy grinned. "He was a soldier, old right," he said. "How do you know?" the teacher asked. "Because I saw the picture of him crossing the Delaware. Any sailor would know enough not to stand up in a boat."

To Wipe Out or Civilize Savages of Formosa.

FIFTEEN years had been allowed, under the plan contemplated, for wiping out or pacifying the savages of Formosa. But now it is to be accomplished inside of a twelvemonth, and the Japanese government has made a special appropriation of $7,175,000 to pay the military expenses.

This is on account of the camphor business. Until recently the entire world has practically depended for its supply of camphor upon Japan, which has held a monopoly of the production of that necessary article. But the Germans have begun to manufacture artificial (synthetic) camphor on a large scale, and thus are competing in the market to an alarming extent.

It is very necessary under the circumstances that the supply from Japanese sources shall be maintained, lest it be replaced and crowded out by synthetic camphor. The camphor trees which formerly grew plentifully in Southern Japan have been to a great extent destroyed, owing to neglect of a regulation that used to require the planting of one seedling for every tree cut, and so the Japanese are obliged to look to Formosa, where the camphor laurel flourishes over a great extent of territory, in virgin forests.

Unfortunately, it is in the mountainous interior of Formosa that the camphor laurel grows best. It is to be in a region which has been since prehistoric times, and is today, under savage dominion. The savages who occupy this territory are very fierce, and earnestly addicted to head-hunting. Hitherto the camphor of their forests has been obtained only with their consent, and it has been customary to pay money to their chiefs as an inducement to refrain from destroying the distilling outfits. Nevertheless, trouble has been frequent, and the stills have been constantly destroyed.

An unlimited number of laborers can be hired in Japan for ten cents a day; but not for any such price, nor for many times that much can men be obtained to go into the forests of Formosa, cut down the camphor trees, and distill the gum, at the serious risk of losing their heads. It is well known that the Japanese do not lack bravery; but head-hunting to the Formosans is a religion; nothing from his point of view is so important, and he will lie in wait for many days at a time near a lonely path in the woods for the sake of getting one chop at a passing camphor-seeker.

Formosa is a big island—as large as Sardinia, and Corsica put together. It is 235 miles long, and 75 miles wide. More than half of its entire area is today in the possession of the savages. For some years past Japan has pursued a rather interesting method for the purpose of bringing about their eventual subjugation. She has established a "guard line" all around the mountainous interior, with small military outposts at intervals along it, and has pushed this artificial frontier steadily forward, so as to restrict the wild people to a lowly but surely diminishing domain.

By this means it was expected that within fifteen years of the present time the entire island would be brought under civilized control. But commercial necessity has made necessary a change of plan. Camphor must be had, and it has been decided to wipe out or pacify all the savages within the coming year. They can take their choice which it shall be. Their numbers are not accurately known, of course, but it is understood that they are split up into no fewer than 723 tribes, whose villages comprise from three to upward of three hundred houses.

The tribes are divided into nine groups, which are mutually hostile, and which differ one another in customs and languages. Some of them, particularly at the south end of the island, have already been partly civilized, and there is even established among them a sort of rural free delivery mail service, by native letter carriers. In the central range of mountains dwell the tribes of the Yonany group, which are very fierce and enterprising head-hunters. In 1905 they became so troublesome that a military attack was made upon them, resulting in their partial pacification.

The Atayal, or northern savages, are the largest and most powerful group. They look upon head-hunting as the chief end and aim of existence. A human head is necessary as an offering in all their religious ceremonies. When a dispute arises between individuals, decision is awarded to the one who first secures a head. A lad is not recognized as adult until he has taken a head. But it must be the head of a Japanese or Chinaman. Their customary method is to lie in wait in the jungle near a frequented path, several of them together, in the hope of obtaining the much-coveted trophy.

Thus civilized existence anywhere near to the savage border is beset with no little peril. At the same time the land of the Atayal is particularly tempting by reason of its richness in forest products, especially camphor it also contains much gold. It should be added that the Atayal tattoo their faces very elaborately, and build elegant huts of bamboo, over the doorways of which are hung as trophies the skulls of wild boars and apes, and sometimes those of Japanese and Chinamen—the latter with pigstails still picturesquely attached.

They make bags of a peculiar network expressly to carry human heads. One chief, when captured and about to be executed, said: "I have no fear of death, I have taken ninety-four heads and wanted only six more to make the hundred."

History tells us that the Spaniards took possession of Formosa in the year 1526. They were expelled by the Dutch in 1642. Nineteen years later a Chinese pirate chief named Koxinga drove out the Dutch, and proclaimed himself king of the island, but in 1682 the Chinese dethroned his successor, and Formosa remained a province of the Middle Kingdom up to the war between China and Japan, as a result of which it passed into the possession of the Mikado's empire.

A glance at the map will show that Formosa is really the northernmost island of the group which we call the Philippines, being situated only a short distance to the north of Luzon. Its wild people are undoubtedly of Malay origin. But its earliest inhabitants were black dwarfs, belonging to the same race as the pigmy negroes who still survive in small numbers in Luzon. Many of their skeletons have been found in the mountainous interior, and it is reasonable to suppose that they were exterminated by the savages who now occupy their territory.

As already stated, these savages have never been subdued. From an ethnological point of view, they are more than ordinarily interesting. Their garb ranges from nudity to gay-colored garments of their own weaving, made from the fibers of banana and ramie. The women are kindly treated and have equal rights with the men. But if a wife loses her husband after the birth of a child she is not allowed to marry again, the idea being that her business thereafter is to attempt to the upbringing of her offspring. Twins are a bad omen, and among some of the tribes it has been customary to tie them to a tree and permit them to perish.

Sickness is supposed to be a punishment inflicted by the spirits of the dead. Dreams afford a medium through which the spirits of the dead communicate with the living. The Atayal and Paliwan groups believe the virgin forests to be the abode of the spirits of their ancestors, and on this account trees within certain designated areas are never disturbed. Old men and women have supernatural powers of the kind usually attributed to witches, and for this reason they perform the religious rites for the tribe.

Spirits of dead persons other than ancestors are dangerous and possibly benevolent. The Atayal consider that the ghosts of their forbears will not be satisfied unless a human head is part of the offering made at ceremonial. Likewise in the case of a dispute between two persons the spirits of his ancestors will guide and protect the one whose cause is just, so that he may obtain the first head and thereby win.

The soil of Formosa is exceedingly rich, and nowhere is a finer quality of tea produced. The eastern half of the island is covered with jungle, in which grows the valuable creeper known as rattan. But the most precious vegetable product is camphor, which is the resin of a tree that grows to huge size, sometimes attaining a diameter of twelve feet.

The only way to get the camphor is to chop the tree into chips, which are subjected to a crude process of distillation, the vapor, when condensed, being deposited in crystals on bamboo screens. This is crude camphor, which comes to market in wooden tubs. It is refined by redistillation. At the present time Japan exports about 5,000,000 pounds of camphor annually, one-fourth of it being shipped to the United States. It used to be refined in Europe and America, but now the Japanese refine their own camphor and ship the finished product.

DAISY CAME FROM ENGLAND

Long preserved in memory of Sir William Keith and the gay life here of the dashing, pleasure-loving lieutenant governor) has of late become known as "the home of the daisy."

From Memorial day to the Fourth of July the large white daisies in some form, dwarf or tall-growing varieties, are found in abundance, decorating the unimproved grounds of suburban country seats, and yet proving a daily annoyance to farmers throughout the hills and valleys of eastern Pennsylvania, according to a correspondent of the Philadelphia Record. No sooner are the large daisies gone for the season than the little ox-eyes and the other white and yellow blooms with dark centers, known as July and August daisies, and only exclamations of delight and rapture are heard from the appreciative youngsters who are "out-daisying."

While the daisies have been well known both in censure and praise for many, many summers, it is only very recently that the responsibility of their introduction into this country has been credibly fixed. Horsham township is declared to be the offending community, and Sir William Keith, first lieutenant governor of Pennsylvania, the individual who brought "the flower weed" over from England.

BACHELOR'S CLEVER TALE OF PRETTY WIFE AND BABY SOFTENS DESPERADO'S HEART.

RUSE LEADS TO CAPTURE

Paroled Illinois Prisoner, Who Makes Daring Hold-Up of Automobillist, Frustrated in Murderous Designs by Fanciful Yarn.

Elgin, Ill.—A fanciful story of a curly-headed boy and sweet and pretty wife, neither of whom exist, worked upon the sympathy of a desperate wayfarer who had drawn a revolver for the purpose of killing Frederick Ackman, a wealthy Hampshire, Ill., bachelor, and gave Ackman time to outline a plan whereby the desperado could be captured. This play of wit against murderous purpose occurred while the two men sped along a lonely road near Elgin in Ackman's automobile.

Hampshire is 15 miles from Elgin. Ackman, who is thirty years old and the son of a wealthy farmer, visited Elgin. As he whirled along the road a short distance out on his way home he was halted by a stranger.

"Can't you give me a lift," the stranger asked in a pleasant tone, and Ackman invited him to "Jump in."

For the first few minutes their conversation was devoid of sensation and Ackman was not suspicious of his companion. He was taken completely by surprise when the stranger drew a pistol from his pocket and pointed the weapon at him.

Ackman, jumping to the conclusion that he was harboring an ordinary robber, took his purse from his pocket and offered it to the man.

"I don't want your money; I want your life," said the stranger, coldly, fingering the revolver menacingly.

Ackman confesses that he was badly scared, but his thoughts were nimble for all that. He summoned all his resolution and began a description of his home. He grew eloquent over the love and gentleness the beauty and sweetness of his wife. His voice grew husky and his eyes were moist as he told of the little boy, crowned with sunny curls, who toddled to meet him, saying "papa."

No one who did not know Ackman would have believed him a bachelor after hearing this highly emotional discourse on his "beautiful home."

The desperado palpably was impressed by what Ackman said. His hard expression softened a trifle and Ackman's great relief he diverted the muzzle of the revolver to a direction where the bullet would have gone harmlessly into the roadside weeds instead of Ackman's body.

"Spare me for the sake of that sweet woman who is waiting at home for me—spare me for the sake of that dear little boy who will be fatherless if you shoot me," he pleaded.

As his fluent tongue thus drew vivid pictures another eye occurred to him. He remembered that Town Marshal Carl Schneider of Hampshire was accustomed to make headquarters at a restaurant. As the machine carried them nearer and nearer Hampshire Ackman pretended to be greatly concerned about his supply of gasoline, which he told his companion was failing rapidly.

When the marshal's house was reached Ackman said he would run in and buy more gasoline. As he expected, Schneider was there, and Ackman was about to tell what had happened and request the arrest of the desperado when the stranger, seeing danger, leaped from the machine and fled.

He was pursued into an alley by the marshal and Ackman and captured. Later he told them that he was Roy Andrews, a former inmate of Pontiac. He said he had been paroled, but declared that his sole motive in threatening Ackman was to force him to carry him away from Pontiac as quickly as possible.

He was given a preliminary hearing before a Hampshire justice of the peace and held to the grand jury on a charge it attempted hold-up.

Beys to Buy Airship. New York—"You are a man," said a seedy-looking pedestrian at Fifth avenue and Forty-second street to another whose clothing indicated prosperity, "lend me a thousand dollars, will you?"

The man accosted stopped in amazement. After looking the other over for a minute, he said: "I would like to buy an airship," was the ready response.

"Well, I am sorry, but I haven't $1,000 with me."

"In that case," said the other in a pleading tone, "would you mind letting me have ten cents on account?"

He got the dime.

The Credit System. A South side woman makes frequent purchases at a nearby drug store, and always has them charged.

She often takes her five-year-old daughter with her. One day recently the child made her way to the store alone, walked in, picked up the proprietor's cat and started for the door.

"Here you have my cat," called out the druggist.

"Charge it," said the child, and kept on going. At last accounts she still had the cat.—Kansas City Post.

Silk-Hatted Peddler Turned Down. The chief of Chicago's license bureau and the mayor's secretary are still wondering today why a man attired in the height of fashion and be-liecked with diamonds should want a peddler's license at the rate of $1 a year. B. Chenkin, who presented a neatly engraved card showing him to be a real estate broker, with money to loan on mortgages, applied for the license yesterday.

"What do you want with a push cart license?" asked the astonished chief of the bureau.

"Well, I don't push the cart myself any more," was the broker's reply, "but one never knows what may happen, and I want it renewed. I've had one for eighteen years."

The license was refused and Mr. Chenkin went away declaring he would take the matter into the courts.

United Doctors are Coming to Wayne

Word has been received that the Chief Consulting Physician of the United Doctors has decided to pay a short visit to Wayne and while here will stop at the Boyd hotel, where he will receive and examine patients.

The United Doctors are the specialists whose wonderful cures have caused so much comment by the press, pulpit and public, not only in Nebraska but all over the country. Those specialists have found a new school of medicine which embraces all of the good points of the old schools and leaves out the bad. They use Allopathic drugs where they are needed, they use Homeopathic drugs where they are needed, and in some cases they use a combination of Eclectic drugs with Homeopathic or Allopathic drugs in the same case. Hence the name, United Doctors. They have united the various schools and "isms" of medicine to form a perfect system of curing disease.

The United Doctors have many institutes established in the larger cities of the United States. Their Omaha Institute is located on the second floor of the Neville Block, corner of 16th & Harney Sts., Omaha, Nebraska.

The object of the United Doctors in making this short visit to Wayne is to secure a few cases in this community but they want these cases to be only the most difficult ones. They know that if they cure a few of the worst cases here that others will hear of it and go to their Omaha Institute for treatment. A cured patient is their best advertisement.

While the doctor is at the Boyd Hotel for this short visit he will examine all patients free of charge but will accept only curable cases for treatment, as it would not be a good advertisement to treat any cases unless they were sure of a cure. To the cases selected for treatment a special reduced price will be made.

The diseases treated by the United Doctors are diseases of the nerves, blood, skin, heart, stomach, kidney and liver, including rheumatism, paralysis, neuralgia, loss of nerve force, goitre, constipation, catarrh, epilepsy, indigestion, dyspepsia, weak back, bloating, dropsy, eczema, scrofula, diseases of women and diseases of men.

The dailies throughout the country are continually publishing reports of the wonderful cures that have been made by the United Doctors. Recently an account was given in an Omaha paper of the case of Mrs. M. Bradford, who lives on R. T. No. 3, South Omaha, Nebraska, in which she says in part: "Ten years ago my health began to gradually fail and I grew worse until I was confined to my bed half of the time with terrible pains in my stomach and bowels and violent vomiting. For years I did not know what a well day was. Could eat no food that other people ate. Could get no sleep nor rest on account of the suffering. I tried all the physicians in reach, but only got worse until a council of my family physicians decided that I had gall stones and that nothing would save my life but an operation and the surgeons could not promise even an operation would relieve me, or save me!

"About one year ago I began to hear accounts of the wonderful work of the United Doctors in gall stones. With death and the surgeon's knife staring me in the face, it seemed that I ought to see them anyway."

"After a careful examination they pronounced the case gall stones and said they could relieve me at once and cure me permanently. I thought that for such results their price would be very high and I would not be able to take their treatment but I found them kind and considerate. Their price was a reasonable one. One fee paid for everything, including the medicine, until I should be entirely cured, regardless of how long it took."

"Now, for over six months I have not had an attack of my old trouble. I can eat anything I want and my digestion seems as good as ever. No more vomiting spells. No more awful pains. No more morphine from the family physician. No more starvation. I owe my recovery to the United Doctors and to them only. They have cured me. Since I have been cured a neighbor of mine has also been cured of gall stones. I want to say to all people who have gall stones, go to the United Doctors."

Mrs. J. H. Bowers, Route No. 2, Tekamah, Nebraska, writes: "After being afflicted with that dread disease, Epilepsy, for ten years continuously, I have not had a single spell since taking my first dose of the United Doctors' medicines. And not only that, but my general health is now so much improved that instead of being a helpless invalid, I can now do nearly all my own work and can eat and sleep and enjoy life as I have not done in ten years before. Now this may seem impossible to other Epilepsy sufferers, but here I am at Tekamah, Nebraska, Route No. 2, ready to verify every statement, because I feel grateful and thankful to the United Doctors for their wonderful work."

These are only a few extracts of hundreds of testimonials on file in the office of the United Doctors throughout the country.

While the United Doctors will not accept any incurable cases for treatment, one should not give up hope simply because their doctor has failed to help them. It must be remembered that this system of medicine has quickly cured many diseases which could not even be helped by other doctors or medicines.

The United Doctors' treatment is all home treatment, so that frequent visits to our office are not necessary. This treatment may be used in any home anywhere, without inconvenience, publicity or annoyance and without detaching the patient from his or her usual occupation.

This wonderful new treatment is what the doctor is bringing to physicians in reach, but only got WAYNE and while here will receive patients at the Boyd Hotel Parlors.
