STANTON EDITOR PLEASED.

Stanton Picket: The editor of the Picket was a business visitor at Wayne last Saturday and remained over until Sunday to visit. While there we called at the Herald office and was given the glad tidings by Editor Huse. Saturday evening we accepted an invitation to attend a little "doings" at the Wayne Normal. Two interesting basket ball games were played, one between the Wayne high school five and a Normal team called the Midgets. The game was very exciting and was about the roughest we have ever witnessed. The other game was between the college girls, the Reds and Blues, and was very interesting. The Y. W. C. A. furnished special amusement features in the presentation of "Josiah and Samantha," "College Guy and His Sweetheart," "Tom Thumb and His Wife," and other specialty characters who attended the game.

After the game those present were treated to a trip through the southland with Professor Britell in his lecture and stereopticon views he had secured with the kodak on a recent trip through the south. After this part of the program, a "feed" which had been prepared by the Y. W. C. A. was indulged in and heartily enjoyed.

The Wayne Normal is much improved since the state has taken charge and new life and new blood have been instilled. The new building, a magnificent structure, is nearing completion and will be ready for the summer term. Wayne is proud of its temple of learning.

Chas. Hornby, Bassett, Neb., makes the following statement: "I was bothered with sciatic rheumatism so bad I could hardly turn over, and was stiff and sore in all my joints. W. A. Chapin of Carnes, Neb., advised me to use Foley Kidney Pills, saying if three bottles did not cure me he would return

BIG ATTENDANCE AT TEACHERS' MEETING

NOTWITHSTANDING THE FLOOD

Program Carried Out With Few Exceptions—Wayne People Take Part—The New Officers.

From the account of the meeting of the Northeast Nebraska Teachers' association, published in Monday's Norfolk Daily News, the following excerpts are presented:

New officers elected:
President, O. R. Bowen, West Point.
Vice President, J. F. Gulliver, Bloomfield.
Secretary, Lettie Robinson, Plainview.
Treasurer, N. A. Housel, Madison.

"The convention of the North Nebraska Teachers' association has been a great success in Norfolk, notwithstanding the flood," said President J. J. Kemp, immediately after the close of the convention at noon Saturday. "If the flood had not cut off four of the counties which expected to send teachers to the convention, the attendance record would have been broken." But the association is satisfied. The work has been ideal; the teachers have been in good spirits; the business of the convention has been transacted to the utmost satisfaction, and Norfolk's welcome to the teachers is greatly appreciated under the handicapped condition of the city.

According to actual count by President Kemp, there were 325 school teachers in Norfolk for the convention. Many of these arrived late because of delayed railroad facilities.

The teachers came to Norfolk last Thursday in great numbers and many of them left Saturday afternoon. Superintendent N. A. Housel of Madison, and a large crowd of the teachers made the trip to Madison in wagons sent here for them. Some of the teachers went to Madison on hand cars.

Because the auditorium was flooded, the teachers held the general sessions in the high school building starting in with a reduced program, some of the speakers being unable to reach the city.

"Social Factors Concerned in Education," was the subject of the convention. Dr. I. F. Roach of Lincoln, injected enough good spirits into the teachers to last throughout the week by his address on "Sunshine."

Ensign Young of the Wayne high school played a violin solo and the Norfolk high school girls' quartet furnished the musical program of the opening session.

Charles Oliver Merica was kept away from the city by floods but Edmund Vance Cooke, the poet, going through Fremont, learned of the predicament of the program committee and offered his services.

Mr. Cook's address in the Methodist church Friday night was a good one. It was at this session that the Norfolk Glee club made its first public appearance, singing several selections.

Professor Reese Solomon of this city, Herbert Welch of Wayne, and Lillian Koch of West Point sang several vocal solos for the closing session Saturday morning. President Coun of the Wayne Normal addressed the last session during which he declared that the rural school cannot be improved without improving the material and social conditions. This was the last address of the convention, the business session taking up most of the morning's work.

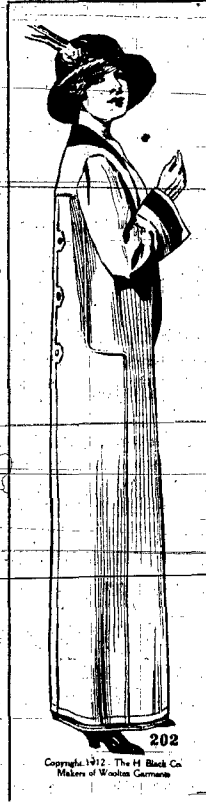

Superintendent W. W. Thiesen presided at the high school session with normal training subjects being discussed by Superintendent Stiddard of Newman Grove, Superintendent M. E. Crozier of Norfolk, and Professor Hunter of Wayne, were among those discussing the subject.

Superintendent Gulliver of Bloomfield, declared that boys should know how to repair a sidewalk and make gardens. Superintendent Jacoby of Battle Creek, discussed this subject. Principal Thomas of the Norfolk high school, talked on the "Control of Social Functions Connected With the School." In discussing this subject, Professor Britell of the Wayne Normal declared there should be a motion picture machine in every school.

Superintendent Welch of Stanton, talked on "Should Credits in Music be Accepted for Graduation?" and Superintendent Mohrman of Neligh, talked on a more extensive course in agriculture in the high school. Superintendent Cowan discussed this address. Miss Falter of Tilden, brought up the language question in a subject on "What Shall We Require in the Language Course?" Miss Claussen of Albion, discussed this subject saying that two years of Latin should be required.

The sewing school under the direction of Miss Zola Arnold, is one year old today, and the following facts in regard to what the institution has done in that time will be interesting: Number of people measured for garments, 325; number of different people who have sewed in the school, 180; approximately the number of garments made, 2,300;

HIGH WATER CAUSES GREAT DEAL OF GRIEF

RAILROAD TRAFFIC DELAYED

Wayne Aloof From Flood, and Its Suffering Due to Lack of Usual Train Facilities.

When the heavy snow melted last week many sections of Nebraska were flooded, and railway traffic over most lines was interrupted. On account of the flood at Norfolk, and washouts between Wayne and Wakefield, with inundated tracks at the latter point and at Pender, no mails were received in Wayne from Thursday until Saturday night. A big load of mail reached Wayne from Wakefield by team late Saturday night, and was distributed the next morning.

While the Logan and other streams in this vicinity got out of their banks, they soon went down and did comparatively little damage, and the greatest suffering on the part of this community was due to absence of news service and usual mail facilities. The Herald sought to relieve somewhat the news dearth Friday by getting into telephone communication with Norfolk and Sioux City and issuing an extra edition that evening. The evident appreciation on the part of the public was ample compensation for the effort. The Herald is under obligations to the Norfolk Daily News and Sioux City Journal for the news it was able to publish.

The tracks at Wakefield and Norfolk were sufficiently free from water Sunday afternoon to enable trains to cross them, and since then trains have been running as near schedule time as possible. Work trains have been working steadily, replacing road beds and strengthening tracks. At Wakefield Monday service was delayed by trains getting off the track.

At Norfolk the flood was the worst ever known. The gauge at the Norfolk mill showed the highest water since the mill was built forty-three years ago. The presses of the Norfolk Daily News were under water, and no paper was issued from Friday morning until Monday afternoon. By pumping day and night, the News press room was cleared in time to issue a paper Monday when a news service, valuable to north Nebraska, was restored.

Pender had the worst flood in its history. One life was lost at that place. Oscar Hamblin was drowned by the capsizing of a boat.

Along the lines of the Northwestern, Burlington and Union Pacific, the floods from the Elkhorn and Platte rivers seriously interfered with the movement of trains. Bridges were washed out, and transportation companies have had many difficulties in rendering service.

The waters have now receded, and it is probable there will be no more trouble with floods until the season for cloudbursts arrives.

DEPUTY ASSESSORS CONSIDER VALUES

County Assessor A. T. Witter had a meeting with his deputies at the court house Saturday afternoon and talked over values on which to base present assessments.

The following tables of information were presented to the deputies as suggestions for this year's work:

THE WEEK WITH THE CHURCHES.

St. Mary's Catholic Church.
(Rev. William Kearns, Pastor.)
Lenten devotions on Good Friday evening at 7:30.
Services Easter Saturday morning at 7:00.

7:00. Easter Sunday morning. First Mass at 8:30, and High Mass at 10:30. In the evening benediction of the Blessed Sacrament, at 7:30.

German Evangelical Lutheran.
(Rev. J. H. Karpenstein, Pastor.)
Services will be held on Good Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Sunday school at 10 a. m. Sunday services to commence at 10:45 a. m., after which holy communion will be administered.

The "Frauenverein" of the German Lutheran church met this afternoon at the home of Mrs. John Schuster, sr. A luncheon was served by the hostess.

St. Paul's Lutheran Church.
(Rev. C. J. Ringer, Pastor.)
Next Sunday morning the special service for Easter will begin at 10:45. At this service we will have the rite of confirmation. The Holy Communion will be administered. A special offering will be taken for the missions. Come worship the Lord with a liberal offering. Every member that possibly can, should be present. Sunday school at 10 o'clock. Everybody welcome.

First Baptist Church.
(Rev. B. P. Richardson, Pastor.)
On last Sunday seventeen candidates were baptized. Others await the ordinance. Four were received into the church, also, by letter. We are gradually reaping the benefits of Evangelist Pugsley's work with us.

On next Sunday we are expecting a great day. The band of church fellowship will be given to all those who have lately joined our church. This will also be our communion service. This will make the day of special importance to the new members. The subject of the communion sermon will be: "Easter Messages." Appropriate music will be rendered. We want every member present that can come.
Sunday school at 12 o'clock. The Young People's meeting will be led by Miss Ina Hughes. Because of the musical to be given at the Methodist church in the evening, we shall have no preaching service.
Prayer meeting at 7:30 on Wednesday evening.

We cordially invite those who have no church home to worship with us.

Presbyterian Church.
(Rev. Alexander Corkey, Pastor.)
The Easter services next Sabbath morning will begin at 10:30. There will be no Sunday school, all the children attending the special Easter service. The program of exercises will include songs by the children, and special music by the choir. The subject of the sermon will be: "Our Greatest Question Answered."
There will be no evening service, as the congregation will unite in the union meeting at the M. E. church, where the Wayne Choral Union will render an Easter cantata.
The Junior and Senior C. E. societies will hold special Easter meetings next Sunday. The Juniors will meet at 3 o'clock and the C. E. meeting will begin promptly at 6:30. The leader of the Seniors is Miss Ruth Sterling, and the subject is "The Kind of Life We Will Wish We Had Lived."
It is planned to hold a union Brotherhood banquet this year, in which the Brotherhoods of the M. E., the Presbyterian, and the Baptist churches will unite. It is expected also to invite specially a number of people from the country, which will make the occasion one of special significance, as it will call together an influential majority of men of our community who are interested in the best things for Wayne. The banquet will probably be held within a few weeks.

Sermons on Genesis.
Last Sunday evening Rev. Alexander Corkey continued his series of sermons on the first book of the Bible, taking up chapter three, which records the story of the introduction of sin into the world. The speaker began by saying that the first two chapters of Genesis could be spared from the sacred record, as the universe in which we live, and our knowledge of ourselves plainly teaches men of God's existence, our likeness to him and our lordship over nature. The teeming millions who have never heard of the Bible know as well as we do that there is a God, for the invisible things of God are clearly manifested in the things which are made. However, in the third chapter of Genesis, we begin to see the absolute necessity for a revelation from God, as this chapter begins the story of man's sin, which makes it impossible for men without the Bible to really know the character of God. Apart from revelation men have supposed the sin of the world reflected the character of its Creator, and the non-Christian religions are universally defective on this account, some of them blasphemously so. From the sacred record we see that sin came into the world by the abuse of man's free will, who chose evil instead of good. Sin was defined as something abnormal in this world, as it is very plain this world was created to be inhabited by good, clean people. Sin is really the fundamental problem of humanity. Amongst a race of high-souled, and noble people there would be no problem such as the vice problem, the race problem, the economic problem, etc. The world's wisest men, from Jesus down have recognized this. In conclusion the speaker paid a high compliment to the literary genius, as well as the divine inspiration back of Genesis 3; as it teaches us better than any other writing in literature, the nature of temptation to evil, and the immediate results of sin.

First Methodist Church.
(Rev. William Gorst, Pastor.)
No criticism whatever is offered on church attendance. The assemblages have been from good to excellent all winter. But with the arrival of spring the time is here when all can attend nearly every service and thus place the attendance, personal influence, and charm of church going at high tide for three months before the depicting time of hot weather and vacations comes. Just as surely as that you will expect the pastor to be in the pulpit and at his post he will look for you in the congregation and at Sunday school regularly and I am sure that each will do his best to not disappoint the other.
If any member of the church congregation or Sunday school knows of people who are sick, new comers to town or for any other reasons should have the special attention of the pastor, and will by phone, letter or in person call attention to the case, he will greatly appreciate such a service. Without such aid it is not possible for this pastor to know at the timely moment where all such needs are. "Help just a little." Besides, when you call the physician to your home, why not let the "other physician" know that you have done so.
The W. F. M. S. gave an able and very helpful and instructive program last Tuesday evening in the parlors of the church before eighty to one hundred people. When one understands the wisdom and merits of the work of this society it looks as though every woman of the congregation would surely be an ardent supporter in a field big enough for the gifts and graces of all.
Next Sunday is Easter. The pastor will speak on "Christ the Conqueror of Death," in the morning, and in the evening the congregation will be joined in a union meeting by the Wayne choral union, under the leadership of Professor L. L. Alexander.

The Poet Philosopher

Around Spring's house old Winter hovers, and makes himself a bore, nor heeds when with suggestive fingers she motions to the door. She hints that the tedious he should be departing; he takes his chapeau then and makes a sort of bluff at starting but he comes back again. He's like so many guests we wot of; they're welcome when they come, and every cheerful plan is thought of to make them feel at home; but when the time has come for going, we hint and yawn in vain; they leap back in their chairs, showing that they're bound to remain. They hear the clock the late hours striking, but stick tight to their chairs, and never show a sign of hikin' up old age is theirs. We'd love Erer Winter, with good reason, if he would come on time, and rant through his appointed season, and scatter snow and rime, if, having shown his line of weather, and sleet from day to day, he got his cheap old traps together, and chased himself away. But when he lounges around Spring's cottage with detard's smile and beck we feel that some one versed in swattage should swat him in the neck.

foreign shores, who show, when they have prowled a few, they're only fit for rabbit stew.

In Tightwad Town they're chasing dollars, and when they catch a silver bone, they pinch the eagle till it hollers so loud 't would rend TIGHTWAD TOWN a heart of stone. In Tightwad Town they all have eyes for any scheme to make things move, they would, they say, "increase our taxes, if we the village should improve." In Tightwad Town there is no knowledge of books or authors, art or song; they and boost the mortgage works along. In Tightwad Town man's estimated according to the wealth he owns, he's most revered and elevated who has the tallest stack of bones. In Tightwad Town they're only civil to strangers who have brought their wads; in Tightwad Town the soul will shrivel purring milled and milled gods. In Tightwad town there's a little laughter, there is no warmth in hand or heart; new seldom smile who follow after the idols of the money mart. With streets unrippled and sidewalks broken, and houses old and tumble-down, the world of hope is seldom spoken in Tightwad Town, in Tightwad Town!

Three clean, full diseases came down and knocked me flat; and oh, the groans and wheezes that filtered through my hat! The THE LITTLE doctors and the nurses were gathered by my bed, and I had dreams of heaves and cities of the dead. The druggists used to bundle dope to me day by day, and how I blessed the bundle that I had laid away! When I was convalescent I ceased to fume and fret; my griefs were avanescent for I was out of debt! I paid the blooming nurses, I paid the sawbones, too, the druggists got their purses—and still I had a few! You don't know what a blessing a roll of hoochie is, till maladies distressing throughout your system whiz! I have no doubt that worry o'er debts that they must face sends sick folks in a hurry out to the old bone place. ### POEM ON ROOSEVELT.

(Bishy in Lincoln Journal.)

You recommended William Taft, Roosevelt, And now you throw the poison shaft, Roosevelt. Say, do you do this thing because He is not what you said he was? Pray let this question give you pause, Roosevelt!

Reflect that you may do no wrong, Roosevelt, Then make your answer clear and strong, Roosevelt. Is not our president about, As capable, beyond a doubt, As at the time you brought him out, Roosevelt?

He's made mistakes, we all allow, Roosevelt, But why not get behind him now, Roosevelt? Help him to stand firm as a rock, The shepherd of his mighty flock: Should we not rather loost than knock Roosevelt!

Once idol of your fellow men, Roosevelt, You have made foolish breaks since then, Roosevelt. That's what 'most everybody makes, And will till heaven's sunlight breaks— But you can't win on Taft's mistakes, Roosevelt!

Don't be an office-crazy chump, Roosevelt, Forsake the perch, come off the dump, Roosevelt. If Taft has dropped a notch below Our expectations let us go To work to help him; he will grow, Roosevelt!

Now, don't be stubborn as a mule, Roosevelt; Withdraw, and "let the people rule," Roosevelt. In politics you've had your day; Your duty is to "break away," Roosevelt. And that is all I have to say, Roosevelt!

So far, as we know no child likes to take castor oil very well. And there are plenty of children grown taller who don't take their medicine very gracefully. Not referring particularly to pills and powders and patent panaceas. But there are faults not physical, and some that are, which most of us have and which most of us know how to overcome, but don't. Also, there are many who cheerfully expose themselves to things which they know will result in much unpleasant medicine they hate to swallow, but will have to. Perhaps we shouldn't blame too much the children who kick and scream

The open break between Bryan and Hitchcock gives republicans who are engaged in the Taft-Roosevelt conflict, something new and encouraging to think about.

Colonel Roosevelt enjoyed triumphant victories at the hands of conventions and voters in past years, and no one ever heard him charge that such victories were secured or bolstered up by unfair or corrupt practices. No defeated rival was ever comforted by a suggestion that he had not been given a square deal by the colonel. But now Roosevelt faces defeat. Conventions and primaries are going against him. And now he sees unfair methods. He allows himself to sink to the level of a very cheap politician.

The Ponca Journal is distressed over the way Taft is getting the delegates in the face of the comparatively small vote polled by the president in North Dakota. Generally outside of North Dakota, the president thus far has proven himself an easy winner, whether in a primary test or convention contest. Results do not indicate that he is so frightfully unpopular as his opponents would have one think. As to using party machinery, Taft is the only president who ever urged taking federal patronage out of politics and entirely removing incentive for a government employe to exercise influence in politics.

The Madison Post, of which a son of ex-United States Senator, W. V. Allen is the proprietor, attacks Mr. Bryan's position in opposing Governor Harmon. A lengthy editorial in the Post, probably reflecting the ex-senator's views, claims that Bryan's charge that Harmon is the instrument of "the interests," is groundless. The editorial says the Post would be glad to support Bryan for a fourth time if he wants the nomination, but that if he is not a candidate he should not try to drive the democrats, but let them choose their own candidate. Thus, pre-convention disagreement is not altogether confined to republican ranks.

The coroner's jury, called to investigate the cause of the death of Roy Blunt—who was shot while being forced to accompany the desperadoes who escaped from the penitentiary, recommended that Chief of Police Reems, of South Omaha, his deputy, John C. Trouton of South Omaha, and Sheriff Hyers of Lincoln, be held to the district court, and that Sheriff Chase of Sarpy county, be censured for not preventing the shooting which resulted in Blunt's death. The explanation that the officers were in pursuit of desperate criminals did not justify the killing of the helpless farmer, and the dead man's relatives and neighbors know it.

It used to be charged that women were usually influenced in the formation of opinions by clamor, plausible oratory and appeals to sentiment. If such a charge were ever justifiable, it is not so now. Women are usually doing their own thinking. They read, and draw their own conclusions. If flamboyant oratory and extravagant statements were moving forces among women they would be for Roosevelt instead of Taft. But they will usually be found standing up for the president. As a local instance it may be mentioned that out of seventeen ladies attending the meeting of the Shakespeare club recently, thirteen voted for Taft and four for Roosevelt. Of the four, one was really in favor of La Follette. We think it will generally be found that women are supporters of the president, because they see in him a genuine statesman, one who is sound as well as progressive, one who is not chimerical, Quixotic and unsafe. They appreciate the meaning of a square deal, and believe Taft is eminently entitled to it.

Just a brief reference to the extra edition issued from the Herald office Friday evening: It was after 2 o'clock when we learned that no mail could reach Wayne from the outside that evening, and when we concluded that a news service, though abbreviated, would help supply a pressing demand at the time. When members of the office force were called to the task of getting out the extra, they didn't drag their feet and point out the inadvisability of doing it. They didn't suggest that the time was too short to do it, that the press of other work was too great, that there would be no compensation in it for them nor the office. They buckled in with enthusiasm. The machine began service on the extra at 2:30, and the foreman turned attention to it at 4. After supper the papers were ready to distribute over town. We mention this to give due credit to printers who, in willingness, promptness, efficiency and character of work, are surpassed by none in the state. They don't work fourteen hours and watch the clock; they don't whine or groan when a big task appears; they tackle it and do it. One other thing: Several wondered why we didn't charge for the extra—why we didn't take advantage of the opportunity to make something. There had been no news from the outside for two days. Why not take advantage of people's thirst for news and reap a harvest? We didn't do it because we didn't feel that way. It would have been a pusillanimous surrender to Mammon. Hell is already overstocked with men and women stamped with avarice, and if we go there, we want to go for some other and more respectable reason.

CONTESTING DELEGATIONS.

Contesting delegations were organized in southern states four years ago against Roosevelt, the same as they are organizing now in support of Roosevelt. Under date of February 5, 1909, Roosevelt wrote William Dudley Foulke of Richmond, Ind., in regard to contesting delegations as follows: "At present various efforts are being made to get up bolting delegations from the southern states, and the meetings at which these so called delegates are chosen are usually announced as 'non-office-holders' conventions. As a rule this means only, so far as it means anything, that they are held under the lead of persons who wish to be put in office, but whose character and capacity are such that they have not been regarded as fit to be appointed under this administration. In these cases, be it remembered, that the failure to secure office is not the result of the political action of the men in question; on the contrary, their political action is due to their failure to secure office."

According to Roosevelt, four years ago southern conventions were perfectly proper, but now they are machine ridden and contrary to the popular will. The Sioux City Journal makes this comment in the course of editorial treatment of the subject: "Such distinction as there is between the southern bolts of 1908 and the contests of today is all in favor of the former. In 1908 the allies put up the best fight they could at the regular conventions and then promptly bolted. This year the Roosevelt people, when beaten in the conventions, were so thoroughly beaten that in most instances they did not think it worth while to hold rump conventions and elect contesting delegations. The notice of contest came from Roosevelt headquarters in Washington weeks later, after the Roosevelt managers ascertained how desperate their situation was to be in the north and realized that they would not have a look-in at the national convention without contesting practically all the regularly earned Taft delegations from the south."

ANIMAL SUPERSTITIONS.

Chief Among Them In Japan Is the Fear of the Fox. Chief among Japanese animal superstitions is the fear of the fox, which is believed to have supernatural power. Shrines called "Inari Jinsha," in which the fox is enshrined as a deity, are numberless. The name of the deity written in Chinese characters signifies fox, and from this it came to be generally accepted that the god was really a fox. Its natural cunning is greatly enlarged upon, and it is believed to be capable of misleading and deceiving human beings, which causes many to pray to placate the fox god. ### ANIMAL SUPERSTITIONS.

Chief Among Them In Japan Is the Fear of the Fox. Chief among Japanese animal superstitions is the fear of the fox, which is believed to have supernatural power. # TAFT-ROOSEVELT NEWSPAPER COMMENTS

SOMETHING NEW NEEDED.

Sioux City Journal: If the copper expects the newspapers to devote columns to his speeches every day he will have to work up something new. That stuff about the right of the people to rule and the right of the business man to know what is right and wrong is getting a bit frizzled about the edges. For instance, any newspaper would be glad to print a couple of columns of "new stuff" from the colonel about the tariff.

FORGETS FOUR YEARS AGO.

Denver Republican: Col. Roosevelt is forgetful of four years ago. Then the federal machine was his; the steam roller was being used at his dictation. Southern delegations were being lined up for his candidate by his direction. Federal officeholders were working for him day and night for fear of losing their positions. Anybody who questioned the advisability of nominating the Roosevelt candidate was a mendacious fabricator, a public enemy! This year Col. Roosevelt is having a taste of his own medicine, and oh, dear, what faces he is making, what grimaces, what gyrations! His precepts in other years were inspiring; his example this year is nauseating.

FALSE ESTIMATE OF AMERICANS.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat: The idea that the people of this country can be stampeded in their affairs by theatrical applause and hysterical hero worship has run against a repudiation so emphatic that it may be hoped that the foolishness will drop out of politics. Carrying on the government of the United States is serious business, calling for deliberate thought and wise action. As all men are mortal, and may err, the view that any is indispensable is manifestly wrong. Any man who conceives that he alone is able to direct, and who himself is the loudest and most insistent on this point, travels a road of dangerous ambition, and one that in no case can lead to good government.

NOT A GOOD LOSER.

New York Evening Post: It is inconceivable that Mr. Roosevelt can help himself on his western tour by spech railing as he indulged in at Chicago last night. If the west has not ceased to be the west, it loves a "dead game sport," to use one of the colonel's favorite phrases, and has nothing but contempt for a "bad loser." And Mr. Roosevelt is showing himself one of the worst losers that ever appeared in political life. Everybody but himself recognizes the fact that the results in New York, Indiana, Colorado, and Iowa have sealed the doom of his candidacy, but instead of taking his defeat like a man, he fills the air with cries of fraud and "marked cards" and robbery. Westerners are like easterners in knowing what to think of a beaten politician who thus rages and whines. The colonel, to be sure, is not used to being defeated. He has had small opportunity to learn the art of taking a stinging rebuff gracefully. But that fact does not relieve him from the duty of displaying a little of the manly quality he is always professing.

UNIFORMLY AGAINST T. E.

Springfield, Mass. Republican: It is becoming difficult to remember that Mr. Roosevelt yielded only to an overwhelming call of the people when he informed the seven governors that he would accept a nomination if it were tendered to him. The transformation has been appalling. It has also been pitiful. This week's primaries and conventions have gone so uniformly against the third-term candidate that compassion for one whose past services should never be forgotten dominates the mind that contemplates the tragical wreck of his campaign. There is, of course, nothing but bluster in Mr. Roosevelt's cries of "fraud" and "fraud" and "outrage," as these stunning blows are dealt him by the voters of his own party. The pity of it is that he should be storming about the land denouncing the victors in the contest he courted as second-class and almost nowhere accepting the verdict rendered as more than an expression of an infamous conspiracy against popular government. What ails the man?

IT MAKES A DIFFERENCE.

Proponent Tribune: The colonel has charge of the machinery in Texas, but we don't hear anything of any move there for a presidential primary. On the contrary, the loss of the machine has ordered all office holders to come to the support of the third-term candidate. It makes all the difference in the world whose sacred bull is zored. And it looks as though the dem-gods were all human.

OFFER OF COMPROMISE.

Sioux City Journal: On the eve of the test roll call in the Indianapolis convention, the Roosevelt managers, realizing they were beaten, offered to compromise by dividing the delegation, two and two. Had the offer been accepted there would have been no camp convention. The regular convention would have been good enough for the practical politicians in charge of the colonel's Indiana campaign. The Taft people being human enough to want to keep the fruits of a hard earned victory, the Roosevelt boosters had to cry "fraud" and try to discredit the integrity of the convention from which they would have cheerfully accepted two delegates had their offer to compromise been effective.

THE COLONEL BLUNDERS.

St. Joseph News-Press: In the Chicago speech last night Mr. Roosevelt digressed from his subject to answer his "gloomy foes" who have said "that I wanted to be king." Of course he proclaimed that he had no such desire. But why say anything about it at all? Why take notice of such silly twaddle even if his foes have said it? ***** Our notion is that Mr. Roosevelt has made a blunder that will haunt him. His opponents and those who have been crying down his "lust for power" have a fine opening here. "Is not this the same Roosevelt," they may say, "who for eight years has been avowing that he would not again be a candidate? He says he doesn't want to be our king, but he also said he did not want to be our president again. How are we to take this man? And so on. It will be absurd, of course, but sometimes the greatest absurdities find temporary root and thrive a while. Mr. Roosevelt had better get on with his regular speech and let the king nonsense unsaid.

BRYAN'S POSITION AGAINST HITCHCOCK

W. J. Bryan sends the Herald two editorials appearing in the Commoner, setting forth his position in his present unpleasantness with Senator Hitchcock, and asks it to publish them for the special benefit of its democratic readers. The Herald will publish one this week and the other next. Following is one of the editorials:

The democrats of Nebraska will have an opportunity to decide the issue raised by Mr. Hitchcock against Mr. Bryan. Mr. Hitchcock announces that his FIRST CHOICE for the presidential nomination is Governor Harmon of Ohio, but that he will support either Mr. Wilson or Mr. Clark if so instructed by the democratic voters at the primaries. Mr. Bryan has stated, that as between Mr. Wilson and Mr. Clark he does not care to express a preference, regarding them both as progressive, and that he will be glad to vote in the convention for either if instructed to do so by the democrats at the primaries, but that, believing that Mr. Harmon is a reactionary whose nomination, if secured at all, will be secured by Wall street influences, he is not willing to be a party to his nomination. Mr. Bryan announces that, if elected a delegate, he will resign his commission and refuse to serve if Mr. Harmon receives a plurality at the primaries. If the question of instructions were determined before the election of delegates and determined in favor of Mr. Harmon, Mr. Bryan would not be a candidate for delegate, but he has no way of knowing, until the delegates are elected, what the wishes of the Nebraska democrats may be in regard to the candidate.

Mr. Hitchcock in an editorial which will be found on another page, criticizes the position taken by Mr. Bryan, his conclusion being summed up in the following sentence: "If Mr. Bryan is not willing to promise to abide by the instructions of the democrats of Nebraska, he ought not to be a candidate." Mr. Bryan's answer is that he believes in keeping the spirit of the law as well as the letter. No man ought to attempt to speak for the democracy of Nebraska unless he can carry out the spirit as well as the letter of their instructions. If the democracy of Nebraska favors Mr. Harmon, it ought to be represented by delegates who can support Mr. Harmon not only conscientiously but with enthusiasm. Mr. Bryan cannot support him in the convention on any conditions or under any circumstances and he would forfeit the confidence and respect of the friends with whom he has labored for nearly two decades, if, believing as he does, that Mr. Harmon is a reactionary and the choice of the predatory interests of the country for the democratic nomination—if, believing this, he were willing to surrender his convictions for the honor of being a delegate to the national convention. This is Mr. Bryan's position, and he contends that he is showing more respect for the democracy of Nebraska than Mr. Hitchcock is.

Mr. Hitchcock knows as well as Mr. Bryan does that the democracy in Nebraska is progressive, but he is not only willing, but anxious to misrepresent the democracy of this state in the matter of the presidential nomination. He is endeavoring to prevent any co-operation between the two progressive candidates—Mr. Wilson and Mr. Clark—with a view to securing, not a majority, but a plurality for Mr. Harmon, and if he can do this, he will go to Baltimore and ally himself with the plutocratic influences that are attempting to force Mr. Harmon upon the party.

The democracy of Nebraska cannot instruct Mr. Hitchcock as to the platform; if Mr. Hitchcock is elected a delegate and can secure the election of men like himself, he can help to write a platform which will assassinate our party in advance and make it impossible for even a progressive to win. Not only that, but if the person instructed for, however progressive he may be, can not be nominated, Mr. Hitchcock will be released from further instructions and can then use his influence as a delegate to foist upon the party any reactionary who may be nominated, with his aid, regardless of the wishes of the democrats of Nebraska. In other words, he asks to be permitted to misrepresent the democracy of the state and to help surrender the party to the interests that have defeated the party in three campaigns by opposing the democratic ticket and, in a fourth campaign, defeated the party still more disastrously by controlling the organization and leading the fight.

Mr. Bryan invites the democrats of the state to decide between his position and the position taken by Mr. Hitchcock. Mr. Bryan will, if the democrats wish it, represent them as a delegate, PROVIDED he can carry out their instructions in spirit as well as in letter. If he cannot do so—not being able to know in advance of his election—he will resign his commission and leave the representation to others who can give voice to the party's wishes as expressed at the primaries.

Mr. Hitchcock, on the contrary, has so little interest in the democracy of Nebraska and such a contempt for its wishes, that in order to enjoy the distinction of being a delegate he is willing to betray them into the hands of their enemies. If the democrats instruct for a progressive, they are entitled to progressives to represent them. If the rule of the people means anything, it means that those who speak for the people should say what the people want said and do what the people want done. Mr. Hitchcock does not deny the right of a representative in any legislative body to resign rather than act against his conscience and his judgment, and he would not take the absurd position that he now does if he could act upon this subject as an abstract proposition without bias or personal feeling.

ROOSEVELT FOR RECIPROcity PACT

Three Times Indorsed Canadian Agreement in Public Speeches.

SQUARE DEAL DUE TAFT.

No Choice as Between Candidates For Presidency on This Issue—Roosevelt Also Declared Payne Tariff Law Best Yet Passed by Congress.

Theodore Roosevelt is on record three times in public speeches as indorsing the Canadian reciprocity policy of President Taft. This issue is now dead through the failure of Canada to ratify the trade agreement on the ground that the United States would derive the greatest benefit from its provisions. The fact remains, however, that the farmers of the country are not generally aware that Mr. Roosevelt so thoroughly approved of Canadian reciprocity when it was a live issue. Canadian reciprocity was voted for by Republicans and Democrats alike when it was before Congress, and as between Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Taft in the present campaign for the Republican nomination for president there is no choice on this issue.

In connection with his public utterances on the tariff Mr. Roosevelt has also joined President Taft in saying that the Payne tariff law, while by no means perfect, is nevertheless "the best tariff law yet passed by congress" under the old system of making such laws. Of course President Taft and Mr. Roosevelt are both now committed to the tariff commission plan of revising the tariff, and Mr. Roosevelt has given President Taft credit for advocating this commission plan from the beginning.

"Uphold the Hands of Taft."

Mr. Roosevelt's indorsements of Canadian reciprocity were as follows:

In a speech at Grand Rapids, Mich., Feb. 11, 1911, he said:

"Here, friends in Michigan, right on the northern frontier, I have the peculiar right to say a word of congratulation to you and to all of us upon the likelihood that we shall soon have closer reciprocal tariff and trade relations with the great nation to the north of us. [Applause.] And I feel so pleased primarily because I wish to see the two peoples, the Canadian and the American peoples, drawn together by the closest ties on a footing of complete equality of interest and mutual respect. [Applause.] I feel that it should be one of the cardinal policies of this republic to establish the very closest relations of good will and friendship with the Dominion of Canada." [Applause.]

In a speech before the Republican club of New York city, delivered at the Lincoln day dinner at the Waldorf hotel on Feb. 13, 1911, he said:

"I want to say how glad I am at the way in which the members of the club here tonight responded to the two appeals made to them to uphold the hands of President Taft, both in his effort to secure reciprocity with Canada and in his effort to secure the fortification of the Panama canal."

"And in addition to what has been said about reciprocity with Canada I would like to make this point: It should always be a cardinal point in our foreign policy to establish the closest and most friendly relations of equal respect and advantage with our great neighbor on the north. And I hail the reciprocity arrangement because it represents an effort to bring about a closer, a more intimate, a more friendly relationship of mutual advantage on equal terms between Canada and the United States."

Gives President Credit.

At Sioux City, Ia., on Sept. 3, 1910, Mr. Roosevelt said:

"I was particularly pleased with what the president (Taft) said in his letter on the subject of the tariff commission. A number of senators and congressmen have for some years advocated this as the proper method of dealing with the tariff, and I am glad that the country now seems awakened to the idea that a tariff commission offers the only solution of the problem which is both rational and insures the absence of jobbery. The president (Taft) from the beginning advocated this commission."

"There is another feature of the tariff law, and it points our course in the right direction, the maximum and minimum provision, and here again I wish to point out that the value of the provision has depended largely upon the excellent work done by the administration in the negotiations with the Dominion of Canada, which were the most difficult of all, and yet in my eyes the most important because I esteem it of vital consequence that we should always be on relations of the highest friendship and good will with our great and growing neighbor in the north."

At Sioux Falls, S. D., on the same day Mr. Roosevelt said:

"I think that the present tariff (Payne law) is better than the last (Dingley law) and considerably better than the one before the last (McKinley law), but it has certainly failed to give general satisfaction."

From these quotations from Mr. Roosevelt's speeches it is therefore apparent that there can be no choice as between President Taft and Mr. Roosevelt on these issues.

THE PRESIDENT'S ECONOMY RECORD

Taft Insists That Government Be Run on Sound Business Basis.

HIS PROGRESSIVE POLICY

His Personal Efforts to Reduce Cost of Efficient Service Bring Results—Business Methods Applied—Economy and Efficiency Commission Fought by Democrats.

President Taft more than any of his predecessors in the White House has given strict attention to placing the government upon a business basis as regards its receipts and expenditures. Economy and efficiency became one of the cardinal policies of his administration as soon as he entered upon the presidency, and it was well for the country that this was so, for his administration inherited a deficit in the treasury of $58,000,000, which has now been transformed into a surplus of $30,000,000. The average citizen and taxpayer will be interested in this fact because the problem which confronted the president at the outset, although upon a gigantic scale, was similar to that of the ordinary shopkeeper or business man, farmer or wage earner or even housewife who is called upon to make "both ends meet" either in business or in the home.

By law the secretary of the treasury is called upon every year to submit in congress in December the "estimates" of governmental expenditures for the next fiscal year, beginning the following July 1. As congress has to provide the money to run the government ment began work at once to investigate its own expenditures and to devise ways and means of curtailing extravagances. The result was that congress received the lowest estimates it had seen in years. This was followed by a reduction in appropriations to correspond, always allowing for the natural growth of the government's activities, which represented a net saving to the taxpayers of the country.

President Taft was not, however, satisfied that all had been done that could be done. He realized that the departments of the government, like individuals, are naturally prone to be proud of their own achievements and by reason of their familiarity with their own endeavors often insisted that their work was more important than the work of the other departments, relatively speaking. In order to correct that evil he asked congress to give him $100,000 for a commission of disinterested experts to investigate and report on the business of the government, with a view to further economy and efficiency. Thus came into official being the commission of that name.

This commission, among other duties, was directed to prepare the receipts and expenditures of the government on a "budget" basis, which is the system followed by practically all the leading nations of the world except the United States. Under this system it is possible for the humblest citizen to analyze the finances of the government at any time and to lay his finger upon the responsible political party in the event of extravagance or of stinginess. The system under which appropriations for the government of the United States have been made has even defied the experts in their endeavors to unravel the tangled skeins of expenditures, so that it is a fair statement to say that no citizen of this country up to the present time has ever thoroughly understood where his taxes were expended.

The President's Position.

At the present time the Democratic house of representatives is endeavoring to end the usefulness of the econ-

the money has to be appropriated for specific purposes before it can be expended, and if this were not done before the beginning of the fiscal year the machinery of government would stop unless emergency provision could be made.

How Estimates Are Made.

The "estimates" are prepared by the executive departments of which each member of the cabinet is a head. The cabinet officers get the "estimates" in their respective departments from their chiefs of bureaus and then combine them as the "estimates" for the department. The "estimates" from all departments are then sent to the secretary of the treasury to be submitted to congress, and they then become the "estimates" for the cost of running the entire government during the next fiscal year. Upon these figures congress makes the greater part of its appropriations, amounting to more than $1,000,000,000 annually.

Until 1908 a more or less lax method of making estimates for the annual appropriations obtained throughout the government. The figures sent to congress each year, instead of showing indications of a careful "pruning" all along the line, showed there was a disposition among the departments to vie with each other in getting as large appropriations as possible without considering whether or not the money demanded could be advantageously expended during the coming year. There was no standardization of supplies, and the various departments were paying varying prices for the same article.

What President Taft Did.

As soon as President Taft took office this system ceased. At the outset President Taft impressed upon his cabinet officials the absolute necessity of economy and efficiency in their departments. He admonished them that not a dollar beyond what was necessary to run the government efficiently in their departments, including a fair margin for progress, which is a part of efficiency in the program of President Taft, should be asked of congress. The effect was immediate. Every department efficiency commission by cutting appropriations. In a recent congress for funds to conduct the great work it has begun, which all thinking men and women will approve, President Taft pointed out that the people of the country as a whole are interested chiefly in the following governmental objects: The national defense, the protection of persons and property, the promotion of friendly relations and the protection of American interests abroad, the regulation of commerce and industry, the promotion of agriculture, fisheries, forestry and mining, the promotion of manufacturing, commerce and banking, the promotion of transportation and communication, the postal service, including postal savings banks and parcels post; the care and utilization of the public domain, the promotion of education, art and science and recreation; the promotion of public health and the care and education of the Indians and other wards of the nation.

There are many other public questions, of course, but these are the vital and comprehensive ones, and the "budget" is proposed for the purpose of giving information as to the needs of these matters. The president, in order that his policy of economy and efficiency may be concluded and become one of the greatest achievements of his administration—that of placing the government on a business basis—wants congress to appropriate $250,000 more for the support of the commission now doing that work.

The economy and efficiency commission has already saved to the taxpayers of the country more than $3,000,000 annually by its suggestions and by the time it has completed its work it is believed ten times this sum can be saved annually to the taxpayers. In the matter of railroad fare for government officials alone it has found that $12,000,000 was expended in a single year at the highest prevailing railroad rates. At least a fourth of this can be saved by the application of business methods such as President Taft has applied and has insisted shall be applied to all the departments of the government.

ROUTED HIS CREDITOR.

Lespes, the French Writer, Adopted a Most Effective Method.

Lespes, the French journalist, known as "Timothée Trimm," was once disagreeably intruded on by a creditor, who announced his intention of not departing until he was paid. The creditor pinned himself on a chair, and Lespes held him, with consternation, drew bread and cheese from his pockets, as though to fortify himself against events.

Several hours glided by. Lespes had resumed his writing and finished an article. The creditor showed no signs of moving. Suddenly Lespes rose and with bits of newspaper began carefully blocking all the apertures through which air could come into the room. He then made preparations for lighting a charcoal fire, but before applying the match patted on the wall just opposite the creditor's eyes a paper thus laconically worded:

"Take notice that we died of our own will."

"What are you doing?" exclaimed the creditor uneasily.

"Your society would render life intolerable, so we are going to commit suicide together," answered Timothée tranquilly.

It is needless to say that the creditor decamped without waiting for replies and without his money.—Argonaut.

The Pride of the Poor.

At the present stage of sociology no onlooker need doubt this New York Sun-story of the "might have been" of a great city:

So many men to whom the city missionary had given money for a night's lodging had expressed a preference for a certain east side lodging house that he wondered what constituted its particular attraction.

"It makes us feel self respecting," the men said when questioned.

So far as the missionary could see it was a typical lodging house, whose inducements to self respect were not apparent to the ordinary eye. He appealed to the manager. By what method did he far the fires of self respect in his guests?

The manager pointed to a sign above his desk—"Gentlemen Are Requested to Leave Their Valuables With the Clerk."

Pugilists and candidates are always confident until they are counted out, accept it from them.

Considering the amount of spring poetry sown, the average harvest yield doesn't amount to much.

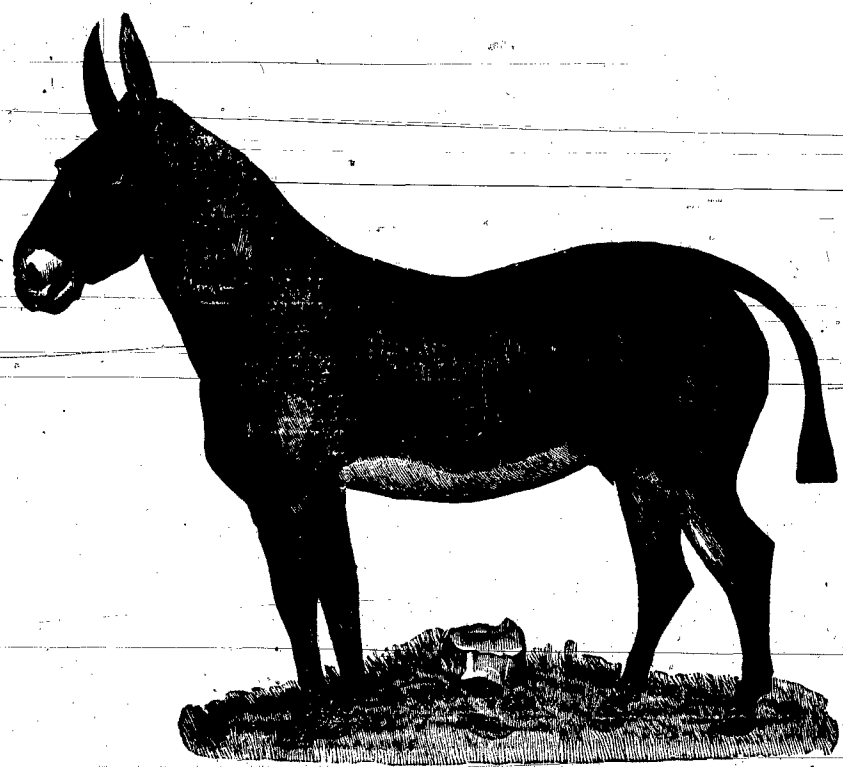

Generally speaking, a good loser is one who doesn't talk about his choice collection of sore spots.

A young man who goes forth to make his fortune, should at least gather enough pride to keep him from writing home for money.

Out west, most shepherds are Mexicans, and they don't carry crooks, although every cowboy believes they are crooked.

Gratitude and Well Wishes

HAVING retired from the clothing business in Wayne, we wish to express appreciation for the liberal patronage which we have received. We step out with feelings of gratitude to the people of Wayne and vicinity. Our successor, Mr. S. D. Berg, is man of long and successful experience in the mercantile business, and comes here with the strongest endorsements for courtesy, integrity and fair dealing. We bespeak and wish for him hearty good will and generous treatment.

Finds Cure for Epilepsy After Years of Suffering

"My daughter was afflicted with epileptic fits for three years, the attacks coming every few weeks. We employed several doctors but they did her no good. About a year ago we heard of Dr. Miles' Nervine, and it certainly has proved a blessing to our little girl. She is now apparently cured and is enjoying the best of health. It is over a year since she has had a fit. We cannot speak too highly of Dr. Miles' Nervine."

MRS. FRANK ANDERSON, Comfrey, Minn.

Thousands of children in the United States who are suffering from attacks of epilepsy are a burden and sorrow to their parents, who would give anything to restore health to the sufferers.

Dr. Miles' Nervine is one of the best remedies known for this affliction. It has proven beneficial in thousands of cases and those who have used it have the greatest faith in it. It is not a "cure-all," but a reliable remedy for nervous diseases. You need not hesitate to give it a trial.

THE EARLY DAYS IN TWO COUNTIES.

From the Logan Valley Herald, April 4, 1884:
Born in Wayne, March 31, 1884, to Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Ellsworth, a son, Local market; Hogs, $5.50; cattle, $4.50; wheat, 60 cents; oats, 25 cents.

Joseph W. Agler sold his farm near LaPorte for something over $3,200.
Mrs. James Bush was called to Howard, Kan., on account of the death of her father.

At the session of district court in Ponca, James Crawford of Wayne county, received a judgment of $1,100 on account of injuries sustained by falling on a defective sidewalk in that town.

From the Wayne Herald, April 21, 1892:
Born to Mr. and Mrs. John Overholt, April 8, a daughter; to Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Anderson, April 11, a daughter.

A republican county convention was held at Walside for the purpose of selecting delegates to the state, congressional and senatorial conventions. The convention voted to abolish the primary system. The resolutions adopted endorsed A. A. Welch for the congressional nomination.

The Olla Fellows were preparing to celebrate April 25 the seventy-third anniversary of the founding of the order. The Early Hour club proposes to have its last ball of the season on the night of May 3.

The man was sentenced to ten years in the penitentiary and the woman to five. Large quantities of shade trees are being set out. As New Haven called the "City of Elms," so in a few years will Ponca be known as the "City of Box Elders."

We would suggest that the city marshal post up signs in the streets, warning people of the places where the water is over their heads. Some lumberly landsman may get drowned yet, and the city have heavy damages to pay.

As will be seen by the ordinance published in this paper, hereafter when a twenty-four pound Thomas cat gets on your back roof and yells and howls and swears at you, and bows up his spine and elevates his tail and makes faces at you, and rears around and tears off the shingles and spits at you, you must not take your shotgun and blow said feline to kingdom come. Rather raise the window and in a voice softly modulated to chord with his demagogic miaows, say: "Thomas, my dear, avant! Vau-vo!" Absquatulate! Take thy form from off my roof, take thy yowls from out my door," and if the unfeline animal resists this appeal, send for the marshal and have the scoundrel removed according to the forms of law. But on no pretence must you pull a trigger within the city limits. We doubt whether a man would be justified in the primitive method of firing old boots at the musician. Cats have some rights which man must respect, and the city fathers propose that they shall be protected in the enjoyment of them.

MINNESOTA Land Bargains

No. 1.—320 acres of the very best of land in Swift county, Minnesota, good six-room house, finished in the best of workmanship, good barn for 35 head of stock; large granary; has a fine grove; land is black loam soil from three to five feet deep on clay subsoil, and all under cultivation except six acres of upland hay; nearly level with a slope to the south and east. This farm is situated in one of the best farming communities in the state and close to church and school; R. F. D. and telephone; 4 miles from Halloway, 6 miles from Danvers, 8 miles to Appleton, and 14 miles to county seat, Benson. Price $65 per acre; will take one-half in trade provided trade is worth the money asked for it, as this land is priced right and is worth the money.

No. 2.—160 acres of hay land; it is one of the best pieces of hay land in the community; has always been kept for hay owing to the quality of the hay. There was 160 tons of hay taken off this year and sold at $14 per ton on track. This quarter lays three miles from good town and five miles to Benson county seat. Soil is a black loam on clay subsoil. Price $33 per acre and will sell on good terms.

No. 3.—140 acres of choice farm land, 100 acres under plow, balance hay; lies with a slope; black loam soil on clay subsoil; one-half mile to school; on telephone line, R. F. D., six miles from town. The adjoining farms are held from $65 to $75 per acre; no improvements on this farm. Price $50 per acre. Will accept part trade on this, but the trade has to be worth the money asked for it, as the farm is not priced out of the way. Will make easy terms of the balance.

No. 4.—80 acres of as fine an improved place as you would ask for; four miles from Benson, the county seat of Swift county, Minn.; large fine grove and good six-room house, in good repair; good barn, granary and sheds; 60 acres plowed, balance pasture and hay land; soil black loam on clay subsoil; in a well settled locality, and has telephone, R. F. D.; school close by. This is an ideal home and a good investment for the price asked for it. Price $60 per acre. Can give good terms on this farm.

No. 5.—160 acres one and one-half miles to good town, and seven miles to county seat. This soil lies with a slope and soil is black loam with clay subsoil; 100 acres under plow ready for crop, balance hay and pasture. This farm is first-class in every respect. Good German neighborhood. Price of this farm is $38 per acre. Good terms.
