Wayne papers have recently turned down attractive advertising propositions from Omaha and Sioux City merchants—an evidence of home loyalty that local institutions will appreciate. So long as Wayne county dealers feel that advertising pays and they go after business as outside city dealers would go after it, it seems only fair to deny use of local columns to competitive foreign merchants who wish to attract trade to their cities.

MAC MILLER QUILTS RACING.
Sioux City Journal? Wearing crutches to support him after getting out of bed after a winter's siege of rheumatism, McClelland Miller, of Wayne, Neb., the well known horseman, hobbled into Sioux City yesterday. He immediately delivered an ultimatum to the effect that he was out of the horse business for all time. He said the swishing of whips, the plaudits of crowds, the bands and the admiring of the starter shouting, "Now, don't come down ahead of the polo horse or I'll fine you $25," have lost all interest to him.

"Why, I don't even carry a stop watch any more," said the veteran horseman, "for fear I'll catch the equine fever." "I don't want to see a race horse. I have turned Alice L. Woodford out to pasture. Some days I see her standing on the top of a high hill taking advantage of the breeze to keep off the flies. But I don't look long for fear—well, for fear I'll send out and have her put back in training again."

"Thought you had forgotten all about the excitement of the turf?" ventured a friend.

Then Mr. Miller tipped his mitt by launching into the good qualifications of Alice L. Woodford. Last season she took a mark of 2:10 1/2, under the guidance of "Bill" Harrison in the Great Western circuit. It plainly could be seen that "Old Mac" still has his heart in the game. However, he is so crippled by rheumatism he cannot drive at present at least, but should his limbs become unobscured, there is no doubt that he will be whodding around some circle behind a race calling: "Whoe-a-boy!"

Mr. Miller is a first cousin to the veteran pitcher "Cy" Young, and they are the greatest of friends. You can't tell "Mac" that "Cy" is about to be put on the shelf with the preserves. He believes he is yet to show the world some things, but tosses. At the time Mr. Miller was talking he did not know that "Cy" had been knocked out of the box yesterday when he essayed to deliver the goods for Boston. Had he been apprised of this he would not have felt in such good health.

Methods of Sabbath Counting.
While the Egyptians named the days of their week, the Jews numbered them only, the first day of the week being always the day after the weekly Sabbath. Fifteen different methods of Sabbath counting are known to have existed during the last four thousand years, including every day of the week, weeks of different and varying length, from six to ten days, and months of various and varying length.

Roy Fisher of near Winslow, was accidentally knocked over by a passing team while walking from the ball ground Monday afternoon with his 4-year-old child in his arms. In falling, the child struck the ground with a good deal of violence, causing bruises that required the attention of a physician. For a time, on account of a weak heart, the child's condition was considered serious.

Life's Responsibilities.
The man called to a great work must not waste his life in trivial things. He must not act like the keeper of the lighthouse who gave to the people in the cabins about him the oil which was intended for the mighty lanterns of the sea.—Master Lincoln.

Flowers of the Sea.
The sea has flowers as the land has, but the most brilliant of the sea flowers bloom not upon plants, but upon animals. The living corals of tropical seas present a display of floral beauty which in richness and vividness of color and variety and grace of form rivals the splendor of a garden of flowers.

Did Horses Seek Death?

Can a horse commit suicide? This theory is brought forward through a singular affair at Frighouse, England. About a week ago a horse fell into a pond in the vicinity of the Frighouse cricket field, and it was got out after two hours of strenuous exertion. A day or two later the horse found its way to the same pond, and this time met with its death. Frighouse people are asking if the horse went there purposely.

German Evangelical Lutheran Church. (Rev. J. H. Karpenstein, Pastor.) There will be no services at the church Sunday on account of the pastor going to Dakota City to preach. Sunday school will commence at the usual hour.

On September 3 there will be the annual Missionfest. The Revs. Fr. Ganswober and Fr. Rabe will assist the pastor in the services. Services will begin at 10:30 o'clock a. m. and 2:30 p. m. Everybody cordially invited.

First Baptist Church. (Rev. B. P. Richardson, Pastor.)

Worship and preaching Sunday at 10:45 a. m. Sunday school convenes immediately after the preaching service. Two new classes in our Sunday school that are especially full of much helpfulness: A class organized for the young ladies, named the Philanthic class, is growing rapidly under the direction of Mrs. Laughlin. Each Sunday new faces greet us in this class. The Baraca class for young men is arranged and at work. Mr. Ray King is the president, the pastor is the teacher. There is a great field of work for each class to do here in Wayne.

On September 10, in the evening, we are planning for a special installation service for the new officers of the B. Y. P. U. An excellent program is being prepared.

On the evening of September 17 we will have an evening of music. On Wednesday evening, August 30, there will be the annual election of officers and Sunday school officers. Sunday evening there will be our final service on the court house lawn. Last Sunday, at the Baptist church a Baraca class was organized for young men. Mr. Ray King was elected president and Shirley Sprague secretary. The class has its own room and is very enthusiastic over its work.

Methodist Church.

The fourth quarterly conference was attended by almost forty people last Friday evening at eight o'clock. Every department but one presented a written annual report and the church was observed to be in a prosperous and fairly satisfactory condition. Dr. D. E. Tyndall, the district superintendent, was present on the last round of the last year of his term. In recognition of this fact, the wives and husbands of quarterly conference members had prepared a little surprise and on finishing the business the conference was invited to the parlors to partake of light refreshments and a very delightful social hour. About fifty-five people were present to hear the farewell words of the retiring superintendent and to express their appreciation and good will.

Next Sunday at the close of the morning service will be held an election to select one delegate and one reserve delegate to the lay electoral conference which meets at Trinity Methodist church, Omaha, Friday, September 22. All members of the church twenty-one years of age and over are eligible to vote at this election.

The quarterly conference by unanimous vote requested the return of the pastor for another year. Next Sunday morning will be a distinctively Methodist service—such as all ancient Methodists never fail to attend. May we not have present every member of the church? All others are cordially welcome. Don't stay away.

September 3, communion service; September 10, old peoples' day; September 17, closing of the conference year. What of the future?

If the weather is pleasant there will be union services on the court house lawn promptly at 6:30 next Sunday evening and this will close the season. After about two songs and a prayer the speaking will begin. There will be no first meeting.

Published by the Review from the Omaha Bee: A tall Missourian with a face on him resembling an owl-skin drawn over a ripaw, arrived here from Kansas yesterday sore and hungry.

A friend asked him how he liked Kansas. "Oh," was the reply, "that is a cursed state to live in. They will arrest a carpenter for having in his possession a spirit level. They have closed all the run shops and are nothing more or less than a set of gamblers. Why, Uncle Sam himself gambles. They will go you 100 acres of land at the land office against $14 that you will arrive to death on the land in five years, and win every time."

From the Ponca Journal, September 1, 1881:

only that morning, were distributed over the whole western part of town. One heavy timber was driven through a window of Mr. Wheeler's house, and another came crashing through the side of the house, letting daylight in through a hole three feet square. The covered buggy of Sheriff Jones shared about the same fate at Mr. W.'s barn, and traveled faster and in more directions than it had ever done before.

Some of the numberless pieces into which it was torn, went so far that they have not all been heard from yet. Dr. Hasson's buggy fared not so badly but was nevertheless considerably smashed up.

The chimney of the Methodist church was knocked off, and the chimneys of several dwelling houses on Second street likewise came to grief. The wind worked quite a hole in the tin roof of Stough & Mikesell's brick, and those gentlemen have not yet ceased congratulating themselves that it was not torn entirely off.

Some of the sidewalk near their store was lifted and sent spinning out into the street, and the platform scales near J. M. Davey's store was turned over. In addition, many fences and trees were thrown down by the fury of the blast.

A mile west of town the derriek of the coal works was badly demolished, and fences, trees and out-buildings suffered more or less for several miles around. At last, Ponca has had her wind storm, and a most vivacious, aggressive little devil it was, too.

Plucky Robin. In Ladybank Auction Mart, an energetic auctioneer had knocked a hole in the rostrum with his hammer. In side this hole and behind the boarding a robin has built its nest, where it is now sitting on four eggs.

From the Ponca Journal, September 1, 1881:

On Friday afternoon this town was visited by a severe rain and wind storm. For about five minutes the wind was fearful and did considerable damage. A new barn, belonging to Rev. R. L. Wheeler was blown down and the boards and timbers were scattered broadcast. In the barn was a pair of horses which miraculously escaped without injury, while two tons of hay which had been stored in the barn

The Poet Philosopher

Which things are wrong, as things will go in the old world of woe—w-like to have a good, to blame a heavy load of blame upon some other fellow's head.

PLACING THE BLAME

We devote, when I rise from my dozing couch and find I have a heavy load on my back, I say, "It's Jimson's fault." I never think that fellow's eyes, to see him round gets on my back, it's time to call a halt. I ought to be on a bird if that man Jimson was in there a hundred fathoms deep, but while he still interests this sphere and hangs around this village here, my proverb is to weep. "But when I've soaked my head awhile, submerge the middle of my life, I know it isn't true; for all the sorrows that I bear I raised myself, with tender care, and nursed them as they grew. When some affliction comes to rack your body, try and trace it back—you'll find you sowed the seed; your happiness and sorrow both, when analyzed, are but the growth of your own word or deed. So, neighbor, be a dumb game sport, and do not play around and snarl and blame some other guy, when sorrow loads you by the heart and ronds your groin all apart, and tears bedim your eye.

It comes when I am sick at heart from college in the busy time, when worn by grievances and woes, my soul is languing for repose.

THE BOOK He comes, this word AGENT and windy clap, and says a volume in my lap, a piece that weighs a hundred, not one ounce.

"This beats them all, you bet! You'll never see its like again."

The Lives of Fifty Famous Men! Now, here's a sketch of ancient sage and when you turn to 1 other page you find a map of the book—there he is, or wise as smooth as a ball. "And as his words on me descend, I know he'll get me to the end. He'll beat me by his skillful art and wear me out and break my heart. And if, to shield my heart, and hence, I brain him with his weighty tome, the janizaries of the law will lead me to a patch of straw, and ganking chains in prison cell—and I would ask if this is well? Why is it wrong to shed the gore of agents when they seek your door, and talk until your bosom bleeds, and sell you books that no one reads? I slew an agent long ago, with fervent zeal I had him low, and I was fined some fifteen bones, and worked the fine out breaking stones.

It happened once upon a day, a wicked man was sent to jail; he trod the hard transgressor's way, and swiped a good fat roll of kale. IN JAIL They put him in a cozy AND OUT cell, with books to cheer his solitude; they washed him and they fed him well, and he grew fat on prison food. He had no troubles on his mind, no worry o'er the bills to pay, removed from life's sad, heartily grind, he beamed with smiles the livelong day. And in a dreary, dismal shack, his wife was toiling at the tub, with aching head and aching back, to buy her wretched children grub. And often, at the close of day, she went to bed to weep and sob, and wonder, in her feeble way, if God was really on this job. This is the justice that obtains in this foul world through which we reel; we give the sinner sillon rhinias, and break his children on the wheel. We put the rascal in his cell, and place light burdens on his back, and give him books and feed him well, and stretch his wife upon the rack.

There is no use in cussing when things are going wrong, for saying things and fussing won't bring good luck along. If fortune USELESS treats you meanly you'll DOINGS find that it will pay to go around scrupulously, and smile the good old way. There is no use repining if you have got an ache; there is no use in whining as though your heart would break. It's best to sit and suffer your little pain and grime; your tuck might be much tougher than it has ever been. Sometimes the gods correct you, and if you give no screech, your neighbors will respect you, and say that you're a peach. There is no use in ranting; the quiet man is best; that mouth is most enchanting which often takes a rest. Just do some silent thinking while jogging on your way; so many tongues are chinking and clanking all the day!

I often buy gold bricks by mail; in fact, I'm always sending kites to fakers here and fakers there, and rainbow and other things to dealers everywhere. I've THE WISE blown myself for bogus INVESTOR stock and orange groves on Oregan's shore, and moonlight plants, ginseng and rubber elephants. The fakers get me in their snares, and sell me wind and Belgian hares. But when my fellow townsmen talk, and ask me to invest in stock to help some local enterprise, I am conservative and won't say, "May, may," I cry, "your boots leg chemes are muddy with any wooty dreams. I cannot spend my hard earned dough to make to help to make this vil lage grow. Your schemes would yield but six per cent, which fills my soul with discontent. I want to see my wealth increase hand over hand, and never cease, so I'll pay ice in Hudson's bay, and mines a million miles away, and wireless stock and pickled snukes and gravel pits and other fakes." I think my view is safe and sane, you people say I give them pain, and now and then a vagrant egg breaks on my bosom or my leg, and now and then, a long dead eat comes up and hits me on the hat.

You can't speak too highly of good old Doc Wiley, the government chemist, our townwork and hope, protesting our bellies from ketchups, reds and jellies and all sorts of things which are loaded with dope. He's death to the faker; he chases the maker of fraudulent remedies, labeled with lies; he sizes the butter too ranced to utter, and puts the kibosh on the poisonous pies. Doc Wiley has throtted the sinners who bottled all sorts of cheap rubbish and labeled it jam; courageously, gaily, he's guarding us daily from dishonest snakebait and vitrified ham.

It's true they are saying he's too fond of playing in front of the grandstand and beating the drum; but one who is doing the work he's pursuing would blunt and annoy us if he should be dumb. When nicks to us trickles that codfish and pickles, were seized by Doc Wiley because they were punk, we let to his hauler and let half a dollar he'll clean up the fakers who dealt in such junk. So here's to Doc Wiley! They treated us vilely, by feeding us poison and punch and glue, they'd no right or pity till Doc came and grays, punched out their persons and made them come through!

Torturing eczema spreads its burning area every day. Doan's Ointment quickly stops its spreading, instantly relieves the itching, cures it permanently. At any drug store.

Her Correction. Mr. Struckoll—That there sculptor feller says he's got'n to make a bust of me. Mrs. Struckoll—Henry, it's just terrible the way you do talk; say "burst," not "bust."

ATCHISON GLOBE SIGHTS. So often the solemn promise devolves into a joke. Self-confidence is usually about ninety per cent bluff. How really ought to shave their arms during warm weather. There isn't any use telling the constable you don't owe the bill. Applied by modern methods, a coat of tan is apt to cost more than seal skin. About the only way to get people to agree with you is to agree with them. Most of the diseases are bad enough without translating them into Latin. Neither would it be so bad if all the insurgents confined their efforts to politics. We are also anxious to know if the fiend who invented hooks and eyes was ever apprehended. Clerks may tell one customer out of five what he wants, but should listen to the other four. If a man has plenty of matches he is pretty apt to run out of smoking tobacco at a critical time. If a man shows fear when his wife sues for a divorce he is afraid she will get away or get alimony? Eyesight is a precious gift and one should not risk it by looking too long at a bartender's diamond. A country boy's notion of the pin-money propriety is to own a fifty-dollar saddle with a silver hair. One ought to find some simpler way of proving his courage than by fighting it out with a tough tornado. A larger man in the controversy is considerable help to the one who wants to curb his vicious temper. The party who never gives anything but his moral support isn't apt to establish a reputation for generosity. How is it in your family; does the first one to the cream pitcher have an advantage when peaches are served? Possibly the high cost of living serves a useful purpose in keeping a number of men from trying to solve puzzles. There are married women who feel they are responsible for all the progress their husbands make, and most of the salary. While hobbies may seem tame affairs, riding them excessively may make them more dangerous than bucking bronchos. It is also reported that the meteor stop in this season, but the other dangers of air navigation continue too numerous to mention.

There is a lot of deposit in politics, but both parties have a lot of truth to work on when they accuse each other of extravagance. Samson was a great athlete and is further distinguished by the fact that he never invaded a saloon or a bar, nor traded with a burlesque company. People are less prudish about giving out advance notices of stark visits than in the days when the earth seemed to be a vast, unpopulated plain. We are willing to concede that the razor is a great invention, but it didn't do much toward making the harvest field an ideal vacation resort. We don't know how it is in other towns, but in a town this size the women who are not invited to the parties make all kinds of fun of the "society" women.

THE DEFEATED CANDIDATE. (Bixby in Lincoln Journal.) I would write of the man who goes down to defeat, Not the fellow who wins, but the one who is beat. If he bears his deep loss with a martyr-like grace; If he goes back to work with a smile on his face; With a light in his eye that no tempter can douse, And a hope in his heart as big as a house, Let me say to him here—it's not one of my jokes— That's the fellow for me; he is my kind of folks.

Whose Tailor?

TRADE MARK REG. 1908 BY ED. V. PRICE & CO.

Even a painting by an old master looks like a chalk-talk if it isn't draped properly, and clothes that almost fit are pretty nearly as bad as a Navajo blanket—but less excusable. There are many good reasons why our Chicago tailors, Ed. V. Price & Co. make clothes to order for more men, from the meadows to the uplands of life, than any other tailors in the world. If you want to be dressed in the full, glad blush of the bang-up season 1911-12 let us take you measure today while the sun is shining in your direction.

The secret of the average man's success is hard work and sound sense.

So much toil and grief accompany the accomplishment of really big things that those who do them are usually too tired to feel elated.

The adjournment of congress was immediately followed by cooler weather, which fact suggests the inadvisability of having a long summer session.

Wouldn't it be possible to have an aeroplane exhibition in Wayne? That would be something new for nearly everybody and would certainly attract a crowd.

The new Normal school building, new telephone system, new city hall and Carnegie library building are four improvements for Wayne that mean an expenditure of over $80,000.00. And there are other accompanying improvements, and more to follow. Is there any town in the state whose future is more encouraging or reassuring?

The death of Judge E. B. Cutbrey who was one of the republican candidates for supreme judge, was probably due mainly to anxiety incident to the campaign and disappointment over the result. He had an ambition to serve on the supreme bench, and when this cherished hope faded with unfavorable primary returns, the disappointment evidently aggravated physical imperfections and indirectly caused his death.

A New York commercial review in Sunday's Record-Herald is very encouraging. Reports from business men of the country look forward to active trade conditions. The cotton crop is unusually large, and the corn crop is not so short as feared a few weeks ago. The adjournment of congress without doing any serious damage is regarded a favorable sign. With good prices for corn, now assured, Wayne county farmers will gather larger profits than last year and will therefore be more prosperous.

A delegate to the late republican state convention and he is said to have been a so-called "insurgent," couched advice to his party in the following rhetorical English: "Get together, get together, and keep on getting together from now on until the polls close on the evening of November 7, and until the sun sinks behind the mountains and all the stars forget moments of the angels, silently one by one twinkle in the infinite meadows of the heavens."

Sunday's Lincoln Journal makes this editorial reference to E. B. Cutbrey's commendation of President Taft: "Richard L. Metcalf, in making speeches at old settlers' associations in Nebraska, is known to be a champion of the deepest dye and for this reason his laudatory remarks on relations to President Taft cannot give some of his hearers heart failure. Mr. Metcalf comes out boldly and chooses Taft's treaties with England and France, with what he calls two of the greatest documents ever written, the declaration of independence and the emancipation proclamation."

The Wayne Tribune's editorial reference to E. B. Cutbrey's commendation for county clerk is a mark of confidence in the ability of the incumbent. Mr. Benson is a citizen of the highest character and a man of excellent ability, as those who know him will cheerfully testify. His clear brain, experience in business affairs and clerical duties, will not be hampered in the performance of the service of county clerk by reason of the fact that he has only one leg. He is well fitted for the position, and no man is more deserving of it. We regret to see the Tribune take the measurement of Mr. Benson's strength unsupported by the remotest suggestion of fact.

The Winside Tribune's criticism of the result of the late primary in nominating Wayne men, without exception, on the democratic ticket for county offices emphasizes judgements that may readily follow in the working of the new system under which nominations are made. The biggest center of population has the most votes, and under the primary it may, without any particular design, swallow all the nominations, and thus make what the Tribune terms "a political blunder." A convention would not have imperilled its entire ticket by choosing all of its nominees from one town. A convention would have deemed it suicidal to do so. A majority of the people of Wayne have too much consideration for the rest of the county, on which it depends for support, to selfishly want all the offices filled by Wayne men. The majority of Wayne want to see other parts of the county recognized. It was a minority of Wayne people who supported Wayne men exclusively for democratic nominations, and undoubtedly they did so without desiring to give affront to all other parts of the county. Giving Wayne all the nominees of the democratic party is an evidence not so much of a wish to be partial and selfish as a thoughtlessness which may be incident to operation of the primary law. But intentional or not, the result is the same. The product of the primary in this case is so plainly unfair to territory outside of Wayne that people all over the county, including a majority in the city, will naturally, as the Tribune suggests, give favor to the more fortunate republican ticket whose nominees have been chosen from different parts of the county.

President Taft showed statesman-like wisdom when he put his heel on the dangerous recall which had been approved by congress as a feature of the Arizona constitution. In the Outlook, ex-President Roosevelt says the recall is a very foolish experiment, but suggests that there is no law against a state making a fool of itself and that if Arizona wants to try it, it ought to be permitted to do so, as "its folly may be illuminating to other states in the Union." If permitting a small percentage of the people who are not in possession of the facts or who are inspired by unfounded prejudices, to recall their judges, is folly, hasn't President Taft shown highest statesmanship by refusing to endorse the plan? The courts could not long safeguard the liberties of the country if their decisions had to be formed to meet the instant approval of all the people who might, through imperfect understanding of a case, and without due reflection, be aroused to support a recall. If judges were compelled to obey popular prejudice at the time, our freedom and orderly society would be threatened. The policy of permitting Arizona to make a fool of itself if it wishes to do so would be on a par with discipline that would permit a child to jump into a fire because it wanted to do so. The tragedy of the experiment should be avoided if possible, even though the avoidance gives rebuff to a childish whim, and that is what the president has taken a bold stand to do. His wisdom saves Arizona from punishment at the hands of its own folly.

A GREAT SERVICE. Lincoln Journal. On its legislative side the record of the Taft administration is a subject of dispute. From the time he signed the tariff bill of 1909 till he vetoed the wool tariff bill of 1911 he has been under criticism for his legislative policy. On conspicuous occasions, however, criticism has been disarmed. Mr. Taft started in determined to stop some of the wastes in administering government operations. He has found this in order than he had supposed. His opposition to every saving measure of success crowned his efforts. The announcement this week that the country's custom houses will be reduced in number from 124 to seventy-three, if congress will permit, is a characteristic act of the Taft administration by reason of its position in the department is the most notable feat of the kind. There have been numerous others. Another project akin to this one of the custom houses involves the abandonment of several useless naval stations. Congressional log rolling has kept in existence half a dozen naval stations which are a dead loss to the country. Secretary Meyer has not hesitated to recommend their abandonment.

The reduction of the number of custom houses may not occur. Congressmen with such places in their districts will be in a hurry for the average congressman feels himself disgraced to allow a slice of pork to slip out of his district. Tomorrow we may read that our own Maguire has been reading the riot act to Secretary McVeagh, for in that respect the adjustment program is reduced to a substitution. Perhaps most of us will sympathize with this resistance, and expect our senators to take a hand too—hold up the arbitration treaties "comes down." It is not mere egotism when we say that the country maintains numerous customs houses that do not collect in a year duties enough to pay the collectors' salaries. Abstractly the existence of such is an abuse itself an extravagance. In setting itself against a myriad of such excuses the Taft administration is making some of its best history.

Just two weeks until school begins. That means new shoes and new stockings for the boys and girls of course. The all-important quality you demand in shoes or stockings is wear. Three years ago, after testing out several of the best advertised brands of children's stockings, we found a line that gave our customers real satisfaction in wear, also in appearance and price. They are called Wayne Knit Hose and they have been making them at Fort Wayne, Ind., for over sixty years. The Wayne hosiery mills are the largest in the world and when a mill has been making stockings for sixty years and has grown that large, they must have made good stockings. We have been selling these hose for three years and they suit our customers the best of any stockings they can buy. When you get the next stockings for your boy or girl try a pair of these splendid hose. They have been woven into the knees, heels and toes to make them strong; they come in fine, silky black for Sunday wear, in firm, heavier weights for school wear and in extra-heavy weights for the boys. As for shoes, there is one line of boys' and girls' shoes which is known to every shoe merchant in the country as the VERY BEST at a REASONABLE PRICE and that is the Kreider shoe. There are finer and more expensive shoes, but it is not always economy to buy a $3.50 or $4.00 shoe for the boy or girl who splashes through the mud, dries his shoes on the stove and kicks every brick, box and board that he comes across. $1.50, $2.00 and $2.50 are good prices to pay and if you buy an honestly made shoe you'll get good service for your money from a shoe at that price. Needle Factory? The discovery of a prehistoric needle factory at a prehistoric clay village near Glastonbury, England, roused much interest recently. The dwellings were placed on mounds of clay raised above the level of the water. The framework of a primitive iron was found under one mound, and the number of broken bone needles and bone splinters discovered in another mound led the explorers to think that it may have been the site of an ancient needle factory.

TWO GAMES WON BY WAYNE DURING WEEK

DEFEATED BY WINSIDE MONDAY Wayne Scores Victory in Game With Coleridge—Review of Week's Playing by Local Fan.

The game of ball between Wayne and Winside at this place Monday was anticipated as the biggest exhibition of the kind of the season, and accordingly the ball park was the scene of a large crowd, made up of people from Wayne, Winside and other points in the county. Wayne stars were absent during part of the afternoon to give all an opportunity to witness the contest. Richard Clouston officiated as umpire and he performed the task so well that he escaped without any complaints from either side. There was no manifest spirit of bitter rivalry on the part of fans from either town, and the game passed off coolly and pleasantly. Winside won and went home feeling good, not quite over its victory, but over its treatment at the hands of Wayne.

Following is the record of the game: WAYNE. Ahern, ss... DePew, c... Peck, 1b... Knight, lf... Shellington, cf... Tift, 2b... Ringer, rf... Nemo, 3b... Anderson, p... WINSIDE. Emerson, ss... Cross, cf... Durke, 3b... Pratt, lf... Ramsey, 1b... Welch, 2b... Pomeoy, c... Siman, rf... Wilson, p...

The game with the Pierce team in Wayne last Thursday was attended by a crowd of visitors, and was closely contested, as the score of 9 to 10 in favor of the local boys would indicate. REVIEW OF WEEK'S PLAYING. (Record of Wayne team for week, as reported by local fan.) Last Thursday we won our game from Pierce, the best team that has played against us all year. The regular Pierce team had disbanded but as they owed us a return game several of Pierce's true sportsmen contributed $10 each toward a fund and hired nine of the best base ball men in northeast Nebraska to come down and represent their town. Beves was in the box and pitched good ball except for one inning when he was battered for seven runs. Pierce made no scores until the seventh when they ran in nine. Our boys tied it up in the eighth and won in the ninth—score 10 to 9. During the game our team suffered two injuries which crippled us seriously in the games we have played since—Jones was after a foul ball and turned his ankle. He finished the game, even making a home run after his mishap, but he has not played since. His ankle is improving and he hopes to enter the games at Wakefield Friday. Hunter, when sliding in to second, turned his foot under and strained the ligaments of his leg. He played for the first time against Coleridge yesterday, getting his usual number of hits and covering the first base territory as capably as ever... Mr. Kreider, Wilson, a Sioux City league pitcher, was on the mound for Winside in Monday's game and our patched-up team were beaten 6 to 1. Jones and Hunter were unable to play and while we hired good men to take their places still they were badly misused and would have helped to make a difference in the game had they been here. Mr. Wilson pitched in big league form and our lonely score came in the first inning on a hit—a sacrifice and a hit...

Last Chance! Any Skirt In the Store $5.00 Save $2.50 to $5.00 on your fall Skirt. Take your choice from all the skirts now on hand, including Panama skirts that were $7.50, serge skirts that were $8.50 to $10.00, melrose and epingle skirts that sold for $10.00 to $12.00. There are Twenty-five nice Skirts to choose from, all good styles. Many of them are made very nearly like the fall skirts. Every skirt is guaranteed absolutely all wool. The colors are mostly black, navy blue and brown. This is your last opportunity this season to get a $7.50 to $12.00 skirt at the remarkably low price of $5.00. Don't delay—they will be gone in a few days.

We play at Winside next Monday and we hope Mr. Wilson will be there as our boys are anxious to go up against the best of them... Friday Wayne beat us 7 to 4. Six of our regular players were unable to go, but the three who did play, reinforced by several outside players, put up a game fight for eight innings—the score in the eighth being four to one in our favor. At the end of the ninth, however, Wausa had made six more and we came home beaten 7 to 1... Yesterday we defeated Coleridge 5 to 0. Leahy pitched great ball, allowing only two hits. Not a Coleridge man reached third base. Walworth filled in at shortstop in first class shape... No games at home this week on account of the crippled condition of the team. We want to let the boys rest as much as possible and get in shape for three hard games which we have here next week. Norfolk plays here Wednesday. Creighton, the champion team to the northwest of us, comes Thursday to show us that we are not champions of all of Nebraska, and Saturday Burke, S. D., will be here to uphold the reputation of their state. Don't miss any of these games. Wayne's reputation in these games we replace them willingly and are glad to do it. Buy Wayne Knit hose and Kreider's shoes for the boys and girls this fall at Ahern's. School begins soon. Don't forget to buy Wayne Knit stockings and Kreider's shoes for the boys and girls. AHERN'S. Essence of Fine Breeding. In families well ordered there is always one firm and sweet temper, which controls without seeming to dictate. The essence of all fine breeding is in the gift of oscillation. A man who possesses every other title to our respect besides that of courtesy, is in danger of forfeiting them all. A rude manner renders his owner always liable to affront. He is never without dignity who avoids wondering the dignity of others. Chief Sufferer in the Duel. The cost of duels is dwelt upon by Aurelien Schol in his "Recollections." He tells of the elaborate preparations made for a hostile encounter between two journalists whom he knew. One of them borrowed $20 from Schol to meet his share of the expenses. This sum was never returned. "After ten minutes perfunctory fencing," he adds, "the principals embraced each other, and both left the ground without a scratch. I was the only man hit."

The Next Ball Games at Wayne Norfolk plays here Wed., Aug. 30th Creighton plays here Thur., Aug. 31 Burk, S. D. plays here Sat., Sept. 2d These three teams are winners. The Norfolk team has been strengthened greatly since we played them and during the last three weeks they have won almost all their games. Creighton has the best team northwest of us. Farmer Dunnaway is with them. If he pitches at Wayne, you'll see a great game of ball. Burk, S. D., has the champion amateur team of South Dakota. They have heard about Wayne's crack club, and are coming down to try and take the championship of N. E. Nebraska back to Dakota. Come Down and Help Us Beat Them!

Ready for More Business. This bank attends every new public or private enterprise, because the growth and improvement of Wayne and vicinity mean greater banking interests. We want Wayne to go ahead, because we will go ahead with it. The Honorable Senator Sagebrush

By FRANCIS LYNDE

Copyright, 1910, by Street & Smith

SYNOPSIS.

Evan Blount, son of "Boss" David Blount ("Senator Sagebrush") has been rejected by Patricia, daughter of Dick Gantry, and is now in the Transcontinental railway, which is fighting his father, McVickar, head of the railroad, and "Boss" Blount quarrel.

The boss demands that the railroad top the use of crooked methods. Gantry went to meet his father, Evan sees a man who takes him for a forty-empire.

Evan is kidnaped by a band of men, evidently land corporation agents, and is taken at night to a mansion seemingly presided over by a woman.

The house is Warrace Hall, Senator Blount's home, and the woman is Evan's stepmother, whom he had never met.

The senator proposes running Evan for attorney general despite the young man's recent arrival in the state. Evan objects. He hears his father called a political trickster.

McVickar defies Senator Blount to nominate Evan. Patricia, and her legitimate father arrives at the Sagebrush camp.

At McVickar's request, Evan joins the railroad's forces as division counsel and political worker. He favors clean politics, but finds that his office is made a rallying point by small political hangers-on of the road.

Evan has a disagreement with Gantry about the road's mixing in politics. His father pulls wires unknown to him to have him invited to speak in a distant mining town. Hathaway, who has been trying to do business with the road and with Senator Blount, is to have a talk with Mrs. Blount.

Hathaway wants a rebate from the road in consideration of political favors. He is referred to Evan and is advised by Mrs. Blount to put Professor Anners' name on his list of stockholders.

Evan's interview with Hathaway reveals the road's misdoings. In a rage he resigns. Gantry holds up the resignation. Evan insists that it go through to McVickar.

Patricia refuses Evan again. She advises him to stick to the road and work for clean politics. He withdraws his resignation and is sent into the field on a speaking tour.

Exposure of the railroad is threatened by Evan to Gantry unless rebating and other unethical practices are stopped. Evan suspects his secretary, Collins, of tampering with his desk.

The desk is blown up by a burglar, evidently after Evan's papers. Gantry tells McVickar that Evan is getting to be too much for him to handle.

Gantry has hard work to keep Evan from publicly pledging the railroad to the suppression of rebates. Sunday before election Evan takes Patricia for an auto ride.

On Monday, Grayson, ward boss, brings to Evan what he calls proof of crooked dealings on the part of the machine, headed by the senator. Editor Blunkinsaw is to print evidence of the machine's crookedness.

Evan's duty to expose his father seems clear to him. At Patricia's insistence, however, he tells his father what he is about to do and his father to go ahead.

CHAPTER XX. THE LANDSIDE.

CONTRARILY to all expectation, the election proved to be one of the quietest ever known in the Saxonian State. A few editors there were, like Blunkinsaw of the Daily Capital, who later on maintained that it was merely another triumph for the machine, but there was no gainsaying the result. The reform ticket, with or without the help of the machine, was elected by sweeping up minorities everywhere, and Gantry, sitting in his office and reading the wire returns, as they came in, gasped for breath and swore despatchingly over each fresh batch of messages.

At Warrace Hall the Hon. David turned to his son.

"Well, Evan, are the tangles all straightened out for you now?" he asked gently.

"Just about all of them," laughed Blount. He had spent a very happy evening, chiefly because Patricia had been occupying the other half of the small divan he had dragged out to face the fire. "But the still unalterably opposed to the machine in politics," he added.

The senator laughed silently. "Get it organized, instead of machine, son, and you've got the power that moves the civilized world today. You've heard me called the 'boss' from the time Gantry had his first talk with you back yonder in Massachusetts. Call me a man with friends enough to make me a sort of leader in this state home state, and you're right. I don't say that I've always used the power judiciously. The Lord knows I'm no more infallible than other people. But, as I said to you yesterday, son, no matter what you've heard or who said it, I've never used the power to father my own pocket-book. I've bought and traded and bargained—I don't deny it—but only what I deemed as though the end justifies the means."

SCHEME AGENTS BARED

Distances in the Residence Suburbs Are Double What Realty Men Give Them.

"I have often wondered how the tables of distances in the far, far suburbs of New York were obtained," a seeker after a suburban home said. "I mean those distances which seem so short when mentioned in an offhand manner or when expressed in times, but which are so long when put to practical test. The puzzle was not solved by my last experience in this line; it was rather made more complex."

"I went to look last Sunday at some lots which were said to lie along the line of one of the suburban railroads. The agent who accompanied me said that the site was not more than a mile from the station." When we reached the station a motor car was waiting to take us out to the place.

"Now, you know how quickly and easily a mile slips past one of those big cars. Well, I noticed a speedometer on the car and instead of climbing into the tonneau with the agent I got in beside the chauffeur and kept my eye on the dial. The car went out to those lots at the rate of 20 miles an hour, and it took six minutes to make the trip. That would make the distance from the station about two miles; or twice what the agent said it was."

"He couldn't explain the incongruity when asked about it, and so I am just as far from solving the where-fore as you are in the distances now as before."—New York Sun.

▲ Singular.

We've noted yesterday the drowning of a boy named Johnny Ward in Mill river, and stated his body had not been found. That night a man who is familiar with the circumstances of the case had a dream in which he saw the boy's body floating on a post under a building. Yesterday a careful search for the body was made and it was found under Daniels' mill on Mill street, the arms of the lad firmly clasped about a piece of timber used for a support to the building.

The finding of the body in the position as seen in the dream is singular.—Hartford Courant.

Effective Wall Paper Border.

Recently there has come into wall paper fashion a type of border that is cut along the bottom to follow the lines of the design, usually vines, leaves or the like. Against a plain wall paper such a border is particularly effective as all who have seen it can testify. At first this border had to be cut out after the design was printed on the paper, but a New York man has invented a machine which does the printing and the cutting at the same operation.

Standing to Reduce Flesh.

A little trick is standing for twenty minutes after each meal. This does not mean simply being on your feet, clearing off the table, etc. It means that you must stand perfectly still, balanced evenly on both feet. Have a book in the dining-room stand near a window and read for twenty minutes after each meal. This is also thought to be a great cure for indigestion. Try it anyway, for certainly it cannot hurt you.

May Be Overdone.

Bishop Willard F. Malhall, at a dinner, defended the laws against Sunday breaking, especially literature, etc. "But these laws," objected a socialist, "and mine our freedom." "Freedom," said the bishop, "is a good thing, but let us not make too much of it. In Pennsylvania, for instance, a man is free to marry his mother-in-law, but no man ever does."

Work and Prayer.

Work with all your might, but trust not in the least in your work. Pray with all your might for the blessing of God; but work at the same time with all diligence, with all patience, with all perseverance. Pray, then, and work. Work and pray, and all the days of your life.—George Muller.

Natural Inclination.

"Do you think your nephew shows any predilection for a useful pursuit?" asked the serious relative.

"Well," replied Mr. Groucher, "judging by the way he tries to keep his feet and hands and clothes, I think he would enjoy being a chimney sweep."

Bracelets for the Insane.

Bracelets have been worn from time immemorial, but few wearers of the golden bands of the present day know that they were once used to distinguish the insane. Before lunatics were confined to asylums they wore an ornament for distinction.

Tender Feet.

When the feet become tender from excessive use so that standing or walking is an affliction, a footbath of strong salt water will prove most beneficial. Bathing the soles of the feet and ankles with toilet water is refreshing.

BATTLE BETWEEN TWO WINES

Rivalry of Champagne and Burgundy Lasted for Nearly Three-Quarters of a Century.

The quarrel between the districts of the Aube and the Marne recalls the still more ancient rivalry of the sparkling wine and burgundy. The battle between these two wines lasted from 1850 to 1720, nearly three-quarters of a century, and was started by an obscure doctor who wrote a pamphlet declaring that the vineyards of the Beaune produced the healthiest wines in France. All the other vineyards of France were aroused to indignant protests by this treatise and the wine growers of the Champagne were loudest in their protests. The quarrel reached its height when, for example, the physician of Louis XIV. forbade his royal master to drink champagne, and Burgundy rejoiced at this check to its rival.

A Burgundian pamphlet was promptly issued denouncing sparkling wines as the cause of gout and bad nerves. Reims promptly rejoined by a medical treatise which set out to prove that Reims was the real cause of these evils. Journalists, poets, statesmen, in fact all the world, took part in the quarrel. The pamphleteer of Reims claimed the victory, for they declared that champagne had done far more for the country than any other wine, because when King Wenceslaus came to Reims in 1397, he made a treaty with Charles VI. to make the wine so good that he continued to drink it until he granted to the French king all that he demanded.—Westminster Gazette.

All the Facts in English.

Even the solemn and serene cemetery of the Moravian at Bethlehem supplies an interesting addition to the curious epitaph collection in the following which is cut on a stone over the grave of an Indian. "In memory of my eldest son James McDonald, first chief of the Cherokee nation died in St. Louis, November 9, 1864. His corpse was transported by Adams Express to Bethlehem and interred at this sacred spot November 22, 1864, age fifty years, twenty-nine days."

Was Misunderstood.

A Russian, who, although he has been some time in Paris, knows little or nothing of French language, has just been sentenced to imprisonment for having assaulted a policeman. He had also been accused of having insulted the agent of the law, but he was acquitted on that count after an explanation from the policeman regarded as objectionable was also a Russian word, and perfectly innocent.

Color in Precious Stones.

The color of gemstones, although of greatest importance commercially, is of little or no value in determining their particular identity. Certain stones show their characteristic shades of color, it is true, but it is only after various tests have been applied that color can be considered as all evidence of value. All minerals, in fact, are pure white and the color shown is due to impurities in many cases.

Tin and Crime.

One hundred and seventeen persons, chiefly habitual criminals, were banished for life from Peking last year. Of these ninety-nine were Chinese, twenty of whom had been convicted of participating in pillageous societies. It was discovered that the number of tinplate offenses varied in indirect ratio with the price of tin. When tin was high and the industry prospering, prisoners in jails were few, and vice versa.

Days of Rest for Horses.

A business concern in Baltimore which buys only the best stock for its draft horses, gives each horse a day of rest every week in addition to Sunday. The firm is convinced by experience that this practice increases the working capacity of the horses on days when they are in service and lessens veterinary expenses. Exchange.

The Jews in France.

France was the first country to extend equal rights to Jews. As early as 1791 distinguished men of the faith were honored with titles and among them were many men identified with the history of the country. Later they were deprived of the right to hold titles.

Road to Something Better.

Everything in the territory is a key to something beautiful, would never enter otherwise. By the toll-rose road of study a scholar learns to get joy out of books and stones and trees. By the hard road of discipline a man learns to get joy out of every-day living.

Overcoming Obstacles.

There is something else for us to do in this world than to resign ourselves to a series of circumstances. If we try hard enough we will find a way to surmount them.

Looks That Way.

A New York woman has an anklet that cost $25,000. "Something put by for a rainy day," we presume.

Florida's Progress.

Culture of the grape in America for wine making began in Florida in 1864.

In Italy today pigs' livers are served in a way that is accurately described by Apuleius before the Christian era. Mixed with herbs, salt and wine they are stuffed into small sausage skins, with one bay leaf to each and baked.

Courage and Duty.
To be strong in dull and dreary duty is almost the hardest task a man can face. It is a noble thing to be brave in tragic moments, but perhaps there is something even nobler than that. It is to be brave and glad, and strong, and tender when the sky is gray and when the road is dreary.—George H. Morrison.

Randolph has planned to have a lecture circuit next winter.

The Cedar county fair takes place at Hartington September 14 and 15.

Dixon county holds its annual old settlers' picnic at Martinsburg, August 29. Osmond Republican Judge Welch of Wayne, judge of the district court for this judicial district, will be in town during the carnival and will probably give a talk on one of those days.

Digger Herald.—A Kansas girl wants $15,000 damages for being mugged up by a young man who insisted on kissing her. She deserves the money. A young man who can't kiss a girl without causing her hair to come down ought to be severely punished.

Laurel Advocate: Hon. Victor Murdock, the red headed U. S. senator from Kansas, disappointed the audience at the Wayne-Chouteau-Murray after noon by not appearing on the program advertised. And to make matters worse, up to the hour at which he was to appear no word had been heard from him. And then ex-Governor Hoch of Kansas failed to appear Tuesday. You can't depend on a politician.

Osmond Republican: Now that the primary election is over, we think it a good time to begin a crusade for the repeal of the expensive luxury. It's a nuisance from start to finish, and is no better than the old convention system, and is too expensive, both on the candidate and the people. We will be glad to have people express their opinions on the question and will give space for that purpose.

Laurel Advocate: Political advertising amounted to considerable to some of our exchanges. We noticed the Emerson-Enterprise carried twenty-five candidates' announcements, and the Wayne Herald last week contained nine columns of display advertising for candidates, besides a column of announcements. Why shouldn't a candidate advertise himself through the newspapers? He is asking for votes and that is the easiest way to get his name before the people.

Stanton Register: The prospects for a corn crop in Stanton county at the present time are good and we feel that our farmers will get an average yield. An examination of six fields this week, three listed and three checked, showed that it is caring good, and the earlier fields have well filled ears. The checked corn will average from ten to twenty per cent better than the listed fields. The one field that will yield a full crop is that of John Callies. This corn is almost out of the road of a light frost. We think that the field will average fifty bushels per acre. The two and a quarter inches of rain that has fallen the past two weeks has almost made the corn crop; another inch of rain will finish the making of an average crop.

Madison Post: There are some bright newspaper women: "One of them recently said: "After she is twenty-five a girl is apt to marry the fellow she used to make fun of." Another one who confesses she will soon be twenty-five, took up the idea and replied as follows: "Yes, after she is twenty-five a girl has sense enough to know that glad tugs and diamonds do not make the man. After a girl is twenty-five she has also learned from observation that the sport does not make a desirable husband. Yes, and after she is twenty-five, a girl has learned if she has come in contact with the world at all) that the baggy trousers, hand-me-down suits or overall which she was wont to make fun of when she was young and giddy may serve as the wearing apparel of one of nature's noblemen; yes, and after a girl is twenty-five she has learned to appreciate true worth, character and brains, and she knows just what she sees it."

Quite a large delegation of base ball enthusiasts followed the team to Wayne last Monday and all returned looking pleasant, as though they had enjoyed the afternoon. Miss Anna Paulson of Carroll, and the Misses Olga and Lillian Marksen were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Trautwein Friday. Mrs. G. W. Swaigard went to Omaha the last of the week to spend a few days with her son Carl who was recently operated on for appendicitis. He is making a speedy recovery. John Jaskowiak has bought from M. Keiffer, four lots one block north of the Methodist church, and will commence at once to build him a residence, which will be modern in every respect. Rev. and Mrs. Matzner, formerly of this place but now of Tilden, Neb., were arrivals in Winside Saturday. Rev. Matzner had charge of the services at the missionary feast at the Salem church south of Wayne Sunday. Harry Jones went to Denver, Colo., the last of the week and returned Tuesday accompanied by Mrs. and Mrs. E. C. Edwards of that place. Mr. Edwards is and has been in very poor health for some time. He is desirous of making the change. During the past week Curt Benbrook sold two of his farms, 160 acres each at $1500 per acre. These farms are located about eight miles southeast of Winside. The one now farmed by James Belders was bought by Weston Hughes, and the one Carl Benbrook is on is now owned by George Hughes. Roy Fisher's little boy got with what might have been a serious accident at Mrs. Mervin Johnson's house. The boy had been playing with a gun and had shot at first it was thought he had been killed

Mr. Will Jones and family of Columbia Junction, Ia., are visiting his brother, Johnnie Jones, and other relatives in the settlement northwest of Winside. Jack Gaughran met with a painful and serious accident in the game with Allon last Saturday. A long fly ball struck him on the point of the thumb dislocating it and driving the first bone of the thumb through the flesh. This will probably put Jack out of the game the balance of the season. In the ball games played the past week Winside won on Sunday from Waukegan, score 3 to 2; Monday from Wayne, score 6 to 1; Tuesday from Stanton, score 12 to 16; Wednesday lost to Norfolk in a ten-inning game, score 2 to 3. Lound & Smith are busy these days looking after those who want to buy land. Tuesday they sold to Frank Carpenter the 80-acre farm, one mile south and two miles west of town, owned by Peter Reeg, now farmed by Moses Baldwin. On Wednesday they made another deal when Fred Wacker bought the 80-acre farm about eight miles south west of Winside, owned by Henry Theofelst. Mr. Jones is also engaged in school work, and has been secured for the coming year to take charge of the school at Allon, where they will make their home. Allon came over Saturday afternoon and put up a splendid exhibition in all departments of a base ball game with the locals, in fact it looked very much as though our boys were going to get their first shut-out of the season. No scores were made until in the fifth inning when the visitors ran in two, and the locals failed to make the circuit until in the ninth when three men registered at the home plate, giving the victory to Winside, 3 to 2. It was one of the best games played on the grounds this season. Harmony prevailed at all times. Batteries: Bates and Truby; Siman and Pomeroy. Umpire, Jack Gaughran. The base ball game that was to have been played at Wayne between them and the locals last Friday, was called off on account of the rain and threatening condition of the weather. This was the second time the game had been called and while it was a case of loss of disappointment to some, we feel that the copious shower that was visited upon us, and was so badly needed, more than counteracted the frustrated hopes of the base ball fans. Cards have been received announcing the marriage of Miss Aimee Ross and Mr. Walter L. Best, in Chadron, Neb., August 14, 1911. The bride is the daughter of Mr. Ed. Ross, and made her home here for a number of years with her aunt, Mrs. Mary Nisbham. National Light Oil Has "Made Good"

FIRST YEAR 5,000 Gals. SECOND YEAR 18,000 Gals. THIRD YEAR 30,000 Gals. Four cars sold ready for delivery next sixty days

Kerosene is a commodity as staple as coffee or sugar and people have learned the importance of purchasing this product by name just the same as a high grade brand of canned goods, flour or farm implement. That there really is a difference in buying oils, this fact has been thoroughly and finally established. Patrons prefer to buy an oil which has proven RIGHT than to take chances on so-called good kerosene. Three years of continual and ever increasing success has proven NATIONAL LIGHT OIL to be right and fully up to the requirements of every housewife. The idea of purchasing a year's supply of National Light has met the general approval of the farming community. The combining of quality and convenience has successfully solved the oil problem for each one of these patrons. Ask any one of them if they would return to the old method; how they like National Light oil; everything pertaining to the proposition. You will get a favorable reply. We want you, in fact every farmer, to avail himself of this proposition. A year's supply of National Light in a guaranteed tank is at your disposal. Simply place it where it's convenient, you will not only be pleased, but satisfied, and say you will buy National Light oil again next year. Why? Because it's a product of quality.

HE HADN'T BEEN SWIMMING

Technically, Little Waldo Told His Mother the Truth for He Couldn't Swim. These lovely days usher in the season when such conversations as the following are to be heard in every other household: "Waldo, have you been in swimming?" "No, ma'am." "Waldo, I told you that the water wasn't warm enough, and you promised me that you wouldn't go. But your face is cleaner than I ever saw it. Waldo, even your ears are clean. Have you been in swimming?" "No, ma'am." "Waldo, your stockings are on wrong-side out and you seem to have lost your undershirt. Your shirt clings to your body. Dear, you have never told mamma a falsehood, and it would break her heart if you were to begin now. I ask you again—have you been swimming?" "No, ma'am." "And the little boy always tells the truth. He may have jumped off the dock into shallow water a few times and he may have paddled around in the breakers all the afternoon, but he hasn't been swimming. For it is common knowledge among the fellows that Waldo can't swim a stroke." Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Purists Up in Arms. The purists are now objecting to the use of such modern terms as "drummer" for sleeping car, "hard up" for the go and so on. They also oppose the phrase, "an awfully pretty girl" on the ground that beauty never progresses in the beholder.

Ink Spots.

These troublesome stains may be removed by an application of equal parts of citric acid and cream of tartar mixed on a plate. Mix and rub over the stains and then wash out carefully. In almost all cases the ink will disappear at once without injury to the color. Stains that have been laundered may require several treatments before they yield. Woman's Home Companion.

Just Like That.

"I shall not permit you," he declared, "to trample on my love with impunity." "I shall not do it," she saucily replied, for she had just been told to go to dinner with the son of a Pittsburgh millionaire. "When I trample on your love I shall do it with my feet."

Truth in Old Saying.

There is an old ad on the hills saying that men who cannot manage their own finances are exactly the ones to look after those of a nation. And because it is too true is the reason why it is an old saying. Irrespective as to what Dun or Bradstreet may say to the contrary.

Immense Mountain of Salt.

In an island of San Domingo there is a remarkable salt mountain—a mass of crystalline salt, nearly four miles long, estimated to contain nearly 80,000,000 tons; and said to be so clear that medium-sized print can be read through a block's foot thick.

First Known Sculptors.

Bezaleel and Aholiab were the first sculptors on record, which was in 1491. B. C. Besides carving in stone and wood, these two artists devised beautiful works of gold and silver.

Roman Cookery.

The striking features of cookery among the rich Romans were: multiplicity of dishes, the destruction and waste of vast quantities of material, and the absolute disgusting of flavors by means of extraordinary combinations of highly seasoned sauces and gravies.
