For New City Hall.

All acquainted with the deplorable pit of junk which serves as a city hall here that a new one should be built without unnecessary delay. The only objection mentioned by the executive committee related to the amount of cash needed to put up a suitable building. The maximum figure contemplated is $10,000. However, a committee was appointed to investigate the cost of building such a hall.

Any voter who is not satisfied that Wayne needs a new city hall should voice the dissipated old shack which has served the purpose long and discredibly. It has been no protection to the fire fighting apparatus, but has been a source of great injury to such payments and has thus weakened the city's ability to cope with a possible conflagration. The volunteer fire company is not equipped as it should be with as to remain one of the good bishops, once a prisoner of war, who often said afterwards: "If I am ever in prison again I want to be imprisoned with seven Irishmen, for you can't get the glory nor die where they are."

Professor Britton splendidly enforced the thought of the growth and development of the brotherhood by perusing and reciting the following inscription: "The little poem, 'Keep On Flushing.'"

Professor Higgins had the sympathy of everybody. His words were woven to express noble sentiments for the subject of his toast: "Our Young Women." But after delighting every one with his remarks he sat down, declaring that he had fallen far short of doing justice to his subject.

Professor Bright then presented the constitution and bylaws prepared by the committee and they were adopted without change. Late in the evening there will be another meeting for the purpose of the formation of officers and the perfection of the organization.

About fifty names have been handed in for membership and all others who will be presented later and the next meeting will go in as charter members.

The club will have a picnic supper at the home of Mrs. J. J. Williams on Wednesday at 6:30 o'clock. This was the last meeting of the club until fall.

The municipal administration is on the alert to save the city from being infamed and harassed by tramps, beggars and fakery of different sorts. The annoying cripple who limps around town for alms, is so often a humbug, with plenty of money in his pocket, that society refuses to get fooled. RAY HURST, OWNER

GOOD HOG HOUSES FINE INVESTMENT

NEED SUNSHINE AND FRESH AIR

An Agricultural Department Bulletin Gives Some Important Information to Farmers.

In the corn belt hogs furnish one of the most important means of marketing the corn crop every year. A Wisconsin, formerly assistant agricultural officer and present manager of the national bureau of animal industry, writes that the most numerous of all farm animals, and are grown for market on more farms than any other stock. Hog raising has probably made more clear money for the corn belt farmer than any other enterprise. In view of this one might expect to find hogs the best housed of any animals on the farm, but the opposite is the case. It is still hard for many farmers to get rid of the notion that housing hogs is profitable for a hog. Yet there is an animal on the farm which requires better protection from the cold than the hog; none for which a good hole is more necessary, and none so much in need of sunshine as the little pig. The best and the sow have good seats of hair—even a colt or a calf when left in the cold is provided with a good coat; the pig's father has the best of protection against the cold; but the pig has almost nothing between the skin and the weather.

What is the necessity of housing a litter? Where the cost is $25 to $35 a double, good single-valued house need not cost over $10 to $15 a pen. It is doubtful economy under most conditions to make them cost over $30 a pen and very good sheds are sometimes made for less than $10. From $10 to $25 per pen is a fair price into any building, and the hog house is no exception. No one can afford to buy a building so expensive that depreciation will eat up its usefulness.

By careful management it is not difficult to make each pen accommodate about six litters a year. Taking $25 as the cost per pen (which would make a pen a good double-valued building), we have the following:

Interest on investment (20% at 5 per cent)	$1.25
Depreciation (at 10% per year)	2.50
Repairs, 1% per cent	.25
Depreciation, 5% per cent	1.25
Total	$5.25

Using $25 per pen for 123 pens, the cost of housing one litter would be slightly less than $1. This is about what one pig has cost when farrowed. Or, with the high prices that have prevailed for several years, one pig at weaning time would pay the use of one good pen 1/3 whole. This would accommodate three litters, averaging seven pigs or more each. Of course, more than one is required for the above figures, but the above figures are cheaper construction. If only one litter per pen is raised, the cost would be increased. Many farmers have provided accommodations for less than half the above figures.

THE SEVENTEEN-YEAR LOUSE.

The Interesting Life History of This Once Feared Insect.

Wallace Farmer is one of the best of our territory the seventeen-year louse will be in evidence this year. They will come along in May or June. The first thing you will notice will be a peculiar odor about the place. As our boyhood we understood to mean "Pharaoh." There will be a "W" on the wing, which we understood to stand for war. They will be most common in the orchards and in the fields near the streams. The day after they appear the ground will be punctured with holes. These are the holes through which the locusts have come up. They will be in the ground for several days, and their feet will be sticking out of the soil. They will then stretch their wings and commence the "Pharaoh." Sometimes the appearance of these locusts, as they are called, is very common. They are called "Pharaoh" because they are so common. They are called "Pharaoh" because they are so common. They are called "Pharaoh" because they are so common.

The other day as M. M. Conover was plowing with a sulky plow, he was somewhat startled at seeing a huge snake coming up over the whiffletree, towards where he was sitting. Having a city in his mind he started to run, but his rankling continued to come, when Conover, considering discretion the better part of valor, slipped from the seat, giving the snake unobstructed possession for "one time being." Mr. Conover called for Mr. Morley, who was at work a short distance away, who came with a pitchfork, and together they dispatched his majesty. The snake coiled himself around the tongue of the sulky and the slow horse so effectively the whole length of it, and after killing him, they stretched him across the furrow and drove over him with the rolling counter, but the weight of the sulky and the slow horse so effectively, invariably throwing the plow out of the ground, until by the combined weight of the two men they partially reversed it in the country. The snake was about 100 feet long and 600 of the species known in this country as the bull or blue snake.

BEAN SOUP.

Use the small white bean and it will cost less than the other varieties. Cook the beans in the pot in which the ham was parboiled. Season with a little pepper, but no salt will be required. About a half hour before serving add some potatoes, lettuce and green peas. Add salt and pepper to taste. This is a very good soup, and is especially good for the sick and convalescing. It has been made in this country. The bulletin will be sent on request by writing to the director of the experiment station, Columbia, Mo.

"By Universal Proclaim"

Queen Quality SHOE

"QUEEN Quality" shoes are famous. Not the fame that perishes, but the sort that endures and grows stronger from year to year. Founded upon the rock of integrity, each season their makers builded stronger and stronger. Past successes were forgotten; what was considered good last year was bettered this, and hardly was it pronounced "best" before still further-improvements were planned.

Quality, Style and Comfort have been the watchwords paramount, and how well they have been met is testified by the enormous demand. They are worn in every clime—under Alaska's midnight sun and on Africa's burning sands. Their wearers are numbered by millions—where there's civilization you will find them. "The sun never sets on 'Queen Quality' Shoes."

Today it is the best known and by universal proclaim the most popular woman's shoe in the world.

Our initial Spring showing of these World Famous Shoes is now in progress. Will you not favor them with your inspection?—You will be very welcome.

ALFALFA AND ITS CARE.

Interesting Article on This Valuable Plant Soil Improver.

Alfalfa is the king among hay crops, the queen among soil improvers, the first and best of feeding plants, says W. C. Palmer in an exchange. It gives that valuable crop hay giving that valuable crop hay will at the same time leave the soil richer in nitrogen and humus every day that it occupies the land, and supplies the very things that the grain crops take out the fastest and leave the soil in greatest need of. Still, the whole story is not told, as weeds cannot grow readily after the alfalfa gets a good stand; and if cut before a little the alfalfa is cut before the weeds are ripe, so they cannot go to seed. The roots go deep and so open up the soil better than the sub-soiler. The alfalfa, in growing alfalfa, is that it is a little difficult to start; so when a good stand is secured it ought to be left for several years. It is not a good rotation crop like clover, though, as it will produce a crop that is worth more than any other crop that can be grown.

Alfalfa will grow on any good soil that is well drained; in sand it will do so well, and has a hard part with its root growth. Standing water is death to it. When starting alfalfa must be kept in mind that alfalfa has bacteria living in nodules on its roots. These germs furnish the plant with nitrogen, which they introduce into the soil air. They put it into a form that the plant can use and so supply the alfalfa with the nitrogen that it needs so much. The alfalfa plant has in a measure lost the power of taking nitrogen from the soil as the other crops do, so it cannot make much growth alone. If in turn it furnishes the means for a crop of a different kind, so it is a co-operative effort, each furnishing that which it can secure the easiest.

When the alfalfa is starting it does not have the germs on its roots and so it must be inoculated with a good seed. The best way to do that is to get some soil from a field that has been growing alfalfa successfully for a few years and sow it on the new field at the rate of 200 pounds to the acre.

The best way to prepare the soil is to manure for a crop of corn—clean, cultivate the corn, then sow the alfalfa on the discarded corn stubble, putting in eight to ten pounds to the acre, and with the drill so as to get the seed buried, one to two inches deep—do not sow any nurse crop with it. A bare fallow has been kept free from weeds and grass a good preparation, as will also potato ground. But in any case it should be manured. When the alfalfa is up eight to ten inches it should be cut back. This will do good, but it will be hard on the soil. The amount of seed sown should vary with the rainfall; under irrigation, or where the rainfall is abundant, more seed than specified above should be sown. It has been found by experiments that where the plants were nine inches apart three cuttings were made in 1910 and the yield was nearly two and a half tons, while where the plants were twelve inches apart, only one cutting of about a ton was secured. In digging out the roots it was found that where the plants were six feet apart the roots went down seven to eight feet; where they were twelve feet apart they were close together, the roots did not go down more than three feet.

Exchange: A young man was sitting on the street and a Central depot the other day, adding a lady in his arms, when the child began to cry so lustily as to attract the attention of every one around him. By and by a waiting passenger walked over to him with a smile and said: "You are a very good father." "A woman gave you that baby to hold, didn't she?" "Yes." "What a fine baby!" "Yes, but I tumbled to the fact as soon as I saw you. You expect her back, I suppose!" "Of course."

"Hat hat! This is rich! Looking for her but minutes, aren't you?" "Yes, I think I shall come back." "Well, this makes me laugh—hat hat! I had a woman play that same trick on me in a Chicago depot once, but no one ever will again. Young man, I'm sorry to hear that you are going to a policeman and get out of her before some newspaper man gets hold of you!" "Oh, she'll come back; she'll come back." "She will, eh? The joke gets richer and richer. Now, what makes you think she'll come back?" "Because my wife and this is our baby."

"Oh—um—see," muttered the fat man, who got over feeling tickled all at once, and, seeing a dog that a farmer had tied to one of the seats with a rope, said: "See, you see, I'll give you back and give it that swift kick."

THE GOSPEL OF WORK. Nothing is Better to Bring the Good Quality Out in a Reason.

There is nothing that will take the links out of a man that is inclined to go wrong like some good, honest work, even though it be blasting stones after harvest in the stable field, cleaning out the stables, hauling out manure, or even working on the streets. Some men who have been raised without work and who endeavor to make a living by other means, never come to themselves until they are put in a position where they cannot stand, and being ashamed to beg, are obliged to wander about in a municipal prison, until he was obliged to go to work which far beneath his dignity, says Wallace's Farmer.

If a man had committed only a petty wrong, he would be sent to a reformatory in enforced idleness. This enforced idleness does not usually reform him, but angers him. He has time to pity himself on account of the bad things he is doing, and to study out new ways of getting a living without honestly earning it.

Kansas City has set us an example which it will be well to at least think over. She has established a farm instead of a municipal prison, and it follows do wrong there, they put them to work on the farm under excellent superintendents. This plan has been in force a year, and the results are wonderful. We put him in a reformatory at the city $200 a year to keep a prisoner in the Workhouse. The farm has earned $100 a year profit for each prisoner. In other words, the actual cost of a certain number of prisoners has been saved, a profit of 30 cents a day. We see reported by the board of public welfare reports that the prisoners take a keen interest in their work; that they believe in a municipal prison, and that many of them go to farms to work when their terms have expired. More than that, instead of a pale looking prisoner being discharged, they have become men and women of substance, pure air and wholesome food and work. We do not get this from official documents, but have no doubt of its substantial correctness.

There is nothing better for a man who is beginning to go wrong than to compel him to work. Some months ago the son of an acquaintance called on us for help in securing a position, which we gave him. He wanted a few dollars to take him to the city, and we got a week's salary. He failed to hold the position, secured another, and went wrong at that. We then told him that the thing he had to do was to make an honest cent out of his own hands, which he did. He got a job at a nothing better than working on the streets. He felt himself too well educated and too smart for that, and the result was foregone conclusion. He was sent to the city, and he followed to the penitentiary. His father refused to help him, in the belief that a short term in the penitentiary would prove his salvation. We would have a great deal more faith in the reforming effects of two months' work on the streets.

One of the greatest blessings ever bestowed upon man is the necessity for work. The farm boy who thinks he can live on his father's land, and who reasonably hard work at that, is making one of the most serious mistakes that he can make in his entire life. The old saying is a true one: "If a man's brain is the Devil's workshop."

Telephone Talks No. 3

The Telephone Voice

Most people in using the telephone talk unnecessarily loud. Telephone disappers are constructed for ordinary modulations of voice, and to talk otherwise hinders transmission.

Speak in a distinct, slow and even tone with your lips about one inch from the mouthpiece, talking directly into the transmitter.

In making a call, the figures of a telephone number should be separated, and one number given at a time. For example, for Black 145, say "Black one-four-oh."

Transmission is often impeded by the use of extra mouthpieces, ear-cushions and other "unauthorized" attachments to telephones. Every necessary appliance is supplied by the Company and subscribers must refrain from the use of other apparatus.

FORMER WAYNE MAN HURT IN RUNAWAY

Milo LaCroux, who used to live at Carroll, this county, and whose mother, Mrs. M. L. LaCroux, still lives there, suffered a serious runaway accident while out driving recently in Fremont county, Idaho, according to the Ashton Idaho Enterprise, both Mr. LaCroux and his wife sustaining broken limbs. Mr. LaCroux is a cousin of Mrs. F. B. Strahan and Mr. John Larson. Following is the Enterprise's account of the accident:

Last Sunday while Mr. and Mrs. M. L. LaCroux were out riding north of Snake river, east of the Marysville bridge, Mr. LaCroux cut out of the rig to open a wire gate and while he was out of the rig the lady started to cry, the mules became frightened and unmanageable and Mrs. LaCroux could not hold them and LaCroux jumped for their heads and caught a check rein, but could not stop them, and managed later to get hold of one of the lines, but he was on the ground and trying to get in the rig, and in doing this he was hurled through the wheel of the front wheel, and his leg was broken just above the ankle. When this happened Mr. LaCroux had to let go of the lines and his wife managed to get them and had the mules stopped after running over one small plow, but, still frightened, they bolted again, this time tipping over the rig and breaking Mrs. LaCroux's legs just above the knees. The mules were then picked up. The rig was demolished.

This is a mighty hard time of the year for people to be laid up, especially farmers, and both the man and woman of a family, and no children to help out with the work.

If the crops of this family are not all in we hope the neighbors will see to it that the ground is properly taken care of so that a full crop may be harvested in the fall.

NUMEROUS JUNE WEDDINGS.

The Herald has been advised confidentially that an unprecedented large number of weddings will take place in Wayne during June. The Herald has the names on file and will publish them in due time.

JUNE IS CONSIDERED A DESIRABLE MONTH FOR WEDDINGS.

It is an arrangement to be married during that time it is folly to put it off. The flowers are richest, the birds carol their sweetest notes, and all nature is replete and rejoices. Therefore, it is not surprising that people who consummate matrimony figure on having the ceremony within the month of June.

THE GOLDEN TRUTH ABOUT NEBRASKA

AS TOLD BY CENSUS BUREAU Nebraska, Forty-six Years Old, Holds High Place in Wealth Producing World—Interesting Facts.

The story of Nebraska as told in the report just issued by the census bureau reads like a tale of treasure island, says J. T. Dunlap in Nebraska Farm Journal. Starting facts are set out in brief figures. The most cheerful outlook in the state has never come with a better land than this. Forty-six years ago Nebraska was admitted to the union. Omaha was a struggling village on the banks of the Big Muddy. Across the rolling prairie lay a wide and dusty trail. On either side of the trail were the wigwags of Indians, herds of buffalo. Just beyond was the unknown, the desert, its mystery and its danger tempted the white man. He ventured into the wilderness and the golden harvest sprang forth and the golden harvest sprang forth. The white man came closer to the desert and it smiled back at him. He made a sign of peace, and it blossomed like a rose. Over-night the camp followed by the white man, a schoolhouse came to nestle upon every hilltop.

SHOULD BE THE CARES

Nihilists Become the Fear of a Dane Who Resembled the Russian.

Philadelphia Inquirer—Pursuing an old story in the case of a man who may be called Jones was assured by Smith that he was the very picture of Robinson. So he hunted up Robinson and appraised him of the comparison. "Why I'll give you $100,000 for him when he next I come across him!" Robinson said. "Oh, I have already done that," was Jones' reply. It was in a very different spirit from that which had led to the Copenhagen, named Carlsen, received the intimation of a friend that he resembled Alexander III, czar of Russia. He had never seen the czar, but so far as he could judge by the portrait in a magazine, he found on looking in the mirror, that his friend had not exaggerated the resemblance. The idea pleased greatly and from that day forward he left nothing undone to increase the likeness and to make him to play the part of double to the czar. For example, whereas he had formerly been known to the contrary of the clean-shaven, he now allowed his beard to grow and waxed it and had it trimmed like that of his model. The great desire of his heart, however, was to be presented to the czar. This, too, he accomplished a year ago, when Alexander III was staying at Copenhagen. He had been told that the Russian is said to have been much amused at the striking resemblance between himself and his double. This was the scene of Carlsen's happiness, compared to which all the other events of his life were vanity. From that time forth he studiously copied his imperial model, drove about through the streets of Copenhagen in a four-hinged, and was often saluted by policemen and civilians in the belief that he was the czar, and that he was visiting his father-in-law, the king of Denmark. But Carlsen played his role too well. He identified himself so completely with the czar that he gradually came to experience the same and to dread the dangers to which the latter is exposed. One morning he awoke with the fixed idea that he was Alexander III. Soon afterward his piece of mind was disturbed by the manifestation of the nihilists, and at last he had to be confined in a lunatic asylum, where he died a few weeks ago.

250 pounds of fat. The thing that he produced 2,588 pounds of milk, which yielded 116-22 pounds of fat. According to the estimates made by the university, the butter fat produced in seven days would equal 31.73 pounds of butter and in thirty days 100 pounds of butter. The record made by this cow shows what can be done by systematic testing. She has been tested during every lactation period, and while the test is the highest, some of the other tests are very nearly up to it. Her dams have for three generations been tested regularly, and the sizes which appear in her pedigree descend from cows which have been tested and shown high performance. The Dog for the Farm. Ex-changer—We do not think cities are dangerous with children. We have raised two from puppies and they became firm companions for our children and we never knew them to snap at them or show a disposition to harm them. Cows are very useful on the farm. They can be easily taught to go alone long distances if necessary into the pasture or woods for the cows, bringing them home night and morning for milking. It is far pleasanter and cheaper to send a dog for them, especially on a wet, stormy morning, than to get up at five or six for them or to hire a man to do it. The Word "Etiquette." The very high sounding word, "etiquette," had a very humble origin. It formerly meant simply a "hint," according to our records. It received its present significance from the fact that a Scotch gardener who laid out the grounds at Versailles for Louis XIV was much annoyed when the courtiers walked over his newly made paths, and at length had labels placed to indicate where they might pass. At first these labels were not attended to, but a hint from high quarters that in future the walks of the courtiers must be written in the "etiquettes" or labels was promptly attended to. Cheese Custard. Cut the crust from eight thin slices of bread and cut into thin strips one-fourth pound of cream cheese. Arrange a layer of bread in a small buttered, baking dish, cover with a layer of cheese and dust with pepper and salt. Repeat and pour over all two well-beaten eggs mixed with one-half pint of milk. Bake twenty minutes in a quick oven and serve at once. Exchange. Potatoes With Cheese Sauce. Mash potatoes and form in conical shapes. Four over them a cheese sauce made by adding grated cheese to a thin cream sauce. Add a bit of salt and paprika. PROBATE NOTICE TO CREDITORS. In the County Court of Wayne County, Kansas, in and for the County of Wayne, in the matter of the Estate of W. A. Jones, deceased. NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, That the creditors of the said deceased will be required to file claims with the undersigned, before me, County Judge of Wayne County, Nebraska, at the County Court Room and sitting on the 7th day of June, 1911, and on the 7th day of December, 1911, at 10 o'clock a. m., each day, for the purpose of presenting their claims for examination, adjustment and allowance. Six months after the date of the said order, the claims of any creditor not so presented will be barred. This notice will be published in the Wayne County Herald, a newspaper published prior to the 7th day of June, 1911. Witness my hand and seal of said county, this 15th day of May, 1911. Can you accurately estimate the wealth which this increased yield of corn alone will bring to the state? Nebraska is given a year in agriculture. We have no mines of gold or silver, no veins of copper ore, no deposits of valuable timber land, and no competition with other states. We are not rich in mineral resources, but our wealth in the soil, our principal exports are live stock and grain. With one-third of her tillable land under cultivation Nebraska last year produced 390,000,000 bushels of corn, 45,000,000 bushels of wheat, 74,000,000 bushels of oats, 5,000,000 tons of alfalfa, 7,000,000 bushels of potatoes, 800,000 tons of wool and tallow, 105,000 tons of sugar beets and other crops in proportion. Her agricultural products totaled upwards of $200,000,000 in value. Poultry, butter and eggs totaled upwards of $40,000,000. Live stock valued at $19,000,000, and her manufactured products exceeded $200,000,000. In the good year 1910 Nebraska ranked 10th in the production of the world. Pretty good for a state less than forty-six years old, and not considered by millions to be a barren waste of desert lands! The average yield per acre of wheat in the United States forty years ago was nineteen bushels. The average yield per acre of corn for the United States is twenty-four bushels; the Nebraska average is twenty-seven bushels for the ten-year period. Nebraska is the fourth largest wheat producer, and the youngest of the four; the fourth largest corn producer, and the youngest of the four, and holds fourth place in the production of oats. For every acre of wheat in Nebraska soil is peculiar in that it will stand more moisture and more drought than any other similar area of country in the United States, and that its recuperative ability far exceeds that of any other state. An eighty-acre farm in the corn lands of Nebraska is a potential fortune; it will make its owner rich if he will cultivate it properly. The most successful farmer in America lives in Pawnee county, and he has grown moderately twenty on a forty-acre farm, that twenty years ago was considered very poor land. It will be improved through intelligent effort, others have barely held their own because they did not believe in "book farming," or diversified farming. This part of the west is developing; it is just coming into its own. The water irrigation projects under way in western Nebraska, and the territory to the west, make a new empire of agriculture and commerce. The pioneers are now pushing into the desert; they are building up the country, and drinking from clear lakes and running streams. And it is smiling back at them. Tomorrow it will blossom as the rose, and history will repeat itself.

Today the farm wealth of the state

Today the farm wealth of the state totals almost two millions of dollars. And that sum does not include the value of stock and other personal property. The valuation is 214 per cent greater than ten years ago. Nearly thirty million acres are in cultivation, and 28,000 farms, an average of 208 acres to the farm. The value of these farms has increased from $10 to $47 an acre in the last decade. Over sixty per cent of the farms are operated by the men who own them. The average fifty per cent by managers and tenants. In farm words, nearly 80,000 farmers own and live upon their farms in this state, and nearly 60,000 farms are filled by tenants and tenants. Nearly fifteen million dollars were in the hands of farmers in 1910. Over 48,000 farms in Nebraska are free from debt of incumbrance.

There are other facts worth knowing about this great and growing commonwealth. Nebraska has the smallest per cent of illiteracy of any state in the union. There are fewer children of ten years of age and over, per thousand of population, here than in any other state. That means something. It means a higher degree of general intelligence. It means more reading and better education, and it accounts for the large circulation of farm papers published in this state. And the records show that Nebraska has the largest amount of wealth, per capita, of any state in the union.

The finest corn land in the world is in Nebraska, and the corn land of the world is limited. The United States produces 50 per cent of all the corn grown in the world, and sometimes it produces more than 70 per cent. The world's crop of corn in 1910 was 4,047,000,000 bushels. The crop of the United States was 3,125,000,000 bushels. Nebraska holds fourth place in the production of corn, and sometimes moves up to third place. One-half of the corn land in the state is not in cultivation, and with better methods of farming the yield per acre will be doubled within a few years. Can you accurately estimate the wealth which this increased yield of corn alone will bring to the state? Nebraska is given a year in agriculture. We have no mines of gold or silver, no veins of copper ore, no deposits of valuable timber land, and no competition with other states. We are not rich in mineral resources, but our wealth in the soil, our principal exports are live stock and grain. THE 1911

United States Separator

A MARVEL OF EASY RUNNING

There have been tremendous advantages in the running qualities of the United States Cream Separator.

THE SKIMMING POWER IS THERE—The same that won the world's record in fifty consecutive tests extending over a period of thirty days with the milk of ten different breeds of cows—1138 of one per cent.

With the new Intertlocking skimming device, the centrifugal action on the milk is so INTENSIFIED, the course along which the milk is forced to travel so LENGTHENED, the skimming force so INCREASED, that the Intertlocking bowl for any given capacity is reduced nearly ONE-HALF and runs with about HALF the POWER required for other models.

Now add to this great improvement the fact that the United States Separator is the only successful separator that distributes the incoming volume of the whole milk EVENLY OUTSIDE THE CREAM ZONE, thus preventing any mixing of cream and skim milk, and you will see why it is that the Intertlocking style U. S. Cream Separator is gradually displacing every other separator on the market.
