NORFOLK WINS FROM WAYNE IN FOOTBALL

LOCALS DESERVE BIG CREDIT

Visitors Too Heavy for Them—Norfolk Team Fails to Reach High Record of Season.

Norfolk 18, Wayne 0.
The above is the record of the last game of the football season in which our high school went down to defeat after a gallant fight against great odds. Wayne has this bit of comfort, that the team cut down the score as compared to that which Norfolk made earlier in the season. At one time it looked as if Wayne would surely make one touchdown against her fast and heavy opponents. Concerning one score there was some dispute and some hot heads started to "mix it." The good sense of the crowd speedily put an end to that. In any exciting game a player is apt to do that of which he is wholly unconscious. It is the business of the officials to settle such matters and only foolish people will charge an opposing team with trying to win by unfair means. The penalties provided under the new rules are too severe for a team to risk unfair play.

The Norfolk boys put up a clean game as did Wayne's team. Marsteller, Mines and Strahan were the local stars. Wayne has won five games, tied one and lost two this season, and the boys, the school and coach Leavens have all reason to felicitate themselves on the satisfactory outcome.

POLICY OF SCHOOL MAKING UP LOST TIME

The school children feel that the school board "put one over on them," employing a slang phrase, when they were required to attend school the two days following Thanksgiving in order to make up for the time given the teachers to attend the meeting in Omaha. The board undoubtedly figured that its duty to the district from a business standpoint made it necessary to have the teachers put in full time, though it is probable no member thinks the upsetting of the customary vacation for Thanksgiving week was of any educational value to the students.

The student whose extra application to duty would not more than make up in the regular time for the days lost at a usual vacation, would not meet expectations if he attended school seven days of the week. While holding school Friday and Saturday put in time in a perfunctory manner, it was worth nothing to education or discipline. The plan was purely commercial.

Besides, the district is undoubtedly compensated in abundance for allowing the teachers time to attend the state meeting. They acquire new ideas and renewed inspiration at such a meeting, and the schools which they teach, get the benefit. The amount of learning a student will gain or a teacher impart cannot be measured by the actual time devoted to the school room, and teachers who are accorded the benefit of a state meeting or students who are given usual periods of recreation, are more likely to go about their work cheerfully and earnestly, and secure infinitely better results. Educational accomplishments are not guaranteed as one guarantees the amount of flour or potatoes that will run him for a month. The kind of application on the part of the student is more important than full measurement of time devoted to the school room.

From a business standpoint the school board guarded the interests of the district with commendable zeal. From the viewpoint of educating and benefiting the students, the policy was mistaken economy.

CADILLAC CAR MAKES QUICK TRIP TO PONCA

John T. Bressler, Judge James Britton, Professor J. T. House, William Von Seggern and E. W. Huse drove to Ponca, forty miles, distant, last Sunday in the Von Seggern Auto Co.'s splendid Cadillac car. The return trip was made in one hour and forty minutes. William Von Seggern is an expert driver, and with good roads, the automobile ran as smoothly as a Pullman car. The corn crop in Dixon county is evidently big. Huge piles of corn are stacked in farm yards, and an idea of the value of the product may be gathered by consulting the market price. "That one stack of corn," observed Judge Britton in passing, "would if converted into whiskey and properly distributed, insure the supremacy of the democratic party in Dixon county." The sojourn of the travelers in Ponca was regretfully so short that they saw few people in that interesting town.

The Home of Hart Schaffner & Marx Good Clothes

THE one important thing in giving Christmas presents to a man—old or young—is to give something he really wants; that's really the important thing in giving to anybody.

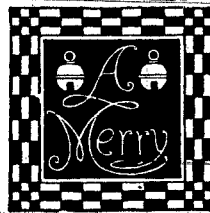

The one difficult thing with a man is to find out what he really wants. You can't find out from him; he either won't say, or he doesn't know what he wants; "doesn't want anything."

The Lincoln Journal suggests that it is now almost too late to do your Christmas shopping early.

We would like to see the suit to restrain the city from building the proposed city hall magnanimously dropped, and the council get together and push the improvement along harmoniously. The way to build a city is to pull together, and strictly avoid any semblance of trying to either rule or obstruct. No progress is made without reasonable concessions and compromises. No one person can have everything done to exactly suit him. The broad view patches up differences, and opens the way for advancement.

Scheming politicians give nothing of value to society. Their efforts do not stimulate business, help the markets, increase opportunities or compensation for labor, nor heighten civilization and spread sunshine and happiness. They are watching for political advantages, big or little, that will accrue to their pecuniary benefit. To them, the welfare of the people is comparatively unimportant. With them, the effect of a piece of legislation on the country is not so essential as the effect it will have on their plans for selfish ends. We need fewer scheming politicians and more genuine statesmen.

The fact that Congressman-elect Dan Stephens is on hand for the opening of congress reminds us that his memory should be jogged in regard to a bill looking to a federal building in Wayne. It would be advisable for the Wayne Commercial club to get into correspondence not only with Congressman Stephens but with the Nebraska senatorial delegation. All possible influences should be brought to bear to secure the improvement so greatly needed here. The Commercial club should take the lead, and not slow up until success is assured.

Mose Warner of the Lyons Mirror and Mark Murray of the Pender Times accuse the editor of the Pender Republic of having, three or four years ago, called President Taft a "big, fat slob." The Republic editor, who is now postmaster at Pender, denies their specific charge, though admitting that he opposed Taft's nomination for the presidency. Mose Warner claims to have a memory that is as sensitive and retentive as a phonograph, and that whatever he has read in the last forty years he can reel off his tongue with perfect exactitude. He calls on the Republic editor to disclose the files of his paper to prove or refute the allegation, and the latter retorts that he will comply if Warner and Murray will pursue the investigation with gentlemanly behavior, which the accused, from present experience, evidently thinks is unlikely. Having become head of the federal department at Pender, the Republic editor is made especially sensitive to the charge. Whatever the Pender postmaster-editor said about Taft, he probably did not mean more than to indicate that he was well fortified with fat and muscles—an equipment very necessary for a president at a time when people are restless and ready to use him as a target for surplus abuse.

John B. McNamara adds a confession to his plea of guilty in connection with dynamiting the Los Angeles Times building. He says it was his intention to injure the building and scare the owners, but "not to take the life of anyone." But his act of villainy destroyed twenty-one lives, and darkened the homes of those who were dependent on the unfortunate men who were working in the building at the time of the explosion. Certain union labor men have seemed to feel that they were engaged in a war that justified any means regardless of the injury or suffering to non-combatants and innocents. In open warfare, civilization prescribes certain rules of fairness, and is safer for society than secret and unexpected bursts of anarchy operating under cover of night, and carrying death to laboring men who are making an honorable and laudable effort to earn a livelihood. It would seem that all the malevolent hate of Tartarus possessed a man who would do what McNamara did. It is a blessing to orderly society that a revelation was made.

The plea of guilty on the part of the McNamaras, charged with blowing up the Los Angeles Times plant and committing murder, has caused a profound sensation. These men were being supported in their fight against conviction by the union labor of the country. Nearly $200,000 had been raised by the unions for their defense. It had been charged that the prosecution was a "frameup," a diabolical conspiracy on the part of capital to convict the McNamaras in order to deal a blow to the unions. While labor organizations were expressing sympathy for the accused men and pouring money into a fund for their defense, the attorneys for the defendants found themselves confronted by an insuperable wall of convincing evidence and accordingly advised a plea of guilty. The labor unions find that they have been misrepresented and betrayed by the McNamaras, and now urge the limit of the law instead of modified penalties in accordance with a reported understanding between the state and the defense. Establishing guilt without question will no doubt temper the feeling and methods of both union labor and capital, and have a generally salutary effect on society. This feeling has been especially tense on the Pacific coast, and something has been needed to bring about the exercise of more peaceful and humane policies of all contending elements.

AN IDEAL NEWSPAPER.

Mayor Gaynor of New York, has some notions about running newspapers, and expresses his ideal as follows:

"A newspaper should show that there is a gentlemanly control of it.

"A newspaper should be true—its motives fair.

"If the facts are not known, an editorial should not be written.

"He should confine his expressions of opinion to the editorial columns.

"Headlines should be accurate and introduction stripped of verbiage.

"It would be a good thing if all articles were signed.

"The news columns should give all political news without regard to party.

"Readers do not want all the testimony in divorce trials and sensational criminal cases.

"A decent, well-bred official should not be cartooned as a ruffian and a loafer."

In part his standard is exemplified by many papers. In saying that readers do not want the testimony in sensational court trials, he is probably mistaken. It is doubtless true, however, that society would be better off if the details of crime and certain court proceedings were kept out of the papers. The general character of a paper, editorially and otherwise, cannot be made to rise higher in worthy aims and noble influences than the character of the editor. If he is purely mercenary and selfish, he will look only to material gain and care little for the impression for good or evil he makes on the public. If his standard of morality is not high, he will be indifferent to the moral influence of his journal on society. If on the contrary, his habits of thinking and living are of a high order, he will guard against evil suggestions and seek to influence for betterment as much as possible.

Cured in Her Own Home Town.

Kearney, Neb. Mrs. Belle Harlan, 1818 8th Ave., tells the way for her fellow townsmen to be cured of their kidney and bladder ailments, as she was cured. "I had a severe attack of kidney trouble when I heard of Foley Kidney Pills and took them. I had a severe pain across my back and felt miserable and all played out, but after taking Foley Kidney Pills the pain left my back and I felt greatly improved and once more full of life. Today I am glad to say I am free from kidney trouble and gladly recommend Foley Kidney Pills to all who suffer, as they cured me."

BOY RUNNING RACE KILLED BY AN AUTO.

Sioux City, Ia., December 4.—Unconscious of his danger, George McNamara, aged 12 years, of Long Pine, Neb., who had been in Sioux City for less than an hour was instantly killed at 5:15 Saturday afternoon, midway between Market and Sioux streets on West Fourth street, when struck by Frederick W. Klaas' automobile. Death was due to a fracture of the base of the skull. The automobile was driven by Mr. Klaas.

George, accompanied by his brother, William McNamara, aged 15 years, arrived in Sioux City at 4:30 o'clock and went to the home of their uncle, E. A. Bussey, 406 West Fourth street. The lads intended to make their home with the Bussey family during the winter, and were to enter the St. Boniface Catholic school Monday morning. R. E. McNamara, father of George and William, a farmer at Long Pine, a few years ago was patrol driver on the Sioux City police department.

After greeting their relatives, the youngsters set out with Albert Bussey, aged 12 years, acting as guide, to enjoy a run through the neighborhood streets and alleys before the evening meal. The return trip was made through an alley. When within a block north of the Bussey home a race was suggested.

The boys, running at their highest rate of speed, William and the young Bussey leading George by several feet, reached the opening of the alley. The two leaders saw the approaching automobile and turned to the side, but too late to warn George. The lad, probably his only thought being of winning the race, ran ahead and was struck on the head by the projection of the right front spring of the car. The body was thrown to the pavement several feet to the right of the place of the collision.

WAYNE YOUNG MAN IS HURT IN SIOUX CITY

Sunday's Sioux City Journal gave this account of the injury of George Biegler, son of A. J. Biegler of Wayne: "George Biegler, 810 West Fifth St., a shoveler employed by the Lytle construction company, on the Bennett building, Sixth and Nebraska streets, is at the Samaritan hospital, suffering internal injuries caused when he was pinched between the neckyoke of a wagon and the posts which support a large stationary engine on the Nebraska street side of the building. The accident occurred just after the victim had guided the hauling of a load of dirt from the excavation to the street level, by means of a wire cable operated by the engine. Biegler made an effort to unhook the cable as usual, but placed himself in an unprotected position.

"Fellow employes carried Biegler from the street to the curb, and then to the Lytle offices, when it was seen that his injury was serious. Dr. C. A. Katherman attended him there, and he had the injured man removed to the hospital. The abdomen was badly pinched, although only a small abrasion of the skin was found. The extent of internal injuries is not determined as yet.

"Biegler was reported to be resting easy last night."

Monday's Journal makes this more favorable report of his condition:

"George Biegler, a painter, living at 810 West Fifth St., who was hurt in an accident at the new Bennett building at Sixth and Nebraska streets Saturday afternoon, is recovering at the Samaritan hospital. It is not now thought that his internal injuries will prove serious."

Not A Museum

No, we are not conducting a grocery museum; our shelves are not laden with an exhibition of dead stock. We are not handling mummified commodities to attract the modern buying public. It's the morgue that deals in the "dead ones," not so here. Every grocery item is a real "live one," continually going into consumption, and not a day passes our supply is not replenished with fresh goods from the market. The popularity of this store, why it meets with public favor, is due to our service and a dependable line which the housewife knows will meet with her approval. To know we have the confidence of the buying public means much to us. To be assured that our patrons feel that shopping done by Little Johnnie, or "over the phone" receives careful attention and prompt service to their entire satisfaction, suggests our well defined policy of good goods, one price to all and every purchaser his money's worth, has been accepted in its full sense.
