THE TWENTIETH ANNIVERSARY

This month marks the twentieth anniversary of S. R. Theobald's successful business career in Wayne. From a small beginning, he has, with the assistance of his wife, and his brother, H. W. Theobald, who came a year later, developed a mercantile establishment of large proportions. Excepting P. L. Miller and J. P. Guertner, the Theobalds are the oldest continuous merchants in Wayne.

possible, and in the fall of 1892 the Theobalds moved into their present building, erected by J. T. Bressler and Dr. W. C. Wightman. Five years ago, a thirty-foot addition was built and new galleries constructed all to accommodate a growing stock.

NORMAL OPENS NEXT MONDAY

STATE'S FACULTY IN CHARGE
President Conn Bestows Encomiums on Founder of Institution—The Requirements.

The new State Normal school at Wayne, Nebraska, will open Monday, September 19. A faculty of twenty members has been selected, and it is the aim to make the new school one of the strongest educational institutions in the west. The members of the faculty are men and women of wide experience and broad scholarship. Each one has been selected because of special fitness for the work to be done.

President U. S. Conn who has been placed at the head of the school, is one of the best known school men in Nebraska. His experience as an educator covers all phases of school work, which combined with his broad scholarship and practical business training, eminently qualifies him to carry on the great work begun by Prof. J. M. Pile nearly twenty years ago.

NEWS FROM WAYNE SCHOOLS

Several pupils have been enrolled in the grades within the last week. Among the visitors of the week were the Misses Neely, Gamble, Vennerburg, Blair, Chace and Mellor and Messrs. Forbes, Nichols, Britton and House.

The high school boys are taking a daily work-out at football practice and from the present outlook we will have a winning team. Arrangements are being made for our team to play a number of the neighboring high school teams.

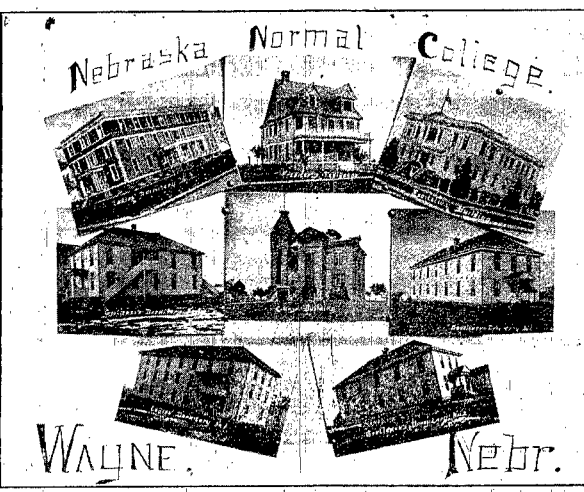

On Thursday morning of last week Rev. Corkey of the Presbyterian church made a very interesting twenty minute address to the high

FAIR SEX AS BALL PLAYERS

WAYNE BOYS WIN FIRST GAME
Evening Contest, With Big, Soft Ball, Lost to the Visitors—Final Game of the Season.

The base ball park attracted a big crowd yesterday when Hopkins' team, five girls and four men, from Des Moines, met local players in a game. The girls did well, but were no match for the Wayne team, and it was not surprising that the score stood 9 to 1 in favor of the home boys at the close. In the Hopkins team the four men held places as catcher, pitcher, short-stop and fielder. The girls occupied the three bases and two places in the field. The novelty of seeing girls in the game excited a good deal of interest.

In the evening, by artificial light, surrounded by a canvas inclosure, another game took place, and the visitors won in a score of 12 to 6. A big, soft ball was used, and it was something new for the Wayne boys. They were not accustomed to the night game, whereas the visitors

Speaking of the work of the school President Conn says: "The State Normal school of Wayne is not a new school. Its foundation was laid nineteen years ago by that great educational leader, Prof. J. M. Pile, who established the Nebraska Normal College. In this school thousands of young men and young women have been enrolled and prepared for their life's work. The school has grown from a mere handful of students to an annual enrollment of over a thousand. It developed strictly on its own merits and stands today as a monument to the energy and wisdom of its founder and leader. On the death of President Pile, the state bought the school and hereafter it will be known as the State Normal school of Wayne, and will be conducted in all respects as the other state normal schools of Nebraska. All the strong features of the old school will be preserved and many new ones will be added. The courses have been greatly strengthened, and the faculty has been increased in order to meet the requirements of the state school."

school, Mr. Corkey "took for" his theme, "Ireland" and very interestingly told about the people and products of the "Emerald Isle."

Mrs. Pile never fails to do her part toward helping the public schools. She recently presented to the Wayne schools a beautiful oleander and a number of pictures, among them a good portrait of the illustrious "Teddy" Roosevelt. We all feel grateful to Mrs. Pile for these gifts.

On Wednesday morning Prof. Britell of the State Normal addressed the high school. Prof. Britell was principal of the Columbus, Neb., high school for nineteen years and he assured that a man of so broad an experience in high school work always has something helpful and interesting for students. Mr. Britell very forcefully impressed upon the students the purpose of acquiring knowledge—that it is a growth, a soul development fitting the person to live more completely and in harmony with his environment.

We need an assistant kindergarten teacher. There is no salary in connection with this position, but anyone who is thinking of becoming a kindergarten director, can well afford to serve in this position for a year without pay. In the kindergarten training schools the students are required to serve as assistants a year or more without pay and service here as assistant will be accepted and credit given by these training schools. Anyone thinking of pursuing such a course may apply to the board of education or the superintendent of schools.

Resolutions of Condolence.
At a meeting of the board of trustees of the Methodist conference Tuesday, resolutions of condolence on the death of D. C. Main of Wayne, were read and passed.

Frost Did Not Strike.
A killing frost was predicted for Monday night, and the cold of the evening made many fear that prediction would come true. But as the night wore on the air became warmer instead of colder, and if there were any touch of frost anywhere it was too light to do damage. The next day was considerably warmer. If killing frosts hold off until the last of the month, the size of the corn crop will meet the highest expectations.

had been schooled in it. But it furnished rich amusement for the participants and the large crowd of spectators.

The cash proceeds of both games amounted to $168, seventy-five per cent. of which was paid to the visitors.

This was the last game of the season, and the Wayne players have acquitted themselves should be a source of satisfaction to them as well as to the Commercial club under whose auspices the organization has been maintained.

WALT MASON FAR FROM DEAD

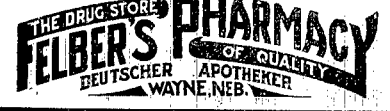

By mistake the news dispatches the past week reported the death of Walt Mason, the poet, in Philadelphia. Here is a special concerning the incident wired to George Mathews Adams, Chicago, by the noted bard:

THE LIVING LYRE
I am not dead, there's nothin in the story; I'm with you still with time and circumstance. When I elect to wing my way to glory, I hope to warn the people in advance. Sometimes I think, when I am heavy hearted, that I would like to sleep a million years, and join the shining ranks of the departed, afar from toil and tanglefoot and tears. And then a chill around my heartstrings reaches; if I should die, some tiresome guy would come and make a string of conversation speeches, amid music of the muffled drum.

Editorial Chicago Daily News: A ridiculous dispatch with a Philadelphia date line, published in a morning newspaper, reports that Walt Mason, the writer, was found dead yesterday in his "studio" in Philadelphia. Mr. Mason at this present moment is very much alive in his home in Emporia, Kas. He is under agreement not to die until further notice and he will continue to write poems and stories for the columns of The Daily News. This energetic Kansan is not the kind of person to be found dead in

New Goods

Direct From
The Eastern Markets

This week we are busy unpacking and marking the merchandise bought last week in Chicago. This has been one of the most successful buying trips we have ever made because of the peculiar market conditions. Jobbers in all lines are loaded with merchandise and are especially anxious to make concessions to reduce their stock.

Among the new things you will now see at this store are many bargains of especial interest to you if you are interested in having the best at a very nominal cost.

By the end of this week this store will be replete with all of the very best things for Fall and you can buy here economically and safely anything that a first-class dry goods store should carry.

IN THE VICINITY.

Winside Tribune: There are no flies on William Prince and his record in the legislature would be very commendable. His opponent, Henry C. Bartels, is also a good man.

Winside Tribune: Two Winside boys left on Monday morning for Omaha to enter Creighton College. Clarence Rew attended last year and goes back for another term, while John Cherry enters for the first time.

Crofton Journal: Joe Meyer brought in an ear of corn from his field last Saturday evening that tipped the scales at 2 pounds, 40 ears to the bushel. Joe says that his corn will not average that but has a heavy stand.

Winside Tribune: The nurse who has been taking care of Henry Maas, the young man injured in the reaper accident a few weeks ago, returned to Sioux City Monday, her assistance not being necessary longer, as the young man is getting along nicely.

Randolph Times: Rev. Alexander Corkey of the Wayne Presbyterian church, is an author of some note. His new book, "The Victory of Allen Rutledge," is now being published in New York. Rev. Corkey was in Randolph the past spring and assisted in the installation of Rev. Beard.

Tekamah Journal: A deal was made this morning through E. D. Pratt for the sale of the Aaron Wilson farm to Frank Cameron at the price of $150 per acre. Mr. Cornish, the owner purchased the farm last year for $100 per acre. This is the highest price yet paid for a Burt county farm.

Dakota City Eagle: Mary F. Davey and Frank Davey have instituted suit in the district court on two different counts seeking to recover damages from the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Omaha Railway company to the amount of $3,400 for destruction of crops during the years 1906, 1907 and 1908 on plaintiff's lands from backwater caused by an embankment being built by said company along their railway track near Coburn Junction.

Pierce County Call: Teddy Roosevelt took exceptions to being called an "insurgent" down in Kansas last week. He told them he was a "progressive" republican, not an "insurgent." No true republican but what will acknowledge that he is progressive. The republican party from its birth has been a party of progress. It has never stood still, neither has it followed the hue and cry of the agitator and will-eyed obstructionist who now calls himself an "insurgent." If it had, the republican party would have ceased to exist long ago. Progress and prosperity are not synonymous with insurgency and obstruction.

Wakefield Republican: Henry Brownell of near Allen, an old friend of the editor, was in town last Saturday bringing his daughter here to have some dental work done. Mr. Brownell has had three cases of infantile paralysis in his family this summer; his home being under quarantine for over three weeks. Three of his sons had the dread disease, one of them sixteen years old dying from it. The other two are slowly recovering but one of them has spells so that he falls down and cannot get up alone until he crawls up to something and then pulls himself up, and the other one is very weak. The son who died, Mr. Brownell thinks, would have been a cripple had he lived. Mr. Brownell has the sympathy of the people in his sad trouble.

Randolph Times: For years the cornfield has had big crops of storage and we have wasted much good feed. But this year we note a change. Many Nebraska farmers are stacking the straw later on and use it for winter feeding. Thus it has taken the shortage of the hay crop to lead us back to the saving of the outstraw. Many years ago we used it every winter to carry the horses through, even when hay was much cheaper than it has been for several years. It takes these occasional droughts and crop shortages to make us look after these matters as we should, and perhaps they are blessings in disguise. We believe in giving the hard-working horse the best of feed in work time, but during the winter, oat straw is very good and the horse will do better when the change is made to timothy and clover than if kept continually on the same rich feed.

Winside Tribune: The Winside teachers commenced work Monday in the following districts: Miss Emma Martiny goes to Allen, Neb., to take charge of the primary grade in the schools at that place, and Rose Martiny has a school at St. Edwards, over in Boone county. Ida Heyer will teach what is known as the Northside school in district 16, where she taught last year. Olga Johnson will preside over the school in the Brugger district, Alice Brown and Minnie Hanson have the same schools they had last year, in district 28, Helen Hoffman in district 31; Clara Heyer in district 41, over near Hoskins and two and a half miles from district 49, where Emma Mumm will try teaching for the first time. Ethel Prince teaches in district 63, Hazel Davis in district 65, Edith Prince in district 70, Anna Martiny in district 74, Nannie Castle in what is known as the Long district, two miles southwest of Winside. Grace Darnell has a school six miles west of Carroll and Blanche Miller teaches northwest of Winside eight or ten miles and will board at the home of her sister Mrs. Ralph Prince. Gertrude Bays and Josephine Carter are employed in the Winside schools.

FOUND IN WYOMING.

Norfolk News: Enjoying an outing on the plains of Wyoming at a ranch eighty miles from a railroad, Miss Martha W. Bowers of Chicago, the only daughter of the late General Solicitor Lloyd W. Bowers of the United States government, did not know of her father's sudden death in Boston, or even of his illness, until a message in an automobile, dispatched out of Lander, Wyo., by General Superintendent Braden of the Northwestern railroad at Norfolk, had reached the ranch after a long hunt over the prairies. Miss Bowers passed through Norfolk yesterday morning enroute to Chicago. She was met here and accompanied to Omaha by Attorney and Mrs. R. T. White of Omaha.

Miss Bowers was enjoying an outing on a Wyoming ranch with a party of friends. The party had left their address only with a bank and it was for this reason that a great deal of difficulty was experienced in locating her. It was not until after the Northwestern railroad wires had been burned for two days that Mr. Braden finally succeeded in finding the missing young woman.

Miss Bowers, together with Mr and Mrs. White, were shaken up in train No. 2 when it met train No. 21 at Rawhide, near Fremont, in a slight collision.

The late General Bowers, up until a short time ago, had been head counsel for the Northwestern railroad since 1893. Mr. Braden of Norfolk was intimately acquainted with him in Chicago, where Mr. Braden was division superintendent. Mr. Bowers was a close friend to President Taft and was prominently mentioned for appointment to the supreme bench.

END OF CHURCH YEAR.

The Methodist church year was closed Sunday, and Rev. J. W. Kirkpatrick preached his final sermon before going to the annual conference at Fullerton where he went Tuesday morning. The conference is in session there this week, and is presided over by Bishop Nielsen of Omaha.

At the morning service Sunday Rev. Kirkpatrick presented a report showing progress during the past year. Improvements have cost $1,840; total collections for various benevolent boards, $1,656; local budget amounts to $1,800; total for the year for all purposes, $4,700. Thirty-three persons were received into church membership. The Sunday school has had an average attendance of 168. The home department has an enrollment of thirty, and the cradle roll an enrollment of seventy-five. The membership of the church is 289.

PREFERS NEWSPAPER ADS.

I never in my life used such a thing as a poster, a dodger or a handbill. My plan for twenty-five years has been to buy so much space in the newspapers and fill it up with what I wanted. I change copy regularly and by so doing I get results. I would not give an advertisement in a newspaper of four hundred circulation for five thousand posters and dodgers. If I wanted to sell cheap jewelry or run a lottery scheme I might use posters, but I wouldn't insult a decent reading public with handbills.—Credited to John Wanamaker.

Bible Study Circle.

The Bible Study Circle ladies wish to announce that all women are cordially invited to attend their weekly Wednesday meetings. Much real good has been accomplished through this agency during the past years and it is hoped the work will continue to thrive. The first meeting of the year, held last week at the home of Mrs. E. B. Young, was largely attended. Mrs. Winterstein was the efficient leader of the Sunday school lesson. Dainty refreshments were served after the study in honor of visiting friends. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Dickerson with Mrs. Chas. Beebe as leader.

THE QUICKENING BY FRANCIS LYNDE

CHAPTER XXIII.—(Continued.) The Dabney buggy was waiting for him when, after what seemed like a pilgrimage of endless miles, he had arrived at the gate. But it was Miss Dabney, and not Mammy Juliet's Fete, who was holding the reins.

"I couldn't find Fete, and Japheth has gone to town," she explained. "Can you get in by yourself?" He was holding on by the cut wheel, and the death-lock was creeping over his face again.

"I can't let you," he panted; and she thought he was thinking of the disgrace for her. "I am my own mistress," she said, coldly. "If I choose to drive you when you are too sick to hold the reins, it is my own affair."

"I wasn't thinking of that; but you must first know just what you're doing. My father stands to lose all he has got to—the Parleys. That's what the meeting is for. Do you understand?" She bit her lip and a far-away look came into her eyes. Then she turned on him with a little frown of determination gathering between her straight eyebrows—a frown that reminded him of the Major in his militant mood.

"I must take your word for it," she said, and the words seemed to cut the air like edged things. "Tell me the truth: is your cause entirely just? Your motive is not revenge?" "It is my father's cause, and none of my own," she said. "It is your grandfather's cause—and yours."

There was a sharp crisis to the fore in the old log-house office at the furnace. Caleb Gordon, haggard and tremulous, sat at one end of the trestle-board which served as a table, with Norman at his elbow; and Japheth Marbury sat at the other end of the table, between the two boys, Dyeckman, Trewhitt, acting general counsel for the company in the Farley interest, and Hanchett, representing the Gordons.

Having arranged the preliminaries of his entire satisfaction, Colonel Duxbury had struck true, and hard. The pipe foundry might be taken into the parent company at a certain nominal figure payable in a new issue of Chlawassee Limited stock, or three several things were to happen simultaneously: the furnace was to be shut down indefinitely "for repairs," thus cutting off the iron supply and making a ruinous forfeiture of pipe contracts inevitable; suit would be brought to recover damages for the loss of the furnace; and the absence of the majority stockholders; and the validity of the pipe-patent would be contested in the courts. This was the ultimatum.

"It's for you to decide," said Gordon, his eyes fixed on the speaker. "You go into the court, we'll do the best we can. But as a friend I can't advise you to take that course." "If we would only make out to find out what Tom's holding over 'em!" cried Caleb helplessly. "Yes, but we can't," said the lawyer. "And whatever it may be, they are evidently not afraid of it."

"We'll never see a dollar's dividend out of the stock, Cap'n Hanchett. It might as well give 'em the foundry free and clear." "That's the chance you take, of course. But on the other hand; they can force you to the wall in a month and make you lose everything you have."

ARE YOUR KIDNEYS WELL? The kidney secretions tell if disease is lurking in the system. Too frequent or scanty urination, discolored urine, lack of control at night, indicate that the kidneys are disordered. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys.

"You've well, then; you won't get what you've come after. The patents go with the plant. You can't have one without the other," said Tom, eying his opponent through half-closed lids. "But we can buy the plant to-morrow, at a very reasonable figure. Farley is anxious enough to come in out of the wet."

"Excuse me, Mr. Dracott, but you can't buy the plant at any price." "Because the glory of the stock will go to fight you to a standstill." "But, my dear sir! Mr. Farley controls 65 per cent of the stock!"

"That is where you were led to one morning," said Tom, with great coolness. The capital stock of Chlawassee Limited is divided into one thousand shares, all distributed. My father holds three hundred and fifty shares; Mr. Farley and his son together own four hundred and fifty; and the remaining two hundred are held in trust for Miss Ardea Dabney, to become her property in fee simple when she marries. Fending her marriage, which is currently supposed to be near at hand, the voting power of those two hundred shares resides in Miss Dabney's grandfather, and my father holds his proxy.

"Excuse me, I forgot for the moment to bring this to the church. But I am taking consequences, these days." She looked out from the cool, dark refuge of the vestibule when he mounted and rode on, and her heart was full. It was madness, vindictive madness, the kind of madness that comes from wrath, hatred and man-hating. She would not strike without first giving her warning. Ardea had been cross-questioning Japheth about the assault at the Walden gate—to be sure, but Japheth had evaded as he could, but she had guessed what he was keeping back—the identity of the two foot-pads blackened to look like negroes. It was a weary world, and she had lost much that had made life worth living.

Tom was deep in an inventive trance, with vengeance for the prize to be won, and for the means to the end, iron-wrought and pipe-plant and forgings—especially the forging of one particular thunderbolt which should shatter Farley fortunes beyond repair. When this bolt was finally hammered into shape he had an hour's interview with Major Dabney, and took a train for New York.

"Telegrams from Norman, begging him to come back to South Tredegar, overtook him. For three days a gentleman with shrewd eyes and a hard-bitten jaw, registering at the Marlboro, an A. Dracott, New York, Farley in the most private of the company's offices in the Coosa Building, and on the fourth day Norman had made shift to find out this gentleman's business. Whereupon the wire to Tom, he caught a slow train back, and was met at station ten miles out of town by his energetic ex-lieutenant.

"Of course, I didn't dare to do anything more than give him a hint," was the conclusion of Norman's exciting narrative. "I let him know that he might give us away to Colonel Duxbury. So, without telling him much of anything, I got him to agree to meet you at his rooms in the Marlboro to-night after dinner. Then I was spared for fear my wife or you would miss me."

"You are a white man," Fred, and a friend to do," said Tom; which was more than he had ever said to Norman by way of praise in the days of master and man. Then, as the train was about to start, he turned to the station: "If this thing were out, you come in for something bigger than you had with Gordon & Gordon; you can bet on that!"

It was arranged that Gordon should anticipate his appointment by meeting him at the dinner-table in the Marlboro cafe; and it was accident, as you like to believe, that Dyeckman should be sitting two tables away, choking over his food and listening only by the sound of the eye, since the waiter had brought him a bottle of wine. When the two passed out to the elevator, the bookkeeper rose hastily and made for the nearest telephone. This, at least, was not accidental.

A public question cannot be solved and settled by a shout or wave of the hand. It takes time, study and patient toil to make progress safely and securely.

Whatever the justification in the criticism of Secretary Ballinger's report, the making of a report by the minority during the absence of the majority will impress the general public as mighty small politics.

Omaha points with pride to the fact that it received an important award for the best collective exhibit at the state fair. And in this connection the Bee wants it understood that Omaha and Douglas county raise something besides "meaty hades."

It has been suggested that Col. A. L. Bixby of the Lincoln Journal ought to be invited in the near future to give an address before the normal students and people of the city. A talk by him would be pointed, interesting and helpful, and we hope the proper ones will see the wisdom of having him come.

The Randolph Enterprise expresses astonishment that the republican party of the state is not clamoring against the railroads. What more needs to be done than has been done to restrict and regulate Nebraska railroads? After completing its reform policies with reference to transportation companies should the party keep on shouting against them merely for excitement and amusement?

While the election of Aldrich would not necessarily mean county option, it would mean that a county option bill would be signed if it were passed. On the other hand, while the election of Dahlman might, through his exercise of the veto power, defeat county option even if it were to pass the legislature, the result would probably react later in favor of state-wide prohibition. County optionists, including those who favor license regulation, will see the wisdom of supporting Aldrich.

The Geneva commercial club recently started out in twenty-six automobiles to visit neighboring towns and advertise the Filmore county fair. The club traveled 120 miles, visited twelve towns and made the entire trip, with thirty-minute stops, in twelve hours. It is estimated that the club members talked to 20,000 people in the different towns, in every case boosting for the fair. While directly helping the fair, the excursion is sure to be indirectly beneficial to the business interests of Geneva.

The attendance at the state fair in Lincoln was greater than that of any year in the history of the organization. Every day the crowds were larger than on any similar day of any fair ever held in the state. The previous banner year was 1908, but the fair just closed shows an attendance many thousands larger. Besides having been favored by ideal weather, more general interest was aroused in the big show, and people, once interested, were well able to attend and did so. The Nebraska fair is a growing institution, and is deservedly gaining support from all parts of the state.

Wherever factionalism within the republican party can be kept inflamed, there is good chance for democratic victory. That has been the result in Maine, and will be the result in other states in November, unless republicans compromise their differences and get together. Each faction of the republican party will blame the other for any democratic victory, and the democratic party will gladly let republicans fight it out, serenely intrenching its candidates in office while the war is in progress. The late victory in Maine pleases Mr. Bryan and other democratic leaders. They regard the outcome a favorable omen. Their interest in "insurgency" and "standpatism" lies in the hope that the republican party will irretrievably split, and that the resulting advantage will accrue to democratic candidates who have long yearned for stalls at the public crib.

The Lincoln Journal mentions the comments of state fair visitors on the need of a new capitol building. All agree that the state house does not comport with the wealth and dignity of Nebraska, and should be replaced by a new one. Inspection of the spacious and splendidly furnished and furnished capitol at Des Moines emphasizes the wisdom for better quarters for Nebraska records and officials. When a Nebraska who has seen capitols of different states, visits his own at Lincoln, he feels ashamed of it. Talk of moving the capitol has delayed needed improvements. Whenever a new building is suggested, western Nebraska towns commence an agitation to move the seat of government. But it will never be done, and different sections might as well get together in boosting for a new capitol on the present site. The state can afford it and is greatly in need of it.

PARTY LINES.

Omaha Bee: "Party lines sit very loosely in Nebraska this year," says the World-Herald, with its customary eye to end of deluding republicans into voting the democratic ticket on the so-called nonpartisan quality of the campaign. As a matter of fact there never was a campaign in Nebraska in which party lines should be drawn more closely. It is well for the voters to keep in mind always that the editor of the World-Herald aspires to be elected to the office of United States senator, and he knows he never can achieve this ambition unless he is able to secure all the democratic votes in Nebraska and a large number of republican votes besides. It is for this and no other reason that he persistently prates about party lines being torn down.

SUPPORTS ALDRICH.

S. E. Auker who is well acquainted with the Rushville country, having lived there, hands us an editorial excerpt from the Rushville Standard, a leading democratic paper, supporting Aldrich as against Dahlman, the latter of whom had his frontier experience in that part of Nebraska. The excerpt says: "Aldrich, the republican candidate for governor, is a good clean man. He is the author of the freight reduction law that made it possible for the shippers to save a million dollars since the law went into effect. The railroad, express companies and corporations do not want Aldrich, but will put forth their utmost endeavors to elect Dahlman. Kind reader, who are you for, the trusts or your own interests?"

AN OPTIMISTIC VIEW.

The North American Review contains this encouraging view of American politics: "The American people still have the power. There is also the responsibility. Are signs visible that they are evading it? Rather the reverse. Neither of the great political parties is unified in proposing remedies. One apparently is rent in twain. But in that fact lies no cause of alarm. The true significance is to the highest degree encouraging. That great problems cannot be resolved in a day, a month or a year, is a patent truth that demands recognition. But vastly more important is the certainty that in this country, they cannot be resolved at all except through the application of the best intelligence of all the people.

Hence the hopefulness in the obvious awakening of minds throughout the land. Already we perceive a growing demand for more competent representation in congress, for higher standards of fitness in all public officials, for closer attention to public duties, for greater efficiency in every direction. This can only mean that acts of those in temporary authority will be more sharply scrutinized, and that the people themselves, in order to pass more discerning criticism, will attain better understanding. Surely, when we consider further that independence and fairness of judgment are the offspring, if not, indeed, essential concomitants, of intelligence, we can find in this arousal no cause of misgiving; rather springs of hope and faith in all that pertains to progress and civilization.

PLEA FOR COMMON SENSE.

"A Plea of Common Sense" is the title of an article by Editor Harvey in the September number of the North American Review, and it is said it will inspire the kind of campaign with which Indiana republicans hope to win. With farmers getting good prices for their products and labor employed at high wages, it is believed prosperity will appeal to the wisdom of voters and insure the triumph of republican candidates. On the strength of the good times, it is said the two wings of the republican party, hitherto somewhat conflicting, will get together and present a solid front to the common opposition. With auspicious conditions that exist, Indiana republicans believe the democrats will find it an uphill task to convince voters that there should be a change in administration. As pointed out by Editor Harvey, evils have sprung up as the result of sudden development and universal growth of wealth, but such evils have been corrected and are being corrected through the prudent efforts of the republican party. It may well be emphasized that the last year has seen more effective legislation by congress, suggested by President Taft, to regulate and restrain so-called trusts, than ever before.

Nothing could be gained but much may be lost to the welfare of the country by yielding to the democratic plea for a chance to experiment with the government. Commenting on the attitude of that party, the Indianapolis Star says: "Where does the democratic party stand to-day but where it has always stood across the path of progress; and what does it offer but what it has always offered: a voice of fear, of reaction, of protest?"

NEWCASTLE BOY LOST.

A special from Newcastle to Tuesday's Sioux City Journal says: Baffled at every turn those who are searching for August Taut, the Newcastle, Nebr., boy who disappeared last Friday morning, have begun to despair of finding him. The four days' search last night has resulted in only one slight gleam in which much hope is placed by Bernard Taut, an elder brother. Word came to the brother at his home in Newcastle yesterday afternoon from Maxwell, Nebr., a neighboring town, which said that a boy had been seen trudging along a road near the town, by a farmer who was in a field nearby. However, not much notice was given to the lad, and the farmer was too far away to give an accurate description. Mr. Taut will go to Maxwell this morning and scour the countryside for a trace of the youth.

Diligent search has failed to reveal anyone who saw the youth on the morning he left home on his way to school. Persistent inquiry among the school children has only resulted in assertions that none of them saw him that morning. The boy left home at the time when the children were on their way to answer the assembly bell.

Mr. Taut still holds to the theory that his brother was kidnaped, and is being held for a ransom. The family is wealthy. He said: "I have not discovered the slightest clew although I have worked from morning to night for four days. The Sioux City police have not discovered a clew. No words were passed in the family which would give August the slightest cause for a fancied boyish grievance. He had studied the night before with diligence on the next day's lesson, and left the house with a light heart. Because of his size he is a little bit of a fellow despite his 17 years—kidnapers, I am sure, have taken him."

Rally Day at the Presbyterian Sunday School.

The officers and teachers of the Presbyterian Sunday school have arranged to observe Rally Day on Sunday morning, September 25. The services of the church in the morning will be in the interests of the Sunday school, and a special program for the exercises that day will be prepared. A special effort will be made to have a full attendance of the entire enrollment of the school on that day, including the home department, and the cradle roll as far as possible. A special offering in the interests of the home Sunday school will be taken. Attractive souvenirs will be given to the members of the school in attendance on that Sunday.

Sellers-Tyrrell.

Miss Delilah Sellers of Wayne and Mr. Lloyd William Tyrrell of Pender, were quietly married at the Baptist parsonage at 1:30 yesterday afternoon, Rev. Parker Smith officiating. The newly married couple left on the 2:10 p. m. train on a wedding trip to Chicago, Stockton, Ill., and other points. Miss Cora Tyrrell, sister of the groom, was present and acted as bridesmaid. Mrs. Tyrrell is well known in Wayne and vicinity, having lived here for years, and all extend hearty congratulations to the young couple. They will make Pender their home.

THE OPPRESSED TOILER.

He gazed out through the prison bars, while strangers handed him cigars, and big bouquets, and things like those, and said he: "Thus oppression grows! The humble toiler's in the soup, and no one seems to care a whoop. The heartless tyrant sils in state, and puts the poor man in a crate. I held a city job for years, and earned enough to buy my boots, and shoes and such things for my wife; I thought I had that job for life, but then a tyrant mayor came in, and I saw grief and woe begin. He bounced me, comrades, from my place! He said he didn't like my face! Because I didn't earn my pay he shooed me from my job away! He had the nerve to lay it down that people working for thy town would have to earn the bread they drew; I balked at that, and so would you! He wasted and destroyed my life; he robbed my children and my wife; he stole my biscuits and my jam; I shot him then and here I am! My doleful plight should give you pause; I am the martyr for your cause. Shall tyrants crush, with iron boot the face of every poor galoot? Shall tyrants say that men must earn the boodle that they like to burn? Ah, they may rob us of our rights, and put us in distressing plights, and from our children take the bun—but we can always buy again!"

Uncle Walt The Poet Philosopher

All day within her Moated Grange she sat and listened to the rats, and murmured: "It is mighty strange that I must wear last summer's hats." The shingles rattled on the roof, a hinge was broken on the door, and still, with her impatient hoof, the woman sadly beat the floor. "He used to treat me well," she said, "when first I was his blooming bride; he saw that I was amply fed; I had glad rags and hats besides." Her chair collapsed beneath her then; she rolled across the rotting floor. "Dod gast the luck!" she cried again, "twould make most any lady sore." She went to cook her humble hash, the only fare she had to eat; the stovepipes tumbled with a crash; the skillet fell and mashed her feet. She stood upon her head and wept, as she had wept for half a year, for vanished hope and vows unkept, for days of gloom and nights of fear. She only said: "The light grows dim, my husband comes to me no more; methinks I must abandon him, and go to clerking in a store. And he was once so kind and good, until the Pinchot fuss arose, and now he's worried lest the wood and coal and slate and things like those should gobbled be by Gugenheim, and so he haunts the corner store, and talks about it all the time, and brings home grub to me no more!"

THE MOATED GRANGE

When a beggar asks a dime, loosen up! To refuse him is a crime—loosen up! When we need some money down for a scheme to help the town, draw your bundle from your gown—loosen up! If the hausfrau needs a hat, loosen up; if the daughter wants a rat, loosen up; if your children have the blues 'cause they're needing shirts or shoes, and are shy the revenues, loosen up; when it's time to pay your tax, do not use your trusty ax on the poor assessors' backs; loosen up. If you'd have a happy life, loosen up; if you'd have a joyous wife, loosen up; if you'd walk in ways of peace, finding things as slick as grease, loved by people and police, loosen up. In the raging winter storm, loosen up; when the summer days are warm loosen up; in the fogbank and the sleet, in the store room, in the street, bow your bundle and repeat—loosen up. When you hear a wail of pain, loosen up; when the homeless folk complain, loosen up; spread your shining seeds abroad; when you're laid beneath the sod you can't use your little wad—loosen up!

LOOSEN UP

The heathen lady dressed herself one evening in her humble lair; she pushed some fish bones through her nose, and wove some seaweed in her hair. She put a teapot on her head, and wound brass wire around her arms; she walked in beauty like the night—what chieftain could resist her charms? Her dusky cheeks she painted red; her swanlike neck she painted blue; she wore a simple sheepskin gown, a palm leaf and a chair or two. Her toilet done she left her bower, and turned some handspindles on the beach; a shipwrecked milliner beheld, and said: "That lady is a peach! The garb she wears is safe and sane, and leaves her movements smooth and free, and she could run a rabbit down, or dance a jig, or climb a tree! No wonder that the heathen beaux in love are with that giddy fiend! But would they love her if she came among them in a hobble skirt?"

South Omaha Live Stock Market.

Special report, So. Omaha, Nebr., September 13, 1910.
 Cattle—20,000 for two days, fully steady here but 15 lower at Chicago. Finished beefs to scarce to quote, a few good ones selling at $7.40 to $7.85 and short fed grades $6.25 to $6.50. Run of western cattle very heavy, selling well. Best steers $6.00 to $6.80 for both feeders and beef; good to choice $5.40 to $6.00; medium $4.50 to $5.25; common $3.75 to $4.25; spayed heifers up to $5.00; best cows $4.00 to $4.75; fair grades $3.15 to $4.00; canners a little lower at $2.85 to $3.00; veal calves stronger at $5.50 to $7.00; heavy calves $4.25 to $5.25. Bulls unchanged at $3.25 to $3.75. Outlook is for a continued heavy run with but little change as the feeder demand is too broad.
 Hogs—Receipts for two days 10,000 with the market sharply fluctuating; yesterday 15 cents higher, today 15 cents lower. Bulk going at $9.00 to $9.25; top $9.60 which is about the same as last Tuesday. Packers are fighting the market and will avail themselves of every opportunity. evening bell come that day is done, its labors o'er, how sweet it is to meet a welcome from one who loves you, at the door!

I sing about the stately cow, with antlers growing on her brow, a tasse on her tail; no other animal can put so well and skillfully, its foot inside a six-quart pail. My old cow prods me with her horns, and puts her Tribby's on my corns and fills my soul with grief; but she consoles me with some milk that's smooth and white and fine as silk, and rich beyond belief. The city-dwelling modern man goes to the grocer for a can of milk made by a trust; or from the dairy man he'll get a pint of something pale or wet, in which to soak his crust. And all the people of that ilk, who live on canned or doctored milk are gaunt and sad of face; while I, who keep a large red cow, could polish off Jack Johnson now, and vindicate the race. For you, O cow, my harp I swear! You have your faults, as who has not? You trample on my toes; and when I come with shipping pail, you slug me with your muddy tail, and nearly break my nose. And often when I'm in your stall, you jam me up against the wall, and break three ribs or four; and when the bucket's nearly full of milk as white as carded wool, you kick it through the door. But then that milk is just a dream, and when it comes to sure-thing cream a man must have a cow; and so I'll gladly overlook the passing kick, the playful hook from those spikes on your brow!

To pick out your fall suit, just look in the inside coat pocket for the Label. If it's a KUPPENHEIMER Label you can be sure you're getting good clothes; if it's not you'd better investigate most carefully before you buy and find out if the clothes are made in a "good clothes" way. There's a big difference in clothes. Young men's clothes must be made in a young man's way. Old men's clothes will not answer their purpose. Here's a store that carries clothes especially tailored for all classes; all ages. If you're young we fit you with clothes tailored to fit young men. We carry the stock and are in a position to do it. Everybody recognizes the high standard of KUPPENHEIMER clothes. The name KUPPENHEIMER has come to mean "clothes quality." They're the clothes that are worn by all the people who understand where they can place their clothes money to the best advantage. They have all the qualities---good fit, good shape, good all-wool fabrics, good tailoring---there is not a single respect in which they can be or are excelled. We want to see you this fall before you buy your clothes. It won't hurt to look and it's proved a big advantage to many. You'll miss a rear treat if you fail to inspect our fall styles; they're clothes that we are proud to show, and that you'll be glad to see. They're coming in now, new ones every few days. Come in any time. We're always pleased to show.

AHA! SOME STOVE, THIS!
NOT AT ALL SURPRISING - IT'S A ROUND OAK

A Stayer IT ALWAYS WAS - IT IS TODAY - the most perfect heating stove on earth.
It has never been changed - only in style of ornamentation. Principle of construction the same as it was forty years ago and it is still the BEST - the FIRST and FORE-MOST - the MOST SUCCESSFUL STOVE in America.
Over four hundred imitations and never a one so good - or that approach it - in doing the business of heating - of holding the fire - having the fuel and lasting qualities. Millions of good people know it and will vouch for it - and so will you if you buy it and try it. We guarantee it stronger than anything else we sell. See the name "Round Oak" on the leg. Sometimes they call it an imitation "Round Oak."

All the parties mentioned are using cement for foundations.
A GOOD POSITION.
Can be had by ambitious young men and ladies in the field of "Wireless" or Railway telegraphy. Since the 8-hour law became effective, and since the Wireless companies are establishing stations throughout the country there is a great shortage of telegraphers. Positions pay beginners from $70 to $90 per month, with good chance of advancement. The National Telegraph Institute operates six official institutes in America, under supervision of R. and Wireless Officials and places all graduates into positions. It will pay you to write them for full details at Davenport, Ia., Cincinnati, O., Portland, Or., or Memphis, Tenn.

Letter From Henry Lessman. Bangor, Wis., September 6.—

Editor Herald: We were in LaCrosse a few days ago, and were surprised to see such a fine city. Mr. Garber showed us the place from his automobile, and the residence portion looks particularly well. The place has the most beautiful cemetery we ever saw, and everything is splendidly improved.

LaCrosse is a wide-awake city and up-to-date in all respects. The farmers here have fine houses, and I cannot understand how they do so well. Nebraska farmers would not be satisfied on Wisconsin farms. But Nebraska farmers could double their income if they would work their farms as Wisconsin people do. —Henry Lessman.

Order of Hearing and Notice on Petition for Settlement of Account.

In the County Court of Wayne County, Nebraska, STATE OF NEBRASKA, ss.

WAYNE COUNTY. To the Heirs and all persons interested in the estate of Rudolph Hefti, deceased:

On reading the petition of Fred John Hefti, Executor, praying a final settlement and allowance of his account filed in this Court on the 9th day of September, 1910, and for distribution of the residue of said estate. It is hereby ordered that you and all persons interested in said matter may, and do, appear at the County Court to be held in and for said county on the 30th day of September, A. D. 1910, at 10 o'clock A. M., to show cause if any there be, why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted, and that notice of the pendency of said petition and the hearing thereof be given to all persons interested in said matter by publishing a copy of this order in the Wayne Herald, a weekly newspaper printed in said county, for three successive weeks prior to said day of hearing. (SEAL) JAMES BRITTON, $15 3t County Judge.

A GOOD REASON.

Wayne People Can Tell You Why It Is So.

Doan's Kidney Pills cure the cause of disease, and that is why the cures are always lasting. This remedy strengthens and tones up the kidneys, helping them to drive out of the body the liquid poisons that cause backache and distressing kidney and urinary complaints. Wayne people testify to permanent cures.

Mrs. Henry Hansen, of Wayne, Neb., says: "Three years ago I was annoyed by sudden pains in the small of my back, caused by exertion or the contraction of a cold. There was a steady, throbbing ache across my loins and at times I was so lame and sore that I could not get up after sitting. Headaches and dizzy spells annoyed me and the kidney secretions were in bad shape. Nothing brought me any permanent relief until I used Doan's Kidney Pills. They eventually cured me and there has never been the least recurrence of my trouble."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.
