 Dr. P. Neff, the practical joker of Wayne, was proving around town last Monday, and the boys generally gave him a wide berth, fearing that he might be loaded for some unexpedited party.
 A preacher went out into the country to marry a couple. The groom placed a crisp bill in the parson's hand, and the parson pushed it into his vest pocket without looking at it. His lady was $2.75, and he pulled his face out to pay the levycorn. The parson's thoughts were wicked when he saw that the man he had married had put him off with a dollar.

From the Wayne Herald, March 1, 1902:
 The ladies of Wayne had a big, successful log-venet party.
 Died, March 1, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Osborn.
 Born, to Mr. and Mrs. Charles O. Edwards, March 1, a son, to Mr. and Mrs. George Dittiger, March 3, a son.

From the Ponca Journal, February 26, 1880.
 The one on the Missouri river at this place broke up and commenced running Monday afternoon. Elwell & Son announce that they will have their ferry boat in readiness to run by next Monday if the river is clear of ice.
 The engineer Wright was in town, accompanied by two other gentlemen from Massachusetts, who propose purchasing farms in the southern part of the county and go extensively into the cattle and sheep growing business.
 The "Dunes," recently all at once, toppling implement with open arms, and may they prosper and grow rich while residents here.
 On Thursday night a fire, supposed to be the work of an incendiary, took place at the residence of Mrs. J. T. Ryan, who was burned and also the millinery store of M. P. Acher. Most of the goods in both buildings were saved. There was an insurance on the saloon of $300. Several other buildings were burned, and a few more were damaged and some very near being burned, but were with great difficulty saved.
 The work of the Ponca Coal company is temporarily at a stand. The hole which had been bored to a depth of 200 feet, was abandoned, but work by the miners on account of not being able to get the drift out. This is a serious misfortune, considering the great expense and time involved. A meeting of the coal company was held last evening, and another meeting will be held tonight. It is probable that this check in exploring for coal will be only temporary, and that in a few days a new hole will be started.

From Ponca Journal, February 28, 1878:
 The Iowa volcano seems to be warming up again. A few weeks ago it was thought to be dying out, but it has been back with a vengeance, and rain water has been striking up and vigorizing the fire, and the prospect of another eruption is becoming good. The tremblings and gasings of the earth immediately surrounding the volcanic field are also greatly increasing.
 DeSoto City now has two newspapers. The Era and the Mail are excellent papers and worthy of liberal support. We trust they will get along together in peace and harmony, and we are rejoicing from the fact that the Mail is inclined to criticize Father Vision on account of his leaving the country some years since.
 Summer in the midst of winter still continues. The unfortunates, who in the northern country, are wading in two feet or more of snow, and are perhaps passing it out of their heads so as to render them passable, will hardly believe that here we have no snow at all; that the roads are dry; that people are sowing wheat and that the sun shines out so warm and pleasant as to render fires unnecessary except in the morning and evening.

OLD INDIAN FIGHTER DEAD.
 Speaking of the recent death of Mr. Wisconsin at Brookly Bottoms the Ponca Leader says:
 The old-timers here will remember this historic character and the appalling circumstances that made him known to all. In 1883 Mr. Wisconsin was on duty as a soldier and away from his family, who lived near the river and two miles west of the Dixon county line. It was here that the awful fate befell this family at the mercies hands of Indians. Mr. Wisconsin was soldier in Co. F, Nebraska cavalry and with General Sully at Fort Bertholds against the Indians. Mrs. Wisconsin had to go to the town of St. James to buy groceries and would have been home early but for a rain that detained her. Coming home when it had grown dark, she put her horse in the barn and started for the house and in a few feet from the door fell over the dead body of her oldest son. Running to the house for help she heard what she supposed to be the noise of bulging within the door-locks and implored the help of men, but the fear that a large band of Indians lay in wait prevented anyone from reaching the place until the next day. There they found three of the five children dead and the other two in a dying condition.
 The children had been killed by four Indians who had crossed the river from Dakota, and the oldest son had given desperate fight but had been overpowered.
 When the awful news reached Mr. Wisconsin he secured his release and came home. So distracted was he that he made the avenging of the crime his life long duty. He has made a rule to kill every Indian who has crossed his path since that day. It is said that he has placed a nick in his rifle stock for every Indian he has dropped with it, and the nicks are many.
 The family has lived on this same farm until the present day, and now at the extreme age of 100 years the man who has been the terror of the red man, passed away.

FOR A GOOD YEAR'S BUSINESS.
 Lincoln Trade Review: Business is to a larger extent than is generally appreciated, that which we make it. The business man who enters the year's campaign for business with confidence and energy and a determination to make it a better year than ever, is doing much more towards securing results, desired through the fact of his reality than he is wnt to take credit for.
 There is a psychology in business. If the business man are all of a hopeful mind and disposition, if they are looking on the bright side of things and anticipating much, much will come to him. There is an influence that permeates the minds of people, that establishes conditions which is too little recognized.
 In these opening spring weeks in this state, the business men of any community are entering conditions that will work out during the later months far more than they realize. They can make for better times for themselves and for others.

A WOMAN'S BACK.
 The Aches and Pains Will Disappear if the Advice of This Wayne Citizen is Followed.
 "A woman's back has many aches and pains. Most times 'tis the kidneys' fault. Backache is really kidney ache. That's why Doan's Kidney Pills cure it.
 Many Wayne women know this. Read what one has to say about it. Mrs. Joseph Schmalstieg of Wayne, Neb., says: "It gives me pleasure to confirm the public statement I gave in 1907, endorsing Doan's Kidney Pills. I have not a day since that is going to go ahead and make new records every year, and this applies to the individual business man.
 The town that does not change in its appearance, that makes no improvements, that maintains a stolid indifference towards the community surrounding it from which it gets its support, is the town that will not be better trade or larger growth and expanding confidences.
 The town that is awake and looking ever for better conditions to do something by its surrounding territory to secure the appreciation of the outside world is the town that is going to go ahead and make new records every year, and this applies to the individual business man."

Fit Better and Wear Longer

THEY wear longer because THEY fit better

It is well known that a garment that is shaped to receive the least strain will outwear one that is ill-fitting and binding at certain points.

GLOVER OVERALLS ARE "ROOMY" WITHOUT BEING "BAGGY".

They are the satisfactory kind.

The standard of GLOVER made garments is consistently and persistently maintained.

Ask for and get them. There are none "just as good."

SCHOOL NOTES.

The total receipts of the school entering last Friday evening amounted to $14.00.

Miss Hardy has resumed her work in the high school after an absence of two weeks, due to illness. Miss Calhoun, who substituted in her absence, returned to her home in Ashland Monday morning.

The first examination for second semester work will be given Thursday and Friday.

A very interesting basketball game took place Saturday afternoon between the North and Wayne high schools. The Wayne boys gaining the victory by a score of 16 to 17. The North high school sent a large delegation of rooters.

Tuesday evening after school hours witnessed two games between the Normal third and our second team; the other our third against the Normal Middle. The high school boys won both games, the former by a score of 21 to 10 and the latter 10 to 7.

The basketball has been one of the second grade and work is moving along nicely.

IMPORTANT ANNIVERSARY IN THE HISTORY OF THE COUNTY.

The Herald has ascertained that the interesting cases on the celebration of the forty-third anniversary of a Wayne man's wedding were written by Mr. A. J. Ferguson, who has just passed this important milestone in his life. The story is narrated by a friend who did not disclose the identity of the author, and who had prevailed on Mr. Ferguson to allow the lines to be printed anonymously. Mr. A. J. Ferguson who is one of Wayne's pioneer citizens, was married on February 15, 1867, at Urbana, Ill., and for some years he and his wife lived on an Iowa farm. They came to Wayne in the spring of 1870, when she was an infant of five years, and they have resided here ever since. On coming to the new and growing community, Mr. Ferguson, in partnership with the late J. D. King of San Diego, Cal., went into the land, loan, insurance and collection business, and he remained steadily in the same profession during the years. His industry, integrity and business ability enabled him to make a success of his life work, and he is now enjoying the fruits of his labors.

DEALING IN STOCKS.

Know What You Are Buying Before Investing Your Money.

We hear of fortunes quickly made in Wall street, of millions who have accumulated enormous wealth by a lucky strike of investments that have gone wrong, and of hundreds of thousands of these instances are there? Just a few, while countless thousands and hundreds of thousands have lost everything in unsuccessful ventures.

The prosperous, successful man or woman is the one who buys with knowledge of what he or she is buying, whether it be a piece of beef, a dozen of eggs, a horse, a house or stocks and bonds.

Money has been made in Wall street and will continue to be made. Those who buy stocks when they sell low and make money. The operation is no different from buying a house or a farm at a bargain and selling it at a profit. But one should exercise just as much care in one transaction as in the other. Have nothing to do with those who offer glittering opportunities to get rich cheap. This will save your money. It may sound very nice to say that one owns a thousand shares of a gold mine at copper mine with a pure value of $10,000 and that cost the holder only $50 or $100. But what use is such a certificate unless it has real value? Better put the $50 or $100 in one share of a dividend paying stock and be satisfied with moderate returns and a moderate profit on advance the stock may enjoy.

PERILOUS BOATING

A New Zealand Stream That Yields a Series of Thrills.

RUNNING THE RIVER RAPIDS.

The Journey Down the Wanganui is Highly Exciting in Spots, Where the Swaying Steamer Plunges Through the Lines of Boiling Breakers.

Steambating in New Zealand, to judge by Charles Edward Fildes, a young man in the Twentieth Century Magazine, has in it more excitement than relaxation. It is a more or less nerve racking experience not only for the anxious passengers, but for the seasoned steersman men as well.

The swift water courses that come from the high mountains of the islands are full of rapids that can keep the most skillful pilot on the anxious seat and that have been successfully run. This is the story of such an achievement somewhere on the Wanganui river.

The captain, a manured and active young Scot, stands at the great wheel looking on the upper deck, where he can see low and stern. Two stout Maori youths sit on the forecastle, two hovers above the rudder; all are armed with long iron sled poles that are to the water, but chiefly to such a degree for the voyager's defense.

The boat is slipping smoothly along the unimpeded rapids. You look up at a sudden and see the water rushing over the rapid is directly in front of you, the steamer is tearing into it, and how can you vessel get through such a place? Here the boat is over the rocks and slugging past the rocks. You can see the bottom everywhere. It looks only an inch or so above the water, and you will be running over like a log, and you will be gunged at such bow.

Meanwhile the captain upon the wheel and forth like a squirrel's cage, with his gaze fixed intently upon the water just ahead, or if he need through it and scanned the stones beneath. The brown Maori stand forward and aft, with their poles in their hands.

As the boat plunges into the first line of boiling breakers—the low slugs under you, the swift current strikes the stern and slugs it sideways. A tremendous clatter arises, the boat creaks and shakes as if she were falling apart, and you, standing on the deck and nervously holding the hand rail, give yourself up for lost, for the keel is already grinding on the rocks and gravel of the bottom.

"Now, then! Now, then!" yells the captain. The Maori put their strength into the poles, and the boat is sliding sidewise into the bowlers that lie like teeth she slips out through the passage into the placid green and all the time the boat is over the rocks and slugging past the rocks.

CARD OF THANKS.

We wish to express heartfelt thanks to our many friends who so kindly aided during the sickness and death of our darling baby, Madge—Mr. and Mrs. John Chichester.

The Strange Sea Spider.

One of the strangest creatures of the sea is a certain species of sea spider named Xanthoidea gracilis. It has a body about the size of a bit of thread, a quarter of an inch long and tied into four knots. The head looks like a small spider, the body like a long, thin tube into which the food goes. It has a very curious feature, that is, that whatever the spider eats circulates through its legs, and in fact, the legs are like the body. In the morning the spider is fat, but in the afternoon it is thin. The spider is not a very large creature, but it is very interesting. It is found in the sea, and it is very common. It is very interesting to see it, and it is very interesting to see it.

Lost and Found.

"Almost too strange to be true," said a woman who had lost and found a small dog. The dog was found in the street, and the woman was very glad to see it. The dog was very small and very cute. The woman was very glad to see it, and she was very glad to see it.

Fact and Fiction.

"I suppose your wandering boy will come home and pay the mortgage of the farm as he does to Christmas eve."

"No," replied Farmer Corntassel; "that ain't his custom. When he gets through making suggestions for the year, he means another mortgage."—Washington Star.

What Bachelors Miss.

"You bachelors don't know what you miss," said the married man.

"What do you mean by that?" asked one of the bachelors.

"I mean that you miss the attention of knowing that what we miss isn't lifted from our pockets while we are asleep," retorted the bachelor.—Philadelphia Record.

Move On.

"Don't get any more gas to contemplate anxiously what is in front, but move. If you are faithful God will carry you through.—Frothingham.

A DEAL IN STOCKS.

Comment of the Man Who Witnessed the Quick Transaction.

Sitting at his desk on the tenth floor of a Wall street building, the man in charge of the Investment Department of a Street Exchange house, was discussing the bond market with a visitor. A message from the telephone room was laid upon his desk. "Parson, he said to his visitor as he picked up his telephone instrument and asked for a Philadelphia connection. "If immediate relieved the receiver, and the discussion of the bond market was resumed. The telephone bell rang. "Parson, he said the investment expert again as he lifted the telephone instrument. "I'll take those fifty shares," he said into the telephone.

He took the message. He broke off the conversation, wrote a message for the wire and sent it off to the telephone room by a boy. "The discussion of the bond market was resumed once more and continued until another message came from the wire room. The investment expert merely glanced at it and went on with the conversation.

As a rule, the man who likes to tell how much money he spent, didn't spend it.

Usually there are megaphones enough to make all the important announcements.

Farming will never become quite as soft as it looks on the front page of a farm paper.

What has become of the old-fashioned man who lighted his pipe with a coal to save matches?

Did it ever happen that you didn't look in the directory before you called a number, and the wrong bell was rung and an innocent subscriber disturbed?

When the wrong party answered probably you said "Central gave me the wrong number." Of course she did. If you called the wrong number, why shouldn't you get it?

Another time, perhaps you thought you remembered and you called the wrong number.

Probably the next moment the right number came to mind. You quickly signalled "Central!" and asked for the correct number.

Meanwhile the party of the number you first called answered when his bell rang. He got no reply. You were to blame.
