YOUNG WOMAN HELD TO DISTRICT COURT

Valentine, Neb., Sep. 6.—Miss Eugenie Murphy, charged with inciting the murder of Charles Sellers, a ranchman of Cody, S. D., during the preliminary hearing today and bound over to the district court and denied bail. The accused young woman was very composed in court and smiled throughout the trial. Judge Quigley in refusing bail, asserted that he believed the woman as guilty as the men. The state is represented not only by County Attorney John M. Tucker, but by M. F. Harrington of O'Neill, whom the county commissioners engaged to aid in the prosecution of the four men charged with the murder and the girl charged with complicity. The defense is in the hands of Tyrell & Morrissey of Lincoln, and W. B. Kelly of Independence, Mo. Mr. Kelly and Mr. Morrissey were in charge of the girl's case today. Miss Murphy, on advice from her attorneys, has had little to say since she returned from Missouri and gave herself up to the authorities. The entire country is intensely interested in both the trial of the girl and of the four men, George B. Weed, Alma Weed, Harry Heath and Kenneth Murphy, all of whom have admitted that they hung Sellers to a telephone pole. The defense in the Murphy hearing contends that the girl had nothing to do with the killing, that she only complained to her brother and the other men that Sellers had been unduly annoying her. The state has two witnesses of importance, neighbors of the Murphy place, to whose house—according to the charges, she went and tried to persuade the men to go over to the bank and secure for her the papers which Sellers had deposited there. They are ready to testify, it is said, that she wanted these papers for herself. This latter fact the defendant will deny. The state has another witness of importance. This is the young girl who testified at the civil hearing, whose testimony was taken and told some things concerning Miss Murphy's conversation with the one that do not look so good for her. The case in question was a $10,000 suit for $10,000 brought against the four men. Depositions were to be taken and the Heath family, relatives and all, were subpoenaed to testify. All of them refused to answer on the ground that they might incriminate themselves except this 17-year-old girl, who persisted in making a clean breast of what she knew.

Justice Murphy is only 23 years of age. She possesses some property in Cody and the neighborhood. Sellers, the murdered man, is reported to have been worth $10,000, and the families of Heath and Murphy have the money to defend the case with vigor. The Heaths and the Murphys are related by marriage in a rather mixed-up manner. Harry Heath is reported to have told everything that occurred and he is likely to be used as a witness by the state when the trial of the men comes up. Heath and the two Weed boys are between 25 and 30 years old, but Murphy is but 18. In the murder trial that is to come off in October unless the defense can secure a continuance, the defense is confronted with the fact that all four of the men admit that they strung Sellers to the telephone pole. Two lines of defense are open: the one, that Sellers threatened to kill the four men and that they acted in self-defense; the other, that of emotional insanity. Sellers was unarmed and in bed when Alma Weed is said to have rushed in and dropped a gun on him. No overt act on his part at the time of the tragedy has been shown by the defense. The state will try to prove that all three men with Eugenie Murphy's brother or on the night of the hanging were enamored of the girl. The defense will attempt to show that Sellers was so badly in the same state that he was dangerous to all the others, and that he had told Hatch Jack that he would "get them." The four men are said to have argued after the killing, that Sellers had threatened them, they believed they had a right to hang him without any other grounds.

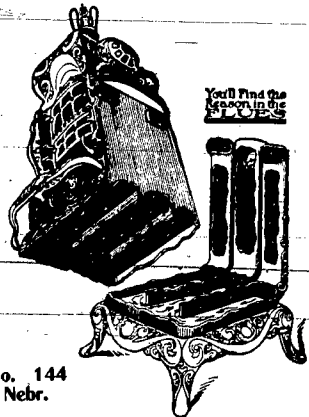

J. M. McClure and wife and daughter Miss Cora leave next Monday for Payson, Idaho, where they expect to make their home. Mr. McClure has not been west since he went to California by way of Nicaragua fifty years ago. He and his wife expect to spend two months this fall visiting at Eugene in Oregon. Special exhibit of new autumn styles in trimmed and tailored millinery, Friday and Saturday, September 15 and 16. Every one is cordially invited to inspect this big collection of the latest and most stylish designs in headgear. Mrs. Laura Ball. WANT RANDOLPH POSTOFFICE. Miss Jennie L. Dolan who is a piece of Dr. J. V. Williams of Wayne, and who is employed in a bank at Randolph, is an active candidate for the postoffice appointment in that city. Miss Dolan is a well-known and capable woman. An opposing applicant is H. H. Peck, editor of the Randolph Times.

Why we handle The FAVORITE

Being a Story of How we Were Convinced

First, we were attracted by the handsome appearance of the Favorite, but we did not decide to handle it for this reason alone, although we decided it was the most handsome base burner on the market. We wanted a better reason than an attractive looking stove, so we looked it over thoroughly, comparing it point by point with other base burners, and this is what we found: That the material from which it is made is all of the highest grades—the doors, mica frames and joints being absolutely air and paper tight. We were told the Favorite produced the most satisfactory results with about half as much coal as other base burners. We discovered this to be true. We found the reason to be in its Triple Exposed Flues. The sectional cut herewith explains these flues better than we can in words. The heat passes from the fire pot into the two outside down flues, across the bottom of the stove, under the ash pan, where it enters the central flue. It then passes back over the bottom and up the central flue to the chimney. Just think of this great radiating surface, and it is more than doubled, because the flues are SET OUT from the back of the stove. The flues therefore radiate from all sides, and the back of the stove radiates heat, also. This feature alone places the Favorite in a class by itself, making it the best and most economical heating stove in existence. But other features of its construction must not be overlooked. Would like to tell you all about them. Do not put off buying your heating stove until the cold days come. Come and see us now, and our Favorites will be your Favorite too.

Nearly forty men attended the monthly meeting of the Brotherhood Tuesday evening which was held under the auspices of the social department with Professor C. H. Bright at its head. Speeches, music and refreshments made a high-type, good-fellowship evening. Dr. T. B. VITAL OMISSION FROM RESOLUTIONS

In publishing the resolutions, commending the services of Mrs. Elsie Littell, county superintendent, and unanimously adopted by the late county teachers' institute, the Herald inadvertently omitted an important paragraph. The teachers not only praised her work in high terms, but included this appeal to the voters of Wayne county: "And be it further resolved, that we urge the voters of Wayne county to reelect Mrs. Littell to the office of county superintendent."

The Cry of the Guinea.
City folk visiting country neighbors where guinea fowl are kept have often wondered at the cry of those pretentious creatures. Probably no other member of the feathered tribes emits a cry as exasperating to human listeners as that of the guinea fowl. The average man rarely hears it without secretly longing to throttle the throat from which it came.

Yet it has its uses. Guinea fowl are the policemen of the poultry yard. They serve as guards to give other fowl warning of the approach of danger, whether it be in the form of thieves, dogs, hawks or crows. The cry of the guinea is said to be terrifying to hawks and other predatory birds, and it has prevented many a raid upon tempting flocks of poultry. But the fact remains that it is an affront to the human ear.

Romantic Ancient Mariners.
Among the ancient mariners the wildest superstitions were rife, but their beliefs in the existence of enchanted spots, such as the strenuous island of Salspso or of those islets which Sibald likened to the Gardens of Paradise, were more picturesque and romantic than the gloomy and prosaic imaginations which occupy the mind of the modern seaman.

KNOTS INSTEAD OF BUTTONS

Chinese Diplomat's Explanation of the Various Kinds Used by His Countrymen.

A Chinese diplomat, dressed in brocade silk, was sitting out a dance beside a fountain with a Bar Harbor girl.

"Yes," he admitted, "my dress is pretty, and one queer thing about it is that it has no buttons—only knots and knotholes."

He showed her the fastenings of his flame colored jacket.

"You see?" he said. "Short cords, each with a knot at the end, and on the other side a knothole, or, as you would say, a buttonhole. That is simpler than buttons, simpler and easier. Do you wear pajamas? Yes? Then you must know that what I say is so."

"On my pajamas," said the girl, laughing a little, "I have buttons and buttonholes, instead of knots and knotholes."

"How foolish of you!" said the diplomat. "But what I was going to say was that the knots we employ in place of buttons are of many kinds, and they have many names. There are plum blossom and cherry blossom knots for young girls' garments. Such you would wear. There are winter and snow knots for the aged. Soldiers have death knots."

"What kind of knots are yours?" the young girl asked.

"Mine?" he replied. "Oh, mine are just the usual married man's knots."

"And what are they called?" she pursued.

"Knots of resignation," he answered, with a sigh.

"An interesting program." "You think that the question of the cost of living can be solved by cheap sugar?" "Entirely," replied the elaborate logician. "Cheap sugar will promote the use of confectionery until every body's teeth are ruined, and then we will all be forced to eat the simplest foods."

Uncle Walt The Poet Philosopher

He's savage as a jay-jay bird that flops around with broken wing; he never says a friendly word, you never see him dance and sing.

J. PIERPONT MORGAN—He has a dark, forbidding scowl, he has a fierce, aggressive jaw; and when he speaks it's in a growl that jars you like a cross-cut saw. He looks around upon mankind as though he'd like to shy the race; the thoughts that foster in his mind are floated into upon his face. If money makes a man like that, and makes him hate to sing and dance, I'm glad I'm wearing last year's hat, and have large patches on my pants. If money freezes up the soul, and makes one hate his fellowman, the rich man's welcome to his roll—I would not be a money bag. When I go lumping down the street to buy a volume of "Old Sleuth," the greetings of the friends I meet warm up my heart, restore my youth. I would not give their friendly smiles, the shaking of their kindly hands, for all J. Pierpont's golden pies, and all his railways, yachts and lands.

joke all red with rust. And then I smote him with a chair and knocked him through the floor, determined as I felt that hair to go there never more. Ah, when will buoyant salesmen learn to give their jaws a rest, and know that customers don't yearn for quip and amount just? Ah, how I love the quiet clerk who sells me sealing wax, and keeps his mind upon his work, and sidesteps altogether.

THE EMINENT

Into our little burg there came a minister of words who had preached for half an hour; he—certainly was a scream; it was a vital theme, and it was treated with force and power. The folks from all the countryside had come to hear the pulpit's protest about some words of cheer; he drew big money for his speech—for less than that our pastor'd preach a quarter of a year. I saw our pastor standing by with admiration in his eye, a humble, shrinking man, who labors with us day by day and does his best to show the way, and teach salvation's plan. Our pastor knows what hunger's like; he makes long journeys on the pike to spring his gospel dove; he lifts the mourner's drooping head, and prays beside the dying bed of sinners shorn of hope. He knows us and our little spot; he talks us of the scheme that wins forgiveness in the end; he's been our comrade through the years, he shares our triumphs and our tears, he is our lullaby friend. God bless him in his humble path! I'll bet he cuts a wider swath than all these surplused lads, the church's famed and gifted stars who scoot around in private cars and lecture for the seeds!

WOMAN'S SUFFRAGE.

(Sixty in Lincoln Journal.)

Sometimes we feel like coming out strong for woman's suffrage, but when the frivolous weaknesses of the sex are strongly in evidence, we tremble at what might result from her enfranchisement. Her lack of interest in the sober affairs of government, her total indifference to her own political status, her love of idle gossip and other soul-destroying means of entertainment, all point to her incapacity for dealing with the troublesome affairs of state. Man seems to be the divinely ordained machine of government, and on his shoulders alone rests the awful responsibility of seeing that the annual deficit is provided for in the next year's budget. Let woman to her home repair, where she may toil unfettered; if she performs her duty there then will the earth be bettered. Her girls will be as bright again—a joy in every season—Her sons will grow to sturdy men, well fit to rule with reason.

The home life of the suffragette is something dark and dreary; No children in the house to fret Her nerves till she is weary. No husband answers to her call, No cooking stunts to bore her; No boy comes laughing through the hall To run his legs off for her.

She's monarch of one lonely room, Wherein she sleeps and dresses; While proudly traveling to the tomb She dreams of great successes. To rule the state is her intent, Which wears us cheap disguises, To crush, through female government, The men she so despises.

The suffragettes disturb my sleep And injure my digestion; In dreams I hear them wail and weep About the same old question. O woman, hear my sad request—Among the pots and kettles Get busy, let this subject rest, And learn to cook good victuals.

Pure government in every clime And every age has flourished And got on proudly every time Men's bones have been well nourished. In every government on earth Man has to evit-pandered, Because, dear woman, of a death Of cooking up to standard.

No government has been profaned, In all departed ages, Where men were nourished and sustained, We find that saints and sages Are born of what we eat and drink; Tommulous or quiet, Or dreadful bad, or good, I think, Are such because of diet.

"Where can I Get Clothes Like Yours?"

THIS is a question often asked of the man who wears Clothcraft Clothes. And the questioner—when he sees the surprisingly good style, the perfect fit, the shapely drape, the close fitting collar and smooth lapels—gives the the wearer credit for paying at least a third more than Clothcraft Clothes cost him.

When he is told that they are guaranteed all-wool and that this guarantee also covers good tailoring, lasting shape and service satisfaction, he is sure Clothcraft Clothes must be high-priced.

They would be if they were made by ordinary methods. But the Clothcraft manufacturers have been studying clothes making for 61 years and they have reduced it to a science.

Expensive, laborious methods have been simplified or replaced with new and original processes and devices that cut out waste, save time and cost of making and produce as good or better results.

This scientific tailoring permits you to have all-wool clothes, skillfully designed and carefully tailored, for less than you would believe you could get so much real clothes goodness for—$10 to $25, with special values at $15, $18 and $20.00.

Our fall line of Clothcraft is in—an announcement that will mean much to you when you once know these clothes.

May we make you acquainted?

A Great Advantage to Working Men.
J. A. Maple, 125 S. Seventh St., Stuebenville, O., says: "For years I suffered with weak kidneys and a severe bladder trouble. I learned of Foley's Kidney Pills and their wonderful cures so I began taking them and sure enough I had as good results as any I had heard about. My backache left me and to one of my business, expressman, that alone is a great advantage. My kidneys acted free and normal, and that saved me a lot of misery. It is now a pleasure to work where it used to be a misery. Foley Kidney Pills have cured me and have my highest praise."—For sale by Felber's Pharmacy.

A reverend Scotchman was going to hold forth to an open-air meeting. He sat down on a bank in which there was an ant's nest; the insects soon found their way into his "Oh, no, we never mention 'em's," and he said: "Brethren, though I hope I have the word of God in my mouth, I think the devil has got into my breeks."—Exchange.

he soaked me on mine. We owned our homes, were out of debt, had money in the bank, that day he lammed my trindle pet, and I gave him a spank. Awhile we stood around and cursed and wagged the flustig jaw, until, surcharged with deep disgust, we turned and went to law. O, that was hum and beastly sport! Our lawyers smooth and deft, conveyed the case from court to court, and taxed us right and left. Then to the poorhouse back we go, and seek our couch of straw, and think of joys we used to know before we went to law.

I went into a hardware store to buy a quire of nails. The clerk I dealt with was a bore, who told me dreary tales. He wore a large elastic smile that split his face in two; his jaw was going all the while, and when his stunt was through, I cried: "Cut out these verbal gales! Let all this talk be aimed! Lo, when a patron come for nails, you only hand him wind!" I went into the druggist's to buy some pickled-smoke; a languid salesman met me there, and said: "Say, here's a joke!" The attendance at the state fair last week was the largest in the history of the organization, and the exhibits and amusement attractions were better than ever. Such result reflects a healthy condition of the times in Nebraska.

The Columbus Tribune-Journal shows what it thinks of Frank Harrison, Lincoln politician and editor, by saying it is for Judge Hamer for supreme judge, because, for one reason, Harrison is against him. The opposition of Harrison may, therefore, be regarded a help to a man's political aspirations.

It is said that Lincoln complains that the state fair is held too early for its merchants to be greatly benefited by a rush of fall trade. The rest of the state will be pleased if there is ground for the complaint, and will oppose any change in the plan. It is not the intention of Nebraska people to support a state fair purely for the profit of Lincoln retail dealers.

Tomorrow President Taft starts out on his long speech-making tour of the country. His object, let us explain the words of the national administration and give the public a clearer understanding of things done and to be done. The masses are interested in knowing the facts, and should not be led by the claptrap of scheming politicians to condemn the president.

The suggestion that Beulah Binford, the notorious young woman associated with the depravity of young Bontlie, convicted of murdering his wife, would now go on the stage in New York, has aroused an outcry of protest on the part of the good women of the eastern metropolis. To parade a character of the Binford type is properly regarded an insult to noble womanhood.

It is unfortunate that union-ridden California couldn't enjoy a railroad strike without involving other parts of the country that are not looking for trouble nor anxious for it. Railroad men outside of the coast country seem disposed to postpone enforcement of the fine distinction of recognition for their federation until a more propitious time.

Congressman J. E. Latta whose death occurred at Rochester Monday, had lived in Nebraska forty-eight years, and was respected as a citizen of highest integrity. He was a banker, and a clear headed, dependable business man. While he was not an orator, and did not presume to attract attention through gifts of speech, he was an active, conscientious worker, and when a constituent wrote him for information or a favor he responded promptly and obligingly. The big majority he received on his re-election a year ago attests to the esteem in which he was held. Regardless of party affiliations, people keenly regret his death.

In several judicial districts of the state, the non-partisan policy of electing members of the bench is being practiced. The following democrats were not only nominated by their own party but by the republicans: Judge Travis in the Second district, Judge Hollenbeck in the Sixth district, Judge Graves in the Eighth district, and Judge Westover in the Sixteenth district. On the other hand these republicans were nominated by democrats: Judge Hostetler in the Twelfth district, Judge Grimes in the Thirteenth district, and Judge Hobart in the Seventeenth district. Accordingly in this district Judge A. A. Welch's excellent record on the bench has made him deserving of re-election without opposition.

One late report states that Senator LaFollette has decided to wait until after congress meets in December before deciding definitely whether he will be a candidate for the presidency or not. He professes to want to see whether President Taft's coming message is radical enough to suit his taste before determining his own course. We supposed his candidacy had been sanctioned by him months ago—an impression rather encouraged by the activity of his boomers in different parts of the country. As a matter of fact, nothing the president can say or do will satisfy LaFollette. He wants to be president, and he will be a candidate if he thinks, there will be a ghost of a show to win the nomination.

FILES OBJECTION.

Mr. Editor:—Did you notice that many daily papers all over the country on Monday evening and Tuesday had in big headlines: "Maine Goes Wet," while on Wednesday they placed in obscure corners and among want ads: "Maine Continues Dry Policy." Is this journalism?—J. T. House.

No, we didn't happen to see one paper to which the above criticism could be justly made. The papers coming to this department gave about the same prominence to the announcement that Maine had gone dry as it did to the report that it had gone wet. But revaluation of sentiment that would change Maine from dry to wet after an experience of over fifty years would no doubt be considered of sufficient interest to entitle it to flaming headlines as a new feature. Prominence given news does not necessarily reflect the bias of a newspaper.

A recent number of The Journal of the American Medical association gives an example of the spread of a loathsome and incurable disease as a result of young people kissing one another at a party. Six young women caught the disease by kissing one young man. Indiscriminate kissing ought to be stopped. It is senseless when not dangerous, and often dangerous when there is no apparent ground for fear or suspicion. And the liberty taken in kissing children is the limit of indiscretion. Children have no desire to be kissed by people who are not closely connected with them by relationship, and yet they are often made the helpless victims of fond individuals who think they can't show their affection without an osculatory demonstration. A man or woman whose breath is strong enough to kill vegetation, will kiss a little child as though granting a great favor. The wholesome little creature, though fearing to manifest its displeasure, secretly despises being kissed, especially if the offending breath is in the last stages of decay. The occasional danger attending kissing is really enough to condemn its indiscriminate practice among both old and young.

The death of Congressman Latta of this district calls for the choice of a man to fill the vacancy at the general election in November. Reports as to how nominations shall be made vary. One report states that a primary must be held, and another that nominations may be made by either a convention or party central committee. But however the law governing in such an emergency may be construed, a congressman will be elected, and political parties will be expected to bring forth men whom they deem fitted to represent the district. Dan V. Stephens of Fremont, prominent in democratic circles for a number of years, is expected to be a candidate for the democratic nomination, and others in that party may also feel deserving of the nomination and make an effort for it. As to candidates in republican ranks, no reports thus far reveal the identity of those likely to enter the race. Wayne has never had a member of congress, and its prominence in the district makes it feel that it is entitled to such recognition. In that connection, locally, County Attorney A. B. Davis is mentioned. His acquaintance has steadily extended with his practice, and his ability and genial manner have invariably won favor. If he should decide to be a candidate, he would find active and loyal support in Wayne county.

Three brokers walking in William street were attracted by four stuffed birds in a dingy window, says the New York Sun. One bet the two others that neither could name all four.

SHE WAS EXPERT SHOPPER

Clerks in Aitchison Store Were Awestricken by Skill of the Woman Customer. Early this morning a thin, well-dressed woman walked rapidly into an Aitchison dry goods store where a big sale was going on.

ARE FRIENDS OF THE FARMER

Blackbirds and Other Feathered Creatures Feed on Insects That Destroy Crops. A number of years ago blackbirds were exceedingly abundant through eastern Nebraska. They were so plentiful that the farmers believed they were damaging crops, so they began poisoning the birds.

HAS THEORY OF STONEHENGE

Professor Norton of Harvard Believes It Connected With Similar Erections in North Africa. Prof. Richard Norton of Harvard is credited with the theory that the Egyptian structures at Stonehenge are connected with similar erections that are found in northern Africa.

OMISSIONS OF WRITES

Senator Martine of New Jersey - "The farmer's motto," as it is his pride to be called, was relating in Washington memories of his farm life. "What quaint minds," he said, "have those New Jersey colored folk who work New Jersey's farms: I remember an old uncle who once passed in a job of potato hoeing in his days, the praise of chicken."

MIGHT HAVE BEEN WORSE

A clerk in a Washington street hotel says the Boston Traveler, tells this story: "My first hotel job was in a Texas city. One morning a guest who had been celebrating unwisely the night before swayed up to the desk and asked for some information."

MUTTEN A MUSCLE BUILDER

Dr. W. W. Burbank, graduate manager of the Stanford university student body, in researches for more nutritious proteins upon which to feed the variety football squad, has discovered that mutton contains a large portion of muscle-bearing protein. He has purchased 15 sheep and is fattening them.

FORTUNATE

"This germ theory causes a great deal of anxiety and apprehension." "Yes," replied the man who worries over the climate, "sometimes a little restfulness is beneficial. It's lucky that we can't use a microscope of hand the same as we do a thermometer."

THE TARIFF BOARD
The Chicago Tribune, a paper that has often seemed radical, supports President Taft's veto of the late tariff bills in the following editorial:
"President Taft's main reason for vetoing the tariff bills passed by the extra session was that congress should await the report of the tariff board on the schedules affected."
"What are the functions of the tariff board, and how did it come into existence? What is its personnel? These questions should be answered, so that the president's attitude may be better understood."
"The platform on which he was elected declared for the 'imposition of such (tariff) duties as will equal the difference between the cost of production at home and abroad, together with a reasonable profit to American industries.' This called for the framing of a tariff on scientific principles—on facts rather than the interested claims of manufacturers."
"There was no machinery to secure the information which the platform required. Senator Beveridge's efforts for the creation of a tariff commission were futile. But the Payne-Aldrich act, faulty because of the lack of accurate information, had a clause authorizing the president to employ such persons as might be required to secure information to assist him in the discharge of duties imposed by the act. He utilized that clause and created a tariff board of three members to get information as to comparative cost of production."
"A bill to create a non-partisan tariff commission to do the work the tariff board has been doing just failed of passage at the short session of the last congress. Ample provision was made, however, for the continuance of the work of the tariff board, to which at that time the president added two members—both democrats. The full board has been hard at work since then. Its exclusive duty is to ascertain the difference in cost of production between the products of this country and the same products abroad. How thoroughly it has done this, as far as it has gone, is evidenced by its report on the printing paper industry in Canada and the United States."
"Now as to the personnel of the board: Henry C. Emery of Connecticut, was for some time professor of political economy at Bowdoin college. He is author of 'Speculation on the Stock and Produce Exchanges of the United States.' He has been rather more of a democrat than a republican."
"James B. Reynolds of New York, set out as a student of social problems. He was head worker of the New York City university settlement, a member of the governor Roosevelt's state treatment house commission, special adviser to the president on municipal affairs in the district of Columbia, member of the presidential commission to investigate the Chicago stock yards, and assistant secretary of the treasury. From that last office he was transferred to the tariff board."
"Mr. Alvin Sanders of Illinois needs no introduction to westerners. He has for thirty years been identified with the 'Breeders' Gazette. He knows all about the live stock industry of the country."
"Now for the last two members."
"William M. Howard of Georgia, a lawyer by profession, was for twelve years a member of congress from that state and when he was retired was ranking democratic member of the committee on foreign relations."
"Thomas Walker Page of Virginia, after years of study in American and European educational institutions, became dean of the department of economics in the University of California. Subsequently he was head of the same department in the university of Texas, and when appointed on the tariff board was professor of economics at the university of Virginia."
"This is the tariff board. It is not made up of politicians or doctrinaires but of men whose training has fitted them for this special work. The data they are collecting will be submitted to congress next December by the president with the recommendation that they be made the basis of tariff revision."

These are the doctors you no doubt have read about. While you may not know them personally, you may know them by reputation, or through some of your neighbors they have treated.
The remarkable success of these talented physicians in the treatment of chronic diseases has aroused much enthusiasm in the northwest.
This is said to be and no doubt is true one of the most able specialists' organizations of its kind in this section of the country, and may be a successful one for the many good results they are getting.

The Associated Doctors, licensed by the state of Nebraska for the treatment of deformities and nervous and chronic diseases of men, women and children offer to all who call on them, consultation, examination and advice free.
It is especially requested that married ladies come with their husbands and mothers with their parents.
The name, "Associated Doctors," is what it implies, a union of specialists, twelve in number, that have gotten together for the treatment of chronic and nervous diseases. Not to be understood that they treat all diseases that the human body is heir to. They mean to be very careful in selecting and taking cases as they want good results, which mean good returns in the way of their patients recommending them to others.
They estimate that over eighty per cent of the patients now coming to them come from recommendations of those they have treated.
They do not treat any acute diseases whatever, their time and attention being devoted to such diseases as follows:
Diseases of the stomach, intestines, liver, blood, skin, nerves, heart, spleen, kidneys or bladder, rheumatism, sciatica, diabetes, bed wetting, leg ulcers, weak lungs and those afflicted with long standing, deep seated, chronic diseases that have baffled the skill of the family physicians, should not fail to call.
According to their system, no more operations for appendicitis, gall stones, tumors or goitre. They were among the first in America to earn the name of the "Bloodless Surgeons," by doing away with knife, with blood and with all pain in the successful treatment of these dangerous diseases.

Quality vs. Price
There are numberless persons who think if they get goods at a low price, that they are getting them very cheaply. Others who pay an extremely high price, think they are buying Quality with a great big "Q". The facts are, that neither party is getting value received for money expended. One pays for name, the other pays for nothing.
Now with us you only pay for what you get, at a reasonable price. You pay for QUALITY when you buy Wayne Flour, and you get Quality. You can buy our flour anywhere. Insist on getting it. If you cannot get it send to the Wayne Roller Mills for it. The good old wheat is what makes the flour and we are still grinding it.

TO AILING WOMEN.
A Little Sound Advice Will Help Many a Sufferer in Wayne.
No woman can be healthy and well if the kidneys are sick. Persons that pass off in the secretions when the kidneys are well are retained in the body when the kidneys are sick. Kidneys and bladder become inflamed and swollen and worse troubles quickly follow. This is often the true cause of bearing down pains, lameness, backache, etc. Eric poisoning also causes headache, dizzy spells, languor, nervousness and rheumatic pain.
When suffering so, try Doan's Kidney Pills a remedy that has cured thousands of such cases. You will get better as the kidneys get better and health will return when the kidneys are well. Let a Wayne woman tell you about Doan's Kidney Pills.
Mrs. D. S. McVicker of Wayne, Neb., says: "I used Doan's Kidney Pills a few years ago when I was suffering from dull pains across the small of my back and a bearing down feeling in my loins. This remedy cured me and at that time I publicly told of my experience. I am now willing to confirm my former statement."
