MRS. LITTELL ASKING FOR BUT A SECOND TERM
In the latter part of June, 1909, Mrs. Littell was appointed by the county commissioners to fill the vacancy in the county superintendent's office. In August of that year she retained the republican nomination and later was elected county superintendent. Thus, at the present time she has served but two years.
She is now asking for a second term at the hands of the voters, feeling that she is in position to do her best work for the public school.
It always takes a public official some time to learn conditions, as their voters generously wish to give an official a second term if his work has been satisfactory.
Mrs. Littell knows the conditions, the teachers and the school officers, and for that reason can give her best service in a second term.

One Saturday in 1881 a Jew of Newbury fell into a well on the earl's estate, and out of reverence for the day (the Jewish Sabbath) would not allow his servants to labor in rescuing the Jew. On Monday morning they found him dead.

The Poet Philosopher

The Journals of this avestrick nation turned loose great gasps of admiration, when Togo, grim and silent, came, the hero of the hour, to THE GREAT... TOGO... to make a little call; men whooped for Togo one and all. And what has brother Togo done that he is so much acclaimed has won? He conducted his charge in a row, and splashed in blood with his nose. "I would not lift my old straw hat to one with such a name as that. 'TAN' I was looking round in Rome when old J. C. came ambled home with plauders from a hundred towns, and blood upon his hands and face, he would have made me tired and sick, and I'd have slugged him with a brick. The centuries have rolled away, but we are woful, the same today as were the men of ancient Rome, who hailed the butcher coming home. That man is good enough for you who digs a well or plants a tree, or does some sane and useful thing, more than for the man who brings a name, or Togo and his kind; I have a butcher in my mind who slaughters only pork and beef; I'll honor him and call him chief.

It is really rather funny how the man who's brutally fond has a legion of admirers any place that he may stray. Everything he says is BEFORE AND AFTER in the city, gathered round him to adore him while there's wealth to throw away. When he grows exceeding frisky in the guided home of whiskey, o'en he has a word to say about the man who has a word of shame; and the people, who don't really love him, for they treat him gently, when his feet become entangled and he falls into their arms. O, the world is soft and tender to the Jewish money spender and he thinks that people love him for his merits and his face; but when all his wealth is melted, he is hustled, he is pelled, and the barkeeps calmly kick him from the portals of their place. And the people who are smirking when his money he is getting, call him names, but his feelings when he seeks a helping hand, and the naughty cops surround him, draw their little clubs and pound him, lead him in the hurry wagon and he's fined to boot.

THE DEPARTED wrangled. We argued politics and swore, and got our theories tangled. I said the better kind of things; I never forget it and never shall be equalled with wings how deeply I regret it! For we were friends for many years, our friendship was unbroken; the left and ringing in his ears were harsh words I had spoken. At night I seem to hear his feet, when they might gleam and tinkle; he comes and stands beside my bed, and leaves reproachful glances. He breathes a streak of fire and smoke, till I am scared, already, and says: "My friend, until you cook rascals, you'll never steady. We stood beside the public dump, and talked of things forgotten, you called me leatherhead and chump, and said my brains were rotten. And while I sit upon a cloud with folks, I'm pining for you, my friend, and my worldly goods and grief will rend your vitals." The hearts of myriads of men are sad and almost broken, because they can't call back again the "making words" they spoke.

WONDERMENT in a way, how they might stunge your life with sadness; but kind words never in this world brought anything but gladness.

I wonder if the thought of this lovely land, and climate, and shape, figures, and bits to beat the band? In sunny hours of childhood we never heard their name; now in the tangled wildwood they play their dirty game. They came our court, and agony intense; so what's the use of chiggers, and where's there any sense? I wonder why the rooster must always stand to yell just when he has been beaten in a way that he can't help but be; we're busy dreaming and night is nearly through, the rooster starts at screaming his cock-a-doodle-do. And so we get up, knowing and understanding, and in a way that he can't help but be; we're busy dreaming and night is nearly through, the rooster starts at screaming his cock-a-doodle-do.

Long School Hours. The Austrian minister has issued a decree determining the long hours of the school, or the number of the number amounting in some cases to a very week. This would have seemed a very odd thing to do, but it is done in Scotland, up to the middle of the eighteenth century, usual school hours were from 6 a. m. till 6 p. m., with two breaks of an hour each. Some schools opened an hour earlier and worked so long as daylight lasted. No alteration in the hours was made until two weeks of an hour each. Some certain amount of work was done. The holidays were restricted to a day at a time before, but each year more and more holidays were added, and a fortnight in the autumn.

More people, men and women, are suffering from indigestion and other troubles than ever before, and each year more of them turn to Colley's Kidney Remedy, which has proven itself to be one of the most effective remedies for kind of satisfactory results can sometimes be derived. jug really suits me, and so I'll yelp-ful, until some fellow boots me and let me be to still.

When I was young I loved a maid who left all others in the shade; her eyes were of an azure tint, her charms too numerous to print.

THE DREAM I hoped to make that night, but my bride, who had MAIDEN, she was that long-remembered. I left my native town to stray in towns and cities far away. The years passed on, and youth was fled, and when I heard of her I was glad to become a mending yod; and I wore teeth of celluloid. And all the time and everywhere I dreamed about that maiden fair. No other demure had been grace, her sunny locks, her gentle face; and I loved her from afar, as I must love a shining star. Last month I journeyed home once more, to see the friends I loved of yore, to see the shadow where I was born, and blow my father's dinner horn, and my mother's door to open, and at the head of the maid of whom I'd dreamed so many years; I saw her passed on a mist of tears. Ah, she had whiskers on her chin, and wore the sign "The Woman With Hair." Her nose was red, her eyes were blue, and she wore the most outrageous hat! I shed about a million weeps, and uttered some disparaging cheeps, and sought a refuge; there to drink a gallon of red-trebling ink.

The summer's gliding swiftly by, it couldn't well be flecter, and soon we'll cease to curse the fly, and howl at the mosquito.

THE FLYING weeks, and summer will be over! The roof will sparkle on the leaks, the sandbars and the river! The sun behind the warty clouds will walk, its task of setting, and we were in winter, and birds will tell how hard we've sweated. And when the snow has hid the flowers that now the fields are brown, we'll talk of golden summer hours, with tears of idle longing. And that is the way we all are built, our hearts are made of leather; in summer, when our collars wilt, we long for winter weather. And when the fires of winter burn, when the snow and blizzard, we wish that summer would return, to melt the frozen gizzard. I sometimes think that when we leave this world of sin and sorrow, where people sit around and grieve, and we and anguish bore, we'll wear of the hair and crown and of the snowy days, and we'll be able to smile down to this profane limitation.

APPEAL TO VOTERS. This appeal to voters appears in last week's Wayne Republican.

As the time of the primaries is near, I would like to appeal to the voters, everywhere to turn out. The good features of the primary are many, if taken into consideration, and the only objection to a full and free chance to put in nomination the candidate of his choice untrammelled by "ringsters" or combination of the professional politician. But the whole people may be misled, and the influence of the towns as against the rural districts is intensified and practically made permanent. This can well be seen by looking at the statistics of the primary held in Wayne county, out of about 235 votes polled in the county, 387 were polled in Wayne, Carroll and Winnsie, leaving 68 votes for the entire farmers' vote, and the rest of the county, while with a reasonable attendance the per capita would only be about a cent. This year there are a number of candidates and necessarily some are better qualified for the office to which they aspire than others, and I appeal to every voter in the land and in Logan precinct, Wayne county, to turn out and vote for the man you consider best qualified for the office. Remember the date August 15, from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m.

Get the Last Laugh at Last. The frequent and unsuccessful candidacy of certain men in this county for public office reminded George (SPOXY) Dore of a story of his old friend Hogan.

Hogan was ruffling a check, said Mr. Dore. "He was fairly successful in disposing of tickets in the shop where he worked, but he ran up a fine trouble when he conversed with neighbors.

"Dropping in at a neighbor's house tried to sell a ticket on the clock 'tote on yer what not er mental, said Hogan colloquy.

"Gwan, the old clock doesn't run, replied neighbor.

"Well, drawled Hogan, changing from 'comparative' with, 'bein' down for win it, and then you'll have to laugh on the fellow who does." "Milk-waugh Press.

Hum's Temporary Orthodoxy. It is not chiefly as skeptic that most of us come to commemorate the name of the story of his very temporary orthodoxy is worth recalling. Having fallen into a swamp at the back of Edinburgh castle, he called for assistance to a woman who was passing.

At first she took no notice, but presently she asked, "Are you a genuine theist?" "Well, yes, no matter," said Hum, "Christian charity counts you to do good to everyone."

"Christian charity here and Christian charity there," said the woman, "I'll be something for you till ye turn a Christian yourself—ye manna repeat the Lord's Prayer and the Creed, or faith'll let ye repeat (grovel) there as I found ye."

And he had to repeat them. When the allegation is all right, the action of the bowels regular, there is a natural craving and relief for food. YOU might think that there is little to choose between varieties of vinegars and mustards. But there IS--and it will surprise you to know that more difference exists between them than amongst grades of meats and brands of flour. So, just as you pick out the best in meat and flour, you should get the very finest in spices and vinegars. All the flavor and pleasure of eating may depend on that choice-- It will make the difference between a good meal and a bad one.

TO THE VOTERS OF WAYNE COUNTY GREETING

As I am a candidate for the nomination for the office of Sheriff, I take the liberty of addressing you in this way. I am asking for the nomination for the office of Sheriff on the Democratic ticket.

For nearly a quarter of a century I have lived in Wayne county and have been identified with the interest of the county during this time. It has been my pleasure to help elect many worthy men to office, but I have never before asked for a county office. I have held the office of constable in Wayne precinct for 7 years and I am familiar with the duties of the County Sheriff and I am nominated and elected to this responsible position, I pledge myself to serve the people faithfully and conscientiously and to make an official record that will prove worthy of the support given me at the polls.

I may not be able to meet you all during the primary campaign which ends August 15th. Hence I take liberty of bringing my candidacy before you in this way, and assure you that anything you may do in my behalf will be greatly appreciated.

I beg to remain very truly yours,
JOHN L. SOULES.

Wayne County Teacher

Reproduced from the
Wayne County Teacher
 Announcement of Teachers
 The annual session of the Wayne County Teachers' institute will convene in Wayne, Nebraska, August 28 to September 1, inclusive.
 All persons expecting to teach in Wayne county during the year are required to be present. Excuses for absence will be accepted only for very urgent reasons.
 Your promptness and regularity of attendance indicate your professional interest.
 Superintendent W. G. Stephens of Lincoln, who was with us last year, and whose work was so helpful to the teachers, will be with us again. Scores of teachers in the county have expressed their opinion on the fact.
 Supt. J. H. Kemp of Wayne, is well known and liked by the Wayne county teachers. The Wayne county teachers' association for the past two years has worked in Cedar county last year is exceedingly well spoken of.
 Mrs. Gertha Knoll, of Winnebago, will conduct the primary work. She is "one of us" and her work is thoroughly practical for rural schools.
 Mrs. Solomon Norton, of Norfolk, will have charge of the music during the session.
Thoughts on the School Question
 Wallace's rural reader the idea of improving the country school. May I call your attention to some things regarding the country school. How many people generally? As I was educated in a country school, and have sent our children to a country school, I feel there is a need for a more definite plan than just talk. "How may we improve the rural schools?" is an old question. You probably heard it when you were not a very old boy. The talk is the same over and over. The coming general assembly will try to do something, if present indications count for much. That the work be done for the benefit of the masses as well as the legislators.
 First let me call your attention to the rural population with one or two school children—some with forty or more. To both communities must be a consideration. Such things as the average condition. We think there is sometimes, but each community is a problem for solution. Second, there is the problem of boarding the rural teacher. A teacher who goes to a strange community and is obliged to beg for someone to board her is not entirely at ease. Maybe she gets board for several small children, and a small house with small rooms—not giving an atmosphere for the best work. Third—a child who leaves school term after term with a new teacher who begins "on base thirty" each time will not get much done. Fourth, a child who attends school two or three times a year has no school to attend for two or three months can not be expected to learn very much. I know a school which is not being taught by the fourth term of the fourth year, and some months of school will not be finished before November, 1910, since July 1, 1909. Fifth, the city schools secure the first certificate teachers, and the best of the best teachers, without supervision, loss on the country schools.
 How many these wrongs be righted? Law cannot regulate the population; law cannot regulate the boarding question, but these matters may be overcome in a measure by the law. The law can regulate the time of classification; it is little less than a crime to waste the time of children with indefinite requirements. A new teacher should not be sent to a school to complete less pages for the next term, than she would be permitted to do haphazard work in a city school. Our children are not to be drawn, pulled, and work hard, simply in a class, but they have no executive authority with the singing unless you are confident you can sing well the songs you have chosen. I would make it an invariable rule to have singing after the first few days. Every pupil in the public schools should know and sing our national songs. Permit pupils to select their own songs and desks. Put for this means only as they conduct their approval.

 Enroll the school. Pass slips of paper and have the older pupils write the names and ages. Assign lessons at once and begin regular work. Within ten minutes from the time school starts, the pupils, with the exception of the beginners, should be busy with their lessons. As soon as the older pupils have settled down to work give your attention to the beginners during the first month or two. The beginners should have plenty of outdoor play.
 Have some system for calling and dismissing your class. Have some system for sending the pupils out to play recess (look up the pronunciation of this word) and for calling them again to the room. Let the teacher, and not the pupils from the room, give them a few minutes and give the room a thorough airing.
 After school arrange your permanent program from the data you have gathered during the day.
Teachers' Certificates
 It seems that not everyone knows that under the present law the teachers will not be superintended has absolutely nothing to do with the grading of the teachers' examination papers. The examination is given on the first and third Saturday of each month and Saturday evening the papers are bundled up and sent to Lincoln for correction. After correction, the grades, not the papers, are returned. If a teacher makes grades for a certificate she receives it; if not, there is no earthly way for a superintendent to help her out, as the names of all the teachers who are teaching in a county with the grade of certificate held, must be reported to the state department. This does away with the possibility of showing any partiality. If every anxious parent knew this, some would save themselves the embarrassment of asking for an impossible favor.
Institute Notes
 Mr. Stephens will conduct classes in pedagogy, penmanship and geography. Mr. Kemp will have charge of the round table and instruct in history and arithmetic. Miss Bertha Knoll will have the primary work in reading, spelling and hand work.
 Note books, pencils and song books will be furnished all who enroll. Each teacher will keep a systematic record of the work in the various classes and this work will be inspected on Friday, the last day.
 The enrollment fee will be one dollar. Teachers may enroll any time before the 28th if they wish.
 Reading circle books should be purchased during institute week at the postage will be added to the price of the book if they are sent through the mail.
 Teachers desiring board and room should write the county superintendent.
 Patrons of the schools are welcome to all sessions.
 Owing to the fact that chauntaria comes just before twilight and that so many teachers wish to go home in the evening, we have decided to have no evening sessions.
Of General Interest
 Be ready for the first day.
 "I have been a teacher for twenty years and I can't tell you how many times I have been surprised at the school; she sometimes 'keeps' her school and draws the district's money, though."
 "The love you liberate in your work is the only love you keep."
 "Experience is a good teacher, but the fees are sometimes heavy."
 "Interest in any line of work is contagious. Become intensely interested in your school and you cannot help but succeed."
 "The less you require looking after, the more you are given to do and the simpler your tasks, the greater you reward."—Elbert Hubbard.
 "The teacher who does not love her work has missed her calling. She is a round peg in a square hole."
 When the child first comes to school in the fall, he is brought to the school by the teacher, the new books and the new classmates. Happy is that teacher who can keep him so.
 "Let us be thankful for the education we call life which is only incidentally available as to gain houses and lands and possessions of many kinds but we are and means planned beyond our wisdom, if we accept it, leads us step by step to purity and power."
 We have done our best to supply teachers when called upon to do so. In one or two instances we have been unable to find just the kind of teacher the district wanted. School superintendent cannot manufacture teachers to order. We can only select and pick out from those who wish to teach. Sometimes the supply is very limited. Thus far this year we have used only third grade teachers, and we feel that the corps is exceptionally good.
 The following teachers have been appointed to teach in the following districts:
 Dist. No. 11, Edith Barnes.
 Dist. No. 7, Bertha Bressler.
 Dist. No. 20, Rose Bartosh.
 Dist. No. 22, Magdalen Nelson.
 Dist. No. 27, Ruth Fortner.
 Dist. No. 34, Marguerite Dixon.
 Dist. No. 36, Mrs. Ben Robb.
 Dist. No. 46, Lee Smith.
 Dist. No. 48, Florence Bernhard.
 Dist. No. 50, Anna Hamey.
 Dist. No. 53, Olive Jones.
 Dist. No. 55, Gertrude McConnochie.
 Dist. No. 58, Minnie Hanson.
 Dist. No. 60, Herbert Welch.
 Dist. No. 62, Ruth Beale.
 Dist. No. 69, Mary Young.
 Dist. No. 81, Nellie Juhn.
 Dist. No. 83, Ira Norton.
 Dist. No. 84, Lenora McColough.

The statement whose enthusiasm boils over in signing with reform progress is disappointing when he gives up desire of wanting to further gratify selfish political ambition. Everything heard from the Chautauq platform is educational and raises the standard of thinking. It promotes moral betterment and helps ideas. It is a valuable institution, and one which a community may well be proud to support.

A Dea Moines court has started something new in the way of settling an ugly case. The judge orders the attorney to take back his men and resume traffic. This was done immediately, saving the public a great inconvenience. The question in dispute will be the trial of the case.

Some voters are quoted as saying that they will get out to the November election, but don't feel that it is necessary for them to go to the primary. They are thinking wrong. The foundation for the election is laid at the primary, and therefore, of the two elections, the first one is the more important.

Amxious candidates are leaning up for the final canvass. Not all can be successful, and the majority will go down to defeat. The successful should accept the result complacently, and not boast the title of triumphant. The first is a likelihood in politics, and the mind should be prepared for it.

The Herald has received a copy of program issued by the educational bureau of a railroad company. The pamphlet sets forth the importance of courtesy and affability on the part of railroad employes, explaining the fact that on the behavior of employes who meet the public largely depends the success of the company and the popular feeling toward it. It is suggested that unrefined legislation has often been due to disregardment of railroad employes by employes. Courtesy is regarded a quality of surpassing value and without it promotion is unlikely.

Everywhere of importance in north-east Nebraska has either begun the experiment of oil stoves or is figuring on doing so. Reports from towns already using oil are favorable and satisfactory. When should not they be used, but back up and do something by the use of oil to put the streets and neighboring roads in better shape. Road improvement is a problem of vital importance to Wayne, and should be taken in hand now. The streets of Wayne have been graded generally for a late. Now some oil in the business district, and attention to roads leading to the city, and we will have the same progress in the right direction.

In the old-fashioned boarding schools it was considered valuable to the intellectual growth of students to starve themselves. The fact that the only way was a source of saving to the management no doubt made it more healthful to the body of the student and more of an impetus to the mental development. The student who starved himself with striking detail in Dinkers' 'Nickle' as Nickleby, was a glaring example of pinching down the appetite for virtals. Over on the Willbur farm on Silvercreek in Dixon county, a large industrial building, which thirty years ago was occupied by a seminary, organ and conducted by a preacher. This preacher figured that it was good for the minds and souls of his students to first starve their appetites, and then permit them to dictate what nor how much they should eat. Heretofore relation to the yearnings of the stomach for food was a necessary concomitant to learning. The preacher's school did not last long, but a wooden shell remains to this day and reminds surviving students of their struggle to make prayers and psalms and the pursuit of intellectual excursions satisfy gastronomic cravings. Time has pointed out the mistake of starving the body to stimulate the mind. On the contrary, it is proven that plenty of wholesome food is necessary to a composed and clear mind, especially, it is found that children of indigent parents do not make the progress in school that they should because they are always hungry. In Chicago, it is found that the children of indigent children with food in their stomachs, ambition and strength to learn. Ample and proper feeding is in this day deemed indispensable to attain high mental power. Doubtless the schools that remind one of Dinkers' 'Nickle' are the cause of those many contemptible caricatures whom nothing pleases. Darr a grocer, anyway.

SPEAKING OF WAYNE. In an article treating of his recent automobile trip to Fremont, the editor of the Harrington News makes this reference to Wayne: The machines slipped smoothly over the roads through Cotteridge and Laurel. They have just completed at a magnificent stock sale pavilion when an interesting citizen of the town wanted to show us throughout right then and there but time was short and we were glad to see the college town of Wayne. Wayne is just what a town of Harrington, quite so good in the business section perhaps, and a little better in the residence. The state normal school has two brick buildings and a number of five-story wooden structures used no doubt as dormitories. One day the state will give it economic college buildings. A good school is a good thing for a town. Several piles of road are looking good. Wayne acts remarkably smooth as the result of the use of a King road drag.

ODDS AND ENDS

San Francisco, Aug. 10. - A report of a serious earthquake in the meantime, it will have a big exposition in 1915.

Discovery of a real villain or hypochrite intensifies appreciation of the majority who are candid, honest and square. Furnishing contrast is the duty good service rendered the world by either a villain or a hypocrite.

Mrs. Ella Wilson who is the mayor of Honeoye, Kas., has had a fight on her hands with the men who comprise the council. From the moment she took charge of the office, and she has become extremely tired of politics. She doesn't like to quit voluntarily, but would like to be ousted from office.

One of the foolish things for a paper to do is to solemnly announce that something of startling interest will be spread before the public next week or some future time, and then cause disappointment by the absence of the revelation when it comes. It reminds one of the childish gossip whose imagination is too limited to exceed the actual story which she says she has stored in her head.

Elder O. Montgomery, president of the Indiana conference of the Seventh Day Adventists, has announced that the world will come to an end within a few years. He says he has scriptural proof that the wind-up is due in the generation following the one witnessing the falling of the stars on November 13, 1853, and therefore that the time is now. He says he has been disappointed so often by such predictions that he has no confidence in the Indiana man's declaration. While people would be glad enough to hurry through the remaining chapter, it is conceived they will have to wait a long time longer than the antebellum conclusions of a one-sided individual who pays no attention to the governing power of natural laws. How a man so shallow and narrow-minded become a leader of men is inconceivable.

SOME HOT SHOT. Emporia, (Kan.) Gazette. The man who buys his goods at a mail order house and expects his neighbors to buy goods of him, or to buy labor of him, or to buy professional services of him, is economically a leech. He is sucking industrial blood out of the town and gives nothing back. He is like a parasite on a tree, like a Chinaman, and has no more right to a standing in the community than a foreigner. We are all neighbors industrially in this town and the man who sends his money away for his goods is not one of us. He is of another industrial system, and deserves no man's support in Emporia.

THE GROUCH. Carroll, (Ia.) Times. We always laugh at a man who is always kicking, growling and making life a hell for himself and all others with whom he comes in contact. Every town in the country has its grouch. This town has them. We have in mind one man who takes himself to the extent that he makes life miserable for himself, his neighbors and family. The conclusion he seems to be all white. It is when he is asleep, and even then we will wager he's having bad dreams. He is one of those guys who will get up in the morning and commence by kicking over the bed with all white. He will kick over the bed and rain hell with his help and keep his ugly temper going all day with one continual round of cursing, kicking and flouting. If he has always been a mystery to us how he can be so cranky and set at seeing to do. He does a fairly good business, even though his patrons have to grit their teeth to go near him. He hollers if you present a bill and he hollers if you don't present it. He objects to doing anything to public spirited enterprises and he kicks if the town does not progress. He is one of those mean, contemptible caricatures whom nothing pleases. Darr a grocer, anyway.

The land was measured to secure further proof as to the accuracy of the yield. The wheat was sown early in the fall and grew to a good height of mallovers. The alfalfa had stored a world of nitrogen in the soil and it was due to the superabundance of that food that the yield was so great.

CLYDE OMAN FOR COUNTY TREASURER

I hereby announce myself as Democratic Candidate for County Treasurer. I have been a resident of Wayne county for nearly thirty years. All except the last year has been spent on the farm. This is the first time I have asked for office. I am not making a thorough campaign of the county, not because of a spirit of independence, but because I believe the people of the county have been over-worked by the numerous candidates. Hoping that you will approve of my action in this campaign and assuring you that I will appreciate your support, I am

Respectfully yours,

A STATEMENT FROM MRS. PHILLOE.

The impression seems to have been conveyed during the present pre-primary canvass that I am conducting a "poverty campaign" to secure the nomination for county superintendent. On the other hand, some persons have been led to believe that I have an independent income and have no financial need of the office. I hope I am not making a "poverty" impression, as I also hope the imputation is unintentional. I wish to state, however, that I depend on my own efforts alone for support for myself and children; that being qualified to hold the position of county superintendent I am seeking, without any discourtesy to anyone, a chance to work where my efforts will count most, not only for myself, but for the community.

President Taft's recent message suggesting an amendment to the pure food and drug law in its relation to preparing medicines, does not refer to such standard medicines as Folsy's Kidney and Bladder Complaint and Folsy's Honey Pills, both of which are true medicines, carefully compounded of ingredients whose medicinal qualities are recognized by the medical profession itself as the best known remedial agents for the diseases they are intended to counteract. For over three decades Folsy's Honey Pills Compound has been a standard remedy for coughs, colds, and afflictions of the throat, chest and lungs for children and for grown people, and it retains today its prestige and popularity as the best and most reliable Folsy's Kidney Pills are equally effective and efficacious.

THINGS WORTH FORGETTING.
(Sixty in State Journal.)
Have you ever sensed a wrong?
Forget it!
Have you noticed in your song?
Forget it!
Been the victim of a slight?
Think you are not treated right?
Does your anger burn all night?
Forget it!
Have you ever felt that you fail?
Forget it!
Sometime straighten out your coat tail?
Forget it!
Do you ever a bill today?
Will that fellow ever "saw" pay?
Do not take your life, you say -
Forget it!
"Be not swift to take offense"
Forget it!
Anger shall be a link of sense,
Forget it!
Think of good things at the time;
Of the worthy and unkind.
If you do not like this rhyme,
Forget it!

These pains were so terrible that I was unable to do anything about them. I was so lame and sore that I could not get up after sitting. Headaches and dizzy spells annoyed me and the kidney secretion were in bad shape. Nothing brought me any permanent relief until I used Don's Kidney Pills. They eventually cured me and there has never been the least recurrence of my trouble."
