The Tuesday club meets next week with Mrs. Orlando Adams, and will devote the session to the following program: Mrs. Johnson will read from a Swedish author on "Marriage;" a review of Stoddard's "Grand Canon;" a discussion of standard oratorics; review of a recent novel by Mrs. W. A. Hiseox.

Last evening Mrs. Ed Ellis entertained a party of young folks in honor of the sixteenth birthday anniversary of her daughter, Miss Josie. The party was a complete and happy surprise. Music and games occupied attention until 10 o'clock when a splendid three-course supper was served. All had a good time.

Dr. and Mrs. T. B. Heckert were most pleasantly surprised last Friday evening when a number of their friends gave them a 6 o'clock dinner in honor of their birthday anniversaries which come within a few days of each other. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Hufford, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Kate, Mr. and Mrs. V. A. Senter, and Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Culler.

The Acme club met at the home of Mrs. E. S. Blair Tuesday afternoon. A comprehensive report of the proceedings of the meeting of the district federation, held at Tekamah, from Mrs. Weber who was a delegate, was read. Mrs. Williams read an article appearing in the Ladies' Home Journal. Mrs. Britell presented a poem treating of Normal schools. The club will meet next week with Mrs. Britell.

At the residence of Mrs. Conn next Tuesday evening, the club will be favored by an address on "Art" by Miss Killen.

A musical program participated in by Mr. Frank Nangle, Miss Reba Nangle, Miss Katherine Gamble, Mrs. Ed Johnson, and Mrs. A. R. Davis, was followed by a number of Stars acting out proverbs. The spectators were asked to guess each proverb acted, and the performance was lively and interesting. Following such features, a delicious luncheon was served. The ladies were voted royal entertainers.

Members of the I. O. O. F. and Daughters of Rebecca gave a farewell surprise for Rev. and Mrs. C. J. Ringer at their home Tuesday evening. They prepared and served an elaborate 6 o'clock dinner. At an appropriate juncture in the proceedings, Mrs. John H. Kate, in behalf of the crowd, presented Rev. and Mrs. Ringer with a set of solid silver teaspoons and Rev. Ringer responded with words of appreciation. About fifty were present, and all were hearty in their expressions of good wishes for their friends in their new home.

Tuesday evening Miss Mason and Miss Craven delightfully entertained the Shakespeare club at a 6 o'clock dinner, in honor of Miss Effie Buffington who is soon to leave Wayne. In the dining room the color scheme was carried out in lavender and white, the club colors, while the center pieces, a mound of daisies and smilax, and the favors, pansies and maiden hair ferns, were pleasing reminders of "gentle Ophelia." Music from an adjoining room added much to the enjoyment of the dinner. The evening was spent in guessing games founded on Shakespearean plays, and in a short lesson on the regular work. Miss Buffington who was a charter member of the club, founded nine years ago, was presented with a Royal Dalton plate, the decoration of which is a scene from "Twelfth Night." Miss Buffington will be greatly missed by the club.

BANKERS IN ANNUAL MEETING AT NORFOLK

Over 200 bankers attended the meeting of the Northeast Nebraska Bankers' association at Norfolk, and listened to an interesting and helpful program of speeches. E. R. Gurney, formerly of Wayne county, now of Fremont, was one of the speakers. The meeting next year will be held at Wakefield. The newly elected officers are: T. A. Anthony of Wausa, president; M. Waters of Hubbard, vice president; R. H. Mathewson of Wakefield, secretary; M. L. Mote of Plainview, treasurer.

THE MEN AND RELIGION FORWARD MOVEMENT.

This movement is meeting with great success as a result of widespread effort and great enthusiasm throughout the nation. Never in the history of Christianity has it been so apparent to men everywhere that the planting of the kingdom of God is a man's job. The movement in Wayne county has already received considerable notice, and is to be pushed still further by public meetings for men held at from fifteen to twenty places within the county on the Sunday afternoons of May 5 and 12, at 3:30 o'clock. These meetings will be followed by a men's banquet at Wayne on Tuesday or Wednesday, May 14 or 15, at which an expert speaker from abroad will further discuss the work. The committee designates the following places for holding said meetings, pending the consent in two or three instances of the school boards, viz: For May 5, Winside; Garfield precinct, school district No. 55; Grace church; Carroll; Strahan precinct, school district No. 51; Wibur precinct, school district No. 48; Hunter precinct, school district No. 8; Logan precinct, school district No. 42. For May 12, Hoskins; Hancock precinct, school district No. 11; Leslie precinct, M. E. church; Plum Creek, school district No. 34; Wakefield; Deer Creek precinct, school district No. 50; Logan precinct, school district No. 42; Sholes and Welsh church.

The time is short and if by the men of the different communities are brought together it will be the result of strenuous effort on the part of the men in the respective communities to bring the men together. Let each become a committee of one at once to see to it that his neighbors attend the meeting. This movement will require eight or nine teams of three men each for both Sunday afternoons and will bring into requisition the ministry and many laymen of the entire county. The men who go out as speakers will discuss such topics as the common brotherhood of man, men as leaders in moral ideals, man at work as Christians, young manhood and its obligations, boys' work, etc. At the close of each meeting the men will be asked to elect delegates to represent their community at the banquet.

FRIDAY'S PRIMARY IN WAYNE COUNTY

ROOSEVELT WINS MAJORITY

Wilson in the Lead on Democratic Ticket—Phil Kohl Nominated—Other Candidates.

The weather was very friendly and agreeable on primary day, but it was not conducive to the polling of a big vote. Nearly 1,200 voted in Wayne county, though about twice that number participated in the general election. In the election of 1908 Taft had 1,297 and Bryan 1,055, and in the election of 1910 Aldrich had 1,041 and Dahlgren 917. Thus it is seen that many remained away from the polls last Friday.

On the republican side, Roosevelt swept Wayne county, as he swept other parts of the state, and on the democratic side, Wilson was slightly ahead of Clark in this county.

Phil Kohl won the democratic nomination for state senator, and it is probable the returns will show that he has also received the republican nomination. In that event, he will be re-elected senator without a contest.

In the four-cornered contest for the republican nomination for county attorney, Richard Closson proved the high man, and will be pitted against L. A. Kiplinger, democratic nominee, in the election that follows. The four republicans were about evenly matched in vote getting strength, and no one of them has reason to feel badly over the showing he made.

For supervisor, Henry Retwisch was nominated by the republicans, and Henry Kloppling by the democrats. So it is certain the man who will succeed James Stanton on the county board will be called Henry.

No one filed for county assessor on either ticket, but the republicans wrote in the name of A. H. Carter of Winside, and the democrats wrote in the name of J. W. Ziegler of Wayne. Thus, Messrs. Carter and Ziegler will race for election to the place of assessor.

All the five proposed amendments to the state constitution were endorsed by both parties in Wayne county. Here is the vote on the amendments as they appeared on the ballot: Republican—first amendment, 365 for, 78 against; second amendment, 301 for, 96 against; third amendment, 334 for, 67 against; fourth amendment, 309 for, and 105 against; fifth amendment, 227 for and 166 against. Democratic—first amendment, 270 for, and 38 against; second amendment, 204 for, and 63 against; third amendment, 217 for, and 61 against; fourth amendment, 214 for, and 74 against; fifth amendment, 165 for, and 87 against.

Now that the pre-primary contest is over in Nebraska, the people of this state can rest on their oars and watch proceedings in other states. One pre-convention spasm after another will happen until all delegates to the big Chicago and Baltimore shows will have been chosen. Events leading to those decisive conflicts will be followed with lively interest.

Tables of returns from Wayne county primary will be found on page five of this paper.

Every member of the proposed company is urged and expected to be present.

WILLIAM FLEGE IS ON TRIAL AT PENDER

THE WORK OF SECURING JURY

Large Crowd of Spectators in Attendance—Many From Neighborhood of Tragedy.

The second trial of William Flege, charged with the murder of his sister Louise, on the Flege farm, northeast of Wayne, on June 30, 1910, was commenced at Pender on Tuesday. The case was taken from Dixon county to Thurston county on a change of venue. In the prosecution the county attorney of Thurston county is assisted by County Attorney C. A. Kingsbury of Ponca, and County Attorney A. R. Davis of Wayne. The defendant is represented by Attorneys F. A. Berry and Fred S. Berry of Wayne and L. J. McCarthy of Ponca. Progress of the trial will be strongly contested by each side, and will be watched with interest by the general public.

Report from Pender at noon today stated that as a result of the forenoon's examination of men for jurors only one man was passed. It is thought a jury will be secured sometime tomorrow.

This morning's Sioux City Journal gives the following report of the progress of the trial. Pender, Neb., April 24.—The trial of William Flege, accused of the murder of his sister Louise, was resumed this morning by the examination of talesmen. Several were examined and excused for cause without developing anything of interest. One member of the regular panel examined just at the close last night evidently became confused and persisted in answering the attorney's for the state that he had no opinion, and as persistently answering the attorneys for the defense that he had an opinion. He was excused. Two others were somewhat uncertain, but after a lengthy examination were retained.

The defendant and his two brothers sit immediately back of his attorneys, watching intently all that is going on. The star witness for the prosecution, Grant Heitenkamp, sits in one of the front rows outside the rail, and shows much interest in the proceedings. A large number of persons came here on the morning train from the neighborhood of the tragedy.

The examination of jurors continued all the afternoon and at adjournment at 6 o'clock the state had exercised its first peremptory challenge and defense none. One of the jurors testified that some person in Pender had come to him and talked in reference to the case, evidently in an effort to influence his action. The attorneys for the defense asked the court to order an investigation in which the prosecution joined. The court ordered the investigation. The court room has been crowded all day, although many fear that they may be called as talesmen if they come. The jury so far as it is formed is kept in charge of an officer.

JUDGE BRITTON IN ONE OF STAR ROLES

The announcement and program of the home talent entertainment to be given next week for the benefit of the ball team appear on other pages of this paper. A rare treat may be expected. It should be noted with expectancy that Judge Britton is engaged for one of the star roles, and it is rumored he will lead the chorus and be the central figure in a fairy drill. But he will not be the only performer worth seeing and hearing. The stage will be full of stars and starlets, and the price of admission is but a trifle compared to the huge enjoyment guaranteed. It will be a series of soul-stirring laughs from beginning to end.

Mr. and Mrs. William Dammeyer left yesterday afternoon for Hokoken, N. Y. and expect to sail May 1 for Germany. They have no plans for returning to America. Mr. Dammeyer's father owns a cigar store in Germany, and wants his son to assist him in managing it. This he intends to do, though it is a safe guess that the family will not be contented in Germany after having lived here. The Herald joins their Wayne friends in wishing them a safe journey and a happy reunion with relatives and friends in their native country. Wayne will welcome them when they get ready to come back.

A great deal of work has been done the past week in the way of grading Wayne's streets and putting them in good condition for travel. It is beneficial to the city to have its streets and neighboring roads smooth and easily passable.

KUHL OF RANDOLPH TELLS OF RESCUE

New York, April 18.—The suffering of the Titanic's passengers when taken off the lifeboats by the Carpathia, was graphically told by John Kuhl of Randolph, Neb., a passenger on the Carpathia.

Many of the women, he said were scantily clad and all were suffering from the cold. Four died on the Carpathia as a result of the exposure.

"In spite of the suffering and the crowded condition of the boats," said Mr. Kuhl, "the utmost heroism was displayed by all of the unfortunates. When they were lifted to the deck of the Carpathia, many of the women broke down completely and there were many touching scenes. Many of the women were incoherent and several were almost insane."

Speaker of the House. John Kuhl was speaker of the house at the last session of the legislature, and his experience reveals the fact that he was on his way to Europe with a bride. He and Miss Ettaugh, a teacher in the Randolph schools, were married quietly and their friends were not taken into their confidence.

SENATE INVESTIGATION. Speaking of senate investigations, Colonel Bixby, in the Lincoln Journal, alludes to the present one in this way: "And now the senate concerns itself with another major investigation. It has invested a sub-committee with full authority to pitch right in and find out who was to blame or what was to blame for the recent marine disaster, and it will hew to the line, let the chips fall where they may."

"Duncan is in his grave. After life's fitful fever he sleeps well." The captain is dead, the first officer has a wave for a pillow, the pilots are all sleeping the sleep that knows no waking. The investigation has been delayed too long. There is nothing to investigate. Why harrow the hearts of the survivors by asking fool questions when the only possible outcome might be justification for a vote of censure upon somebody who blundered and has already paid the penalty? The disaster itself is lesson enough to companies engaged in ocean transportation to cut down the speed limit in running at night where there is possible danger from icebergs. It also suggests the need of better and more adequate facilities for taking care of passengers in case of accident, and this suggestion could reasonably be supplemented by congressional action to make it binding. The question of who was responsible for the foundering of the Titanic cuts no ice now. That job was done by the big boat.

SERMON ON TITANIC HORROR. On last Sunday the pulpit of Christendom, by common consent, referred to the terrible catastrophe on the Atlantic ocean last week in which over 1600 souls were lost. The tragic end of this triumph of the skill of man lent itself to solemn lessons which the church felt called upon to inculcate. At the Presbyterian church, the pastor, Rev. Alexander Corkey, preached on the subject at the evening service. As he has crossed the ocean five times, twice on the Lusitania, which was second only to the Titanic in its magnificence, he was able to picture graphically the scenes attending the disaster. He had indeed hoped himself to cross the Atlantic on this latest ship when he made his next trip to the old country. After describing the building of the ship at Belfast, Ireland, and the character of the passenger list, which included many notables, besides a dozen millionaires, the speaker described the collision with the ice berg, the launching of the life boats and the final sinking of the Titanic, leaving 1600 men struggling helplessly in the icy waters, which soon engulfed them.

"There is no doubt what ever as to the cause of this terrible wreck," said the preacher. "Everyone acquainted with ocean travel knows there was just one cause—speed mania."

The providences in connection with the salvation of the 700 survivors were noted; the use of wireless telegraphy, the accident happening at the close of a Sabbath day on the ocean when men were at their best as men, and the calm, clear night, so unusual at this time of the year off the Banks of Newfoundland.

In conclusion, the good that has come from this terrible sacrifice of life and treasure was emphasized. Ocean travel is now safer than it has been for years, men are hambler, manhood is grander after the noble exhibition of self-sacrifice for others displayed by the men and the crew.

Explanation of Map: Symbol Formula Humidity Climate Triangle—No. 1 60 and over Damp Square—No. 2 45 to 75 Medium Circle—No. 3 20 to 60 Dry Cross—No. 4 Under 20 Very Dry. Lincoln Climatic Paint Simplifies the Paint Question. It is easy for you to secure just the right paint for your locality—paint particularly manufactured to fit the climate we live in. Merely refer to the map above—or to the elaborate climatic map on exhibiting at our store—and you can determine the correct formula of Lincoln Climatic Paint you need. This paint, barely a year on the market, has fairly leaped to fame. Its success has been overwhelming. Nothing like it has ever been made before. Other manufacturers make their paints on the same formula for damp and dry sections alike—on the incorrect assumption that this is one-climate country. The discovery that four kinds of paint are needed in this country has led the Lincoln Paint & Color Co. to originate Lincoln Climatic Paint—made on four separate formulas—to suit the four climates. If you want paint that will endure, as well as beautifully, buy Lincoln Climatic Paint. The cost is no more than the ordinary "one-formula-for-all-climates" paint.  Monday was Arbor day, but little attention was paid to it here. When J. Sterling Morton took the initiative for a day to be devoted to tree planting, Nebraska was a treeless prairie. The day will always be remembered, but the need for its observance is not so pressing as it was in the early days of the state's settlement.

DEATH OF AGNES SHANNON.

Miss Agnes Shannon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Shannon of Wayne, died of heart failure Saturday evening. While she had been suffering from the trouble at times for a number of years, her condition was not considered serious. She was down town early in the evening and was stricken with an attack of the disease on her way home. Soon after reaching home she passed peacefully away.
 The deceased was born at Independence, Buchanan county, Ia., April 11, 1875. She graduated from an academy at Waterloo, Ia., in 1892. She had lived with her parents in Wayne county for about twenty years, part of the time at Carroll, and the rest of the time in Wayne.

Funeral services were held at St. Mary's church Monday morning. High mass was offered by Rev. Father Kearns, and a beautiful tribute to the memory of the young woman was paid by him. The large number of friends who gathered to mourn with the surviving relatives gave evidence of the esteem in which she was held.
 Monday afternoon her remains were taken to Independence, Ia., for interment, and were accompanied by her father, two brothers, John and Edward, and her sister-in-law, Mrs. Dan Shannon. Her brother, James Shannon, went to Independence, Sunday to arrange for the burial. Her mother, who is an invalid, was unable to take the trip.
 Miss Shannon was faithfully devoted to her invalid mother, and was a source of courage and comfort to her aged father. She was a true and consistent member of the Catholic church, and was esteemed by all who knew her. Many friends keenly regret her death, and sympathize with the bereaved family.

At this meeting we ought to look into the matter of selecting a Sunday school superintendent. This will be an important meeting.

MEN AND RELIGION MOVEMENT.

Last Sunday afternoon a representative gathering composed of men from the various churches of Wayne met in the Baptist church and made arrangements to carry the message of the Men and Religion movement to all parts of Wayne county. This movement has been attracting the attention of the country for several months and had aroused remarkable enthusiasm amongst the leading business men of our largest cities. So complete were the plans for arousing the entire country that the movement in some form or other has been carried to almost every part of the United States from ocean to ocean.

Wayne county will be reached by a series of meetings held in every township of the county on Sundays, May 5 and 12. These meetings will be conducted by "teams" from Wayne, Wakefield, Carroll and Winside. Each "team" will consist of a minister and two laymen, and the following topics will be discussed at all the meetings: "The Relation of Men to Bible Study, Evangelism, Missions, Social Service and Boys' Work." Following this series of meetings a banquet will be held at which the leading men of the county in religious work will meet, and arrangements are being made to make this banquet one of the epoch-making events in the history of religion in the county as far as men are concerned. The following committees have been appointed to complete arrangements for the township meetings and the banquet: Committee on location of meetings and publicity, Rev. William Gorst, A. R. Davis, I. W. Alter; committee on teams of speakers, Rev. Alexander Corkey, F. H. Jones, W. D. Redmond, Professor I. H. Britell; committee on transportation, C. M. Christensen, C. W. Hiseck, Dr. Blair; committee on banquet, Rev. B. P. Richardson, S. R. Theobald, J. E. Masteller and P. C. Philbeck.

SACRED CONCERT.

On next Sunday evening a sacred concert will be given at the Presbyterian church by the church choir, assisted by Professor Frank Nangle. The concert will be given in place of the regular evening service, and will, of course, be free. There will be various sacred selections by the choir as a whole, and also solos and duets. Professor Frank Nangle will assist the choir, rendering as one of his solos the song, "Babylon," which he will sing by special request. Professor Nangle is a Wayne boy who was always noted as a singer of remarkable ability, but who has only recently given himself wholly to this work. For a large part of the past winter he assisted a prominent evangelist in holding special meetings in different parts of the country, and his success in this work has been gratifying to his Wayne friends, who will be glad of the opportunity which this concert will give them to hear him again. The sacred concert will be given under the direction of Mrs. William H. Morris, who is the chorister of the church. The service will begin at 8 o'clock.

TO LECTURE IN OMAHA.

On next Monday evening Rev. Alexander Corkey will deliver a lecture in Omaha on the subject "Bible Literature in our Public Schools." The lecture has been arranged for by a number of Omaha citizens who are interested in the subject, and it is expected that a large proportion of the teachers and principals of the Omaha public schools will be present on the occasion. In connection with this visit, Dr. Corkey will also be entertained at a luncheon by a committee of Omaha business men who are interested in social service.

BUICK MOTOR CARS

MODEL 35

A handsome four-door touring car, fully equipped 30 horse-power.

Price $1,060

OUR MOTTO:

When BETTER automobiles are built, BUICK will build them.

THE LARGEST AUTOMOBILE PLANT IN THE WORLD FLINT, MICHIGAN

I feel it my duty to advertise a few FACTS concerning the BUICK Automobile Factory and the CAR they build, for the benefit of all prospective automobile buyers.

A huge crop of hay was harvested eight years ago where now stands the Buick factories, covering fifty-six acres of actual floor area and producing daily over 200 complete automobiles.

With factory facilities like this it is mighty easy to build and market a better car, for less money, than some other company who are complaining of hard times. We are getting the business because Buick value for price, Buick design, Buick finish, Buick equipment, Buick hill climbing power, Buick endurance and service are vastly superior.

U. S. GOVERNMENT HAS APPROVED THE BUICK.

On January 15, 1912, a Model 28 Buick was delivered to Col. Spencer Crosby by the department of war of Washington to be used by the inspector of buildings and grounds on his daily trips.

The government invited all the leading manufacturers of cars priced from $900 to $2,000 to submit a car to a committee of expert mechanics. These cars were submitted to a designated place and the driver dismissed. The examination was then made with no representative of any car present. MOTOR for MOTOR, shaft for shaft and bolt for bolt, the cars were campared, tested and appraised by the government expert.

One by one cars were eliminated until but one remained and it was a Buick. Of the eighteen cars submitted, the Buick alone stood the test for quality and construction upon which the examination was based.

This car was at once turned over to the government for immediate service.

EVERY BUICK IS A BUICK THROUGH AND THROUGH

because every part is made at the great Buick plant except the lamps, carburetors, coils, magnets and tires. The Buick organization is a unit which represents the highest degree of efficiency in motor car production and the public proves this statement by buying more Buicks than any other make. First choice of space at the New York Automobile show in Madison Square Garden was awarded to the manufacturer, who during the first six months of the year produced the largest volume. The award was given to Buick a year ago and again this year Buick had first choice of space because of its volume of business in 1911 was greater than that of any other American automobile manufactured.

OUR LINE FOR 1912

will comprise six models in roadsters and touring cars, substantially the same in design and construction, differing only in size, all equipped with the FAMOUS OVERHEAD VALVE MOTOR, which we guarantee has more speed and power than equal sized motor on the market and competitive tests have demonstrated its superiority and endurance in ninety-four per cent of all tests in which we have participated.

Don't Hesitate to Inspect THE BUICK CARS and get a demonstration at

The Buick cars for 1912 will be sold and demonstrated by the following dealers in Wayne county:

- N. N. SACKERSON, WAKEFIELD.
- E. W. CULLEN, WINSIDE.
- FRANCIS BROTHERS, CARROLL.
- FRED MILLER, HOSKINS.

There is no plot but this is a genuine, old-fashioned Fourth of July celebration with all of its interesting and amusing features. "July the Fourth," to be presented here May 1, under the auspices of the Commercial club with a cast of seventy-five local people, is a comedy of genuine merit and true to life. It is one of those clever plays, full of life and action, that amuses and pleases everybody without arousing criticism from the most fastidious. It is not often that Wayne people get a chance to see the best dramatic and musical talent arrayed behind the footlights, and "July the Fourth" given with a cast of seventy-five local people will be the liveliest coming event of the season. There will be no lack of good things to listen to, and look at and laugh at, and no lack of vim and ginger in any part

If young men are kept employed, they haven't time nor inclination to be bad. Give the boy something to do and something to work for. He will be better and happier.

If Massachusetts and Ohio go for Taft, he is reasonably certain to be nominated. If these two important states turn against him, a "dark horse" may be expected to come to the surface.

Every farmer is pushing work with all possible force. The season is a little late, but the more favorable weather reasonably assured after a long cold spell will hasten the growth of vegetation. The soil is said to be in first class condition.

The Missouri dog jingle has no doubt been a vote getter for Champ Clark, and it is doubtless as sound an argument in behalf of a presidential candidate as some of the arguments urged in behalf of other candidates.

Newspapers that are more party organs and either don't have opinions, or if they had them, were afraid to express them in the late Taft-Roosevelt contest in this state, will now endorse the result of the primary as exactly the way they felt.

One democrat has planted the garden seeds with which he was supplied by Congressman Stephens, and he says if they grow properly and yield abundantly he will vote for the present incumbent. If not, he will bolt and vote for the other Fremont man. It is therefore up to the seeds.

The genial statisticians who have frequently announced that there were only three or four Taft men in Wayne, will have to revise their figures upward to harmonize with the returns from the late primary. Over forty more Taft votes were polled here than had been counted by the statisticians.

According to the chief deputy fire commissioner, the alleys of Wayne are not clean and are not in harmony with the good taste otherwise manifested in the city. If the alleys are half as filthy, unsanitary and unsightly as the commissioner's investigation led him to believe, they need vigorous attention.

The returns on democratic candidates for the presidency resulted in a division of Nebraska's delegates between Clark and Harmon, the former proving the greater favorite of the two. It had been predicted that Wilson would carry this state, but Clark's "houn' dawg" song was too much for the New Jersey man. He couldn't overcome it. The argument was too powerful.

The site of the new city hall has been transformed into a scene of activity. The lots are being graded and are strewn with building material. The site long remained unoccupied save for a string of uninviting bill boards. The lots had long been useless, but now from chaos that follows stagnation will crystallize a spacious, attractive building, surrounded by a green neatly kept sward. It will be an ornament as well as supplying a demand.

Nebraska republicans have given their support to the Roosevelt candidacy by a big majority. Though differing with the judgment of the majority, the Herald appreciates the sincerity of voters in supporting Roosevelt and acknowledges the eminent right and justice of the people to rule. While the addition of Nebraska and Oregon to the Roosevelt strength does not by considerable insure the nomination of the former president, it does wield influence against the Taft candidacy, and stimulate the prospect of a "dark horse."

We should not allow religious intolerance to creep into politics. Because a candidate belongs to one church is no good reason why he should be opposed by the other churches. If a candidate is sufficiently broad-minded to give all denominations fair and impartial treatment, and is a man of good character, with habits of right living and right thinking, his religious belief ought not to prejudice those who do not exactly agree with him in non-essentials. All are aiming at a higher plain beyond the inevitable transition, and more will get there than the bigot or narrow dogmatist suspects. The one who is shunned as unfit for office because his church belief does not seem quite satisfactory may rise higher in genuine spirituality than those who are prone to criticize and suppress him.

The Titanic was the newest and largest steamer afloat. It was making its first trip, and its owners were anxious to have it establish a record for speed. When the ship's officers were informed that icebergs were to be encountered, they doubtless figured that the monster boat could overcome any obstacle that happened in the way. In their race against time, anticipating the applause that would greet the accomplishment of the new boat, they apparently forgot the possible danger. The result was the most appalling ocean disaster in the history of the world. Most of those who went down with the ship showed wonderful bravery and fortitude. They showed the type of civilization to which they belonged. Facing certain death, knowing that in a brief time its members would be swallowed by the ocean, the band played "Nearer My God to Thee." The music was kept up until the gathering waters buried all into eternity. The band displayed marvelous nerve and strength of character. The result of the disaster will likely tame down reckless ambition to exceed speed records. It will impress the fact that safety is more important than quick time.

MUSIC AND MISERY.

Ills, Aches and Pains With Which Performers Have to Contend.

Pianist's cramp is more painful than writer's cramp and is the bane of all virtuosos. It is caused by the constant contraction and expansion of the muscles controlling the fingers. It becomes chronic when not guarded against, and many a promising virtuoso's career has been blighted in this way. The only remedy is to rest the overtaxed muscles and then work them up gradually to meet the strain of constant playing. All concert pianists are subject to split finger tips. The constant stroke of the balls of the fingers on the hard ivory makes the flesh so delicate and tender that frequently playing becomes acute agony.

Violinists suffer a great deal of physical inconvenience. Most of us have an idea that the violin is held against the neck and shoulder by the player's left hand, which grasps the arm of the instrument. All great violin teachers insist that the left hand be left entirely free, and to achieve this the violin is actually held by the player's chin. In this attitude his head is held in a distorted position, and this, working against the elevation of the left arm and shoulder, causes compression of the heart and lungs and curvature of the spine.

Performers on wind instruments suffer many inconveniences, and in some instances their work leads to permanent physical disability. Bulbar paralysis from continued use of the tongue and lips is an ever present danger. Doctors have a fearsome name for the commonest result of wind playing. In plain language it is overdistention of the lungs. This stretching of the lungs from constantly heavy inflation leads to engorgement of the blood in the right cavities of the heart, and this produces dilation of the heart and hypertrophy.

Mental peculiarities of oboe players are traditional in the orchestral world. In spite of the fact that most oboe players are normal, some explain that the oboe player is mentally affected by the fact that he is forced to blow through an exceedingly small aperture and the expiration is unusually prolonged. Others insist that the peculiar, melancholy quality of the tone produced and the invariable character of the music written for the oboe are responsible for any peculiarities displayed by its executors.

After this somewhat grousesome recital it is cheering to know that one instrument at least can be counted on to bring health and longevity to those who practice it. This is the flute. Doctors recommend it for incipient consumptives, as the operation of playing the instrument involves the precise motion of the lungs of most benefit to the consumptive—that is, full inspiration, not too full or strained, followed by slow and gentle delivery of the breath.—John Warren in Washington Star.

Simplify Your Home Grounds.

Don't inclose your property with hedges. Irregular borders of trees and shrubs are better. Hedges cut up a landscape and ruin it with their hard, artificial lines. Borders harmonize with the environment, have variety and give interest the year round. Don't bisect your lawn with a drive or avenue. Don't set trees and shrubs in straight lines except where absolutely necessary, as on streets; group them. Don't make a circle in the lawn around every shrub. Plant bushes in borders or beds. Don't trim every bush into a ball, cube or pyramid. Allow trees and shrubs to assume natural forms.—Country Life in America.

Nearly Shot by Proxy.

In 1862 M. Clemenceau served two months imprisonment for shouting "Vive la Republique!" and in 1871 he was very nearly shot by proxy. He returned to Paris from a provincial speechmaking tour on the day on which Thiers and the Versaillais succeeded in entering the city. Blood was up, and his enemies were looking for him. A young Brazilian who resembled him was arrested in mistake for him and conducted to La Peliniere to be executed. Happily, however, he shouted for the Brazilian consul, and the Brazilian consul turned up in time to rescue him.

Heredity Among Musicians.

Heredity was perhaps never better exemplified than in the case of the famous composer Beethoven, the son of a tanner, who was the son of a buss. Bach came of a family of humble musicians, beginning, it is said, with a miller. Haydn's father was an amateur harpist in humble life. Mozart was the son of an ordinary capelmaster and teacher of the violin. The father of Rossini was a horn player in a strolling company.

Their Relationship.

Grandma—Well, Charley, you're an uncle now, and I suppose you are proud of it. Small Charley—You are mistaken, grandma. I'm not an uncle. Grandma (in surprise)—Why not? Small Charley—"Cause sister's baby is a girl. So I must be an aunt.—Chicago News.

A Mean Friend.

"Will you loan me $2?" "No." "Then will you loan me your revolver to commit suicide with?" "No. You'd pawn it and get your $2 that way."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

It is a lucky cat that escapes skinning. The best happiness will be to escape the worst misery.—George Eliot.

KILLED ONE ANOTHER.

Pesley With a Bullet in His Heart Shot His Opponent Dead.

In his book "Vigilante Days and Ways" Nathaniel Pitt Langford, the author, tells this story of a typical double tragedy of those times:

"One of the most memorable fights in Nevada took place between Martin Barnhardt and Thomas Pesley. Pesley was a man of striking presence and fine ability. He had been sergeant-at-arms in the Nevada assembly. In a quarrel with Barnhardt at Carson City he had been wounded in the arm. Both Barnhardt and Pesley claimed to be 'chiefs,' always a sufficient cause of quarrel between men of their stamp. Meeting Pesley one day after the fight, Barnhardt tauntingly asked him if he was as good a man then as he was at Carson."

"This," replied Pesley, "is neither the time nor place to test that question." "Soon afterward while Pesley was seated in the office of Ormsby House in Carson engaged in conversation with some friends, Barnhardt entered and, approaching him, asked, 'Are you healed?'"

"For heaven's sake," rejoined Pesley, "are you always spolling for a fight?" "Yes," cried Barnhardt, and without further notice fired his revolver. The ball passed through Pesley's heart. Seeing that he had inflicted a fatal wound, Barnhardt fled to the wash-room, closing the windowed door after him. Pesley rose and staggered to the door, thrusting his pistol through the sash, he fired and killed Barnhardt instantly. Falling back in the arms of his friends, they laid him upon a billiard table.

"Is Barnhardt dead?" he whispered as life was ebbing. "He is," was the answer given by half a dozen sorrowing friends. "It is well. Pull my boots off and send for my brother Andy," and with these words on his lips he expired.

SEVRES PORCELAIN.

An Artistic Flower Group That Deceived a French King.

The manufacture of Sevres ware is one of the oldest and most characteristic arts of the French. The Sevres potteries have long been under the direct control and patronage of the government and are in receipt of an annual subsidy.

A royal porcelain factory was first established at Vincennes in 1745 under Louis XV, and produced many notable pieces of ware, particularly bouquets. On one occasion, it is related, his majesty was the victim of a practical joke. One of the exceedingly lifelike bouquets having been placed in his greenhouse by Mme. de Pompadour, the king on his next visit to the place stooped and in all good faith attempted to smell the rare exotic.

The factory was transferred from Vincennes to Sevres in 1756, since which date it has sent forth works of almost inestimable value. Porcelain pastes, colored by metallic oxides, are now compounded there which resist the action of the most fiery furnace, and the enamels and glazes have a marvelous transparency and luster. Almost every tint which can be imparted to porcelain is here—white, turquoise, blue, all the greens, the delicate rose pink which has received the name of Du Barry and even scarlet, one of the most difficult colors to retain under the intense heat of the baking furnaces.

Sevres porcelain has always been an expensive production, for the most skilled artists have been employed in its manufacture. Formerly the finest pieces were made solely for royalty and were sold only by royal permission. The prices paid in modern times for some of these specimens have steadily increased until they have become startling.—Exchange.

A Man Who Really Hated Women.

A will of a confirmed woman hater, writes Virgil M. Harris in "Ancient Curious and Famous Wills," is that of a rich old bachelor who had endured much from attempts made by his family to put him under the yoke of matrimony and who wrote: "I beg that my executors will see that I am buried where there is no woman interred, either to the right or to the left of me. Should this not be practicable in the ordinary course of things I direct that they purchase three graves and bury me in the middle of one of the three, leaving the two others unoccupied."

Pemmican.

Pemmican, the prepared food used so much on polar expeditions, consists of two parts lean meat and one part fat, with two ounces of raisins to the pound. Only the choicest cuts from the choicest beef are used. The lean and the fat and the raisins are ground and mixed and then packed in hermetically sealed cans. It is eaten raw. It is frozen when the time comes to use it, and cooking would detract from its nutritive qualities.

Starting the Feud.

"The baby likes to play with my hair." "But you don't trust him with it when you are out, do you?" inquired her caller. And thus a coolness arose between two women who had been lifelong friends.—Washington Herald.

Temper.

Temper causes the greatest affairs to be decided by the usual paltry reasons. It obscures every talent, paralyzes every energy and renders its victims insupportable.

CHANGED HIS MIND.

He Was Awful Strong, but He Took a Dislike to Boxing.

Talking of the padded mitt and its practitioners, some one remembered a story of Tom O'Rourke when he was managing that black warrior, Joe Wolcott. Every now and then some greenhorn would happen along and beg to be tried out. He offered Mr. O'Rourke and Mr. Wolcott a great deal of innocent pleasure to try them out—plenty.

On one occasion a large walnut colored man came, half in hand, to O'Rourke. "Ah'm most powerful desperit, Mr. O'Rourke," said he, "an' strong! My, ay, Ah'm that strong Ah'm jes' natchally afraid to leave mahself go. Ah want you to match me to fight wit somebody."

O'Rourke said that would be easily done if the caller was as good a fighter as he believed himself to be. But he'd have to be tried out first. The stranger said he was willing, and O'Rourke called Wolcott. "Take this man out in the gym," said he, "and try him out."

The pair added and fenced about for awhile. Then Wolcott got his chance, whenever that right hand over, and the stranger bounced three times before he came to rest. By and by he was backed up to that O'Rourke head over him. "Mebbe Ah'd make a pretty good wrestler, Mr. O'Rourke," said he.

Uncle Walt

The Poet Philosopher

Farewell to snow and freezing, to landscapes all congealed; this is the balmy season of which the birds have spied; no more are blizzards tearing across the land despairing; the farmer, softly swearing, goes forth to plow his field. The old bay broncho's bucking and dancing on all fours; the speckled hen is clucking o'er her maternal chores; the housewife is careening around with mopstick, meaning to do the springtime cleaning, and drive the men outdoors. The ardent boys are tumbling into the swimming hole; the busy bees are humbling to gain their daily toll; the candidates are standing around, our votes demanding, and to us daily handing a windy rigmarole. The poets have collected their verses trite and stale; and soon those rhymes, rejected, come back to them by mail; to sell his patent washer, the agent, genial joshier, hands out his line of hosh or lull 'oon to get the kale. Oh, Spring, you are a winner, the best thing on the pike! You give us greens for dinner and other things we like; you fill the land with roses; and thaw our frosted noses; we're mashed upon your poses and hate to see you hike.

I've been sewing divers patches on my Sunday pantaloons; I've been holding burning matches trying to locate the prunes; I am the STRICKEN HUSBAND wearing now of eating cold potatoes and such grub, while my wife is at a meeting of the steeenth ward tariff club. I am sitting in the cellar where I fell an hour ago, and I have a broken smeller and my heart is full of woe. Oh, my soul is sore with friction as I sit upon a tub; and I call down malediction on the steeenth ward tariff club. To old days, surcharged with beauty, my sad recollections roam, when a woman thought her duty was to navigate a home; when she used to cook the mutton for her tired and hollownub, and she didn't care a button for the steeenth ward tariff club. Now her sitting room's forsaken, from her bower she's gone away; she has quit the eggs and bacon and she talks of schedule K. And the clothesline now is sagging where the rugs she used to drub, and her tireless tongue is wagging at the steeenth ward tariff club. Often I have sadly pondered on the future, for, alack! all my shirts are now unlaundered and my coat's split up the back; there is none to do my sewing, there is none to cook or scrub, for the women all are going to the steeenth ward tariff club.

I was sitting by my gate weeping o'er an unkind fate. Everything was wrong that day for my chickens wouldn't lay, but just UNTIMELY loafed around the coop; OPTIMISM, and old Dobbin had the croup, and the cow had gone insane—she had suffrage on the brain—and the cat was having fits, and the dog, a lovely Spitz, seemed to have the rabies bad, and my heart was sick and sad. So I sat there shredding brine from these china eyes of mine, weeping like some stricken deers till the yard was full of tears. Then an optimism came by; he had sunshine in his eye and he slapped me on the back till I heard my wishbone crack. And there came this cheerful spasm from the large and yawning chasm in his beaming countenance: "Do not worry! sing and dance!" So I slew him where he stood with a chunk of wet elm wood. For I've found that when I'm sore optimism is a bore, and I do not care to hear people utter words of cheer. If you murmur and condole, I can stand your rigmarole; if you come and help me euss I'll enjoy the little fuss. When all things are going right and I'm reeking with delight, then the optimist may come, making sunny language hum.

I stand for all that's good and pure and this, our country can't endure if you should turn me down; beneath my coat and vest and THE CANDIDATE things I have a handsome pair of wings, and in my grip a crown. Unless you choose me as your guide, you're pretty sure to wander wide in morass, fen and swamp; but if you choose me for your chief I'll lead you from this gloom and grief to splendor and to pomp. All other candidates who beg your votes and try to pull your leg are wolves in sheep's array; on Virtue I have placed by brand; True Worth is eating from my hand, as horses eat their hay, I am the Peepul's only friend; if I'm defeated there's an end to all their earthly hopes; the government our fathers built will get the cleaver to the hilt, and tumble through the ropes. If I'm defeated anarchy will sweep this country of the free, our homesteads be laid waste; the husbandman will wade in blood, the clergymen throw gobs of mud, the printer eat his paste. The rivers all will backward flow, the gas-den sags refuse to grow, there'll be no oranges or figs; the blighted trees will with and die, the cows and wells will all go dry, and hens will hatch out pigs. To dodge this dire catastrophe you'll simply have to vote for me and help along my boom, for I alone can be the shield, the sword and buckler you must wield to shun this awful doom!

I'm truly sorry for the gant who when the toilsome day is spent, won't by his fireside linger; who can't serenely sit and read THE RESTLESS "Rebellion," MAN "Money Moon" or "Queed" or t'othermost humdinger. The fireside pleasures he will dodge; he says: "I have to go to lodge as outside guard, dear Nellie; tomorrow night I have to act as usher at a show, next night I tend a rally." His patient wife just heaves a sigh, and wipes the briny from her eye, and, sad and discontented, she murmurs now and then: "I wish that husbands and that kind of fish had never been invented! I used to let my fancies roam and pictured such a happy home; with evenings long and cheery; alas! my husband's brains turn sour if he must stay here half an hour—it surely makes me weary!" For pleasant evenings by your side perhaps the girl you made your bride is yearning too and pining? Disgusted with her Mounted Grange it will not seem so passing strange if she goes gallivanting. Methinks that many of the dames who play the frantic suffrage games are there by husbands driven, who, when they toddle home at all, go much like Dobbin to his stall to eat the grub that's given.

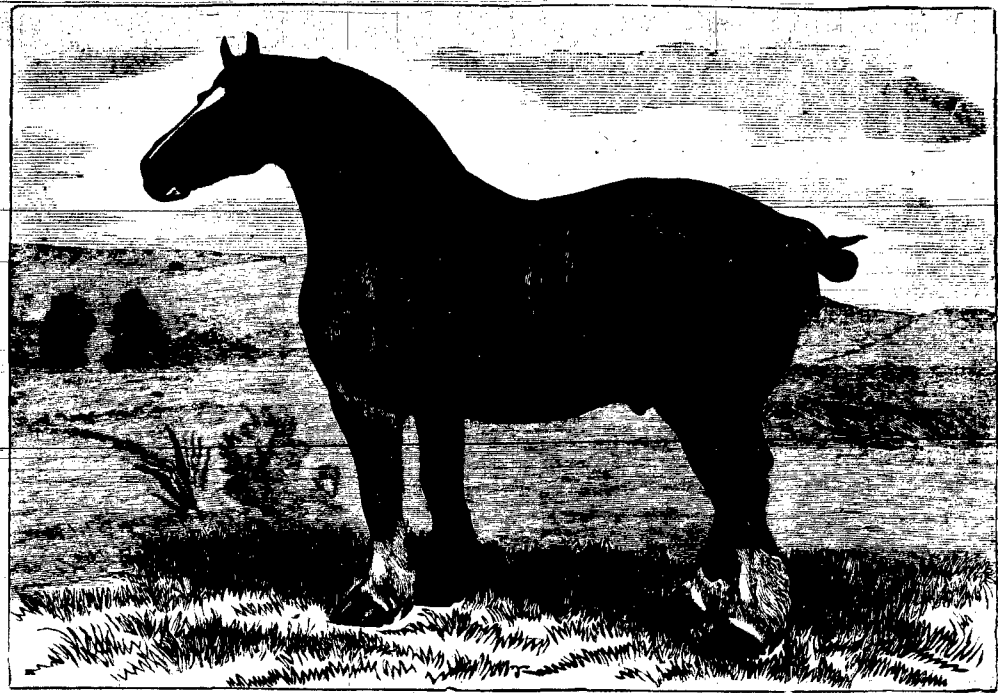

It is indeed a blessed thing that lots of words will rhyme with Spring; there's wing and king and sing and bring, and fifty SPRING POETRY seven more, by Jean LaBlanc (739) and when we've written "audlit leas," we have our choice of trees and bees; and breeze and sneeze and fleas and cheese, and sundry other words like these. And when we speak of "azuro skies," we have a stock of flies and pies, and stys and sighs and maidens' eyes—oh, watch the sweet afflatus rise! There are so many words that rhyme, the poet has an easy time; there's clime; and thyme and crime and prime, and now and then perhaps a dime! Of course we have to ring in babbling streams, which bring us round to twilight dreams; and then an inspirational steams, we reach for themes and schemes and beams. We must refer to sighing woods if we deliver would the goods, and this leads up to noble pines suggesting vines and twines and shines. Oh thunder! Any healthy bard could loaf around in his back yard and write spring poems by the mile along the old accustomed style. The same old verdant woodland nooks, the same old bug-house bubbling brook! The same old birds on joyous wing, the same old harp, the same old string.

First he tried to be a preacher, but he found he was no Beecher, and the folks who heard his sermons always filled the church with IN LUCK snores; then he tried his AT LAST hand at farming but that graft was far from charmin' for he hated early rising and he balked at doing chores. Then he got a job a-clerking but he soon got tired of jerking cans of pumpkin and tomatoes and big sacks of flour and meal; and he failed in all his labors till his pessimistic neighbors said he'd wind up in the poor house as a chronic "Ne'er-do-weel." He had fifty thousand chances to improve his circumstances but he bungled things so often that his friends were sorely vexed; he had loathed things up so fully we considered him a bully good example to the children, and we used him as a text. While he loafed around and hovered on the diamond he discovered that he had a lovely inshoor and a big supply of curves; now he is a famous pitcher, and no pluckier is richer and we load him down with laurels and with praise, as he deserves.

I wonder why the rooster throws such terror in his tooting? At dawn he breaks up my repose and sends sleep callyhoooting. I lie THE ROOSTER and listen to his noise, and wonder, while I'm waiting, what sort of wierd, ecstatic joys the rooster's celebrating. To me his humble journey seems not worth a prune or prism; what hope inspires him as he screams? Why all his optimism? Oh, I can understand a dog that howls his hideous dirges through all the midnight murk and fog; like me, he just insurges. He sees so much of ill and wrong, so much of woe and sorrow; he must uplift his grewly some song, and hope he'll die tomorrow. I sympathize with those who howl, with all things sad and brooding, the dog, the raven and the owl, penned in a world deluding. But ah, I cannot understand the rooster's joyous carol, an anthem in a sombre land that has grief by the barrel! He lives in dark and gloomy pass, where biddy clucks

ISMAY.

Men felt their vessel sinking into the icy wave, and calmly and unshrinking they gazed upon their grave, no coward cries or panic the winds of midnight bore from out the doomed Titanic—and Ismay came ashore. The peasant, rude and lowly, sank fearless in the foam, repeating prayers holy, his eyes toward his home; the Croesus died serenely and sank to ocean's floor, and but one perished meanly—but Ismay came ashore. Men faced their doom as stoic faced death in days of old; oh, human souls heroic; oh, hearts of tested gold! The wild dark waves forever, your requiem will roar! Your fame will perish never—and Ismay came ashore. The bride and groom were parted, the parent died alone, and children, broken hearted, can only mourn and moan, and dream about the faces, the smiles they'll see no more in old familiar places—and Ismay came ashore. Ah, ne'er was such a story in poet's pages placed, the triumph and the glory of manhood undebased! Of manhood strong and tender, of hearts of virgin ore, of death when death is splendor—and Ismay came ashore!—WALT MASON.

MAN'S DOMINION.

"I have conquered the air," man cries, "my pinions shall sweep the skies." And there comes a gale, and his flyers fall, and he sinks to the earth and dies. "Her secrets I'm bound to wrest from out of Dame Nature's breast." And Dame Nature kicks as her breast he pries and scatters him galleys west: "I have conquered the sea, I think," says man with a cheerful wink; "watch ocean will! For I've gone and built a vessel that cannot sink." He shows his rare design; all perfect his plans and fine, and we softly say as we go our way that the sea should take in its sign. He launches his mighty bark that's safer than Noah's ark; it's slick and clean in its lines, I ween, and swift as a trotting shark. "It simply can't sink," he claims; "its bulkheads and mighty frames will defy the knocks of the bergs and rocks and the ocean's wildest games." He sent it a-sailing then, this triumph designed by men; God gives a twist of his might wrist, and the sea is on top again.—WALT MASON.

If your house is tough and seedy, needing yellow paint or red; if your garden's rank and weedy, when it should be slick instead; if your house dog needs a philtre to relieve it from the mange; if the clothesline's out of kilter or there's something ails the range; if there's cordwood needing chopping, or a sidewalk to replace, don't stand on the corner yawping of the presidential race. Exercise your thews and tissues, waste no time in idle dreams; put the lid on Living Issues and forget the Vital Themes. Foolish mouths, like active craters, fill with noise the whole outdoors; but the wise man plants his taters and attends to other chores. Then when winter sends its screamers in the line of storm and snow, and the hungry Vital Themers wring their hands and wail in woe, he who labored while the riot of the blatant tongues was rife, sits at home in peace and quiet, eating sausage with his wife. Do not rear and bust your breechin' over questions of misrule; rake the yard and paint the kitchen; try and manure your mule. If you'll dodge the Living Issue, shake the Vital Theme today, no one on the street will miss you and you'll put up far more hay.

The poor downtrodden toiler came and asked me for a job; the marks of want were on his frame, he heaved a mournful sob. My children and my sad-eyed wives are hungry as a Turk; it is to save their precious lives that I am seeking work. "Poor man," I cried, "the work you ask I'll surely put your way! Saw up some wood—get at your task and earn a bone today!" "Your words," he said with manner grand, "my blood make fairly boil! You do not seem to understand the dignity of toil! If for that price my hands I laid on axes and on saws, I would eternally degrade great Labor's sacred cause! Two bones a day to do that chore—that is my humble tune; to start at 8 and quit at 4 and rest three hours at noon! Far better that my wives should croak, my kids throw up their hands than see me live to make a joke of labor's just demands." I pushed him gently with my feet and drove him from my door; and now he stands upon the street and talks for evermore. He cries the toiler's name is Pance! On earth he has no place! He has no help, no hope, no chance! The Tyrant grinds his face!"

A MAN requires more in working-clothing than mere covering or protection for his other garments and there is something to be considered in Overalls, Jackets, Shirts, etc. besides the weight of the material. Other important features are durability, comfort, satisfaction and economy.

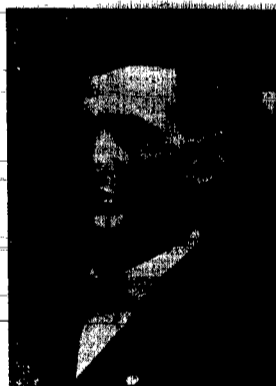

TO OBTAIN these desirable things the garments must be cut to fit and made for service—two items that always accompany each other in satisfactory apparel, especially in work clothes. If they are well made and do not fit the body they are subjected to severe strain at certain points which become weak and finally break; at the same time the wearer is uncomfortable and dissatisfied. If they fit and are not well made, they soon rip and otherwise wear out. Needless to say, this is far from satisfactory.

ECONOMY in buying working-clothes lies in obtaining the best at its value. The price paid is only an element of cost. The cost is the price less what you get out of the purchase in service and satisfaction. If you get the worth of your money in service and satisfaction the cost to you is nothing.

To test all of these points wear

STATE NORMAL NEWS

The next meeting of the board of education will be held at Kearney June 26.

President Conn will attend a meeting of the Schoolmasters' club at Lincoln on Friday evening.

Indications are favorable for a very large attendance in the summer term, which will open on June 4.

Otto Freidrich who was detained at home for several weeks on account of sickness, returned to his work Tuesday.

The Normal male quartet will give a concert at Tama on Friday evening and at Page on Saturday evening of this week.

Despite the rain, the attendance at the Y. M. C. A. social Saturday evening was very good and an excellent program was carried out.

In the last issue of the school paper published by the Kearney Normal a very complimentary mention is made of the Wayne-Kearney debate, and especially of the excellent treatment shown the visiting team.

Requests from boards of education for teachers have been received this week from some of the best graded schools in Nebraska, for many of which no suitable applicant can be found. Good positions in school work are open to young men and young women who have made preparation for their work.

Miss Rachel F. Fairchild has been granted a leave of absence during the summer term and Miss Emma Morrill, principal of one of the ward schools of Lincoln, has been elected to fill the vacancy. With Miss Fairchild as instructor the grammar grades of the Model School have been made an exceptionally strong department of the Normal and we are pleased to know that she will return to her work in September.

July 2 has been fixed as the date for the dedication of the new building. All the members of the board of education will be present and the principal address will be given by Hon. C. H. Aldrich, governor of Nebraska. While the building will not be formally accepted until that date it will be used during the summer session.

Foreman H. Sterner, who has had the responsible position of directing the work on the new building, closed his labors at Wayne Tuesday and departed for Curtis, Neb., where he will have charge of the erection of the new agricultural school. The building at Wayne is one of the best arranged and the most substantial structures in the state, and that its construction has been so satisfactory in every way, is largely due to the efficiency, the watchfulness and the painstaking work of Mr. Sterner.

At the last meeting of the board of education Miss Alwine W. Lauer of Columbus, Neb., was elected as kindergarten critic teacher, to begin her work at the opening of the summer term.

Miss Lauer is a graduate of the Columbus high school and of the Wayne State Normal. She also took special training at Drake university and has spent the entire year as a student of the university of Chicago. Her years of successful experience in the public schools of Nebraska give assurance that she will prove a strong member of the faculty of this institution.

SCHOOL NOTES

Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Short were recent visitors.

The social in the high school gymnasium last Friday evening was fairly attended and was a success.

The tenth grade gave the following program last Friday morning with Hays Main presiding: History of Wayne County by Curtis Foster; Statistics and Organization of Wayne county by Olive Griffith; piano solo by Fern Oman; History of the County of Wayne by William McEachen; Biography of John G. Neihardt by Lucile Carpenter.

Base ball and track team practice is well started and the boys show good form.

Our base ball team will play a game with Norfolk next Saturday.

George Warner of the seventh grade, took a photograph of his school mates and teacher Wednesday afternoon. Miss Hughes teaches the seventh grade.

WAYNE WINS DISTRICT CHAMPIONSHIP IN NEBRASKA HIGH SCHOOL DEBATING LEAGUE.

After Wayne won from Randolph the debate on April 5, the district championship was to be decided in a debate between Wayne and Creighton. Creighton recently withdrew from the contest thus giving the debate and district championship to Wayne by default. Having won this honor the Wayne team will represent this district in the state championship debate at Lincoln on May 17. Tracy Kohl will represent our high school and this, the northeast Nebraska district, in the debate for the state championship. Tracy is selected from our team because he received the highest markings in the preliminary contest and in the Wayne-Randolph debate. In this district Randolph won from Hartington, Creighton won from Pierce, Wayne won from Randolph. Wayne won from Creighton by default.

REPORT DENIED

Washington, April 22.—In response to a letter to William J. Oliver of Knoxville, Tenn., C. D. Hilles, secretary to President Taft, today denied on behalf of the president that Major A. W. Butt had been sent abroad on a mission to Rome. The letter in part reads as follows:

"The president feels Major Butt's loss keenly and is only consoled by the knowledge that he gave up his life as a soldier and a man."

"There is absolutely no truth in the report that Major Butt was on a mission to Rome. The sole object of his trip was the benefit of a long sea voyage."

THE EARLY DAYS IN TWO COUNTIES

From the Logan Valley Herald, April 25, 1884. Born to Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Bennett, April 19, a son; to Mr. and Mrs. James Britton, April 23, a daughter.

On account of increased business at the Wayne railway station, the agent, Mr. Moran, is given an assistant in the person of James Coyle.

Dr. J. C. Brown who is associated with Dr. Crawford in the practice of medicine in Wayne, died at his home at Shelby, Ia.

Rev. F. B. Baker, former minister at Wayne, arrives from Constantine, Mich. to visit and preach.

Married, at Dakota City, May 1, 1892, Mr. Charles D. Herrick of Wayne, to Miss Mary Broshill of Dakota county.

From the Wayne Herald, May 12, 1892. Rev. F. B. Baker, former minister at Wayne, arrives from Constantine, Mich. to visit and preach.

John Shephard begins burning a kiln of 350,000 brick. Born, May 4, 1892, to County Commissioner Russell and wife, a daughter.

From Ponce Journal, April 29, 1880. E. A. Feather of LaPorte, Wayne county, was in town several days last week visiting old friends.

Russ Willour who will soon remove from Dixon to Wayne, has a very fine farm in the latter county. He has 320 acres of splendid land, which is now being fenced, and on which he is having built a house, barns, etc.

On Saturday afternoon a long, lean and lank individual who was making his way along East street and whose zig-zag and raffish style of walking indicated an over-dose of "forty-rod," and who was rendering himself conspicuous by scattering indiscriminately as he went vituperative and maudlin epithets, was seen to plunge with reckless impetuosity, and disappear through a hole in the sidewalk at the lower end of the street.

From the Ponce Journal, May 2, 1878: Popea furnishes teachers for quite a number of the county schools. Miss Miller will teach in the Davis district on Silver Creek, Miss Ida Hobbs in the Bolton district, Dalley Branch; Miss Eva Jones at Ionia, Miss Bisbee in the Vanderbilt district, and Miss Lineberger on Elk Creek in Dakota county.

On Thursday afternoon last a young man named Clark Dutton and Miss Phoebe Baker attempted to cross the Missouri at this place in a skiff, when it was capsized and Miss B. drowned. It appears that she had been over in Dakota, and coming down to the river made motions for some one on this side to come after her.

Dutton took a skiff, went across and got the girl. On their return the high water and heavy wind drove the boat about half a mile below the landing. Here was a perpendicular bank of eight or ten feet, so that a landing could not be effected. A rope was thrown to Mr. Elwell who was upon the land and he was to tow the boat up the river. They had gone but a short distance, however, when a large mass of earth, caved into the water, creating a wave that, striking its side, rolled the boat completely over.

OVERTAXED

Hundreds of Wayne Readers Know What It Means

The kidneys are overtaxed. Have too much to do. They tell about it in many aches and pains. Backache, weariness, headache. Early symptoms of kidney ills. Urinary trouble. Bright's disease follow.

A Wayne citizen tells here a reliable remedy for kidney ills. Anton Biegler of Wayne, Neb., says "About two years ago my back was very stiff and I could hardly get up after sitting awhile. At night, after a hard day's work, I was in such great pain that I could not get my proper rest. The kidney secretions caused me much annoyance by their frequency in passage. Learning of Doan's Kidney Pills, I got a box and their use helped me so greatly that I continued taking them until I was well. I have never had a serious recurrence of kidney trouble."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50c. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's and take no other.

They said the Titanic couldn't sink, but it did. Many drinking men say booze won't get them, but it will. Sometimes a man devotes his vivid imagination to nothing more important than seeing up visions of trouble that won't happen.

Chas. Hornby, Bassett, Neb., makes the following statement: "I was bothered with sciatic rheumatism so bad I could hardly turn over, and was stiff and sore in all my joints. W. A. Chapin of Carnes, Neb., advised me to use Foley Kidney Pills, saying if three bottles did not cure me he would return my money. I am glad to say it was not necessary to use all of the three bottles, and they cured me entirely." Shulthis Pharmacy.

BURRESS BROS' STALLIONS

We will have the usual number of big ton draft stallions at our barns in Carroll this season, consisting of Percheron, Belgian and Shire; also a good French Coach stallion. It pays to raise the best; good draft horses never were higher than they are this spring, and in spite of all talk to the contrary, good heavy drafters will remain high priced. Wayne county is noted for heavy drafters and we are doing all we can do to better them. Call and see our stallions and get our terms.

Editor Atkinson Turns Poet. The readers of the Index will remember that Mr. Atkinson has recently taken a poetical turn and now writes poetry for pastime. He has grown so intensely interested in the subject that he finds it necessary to arouse his wife from her peaceful slumbers in the middle of the night to quote poetry to her. He says at first she refused to listen, but he finally persuaded her to give ear. We patiently await publication of his first edition of home-grown poems. It is quite generally believed that he has been reading from Bixby and Walt Mason and aspires to accomplish greater things than either of his contemporaries.

Mr. Mick Fights Fire. W. R. Mick and son Otto had an exciting time fighting fire during the recent high wind. It appears that W. R. grew ambitious to burn the thistles from his fence corners and started several fires in the morning before the wind began to blow. Later in the day the wind fanned the smoldering thistles into a blaze which traveled swiftly northward over hay and stubble fields. Mr. Mick started after the racing flames and worked harder than he has for many years, trying to extinguish them, but as fast as he put it out in one place, it would break out in another. After Mr. Mick had got his "second wind" and used it all up he succeeded in putting out the fire. Those who saw him in action say that he resembled an old-fashioned dutch windmill.
