THE TRIAL OF MAGGIE DAVIS AT HARTINGTON

Special from Hartington to this morning's Sioux City Journal: Hartington, Neb., March 6.—A jury was secured in the Maggie Davis case at Hartington this afternoon. About a dozen jurors were empaneled before a state judge, selection could be made and was removed at one time that a change of venue would have to be taken on account of the difficulty in obtaining a jury in this county. Every juror was brought a most rigid examination by both the state and the defense and both sides exhausted their full allowance of peremptory challenges before the jury was finally empaneled.

It was known the jury was selected, the work of taking testimony was at once begun and will be pushed with all possible dispatch. It is the intention of the court to finish up the case this week if possible, but how much time may be consumed in the examination and cross examination it is hard to tell. It is evident that both the state and defense will contest every step and the trial may cover a number of days.

The first witness called to the stand was the state's witness, H. A. Hall, the hired man who was with the late Richard Churchill at the time he was shot. Mr. Hall is the state's star witness, for he was an eye witness of the tragedy and is very clear in his testimony. He testified that the defendant employer was walking in the barn shortly after supper on the evening of the murder when Mrs. Davis walked in to the building and with her, G. J. told you what I would do to you if you did not do as I told you. Mr. Hall testified that only when he was talking to the milk stool was, "You, I know."

The testimony of the state's witnesses as to the killing is so clear that the defense in the first trial made no effort to break it down, and will probably follow the same course in this.

The main contention of the defense will be that Maggie Davis was crazed by the sorrow and suffering occasioned by the cruel treatment that she had received at the hands of her lover, and that she was actually insane at the time she killed him.

Letters and photographs will be introduced to show the intimate relationship which existed between the man and woman. It is expected that the state will be introduced to sustain the contention that the physical condition of the prisoner prior to the time of the murder, combined with the great mental anguish received on hearing of Churchill's departure to another woman, rendered her at least temporarily insane.

The trial is attracting a great deal of attention and the court room is crowded with both men and women. The examination of the state's witnesses is going on considerable time and the arguments of the attorneys will commence before the latter part of the week.

Proceedings were delayed somewhat by the attorney for the state failing to get the jurors to report for duty. On investigation it was found that he had gone home last night under the misapprehension that he had been excused. The sheriff went after the missing juror and returned with him just before dinner.

Maggie Davis, the prisoner, occupies her accustomed seat in the courtroom and scarcely ever takes her eyes from the witness stand.

DEMAND FOR FEDERAL BUILDING IGNORED

Rehebt the spectacle of maintaining a luxurious place called "a grandfrater" supposed to devote a small fraction of the annual gross to real business, and yet the demand for a federal building in a city like Wayne continues unheeded and unsatisfied. Wayne's office receipts which reflect the business "importance" of the city, have a "good record" in favor of a "consolidation" in the matter of a government building. The claim for the improvement has not been based on a desire to bolster up appearances or make a show. The claim is supported by pressing needs. A fall is indicated it is probable congress is in possession of the facts. One congressman after another has made a move toward getting a building, and there are other applicants.

JURY TERM OF COURT CONCLUDED FRIDAY

The jury was dismissed in the district court at Hartington, Neb., this morning. The case of Richard Ritz vs. John Coleman who was sued for damages alleged by the plaintiff, was tried before a jury last Friday, and resulted in a verdict for the defendant. The state vs. George was continued. In the case of the state vs. Richard Ritz, who was under a peace bond, the defendant was discharged from further appearance in court, the complainant, John Coleman, having removed from the county. The trial of Mike O'Connell and John McElroy charged with violating a city ordinance by disorderly conduct, took place Thursday and resulted in conviction. A motion was filed for a new trial.

Mr. William Erwin and Miss Della Nelson of near Concord were united in marriage at the Presbyterian manse, yesterday at high noon by the pastor, Rev. Alexander Corkey. They were accompanied by the groom's brother and bride's sister. After the ceremony the bride enjoyed a wedding dinner at the Union Hotel. Mr. Erwin and bride will go housekeeping on a farm near Concord.

CONTRACT WILL BE AWARDED MARCH 20

March 20 is the date fixed by the library board and city council for awarding contracts for building a new city Carnegie library. Henry and John Carr, local known contractors, are figuring on the library building, and several are said to be preparing bids for the city hall. In two weeks the contracting will be disposed of and the contract awarded. The work on each building should start as soon as the ground can be prepared for the foundations. These are two very important improvements.

At a meeting of the school board Monday evening, a proposition to add manual training and domestic sciences to the course of the school was discussed and considered favorably. It is expected provision will be made for such branches in the employment of teachers. The teaching force for next year will soon be selected.

Rev. Alexander Corkey went today to Cedar Bluffs, Neb., his former charge, to give an address before the church brotherhood. He was accompanied by Mrs. Corkey and daughter Lucille.

STIMSON'S SPEECH

Here are the main points made in the speech of Stimson at Chicago, speech Tuesday night:

"I am for the recombination of President Taft."

"I am now and always have been a supporter of the recombination of the party."

"Mr. Taft has faithfully carried out the progressive faith."

"I entered public life under the inspiration of Theodore Roosevelt."

"I am a firm believer in his great national policies."

"I now remain his sincere friend."

"But I believe, those who are depending on him against his original intentions into the arena again."

"Mr. Taft, as jeopardizing instead of helping real progress."

"Mr. Taft has faithfully carried out his pledges of four years ago."

"The recall of judges would bring the courts down into the water of politics."

TWO CORN EXPERTS LECTURE Big Crowd Notwithstanding Unfavorable Time of Day for Meeting - Success of Plan.

The seed corn special arranged in Wayne Monday evening and continued for about an hour, notwithstanding the unfavorable time of day to attract farmers, a considerable number attended. Two lecturers were fitted with people anxious to hear about testing seed corn.

There is no doubt that the organized effort being put forth in behalf of proper testing of seed corn will result in greater care and increased production. THE SEED CORN SPECIALS. The seed corn specialists which were held in connection with the efforts of the business men of Omaha, were greeted by record crowds at almost every point they stopped, despite the heavy snows and blizzard which prevailed the early part of the week of February 20.

With two trains to run during the week of March 4, it is estimated that the number of farmers who will hear lectures will amount to about 45,000, or more than one-third of the entire list of farmers of the state.

At all points the trains were well received. Hardly was there a disposition to question the motive back of the movement. The business men of the state and farmers realized that the campaign is simply one to call attention to the importance of the desire to see to it all something. Even the farmers were advised to get the seed corn from their own cribs if possible, and if not to buy from their nearest neighbors.

WANTS A COURT HOUSE. Stanton, Neb., March 5. A determined effort is being made by the citizens and taxpayers of this county to build an up-to-date court house this year. The county commissioners have secured the plans and specifications of a $400,000 court house, the same as that was built in Clay county, S. D.

THE WEEK WITH THE CHURCHES

German Evangelical Lutheran. (Rev. J. H. Karpenstein, Pastor.) Services at 11 a. m. Sunday and Sunday school at 10.

St. Mary's Catholic Church. (Rev. William Kearns, Pastor.) Mass at 10:30 every Sunday morning. Sunday school at the appointed hour.

St. Paul's Lutheran Church. (Rev. C. J. Binger, Pastor.) Regular preaching services every Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. Sunday school at 10 o'clock. Cathedral in attendance at 2 p. m. Saturday.

First Baptist Church. (Rev. B. P. Richardson, Pastor.) Evangelist Will Pugsley will preach at both services every Sunday. Last Sunday was a great day. During the day services were held and over twenty donations for Christ were made. In the evening the church could not accommodate the crowd that gathered to hear Mr. Pugsley. Many went away while many others stood in the rear of the room for two hours listening to the speaker's penetrating message.

Professor Coleman had a chorus of nearly forty voices, and the singing was of a high order. The College choir sang the songs, "Where is My Boy Tonight," with great effectiveness. We have received two hundred copies of a new song book and will be able to help all join in the singing. At 3 p. m. Sunday Brother Pugsley will give his important sermon to men only in this service we look for the climax meeting of the series. Every man in Wayne should hear this sermon if possible. This meeting will be for men. Because of the afternoon meeting for men, there will be no young people's meeting.

We extend a cordial invitation to all to hear Brother Pugsley, the "Canadian Cyclist."

Presbyterian Church. (Rev. Alexander Corley, Pastor.) "New Year's morning service" worship will begin at 11 o'clock and the subject of the pastor's sermon will be "Our Temptations." The usual illustrated talk to children will also be given. In the evening the congregation will join with the union services with the Baptist church.

The Sunday school begins promptly at 9:50 a. m., opening with a song service. The Junior will meet at 2 o'clock and the G. E. at 6:30 p. m.

Second Methodist Church. March 25, the day for the purification of the church offerings for benevolence for the church year, which ends March 31.

The society will meet at St. Paul's church social on Friday evening, at the home of Mrs. P. H. Kohl.

Greatly to the regret of the music committee of the church and of the congregation, Mrs. James Miller has been compelled to resign as organist on account of absence from the city. Mrs. Miller is an organist of recognized ability and her services for the past few years have been greatly appreciated by the members of the church. She has been replaced temporarily by an extended visit, and her return expected to reside in Sioux City.

First Methodist Church. (Rev. William Gorst, Pastor.) The Ladies Aid society will tender a banquet to the men of the congregation and to twenty-five or thirty out-of-town guests from the congregations at Wakefield, Grace, church, Carroll and Winfield on the evening of March 21.

Judge Dryden of Kearney, will be the after-dinner speaker, and their addresses will be a great treat to every man who hears.

Next Sunday morning the pastor will preach on the topic, "What is Sunday School?" Sunday school at 11:45, 7:30, 8:30, and at 7:30 the congregation will join in the union service at the Baptist church.

STATE NORMAL NEWS.

Miss Mattie Gifford of Bolden, was a guest of Miss Dewell Tuesday.

Evangelist Pugsley addressed a union meeting of the Y. M. C. and Y. W. C. A. Sunday afternoon.

Blanche Foreman, George J. Church and Don B. Mayfield registered in the Normal the first of the week. At a meeting of the board of education Tuesday, Elementary State Certificates were granted to Algie Samuelson and Nellie Street.

A region of the graduate students of the Northwestern university was held at the fandel hotel in Lincoln Friday evening. Miss McNeil was unable to be present, but sent a paper to be read before the meeting.

In the program given by Crescent Literary society last Saturday evening, considerable interest was aroused in the discussion of the question "Resilient."

That Theodore Roosevelt should, under no circumstances, be a candidate for president in 1912.

The game of basket ball held in the gymnasium last Friday evening between the Normal and the Tekamah high school was interesting from beginning to the end and resulted in a victory for the Normal by a close score.

Our deepest sympathy is extended to Ed Meier in the death of his father, Mr. G. F. Meier of Philip, S. D. The March issue of the Flame has recently come from the press and it is considered the best number of the year.

The Normal has reason to be proud of its football team and of the able manner in which it is conducted.

Professor I. H. Brittel of the department of physical science owns a farm near Elgin, Neb., which is under the management of D. W. Tomlin, a young farmer who has earned a reputation for successful corn culture. Mr. Tomlin has a custom of selecting his own seed corn from the field each fall. Last September he gathered his own seed corn as usual and sent to the department of agriculture of the Wayne State Normal the best crop of corn from the selected seed and ten choice ears taken from a crib of corn gathered from the same field. Professor E. E. Lackey, head of the department of agriculture, tested the seed with the following results: Of fifty choice ears, twenty were of selected seed; fifty-five were strong, four were weak, and only one failed of germination. Of sixty ears selected from ears selected from the crib, twenty-four were strong, six weak, and thirty-one failed of germination. Of the selected seed 11.6 per cent were strong, 6.6 per cent weak and 1.8 per cent did not germinate. Of the crib selection, 40 per cent were strong, 10 per cent were weak and fifty per cent did not germinate.

The movement of agriculture was judged to present to the students such an excellent example of the value of full selection of seed and Professor Lackey feels that the Normal schools with the co-operation of successful farmers can do much to improve the quality and yield of corn in Nebraska.

A large number of pupils received perfect attendance certificates for the month ending March 3.

The Glee club has finished the four cantatas against Cantata and has read over one-third of the oration for the Maunian law.

The following shows the per cent of attendance and punctuality for the month ending March 3:

Table with columns: Room, Attend., Punct., Total. Rows: First Grade, Second Grade, Third Grade, Fourth Grade, Fifth Grade, Sixth Grade, Seventh Grade, Eighth Grade, High School.

Fourteen kindergarten pupils were perfect in attendance and punctuality for the month ending March 3.

The receipts of the school for the month amounting to $101.00.

pones were $14.35. This leaves $86.65 to be expended for decorations or equipment.

On Wednesday morning Rev. Pugsley addressed the high school in a very pleasing and entertaining manner. Mr. Pugsley advised the students not to be pawns, to have visions of great and noble things, to be economical, not to kick, to have push and pluck and to be loyal. "Loyalty," he says, "begins at home. Be loyal to father and mother, to your teachers, to your fellow students, and to truth."

Young America at School. Discipline, like duty, should begin at home. Habits of neatness and obedience are easily formed if training is early begun, and respect for authority should first be learned at the mother's knee. It will naturally follow, then, that when the child enters school he will obey his teacher, respect the rights of his playmates, give attention to lessons and be careful of books and other school property.

From the teacher's point of view the following are some of the things that the home can do to make the school more efficient: See that the child is put to bed at the proper hour so that he will get a sufficient amount of sleep before his lessons will constitute a burden to the child concerned; see that the upper grammar grade pupils and the high school pupils observe the proper hours of home study; see that their habits are attended to regularly and properly; provide proper equipment, including the use of coffee and tea, and keep them off the street after nightfall.

Harmonious understanding between parent and teacher is essential to the highest efficiency of the school. Such understanding gives the teacher a clue to the child's nature under her care, and enables her to adjust the work that the child's weak mental and moral parts are nurtured, and his overstrong tendencies delicately curbed. On the other hand, the mother who is a confidant whom she can trust, and two heads and two hearts working together for the child's best interest are just twice as effective as two, each working separately.

FLOW GRASSHOPPERS UNDER. Omaha, Neb., March 5.—Professor Sewell, graduate state entomologist, is out warning Nebraska farmers to look out for grasshoppers this year. He says the damage done by grasshoppers has been steadily increasing for several years and that the dry season of 1911 is especially favorable for them. He recommends early and deep plowing as a means of extermination. The birds laid in pods near the surface and he says if the ground is plowed deeply before the insects hatch the eggs will be buried so deeply the young grasshoppers cannot make their way to the surface. He particularly warns farmers against permitting land to go without plowing at all, as under such conditions a big crop of grasshoppers is almost certain.

SELLERS CASE AGAIN. Valentine, Neb., March 5.—After discussing all minor cases up for their consideration, the grand jury of Cherry county started the investigation of the Sellers murder case. All will be carried on with the utmost care and the case will be sifted to the very bottom in an endeavor to settle once for all the mystery connected with the case. New witnesses have been subpoenaed within the last few days until the number listed in this case alone has passed the 100 mark. The county near the scene of the crime remains quiet of the other judges here of various times, when the only ones left at home were the sick and infants. There is certainly a kind of a family feud, as well as the death of the neighbor, who has not been called to tell what he knows of the tragedy before the grand jury. Great difficulty was encountered in securing men to watch the horses and care for the stock in the absence of the people. One boy 15 years of age is left in charge of the stock on seven neighboring ranches. It takes him well nigh all day to do the morning chores on all the places, and he has to be immediately after dinner on the evening work.

MAY PROVE FATAL. Witten, S. D., March 4.—Word reaches here that Will Suemnick, the general store keeper at Farnham, and Henry Kawer, a homesteader adjoining there, had an encounter that may prove fatal. Mr. Suemnick had some cows running at large and they strayed to the place of Mr. Kawer's farm. Kawer, as they were in his corn, it is said, and when Mr. Suemnick came after them and Mr. Kawer refused to return them over, hot words ensued, and it is reported that Mr. Suemnick, picking up a rock, attempted to strike Kawer down with his horse. Kawer being on the ground, Mr. Suemnick struck

How About Your Seed Corn?

Will it grow? This is the important question of the day, and NOW IS THE TIME TO FIND OUT. You can't be too sure about the germinating qualities of the seed you intend to plant. There is only one safe way—test every ear or buy seed tested that way. We use the Holden-Hot Water system and eliminate harmful fungi from each ear of seed.

FOR BASEBALL LEAGUE. Saturday's Norfolk Daily News: Baseball enthusiasts—from Stratton, Wayne, Madison, Winslow, and Pierce will hold a meeting in Norfolk some time in March for the purpose of organizing a baseball league of northern Nebraska towns. No date has been set for the meeting as yet, but Alfred Pont of Stratton, who is boosting the movement, declares that the date will be such this month.

Several Norfolk fans have given Pont at Stratton some encouragement. In a letter to Secretary Hawkins of the Commercial club, Pont says: "I have had correspondence with Wayne, Madison, Winfield, Pierce, and with the exception of the latter town, all have agreed to have a representative at a meeting at Norfolk to talk over the situation of organizing a baseball league of the four towns named, with Norfolk and Stratton. Doubtless, Pierce said that the proposition sounded very good to them. The idea is to have two games a week with a salary limit so that all towns can finish the season. This will be the Sunday for these teams, they play Sunday baseball for games with teams not in the league."

Many of last year's players are ready to come back to Norfolk to play ball, says Joseph Falls—Several of them are in the city and will be seen on local diamonds as soon as the first practice games are started.

The diving jack diamond can be again utilized as a ball park, according to an announcement made by the owners, who are in the favor of a ball park closer to the city.

Temperance doesn't mean quitting one's bad habits; for instance, it is possible for a man to chew tobacco without taking so much at one time that he won't be considered well balanced.

"Don't let the baby soldier of getting a sore on my neck," of the Don's Ointment gives instant relief, cures quickly. Perfectly safe for children. All druggists sell it.

Few people nowadays go as far as blattant Billy Sunday in labelling dancing a devilish device. Dancing is good exercise, conducive to grace and late hours. But something besides what one thinks of it may determine whether it is good or bad. For there are dances and dances, and one needs to be a grade to see that it is something more than the poetry of motion in some of the more varieties. A Salome's evger, frinastice, should not be compared with the Virginia rail, and the turkey strut with the modest nunnet.

THE EARLY DAYS IN TWO COUNTIES. From the Logan Valley Herald, published March 7, 1912: Henry Lee passed a street lamp in front of his store.

Rev. J. F. Helmer tendered his resignation as pastor of the Baptist church, Arthur English and James McCulloch put up a building for a skating rink.

A. B. Shaler was struck and killed down by a runaway team, causing injury to his back.

Carris are out announcing the approaching inheritance of Dr. C. Patterson and Mrs. Maudie Gaudin.

From the Wayne Herald March 21, 1912: J. M. Cherry resigns his position at the Milligan elevator.

T. W. Moran buys of A. C. Crockett the residence occupied by A. A. Welch.

The Herald grows enthusiastic over Senator Faddock's bill in congress providing for public buildings for cities of Wayne's class.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Stratton, March 17, a son to Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Brockington, March 21, a daughter.

From the Wayne Herald, March 20, 1912: Melop Brothers held the meet market of J. H. Gull, expecting to take possession April 13.

Local market: Corn, 40 cents; wheat, 1.25; butter, 17 cents; eggs, 12 cents.

P. H. Kohl, J. H. Gull, George Lochsack, H. Gettman and Fred Schmill leave on a trip to the state of Washington.

The 5-year old son of W. B. Gamble had his face badly scalded by accidentally tipping a kettle of boiling water on himself.

Married, March 7, 1912, Mr. Albert Bastian and Miss Florence A. Liveringhouse, Rev. C. J. Binger officiating.

The following citizens' municipal ticket was nominated: Henry Ley, mayor; Fred French, clerk; H. S. Longland, treasurer; R. F. Feather, police judge; C. A. Chace, C. S. Beebe and John Sheraban, councilmen.

From the Ponca Journal, March 5, 1912: Married, at LaPorte, on Sunday, February 23, by Rev. A. Woodford, Henry Lehman and Miss Martha Agher, both of Wayne county; on the 6th of March, 1912, at Ponca, by Rev. H. Wheeler, Mr. W. C. Bailey to Miss Mary A. Corry, both of Dixon county.

A letter from H. Boardcher who writes to O. H. Woodford, Henry Lehman and Miss Martha Agher, both of Wayne county; on the 6th of March, 1912, at Ponca, by Rev. H. Wheeler, Mr. W. C. Bailey to Miss Mary A. Corry, both of Dixon county.

Nothing has been heard lately concerning the health of Col. Hixby, who for years has been taken care of at the army hospital.

Governor Aldrich is seen actively operating with respect to state institutions for the improvement of public service. As a matter of fact, the governor is making a very creditable record.

Aside from the Daily Britt column, presided over by Col. Hixby, the Lincoln Journal is careful to avoid expressing an opinion on the presidential situation. It acts sometimes as though it might express an opinion, but finally doesn't do it.

In the list of republican fillets for the state senate, the OAKS BE FIGHTS that there is none in the seventh district which embraces Wayne, Pleas and Cumins counties. The rearrangement of the districts in the republican democratic counties to Wayne does not really make the prospect very optimistic for a republican.

A few republicans still express doubt as to Colonel Roosevelt's fitness to run for the presidency against Taft. They had thought he ought to be allowing the use of his name to assist Taft. That he would really exert the contest against the man whom he had warmly endorsed, is inconceivable to them.

Governor Aldrich has filed as a candidate to succeed himself, and the republican nomination will undoubtedly go to him. A Wyomere merchant has filed as a republican against him, but there is no reason why he should stand a ghost of a chance of winning. Governor Aldrich's record as chief executive deserves endorsement by the people.

Wouldn't the judicial recall amount to letting the people decide law points? If so, wouldn't it do away with the need of a judge knowing much about law? To be a good judge one would need to be a good lawyer rather than a good lawyer.

A good judge would need to be a good lawyer rather than a good lawyer.

The republican national convention will be held in Chicago June 15, the anniversary of the battle of Waterloo. And it would seem very appropriate to be flushed with former triumphs and annihilated by the opposing force.

The Herald has traversed a Cape of good reasoning why all Taft should be for Roosevelt. It is just Roosevelt approval of Taft's record, because its members were upholding the efforts of President Taft, both in his efforts to secure reciprocity with Canada, and in his effort to secure the fortification of the Panama canal. The card evidently urges that because Roosevelt approved of Taft's policy, Taft, then, should again have and transfer his support to Roosevelt. Was there ever a more preposterous and irrational suggestion? Why not stick to Taft?

Because a doctor sometimes makes a mistaken mistake in diagnosis, should we submit questions of diagnosis to the people and let them decide by popular vote whether a man has typhoid fever or appendicitis? Because judges have rendered decisions that are unpopular, should all judges stand up to a necessarily superficial review of law and evidence by voters and be compelled to bow to changing popular clamor? It would not be so much a question of dealing out exact justice as a matter of popular choice. It would be impossible for people to know as much about a law case as the judge who knows it, as it would be impossible for people to pass warring judgment on a doctor who has diagnosed a disease.

When Admiral Dewey returned from his victory in Manila Bay he was amazingly popular. He was talked of for president.

present, any as evidence of esteem, admirers made him a present of a splendid house. Then he got married and gave the house to his bride. That is the way the story was told. Dewey's popularity subsided. At once his admirers have been elected Justice of the peace. The American people are sensitive. They admire and boast a man if he shows himself deserving and if he keeps his equilibrium, but they don't want any foolishness and won't be deceived. The man of power who suddenly one day drops in public esteem, Roosevelt could have perpetrated himself as a popular hero if he had exacted for Taft the deserved "square deal" of which the former president made much during his term of office.

Wayne county is dependent on agriculture and stock raising. No county in the state is more productive. With good prices for farm products, its people are certain to prosper. When the future progresses, the two major products back in the years of the Cleveland administration, the country afforded a period of distrust and instability, wrecked values and business stagnation. Agriculture was left and millions of farmers offered different nostrums to restore a healthy condition. Capital went into hiding, business paralysis spread, thousands were unemployed, wheat, corn, oats and other grain, besides horses, cattle and sheep, were not worth enough on the market to pay for raising them. Everybody was laid-up and many were in want and distress. The condition was discouraging, and often seemed hopeless. McKinley's election followed, and the result quieted political passions and resulted in a number of clouds of despair lifted and soon disappeared. The future opened bright and reassuring. Young politicians were silenced. They had to give way before a swelling tide of prosperity and stimulation. Good prices for agricultural products and live stock bushelled from farming sections the incus of debt. Land values increased so rapidly that landholders soon found themselves well off. Factories that had suspended resumed operations and industrial plants were undertaking everywhere, and railroad men became active-builders. Thousands were employed and consumed more of what Wayne county and other farming communities produced. So, everything and everybody moved on. But with great prosperity and greatly increased wealth came more of certain abuses in the commercial world. The need of restricting and regulating railroad and other corporations pressed forward. Theodore Roosevelt, as president, was opposing the standard sciences, and many evils were justly attacked and eradicated. Many who were satisfied that conditions needed stirring up and reforming according to the Roosevelt plan, were industry led the radical treatment administered by the late president—the country—while destroying the disease. They were therefore relieved when Roosevelt was succeeded by a president who was not less progressive, but more specific and conservative. Such a president was needed to bring order out of chaos, and start the country seriously on a reformed and sound basis.

Roosevelt appreciated the situation and knew Taft was the type of man needed for leadership at that time. But Taft did not fully understand the problems to handle in an unusually nervous period, due to unprecedented agitation, but he has had to contend against continued radicalism and fault-finding, reinforced by Roosevelt, who fully understanding conditions, should have helped him in his task. While benefited by reforms, the country is, already feeling, in the condition of the times, the ill effects of destructive methods in politics. It is a wonder these products and land values have been kept up to the present standard under the oppressive influence of excessive agitation. With the choice of Roosevelt, the republican party would have continued radicalism, whereas, what we must need, on the whole, is a policy of "letting well enough alone, and balance, and progressive, constructive statesmanship. Taft is the better choice for the country at this time. It is better for Wayne county, because we need good prices for what we produce, which will mean prosperity.

Speakers who held forth at Carroll, Mr. Arthur Anderson, was an old schoolmate of the writer, and a graduate of the Wayne college and later of the state university.

He began by stating that last year was an unusual one as to the maturing of seed corn, the late rains extending month after the first freezes brought the grains full of moisture, which expanded when frozen, causing death to the germ. Northeast Nebraska, however, is more fortunate than other parts of the state with an average of about 40 bushels per acre, while the average in this part of the state was only two bushels per acre behind the average for the last four years. The great import of thoroughly testing all seed corn was emphasized by the statement that if five bushels per acre were lost by a poor stand, it would mean a loss of 250,000 bushels to Wayne county alone.

The speaker warned his hearers against "sending off" for their seed and showed results of tests at the state farm where corn from other states carried eight "bushels" per acre, yielding home seed. Even from a distance of sixty miles a difference of three bushels resulted, Nebraska has a greater variation in altitude, temperature, rainfall and soil than any other state, resulting in a month's difference in growing season of corn from southwest to northwest parts of the state. Also, seed from low land, rich lands do not do well on high land, the real danger of planting seed picked out from corn raised in September. Many farmers read their test wrong, not considering that a grain of seed must show both a stalk and root apert to endure at all. If only one shows up throw away the ear from which grain was taken. Things to remember and practice:

- 1.—Test all seed thoroughly before planting.
- 2.—Plant corn grown in your own neighborhood.
- 3.—Select small or medium sized ears which are matured better than large ones this year.
- 4.—Discard all ears the grains of which do not show both stalk and root sprouts.

WHERE TO FIND THEM.

Party at Larson Home.
There was a party at the Larson home last night Friday evening.

A jolly crowd of young people were present and enjoyed the usual good time.

Seed Corn Special.
The seed corn train which stopped here Tuesday morning was promptly on time, and a good sized crowd of farmers were present to take advantage of the interesting discussions given.

Royal Highlanders' Supper.
The Royal Highlanders lodge will give an entertainment and box supper in literary hall next Friday night March 8, the proceeds to be used in repairing their hall. Everyone is cordially invited to participate in the general good time.

Cartoonist Appreciated.
Last Saturday night occurred the fourth number of the lecture course, when Ford, the cartoonist, was here. This man is certainly a specialist. His work is without a parallel. He delighted his audience. Mr. Ford spent Sunday here and was kind enough to return home again for the Royal Highlanders' supper for the boys here. Just to be proud. One has only to see the paintings to be convinced. If Sholes has a worse another year we hope to see Ford as one of the attractions.

Your Suit. Of Course!

Should Be Made To Measure.

You'll never be satisfied with a "Ready-Made" suit. You'll not feel well dressed unless the jacket of your suit fits perfectly at every point. There's only one way to secure such a fit and that is to have your suit made to measure. We will take your measure and have your suit made by an expert ladies' tailor in fourteen days. When the suit comes, you try it on, and if it fits to your satisfaction you take it; otherwise it is our suit. We have confidence enough to make such an offer because we have ordered scores of suits under this same guarantee and every order pleased and gave entire satisfaction.

You can select your materials from 200 new spring cloths; and no one else will have a suit from the same goods.

You can choose your style from thirty correct spring models.

$18.00 to 30.00

according to cloth and style. Workmanship far ahead of Ready-To-Wear Goods.

Let us have your order as early as possible.

Just 42 pair to Sell at.... $4.00

These shoes were made up for a Texas firm who failed—their name is stamped on the lining—the manufacturer gave us a reduction of $1 a pair for taking them off his hands. You are getting a $5 shoe at $4.

These Goods are Expected Before Saturday.

Spring shipment of Mendel's make House Dresses, Wrappers and Gingham Dresses. A fine display of new Curtain Nets, (by far the largest assortment we have ever had). Queen Quality Low Shoes including White Shoes and White Colonial Pumps.

3 Big Carloads

Buying in car lots makes it possible to offer very attractive prices and we never fail to give our patrons an opportunity to get in right.

Car of Lump Rock Salt

on track—nice large lump direct from the mine. Also barrel salt which we keep under cover.

Seed Potatoes

Carload Genuine-Red River-Ohio-potatoes soon to arrive. Seed potatoes will be scarce and high. Patrons who get their orders in early will save the advance in price.

Oils and Axle Grease.

A full carload of Carbonless Auto and Harvester oils. Transmissions and axle greases to arrive in about 30 days. This is the first full carload of lubricating oils shipped to this section. See me for anything in the oil line. Can save auto owners 20 to 30 per cent on a guaranteed cylinder oil. That the carload quantity buying is a great saving to the consumer is very evident.

The Remarkable Demand For Splendid Flour

is self-evident of its exception quality. Once a customer, always a customer; that's the history of Splendid users. Don't forget, the use of National Light Oil is very satisfactory for incubators. Also White Rose Gasoline for automobiles and gas engines.

NEWSPAPER COMMENTS ON THE TAFT-ROOSEVELT CAMPAIGN

WHAT L'OLLETTE IS THINKING
Siox City Journalist—Senator La Follette is saying nothing, but Senator Hoar is overlooking no opportunity to give the public an indication of what Senator La Follette is thinking.

SUPPORTS TAFT
Hancock Monitor: When it is taken into consideration that the administration of President Taft has made more headway and done more effective work against the trusts than any former administration it seems to the paper that the actual results achieved by him entitle him not only to a re-nomination, but a reelection as well.

SUGGESTS MONARCHY
Times Citizen: The argument advanced by Roosevelt's supporters, that he is the only man who can satisfactorily solve the intricate problems which face the people of this country, is not, when one considers that in three years from now the same conditions may persist—or in eight, twelve or sixteen years, that matter—then logically one must, Roosevelt, must be kept perpetually in office for that period of time.

CANNOT BLAME THE PEOPLE
Omaha Bee: Some of the captious friends of Colonel Roosevelt, who become impatient at those who think the colored people have progressed but a little since the inauguration of President Taft, are inclined to their blame, finding no reason for changing their views because Col. Roosevelt has changed his.

TAFT HAS STRENGTHENED THE BOAT
Devere-Republican:—Lafayette and George Washington were bigger today than at any period of his public life. It was not in him to carry out the Roosevelt policies in a manner suitable to Messrs. Roosevelt, Pinchot and Garfield, any more than it was in the Roosevelt cabinet to carry out the policies of his predecessor. Mr. Taft has steadied the boat. His treatment at the hands of the man he served so well has made him many friends. His nomination at Chicago without serious objection to President Taft. He is bigger today than at any period of his public life. It was not in him to carry out the Roosevelt policies in a manner suitable to Messrs. Roosevelt, Pinchot and Garfield, any more than it was in the Roosevelt cabinet to carry out the policies of his predecessor. Mr. Taft has steadied the boat. His treatment at the hands of the man he served so well has made him many friends. His nomination at Chicago without serious objection to President Taft.

GRANT COULDN'T DO IT
Prenon Tribune: Mr. Roosevelt, in citing precedent, says it had reference only to a third consecutive term. That was true in the instance involving George Washington, but it did not apply to Grant. The latter had gone out of office after eight years. He made a tour of the world and was fettered by the duties of a royal ambassador and headhunter. It was even more spectacular than the lion hunt in the jungles of Africa. When he returned home, just preceding the presidential campaign of 1880, the nation was reeling with excitement for him. He brought to the Chicago convention as a candidate and had 306 delegates behind him, but he failed of nomination. It was not a third consecutive term he wanted. It was a third term. Maybe the people had changed their views since Grant's time. Certainly one distinguished citizen has.

TAFT IS SAFER LEADER
Lincoln Journal: Does the Roosevelt candidacy mean such a split in the republican party that defeat is inevitable in November? Will the Roosevelt candidacy force President Taft off to the side of the conservatives, or will it cause him to espouse more strongly than ever the policy of sound progress, and result in a platform more radical than the one now likely to be framed at Baltimore? These and a host of other questions of a similar nature are bobbing up in the press east and west and south and north since the hat fell into the ring at the beginning of the week. The answers give evidence of a belief that the most complicated and irritating situation the country has seen in a dozen years is upon us. The debate is beginning in a spirit to bring before the people the facts of the case, and prevail when it is realized that the difference between Taft and Roosevelt progressivism is largely one of degree and temper. The country has reached a point of substantial agreement on what to do. It cannot name a more fervent method of putting into effect a safe and simple scheme of government by the voters.

JUST SUPPOSE
Omaha Bee: Suppose the pages of history turned back to 1896.

Suppose in that momentable campaign William Jennings Bryan elected president instead of William McKinley.

Suppose as the campaign approached four years later Mr. Bryan announced his candidacy for reelection.

Suppose people then removed him from this sentence in his letter formally accepting the democratic nomination.

It is hardly necessary with an emphasis which words can express, my final determination not, under any circumstances, to be a candidate for reelection in case this campaign results in my election.

Suppose the response of Mr. Bryan to "When I said that I did not expect to be a candidate again—there has changed. What I meant was that I would not be a candidate again after I was once re-elected."

Just suppose, if you can, what Theodore Roosevelt would be saying about Mr. Bryan.

A TAFT-ROOSEVELT DUEL
Chicago Record Herald: President Taft has made mistakes, but he has been a sincere and high-minded executive. The question, then, is whether the majority of the republican voters have gone far beyond his position, have become disgruntled with conservative progressive policies, and now want for their leader and candidate a more radical progressive, a bolder and more aggressive reformer.

Mr. Roosevelt stands for most of the measures, or proposals mentioned as great for the platform, plus several others. He stands for easily amended constitutions, for a limited use of initiative and referendum, for the popular recall of judicial decisions in certain cases, for fewer checks and balances, and more direct and freer democracy.

If the majority of the republican voters have assimilated the newer Roosevelt policies and want more radicalism in their party's policies and methods, Mr. Roosevelt is their logical candidate. They must choose between Taft and Roosevelt, or talk about dark horses is absolutely idle.

FORFEITED AN OPPORTUNITY
Norfolk Daily News: If Roosevelt had disregarded personal ambition and had not stepped forward for a third time for the power that goes with the presidency, if he stood firmly upon his former declarations that he would never accept another nomination because he still believed in the belief in 1904 that a president should be elected only for one term, if he had for the moment forgotten his personal animosity toward Taft over Taft's independence in framing his cabinet and given earnest credit to the president for the administrative things that he has done, if he had refused to run his popularity into a means of vain seeking office in a country which had already bestowed upon him every possible honor and had retained the memory of his independence—that such an attitude would have given him, in each respect, more than he could have carved for himself a name and fame such as is possessed by perhaps no man in American history, save possibly Washington and Lincoln, and could have been while he still lived the greatest power among ninety millions of people—shaping public opinion, fighting public evils and influencing legislation. Having tossed his hat into the ring in an endeavor to do it, he has forever sacrificed much of the prestige that was his for the taking and having repudiated his former declaration not to accept another term, his words have become those of the office-seeking politician rather than those of the great moral leader, unswayed by personal ambition.

A SQUARE DEAL FOR TAFT
Springfield, Mass., Republican: The first plain question Mr. Roosevelt has to answer to the satisfaction of the voters of this country is whether or he has given Mr. Taft a square deal. Personalities cannot be avoided. Mr. Roosevelt is all personality. Plain speaking should be welcomed in the period of a political contest.

This is not a question of law or of constitutional privilege, but of common decency. Has Mr. Taft deserved the blow now struck at him? Mr. Roosevelt asked the nation to elect to the office of president a man who was selected as the one most fitted for the duties of the office, after he had forced his choice on the republican party, even so capable, upright and respected an administrator and statesman as George D. P. Hoar, who would have been a republican candidate in 1908, and Roosevelt's choice. With the consummate caution which is one of his most staggering assets, Mr. Roosevelt did not hesitate to claim superior wisdom in the choice of his own successor. He had found in Mr. Taft a person especially qualified for every responsibility, for every emergency of high office. "I say he will make one of the greatest presidents," wrote Mr. Roosevelt in September, 1908. No man "in our party" has since done so well as he wrote again in that same period.

Mr. Roosevelt's declaration of his non-acceptance of the republican nomination of the man he compelled the republican party to accept four years ago constitutes his personal repudiation and condemnation of his choice for the chief magistracy. That is to say, he assails his own wisdom and judgment in choosing Taft. It is necessary this Mr. Roosevelt does, or he necessarily convicts himself of acting from those low motives which have in their roots the lust for power and unscrupulous ambition.

Leave him to do as he pleases, however, and turn to an independent judgment of his successor's achievement. Mr. Taft merits judgment on his record in office. It has been so bad from the public viewpoint, the republican viewpoint, or even the conservative viewpoint, that the president should be made to suffer all the pangs of personal humiliation and of political failure by the delegates who will form the high court of party appeal in Chicago the coming year.

No elected republican president since the party gained its first national triumph, who desired the mere partisan vindication of a renomination, has been defeated that renomination. Mr. Roosevelt, then, proposes not only to smash the third term precedent for his own exaltation and glorification, but in the process he was determined to make Mr. Taft suffer all the agony of being the first president in his party's history to be condemned and rejected by party delegates. A nomination that was not decided Harrison is to be denied Taft, if Mr. Roosevelt's wishes are to be gratified, yet wherein the Harrison administration was more successful or more worthy of approval than the present one it would be impossible to say.

But President Taft could not be rejected, it is said. If he is politically weak what has made him so if not the early and unjustifiable abandonment of the administration by the man who had made its existence possible? Mr. Roosevelt's devotion of his chosen successor and his unrecoged sympathy with the factional vendetta that very early developed was an amazing fact which cannot possibly be accounted for on the ground that Mr. Taft has seriously diverged from the policies which, down to the time of his election, had been popularly associated with his predecessor's name. Insurgency may be studied at whatever point and seen only to discern wherein it demonstrated the apostasy of the Taft regime. Mistakes of method, errors in detail, which Mr. Roosevelt should have been the first to overlook, there had to be, but in the main Mr. Taft has kept the faith. It is only if Mr. Roosevelt has embraced such reprehensible ideas as "the recall of judiciary decisions" by popular vote that the president has been forced into radical differences of opinion and attitude.

Considerations like these seem bound to find their way into the minds of all republicans who have sense of justice as well as a craving for mere party success.

My Diplomatic Mission

It Was My First and My Last

By F. A. MITCHEL

I am the daughter of an American admiral. When my father was in command of the battleship "Texas" at Manila, he died. His death, his funeral, his burial, I found it necessary to do something about the small income of my mother and was given a clerkship in the navy department, but the salary was small, and I confessed to looking forward to the marriage life before me with dislike.

Notwithstanding our limited resources, I maintained my position in society. Washington does not differ so radically from continental cities as other American cities. I was invited just as often after my entrance upon my duties as before. Indeed, I occupied a better social status than many newly rich people who, having suddenly acquired wealth, secured in Washington to spend it.

One evening during a reception at the White House the wife of a member of the cabinet, who was my neighbor, sought me out and drew me away from the throng for a chat. She gradually led the conversation upon my diplomatic society. Washington does not differ so radically from continental cities as other American cities. I was invited just as often after my entrance upon my duties as before. Indeed, I occupied a better social status than many newly rich people who, having suddenly acquired wealth, secured in Washington to spend it.

Of course the lady was sounding me to learn if I would undertake the mission that she had proposed. I determined that I would not dishonor my father's name by becoming a spy; but, being infuriated with the idea of remaining in that inferior position of duplicity that had been mentioned, I resolved to accept the offer, but not for pay.

Before parting with him that evening I had made up my mind to return to my father's home. I was ready to listen to a proposition.

I dare say that this may be considered a "whipping boy" position, but the stung, but at the time I was not aware of doing anything dishonorable. I was employed by the Russian embassy as a particular person in it was specified to get a secret from the secretary of legation of Great Britain. It was suggested by the Russians that England was making a secret treaty with the submarine power, Russia has always been at issue with the other European powers as to Turkey, and ever since the Czar Nicholas I. was overthrown by the British minister, just previous to the Crimean war, Russia has been engaged to get even with England by some sharp diplomatic move. I was therefore employed to draw this secret from the Czar Nicholas, who would surely be cognizant of it, who had chosen diplomacy as a profession and was expected to be raised to the rank of ambassador.

At the next important social function, given by the secretary of state, a number of the cabinet members were permitted to present his friend Edward Cathorne. What the American had to do with the matter I did not know. Evidently he was either in some way connected with the plot or was being made a fool of. I had was nothing to me, but I experienced a peculiar sensation of pleasure at being launched in the whirlpool of diplomatic chicanery. I was permitted to accompany Mr. Cathorne wherever he went, and I was in every way desirable. I refrained at this first meeting from anything concerning the matter I had been entrusted with. I simply endeavored to make myself as agreeable as possible to him.

I saw at once that he was an intellectual man, and I tried to find something to talk about. I talked of anything but weighty matters. Girls make a mistake in thinking that men of "deductive" wisdom are companions. One might as well expect a lawyer to talk law for amusement. However, I persuaded Mr. Cathorne to do most of the talking, leaving him to chat as he liked. Small talk is all that can be introduced at social gatherings. Mr. Cathorne asked permission to call upon me, which was, of course, granted. We occupied the same house when my father lived, two story brick near—circle, and it had in it all the attractiveness of simplicity. My visitor told me during the evening that he would sail for England on leave of absence the next week. I told him that I was about to go abroad, and by comparing notes it turned out that we had engaged my passage on the same steamer on which he had engaged his.

Russian embassy would do my bidding in the matter. Mr. Cathorne seemed very much pleased to have my company on the voyage and offered his mother and sister's hospitalities during my stay in England.

I was offered a passage across the ocean and ample funds for other expenses by my employers, but Mr. Cathorne knew that I was not able to travel extensively so I chose one of the poorest steamships and declined to accept anything from the mercantile company. I had enough for the purchase of my passage. I preferred to rely on my own resources in the matter. I had no account of my father's actions was given a leave of absence. I learned afterward that my father was puzzled at my declining to be furnished with funds. But they continued to make attempts to get me out of the country. I had no explanation. I also learned that from this time they began to doubt me and measure me for the information they desired through other means.

LANDING AT RAKAHANGA.

A Bicyclist and One That Sorely
Rakahanga is a little coral atoll in the South Sea, not very far from New Zealand. Few people ever visit it, and to judge from the account in Mr. Frank Burnett's "Through Tropic Seas" of the difficulties that attend a landing there, it would seem to be a dangerous one for the ordinary tourist.

At Rakahanga the landing is so difficult that only by a mile-long cable can a safe passage be made through what by a stretch of the imagination, is called the "Trench" to the lagoon. Imagine a once solid surface, obstructed by a wall of coral rising to within a few feet of the surface of the water. A cable is built by that wonderful creature, the coral polyp. Over it break with the sea, the chain has been fitted up which travel with the speed of race horses, lashing and obiding the water—a milk-white foam and with a dash over the top of the reef to such a landing that it may be seen miles away.

The backwash of every breaker that comes outside of the wall of rock, a thin film of water, which is again filled up by the next breaking wave. To reach the lagoon, the rider must shelter of the lagoon is a difficulty that the islander shows the greatest skill in surmounting.

THE DEED OF DARING.

One of Mad Anthony Wayne's Remarkable Achievements. Storming of Stony Point.

This brilliant feat of arms in which Success Was Won at the Point of the Bayonet Was One of the Most Daring Incidents of Any War.

One of the most marvelous achievements credited to American bravery and strategy was that of the capture of Stony Point by Mad Anthony Wayne.

It seemed the irony of fate that the setback in the snow should have so closely the official occasion for his work at Monmouth, but that very setback gave the Stony Point - the greatest opportunity of his life - and he made good.

These were two important factors, discipline and valor, that entered into this remarkable achievement, the capture of a fortress on the Hudson held by the British and considered almost impregnable.

On July 14 General Wayne assembled all his troops at Sandy Beach, and at that moment heard of his soldiers knew the plans of their commander.

The following day the march began over a wilderness trail and in perfect silence. Not a man was allowed to load his musket, and the battle was to be won "not with the bayonet alone."

On the morning of the 15th the British evacuated Stony Point, and the British were left to the desperate work ahead of them and the battle of Red Bank.

FARMERS IN AUTOMOBILES. Promont Tribune: The seed corn speakers who have been touring the state the past week say more farmers came from the country by auto than they had before the use of the open road. And it is worth while to stick a pin there. Nothing can better illustrate the sudden transition from agriculture and cow-holders and hog-raisers than these golden goals. They are the heads of plowmen the farmers, now displaying and everybody through out the great agricultural belt are mighty glad of it. The farmer doesn't get on by selling flintstones corn and wheat. He accumulates his well earned money by creating new wealth. His money goes to the farmer, the hog raiser, the human hog raiser and the human hog raiser. Therefore it is a glad song refreshing our ears which we hear reports of agricultural automobiles preparing to greet the corn trower. This has been the case in Nebraska at a rate while the farmer pays out about twenty cents a mile for his motor car.

HEARD A BIG COMMOTION.

Two Boys Who Stumbled Upon One of the Great Secrets in History. The boys were in the American Magazine.

"So little that is really exciting or new, which has happened in my life for the first time," said Dan Dyer, who ran a restaurant in the town where he lives. Something really happened to these boys upon a time, and when I go to the restaurant I enjoy hearing them tell about it.

"When they were boys they lived on the edge of a wooded tract. They say their parents were Sundry Springs. One Sunday morning their father started them to Sunday school, and after that had followed them to school for two. Jim Ayers remarked a commission over beyond what they called the Big Woods.

"What's that? Jim asked, stopping. "It was getting late by this time, and Dan replied: "I don't know, but we'd better hurry and get to Sunday school or we'll catch a whipping." "Then they hurried on, but the commotion over beyond the Big Woods broke out again faintly, but was unusual, and Jim stopped and listened. He had never heard anything like it before, although he was a boy of about thirteen and, after listening awhile, he said: "I'm going over there."

"Hurry now, Dan!" "You know father white said." "But the strange commotion continued, so Jim said he was going, whipping at his whipling. Dan followed, but kept saying they would catch it when they returned home.

"They walked and walked and walked all the time, the commotion over beyond the Big Woods became more pronounced, but they could not tell what was the matter. They were in a very short time, but kept on for ten o'clock in the morning until 3 o'clock in the afternoon. They had nothing to eat, and they didn't know for their perseverance, they walked into the battle of Bull Run. I never before heard of boys going anywhere and finding anything so great as this expected."

Eyes Get the First Attention. There is no such disease as that of the eyes. If we want to get an impression of person's face we take to look at the eyes. You will find that in any railway carriage or public conveyance. You are interested in a face; you fix your eyes on the opposite eyes. If the eyes meet first, the eyes drop apologetically, for the inquiry is too intimate. The two people look at each other, and then they see an artist, that you cannot get an impression of the face by looking at the chin or the forehead or the nose. You must look straight at the eyes—the window of the soul—and the face becomes a recognizable unit. The best disguise as burglars and growing up children is in the mask that they put on the eyes only.—London Standard.

Stomach of Hunger and Thirst. When the stomach is empty it is in the stomach and thirst in the throat has been a subject of much scientific controversy. The tribune physicians have put the matter to a test. They put a solution in the gut. He found that a cocaine injection in the oesophagus (the tube from the mouth to the stomach) resulted in immediate suppression of the feeling of both hunger and thirst. Savages have long known that the chewing of coca leaves renders the gut insensitive and destroys any desire for food or drink.—Chicago Tribune.

COMING TO WAKEFIELD, NEB.

Associated Doctors Specialists. Will be at the Commercial Hotel, Thursday, March 11. One day only. Hours, 10 A. M. to 8 P. M.

Remarkable Success of These Famous Physicians in the Treatment of Chronic Diseases. Offer their services free of charge.

The Associated doctors, licensed by the state of Nebraska, in the treatment of deformities, all nervous and chronic diseases of men, women and children, offer to all who call on this trip, consultation, examination, advice free, making no charge whatever, except the doctor's fee, and no more, and will return for their valuable services if that every person treated will state the result obtained to their friends and thus prove to the sick and afflicted in every city and locality, that at last treatment has been discovered that is as reasonably sure and certain in its effect.

These doctors are considered by many former patients among America's leading stomach and nerve specialists and are experts in the treatment of chronic diseases and so great and wonderful have been their results that in many cases it is hard indeed to find the dividing line between sick and well. Diseases of the stomach, intestines, liver, blood, skin, nerves, heart, spleen, kidneys or bladder, rheumatism, sciatica, diabetes, bad wetting, leg ulcers, weak lungs, and those afflicted with long standing, depressed chronic diseases, that have baffled the skill of the family physician, should not fail to call.

According to their system, no more operations for appendicitis, gall stones, tumors, goitre, or certain forms of cancer. They were among the first in America to earn the name of the "Bloodless Surgeons" by using away with knife with blood and with all gain in the successful treatment of these dangerous diseases. If you have kidney or bladder troubles, bring a two-ounce bottle of your blood for analysis and receive a free examination.

Deafness has often been cured in sixty days. No matter what your ailment may be, no matter what others may have told you, no matter what experience you may have had with other physicians, it will be to your advantage to see them at once. Have it forever settled in your mind: If you are ever incurable they will give you such advice as may relieve you of the disease. Do not put off this duty you owe yourself, or friends or relatives who are suffering because of your sickness, as a visit this time may help you. Remember this free offer is for one day only.

Married ladies must come with their husbands and minors with their parents. John W. Sicksell, Greensboro, Pa., has three children, and like most children, they frequently take cold. "I have tried several kinds of cough medicine," he says, "but have never found any that did them as much good as Chamberlain's Cough Remedy." For sale by all dealers.
