NEW OWNERSHIP OF THE GERMAN STORE

MILDNER AND WARNER RETIRE

Their Interests Bought by J. H. Wendt of Wynot—Possession Given Tuesday Morning.

A deal was completed Monday for the sale of a majority interest in the German Store by Herman Mildner and George Warner to J. H. Wendt, former merchant and postmaster at Wynot, Neb. The remaining partner in the business is Mr. Furchner. Possession was given Tuesday. The plans of Messrs. Mildner and Warner who retire, are indefinite.

Mr. Wendt, who is now two-thirds owner of the German Store, grew to manhood in Dixon county, and is a young man of excellent character and sound business judgment. Until recently he was the proprietor of a store at Wynot, and as evidence of his high personal standing, it may be said that he was the choice for postmaster of that place.

The German Store is valuable property and Mr. Wendt is to be congratulated over his acquisition of it. He deserves to be cordially welcomed to the Wayne business circles. He announces that he will be pleased to meet old and new patrons of the store. He will occupy the residence lately vacated by John Harrington.

SOCIAL EVENTS.

The Tuesday club meets with Mrs. F. Lando Adams next week.

Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Walter will entertain a leap year party at their home tomorrow evening.

The Westminister Guild met with Miss Kate Gamble Friday night. Current events were discussed.

The Eastern Star lodge will have a special meeting next Monday evening to initiate candidates, and a large attendance is desired.

The Aerie club met with Mrs. B. Tuesday afternoon, and studied Scotland's Ireland. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Bresler.

The Bridge Whist club met with Miss Helen McNeal Tuesday evening. Light refreshments were served. The next meeting will be held with Mrs. William Mellor.

The U. D. club met with Mrs. Ray Reynolds Monday afternoon, and after a social time, light refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. May Cunningham Hudson was a guest of honor.

A number of young people have been invited to a party at the home of Miss Hallie Lamberson, this evening, in honor of her birthday anniversary. There will be games, music and refreshments, and a good time generally.

The Shakespeare club met with Miss Nettie Craven Tuesday evening, and studied the usual lesson. A new member, Miss Jowell, joined the club. Light refreshments were served at the close of the lesson. The next meeting will be held with Mrs. Phillips at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Higcox.

Members of the Chess club gave Arthur Norton a happy surprise last Thursday night by gathering at his residence, the occasion being his birthday anniversary. Chess furnished amusement, and was followed by the serving of a light luncheon.

The Ladies' Aid society of the M. E. church will meet Thursday, January 25, at the home of Mrs. T. B. Heckert, and will devote the afternoon to "tea and talk." Mrs. Heckert will be assisted in the serving by Mrs. P. C. Crockett, Mrs. G. W. Crossland, Mrs. Howard Whalen and Mrs. E. T. Renick.

Margaret Mines celebrated her tenth birthday last Saturday by entertaining a party of friends. At the close of an enjoyable afternoon refreshments were served, in which Misses Byrdice Marsteller and Louise Bow assisted the young hostess. Guests: Alice Blair, May Hines, Eloise Miner, Ruth Jones, Helen Turpin, Helen Faiber, Helen Main, Winifred Main, Faith Phelan, Nora Hosha, Effie Carpenter, Marsaline Lewis, and Alice Lewis.

The Monday club met with Mrs. Charles Beebe this week, and occupied the afternoon with current events and a book review. Next week the club will meet with Mrs. Chace, and an interesting feature will be the reading of letters from absent members. Letters are from the following: Mrs. Bahn of New York, Mrs. White of Des Moines, Mrs. Epler of Twin Falls, Idaho, and Mrs. Lettesing of San Diego, Cal.

Mrs. Harry Craven entertained her school day chums with a six o'clock

DUROC JERSEY SALE AT STOCK PAVILION

SALE OF HIGH GRADE PIGS

Notwithstanding Disagreeable Weather and Absence of Field Men, Sale is Success.

William Morgan's sale of pure-bred Durroc Jersey pigs last Saturday marked the opening of the new stock pavilion in Wayne, and though the day was cold and disagreeable 300 people were in attendance. The auctioneer and field men engaged to attend the sale, could not get here on account of delayed train service and were a source of disappointment to Mr. Morgan. They attended Robert Fritchard's sale at Carroll the day before, but instead of coming to Wayne as they should have done, they drove to Winnside and took the train for Norfolk, expecting to come to this place the next day. The result was the trains did not run on time, and they could not get here.

Mr. Morgan employed Messrs. E. & D. H. Cunningham, well known Wayne auctioneers, and started the sale on time. The forty head of pigs offered brought an average price of $30.10. Following is the record of the sale: No. 7, Vero—Victor Carlson, $40. No. 12, fall gilt—F. W. Bowden, Wisner, $21. No. 25, gilt—Gertrude Wallace, Wisner, $42. No. 10, gilt—Robert Fritchard, Carroll, $37.50. No. 20, gilt—Ray Hurst, $41. No. 17, gilt—George Huskirk, Pender, $45. No. 2, Curly—Ray Hurst, $26. No. 19, gilt—Robert Leisy, Wisner, $41. No. 26, winter gilt—Willie Meyer, $25. No. 5, Miss Model—Will Pond, $25. No. 8, Prudence—W. J. Braselton, Harlan, Ia., $37. No. 16, fall gilt—E. Shade, Kingsley, Ia., $35. ## SCHOOL NOTES.

The debating and declaiming preliminaries will be held soon. This week ends the first semester's work. Half of the school year is gone. Regular gymnasium work will be added to the high school course next semester.

On Friday morning, January 26, the ninth grade will debate the woman suffrage question. Basket ball practice every evening after school. Watch for the announcement of games. Examinations this week Thursday and Friday. The semester reports will be out next week.

A high school orchestra has been organized. Practice on Wednesday afternoon at the school.

Next semester we will have new classes in Agriculture, Botany, Physiology, Plane and Solid Geometry and English.

Last Friday morning, with Henry Soles presiding, the tenth grade debated the following question: "Resolved, that term examinations should be abolished." Fern Oman and Nellie Gustafson had the affirmative side and Earl Schorer and Irwin Sears had the negative.

Dr. J. J. Williams was in Sioux City Tuesday to be present at an operation performed for his nephew, John Dolan, of Norfolk. The young man recovered from the operation in as good condition as expected, and has since been improving satisfactorily.

Misses Goldie Chace, Marjorie Kohl and Marguerite Heckert, and Tracy Kohl, J. M. Strahan and Paul Mines went to Winslow Saturday to attend a Leap year club dance given there that evening. They returned Sunday afternoon.

A. D. Merriman who has a public sale January 23, is planning to move to Haskell county, Mo., where he expects to buy a farm. Mr. Merriman was one of the first settlers of Wayne county, and his friends will not expect him to be satisfied to live anywhere else.

Dr. T. R. Heckert went to Omaha Friday to visit his brother-in-law, John Stuphy, who passed through an operation at a hospital on Saturday. It will be remembered that Mr. Stuphy sustained injuries in a fall some time ago and has since been under the care of a physician.

John T. Brossier is trading some Texas land for residence property in Peshawar, Cal., where he will thus be provided with quarters if he desires to go there to spend any future winter that seems severe in this country. He doesn't intend to go this year, figuring that the present winter is altogether too mild to feel the need of a change to California.

W. C. Pond who returned recently from the Big Horn Basin in Wyoming, is planning to move there about March 1. While there he bought eighty acres of irrigated land near Powell, and believes his investment will increase steadily in value. He says big crops of alfalfa, grain, sugar beets and vegetables are grown there. Ben Elliott who moved last year to some irrigated land which he bought near Powell, is well satisfied with his location.

A number of newspapers in north-east Nebraska published a page advertisement for a Sioux City store last week, and the little home advertising showing would seem to justify the policy of selling space to outside dealers who feel the need of publicity and are willing to pay for it at regular rates. The papers conclude that loyalty to home institutions does not warrant turning a deaf ear to outside firms when there is no other demand for space. If home dealers figure it will do them no harm to advertise, they cannot consistently figure that it will do them any harm if outside firms advertise in their territory.

A letter to the Herald from J. H. Goll, formerly of Wayne, now of Waterville, Wash., states that members of the Wayne colony are in good health aside from S. B. Russell and Uncle Henry Miller of Lakeside who have not been well of late, though the last he heard from them they were recovering satisfactorily. He says there is about a foot of snow on the level. As proof that the Wayne colony won't die out, Mr. Goll mentions that a boy was born recently to Mr. and Mrs. Mrs. Richards. Miss Mary Getman of Wayne, recently visited the colony and enjoyed herself. Mr. Goll says he has built a new house, George Leisack a new barn, and Guy Richards a new house in town where he lives. Mr. Goll wishes to be remembered to his Wayne friends.

To say that West Point has resuscitated as an advertising town would imply that it had been alive in that respect at some time in the past which would misrepresent the facts. To say that it has come to life as an advertiser would be more nearly correct. Until last week, West Point dealers have unanimously refrained from newspaper advertising. Last week the publication was full of attractive advertisements from home dealers, and no doubt to avoid possible heart failure on the part of readers, on seeing such a unexpected broadside of mercantile enterprise, the Republican explains that a local organization of business men is the cause, and the plan is to make an effort for business and not leave the territory for the uncontested activity of outside advertisers.

COMMISSIONERS' PROCEEDINGS. Wayne, Neb., January 10, 1912. Board met as per adjournment. All members present.

This being the day advertised and fixed for the opening of bids for the furnishing of culverts and lumber for the use of Wayne county for the year 1912, whereupon at the hour of 1 o'clock p. m. board proceeded to the opening of bids.

The Nebraska Culvert and Manufacturing company of Wahoo, Neb., was found to have the lowest and best bids on culverts and they were awarded the contract.

Wayne Lumber Co., of Lincoln, was awarded the contract for all lumber adjacent to the territory of Wayne. L. C. & G. A. Mittlestadt of Winslow were awarded the contract for all lumber adjacent to the territory of Wakefield. Whereupon board adjourned to January 10, 1912.

CHAS. W. REYNOLDS, Clerk. "He means well," is about the best kind of apology you can expect your friends to offer for you, if you put that sort of thing up to them.

Sale Begins Friday, Jan. 19

Sale Ends, January 31

Mrs. W. R. Riley and Miss E. Dionson of Bloomfield, stopped in Wayne on their way home from Norfolk where they visited the family of N. S. Westrove.

James McJotish is feeding a large lot of cattle on his farm just north of Wayne. He bought a quantity of corn breaker. Plinters were kept busy Friday mending the broken water pipes, and coal pipes mended faster under the increased demands of house-holds for more heat. The long cold spell in January, 1912, has established a record that will be pointed to for years to come.

The following attended the burial of the late Mrs. James Baker in Wayne yesterday: Mrs. C. Bedford, Mrs. Will, Bedford, Miss Christine Lundquist and Mrs. Love, and Messrs. G. W. Yarnan, James Unbeck, Matt Jones and George Linn and boy, and Mrs. Frank Schaefer.

George Denkinger and family arrived Tuesday evening on their return from Florida where they went the first of the year with the intention of locating. He found it was a long and expensive task to get land in single to produce and earn something, and so decided to return to Wayne where he could secure some employment as engineer at the State Normal. George will probably advise people who have good jobs here to stick to them and not journey to Florida with the expectation of improving their fortunes.

COOPERATION MIGHT INCREASE INDUSTRY

J. E. Sheehan has a kiln of 400,000 bricks ready to burn, but the cold weather has made it inadvisable to burn it now. He expects to start the first of March. Last year he made a million bricks, all for local use. He would be unable to handle the demand, but found he couldn't do it profitably on account of the cost of hauling the product to the railroad tracks. In past years he has made an unsuccessful attempt to persuade the railroad company to run a truck to his yard. If that were done and the cost of local hauling were removed, he could afford to ship bricks and make his yard immensely productive, employing more men and thus indirectly benefiting the city. This is an enterprise, already here, that could be developed by a little reciprocal effort on the part of the railroad company. And this is an inviting opportunity for action by the Commercial club. The combined force of the club might readily develop cooperation between the railroad and the brick industry that would mean much for the city.

DEATH OF MRS. BAKER.

Mrs. Nettie Williams Baker, wife of James Baker, of Carroll, died at the hospital in Norfolk Monday, and the remains were laid to rest in Greenwood cemetery at Wayne yesterday morning. The services at the grave being conducted by Rev. Frank Shicklock of Carroll. Funeral services will be held in the M. E. church at Carroll next Sunday.

The deceased was born in Virginia, Ill., December 24, 1860, and was therefore aged 51 years and 27 days at the time of her death. She was married to James Baker in 1879, and the family came to Nebraska in 1885, locating on a farm north of Carroll. The family moved to Carroll in 1896.

Besides her husband, she leaves two daughters and one son, all living at home. She was esteemed by many friends who regret her death and sympathize with the surviving members of the family.

JOINT INSTALLATION.

The comrades of the G. A. R. and the ladies of the auxiliary organization held joint installation of officers on Saturday, January 6, a large number of members of both societies being present. The honorable commander, A. J. Ferguson, performed well the part of installing officer. The service of Comrade Ferguson was very highly appreciated and commended. Rev. Alexander Corkey and Dr. Smiley were present and gave entertaining addresses.

Following are the newly installed officers of the G. A. R.: Commander, Comrade D. Moler; Senior Vice Commander, Comrade S. Fox; Junior Vice Commander, Comrade A. Lindley; Quartermaster, David Cunningham; Adjutant of the Day, Comrade Sala; Adjutant, Comrade J. E. Stillamith; Chaplain, Comrade A. J. Ferguson; Quartermaster, Comrade Robert Skiles; Officer of the Guard, Comrade Skiles; Surgeon, Comrade Baggart; Sargeant Major, John Ott.

The officers of Hodson Circle No. 52 for the year 1912, are:

President, Mrs. Otto McVay; Senior Vice President, Mrs. Munstinger; Junior Vice President, Mrs. Heady; Treasurer, Mrs. Ott; Chaplain, Mrs. Dorsett; Conductor, Mrs. Fox; Guard, Mrs. Garwood; assistant conductor, Miss James; Assistant Guard, Miss Henrietta Moler.

ANNUAL BUSINESS MEETING.

The Workers' class of the M. E. Sunday school elected the following officers at its business meeting recently: Lloyd Alexander, president; Willis Fleetwood, vice president; Clement Greenwood, secretary; Floyd Campbell, treasurer; Mrs. Lutgen, teacher. The class now belongs to a state organization, and has a constitution, by-laws and standing committee. There is a membership of thirty with none under 17 years of age. The class motto is: "There to be a Daniel," and class colors: yellow and lavender. All young men not affiliated with other churches are invited to attend.

THE PEACE PRESIDENT.

John Temple Graves, a Georgia democrat, editor of the Atlanta Constitution, was nominated at a big party banquet in New York recently, and in introducing President Taft, gave an expression to these words:

"But the states' step that have been taken for peace in human history have been taken by the twenty seventh president of the United States, who has been magnificently aided by the unselfish wisdom and devotion of the distinguished American who serves as his secretary of state."

"These patriotic have preached and poets have sung and journalists have written, the president, without noise or protestation, has presented the example of peace at the front of the every chancery in Europe and the east. The secretary of state has returned every court in Christendom and evoked a kindly sentiment from all, and today two great new treaties with France and England—the two nearest world powers—stand completed and waiting the signature of our great and good Germany must follow fast upon the first."

"Other presidents of the United States have linked their names to political doctrines. Other presidents have joined their names to economic policy. And some have won a share of glory in martial strife."

"But the president rising above the fire of faction of the economic position of the hour, has linked his name and fame beyond all question or cavil to the immortal movement of the times."

"Ladies and gentlemen, world men and world women gathered here tonight in this great world cause, with the affection of a friend, with the fervor of a citizen, and with the full pride of an American, I present to you, William Howard Taft, the great peace president of the republic's life."

Medicines that aid nature are always most effective. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy acts on this plan. It always relieves the lungs, opens the secretions and aids nature in restoring the system to a healthy condition. Thousands have testified to its superior excellence. For sale by all dealers.

Avoid Rheumatism

Rheumatism with its accompanying pains and tortures, is the result of the decreased action of the kidneys, which results in an accumulation of uric acid in the blood.

Treatment should begin with the first hint of trouble.

THOSE ALMOST INSIGNIFICANT PAINS IN THE SMALL OF THE BACK MEAN TROUBLE—IT'S A WARNING OF KIDNEY WEAKNESS—INABILITY TO SEPARATE THE POISONS FROM THE BLOOD.

The action of the kidneys is incessant—they work constantly and in company with the liver and bladder strive to purify the blood and keep the system free from poisons. They should have help—if they become weakened or neglected it means rheumatism or Bright's disease. If you would avoid these dangerous diseases use

NYAL'S STONE ROOT COMPOUND—START WITH THE FIRST SYMPTOMS and make sure that the kidneys are restored to their normal strength and activity.

Nyal's Stone Root Compound was devised for the very purpose—to assist the kidneys, bladder and liver in their functions and rid the system of uric acid and other poisons. Does it, too!

One dollar the bottle. Any doctor will tell you that when we compound a prescription it's done right. Bring us your prescriptions.

STATE NORMAL NEWS.

President Conn attended the banquet of "Dinner Pedagogues" held at Lincoln on Tuesday evening.

Henry Talbot of Fenwick was called home last Saturday by a telegram announcing the death of his sister.

The class in psychology was divided into three equal parts one day last week and debated the question of the freedom of the will. As a result it will not be necessary for any one class ever to discuss this subject.

A number of new students enrolled during the past week. Among those who recently entered three of the young men have been members of a band and Professor Coleman was glad to give them a place in the Normal school band.

Arrangements have been made for a triangular debate between this institution and the normals at Peru and Kearney. The question chosen is that of the adoption of the amendment to the constitution of the state of Nebraska concerning the initiative and referendum. This institution will debate the affirmative of Wayne against Kearney and the negative against Peru at Peru. On the same night Kearney will debate the affirmative against Peru at Kearney. If any school wins both sides it will hold the championship; otherwise, the result will be a tie. The debate will probably be held the last of April. The proposal has gone out from this school that the judges for the debate be members of the supreme courts of Nebraska and neighboring states, district judges or professors of political science, sociology and economics, in state universities. Wayne has some excellent material in its student body and it is believed will put up a strong fight for the victory.

A short time ago the management of the school learned with considerable regret that George Dinkinger had purchased a farm and that he was considering the advisability of resigning his position as engineer of the Normal school and moving with his family to another state. Acting upon the advice of President Conn, he did not offer his resignation; however, he has decided to leave of absence until such time as he was fully decided in regard to his plans. On Monday evening Mr. Conn received a telegram advising him that Mr. Dinkinger would return and resume his work at the Normal. This information is highly gratifying to all connected with the school. "Nambour's" apartment building, which was recently destroyed by fire, was a very successful and profitable business. The building was owned by a man who had been a member of the faculty and students will gladly welcome George back to his old place on the Hill.

Last Saturday evening from 8 to 10 a reception was given by Miss Kingsbury and the girls of her Hall to the faculty and student body. Happy were they whose names began from A to F for it was theirs first to attend the reception, to be directed by gracious girls to the dressing rooms, to meet the smiling receiving line, to partake of delicious punch, to hear entertaining riddles and soft strains of music and enjoy the dainty decorations and beautiful ferns. After a delightful half hour these fortunate ones wended their way homeward that the F to M group might share the pleasures. Too soon the half hour passed, and this group returned only to meet the smiling, expectant M to S group who in turn admired and enjoyed and gave place to the S to Z's. Miss Kingsbury and the young ladies are to be congratulated upon the success of their reception and all present wish to thank them for the pleasure conferred and for a real glimpse of a formal, dignified reception. Mr. Erving Young's violin music was very much enjoyed and added much to the evening's entertainment.

THOROUGH TESTING OF SEED CORN URGED

Omaha, Neb., January 16.—"The condition of the seed corn of the state is even worse than first anticipated," said Professor C. W. Pugsley of the Nebraska experiment station in an address to the Nebraska Farmers' Congress at its session held at the South Omaha Live Stock Exchange last Friday.

"We have extended our tests so that seed from more than thirty counties in the state has been examined and we find that the situation is critical," said he. "Unless you farmers test your seed corn and are absolutely sure it will germinate, you are going to be disappointed when the crops are harvested."

"Well versed farmers who have made a study of seed conditions tell me that they have never seen such a grave condition. The corn belies its looks. Some of it has the outward appearance of good corn, but on the inside it is dead. The only way you can ascertain the condition of your corn is by testing it. You must test or take the consequences. I fear you do not realize the condition. And I want you to know just where you stand. The Commercial club of Omaha is taking an interest in the proposition and you should cooperate by not only testing your own corn, but by urging your neighbors to do the same.

"Don't take anything for granted. Be sure of your corn before you plant it. You have ample time now. But a month from now it may be too late." The Farmer's Congress by resolution, unanimously endorsed the campaign urging the testing of seed corn and pledged their cooperation to that end.

According to Professor Pugsley, very few sections have been found where there is enough good seed corn for the community. At present his department is working to ascertain the localities which have more than they need. As soon as this is determined, the farmers of Nebraska will be informed so that they can secure corn that will produce a normal crop.

Unless the right kind of seed is planted, the loss will be enormous. Only by a proper testing of seed corn can a normal yield be secured.

The continued cold weather of the past month is making the condition even more serious than it was. Corn stored in cribs has more or less moisture and the continual cold weather is killing the germs by freezing.

An extensive campaign is being waged by the business men of Omaha, who realize that the situation is a grave one. The various commercial interests are putting their time and money at the disposal of the committees which are urging the testing of seed corn.

Test your seed corn, farmers, and reap the benefits.

S. R. THEOBALD & CO., The Racket

Uncle Walt
The Poet Philosopher

I know a man who always seeks for work, some wealth to earn, and bitter tears roll down his cheeks, since he has no money to spend. The sun untimely ply cannot understand why he is turned down when he is in the land, he says, for working men. When stinging summer days are gone, and howling blizzards blow, he comes around to moan the lack, which is knee deep in snow. "I want to show you," he cries, when August days are hot, in winter he would sweat the flies when there are none to be seen. On work days he will look at one, but when the Sabbath comes he sits in his bow and his knees find them his family home. The shingles may let in the wet, but still he stands about and in the rain, and then, you bet, he wants to fly the roof—this man who represents the class, is always shy of dough, and his declining days he'll pass out where the papers go. If you would gather in the seeds in comforting amounts, split things with the trifling folk will do the work that counts.

I have a speech, my knee, and when the weather's damp it causes so much misery I find it hard to tramp. And when for remedies I beg between my legs, I say, "You have no leg you're merely dreaming dreams. And since you have no leg, my friend, no speech is there; so let your spirit ranting end, and to your bed begone." Another healer who has stress when doctors should have brain, and says, "Let me at it with my saw, and I'll relieve your pain." "Internal remedies," says one, "will make that spavin fade," and then he brews about a ton of sparkling plankton, and a medicinal poultice," says another, "your anguish will away," and it so hot folks hear me screech, "an' paragraphs away. Another would a blister not, still other gifted men insist that powders, in my shoes will make me whole again. And so I limp along my path in sore and grievous plight, and in my heart there is no wrath, for all the docs are right.

When but a child I saw a bride stand blushing at the altar, sustained by high and noble pride, she did not shrink or falter. Her orange blossoms were on her head, she wore a veil and bustle. "She is a peach," the vergers said. "Her name is Lillian Russell." And when I came to man's estate, I saw another marriage; the blushing bride was simply grand, of high and noble carriage. She leaned upon the bridegroom's arm, no term of brown and muscle. "What grace!" the vergers said. "What charm!" Her name is Lillian Russell." Years passed and manhood's prime was gone, and I was worn and faded, when to a church one summer dawn, a wedding train paraded. The vergers, old and heavy-eyed, and bent by worldly tumble, said: "Here we have the dearest bride, my dear old Lillian Russell." Before I leave this world of grief it's little what I lack. I'm in the sore and yellow leaf and waiting for a sunset, but here I've curled myself and died once more. I'd like to hustle and see again that blushing bride, the star-eyed Lillian Russell.

All day in power I herd my geese. I do not sigh for higher station; I do not yearn to own to earn, to hear the plaudits of the nation. THE CONTENTED I watch the throng that move along and see the fruits of fierce endeavor—the faces lined by beauty's grind that comes to a conclusion here. On jaded feet men pace the street, the victims of the Grind's abuses; sad eyes are there and many cars—and I'm content to herd my geese. This modern life of stress and strife, this daily round of eager questing, the chase for chink make mortals think the minute's lost that's spent in resting. All want to shine in some fierce line, to Caesar, to an Alexander; and so they strain both soul and brain while I serenely herd my geese. They venture on strung, they all die young, exalted by their frenzied journeys, and here the bell has tolled their knell their wads are swiped by the attorneys. Beneath the heath they sleep and Death was first to teach them what true peace is. Those left alive toil on and strive while I continue herding geese.

He had tried a thousand cures seeking to embalm his name in the magazines and papers, but he got no grip on fame. As a bard he FOR THE FAME achieve a large renown—people said his verse was clever but the monthlies turned it down. In the air he went a-sailing till his pinions struck the skies, but his rights were unavailing, for some other won the prize. Many attempts he ventured hoping fame would come his way, and the welkin oft he defied, but his speeches lacked the bay. "Performances unkind and brutal, all the world was there and shouting, all the stunts he tried were futile, and his soul was flung in air. While he failed dolefully, drooping, tired and weary of the game, the crowd roared past, hawking to the stinging nights of rain. Then this great fortune of critics, by some kindly spirit inspired, recommended Rowan Britton and secured the fame desired. Now you can pick up a journal but you'll see his rigorous how he suffered pain infernal till the critics made him whole.

There's not much joy in splendor, but that's right down today; the hippy, who'll spend his gold gets from that his play. Around town in THE GRAND a motor in patently BEYOND a romp, and many a footstep's over both roads at my pump, and all that pump is playing a tune, a lot more fun than my old Texas pump that cost but little more. Around the links I roter and strike that golf is great—but those old games were sweeter. I played in law office. My bathroom fairly glitters with silver and brass, but oh, to join the critics' club at the swimming hole!

My morning's spent in waiting for the paper, and long ago, when I was a kid, I had a dash in the large white I studied, in the glass, a flash throughout, and the countryside had all the gifted smarties whose genes are not in vain time to my fancy parties and games around my lawn. There are a thousand reasons why you should light my hall, but oh, the happy reason when I were overall!

From the Ponca Journal, February 24, 1902. On Saturday the ferry boat which is to ply between Sioux City and Council Bluffs, was damaged by the blizzard and will probably be out of service for some time. The thought of opening business and making high.

Notwithstanding all the talk about the Florida weather, rainy atmosphere, etc., which this country has been enjoying, the blizzard that hit the town of blizzards and cold weather had not forgotten us. On Friday there were reports of conditions that the long delayed winter was at hand. A brisk little storm came up in which an inch of snow fell on Saturday and Sunday. The storm gradually became worse and on Monday opened with an internal, old-fashioned blizzard. The wind "howled" from the north-west, the snow filled the air, and the fall was of the extreme order. It was the first real touch of winter this country has had this year.

***** THE EARLY DAYS IN TWO COUNTIES. ***** From the Wayne County Review, March 1, 1882. Harry Woodhall arrives in Wayne to Matthew Herran moves on A. S. Motters' farm and Walter Cook moves into his own home near J. T. Mettlen's. E. E. Sault and S. S. Hunter, son and daughters of S. Hunter, returned from Wisner where they had been attending school.

***** NEWS ITEMS FROM HERALD EXCHANGES ***** Randolph had two buildings damaged by fire on Monday of last week. Baptist church and Candler building. High buildings are occupied by school students while the new school house is being built. The Times adds to its writings: "Two fires in one day in rooms occupied by school pupils make the public and school board doubly anxious to get the school children into the new building, and every effort is being put forth to rush the work along. It will be a source of much gratification to the parents when the anxiety that these fires has caused will be removed by the occupancy of the new building."

***** ABOUT THE LIBRARY. ***** I am sometimes slightly astonished to find there are individuals in Wayne who know so little about the library. Now the library is open every Wednesday and Saturday from 10 to 5:30 p. m. A gentleman came in the other day and said: "Well I would have been in and got books before this, but I did not know where you kept it." And for four there are others in Wayne or Wayne county who are in the same condition. I will state it is in the servant's room in the basement of the court house and every citizen of the county without reference to age, sex or previous condition of servitude welcome. There are families at Sholes who have books out the greater part of the time, teachers of Carroll occasionally take out books while families ten miles out in the country have only stopped in, because of the severity of the weather. Next week I will tell you something about the books. We put into the library in 1911, 188 books and this does not include quite all that have been given us by our friends who have preceded us to the sunny westland (we all expect to go there sooner or later) in last twenty years of Harpers, the Century and Scribner's, and several years of the Congressional Record.

***** NOTICE TO NON-RESIDENT DEFENDANTS. ***** S. A. Maasie and Ralph B. Crawford, defendants, will take notice that on the 11th day of January, 1912, H. M. Crawford, plaintiff herein, filed his petition in the district court of Wayne county, Nebraska, against said defendants, the object and prayer of which is to cancel a certain quit claim deed executed by defendant Ralph Crawford to defendant S. A. Maasie, purporting to convey the following described real estate, to-wit: Lots 13, 14 and 15, in block 12, North addition to the village of Wayne, Wayne county, Nebraska, and to join the said Ralph B. He says that he found much good country, but that the rainy season was on and made it impossible to get out into the rural districts very extensively.

***** THE SMILEY MEETINGS. ***** Dr. P. E. Smiley closed his series of meetings at the Presbyterian church on Sunday evening, promising his help to a congregation which crowded the auditorium, gallery and balcony to their full capacity. The services were opened by a service of song under charge of Professor Coleman, and the singing of the union chorus and of the National anthem was most effective. Mrs. M. Cunningham Hudson sang a solo which was much enjoyed. Her many Wayne friends being much pleased to hear again this gifted singer. During the evening a free-will offering to Dr. Smiley was taken up and the generous gifts from members of other churches as well as the Presbyterian showed that Dr. Smiley's visit to Wayne has been much appreciated by the Christian people. The text of his closing sermon was the solemn question, "How shall we escape if we neglect so great salvation?" The large audience listened intently to his exposition of the text and a deep impression was made by the closing appeal.

Apparently the only man in Washington not playing politics is the president, and perhaps the reason he isn't doing it is because he doesn't know how.

A murderer does not seem quite so bad if he is considerate enough to kill himself after committing the crime. But if he would kill himself before putting into effect his murderous design, he would show himself to be a still more thoughtful member of society.

A bill is before congress providing that a postmaster shall not be appointed until an election can be held and candidates voted on by the people. It also provides that a postmaster's term shall be limited to eight years. It is expected the law would simplify the choice of postmasters, insure more satisfactory results and remove a good deal of strife and grief.

The recommendation of the postmaster general that the telegraph business of the country should be taken over by the government and handled this same as the postoffice is progressive enough to suit the insurgents and sound enough to suit the conservatives. There is just as much reason for the government to engage in transmitting telegraph messages as letters and papers. One is closely allied to the other.

The editor of Harper's Weekly announces that he has taken down the name of Woodrow Wilson, as presidential choice, from the head of his columns because of a statement from the governor that the paper's support was injuring his candidacy. Woodrow will doubtless find that his ungrateful attitude toward a friendly publication will convince many hitherto warm supporters that he is not of sufficient caliber to be president of a great nation.

It is reported that Senator Cummins of Iowa is being bombarded with requests from all sides to become a candidate for president, and it is announced that he is beginning to show effects of the attack and may not be able to hold out against it much longer. It is presumed he is resisting with all his strength, but in a single-handed combat against a myriad of active assailants, he may have to yield and raise his banner in the presidential arena. The prospect that he will be unable to resist being forced into the race as a candidate is said to have caused an Arctic condition of atmosphere between Cummins and LaFollette who have hitherto been friendly, and the latter of whom is the senior in the business of promoting insurgency. It would seem that LaFollette, having been sensed longer in political radicalism, had a prior claim to the propaganda as a means of gratifying selfish ambitions, and that Cummins should await his turn. Both should be sufficiently far-sighted in nursing selfish aims to preserve unbroken insurgent columns.

We are in favor of President Taft because he is more of a statesman than politician; because he has handled the responsible task of chief executive un-influenced by the protests of trust-wanting special privileges, and unswayed by the nagging criticism and obstructive tactics of radicals who have they have sufficiently discredited the administration to win office and prestige on a wave of popular discontent. Taft has been a constructive statesman. Careful analysis of his record shows more actual progressive achievements than have been accomplished by any administration of any president since Lincoln. No administration ever practiced more effective economy. Amidst storms of opposition and subject to the cunning tricks of scheming politicians, Taft, without noise or ostentation, has gone loyally forward doing what he thought was his duty to the country. Trust prosecutions have been successful, and consequently trust leaders have been increased. Radicalism has been held in check, and therefore political Don Quixotes have been mad. Taft has made progress without ruin, and must look to the farmers and business men who approve of that policy for his support in the coming campaign.

STEERING A BOAT.

The Rig of the Tiller Ropes Often a Source of Danger.

A CURIOUS LACK OF SYSTEM.

On Some Vessels the Chains are Crossed, and on Others They are Straight, and This May Mean Serious Trouble With a Strange Hand at the Wheel.

A broomed pilot was carefully nursing a big Atlantic liner through the murky and confusing of early morning and innumerable passing craft up the crowded waters of New York bay. The ship was crowded with passengers, most of whom had risen betimes to watch their homecoming. A tense expression, brought on by the tremendous responsibility, was the grim lines over the pilot's face as he turned into the lower Hudson river and saw a dense fogbank creeping down from the Palisades. Three miles still to go, and 3,000 lives in his hands! Slowly he crept along, almost touching a ferry load of commuters, just skipping a triple tow of sand scows, threading his way through the maze of vessels big and little; the fog denser and more dense, making it impossible to see the shadow of tearing craft more than a couple of lengths away.

Suddenly a departing liner, just hauled out into the stream, loomed up off the starboard bow. The pilot turned glibly white. "My God! Crossed chains or straight chains? Crossed or—straight? Heaven help me!"

In almost instant desperation he called "Hard aport!" the quartermaster swung the wheel over and the huge floating hotel slowly turned up and guided by, almost scoping the other.

"Crossed chains—straight chains? What does this mean? It means this—that there is no invariable rule or system of arranging the tiller ropes on vessels so that the latter always move in the same direction in response to a similar turn of the wheel. If equipped with "crossed chains" the craft will turn the opposite way; if with "straight chains" the wheel must be turned in the same direction the vessel is desired to go. Most ocean vessels are equipped with straight chains, though this is by no means an invariable custom. Sailing craft may be one or the other way. On the other hand, harbor boats, including tow boats, tugs, etc., generally have crossed tiller ropes.

Thus our pilot friend had spent most of his nautical life aboard tugs and other inland boats and when confronted with a crisis of great responsibility watered momentarily between the influence of his habit of twenty years and the newly acquired information given him as he went aboard.

They were already under way, and, not being familiar with the uncertainties of steering gear, he neglected to ask the usual question, "Crossed chains or straight chains?" The coal steamer heeded a scow load of bricks. "Hard aport!" called the mate. The helmsman flung his wheel to starboard, as he had been used to do on the high seas, and his vessel bore down upon the unsuspecting tow.

"Hard aport, you idiot!" yelled the mate. "Don't you know this boat has crossed chains?"

He reversed the wheel and almost immediately the vessel swung into "perilous situations" for motorists are not always provided with the "safe instinct" ascribed to experienced seamen, and autos move in the same direction the wheel is turned.

However, crossed chains and straight chains will probably go on their own sweet irresponsible existence for just as long as some great catastrophe is not put up to their lack of regulation.

Our Mid-Winter Clearing Sale Begins Saturday

Now comes the great bargain event of the year. All the Winter goods are now placed on sale at prices that mean big savings to you. Hundreds will supply their wants now for weeks and months to come. Great Bargains await you in every part of the store. I have just finished an investigation of my stock and I find we have about $3000 worth of this season's goods which should be sold before the season ends. I am willing to take a loss on these goods rather than carry them over until next season, consequently I have marked the prices down to a point that will tempt you and make it well worth your while to buy. In this ad I have listed carefully some of the principal items which go on sale. You will find every description and every price faithful and correct. Besides these there are a great many other items priced at just as great a reduction. In as large a stock as this you will find enough goods that you need priced at a saving for it which will pay you to come many miles....TRADING STAMPS AND PREMIUMS GO WITH ALL PURCHASES

Ladies' Dress Skirts $5.00

Take your choice of any dress skirt on our racks for $5. You'll find $12.50 black voile skirts, $10.00 Panama skirts, $8.50 and $10.00 serge skirts, $7.50 Panama skirts, all colors, all sizes. Once a year we hold this sale in order to make way for an entirely new assortment the next season. It is our way of keeping our stock fresh, clean and up-to-date. $5 will not pay for the material alone in many of these skirts. Come early while the assortment is at its best.

Any Silk Waist $3.98

This great opportunity to buy our finest silk and chiffon waists at $3.98 comes to you but once a year. If you attended this sale last year you will need no second invitation; if you were not here, don't miss this opportunity now. There are no reservations. You may have your choice of all our finest waists that formerly sold at $6.00 and $7.50 at $3.98.

Bargains in Blankets

We still have forty pairs of these fine simple blankets and we have priced them at a good reduction. At regular prices they were one-fourth cheaper than ordinary blankets; at the prices they are now marked you can well afford to buy blankets for next year.

Of General Interest.

One or two mistakes have been reported in the list of teachers and salaries printed in last month's issue. Miss Adie Leonard who teaches in district No. 1, holds a Life certificate instead of a State as was credited her. Miss Louise Wendt who teaches in district No. 31, is receiving $52.50 per month instead of $50. Her increase dates from the beginning of the winter term. Miss Maude Grothe who teaches in No. 19, gets $50 a month in stead of $55 as was reported.

The school board in district No. 53 made a Christmas present of a new bookcase to the school. We wish more school boards would see fit to do something like this instead of expecting the teacher to have a box social to get what is needed. Henry Asmus is the director in district No. 53.

At a Christmas entertainment given in No. 25, $13.25 was raised. This will be used to purchase some needed supplies. Miss Welch is the teacher.

Miss Dora Green and her school north of Hoskins gave a short program on the 22nd of December. Ten of the patrons of the school attended. Miss Green will receive $50 per month during the winter term.

Quarterly examination questions will be sent out next week. We wish all teachers to report the grades made by the seventh and eighth grade pupils in this test. There is place for this report in the compulsory attendance report.

Owing to ill health, Miss Margaret Dixon who taught in No. 34, south of Wayne, had to give up her school for the winter. Miss Pontquella Wright of Wayne, has been secured to complete the term. Miss Dixon has taught a good school and we are sorry to lose her from the schools of the county.

This has been a pretty hard winter for the teachers and they have displayed considerable grit these mornings when the thermometer does not seem to care how "low down" it gets.

All school room floors at least every two months.

Mr. C. J. Naim, for many years director in district No. 18, recently resigned that of office prior to his removal to Colorado.

The following pupils have received certificates of award during the last month:

- District No. 52—Arthur Hennesy, Lester Belford, Leonard Laerois.
- District No. 9—Nora Buss, Louie Morhenry, Claire Cook.
- District No. 39—Mary Clayton, Anton Jensen.
- District No. 62—Leo Collins, Glifford Francis.
- District No. 66—Clarence Brockman.
- District No. 1—Bert Harrison, Edith Johnson.
- District No. 28—Jennings Oman.
- District No. 3—Fred Brummels.
- District No. 53—Willie Backer.
- District No. 45—Martin Hefti.
- District No. 51—Howard McEachen.
- District No. 37—Marie Van Norman.
- District No. 13—Vera Saerison.
- District No. 44—Margaret Owens.
- District No. 29—Emma Koch.
- District No. 4—Henry App.
- District No. 8—Irvin Fitzsimmons.
- District No. 26—Swan Landberg.
- Ida Brummels of district No. 3, Ernest Frevort of district No. 64, Vivian Oman of District No. 28 and Hazel and Inez Prince of district No. 58, have received diplomas of honor during the month.

One teacher in Wayne carries coals from home in her back scuttle for six weeks to start the school fire, after the school board had been asked several times to furnish kindling. N. B. This is no fairy story.

Compulsory Attendance.

It is evident that certain parents in this county wish to test the compulsory attendance law. Thirteen such parents and guardians were notified at the beginning of the year to get their children in school. The only trouble with the law is that it does not compel full attendance. However, there will be some "scrabbling" to comply with the two thirds requirement or there will be several tests.

Fear of failure never made a successful teacher.

If all men were great leaders, how useless they would be.

Do good to them that hate you, and pretty soon they will not!

Some folks are always telling what they would do if they were some one else; then there are others who go ahead and show what they themselves can do.

Time doesn't set an alarm clock to go off when opportunity is passing.

Many are failures today because they depended upon "picking up" knowledge and skill after they got their position.

Better let the "milk of human kindness" slop over the bottle once in a while than to put the stopper in so tight that it takes a corkscrew to remove it.

Suppose Mary Smith does get more wages than you—well, never mind, it's probably her fault.

The Chinese have an old proverb about the three wise men who neither see, hear nor talk too much.

Never let your work slide; there's many a slip 'twixt the cup and the lip" and it's just possible you might want to keep on at the old job.

From the Month's Letters.

From Miss Ida Mae Randall, district No. 74: "We had a tree, presents and basket several Friday night. The names of the pupils were written on slips of paper, placed in a box and then each pupil drew a name. Each one brought a present for the pupil whose name he or she drew. The presents were all nice and useful. There were five baskets which brought $8.10. The crowd was not large but we had a pleasant time. We will repair the blackboard, oil the floor and buy a water jar if the money will purchase all."

From Edyth Jacobson, district No. 12: "From our box social last Friday night we realized $37.50 from the sale of twelve boxes. We intend to buy a hanging globe, a large dictionary, and the remaining money will go toward new desks."

From Ethel Woods, district No. 62: "All in school are doing well and seem to be much interested. We have started work in reed and raffia for Friday afternoons. The upper grades are making baskets and the lower grades have some mats started."

The following letter from the state superintendent was received at the beginning of the year:

COMPLIMENTS OF THE SEASON.

January 1, 1912.
Dear Superintendents and Teachers:
Another year has come and gone. What has been the record? Failures—a few. Each failure brings an opportunity to be more helpful, more sympathetic with the failures of those under our care. Successes—many. Each success should make us more thoughtful and better equipped to help those

PONCA PAPERS FLY TO DEFENSE OF TOWN

With laudable loyalty, the Ponca Leader and Journal defend their town against application of the Lincoln Journal's picture of a town torn by factional strife.

The Lincoln man's criticism is, however, indeed, for any town to get into, and we do not know all of Ponca's past history, but if there are factional fights here, or have been, show us please the county seat town that does not have them.

Water finds its level. We would call attention to the fact that here in Ponca one may find as fine a mass of people as he would wish to seek.

Besides this Ponca has a large and largely patronized public library. We would not be blind as not to see our faults and failures, but we do not know all of Ponca's past history.

There are no more hospitable nor more kindly people in the world than those who live in Ponca. They are as a rule refined and educated. No one could fail to like them.

The regular session of the Sunday school meets at 12 o'clock. A men's brotherhood class was formed last Sunday. The pastor will preach at 7:30 p.m.

THE KITCHEN DRESSER.

It Was Originally a Bench on Which Meat Was Dressed. Dr. Johnson tells us that the kitchen dresser was a bench in the kitchen on which meat was dressed or prepared for table and gives the following lines in support of his view.

This bench, and so in all the meat, What dregs are these? Where is the meat-eater's seat? How drest you vittles, bring it from the dresser? And serve these things that love it not?—Shakespeare.

A maple dresser in her hall the maid, On which full many a slender neck she made. —Dryden.

Weight in his "Domestic Manners of the Middle Ages" says: "One of the great objects of attention in a rich man's house was his plate, which at dinner time he brought forth and spread on the table in sight of his guests. Afterward to exhibit the plate to more advantage the table was made with shelves or steps, on which the different articles could be arranged in rows, and above another it was called in French, or Anglo-Norman, a dresser, because on it the different articles were dressed or arranged."

PRESENCE OF MIND. The Way Two Englishmen Captured Four Hundred Prisoners. Toward the close of the parliament war 400 prisoners were captured by John Colborne, afterward Field Marshal Lord Seaton, Colborne, who was wounded at Talavera, had been disabled for some time, but in 1813 he was in active service again, and when Wellington's army crossed the frontier of France he performed a feat which has been the most amazing feat of his career.

When riding, with no comrade but the famous Sir Henry Smith, separated from his column, he saw 400 French soldiers passing along a ravine below him. "The only way was to put a good face on the matter," he thought. "So I went up to them, desiring them to surrender. The officer, thinking of course, the column was behind him, surrendered his sword, saying theatrically, 'Je vous rends cette arme, et un bien fait son devoir si surrender this sword, which has done its duty well.' The 400 followed his example."

Sanger's White Elephant. "It was exhibiting the only white elephant ever seen in the western world," relates Lord George Sanger in his book, "Seventy Years a Showman," when it was exhibited by a street team King Edward, then Prince of Wales. After the performance I conducted the prince through the streets and showed him all the wonders to see. When we came to the white elephant stall his royal highness suddenly turned to me and said, "Sanger, is this really one of the merest white elephants?"

"To this I replied: 'Well, your royal highness, a showman is obliged to practice a little deception on his royal highness, but in this case of deceiving my future king, it is certainly a white elephant—in fact, a very white elephant, but only because we give him a coat of special white wash twice a day.'"

The Backstreetologist. A Richmond man claimed to meet on the street a friend who complained of much "misery." Indeed, the afflicted one was in despair, so "tuckered out" he was.

"What seems to be de matter?" asked the friend. "I'm tuckered out," said the other with a moan and a gesture indicating the portion of his anatomy that was giving him so much trouble. "I've got such awful pains in mah back head!"

Buddhism. Buddhism, with Gautama Buddha about 600 years before the Christian era, and it numbers among its adherents more than a third of the human race. Buddhism is confined mainly to Asia—Manchuria, Mongolia, Korea, Tibet, China, Japan and the large islands off the Asiatic coast. Though born in India, Buddhism is not arising in this country. It has been introduced by the old Hindoos of which it is the offshoot.

Distraction Needed. "You don't seem to be making much progress in golf." "No," replied Mr. Chubb. "It worries me. Do you know I sometimes wish that I was back in business so as to have something to take my mind off the game."—Washington Star.

BOSTON REVOLTED.

When Commodore Knowles Worked His Press Gang in 1747. In the year 1747 a great tumult was raised in the town of Boston. Commodore Knowles, while lying at Nantucket with a number of men of war, losing some of his men by desertion, thought it reasonable that Boston should supply him with as many men as he had lost. He therefore sent his boats uptown early in the morning and surprised not only as many seamen as could be found on board of any of the boats outward bound as well as others, but swept the wharves and some ship carpenters' apprentices and landmen.

This conduct was resented. As soon as it was dusk several people assembled in King street, below the town house, where the general court was sitting. Stones and bricks were thrown into the council chamber through the windows. A judicious speech of the governor from the balcony, disapproving of the impress and promising his utmost endeavors to obtain the discharge of the persons imprisoned, had no effect. The seizure and restraint of the commanders were through into the council chamber insisted upon as the only effectual method to procure the release of the inhabitants on board the ships. The militia was summoned in aid of the government, but refused to appear.

Letters in the meantime passed between the governor and the commonsense. The council and house of representatives now passed some vigorous resolutions; and the tumultuous spirit began to subside. Finally the commodore dismissed most if not all of the inhabitants who had been impressed, and the squadron sailed.

NOISY FISHES.

The Skate Grunts, the Puffer Chuckles, and the Drumfish Booms. Perhaps the most conspicuous example of the fishes that are capable of utterance is the drumfish, so called by reason of the deep, booming noise it produces at will. It is found along the Atlantic coast from Massachusetts to Florida.

The squeaker, another salt water fish of the noisy variety, resembles in appearance the trout, and the not un-musical sound that it gives out is much like the note uttered by a big bullfrog. Allied to the squeaker is the fish known as "the croaker," which, as its popular name indicates, affects the croak—an unmistakable croak.

The sea robin, so called because it has crimson fins just behind its head, about the size of birds' wings, is another fish that makes itself heard. The "squawk" of the sea robin is especially emphatic when he is

GOT A FULL VOTE.

Even Though They Had to Go to Jail to Secure It. That they had some rather advanced ideas as to the means of "getting out the vote" in New England a century ago is shown by an extract from Dr. Banks' "History of Martinis Vineyard." The voting, which occurred in 1807, was on the question of the removal of the county seat.

Extraordinary means were taken to get out a full vote in Edgartown. The sailing of ships was delayed for weeks so that their crews might vote, and on the day of the town meeting it was found that the contest between the two factions was to be close.

Some one suggested that there were several voters who, unfortunately deprived of their liberty, were languishing in the town jail, and if the jailer would kindly allow them to step across the street and vote it would consume but a few moments of the time the prisoners owed to the county. The jailer did not feel that he had the right to allow a general jail delivery even for such a worthy object, although it might save Edgartown the trouble of carrying over to the gentlemen who were incarcerated. The point was then raised that all ballots must be cast in open meeting and in the presence of the election officials. Nevertheless astute minds found a way out of this awkward dilemma. A man was made and carried that the meeting adjourn to the jail. There the ballot box was carried to the door of each prisoner's cell, and the imprisoned voters reached through the bars and deposited their ballots.

Some of the most dangerous tricks of animals are those of stimulating kind. Charles Montague in "Tales of a Nomad" says that hyenas often follow lions and finish a carcass the moment the lions have left it. Sometimes, however, the hyenas are too eager and steal bits of meat while the lions are still at their meal.

"I have been told that the lion rides himself of the nuisance in the following way: He throws a piece of meat aside. When the lion is looking at the other way the hyena dodges in and rushes off with the meat. Presently the lion throws another piece of meat this time a little nearer. The hyena takes that also. At last the lion throws a piece very near indeed. The hyena, having become reckless, makes a dash at this also, but the lion wheels round and lays him low with a paw of his paw and a growl of annoyance."

A Prominent New York Politician Near Death

Hon. Th. N. Lansing, of Rochester, N. Y., six times a member of the Assembly, Tails of Narrow Escape.

"About fifteen years ago I was taken with rheumatism which attacked my heart. I was told by several doctors that I would never live. While I had many remedies recommended to me, I got a bottle of Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy and it helped me. I continued to take it and while at the end of the week I called on my doctor and asked him to examine me. He said I was better than he ever expected to see me and asked if I was taking his medicine. When I told him I was not, but was taking Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy, he said, 'Think the Lord for Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy.' I could not expect a permanent cure, for fifteen years I worked every day, not withstanding I had been told I would never work again. In July, 1911, I was taken with rheumatism again, and I went to my heart as before. I got so bad that one of the Albany papers wrote up my life and said I could not live but a few hours. I again took Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy with very satisfactory results, and here I am every day at business or in the legislature since January. I feel that Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy has saved my life and cannot recommend it too highly."

Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy is sold and guaranteed by all druggists. MILES MEDICAL CO., Elkhart, Ind.

PRINTING IN CHINA.

Often No Presses Are Used, a Pair of Brushes Doing the Work.

The Chinese assert that the art of printing was discovered in China about fifty years before the Christian era. Until the discovery of the art of papermaking, A. D. 95, they printed on silk or cloth cut in the form of leaves. The method employed to this day by native Chinese printers is as follows:

No printing press is used. The delicate nature of the Chinese paper would not admit of it. When the blocks are engraved, the paper cut and the ink ready one man with his brush will print a large number of sheets in a day. The block to be printed must be placed perfectly level and secured firmly. The printer has two brushes, one of them stiffer than the other, which he can hold in his hand and use at either end. He dips it into the ink and rubs the block with it, taking care not to moisten it too much or leave it too dry. If it were wetted too much the characters would be blurred; if too little, they would not print. When once the block has got into the proper condition he can print three or four impressions without dipping his brush into the ink again. The second brush is used to rub over the paper with a small degree of pressure that it may take the impression. This is done easily, for, not being sized with alum, it receives the ink the instant it comes in contact with it.

$50 Buys Flock of 50 Pure Bred Barred Rocks worth from $3.50 to $25 Each.

Not having a place to keep these chickens or the time to spare prompts me to make this great sacrifice in price. This offer affords an excellent opportunity to secure a flock of blue bloods, which has taken years and considerable money to secure. Some of these chickens cost me $25.00 each. They all go in a bunch at $1 a piece.

is only necessary that the brush should be passed over every part of the sheet with a greater or smaller degree of pressure and repeated in proportion as the printer finds there is more or less ink upon the block—Herald's Weekly.

MIXED RELATIONS.

A Family Problem a Lawyer Did Not Care to Tackle.

A lawyer received a call from a new client, a man bent upon recovering a sum of money advanced upon a note and registered for his own credit.

"Who is the debtor?" asked the lawyer.

"Oh, she's a relative of mine."

"How nearly related?"

"Very nearly."

"Will your dear sir," persisted the lawyer, "speak more at length?"

"Well, she may be my mother-in-law."

"Why? Then you are likely to marry her daughter?"

"I've already married the daughter."

"Foolish of course, the defendant in your mother-in-law's eyes."

"Perhaps you'd better hear the whole story," returned the client.

"You see, a year ago we lived together, my son and I. Across the way lived the Widow Foster and her daughter Mary. I married Mary, and my son married the widow. Now perhaps you can tell me whether my son's wife is my mother-in-law or my daughter-in-law."

The lawyer did not answer. The problem was unfamiliar. He was not ready.

"I don't think I can take your case," he said. "It presents too many complications."

"Very well," returned the man, taking his hat despondently. "But there's one thing I forgot. Since our double wedding a child has been born to each of us. What relations are those two children to each other?"

Bagpipes.

Bagpipes, mentioned in Jeremiah xiv. 18, "Mine heart shall sound for Mion like pipes," and elsewhere in Scripture, were used first by the early Egyptians. Both Greeks and Romans knew the instrument, for Ptolemy of Nero shows upon one side the tibia utricularis, a bag with two reeds and nine pipes. Procopius also, who wrote about 550 A. D., asserts that Roman soldiers sometimes marched to the sound of the bagpipes, and it is not impossible that they introduced them into the British Islands. The earliest, more modern reference to them is in an Irish MS. of 1150, and an Irish illuminated MS. of 1200 depicts a pig player on the bagpipes. The Scotch Highlanders were the first and only people to use the great war pipe, as the Highland regiments still do.

PLAYING CARDS.

An interesting Study From A. steric and Pictorial Viewpoints.

Quite apart from their use in various games, playing cards are an interesting study from a historic and pictorial point of view. In their usual arrangement—52 cards, 10 plus or dots and 13 tricks, representing the weeks and days in the year and the lunar months.

There are four suits, representing four classes of people as they were divided at the beginning of time. The "spades" stand for pikemen or soldiers, the clubs for clover, typifying farmers; the diamonds for building (the three representing artificers, and the hearts for chieftains or ecclesiastics.

"The change of the centuries" is that time were more or less correct likeness of certain royal and noble personages. Even in our modern packs it is said that one of the queens is a conventionalized portrait of Elizabeth of York, who was engaged to the dauphin of France.

The "knaves" were then the king's jesters, and even these cards may be portraits. All the court cards, in fact, retain their sixteenth century characteristics. Clubs are among the few things that have not changed with the centuries.—Brooklyn Eagle.

NAPOLEON'S DESTINY.

Summed Up in Four Mattes Bonaparte Learned at School.

In 1784 Bonaparte, then fifteen years old, arrived at the military school of Paris from Bremae, being one of four under the conduct of a tuition priest. He counted 173 steps, carrying his sword and gun, and counted in the attic, the height of the stairs he was to occupy. This soldier had two beds and a small window opening on the great yard of the school. The young predecessors of Bonaparte had besecured the whitewashed walls with charcoal, and the newcomer could read in this little cell those four inscriptions which we ourselves read three years ago.

An epaulet is very long to wind.—De Montigny.

The best day in life is that of a battle.—Vicente de Tintinaga.

Life is not a prolonged lie.—Le Chevalier Adolphe Delmas.

Eighteen feet of earth.—Le Comte de la Villerie.

With the trifling substitution of the word "empire" for "epaulet" these four sentences contain the whole destiny of Bonaparte and formed a kind of "Mene, Tekel, Upharsin," written in advance upon that wall.—Victor Hugo.

Dangers in Paint.

"Turpentine and benzine," says a department of agriculture bulletin, "are very inflammable, and special precautions should be taken not to bring paint containing these substances near light, oil, petroleum, or any other inflammable material." Many accidents have been particularly careful to remove all paint stains from the skin and not under any circumstances allow any of it to get into his mouth.

A man should not eat in the same place where he has been painting and before eating should only change his clothes, but wash all paint stains from his skin. It is not advisable to use turpentine or benzine in removing paint stains from the hands; but by oiling thoroughly with luscid oil or in fact with any fatty oil and then thoroughly washing with soap the paint may be removed, provided it has not been allowed to dry too thoroughly on the hands."

Handicapping the Burglar.

Burglaries in private houses in Vienna are rare, because the doors are locked from 10 o'clock at night to 10 in the morning by order of the police. A mislaid and exit between those hours are given by the house porter, who receives a fee for unlocking the door and is bound to report to the police the doings and mode of life of all the inhabitants of the house. This system of lock money is in vogue, but in Vienna, as at Naples, where it also exists, it obliges burglars and other criminals to operate during the daylight and diminishes their chances of success. The landlords tried a few years ago the system of giving the key of the house door to ten or twelve of the forty of the keys has been withdrawn.

Wonders of Modern Drama.

The heroine of the play had just received the telegram from her faithless lover. Then she faints, and the curtain went down.

Loud applause followed, particularly in the gallery.

Instantly the curtain went up. The heroine, having miraculously recovered, was on her feet, bowing and smiling.

More wonderful still, the faithless lover stood by her side, also bowing and smiling, but tragically a distance of 287 miles in ten seconds in order to be on hand to acknowledge the applause.—Chicago Tribune.

"A good goer?" said Calhoun Clay. "Well, you bet your life it is a good goer. Why, it can run an hour in half the time!"—Exchange.

He Can't.

"Well, I guess that time has proved that I was right!"—Detroit Free Press.

The motto of chivalry is also the motto of wisdom—to serve all, but love only one.—Balzac.

POLICE OF BERLIN.

Each One Is a Sort of Czar on His Own Limited Beat.

EVERY PERSON IS WATCHED.

Where a Man Works, How He Amuses Himself and the Way He Behaves It Is the Czar's Business to Know

The Civil Service System.

"When you arrive at a railway station in Berlin," said a professional man who spent a year in Berlin, "you are not surrounded by a clamoring crowd of car drivers, some of whom a stranger would be foolish to trust. You tell a policeman what you want—whether a ticket or a car—and he gives you a number. When you emerge from the station a uniformed governmental employee, either cab driver or porter, stands at attention and salutes you in a military manner. He has been ordered for you by the policeman inside, and you should see a sign on a signpost corresponding to the one the policeman gave you; you can trust him to take you or your baggage wherever it is to go. The government is responsible for the safe arrival of yourself and your baggage at hotel or other destination. If you should miss your way with your baggage the government would reimburse you.

"The police system is wonderful. The officers carry no revolvers or clubs, only swords. Each one has only a small beat to cover—a couple of blocks or so—that he has to rule as the czar in his district. He knows exactly what each person is doing, where he is working, how he is spending his leisure time and whether he is behaving himself. There is very little crime, and the police courts have little business. If you should commit an offense you are not dragged off to a police station. Instead, your name and address are taken by the officer in the district, and the next day a letter informs you that you have been fined an amount in keeping with the character of your offense. You can take the fine either cash or by money by check, or payment at the prefect's office for trial at a certain time. It doesn't pay to give a policeman a wrong address either, because the system is so perfect that they will find you anyway and fine you more.

"The policemen are instructed to prevent any disturbance of any kind or wait for persons to get into trouble and then arrest them. Each policeman has such a small district to cover that you can find one whenever you want one. He sees that his district is kept clean, that each house in it is sanitary and that the residents pay their taxes. He has no dispute or argument with any one, and he is satisfied with his thought of duty before they ever get to the police station.

"Soon after I arrived I was on my way to the university one morning and saw a policeman at a cab stand extending the hood and backs of the horse, the cushions and the cushions and wheels of the cabs.

"What are you doing? I asked him politely.

"As a representative of my government," he replied, "I am inspecting to see that the passengers of these cabs are assured of safety and comfort. The government is responsible, you know, and it is my duty to see that all dangers and possibilities of discomforts are eliminated."

"His answer was given in a most courteous manner.

"There are no paupers in Germany. Everybody pays his taxes. You can see the result in the independent manner of even the street sweeper. He knows he shall be provided for in case he encounters adversity.

"For instance, suppose a lamplighter or a bootblack becomes ill or suffers an accident. By the way, the bootblacks of Berlin do a thriving business because not a man, from street sweeper or banker, would think of appearing on the street of a morning without having his shoes shined. If such a lowly worker becomes ill, the government association of his district gives him a certificate to any physician for whom he may have a preference. It is good for two weeks, and the physician is assured, through the association, that the government will pay him. It more than two weeks' medical attention is required, the association issues a new certificate. The disabled worker pays for his medicines in the same way. The physician gives him a certificate on the drug bill, and the latter is not allowed to charge more than the customer's station in life justifies."

"A ride on the governmental railways assures you absolute comfort and safety. They laugh at our 'spreading rail' and 'washout accidents over here. The construction of German railways won't permit the rails to spread. As after a train passes over a certain stretch of track a walker follows along behind to see that all is safe before another train is allowed to use it.

"There is no political graft. The moment a man goes to work for the government he is disfranchised. He is under civil service, and he has a life time job if he does good service, but the others do the voting.

"I met an American lawyer who resides here and rather marveled at his ability to make a living. I told him about it.

"I make a good living," he explained, "by telling Americans how to keep out of trouble. And I tell them if they take their cases to court they must expect exact justice. There is no chance for political influence and pull in the courts, as in America."—Kansas City Star.

FOUR RULES OF SELLING.

They Went With the Job the Gritty Salesman Landed.

Until some two years ago it was an axiom in the big packing house circles of Chicago that a salesman should be guided by four rules, and was down to one of the famous heads of that industry. He was noted for his brimless bow and also a democratic nature that secured the usual liking of clerks that stands between a big man and his callers.

A bright young looking chap entered the office one day when he was very busy.

"Good morning," he began politely.

"The packer gave him a kindly glance. He asked, 'What can I do for you?'

"I want civil treatment, and I want it blantly thank-blank quick," came the sharp answer.

"Oh!" The packer looked up in surprise. "Maintaining his voice a trifle, he asked, 'What can I do for you?'

"I want a job as a salesman. I have worked as a butcher, I have worked in the packing houses, and I have sold smaller lines to the meat trade. I have references to prove that I deliver the goods, and I have them with me. I want to get into the biggest field, and I am here to make good. Have you got a job open?"

"If I haven't we'll make an opening for you. Report to the sales manager Monday morning."

As the young man started to leave the office the brusque old packer called him back.

"Do you know why you got that job?" he asked.

"No, sir."

"Well, you have the three essentials that make a good salesman. First, you are a man of your word. First, you don't think any man is better than you are, and you have the nerve to stick to it; second, you know the good points of what you had to sell; third, you started them in the fewest possible words. I'll add a fourth—got out before I change my mind."—Business.

THE POLE STAR.

Some of the Wonders of This Great Beacon of the North.

Most people, if they know nothing else of astronomy, at any rate know to keep his place in what he sees with out movement of any kind. There are a great many, however, who do not know what a wonderful thing it is, to the first place, it can be seen when looked at through a good telescope to be two stars and not one. There is one fainter, but one of what is known as the ninth magnitude close to it.

But that is not all. The brighter of the two is really three stars revolving round one another, or rather round their common center of gravity, like roses. This fact was revealed to us by what is perhaps the most astonishing of all scientific instruments, the spectroscopic. It may only tell us what the stars are made of, but whether they are moving toward us or away from us.

When you stand facing the star you are always facing north. The reason that it does not appear to move as the others do is because it is nearly in line with the axis of the earth. Its distance from us is enormous. This can be judged from the fact that although the earth in its journey around the sun, where it was six months ago, that makes no appreciable difference to its distance from the pole star. It must therefore be many times 100,000,000 miles away.

REPRODUCED FROM WAYNE COUNTY TEACHER.

who are willing to be aided in life's struggles.

The door of 1912 has opened to us another opportunity to make "the profession" of teaching stand out more clearly among the great "vocational" lines of life work.

Teacher (the highest title that can be applied to anyone) — teacher, take time to develop the talents of the child. The following stanza illustrates the idea:

"God's plans, like lilies pure and white, unfold,

We must tear the close shut leaves apart;

Time will reveal the calyxes of gold."

We wish you success and a happy, prosperous year in your chosen work.

Most sincerely yours,
SUPERINTENDENT JAMES E. DELZELL, and OFFICE FORCE.

Improved Parochial School at Altona.

Recently, Mr. Exleben who has been appointed director of the German parochial school at Altona, called at the office to discuss the best way of converting the present school room into a modern, sanitary school building. It is not as difficult a thing as first appears, to change one of the old-fashioned, windows-on-both-sides, stove-in-the-middle school houses so that it will meet the requirements of the sanitary school room—proper heating, lighting and ventilation. By boarding up the windows on one side and cutting others in the end we avoid cross lights and get light from the rear and left side. Then by installing one of the Smith Heating and Ventilating Systems and reseating the room with single seats we have the necessary foundation for a sanitary school room.

Mr. Exleben deserves credit for investigating the matter before repairing the building and we congratulate the German congregation on their choice of directors.

Playground Activities.

In one school visited recently we spent the recess period watching the children play. There was a collar door in the rear of the building about three by five feet in dimensions and the nature of the play seemed to be to crowd one another from this door. As there were some fifteen children tumbling over this door one can imagine the conditions and the utter lack of value to the children. Upon inquiring we learned that the children did not know anything else to play—that is, they were not aware that they did, but a few suggestions soon set them playing "dare base."

Teachers ought to play with the children at least often enough to teach them some games which require thought, skill, courage or vigorous action.

Below are a number of games for little children. These games are suggested by Alice Christianson of the Illinois State Normal School, in the School News for January.

CHARLIE OVER THE WATER—The children form a circle, one child being in the center. The others circle about, singing, "Charlie over the water, Charlie over the sea, Charlie catch a black fish, but can't catch me." At the last word all stoop, but if one is tagged before stooping he must change places with Charlie.

JACK BE NIMBLE—Some small object about six or eight inches high is placed upright on the ground to represent a candlestick. A small box or stick will serve the purpose. The players run in single file and jump with both feet at once over the candlestick, while all repeat the old rhyme: "Jack be nimble, Jack be quick, And Jack jump over the candlestick."

When there are a large number of children playing it is advisable to have several candlesticks and several files running at one time.

PUSS IN THE CIRCLE—A large circle is marked on the ground. One player, who is Puss, stands in the center of the circle, the others stand outside of the circle. These players must be tagged by Puss whenever they have a foot in side of the circle. They will miss opportunity for this by stepping in and out of the circle, tending Puss in every possible way to tag them. Anyone whom Puss touches become a prisoner and is another Puss, joining the first Puss in the circle to help tag the others. The last one tagged is the winner of the game.

BIRD CATCHER—The children sit in a circle, one child standing in the middle. Each takes the name of some bird. The teacher or leader, tells or reads a story, bringing in the names of the birds. At the mention of his name each one must raise his hands and bring them down quickly. At the mention of the owl all place hands behind the back holding them there until another bird is mentioned. The catcher endeavors to catch a hand whenever one is moved. When a player does a wrong thing, or has one of his hands caught, he must change places with the one in the center or pay a forfeit.

FLOWERS AND THE WIND—The players are divided into two equal parties, each having a home marked off at opposite ends of the ground, with a neutral space between. One party represents a flower, deciding among themselves which flower they will represent, as daisies, lilies, lilacs, etc. Then they walk over near the home line of the opposite party. The opposite players, who represent the wind, stand in a row on their line, ready to run, and guess what the flower chosen by their opponents may be. As soon as the right flower is named, the entire party owning it must turn and run home, the wind chasing them. Any players caught by the wind before reaching home become prisoners and join him. The remaining flowers repeat their play, taking a different name each time. This continues until all of the flowers are caught.

HUNTING TAG—One is a hunter and the others are rabbits. The hunter must catch and hold a rabbit long enough to give it three slaps. The rabbit then becomes a hound and helps the hunter. The hunter can tag only when the hound catches and holds a rabbit. Each rabbit caught becomes a hound, the game continuing until all are caught. The first rabbit caught becomes the hunter in the new game.

CAT AND MOUSE—A ring is formed by clasping hands. Two children are chosen, one of whom goes inside the ring and is called the "mouse," and the other on the outside, called the "cat." The cat tries to catch the mouse and may run in and out of the circle. The mouse tries to escape the cat and is helped by the children forming the circle. They raise their arms to permit the mouse to pass through, but lower them to keep back the cat, who tries to get under their arms or even break the clasped hands. If the mouse is difficult to catch, the interest is intensified by having two cats try to catch one mouse. When caught, others are chosen for the cat and mouse.

RED ROSE—Players sit or stand on one side of the playground which is marked off with goals, while a single player is stationed half way between the goals. The latter cries out: "Red rose, red rose, see where Annie goes," whereupon Annie must come out and try to get across to the other side without being caught by the central player. If she is caught she must stay in the middle and assist in catching the next one called for. Those who succeed in crossing over to the other side are again called for, and the play goes on until all are in the middle. The last one caught is the winner.

YANKEE DOODLE—A double circle is formed, each child holding his partner's hand, with the exception of the odd one in the middle of the ring who marches about without a partner. The circle moves forward, the players skipping, walking or running while they sing the following verse: "On the word catch in the last line each player drops his partner's hand, catching a new partner, while the one in the middle of the circle secures a partner. The player without a partner takes his place in the middle and the game begins again while the children sing: "Yankee Doodle came to town riding on a pony; Stick a feather in his cap and call it macaroni; Yankee Doodle, ha! ha! ha! Yankee Doodle dandy; Yankee Doodle, Doodle do; CATCH a partner handy." HUNTING FLOWERS—Two children stand facing each other, and raise their clasped hands high over their heads, forming an arch. The other players form a ring and skip about under the arch, singing the verse below. On the word "here" the arms are lowered, catching the one passing under the arch at that moment, after which the song continues. The player caught can either stand in the center of the ring, or one of the two children making the arch can step aside, joining the circle while the one caught assists in making the arch.

"We're looking about for a daffodil,
A daffodil, a daffodil,
We're looking about for a daffodil,
We've found one right HERE,
We find one here, we find one here,
We're looking about for a daffodil,
And find one here."
The name of any flower may be used for this game. Let the children suggest the flower they wish to hunt.

FOLEY KIDNEY PILLS.
Always give satisfaction because they always do the work. J. T. Sheinut, Bremen, Ga., says: "I have used Foley Kidney Pills with great satisfaction and found more relief from their use than from any other kidney medicine, and I've tried almost all kinds! I can cheerfully recommend them to all sufferers for kidney and bladder trouble." Foster's Pharmacy.

Not having room to properly house my flock of Barred Rocks will sell the flock, about fifty in number, at $1 each if entire flock is taken. Some of these birds cost me $10 and $15 each. Frank Whitney, College Hill, W. Va.

THE DANGER OF LA GRIPPE.
It is its fatal tendency to pneumonia. To cure your grippe coughs take Foley's Honey and Tar Compound. R. E. Fisher of Washington, Kas., says: "I was troubled with a severe attack of grippe that threatened pneumonia. A friend advised Foley's Honey and Tar Compound and I got relief after taking the first few doses. I took three bottles and Maquardade Ball.

The twelfth annual German musicoper hall will be given at the Winside opera house Wednesday evening, January 23. Music will be furnished by Sullivan's orchestra of LeMars, Ia. Prizes will be awarded to the best positioned lady and gentleman.

Home Department to Meet.
The members of the Home Department will have their regular meeting on next Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Snowden, providing the weather is favorable. If it is so they cannot go to the country, the meeting will be held with Mrs. Tillson.

Will Prove up on Claim.
If H. Tangeman will leave this week for Rapid City, S. D., to look after the interests of his claim which is located about twenty-two miles from that place. He expects to prove up while there which will necessitate him living on the place for five or six weeks.

Special Train of Stock.
A special train went out here Sunday evening taking stock to the Omaha market for the following parties: Frank Carpenter, three loads of cattle; Needham Bros., three loads of cattle and one load of hogs; Frank Weible one load of cattle, and William King one load of cattle.

John Dimmell's Health Improving.
Frank Weible, Leon Dimmell and Charles Unger who went to Excelsior Springs, Mo., last week to look after John Dimmell, returned with him on Thursday evening. We are glad to report that Mr. Dimmell is in a very much improved condition, and he no doubt will soon be fully recovered.

Meeting of Woman's Club.
Mrs. C. E. Shaw was hostess of the Thursday afternoon meeting of the Woman's club. Following the regular literary program, luncheon was served, the club members enjoying a social visit at this time. Mrs. A. C. Lutz will entertain the club at their next regular meeting.

F. I. Welbaum Going West.
F. I. Welbaum who has been on the Wilson farm two miles east of Winside, the past twelve years, had a public sale Tuesday which proved to be a good one. Mr. Welbaum is going out west and thinks possibly he may locate in Colorado. Mr. Wilson's son, Frank, will have charge of the farm the coming year.

Planning for Leap Year Party.
The C. O. S. club members were the guests of Miss Blanche Miller on last Friday. The evening was largely devoted to planning and making the necessary arrangements for carrying on their leap year party. The serving of luncheon formed an enjoyable conclusion for the evening. The club will meet with Miss Val Ecker on tomorrow evening.

Delightful Leap Year Party.
A most delightful Leap Year party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Fisher last Monday evening in honor of the birthday anniversary of their son Pearl. It was a surprise on the young man, planned by his young friends in the neighborhood. Games furnished amusement, and refreshments were served. About thirty guests were present.

Tribune Plant Leased.
Mrs. Nina B. Ecker who has had charge of the Winside Tribune for a number of years, has on account of failing health, given up her work. However, the publication has not passed from the family, as she has leased the plant to her son-in-law, M. H. Doyle, who is too well known in this community to need any introduction. We predict that "Cap" will keep the Tribune up to its present standard of efficiency, and will undoubtedly make a success of his new undertaking.

Former Winside Girl Married.
Yesterday's Sioux City Tribune. Announcements have been received in the city of the marriage of Miss Carrie Smith, daughter of Mrs. E. Smith of Medford, Ore., to Mr. John Frederick Bergesch, Jr. The wedding took place at Medford, Ore., Thursday, December 28, 1911. The young couple are at home at Mrs. E. Smith's parents' at Miss Smith who is living in the city, was a great favorite among the social set. She was a member of the Hopewell club of the high school, graduating with the class of 1904.

John Hansen Buy Farm.
John Hansen who recently came here from Florida, purchased a farm through the past week through our real estate man, E. B. Henderson. The tract of land, containing eighty acres, is four miles northwest of Winside and joins Peter Pryor's farm on the west. The place has no buildings on it; consequently, as soon as the weather will permit, Mr. Hansen will begin to build as he wants to move on the farm March 1.

Will Return to Wayne County.
Jay Wilson of Early, Ia., who has been here during the past week, reviewing acquaintances and looking after the interests of his farm, departed for his home Monday. Mr. Wilson rented his farm five miles west of Winside and retired from active labor last spring. However, the life here did not satisfy him, and he reports that he has been working at the carpenter trade most of the season except during the excessive heat of the summer months. He informed the writer that his town property in Early, Ia., was listed for sale, and that they expect to return here long to Wayne county to make that their future home. He is the president of the county for twenty years and he doesn't feel at home elsewhere. He has recently inherited a splendid Iowa farm from his father's estate.

First Leap Year Party.
The first Leap Year party in 1912 in this community, was given at the Winside opera house on last Saturday evening by the members of the C. O. S. club. These young ladies had planned a most delightful evening for their guests, having secured Collins Bros.' orchestra of Malvern, Ia., for the occasion. But there being no evening train on that date, the musicians failed to meet their engagement. To say this was a disappointment to the young ladies would be expressing it very mildly. However, twenty-four couples enjoyed dancing throughout the evening in piano music with a promise from the girls that they would entertain again when the weather moderates. The out of town guests were Misses Marjorie Kohl, Goldie Chase, Marguerite Heckert, and Messrs. Tracy Kohl, Paul Mims, Harry Gilderleeve and J. M. Strahan of Wayne, and Lutz Carter of Carroll.

Death of Mrs. O. A. Sellin.
This community was startled yesterday by the sad news of the death of Mrs. O. A. Sellin. This estimable family were residents of this community until two years ago when they went to Colorado. Having failed to meet their expectations there, Mr. Sellin returned about a month ago to rent a farm that they might return. He secured a place between Hoskins and Norfolk, and his car arrived the past week. To the amazement of their friends here they were informed that Mrs. Sellin had died in Norfolk the day before, and that the funeral would be held there this afternoon. Services to be conducted by Rev. G. H. Press of Winside. Mrs. Sellin leaves a husband and seven small children, the youngest being a babe three weeks old. The many friends of Mr. Sellin will grieve with him in his loss.

Reichert-Knecht Marriage.
When Samuel Reichert departed from here last week his actions and countenance led us to believe that it was the last trip he would make to South Bend alone, and the truth came to light. He was married at Omaha Wednesday, January 10, to Miss Ada Knecht of South Bend, Neb. This was not love at first sight, but an affair of long standing. Miss Knecht is the eldest daughter, and one of real worth, of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Knecht who were residents of this county and neighbors of the Reichert family for a number of years. Mr. Reichert is an energetic young man and deserving of the prize he has won. Mr. and Mrs. Reichert have not yet returned to Winside, but they undoubtedly will make their home on his farm four miles southwest of town.

CARROLL.
C. E. Chinn, editor of this department, will be glad to receive news for publication, and is authorized to accept new subscriptions and renewals for the Herald.

Mrs. Joe Jones was a Wayne visitor Tuesday.

Guy Zimmerman moved into town Tuesday.

Mrs. Edward Reese and son Franklin were in town Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Cobb, the Baptist choir journeyed to their home on Monday evening, packed snugly in an old-fashioned bobbed. After the usual weekly practice, all present partook of delicious supper. The church side visit her son William who is attending the agricultural school.

Ernest Hollows was a Wayne passenger Monday.

Miss Eva Burress was visiting home folks over Sunday.

Mr. William Hughes has been under the doctor's care for a few days.

Mrs. William Edwards returned to her home at Red Oak, Ia., Friday morning.

Mrs. Louis Brodmyer has been sick for nearly a week because of an attack of the tonsillitis.

C. E. Jones begins work on the Nelson building contract as soon as the weather permits.

Clara Bedford has returned from the hospital at Sioux City where he recently underwent an operation.

John Burress and wife returned Friday from Frighton and Hamilton where they visited relatives.

Arthur Hughes of the Wayne Normal, left the week end with home folks.

Leigh Baber went to Sioux City to be operated on for appendicitis.

Ed Fork, northeast of town, is putting up one of the most expensive barns in this part of the country, the lower part being constructed of concrete. Over a carload of cement is being used in the foundation.

Mrs. W. C. George and son Clark are expected home from eastern Ohio the latter part of the week. Some time ago Mrs. George was called to the bedside of her father who was then very low. She writes that he is slowly improving.

Corn Wanted.
Parties having corn to sell should correspond with Frank Swindle, Belden, Neb. He buys at any station in carload lots. 31114

Installation and Banquet.
Tuesday evening the Royal Neighbors and Modern Woodmen met in joint session for the installation of officers. A banquet was also served.

A Powerful Goat.
Mr. Harry Look went to O'Neill Saturday to be initiated into the mystery of the Knights of Columbus. He reports that about sixty men "rode the goat" at that time. It would appear that either that goat is a good one or that O'Neill has many of them. We do not envy the goat's position at all.

Death of Mrs. Baker.
Mrs. Baker who has been on the sick list for some weeks and was last week reported to be slowly improving, took a turn for the worse and passed away Monday evening. Short services were held at Wayne Wednesday, and a special service will be held at the Carroll M. E. church Sunday morning. Rev. Shacklock will conduct the service.

Begin Business.
Smith Hovelson Co., began their lumber business Saturday with Dave Theophilus in charge. Dave has had charge of the lumber department in the Bagley-Kennard company at this place and now becomes manager for the new company. This certainly speaks well of the young man's ability.

Water in Standpipe Frozen.
The extremely cold weather of the past few weeks froze the water in the standpipe to such an extent, that no water could be taken from it. A number of workmen supplied with ice working machinery solved the problem by cutting through the ice to the pipe below. The tank was then filled and the difficulty removed for the present at least.

Tops Chicago Market.
John M. Peterson succeeded in topping the Chicago market with his cattle shipped last week, the thirty-four head averaging 1524 pounds and selling for $8.50 per hundred. The other two loads weighing about 200 pounds less per head brought the satisfactory price of $7.90 per hundred. The cattle were of good quality and had been on feed since August. The price obtained speaks well for the ability of this young stockman.

Live Stock Shipments.
The following live stock shipments were made from Carroll during the past week: Shannon Bros., four loads of cattle to Chicago and one load to Omaha; Burress Bros., two loads of cattle to Chicago; John Getman, one load of cattle to Omaha; Steve Davis, one load of cattle to Sioux City; Saunders-Western Co., two loads of hogs to Sioux City. This same company have two more loads of hogs in their sheds waiting for the cars.

Sleighing Party.
In response to an invitation from Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Cobb, the Baptist choir journeyed to their home on Monday evening, packed snugly in an old-fashioned bobbed. After the usual weekly practice, all present partook of delicious supper. The church side proved as enjoyable that the participants have decided to repeat the experience and will be entertained next week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Hurlbert. Here is hoping the snow stays on.

Revival Meetings at Baptist Church.
Commencing Sunday evening, January 28, the First Baptist church will hold protracted meetings under the leadership of Rev. Bucknot of Tilden, Neb. The speaker comes well recommended as an earnest, faithful worker in presenting the gospel, and has had considerable experience in evangelistic work. His wife, who generally accompanies him as a singer, will be present at all the meetings. It is expected that the Baptist state missionary, Rev. Fred Berry of Lincoln, will be present for a few days during the meetings. All churches are earnestly requested to not only attend, but to take part in the work of winning souls to a better life.

Singing Class Recital.
Next Tuesday evening's session will close the term of the singing school which has been in progress at the First Baptist church under the leadership of Professor M. S. Davies of Wayne. The work was somewhat hindered by the continued cold weather but the average attendance was about thirty and considerable progress was made by those interested. The class will give a recital at the First Baptist church on Friday evening, January 26, at 8 o'clock. Professor Davies will bring some of his advanced pupils from Wayne to take part in the program, which will include bass and soprano solos, duets and several selections by a male quartet. The whole school will render some lively selections in chorus and the program will be interspersed with numerous recitations, and instrumental music. Admission will be 15 and 25 cents; children under ten years of age admitted free if accompanied by parents. Proceeds will be used to defray expenses of class for instruction, heat and light. Your attendance will be appreciated by the class and leader who will try to give you value received.

Robert Fritchard's Duroc Sale.
Robert Fritchard held his annual sale of high class Duroc Jersey hogs last Friday afternoon. The weather man dropped the mercury down to 42 degrees below zero early Friday morning and the intense cold continued throughout the day. The sale went off under a hot heater, but the strong south wind overcame its effects making it very uncomfortable for those present. On account of the continued cold weather prior to the sale many breeders from distant points could not leave
