Suits, Coats, Skirts

The first thing necessary for people who specialize in women's wear, as we do, is to be sure of the values they give their customers. We know this so well that, after being satisfied that the styles are exactly right, we go further. We see to it that the materials, process of making, tailoring and so on are faultless.

Not a fabric unless proved to be all wool by acid test is ever allowed to be made into a Wooltex garment.

The styles are copied more than those of any other make.

If you should buy a garment of us which proved defective inside of two whole seasons' wear, the garment will be made good as new or a new one given in its stead.

SUITS ..... $15.00 to $30.00
COATS ..... $10.00 to $25.00
SKIRTS ..... $ 5.00 to $12.50

Special Prices on These

We have 22 last year's and year before last's coats. It is this store's policy to not show an old garment without telling the customer what it is, so we have to take this means of realizing a little something in these coats. These garments run in style from loose coats to semi-fitted ones, in kerseys, broadcloths and fancy coatings. They range in price from $10.00 to $22.50 and at the price at which we are going to sell them, you can afford to buy them to do chores in if you need anything for that purpose. A few suits left from Spring and last Fall, good styles and good suits will also be sacrificed in this sale.

AN IMPORTANT DEAL CLOSED

HARRINGTON SELLS STORE
F. E. Gamble and V. A. Senter
Will be Successors—Possession to be Given January 1.

Dan Harrington who has been in business in Wayne for twenty-four years, has lately closed a deal for the sale of his clothing store to F. E. Gamble and V. A. Senter who will take possession and assume the management about January 1. Until then the store will be in charge of Mr. Harrington and the business conducted by him as heretofore. Both Messrs. Gamble and Senter are well and favorably known young business men, and they are to be congratulated over their good fortune in coming into possession of one of the most valuable and prosperous clothing establishments in Northeast Nebraska. Mr. Senter organized and will meet regularly for practice in the near future. Its first appearance for the year was in the chapel exercises of last Thursday morning.

The school greatly enjoyed the address given by Professor Hahn at convocation last Tuesday. President Conn has planned a series of chapel talks, and other members of the faculty will appear from time to time.

Dan Burress, formerly a student of the Nebraska Normal college, was a visitor last Saturday. Mr. Burress expects to enter a training school in Chicago and prepare himself for work as a Y. M. C. A. secretary.

Aug. Nordgren recently enrolled in the senior class. Mr. Nordgren is a graduate of the scientific course of the Nebraska Normal college, but expects to spend the entire year and will complete the advanced course of the State Normal school.

Miss Edith Stocking accompanied Superintendent Elsie Littell on her visits to the rural schools of Wayne county last week. Miss Stocking is has been in the employ of the Harrington store for six years, and has an intimate knowledge of the stock and business. Mr. Gamble is also familiarizing himself with the institution. Both have good business sense, and have the advantage of a wide circle of friends, and success is certain to reward the partnership which they will begin with the new year.

Dan Harrington located in Wayne twenty-four years ago, and for several years was associated with his brother, John Harrington, in the general mercantile business. Later Chas. Robbins joined the partnership, and the firm was known as Harrington Brothers & Company.

Disposing of his mercantile interests, Mr. Harrington helped organize the State Bank of Wayne, and served as cashier for a year. Then, sixteen years ago, he resigned from that position and started the only exclusive clothing store in Wayne county. For sixteen years he has given the business undivided personal attention, and watched it grow from year to year until it is now larger and more prosperous than at any previous period in its history. Every year has shown a healthy increase in volume of sales, and the auspicious future before Messrs. Gamble and Senter may be safely judged by the experience of the past.

What Mr. Harrington will do after he retires from the store January 1 is still rather indefinite. One thing which prompts him to sell is the fact that he wants a change from the close confinement of indoor work. In addition, he has property interests in Idaho which will require much of his personal attention, and in which state he will devote a large share of his time next year.

The business interests will regret the retirement of Mr. Harrington, but will wish him well in future environments and undertakings. Also, Wayne people will extend hands of hearty welcome to his successors, Messrs. Gamble and Senter.

STATE NORMAL SCHOOL NEWS

The Y. M. and the Y. W. C. A. will give a social next Saturday evening.

President Conn gave an address to the high school at their general exercises Wednesday morning.

Rev. Mr. Corkey was a welcome visitor at convocation Thursday morning. He led the devotional exercises and also gave an excellent talk to the students.

The Normal school orchestra has primary critic teacher in the State Normal school and desires to become better acquainted with school problems as they are found in our public schools.

Several members of the faculty are planning to attend the meeting of the district association which convenes at Emerson on Saturday, October 10. Dean Hahn of the department of education will give an address at the general session Saturday afternoon on "The Law of the Gang."

The Young Women's Christian association starts the work of the year with excellent officers and an active band of workers. Jennie A. Vernerberg is president, Alwine Luers vice president, and Helen L. Senter secretary and treasurer. The young

HAPPY GOLDEN WEDDING

AT HOME OF W. P. AGLER

Nearly Two Hundred Invited
Guests Gather to Help Couple
Celebrate the Event.

Yesterday was a gala day for many of the old settlers of Wayne county. They were invited to the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Agler, at LaPorte, six miles south of Wayne, to help them celebrate their fiftieth wedding anniversary. The worthy couple have charge of the county farm, and occupy as a residence what was once the county court house.

Guests began arriving at the Agler home Tuesday night, and by yesterday noon a crowd of nearly 200 had assembled. With the assistance of relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Agler had been preparing many days in advance for the notable event.

Shortly after 1 o'clock when the army of guests were welcomed into the spacious dining room—originally the county court room they were greeted with tastefully arranged decorations, the intertwining of yellow ribbons and green foliage, and were seated around festal boards laden with rich viands and every thing that could tempt the appetite.

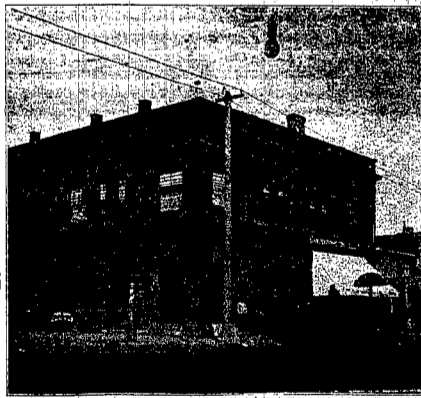

When the excellent dinner was concluded, the ceremony which joined the lives of Mr. and Mrs. Agler fifty years ago, was repeated. The couple stood under a beautifully designed bell with the figures, 1860-1910, also suspended above them. And the same couple, J. E. Harmon and Mrs. Jane Britton, who acted as best man and lady a quarter of a century ago, stood up with Mr. and Mrs. Agler yesterday.

Following this interesting ceremony, at which Judge Jas. Britton officiated with accustomed dignity, the guests enjoyed a social time, recalling reminiscences and renewing friendships.

Mr. and Mrs. Agler were the recipients of about $130 in gold, besides other presents, including a splendid chair, golden-oak stand, three salad forks, two souvenir spoons, glass water set, and many clusters of beautiful cut flowers.

The esteemed couple have lived in Wayne county forty years, and have resided at LaPorte for thirty-two years. They have had charge of the county farm for about eighteen years. They are among the oldest settlers of the county, and the reunion of pioneers on the occasion of their golden wedding was a most pleasant one. The event will leave a bright spot in the memory of every one present.

Mr. and Mrs. Agler are the parents of one son, John Agler, of Wayne, and two daughters, Mrs. Viola Fox of Laurel, and Mrs. Eva ladies are fortunate in having Miss Kingsbury to assist them in their work.

The young men of the school took preliminary steps last Saturday for the organization of the work of the Y. M. C. A. The following officers were chosen: President, J. A. Christenson; vice-president, Glen Hickman; secretary, August Nordgren. Another meeting of the association will be held on the call of the president, at which time a constitution and by-laws will be adopted and additional officers chosen.

Principal F. E. Bicknell of the Winside schools came to Wayne last Saturday and registered for advanced work in the State Normal school. Mr. Bicknell will come here every Saturday and do credit work for securing a diploma from this institution. He already holds a life professional certificate earned on examination, but desires to secure a certificate from the State Normal school because of the recognition such certificates are given in Nebraska and in other states.

Folk of Edison, S. D. Mrs. Folk was unable to attend yesterday's festivities.

Besides guests from Wayne and Dixon counties, the following were present: Mr. and Mrs. B. Agler of Stanton, Io., Fred Fox and mother of Randolph, Neb., and C. A. Fox and family of Laurel.

ROOSEVELT PRAISES TAFT.

Colonel Roosevelt won in his fight for the temporary chairmanship of the New York state convention, and in his speech of acceptance, he took occasion to commend the record of President Taft in the highest terms. Also the platform adopted pointed with pride and praise to the achievements of the national administration.

E. T. Rennick returned home last evening from Wilton, Io., where he was called by the death of his brother-in-law, Capt. F. W. Doran. Mr. Doran was known by a number of people in Wayne county.

Are Your Pigs Full of Worms?

Pen them up. Do not give them anything to eat for one day. This is necessary to get their stomachs empty. A worm medicine is best on an empty stomach. Then give WORMITE in thick slop made of ground feed morning and evening for three days. The number of worms that will be killed and expelled from your pigs will make you think they are worm factories working over time. If your pigs are wormy, you cannot give them Wormite too soon.

 Mr. Kirkpatrick's family will arrive Wednesday. He has three children.
 Almost a Circus Train.
 When the Omaha and South Omaha business men come here in October, they will travel in a solid steel train of Pullman cars having on board an electric lighting outfit, moving picture show, Omaha military band, fifteen thousand sheep bells to "Ring for Omaha" and give away many tons of advertising matter and souvenirs, a barber shop, press bureau, corps of stenographers and the whole connected by a telephone system of forty instruments.
 That makes almost a circus train. And there will be a free street parade without elephants. The Omaha business men want to do things in order and not in a haphazard way. When they arrive at the depot they will not break ranks and scatter, but march behind their band up from the depot to the main street and principal intersection. From there they go to the stores, banks, grain elevators and places of business they desire to visit.
 As many elevators in northwestern Nebraska are owned by Omaha grain companies, the grainmen will be much in evidence. The entire party will be strong on the investigate, and displays of farm products, live stock and other resources of the country visited, will be of much interest to the business men.
 Wherever the party spends an evening a moving picture show will be given in the open air, showing scenes in Nebraska and of the business life of Omaha, besides a large number of standard films.

MAN'S WORD MUST BE KEPT
Essential of Business Life is to Have the Confidence of Your Associates.

A man's word is his stock in trade, and it cannot be broken without injuring his commercial standing. Many good men grow careless of their word and fail to see the importance of keeping it until they have suffered some serious consequence. There are those whose word is said to be as good as their bond. Whether it is or not, their word must be good, for the world is not easily deceived about such matters.

Keeping one's word is more often a matter of habit than character. Good men, with the best of intentions, sometimes become careless in respect to a promise, a statement or an engagement, and while no harm is meant, it might as well be, for one cannot habitually break his word without losing his caste as a "man of his word." Nothing is more essential in business life as the element of confidence, and confidence, after all, rests entirely upon one's care in doing what he says he will do. This matter of personal integrity cuts a larger figure in business than we are sometimes willing to admit. It is one of the demands that business men of mean to fulfill in their words. Let business men distinguish a man's reliability as to his word, and it will soon discount his liability as a business man.—Omaha Bee

"My little son, a boy of five, broke out with an itching rash. Three doctors prescribed for him, but he kept getting worse until we could not dress him any more. They finally advised me to try a certain medical college, but its treatment did no good. At the time I was induced to try Cuticura he was so bad that I had to cut his hair off and put the Cuticura Ointment on him on bandages, as it was impossible to touch him with the bare hand. There was not one square inch of skin on his whole body that was not affected. He was one mass of sores. The bandages became so thick he could not move. I used to take the skin off with them, and the screams from the poor child were heart-breaking. I began to think that he would never get well, but after the second application of Cuticura Ointment I began to see signs of improvement, and with the third and fourth applications the sores commenced to dry up. The skin peeled off twenty times, but it finally yielded to the treatment. Now I can say that he is entirely cured, and a stronger and healthier boy than ever. I would like to tell you, twelve years or more since the cure was effected. Robert Wattam, 1145 Forty-eighth St., Chicago, Ill., Oct. 9, 1905."

Science and Cheese.
A medical authority kindly assures us that as long as cheese isn't decayed it will not affect the health of the consumer. This is a fact that we have suspected for a considerable time. But how is the ordinary cheese epicure to detect the difference—unless he waits for results?

There is cheese so thoroughly diseased that its proper standing on the sanitary testing table would puzzle a chemist.

For instance, there is the brand known as "Lumber."
But why pursue this subject?

They came too late the previous day for a dip in the surf, so Anna was up early, and as she put on her bathing suit while the rest were at breakfast, some one questioned her as to her haste.

"Well, you see," replied the thoughtful child, "I want to hurry and go in before so many people get in and get the water cold."

CHAPTER XXVI
The blue autumn light haze had almost faded away from the sky when Gordon leaped the wall and set his face toward the iron-works. Or, rather, it was like the depths of a translucent sea in which the distant electric lights of Mountain View avenue shone as blue phosphorescent life on the hand, and the great dark bulk of Lebanon loomed as the massive foundations of a shadowy island on the other.

Further on, the recurring flare from the tall vent of the blast-furnace lighted the haze depths weirdly, turning the mysterious sea bottom into fathomless abysses of dull-red incandescence for the few seconds of its duration—a slow lightning flash submerged and half extinguished.

Gordon was passing the country colony's church when one of the torch-like flares reddened on the night, and the glow picked out the gilt cross at the top of the sham Norman tower. He flung up a hand involuntarily, and to put the emblem, and the tower which it stood out of his life. At the same instant a whiff of the acrid smoke from the distant furnace fins tingled in his nostrils, and he quickened his pace.

The hour for which all other hours had been waiting had struck, and he had called, and religion had made its silent protest; but the small in his nostrils was the smoky breath of Mammon, the breath which has maddened a world; he strode on doggedly, thinking only of his triumph, and how he should presently compass it.

The two great poplar-trees, sentinel-like what had once been the gate of the old Gordon homestead, had been spared through the industrial changes. When he would have opened the wicket to pass on, to the log-house offices, an armed man stepped from behind one of the trees, his gunbutt drawn up to strike. Before the blow could fall, the man drew his pistol like a lightning torch, and the man grounded his weapon.

"By your pardon, Mr. Gordon; I took you for somebody else," he stammered; and Tom scanned his face sharply by the light of the burning gas.

"Whom?—for instance," he queried. "Why—e-yeh—I reckon it don't make any difference 'my tellin' you; you'd ought to have it in for him, too. I was in that hour-dog 'at walks on his hind legs and calls hisself 'Vint Farley.'"

"Who are you?" Tom demanded. "Kincaid's my name, and I'm 'posed to be one of the strike guards; leastwise, that's what I was for a little while ago. I couldn't think of a better way of gettin' at—"

Gordon interrupted brusquely. "Tell me what you owe Vint Farley. If your debt is bigger than mine, you shall have the first chance at him. As for the rest, come again. There was black wrath in the man's eyes. "You can tote it up for yourself, Tom-jeff Gordon. Late 'yeste-day evening," he said, and Vint Farley drove town for you. Uncle Silas, who marry us, she told me what 'd been mistrustin' for a month back—that Vint Farley was the daddy of her children. He's done might nigh ever' thing 'cept 'at killin' me, and he's sweatin' me to you; and I allowed I'd jest put off goin' back West till I'd fixed his lynx face so 'at no yuther woman'd ever look at it."

Gordon staggered and leaned against the gas, the red glare of the furnace boiling in his veins. Here, at last, was the key to all the mysteries; the source of all the cruel gossip; the foundation of the wall of separation that had chafed him between his love and his Arden. When he could trust himself to speak he asked a question. "Who knows this, besides yourself?"

"Your Uncle Silas, for one; he allowed he wouldn't marry us 'less'n she told him she might nigh believe he had her suspicions, too. He let on like it was Farley that told him on you, years ago, when you was a boy."

"He did? Then Farley was one of the three men who was up on yonder at the hour-dogging?"

"Yes; and I was another one of 'em. I was right hot at you that mornin'; I shors was."

"Well, who else knows about it?"

"Brother Ben, and Aunt Mary, and John, and Pottgranger; all went in town to stan' up with me and Nan."

Then Tom remembered the figure coming swiftly across the lawn and the man who had loved her, and he thought to make such reparation as she could; no matter, it was too late now. The fierce hatred of the wounded savage was again lit up between him and the man who had loved her, and he thought to make such reparation as she could; no matter, it was too late now. The fierce hatred of the wounded savage was again lit up between him and the man who had loved her, and he thought to make such reparation as she could; no matter, it was too late now.

News Notes of Interest From Various Sections.
The apple crop in Cass county is short in comparison with last year. Over ten thousand people attended the Custer county fair, one of the best exhibitions thus far given. The soldiers' home at Grand Island has 200 acres of alfalfa with which to feed live stock and will sell about $1,000 worth of surplus alfalfa this year.

The merchants of Louisville have organized under the direction of the national retailer's federation for the purpose of preventing further losses from bad accounts. At Fremont James Henge and Howard Spence, two Northwestern brakemen, were sentenced to thirty days in jail on the charge of passing a fraudulent $10 bill on a local clothier.

The Bell Telephone company has a force of ten or twelve laborers engaged in constructing a telephone line from Fairbury to Red Cloud. The line is being built at the rate of a mile a day. Fifty-three sheep that had been unloaded in Fremont for feeding at the Fremont stock yards were killed when the Overland Limited train on the Union Pacific plowed through a herd at a crossing near the stock yards.

Professor Duncan of the Peru normal and family spent their vacation on the Pacific coast. The professor has been engaged in some research work in biology, and promises some interesting information along that line.

On the fair grounds at Greeley during a storm lightning struck the horse barn, killing six valuable horses, three stallions and three mares, all prize winners and valued at from $300 to $2,500 each, with no insurance.

Harry McCuller, in jail at McCook to answer to the charge of burglary, cut his way out to liberty, making a hole in the brick wall with the aid of a piece of steel handed him through the steel grating over the rear jail window by a confederate. McCuller was only 16 years old.

While the other members of the family were otherwise engaged the little 18-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pancoast, living five miles west of Fairbury, in her play fell into a trolley car and was killed. The child had been dead some time before the mother discovered the body.

Coroner Irvin was called to Brownville to hold an inquest on the body of Elijah Thomas who was found in an old building on his own premises with a shotgun wound just below the heart and the gun lying beside him. There is a possibility that it was an accident, but indications point to suicide.

Court adjourned in Rushville last week. The most important case on the docket was that of the state of Nebraska against John Krause, the charge being shooting with intent to kill. Krause was before Judge W. H. Westover and was sentenced to serve a term of five years in the penitentiary at hard labor.

W. L. Howard, the swindler who worked a score of Nebraska jewelers by a bogus draft game, was sentenced by Judge Thomas in district court of Dodge county to two years and six months in the penitentiary. Howard pleaded guilty and made a pitiful plea for leniency on the ground of his age. He is 60 years old.

The heirs of Clarence Van Veltzer, who, together with another young man by the name of Grady, was killed in the falling of the walls of the Nebraska Mercantile company building at Grand Island a few months ago, have filed suit in which the Nebraska Mercantile company, Richard Goehring and Frank I. Olsen are made defendants, asking for damages in the sum of $10,000 for the death of the young man.

A barn belonging to C. Schroeder, one mile north of Creighton buried to the ground. A mare and colt, valued at $350 and sixteen tons of hay were burned. The entire loss is estimated at $1,200.

The country home of Mason Crouch, seven miles northwest of Nebraska City, was discovered to be on fire near the roof. Mr. Crouch, who is 82 years of age, organized his hired men into a fire brigade and while the women in the house called via phone some of the neighbors, fought the fire and kept it in check until assistance arrived, when it was extinguished after considerable damage had been done by fire and water.

Ed Gross, a farm hand in the employ of Fred Herman, who lives three miles east of Leigh, committed suicide by placing a charge of a shot gun in his mouth and pulling the trigger. The young man brought Mr. Herman to town in the morning to take the train to Albion. Gross went to several places about town and settled several small bills, returned home at noon and partook of a hearty dinner, seemingly in the best of spirits, then killed himself. He was soon to be married.

For several weeks the farmers of the vicinity of Neligh have been negotiating for the purchase of the T. B. Hoar elevator property situated at that place. Last week the deal was practically closed by pledging the full amount of stock.

The total taxes levied in York county for the year 1910 amounts to $264,100.72, divided as follows: State, $39,585.57; county, $59,378.60; poll tax, $7,628.50; township, $27,078.77; school, $94,669.01; school bond, $5,058.15; village and city, $29,107.25; special, $294.60, and terminal, $1,595.82.

CHAPTER XXVII

Mr. Vancouver Heniker was not greatly surprised when Tom Gordon asked for the private interview on the morning following the final closing down of all the industries at Gordonia. Without being in Gordon's confidence, or in that of American Aqueduct, he was not sure that he could care to put two and two together and applying the result as a healing plaster to the stock he had taken as security for the final loan to Colonel Dubbury.

"I thought, perhaps, you might wish to buy this stock," Mr. Gordon said when Tom had stated his business. "Of course, it can be arranged, with Mr. Farley's consent to our anticipating the maturity of his notes. But—" with a grim smile and a glance over his eyes— "I'm not sure that you care to get into it. Perhaps some of us would like to hold it and bid it in."

"I reckon you don't want it, Mr. Heniker. You'll understand that it isn't worth the paper it is printed on when I tell you that I have my pipe-pit patents to American Aqueduct. Of course, it can be arranged, with Mr. Farley's consent to our anticipating the maturity of his notes. But—" with a grim smile and a glance over his eyes— "I'm not sure that you care to get into it. Perhaps some of us would like to hold it and bid it in."

"Then the plant doesn't carry the patents? You've kept this mighty quiet, among you?"

"Haven't we?" said Tom, fatuously. "I know just how you feel like a man who has been looking over the edge of the bottomless pit without knowing it. You'll let me have the stock for the face of the loan, won't you?"

"But the president was already pressing the button of the electric bell that summoned the cashier. There was no time like the present when the fate of a considerable bank asset hung on the notion of a smiling young man whose mind might change in the twinkling of an eye."

When it was all over, Tom began to draw checks on the small fortune realized from the sale of the patents. One was to Major Daney, redeeming his note for the shares of Chicago & Western Limited at par. Another was to the order of Ardea Dalney, covering the Farley shares at a valuation based on the prosperous period before the crash of '93. With this check in his pocket he went home—for the first time in two weeks.

BRANDED WITHOUT A PAIN

In April the coats of cattle become dull and dead, and will rub off easily, disclosing the close new coat underneath. In "Farming It," Judge Henry A. Shute describes how he discovered this fact. One morning, in rubbing down his Jersey cow, he found that with his fingers he could pull the old coat off in tufts, and that she apparently enjoyed having it pulled.

Without really thinking of what I was doing, I wrote my initials, H. A. S., on her back by pulling out the dead hair. Seeing how easily I could do this, I drew, or rather pulled, on her side near the curve of the belly, her legs, and the neck. She was not at all alarmed, and he could pull the old coat off in tufts, and that she apparently enjoyed having it pulled.

"Oh, nothing," he replied. "That's the way range cattle are branded. This cow had a good many owners, and evidently each one branded her."

"It's no such thing," she retorted hotly. "You did it yourself. That explains why she bellowed so this winter."

She had bellowed a good deal when I took away her calf, but I did not say so, for I always like to get a rise out of my wife.

"I think it is just horrid in you, and about the cruelest thing I ever heard of, and you have just spotted her looks."

Now out of the corner of my eye I could see old Cyrus, the neighborhood nuisance, peering over the fence and listening to the conversation. After giving him time to satisfy himself thoroughly, I led the cow back to the barn, followed by my wife, and there illustrated the matter by drawing on the off side of an animal a serpent and a circular brand, while the delight and amazement stood with eyes half-closed in ecstasy.

Much relieved and amused, my wife went back to the house, laughing over the ridiculously decorated animal.

At the close of the trial I assured the court that the cow was then and there in transitu, and that I should call her as my witness, and asked that she be adjourned to the square.

The bulk of the republican party favors neither stagnation on the one hand nor Quixotic hysteria on the other. It believes in making progress without disturbing the commercial or farming interests of the country.

To be fully consistent, Mr. Bryan and Mr. Metcalf should bolt all of their party's candidates for state offices, as the latter, like Dahlgren, are running on the democratic state platform which failed to carry out the wishes of the two leaders mentioned.

Mayor Gaynor attributes the recent attempt on his life to bitter and unwarranted abuse from certain New York papers, and now that he has recovered from the effect of the would-be assassin's bullet proposes to devote some attention to curbing the inflammatory influence mentioned.

W. A. Selleck, republican candidate for state senator in Lancaster county, explains that recent republican defeat in Maine was not due to dissatisfaction over the tariff and other national questions, but was the result of local issues, and his explanation is strengthened by a visit to that state and studied inquiry into conditions there.

The optimism, unity and determination of a place count for more in the building of a city than a favorable location. Omaha had no more desirable site for a metropolis than Nebraska City, but the latter was too slow and indifferent. Omaha was backed by active boosters and venturesome capitalists from the start. It wasn't Omaha's location, but its pluck and push that gave it a big lead.

The county commissioners of Madison county have contracted to build four miles of oil road as an experiment, and if they find it durable and desirable they will extend it. The demand for good roads is growing, and the future is certain to see great improvement in that line. It is a commercial advantage to a city to make it easy for farmers to market their produce and come to the business districts to trade, especially during wet seasons. The increasing use of automobiles among farmers and townspeople alike stimulates interest in the cause for better roads.

The Herald has been gratified by many voluntary additions to its list of subscribers of late, which fact, together with spirited interest already aroused over the forthcoming automobile-piano contest, encourages the assurance that the campaign for the extension of the paper's circulation, to be begun October under the direction of the Nebraska Farmer's expert managers, will be a phenomenal success from the start. The Herald believes it can widen its circle of regular readers more quickly through the efforts to be put forth in a contest than in any other way, and in that belief risks considerable expense in conjunction with the popular Nebraska Farmer. The prizes are well worth going after, and the progress of the contest will be watched with interest by people in all parts of the county.

Washington reports, based on accurate information, state that the money shortage which had been feared for this fall, will not happen. There is an abundance of money for all purposes, and no danger of a scarcity. Months ago it was suspected that the money market would tighten, and the banks everywhere commenced reducing loans and piling up reserves. There is ample money in foreign countries, and the prospect is bright and reassuring. Corn and cotton and all kinds of crops are big, and the movement to market will put plenty of cash in circulation. Safeguards against a threatened scarcity of money were effectual, and the good news of vanished apprehension and the promise of no abatement in the forward movement of general prosperity should stimulate confidence and encourage the business of the country.

A report states that coal has been discovered in the bed of Horse creek, twenty miles south of Morrill, and that homesteaders have been busy mining it. The settlers are of course confident the discovery will make that section of Nebraska rich in coal development. Different parts of the state have at different times reported big coal finds, but he quality has turned out inferior, making such enterprises finally unwinning and unprofitable. The first settlers of Dixon county had not been there long until they found the bluffs along the Missouri river streaked with lignite. This was believed to be a rich coal discovery. Mining companies were organized, and shafts were sunk into the bluffs. A vein would be followed for a hundred or more feet, but nothing better was found than poor lignite. Often in the early days the state geologist was invited to visit the hills and bluffs by which Ponca is buttressed on the north, and after investigating strata formations and consulting his storehouse of lore and experience, he invariably encouraged settlers with the assurance that big deposits of good coal could be tapped if they would dig far enough in the right spot. Thus, enthusiasm was frequently stirred, and mining development undertaken, but always with the same result—poor lignite that burned feebly and whose odor stimulated belief in a near-by inferno. By the time the failure of one prospecting party would be forgotten, another one came on the scene, tackled the bluffs, shouted the discovery of coal, hurried for the state geologist, received assurances from him and aroused amazing interest. But the effort always flashed in the pan, and the abandoned shafts and lignite heaps north of Ponca testify to frequent spasms of unavailing enterprise. Until certain evidence of profitable mining in Nebraska is established, we shall not vary reliance on agriculture and hogs and cattle.

LITTLE SUFFERER DIES.
 Caroline Wilhemine, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Dorberger, died at 6:30 p. m., Monday, after a hard struggle for life, suffering two operations for intestinal troubles. The second operation was performed Monday afternoon, but she died before recovering from the anæsthetic.
 The little girl was born in Wayne April 12, 1903, and was therefore between 7 and 8 years of age. She made a brave battle against death, and had every attention that could be provided to prolong life. But the skill of doctors and trained nurses proved unavailing, and the hand of the inevitable could not be stayed. The sorrowing parents and other relatives have the sympathy of all in their irreparable loss.
 Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon at 2:30 at the German Lutheran church, Rev. J. H. Karpenstein, the pastor, officiating.

THE SUIT AGAINST SULLIVAN.
 The legal battle of Mary Cauley of O'Neill against Phillip Sullivan of Wayne county, the plaintiff alleging breach of promise and seeking to recover $120,000, has been transferred to Holt county. Mr. Sullivan was in Holt county recently on business, and while there legal service was secured. Thus, action, similar to the one instituted here, was begun there, and accordingly the suit here has been dismissed.

AGAINST DAHLMAN.
 The Methodist conference at York adopted resolutions declaring opposition to Dahlgren for governor and proposing to do all in the power of the organization to elect the republican candidate.

Uncle Walt

The Poet Philosopher

It doesn't matter what you say, if you do wrong from day to day. Your moral lectures may be sound, with gems of thought they may abound, but when you spring them folks will grin, and say: "Old Nick's rebuking sin!" Sometimes I see my neighbor do a thing that jars me through and through; and I swell up with virtue's-fire, my heart is filled with noble ire, and to myself I say, "I trow, I must rebuke my neighbor now! When he performs some scurvy deed, that makes my moral bosom bleed, it is my duty to protest, and plant some precepts in his breast!" And while I'm training for the job, an Inner Voice begins to throb, and whisper in my spirit's ear: You're too blamed virtuous, I fear; I jar you horribly to see your neighbor rob an apple tree, or give the melon graft a boost, or lift a chicken from its roost; but you, whom those deeds make so sore, have done the same thing o'er and o'er!" And then I sort o' shrivel up, and take a large enameled cup and pour ice water on my head, and those moral things unsaid. The man who preaches and rebukes about men's little sins and flukes, should have a record snowy white; his deeds should make his words seem right.

SAYING AND DOING
 There lives a mighty giant within his noisome hall, and he is strong and pliant, and he is broad and tall; as dreadful as a dragon, he gurgles and he groans, and lifts his brimming flagon, there in his Hall of Bones. Alas, the floor is laden, with skeletons, all here; and knight and winsome maiden, and sage were murdered there. The floor is always slipping with heartblood, through the years; and from the roof is dripping with rain of bitter tears; no cheerful sound is wanted within that giant's den, and all the rooms are haunted by ghosts of tortured men. Among the dead are lying, some sleeping, some awake, poor creatures who are dying in chains they cannot break. And some misguided mortals outside have raised a din; they clamor at the portals: "Good giant, let us in!" And through the entrance alley, and to the place of groans, with grin and smirk and sally, he leads them, 'mid the bones. There are, alas, forever, new faces at his door; they come to him and never shall leave his clutches more. And vultures wave pinjones above the bodies torn, throughout the dark dominions of old John Barleycorn.

THE OGRE
 One man was given a misfit face by the gods that fashioned the human race. His chin was long and his nose was square, and his teeth were slanting most everywhere, and his skin was coarse and his mouth was wide, and horses looked at that face and shied. But his heart was good and his thoughts were clean, and he loved the true and abhorred the mean; the years went on, and the soul within—the soul of a man who hated sin—lit up that face till it seemed to shine with the beauty given of a face divine. One man was given an angel face by the gods that fashioned the human race. And he took the road with a downward grade, he roamed afar where so many strayed; he played the dice and he held carouse, was false to men and to all his vows. His thoughts were all of the fell delights of the heated days and the sordid nights. The years went on, and the soul within—the soul of a man who courted sin—had written down on that seraph face a record dark with a long disgrace; and people said as he tottered past: "What a fiendish mug on that poor out-cast!"

THE TWO FACES
 I spend my weary days in jail, and O, the hours seem sad and long! I lean against the bars and wail, and gaze upon the passing throng. Why are these fetters on my legs? Why do I sleep on mouldy straw? I sold a man two dozen eggs that would not pass the pure food law. The pedler came then to my store and smote me roundly with their staves, and cast me on this dungeon floor, and no one succors, no one saves. I look out through the prison bars, and watch the flood of human-kind, and see men pass in motor cars, who tried to rob the city blind. Across the street a statesman stands distributing the price of votes. The grafting alderman drives by, big diamonds glowing on his shirt; he sees me, and he winks an eye, and leaves me to the gloom and dirt. The plutocrats are on parade before my dark and dreary cell; if they were asked how much they've made, I doubt me much if they could tell. They break some laws most every day; they all hire lawyers year by year; and yet they blithely go their way, while I alas! am weeping here.

AS TO FAILURE
 The other day a damsel fair, whose name I've laid aside, somewhere procured a gun, to death inclined, and tried to end the beastly grind. She left a note in which she said she'd be a whole lot better dead. "I've failed at everything," she wrote; "misfortune early got my goat. I've written drama, tale and play, but publishers most always say, 'Oh, maiden take your blooming junk, and with it line your tourist's trunk!' I've tried and tried, and can't catch on, my hopes are dead, my watch in pawn; but I have got a loaded gun, and so good bye to everyone!" She tried to work the magazines, but never thought of dishing beans in some hash joint, to hungry men; she labored with her fountain pen producing odes that no one read, but never thought of baking bread. And tens of thousands like this maid are going hungry, cold and frayed, and saying that the world's a fake, and life a big three-cornered ache, because they will not shed their coats and get right down to work like goats. It's better to politely starve than have a good big roast to carve that's earned by sweating in the sun; and hence the farewell and the gun.

DISCONTENT
 The merchant's now in better case than 'twas in any age; for every man there is a place to earn a goodly wage; the poor man's larder's well supplied, against the winter's storms; so let us rip things open wide, and spring some new reforms. The merchant has within his kill a good fat roll or two; the wheels are turning in the mill, and the idle hands are few; the warehouse groans beneath its weight of costly box and bale; so let us get our gals on straight, and send some men to jail. The cities flourish and expand, all nature laughs and sings; prosperity's on every hand, and peace should spread its wings; but we shall all our time devote to this rip-snorting game; o'erlook the painting, while we note the flyspeck on the frame. There's something wrong when people

NEIDHART'S POEM.
 Col. Bixby in the Lincoln Journal: In a poem, full of potency, that answers perfectly the definition of poetry as given by the great Hudson Maxim, John G. Neidhart cries out for the great, unwritten masterpiece of the century, and in the crying writes it himself. How the overpowering, irresistible masculine looms up in every sentence. Ajax defying the lightning, Napoleon looting across the bridge of Lodi, and shouting back above the roar and din of battle for the boys to come on, Jim Dahlgren giving William J. Bryan the hot end of the poker and admonishing him to hang on for dear life. While the poem goes deep into the cosmic foundation of things, when its wings are adjusted it doesn't strike the surface at any point. How it this for a starter: "Out of the great, wise silence, brooding and latent so long?" In other words the intellectual stillness, quiescent for a considerable period. Then comes the appeal to wake up and say something: "Burst on the world, O Master—sing us the big man-song." And then he sings it, telling the story of man's conquest of material forces in such trope as only the heavenborn singer can command, and in it treads scornfully on the necks of the "souls cowering up from the dust" who are content to deal with the homier themes, in common language that common people may understand, and whose music requires the use of the soft pedal to make it effective.

THE MASTER OF LYRIC ARTS.
 I start when I see him set forth To stir up the earth with surprises. And thunderous tones from the north. He says to the slumberous poet Whose writings are dreary and tame, "The world moves along and you know it: Why don't you get into the game?" Wake up the dead centers of feeling. Give sentiment plenty of wing: Let thoughts roll as high as the ceiling When treating of myself or thing. Too long in the dust have we wallowed. Creating a mousous nest. Of poems that cannot be swallowed Without causing mental distress. The time has now come to unbind Our guns for a war that is nigh: To climb the tall trees in the timber. And write on the domo of the sky. No more shall this paper be blotted Withingles that sentiment lock. Beware that one that are spotted Or patriots putting it back. I sing now of sturdy inventors Who toll doing good till they're deaf: I sing of the mighty hero daunt. Of up to date science and graft. No triters hereafter shall lure me. Although that has been my sad fix. It took John G. Neidhart to cure me. And I am right glad of it. HIX.

Candidate for Governor.
 Chester A. Aldrich, Republican candidate for Governor of Nebraska, was born on a farm in Ashabula county, Ohio, on November 10th, 1862. He was educated in the public schools of that state and worked his way through the Ohio State University from which institution he graduated in the class of 1888. In the fall of that year he came to Nebraska, accepting the principalship of the Ulysses High School, and resided in that town for three years, devoting his spare time to the study of law under George E. Waldo, now a member of Congress from New York state. While in Ulysses he was married to Miss Sylvia E. Stroman, daughter of one of Butler county's pioneers. In the spring of 1891 Mr. Aldrich removed to David City to engage in the practice of law, and that city is still his home. As a resident of David City he is held in the highest esteem by his neighbors, friends and associates and has always taken an active part in the affairs of the town. He served for two terms as mayor of the city, declining the nomination for the third term, was for six years a member of the city council, and for eight years of the board of education, being at this time president of the board. He is an active member of St. Luke's M. E. church of David City and one of the trustees of the church.

Mr. Aldrich owns a fine farm of 320 acres, near David City, which he looks after personally, being an extensive breeder of Hereford cattle. He has held but one public office in the state, having been a member of the State Senate in 1907, where he made an unusual record in assisting to draft and pass all the progressive laws which were enacted by the 1907 legislature. Among these progressive measures were the railway commission law, the anti-pass law, the two-cent fare law, the freight and express rate reduction laws, the terminal taxation law, the anti-rebate law and other important measures in the interests of the people.

For sale; 320 acres, improved, with good buildings, described as north half of 35-26-1. Can be bought if taken soon for $65 per acre. Inquire at this office.

 (Copyright, 1910, by Rev. T. S. Linscott, D. D.) The Wise and Foolish Virgins. Matt. xxv: 1-13.
 Golden Text. Be ye therefore ready also; for the Son of Man cometh at an hour when ye think not. Luke xli: 40.
 Verse 1.—What event, or events, in the kingdom of heaven on earth does this parable represent?
 What were the marriage customs of the Jews in that day upon which this parable is based?
 Verse 2.—Judging from what they say, and how they act, what proportion of the members of the churches are ready for sudden death, or for the sudden coming of Christ?
 What do the lamp and the oil represent?
 Which is in the sorest predicament, and why, the man who makes no provision for eternity, or the one who falls in one essential particular?
 Why cannot a man perform the duties of to-day perfectly who does not make provision for to-morrow?
 How much service is a form of religion, and attendance at church, to one who does not become a true Christian?
 Verse 5.—Taking the literal story of the parable, how much blame, if any, should we attach to these ten virgins for slumbering and sleeping?
 What is the danger incurred by so many professed Christians, in their apathy and indifference to spiritual things?
 Verse 6.—Why is it an important duty as well as a great privilege, to be always on the lookout for the midnight cry to meet Christ?
 Judging from the newspapers, about what percent of deaths are sudden?
 What reasons are there, if any, to expect the event in the near future, commonly called "Christ's Second Coming"?
 Verse 7.—If a man is living in constant readiness to meet Christ, how much, if any, special preparation does he need, on the eve of the meeting?
 How many of the careless ones are there, who are not anxious about their souls when they look death straight in the face?
 Verse 8.—When is the best time, and why, to prepare to meet God? (This question must be answered in writing by members of the club.)
 What proportion of life long professed men, who retain their consciousness at death, die without praying?
 Verse 9.—What way is there, if any, by which we can either train for a race, learn a trade, or get salvation by proxy?
 What is the only way by which we can obtain salvation?
 Verse 10.—Why is it that death is such a poor, and unsafe, time to get religion?
 Which is the more foolish, the one who is to pass an educational examination and puts off all study until examination day, or the one who puts off his salvation to a death bed?
 When is the door shut to an opportunity, and when is the door shut to heaven?
 Verses 11-12.—What can be said from reason or the scriptures, that salvation is possible after death?
 Verse 13.—What is the chief prize which life offers and for which we should watch the most keenly?

LOCAL AUTHOR'S NEW BOOK

READY FOR SALE IN OCTOBER

"Victory of Allan Rutledge, a Tale of the Middle West," by Rev. Alexander Corkey.

Rev. Alexander Corkey, pastor of the Presbyterian church of Wayne, is the author of a book, "The Victory of Allan Rutledge, a Tale of the Middle West," now being published, and which will be issued for sale about October 15. The story shows up wicked deception that sometimes creeps into church life, to the discouragement and injury of religious institutions, and is an exposure of sham that ought to attract widespread attention and prove a stimulant for the better. Besides uncovering the counterfeit in church, it emphasizes the invaluable contents of the building were completely destroyed, with loss to Mr. Weaver of about $150, covered by insurance. The building which was damaged to the extent of about $150, belongs to Dave Davis who has not returned from his trip to Wales. The building is also insured. It is not known how the fire originated. Mr. and Mrs. Weaver who were sleeping in a room adjoining the restaurant, were awakened by the smell of smoke. The waterworks system was used effectually for the first time, and to that source of aid is due the fact that the flames were confined to the restaurant and not allowed to communicate with adjoining buildings. Had it not been for the waterworks a big, costly conflagration would doubtless have been the result.

REV. DULEY'S NEW CHURCH

The Herald has received a copy of the Chehalis (Wash.) Bee-Nugget

day evening. The statement made by the witnesses is that the superintendent is guilty of an assault and battery upon the person of his sister, Miss Alta, aged about 27, at their father's home in Precinct twelve on Sunday, September 11. The alleged assault is said to have been the climax of a rather remarkable contest of vituperation in which the sister attempted "to make him mad," apparently not without success.

"The testimony was reduced to writing and will be presented to the democratic county central committee who will be called together to conduct an inquiry.

"Mr. Miller has borne the highest reputation and is highly popular throughout the county and widely known in the state. It should be remembered that the officer has not had a chance to present his side of the story or to appear in his own defense, and judgment should be suspended until there is an investigation in which the defense may be heard. The young woman alleged to have been the victim has gone to the Pacific coast, and the testimony was largely hearsay on the part of Mrs. J. D. C. Smith and a Mrs. Johnson, ladies who were given to understand that their names were mentioned in the alleged quarrel between the relatives, Victor Noren, who leases the Miller farm, and the only witnesses whose testimony would have been admitted in court, declares that he heard no quarrel but did see a physical encounter and interfered in it.

"Superintendent Miller says that the charges are absolutely false in every particular, and is highly indignant that he was not given an opportunity to meet his accusers face to face, and to be heard in the matter before the charges, exaggerated by repetition, had been made thus in public manner. He states that he will entirely disprove the aspersions."

able good done by that institution. It pictures life in the middle west, and does so in truly realistic fashion. The plan of the story, unfolded in attractive style, is certain to arouse intense interest on the part of the reader. There is reason to believe it will prove a valuable and popular contribution to literature.

"The Victory of Allan Rutledge" is Rev. Corkey's second appearance in the role of an author. "The Truth about Ireland" was written by him, and it won a large circle of readers, especially in the old country. Rev. Corkey is a lecturer, preacher and author. He was born in Ireland, near Londonderry, in 1871, and attended school and college there. Coming to this country in 1889 he completed his education at McCormick Seminary in Chicago, winning first honors in his class, and being chosen as Fellow of that great institution. The honors gave him the benefit of a year of study and travel abroad and he revisited the land of his youth.

Returning to America he entered his profession in Iowa, and was soon noted as a rising young man of original ideas, marked intellectual ability and an orator of power and charm. He is one of the foremost preachers in the Presbyterian Synod, and his pulpit ability has won him a wide reputation. On the lecture platform he is magnetic, humorous, eloquent and entertaining, a typical Irish orator.

Like so many of his fellow-countrymen he unites an intense patriotism for America with a passionate admiration for the famous sea-girt Isle of his birth.

Coming to Nebraska four years ago he took up work in Cedar Bluffs, and was called to Wayne last April. Last spring he was granted the degree of doctor of divinity by Tabor (Iowa) college.

FAREWELL RECEPTION.

The Bible Circle, assisted by some of the ladies of the M. E. church, gave a farewell reception to Rev. and Mrs. Kirkpatrick at the home of Mrs. C. O. Fisher on Monday evening. A short program was rendered and Rev. and Mrs. Kirkpatrick were presented with a beautiful cut glass dish. Refreshments were served and various games participated in by the large crowd present, and the evening was thoroughly enjoyed by all. Rev. and Mrs. Kirkpatrick have made many warm friends in Wayne during their residence here and the best wishes of all will accompany them to their new home in Norfolk.

containing an article descriptive of the new Baptist church edifice recently completed at that place, and of which Rev. E. E. Duley, formerly of Wayne, is the pastor. The building cost $10,000, and was dedicated on the 18th inst. In providing the new church home, Rev. Duley, as leader of the worthy movement, is given much credit: The Bee-Nugget gives this favorable mention of his efforts: "A great deal of praise is due Rev. E. F. Duley for his efforts to secure a new home for the local Baptists, and his determination to make it as good and as commodious as possible. In securing the new edifice and its surroundings he has had to meet with repeated difficulties, and it is to his great credit that every one of them has been surmounted, and the present new church building will stand as a monument to his great efforts, with others, for many years to come."

CEDAR COUNTY TROUBLE.

According to Hartington papers, Cedar county is disturbed by a sensational row involving, as one of the principals, the county superintendent of schools, W. E. Miller, and it appears from the newspaper reports that fifty democrats organized an inquisitorial body to examine witnesses and ascertain the facts. It is assumed that he is a democrat and that leaders in the party want to know whether he ought to be asked to resign as head of the county schools or not. The Cedar County News, a democratic paper, gives this account of the trouble: "Charges against Superintendent of Schools W. E. Miller were presented to a meeting of about fifty democrats at the court house Tues-

MORE ABOUT THE CONTEST

Automobile and Piano on Exhibition in Wayne.

In last week's paper we announced the details of an automobile and piano voting contest which this paper and the Nebraska Farmer are starting. We wish it to be understood from the start that this contest is not a game of chance, but a business proposition, pure and simple, and that every contestant who enters the race and works all the way through the contest will be awarded a prize. It is a business proposition on the part of the Herald and Nebraska Farmer from the fact that we are in it for the circulation of the papers and that we expect to reward all those working to the end of the campaign, with suitable prizes. It is a business proposition for those taking part from the fact that they are able to secure prizes of value for only a few weeks' work.

The encouragement we are meeting in the starting of this contest is certainly gratifying to the promoters, and success is already assured. While contests have been attempted in Wayne county heretofore there has never been conducted as this one will be and we do not wish our readers to confuse a contest handled on a plain business basis with some of the so-called contests.

A number of nominations have been made and some of the most prominent young people of the county have accepted the nominations and will become active contestants as soon as it opens. It is not necessary for anyone to wait for some friend to nominate him or her in order to become a contestant. All you have to do is to send in your name to the contest manager of the Herald and he will give you instructions and supplies with which to begin work. Either sex of any age can enter the contest. We want one or more contestants from each locality in Wayne county and the southern half of Dixon and it should be remembered that the contest is arranged in such a manner so no one living in Wayne, or any other town, will have any advantage over a person living in the country.

The list of those who enter as contestants will soon be announced in the paper and anyone thinking of becoming a contestant should have his or her name in the first list published, as an early start in a race of this kind means a great deal. After reading the details which are enumerated in an ad. published in this week's paper, send in your name as a contestant, or if you do not understand all the details call at the Herald office and have a talk with the contest manager, or if you cannot call at the office let us know by letter or telephone and the contest manager will call on you.

The automobile to be awarded as grand prize is on exhibition at R. A. Clark's garage and repair shop, one door north of the depot, and the Tryber piano which is to be awarded as second prize, can be examined at F. H. Jones' place of business.

RECEPTION FOR TEACHERS.

The reception given by the Methodist Sunday school for the teachers of the State Normal and public school at the church Friday night was largely attended and a brilliant success notwithstanding the unfavorable weather. More than 200 were present, and the program of entertainment was carried out without a flaw.

The address of welcome was given by Rev. J. W. Kirkpatrick, followed by addresses in response by President Conn of the Normal and Superintendent Kemp of the public schools. The good sentiments of all the speakers were listened to with interest and were highly appreciated. The church orchestra and ladies' and men's quartettes furnished the musical part of the program, all of which was thoroughly enjoyed.

Following the speeches and music, the crowd was invited to the basement where delicious ice cream and cake were served. Amidst a spirit of sociability and good cheer, the occasion passed off most pleasantly and satisfactorily.

Suits are Selling Fine

For several reasons the tailor made suit is going to be a very popular garment this fall. First, because the materials now being used are much heavier than we have had the last two seasons—and this means warmth, better wearing qualities and a better retaining of the shape in the jacket; second, the suits are very plain and sensible styles that may be worn two or three seasons without appearing out of date; third, because there is no other garment which combines all round usefulness with the suit.

Now is the Time to Buy

Our suit stock is now very complete and you will have a choice of more styles in your size now than at any other time this season.

This is THE Place for Suits

Ahern's is the place for to see suits. We make a specialty of the suit business and you will find more and finer suits here to choose from than are generally shown in towns of much greater size. We have an experienced dressmaker in the department who will make all alterations free of charge. We guarantee all materials and linings to be perfectly satisfactory.

Store Your Wheat With The Wayne Roller Mill

By doing this you get what you want, WHEN you want it. Don't sell all your wheat and then buy your flour because you will pay more for it if you do. If you have no wheat, we will buy it for you. There is no question about the quality of our flour. This season the wheat is a better quality than it has been for years. We select only the choicest with which to make our popular Superlative and Snow Flake flours. They have stood the test. Try them and save money. Yours,

Ten Million Dollars Moved Out of New York to Other Institutions Last Week—Record Crops and Splendid Foreign Trade Boost Business.

Washington, D. C.—It is unlikely that there will be any shortage of money this fall anywhere in the United States, according to the treasury department.

Primarily the banks say what looked like a money shortage coming several months ago.

They have piled up money, piling up reserves and cutting down risky loans and bonds or other securities, which might not be easy to sell, having been turned into money.

By doing all of that the banks have fortified themselves against an emergency. How well they did it was seen last week when $10,000,000 was moved out of New York to other banks, and done very easily.

Money is plentiful in England and nearly every crop in this country this year is reported to be a bumper one. Corn will set a new record.

THE STATE'S WARDS.

More Liberty Wanted In Appropriations.

State Treasurer Brian believes the next legislature should be liberal in its appropriations for the maintenance of state institutions, to the end that the unfortunates of the state may be cared for in a humane manner.

At the insane asylum at Lincoln and at Hastings, Mr. Brian says there should be an additional building constructed, to care for the patients. The new building at Hastings, which it was thought would take care of the increased number of insane has not proved adequate, while at the Lincoln institution there is need, not only for more room for the patients, but for the attendants as well.

"At the Lincoln asylum," said Mr. Brian, "the attendants are not housed as they should be. They sleep in rooms off from the wards, where the patients are kept and it stands to reason they can get very little rest. At Hastings there is a separate cottage for the attendants, where they can live. The legislature should appropriate enough money to build a cottage for the attendants. The room that they now take up in the main building could well be used for the patients."

"There should also be a separate building for the treatment of inebriates. These people should not be compelled to live along with the insane people. It is very probable the normal schools may need new buildings, but there is no question but what the capacity of the asylums should be increased, for the state certainly should look after its unfortunates and look after them right."

Court Martial for Guards.

The military board of the national guard met and decided to issue an order calling a court-martial to try the members of the guard who failed to go to Fort Riley. The punishment is a fine, imprisonment or dishonorable discharge from the guard.

Adjutant General Hartigan has on file charges against twenty young men who disobeyed the orders to attend the encampment and it is expected that commanders of companies will report more.

This is the first time that a court-martial for this purpose has ever been called in the state, and for several days the adjutant general hesitated about taking the action because of the cost. He decided with the other members of the military board, Colonel Eberly and Colonel Mack, that the best interests of the guard could be served by such a proceeding. The court will consist of seven members detailed from the guard and the judge advocate general will also be appointed for this occasion. Adjutant General Hartigan will not be a member of the court, but will prefer all the charges. Some of the cases, he said, are very aggravating.

Requisition Issued.

A requisition for the return of Ray Hill, E. Wolverson and Fred Way to Dakota county, where they are wanted on a charge of burglary, from Sioux City, where they are under arrest, was issued from the governor's office.

State University Finances.

From the cash fund of the state university there has been paid into the state treasury a total of $52,301.76 leaving a balance on hand at the close of the semi-annual period of $3,118.90. The principal items are as follows: annual university department sales, $4,303.31; dairy husbandry department sales, $4,922.25; dormitory in home economies, student board, $3,652.37; incidental fees, $2,000; law college, tuition and examination fees, $3,639; sub-station North Platte sales, $5,754.76; text book sales, $6,744.

Nebraskans Held Their Own.

Nebraska exhibitors of live stock at the state fair were more than a match for the live stock from other sections of the state. Foreign exhibitors of cattle were able to make considerable inroads, taking away a lot of first prizes. Nebraskans practically cleaned the platter in the horse exhibits, took away the big prizes in the ewine exhibits and overwhelmed outside exhibitors of sheep.

Cowley's Case in Supreme Court.

The suit of Edward B. Cowley, appellant, against Harriet Cowley, appellee, against the supreme court from Jefferson county. The suit is over the title to quarter sections in Jefferson county. The title of land in Jefferson county, the applicant contends that he bought the land in 1872 and later had the deed to it made out to his mother to hold in trust for him. Before his mother's death he had her transfer the land to his sister to hold in trust. The suit is now over the ownership of the land.

The Explanation. Old Podkins lay back in his chair in calm content, and though his wife was quite near him he was happy, for she had not broken the silence for nearly five minutes.

What a prodigy! A judge of all things, a feeble worm of the earth, depository of the truth, cloaca of uncertainty and error, the glory and the shame of the universe.

IN THE VICINITY.

There is talk of organizing a brass band at Wausa.

The Hoskins Headlight has the correct idea about high prices. Living cannot be cheapened without reducing the market for farm products.

Randolph Times: I. H. Britell and family of the Wayne Normal, were visitors at the J. P. Yost home one day last week. They came in their auto.

Winside Tribune: Victor Siman left on Sunday for Valparaiso, Ind., to resume his studies. Vic has played ball all summer, from which he has realized a neat sum to assist in his school expenses.

Winside Tribune: E. B. Baxter returned from Canada Monday night. He met E. A. Larkins at Edmonton and traded 160 acres of land near there for the Larkins restaurant in Winside and now has charge of the same.

Norfolk News: Carl Aron, son of Rev. Mr. Aron of Hoskins, who won the scholarship in the Madison, Wis., German university, was in the city, accompanied by his mother Friday afternoon. Mr. Aron will leave for Germany next Tuesday to enter the university at Leipzig, Germany.

Carroll Index: John Shannon returned the first of the week from his buying expedition in the western part of the state. He purchased a large shipment of cattle, but the great difficulty he found was getting them to the Sioux City market. He ordered 57 cars and succeeded in getting 7.

Osmond Republican: Richard Closson of Sholes umpired the ball games the first day of the carnival. Mr. Closson was formerly editor of the Carroll Index. In a visit to this office he remarked that running a printing office was much more exciting than operating a store. We agree with him.

Winside Tribune, democratic: Bear in mind that there can be no prohibition in Nebraska until a majority of the people vote for it and that county option is not prohibition. Even if the next legislature should pass a county option law, the people of Wayne county can vote on it or not just as they please. Then it would take a majority of the votes to make the county "dry."

Madison Chronicle: Phil H. Kohl of Wayne, democratic candidate for the state senate, was in the city a day or two during the fair last week, calling on his political associates. Phil is a shrewd politician, and probably the strongest candidate his party could have put up, so it behooves his opponents to be up and doing if they wish to win out this fall.

Wakefield Republican: Oscar Hinds aged about 16 died at his home six miles north and one-half mile east of Wakefield, last Saturday morning at about 11 o'clock from infantile paralysis. He had been ailing for a week or ten days but was not thought to be serious and a physician was not called until last Friday. The funeral was held Sunday. He leaves a father and four brothers and one sister to mourn his death, the mother having died about two years ago.

Hartington Herald: In spite of the pessimistic forebodings of a few weeks ago, Cedar county will harvest a big crop again this year. The weather is ideal for corn and another week will see the greater part of it "out of the way." Also the recent rains have revived the pastures and the situation today is full of hope. It will be a dryer year than 1910 when Cedar county suffers from anything approximating a partial or total crop failure.

Bloomfield Monitor: Will Hoerner, who has been a resident of this place for several years past will depart next Monday for Newark, N. J., the old family home, where he expects to make his future home. Will was for several years the chief man at the block in Volpp's meat market, and later a partner in Gray's restaurant and bakery. The latter he sold again a couple of months ago, at which time he decided to go to his eastern home. In addition to these Will is a valued member of Bloomfield's First Regiment band.

Madison Chronicle: Chas. McLeod, of Stanton, republican candidate for state senator, was in the city on Friday, visiting the fair and meeting the voters. Mr. McLeod is a very pleasant gentleman to meet, and left a distinctly favorable impression on all whom he met here. Mr. McLeod is a substantial, level-headed citizen, a farmer and stock raiser, and a man who has had legislative experience in the state legislature of 1905, in which he was a valuable and valued member. In that legislature he stood for progressive legislation, some of which was passed, but more of which was enacted into law during the session of 1907. Mr. McLeod may justly lay claim to being a pioneer progressive, of the well balanced, level-headed type. It gives real pleasure to support a man of Mr. McLeod's type for office, for he is just the sort of man we will need in Lincoln this winter; the sort we need in public office at all times.

Elgin Review: If you have made up your mind to live in a town, then stand up for it, and if you know positively no good, then silence is golden. Do all you can to help along every man who is engaged in legitimate business. Do not send away for everything nice you want and still expect the home men to keep a stock to suit the whim of one or two customers. The success of your fellow townsmen will be your success. No man liveth to himself and no man loathes business independently of his fellow business men. Take your home paper. Do not imagine the big dailies fill up all this space. There are many little crevices of a good cheer, social sunshine, personal mention, in the home paper that the big dailies do not print. Then do not abuse your neighbor.

The main difference in the number of his faults and your own is that you see through a magnifying glass as a critic. The ill omended, the croaker, can do a town more harm in a minute than two good citizens can repair in a month.

Probably the most disagreeable thing in this world is being caught.

Hives, eczema, itch or salt rheum sets you crazy. Can't bear the touch of your clothing. Doan's Ointment cures the most obstinate cases. Why suffer? All druggists sell it.

Money pursues some men so relentlessly that they have to die to circulate their income.

Don't use harsh physics. The reaction weakens the bowels, leads to chronic constipation. Get Doan's Regulets. They operate easily, tone the stomach, cure constipation.

Down at the bottom of their insurgent hearts, suffragettes greatly admire womanly women.

Your complexion as well as your temper is rendered miserable by a disordered liver. By taking Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets you can improve both. Sold by all dealers.

In draping things, and in arranging flowers, every woman thinks she has particularly good taste.

Not a minute should be lost when a child shows symptoms of croup. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy given as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the croupy cough appears, will prevent the attack. Sold by all dealers.

It is creepy to stay at a house alone at night; under such circumstances, a man gets the Listens.

Safe Medicine for Children
Foley's Honey and Tar is safe and effective medicine for children as it does not contain opiates or harmful drugs. Get only the genuine Foley's Honey and Tar in the yellow package Felber's Pharmacy.

Fortunately, a fool-trick doesn't always kill, as happened in the case of that Kansas City girl.

The Gratitude of Elderly People them ease, comfort and strength. Foley Kidney Pills cure kidney and bladder diseases promptly, and give comfort and relief to elderly people. Felber's Pharmacy.

All we know about Latin is that it isn't particularly interesting to those who don't understand it.

Don't waste your money buying plasters when you can get a bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment for twenty-five cents. A piece of flannel dampened with this liniment is superior to any plaster for lame back pains in the side and chest, and much cheaper. Sold by all dealers.

If a man is writing letters about it, it doesn't take much of a farm to be big enough to be called a ranch.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is today the best known medicine in use for the relief and cure of bowel complaints. It cures griping, diarrhoea, dysentery, and should be taken at the first unnatural looseness of the bowels. It is equally valuable for children and adults. It always cures. Sold by all dealers.

An Atchison man is always telling how hard he works. People say about the only hard work he does is swearing.

Your kidney trouble may be of long standing, it may be either acute or chronic, but whatever it is Foley's Kidney Remedy will aid you to get rid of it quickly and restore your natural health and vigor. "One bottle of Foley's Kidney Remedy made me well," said J. Sibbull of Grand View, Wis. Commence taking it now. Felber's Pharmacy.

A handsome man seldom amounts to much. This item should not offend many; there are very few handsome men.

"Can be depended upon" is an expression we all like to hear, and when it is used in connection with Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy it means that it never fails to cure diarrhoea, dysentery or bowel complaints. It is pleasant to take and equally valuable for children and adults. Sold by all dealers.

icked at the women some, but we've never done what we heard a woman do today; pick at widow's mourning.

Mrs. Jacob Wilmert, Lincoln, Ill., found her way back to perfect health. She writes: "I suffered with kidney trouble and backache and my appetite was very poor at times. A few weeks ago I got Foley's Kidney Pills and gave them a fair trial. They gave me great relief, so continued till now I am again in perfect health." Felber's Pharmacy.

Don't tell your troubles; when a man tells his troubles, people say in private: "He didn't get half what he deserved."

When Merit Wins
When the medicine you take cures your disease, tones up your system and makes you feel better, stronger and more vigorous than before. That is what Foley's Kidney Pills do for you, in all cases of backache, headache, nervousness, loss of appetite, sleeplessness and general weakness that is caused by any disorder of the kidneys or bladder. Felber's Pharmacy.

We've noticed that when a forty-horse power automobile becomes stuck in the mud, two real horses can pull it out.

A Reliable Medicine Not a Narcotic.

Mrs. F. Marti, St. Joe, Mich., says Foley's Honey and Tar saved her little boy's life. She writes: "Our little boy contracted a severe bronchial trouble and as the doctor's medicine did not cure him, I gave him Foley's Honey and Tar in which I have great faith. It cures the cough as well as the choking and gasping spells, and he got well in a short time. Foley's Honey and Tar has many times saved us much trouble and we are never without it in the house." Felber's Pharmacy.

What has become of the old-fashioned father who promised his children money for their work, and then forgot to pay them.

Among our visitors within the last week were Mesdames Elsingor, Hufford and Wightman and daughter, Susanna, the Misses Stocking and Fairchild and Mr. Geo. Phillo.
There are a few children between the ages of seven and fifteen in our beautiful little city, who are not in school. We hope these will soon be enrolled so none need to be reminded of the compulsory education laws.
Last Friday morning the juniors gave the following twenty-minute program with Tracy Kohl presiding: Myra Bell gave the biography of a noted American writer and when she had finished the presiding officer asked the high school students (excepting the juniors) to tell who's biography it was. Irma James named "Riley," which was correct. Bessie Lauman then recited "Our Hired Girl," and Alma Craven recited, "When the Frost is on the Pumpkin and the Fodder's in the Shock."
The football game at Norfolk, which was advertised for next Saturday has been called off for a week or two.
Assignments to the model schools have been made and these assignments are to be permanent for this term. All is going well, the model schools having relieved the crowded condition in our grades.
On Wednesday morning President Conn of the State Normal took our high school on a very pleasant forty-minute visit to Washington D. C. Mr. Conn painted a very vivid and impressive word picture of this great and popular city, emphasizing the historical events associated with it and the surrounding country and awakening in us all a new patriotism and pride. All enjoyed the visit very much and Mr. Conn was heartily applauded.
