SENATE COMMITTEE IS INVESTIGATING

SOURCE OF CAMPAIGN FUNDS

Four contributions of $100,000 each to Republican National Campaign Fund of 1904.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 2.—Four contributions of $100,000 each from John D. Archbold of the Standard Oil Co., J. P. Morgan & Co., H. C. Frick and George J. Gould were made to the republican national campaign fund in 1904, according to records of the late Cornelius N. Bliss, which passed through the hands of George R. Sheldon, treasurer of the 1908 republican committee, who testified today before the senate committee investigating campaign expenditures.

Mr. Sheldon said Mr. Bliss gave him a detailed statement of the 1904 funds; that he noted "those large contributions," and that he was positive no record appeared of the $100,000 Archbold contribution having been returned.

With equal positiveness he swore that the records showed the disputed Edward H. Harriman fund of $240,000 had been received by Mr. Bliss for the New York republican state committee, headed by B. B. Odell, jr.

"That fund of $240,000 was raised at the request of B. B. Odell," said Mr. Sheldon, "and turned over to his committee by the entirety."

Mr. Bliss' records show it was entirely spent from the funds spent by the national committee.

Dixon Acquiesces Committee. Mr. Sheldon's statements were made during a lull in a day of wrangling between Senator Joseph M. Dixon, manager of Colonel Roosevelt's present campaign, and members of the senate committee. Senator Dixon charged the committee with concentrating its activities upon the Roosevelt fund and ignoring the financial activities in behalf of all other candidates, republican and democrat alike.

Committees heatedly denied this, declaring that arrangements for the investigation had been left entirely in the hands of Chairman Clapp, a strong supporter of the progressive national candidate, and that members for all candidates had been subpoenaed to testify.

COURT JURY CHOSEN FOR NOVEMBER TERM

The following men were drawn yesterday to serve as jurors at the regular term of district court in November: Louis Ziemer, George Congdon, H. C. Green, Robert McEachen, Charles A. Denecia, George Gahler, H. S. Welch, John Paulson, E. A. Surber, Grant S. Means, John Rosowder, R. H. Williams, Frank Brzezynski, Frank Mottson, Charles Long, Andy McIntosh, A. Kruger, Fred Chapman, L. C. Gilderstone, G. A. Grothe, Ola Nelson, William Rowles, Fred Van Norman and Walter Gaebler.

DEATH OF MRS. SHANNON.

Mrs. Thomas Shannon who had been falling in health for several years, died at her home in Wayne at midnight last night, aged 75 years. Funeral services will be held at the Catholic church tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock. Rev. William Kearns officiating. The remains will be taken to Independence, Ia., for interment.

The family came to Wayne county from Waterloo, Ia., in 1890, first locating at Hoskins, and a number of years later moving to Carroll. Five years ago Mr. and Mrs. Shannon moved to Wayne, and have since made their home here.

Besides her husband, she leaves four sons and one daughter to mourn her death, as follows: John and James of Wayne, Edward of Sioux City, Dan of Carroll, and Mrs. J. J. Shea of Sioux City. Another daughter, Miss Agnes, died last April. Mrs. Shannon was patient in her long illness and was held in high esteem by all who knew her.

TURN OF THE TIDE TO PRESIDENT W. H. TAFT

That President Taft stands right in his claim that he stands a real chance of election is corroborated by the experience of a citizen of this place in a neighboring town. The Wayne man there met with a commercial traveler from Kansas City and without revealing his own convictions hailed the traveler with this question: "Is it Wilson or Taft?"

"Things are moving rapidly toward Taft," was the prompt reply. "Why do you say that?" asked the local man. "Oh, the general prosperity is making everybody realize the folly of change." "That may be good reasoning," said the Wayne man, "but what specific evidence have you that the people are thinking that way?"

"My business takes me into stores in small towns and I hear the farmers all talking that way. I was in a register place about twenty miles from Lincoln the other day and all I heard from the farmers, and I heard a good deal, was Taft, Taft, Taft. Heard the same thing at York." Then on the train we took a poll that came out 27 for Wilson and 25 each for Taft and Roosevelt and 21 undecided. Of the twenty-one, one said: 'I ain't for Taft, but in Nebraska they won't let me vote for Taft, so I shall probably vote for Wilson.' If Taft is voted it will be by his own friends.

Everybody who wants for Roosevelt in the beginning is disgusted with his dog-in-the-manger act. They are contrasting his actions with those of Bryan. Why Bryan could have split his party and had as good a nomination as Roosevelt and would have polled more votes. I have always been a democrat but I am for Taft and there are many more of me and there will be many more before November. If Taft is elected it will be by reason of the mistaken judgment of his friends. One of the best arguments we have ever had.

FURNITURE AT COST TO QUIT BUSINESS

ORLANDO ADAMS SO DECIDES

As will be seen by the advertisement of Orlando Adams in this paper, he has decided to sell at retail his furniture stock at cost. The building has been rented by C. A. Berry who will occupy it with the stock which he carries in the Kohl building. Mr. Berry purchases to add to his stock. Mr. Adams' line of picture frames and shades. The building vacated by Mr. Berry will be occupied by L. A. Fenske, jeweler.

MR. BRYAN RETURNS TO LINCOLN FROM TOUR

Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 2.—Before leaving for his three days' campaign tour of southern Nebraska and northern Kansas, William J. Bryan had a conference with Rudolph Sprackles, of California, president of the Woodrow Wilson National Progressive Republican League. Mr. Sprackles told Mr. Bryan he was still a republican and after the present campaign he hoped to return to the party, but in the present fight he felt he was justified in supporting the democratic presidential nominee.

Following his conference with the California Mr. Bryan left for Beatrice, Neb., where he delivered an address. Later he spoke at Fairbury, going from there to Bellevue, Kas. All of tomorrow and Friday will be spent on a special train in Kansas. Mr. Bryan will return to Lincoln Saturday morning to welcome Governor Wilson. Next week he leaves for North and South Dakota.

IN DISTRICT COURT.

The district court within the past week: The action to collect an inheritance tax from the estate of J. M. Strahan, appealed from the county court. State vs. Paul Juhlin, and the state vs. Bryan Farwood, both appealed from Justice Albers' court.

The Herald is informed that the State Normal Horsehoe team, whose chief actors are Dean H. Hahn and Registrar Redmond, sent a challenge to the old soldiers' horsehoe team recently, and that the same was promptly accepted, and a contest duly arranged and later pulled off. The Normal team was heartily welcomed by the war veterans. The score at the close stood 9 to 1 in favor of the old soldiers who thus mercifully yielded one score.

Mrs. Walter Weber arrived home the latter part of last week from a week's visit with relatives near Randolph. Her delinquent tax list which appears in this paper is too small to attract attention. A diminishing delinquent list indicates increasing prosperity. It shows that people are able to pay their taxes, and that they are not neglectful of the obligation. The old-time delinquent list which was big enough to cover the side of a room, told a story of poverty. But conditions have grown steadily better until today the delinquent list is unimportant.

Randolph Times: E. W. Closson & Co., during the past week sold their large general store at Sholes, to Sam Erskine of Norfolk, a well known traveling man, and his two sons. The boys will conduct the business and they are both well fitted for the task they assume. Mr. Closson has built up a good business in Sholes, and was from a small beginning. He has other business interests that demand his attention and will devote his energies to them.
Hartington Herald: Miss Emily Killion of Wayne, has been in town several days this week, considering the question of opening a dressmaking school in this city. The idea of such a school is to afford a place where ladies may bring their own material, and make their own garments under the supervision of an expert, and so far as Miss Killion had canvassed the field she found the ladies of Hartington very enthusiastic. In addition to this department, Miss Killion would also handle custom-made garments.
Hartington Herald: The writer had occasion to spend a few hours recently in the city of Wayne and was pleased to observe how fine a little city it was. The business portion indicates thrift, enterprise and prosperity and the residence portion consists of splendid homes and beautiful lawns. Wayne is the home of a state normal institution and has some of the finest churches edifices in the state. Its atmosphere is progressive and refined and it is an ideal home and college town. New buildings are going up all the time at Wayne and everywhere you observe evidences of growth. The people of Wayne think that their town is the best of its size in the state, and with one possible exception the writer is inclined to concede the claim. Potent among the various forces which have made Wayne what it is are two ably edited and splendidly equipped newspapers, and to the genial courtesy of the editors of these two papers the writer was indebted for a most delightful visit.
J. E. Boyce has moved to Wayne from Pierce to give his son the advantages of the State Normal and the family occupied a residence in the vicinity of the standpipe. Of Mr. Boyce's removal here, the Pierce Call says: "J. H. Boyce and family moved to Wayne this week to make their future home. This move was made so that Harold could enter the State Normal college and complete his education which was begun at the state university two years ago. After attending the Wayne Normal he expects to take a commercial course elsewhere. Mr. Boyce will return to Pierce and complete several jobs in the painting and papering line and may be here the greater part of the winter. They will still retain their residence property in Pierce and have a host of friends who sincerely hope that their removal to Wayne is only temporary."

For Two Days Only!
Consistent with the united plan among local business men to offer Special Bargains on Wednesday and Thursday, October 9 and 10, THE WAYNE HERALD will FOR THOSE TWO DAYS Reduce the Price of the paper to $1 Per Year $1
Any one now taking the paper, can pay arrears at the usual rate and take advantage of the reduction by paying a full year in advance on the two days mentioned. Thus, the bargain may be beneficial to old and new subscribers alike. Most readers of the Herald will cheerfully testify that it is amply worth the usual price of $1.50 per year, and that a reduction to $1 is a bargain well worth snapping up. The special offer will not be good an hour before nor an hour after the time specified. If we can by the reduction considerably enlarge our circle of regular readers, the slaughter in price for two days will be warranted.

DEMOCRATIC COUNTY CENTRAL COMMITTEE
The democratic county central committee met at the court house Saturday afternoon to consider ways and means of eating up the opposition. The matter of financing the campaign was the paramount subject considered, and after prolonged debate it was decided not to refuse donations from any source unless it should appear that the amount given by one person at any one time proves so large that the motive of the contributor seems questionable and gives suspicion of a selfish aim. As the cause prompting great contributions is held under suspicion these days, no one should feel mad if his donation is too big to be accepted without a preliminary investigation. Of course, if due inquiry shows that a big donation is inspired by a spirit of patriotism, unshaken by selfish motives, the donor should be applauded and the money collected in his honor and for the benefit of the county.

After carefully figuring out how big a donation each man will be permitted to give without question, and after considering other ways of breaking through the armor of the opposition, the committee adjourned.

Brother Howard joined the Fraternal Union of America during its early history and has never been suspended, but usually pays his assessments for a year in advance, so believes in the order and wants its protection for his family. He is a member of the order since 1886. The writer has known Brother Howard for twenty-five years and step by step he has advanced in business and extended his acquaintance throughout the state. His business experience should fit him for the position he seeks, and we wish him every success in the race. ### LIVE DEMOCRATIC EMBLEM IN DISPUTE

Charles B. Thompson had issued from the county court this week a writ of replevin to repossess himself of a real, live emblem of the democratic party which he says belongs to him, but which he claims is in possession of Asher Harburt of Sholes. Harburt says Thompson traded the emblem to him for some other stock, and that he took possession of the animal. Sheriff Porter went to Sholes Monday armed with a writ, but couldn't locate the animal and had to return without it. Harburt told the sheriff to find the property if he could, which he would have been pleased to have done. He listened to offer to lend the emblem, but he either kept still or was too far away to be heard, for no sound of the kind mentioned reverberated through the town of Sholes.

HAPPY SURPRISE ON BIRTHDAY OCCASION

J. E. Harmon, janitor at the court house, was 72 years old last Saturday. He didn't think much about the occasion until a crowd of his old war comrades, with their wives, surprised him by calling in a body at his home in the evening. The surprise was a most happy one—Twenty-six were in the party and they were cordially welcomed by the Harmon household. The evening was spent with music and general sociability, and at an appropriate hour the visitors brought forth baskets of oysters for a feast which everybody enjoyed.

It is not flattery to say that Mr. Harmon does not look nor act as old as his record of age shows. More than half of his life-time has been spent in Wayne county. He located at LaPorte in 1871 when that town was the county seat and promised to become a center of considerable importance. Mr. Harmon commenced carrying mail between LaPorte and Ponca in 1873, and held the job four years. With LaPorte's hopes snuffed out by the building of the railroad, which gave Wayne a start and finally the county seat, Mr. Harmon in 1886 moved to this place and has been here ever since. For thirteen years, of course the building of the new court house, Mr. Harmon has been janitor of that institution, and his long service testifies to the satisfactory manner in which he handles his duties. His friends hope he will see many more happy birthday anniversaries.

DEATH OF C. W. YENNERBERG.

C. W. Yennerberg died Saturday at his home three and one-half miles northwest of Wayne, aged about 72 years. He had been ailing for some time with heart trouble which finally proved fatal. Funeral services were held at his late home Monday afternoon and were conducted by Rev. E. O. Freeman of Concord. A large crowd of friends attended. Interment took place in the Wayne cemetery.

Mr. Yennerberg came to Wayne county from Sweden, twenty years ago, and has lived here ever since. He is survived by his wife, three sons and three daughters. The sons are John, Albert and Axel; the daughters are Mrs. Nell Johnson, Mrs. Victor Johnson and Mrs. Anna Natsky. Mr. Yennerberg was a good citizen, and had many friends.

Mr. Yennerberg's death occurred within a few hours of the anniversary of the death of his daughter, Miss Jennie, who died shortly before midnight September 27, a year ago. He died soon after midnight, September 28, at 10 o'clock.

Rev. Ernest Paul E. Lingens of Chicago, Ill. who comes to Wayne on November 20 to lead an evangelistic campaign under the auspices of the Methodist, Baptist and Presbyterian churches, is a layman. He is a member of the famous Chicago Avenue church, and for several years he had charge of their young people's work. Besides being a member of several churches, he has composed a number of hymns. He will lead a large unchorus during the meetings. His own work is a feature of his meetings. His presentation of the religion of Jesus Christ appeals especially to men and boys, and his coming will be of great interest to the Christian workers in all the churches of Wayne.

First Methodist Church. (Rev. William Gorst, Pastor). Our congregations last Sunday were so large as to be strong evidence that the people are "at home again" from vacations.

Here is to every member of the Sunday school, especially the boys and girls. In the past, when some have been out of the city and others may have grown careless about Sunday school attendance, so that we have not quite gotten back to our best attendance. A Sunday school rally day service is in store for the 28th of October, and we must make it a big day. Every boy and girl can help to do this by remembering, each member of their respective Sunday school classes, and procuring the regular attendance at Sunday school, beginning next Sunday. Also teachers might observe their attendance records and look up any absentees. This will be good missionary work for everybody.

Young people and some fine work-ers are being enlarged the attendance of both the Epworth League and the Sunday evening services. Many of our families will be interested in entertaining some of the 250 delegates to the Baptist state convention to be held in Wayne October 13-17. Besides receiving delegates into their homes for lodging and breakfast, the Ladies' Aid society will serve dinner and supper in the basement to the delegates on Wednesday and Thursday, October 16 and 17, and the Presbyterian ladies will serve at the same place Tuesday, the 15th.

Next Sunday morning the pastor will attempt a suitable edition of "The Keynote for the Year" and he'll be evening talk about some echoes. "What Shall We Teach Next Sunday at Sunday School?" is the topic for twenty to thirty minutes at every Wednesday evening service.

Epworth League at 6:30 Sunday evening.

worship we shall have our communion services. Before we commence together the hand of church fellowship will be given to those who have been baptized since last month. We always appreciate the presence of our members at this service. The subject of the communion address will be, "Our Father's Good Pleasure."

Special interest has developed in our Sunday school classes. The young people's class has reached an enrollment of over fifty. The men's class has begun a series of studies in the social application of Christianity. Professor Lewis makes the lesson intensely interesting.

The time of the evening service has changed to half hour earlier. The young people's meeting begins at 6:30; leader is Miss Myrtle Kopp. The subject is "Humility." At 7:30 the evening worship begins. The pastor will preach on the theme: "Confessing Christ."

Only one week from Sunday until the convention meets this year. It will be a great privilege for all religious people of the town to join in the sessions of the convention. See elsewhere in the paper a full program of the proceedings. The evening session will be especially full of interest.

The budget committee is at work. Every member wants a share in this great work. See Mr. Allen who is treasurer of this department, and give him your pledge. A number of our members have not yet secured envelopes for the pledges for the current expenses for the coming year. Sunday is the first week. See Mr. Sprague as soon as possible and get your envelopes. You need to share in this aspect of our church work.

Let us remember the change of time for our prayer meeting, 7:30 p. m. We especially want our members out next week to keep in touch with the coming convention.

The Wayne-Norfolk Game.

The foot ball game at Norfolk last Saturday between the Wayne and Norfolk high school foot ball teams resulted in a victory for Norfolk by a large score, here is a good game. From the start and through the end the first quarter the Wayne team had much the better of it. The ball was in Norfolk's territory nearly the entire quarter, the Wayne boys making their downs and advancing the ball to Norfolk's 15-yard line and scoring a place kick with Marsteller performing the operation. Score, Wayne 3, Norfolk 0. Wayne kicked to Norfolk and held them for down. The second quarter the Wayne boys weakened by their much heavier opponents, allowed Norfolk a touchdown, but they failed at goal. Score, Wayne 3, Norfolk 6. It looked like either team's game at the end of the first half, but in the second half Norfolk seemed able to score at will. The Wayne boys simply couldn't stop them and the game ended 16 to 3 in Norfolk's favor. The Norfolk team outwitted the Wayne team at least ten pounds to the man and this proved a great advantage to them and explains Wayne's defeat. It was a good game. Both teams worked hard and made their errors frequently. Both teams worked several forward passes successfully. Norfolk plays a return game at Wayne on November 2. Wayne has no game this week.

President Gann Speaks to High School.

On Wednesday President Gann visited the high school and made a thirty-minute address to the students and teachers. Mr. Gann took the subject, "Does it Pay to Get an Education?" He explained that an educated man is one who is on to his job—no one who knows how to do a thing in the best possible way. He said in the past many men stumbled into success, but they were not prepared in his mind.

speaker said that there are now more and better opportunities than ever before, and urged his hearers to not lose one opportunity for preparing themselves for the problems and opportunities of life; not to look for the easy job, but to do the difficult things as well. He told the students to not be in too big a hurry to get into business or a profession, but to first prepare well; to not expect to take book-keeping and penmanship for a few months and then be bankers. A good farmer can raise a fine squash in four months, and you can get the squash education in four months, but it takes much longer to get something worth while. Mr. Gann said that high school students are making more money than any other class of people. He then showed that every day a student spent in high school who ought to spend it is worth $10 to him by increasing his earning capacity after he is through school. He proved that the students' job is worth while and urged them to stay with the job.

ROOSEVELT AND LINCOLN.

J. Adam Bode: This close resemblance between Colonel Roosevelt and Abraham Lincoln was not noticed until the colonel discovered it along with the ten commandments. Then it was recalled that he scolded General Miles in public, making a disgraceful scene at the White House, which was so much like the thoughtful and considerate Lincoln.

Again when Senator Proctor of Vermont, died, with whom Roosevelt had had some differences, and he was asked if he was sorry, he replied that he was sorry it was not Senator Hale. This sounds very much like Lincoln! In his book on "The Rough Riders," he boasts of shooting a Spaniard in the back! How Lincoln would have glouted over so brave a deed!

On his trip down the Mississippi river with waterways commission he had a pilot promperly dismissed from service without a hearing and for no cause whatever. Lincoln always dismissed pilots in that way!

Because a government employe passed his carriage in an auto on the streets of Washington he amended the chief service rules so that a department chief could dismiss a clerk without a hearing and forced his dismissal under this rule that did not exist when the act was committed. Lincoln did something like that almost every morning!

When a schoolgirl on horseback passed his riding party he is said to have struck her horse with an angry whip with his riding whip, frightening the animal and almost throwing the girl to the ground. Lincoln always had just such a lordly gait as that!

The closest resemblance, however, was shown when Mr. Roosevelt, while president, in an article published everywhere, over his own signature, charged General Sherman with being a "superior general under Grant, but at this time was a subordinate in the postoffice department. At the president's behest, he was indicted in the District of Columbia. The trial dragged along two or three weeks, and I frequently saw him, feeble and more than 50-years of age, in an invalid chair, wheeling himself into the court room. But he was acquitted, and as a free man went to his home in die.

From his deathbed he wrote a list appeal to the president to withdraw what he had said and let him die without a stain on his name or a disgrace on his family. "But Roosevelt let him die without an answer, and the letter is still unanswered." That is just like Lincoln, of whom it might truthfully be said he came to preach the gospel to the poor and to heal the broken hearted.

Well Disposed Little Cousin.

A little girl who lives in a small town in Missouri wrote the following letter to her cousin: "We is all well, and mother's got the flu. Her little brother Tom is got the Rupter Rump, and sister Ann is got a babee, and I hope these few lines will find you the same. Your affectionate cousin, Kansas City Times.

Maria.

"My friend, if that infernal cat of yours keeps me awake as he did last night, I'll shoot him."

"I wouldn't blame you a bit if you did, Colonel Stormey. Only it wasn't the cat; one of your bondsmen is learning to 'be the boss.'"—Chicago Trib.

One View of It. "But it's the makes all her own dresses I should think she'd be a good wife for you. It shows she's industrious and sensible."

"No for me, thank you. It simply shows how poor her father must be."—Philadelphia Ledger.

The Delay. "Is your wife nearly ready? We ought to be going."

"She won't be a moment. She's just putting herself into her diamonds."—Magazine.

Editorial Excerpts.

Sixty in Lincoln Journal: The Impression is gaining ground here and in some other places that Mr. Taft with all his faults, has been a very decent president.

Omaha Bee: And now one E. O. Garrett, who ran for lieutenant governor on the democratic ticket a few years ago, and was one of the noisy performers in the convention to organize the hall mouse party of Nebraska, declares he is not for Roosevelt at all, but is hot for Wilson.

Frontier Tribune: When republicans took hold of the government fifteen years ago immediately following four years of democratic control of the legislative and executive branches of the government the value of the farms of the country was, in round numbers, twenty billions of dollars. Thirteen years later in 1910, as shown by the federal census, this value had grown to forty billions. It would seem these figures should have great weight in determining the position of farmers in this campaign. These figures are easy to understand and they tally exactly with the experience of every intelligent and active farmer during these years.

Sioux City Journal: President Taft and Governor Woodrow Wilson met the other day and really seemed to enjoy it. Let not the political managers make the mistake of arranging schedules that will bring the president and the colonel into the same town at the same time. It is possible, of course, that a meeting of politeness could and would be arranged, but let there be no mistake about the one or the other principal pretending to enjoy the meeting. Possibly each of the old pals has persuaded himself that the other is wholly to blame for the estrangement, but however that may be, the estrangement is there to stay, whatever either may eventually say or do to straighten the record. Former friends make the most enduring enemies.

Congressman Kahn, in the closing years of the last congress, in a speech made in the house defending before the administration of President Taft in closing said: "He has met every crisis that has arisen during his administration with firmness and resolution. The bluff and bluster of political enemies have not made him flinch an iota from his determination to do what he believes to be for the general welfare of all classes of the republic. He has never mistaken transient political hysteria for sound political doctrine. The wall of the disappointed office-seeker and the cry of the law-breaker have not frightened him into complaisant compliance with their demands. The fear of losing political support has never alarmed him into violating his oath of office. In short, President Taft stands for law and order and he battles for the right."

SUNDAY SCHOOL HAS SPECIAL SERVICES

PREBYTERIAN RALLY DAY

Large Attendance at Sunday School Sunday Morning—Appropriate Program Rendered.

Last Sunday was Rally day at the Presbyterian church and a large congregation assembled for the special service in the morning. The service was a combination of both Sunday school and church, and was opened by a professional by the Sunday school choir under the leadership of Miss Edna Neely. After the opening exercises, Professor J. H. Kemp who was in charge of the services, made a short address of greeting. He emphasized the meaning of Rally day and expressed his high appreciation of the work of the Sunday school. He predicted a splendid winter's work on the part of the church, but said it depended on the individual faithfulness of the members.

The primary department, under the leadership of Mrs. H. S. Ringland, sang a song illustrative of their work, and the Sunday school choir also rendered a hymn. Leaflets with hymns and responsive readings were distributed among the audience, and the congregation united heartily in both singing and reading.

The roll was called by the secretary, Miss Marjorie Kohl, and as the members of the Sunday school responded to their names they were each presented with a little pennant on which the words, "Count on Me," were printed.

Mrs. H. S. Welch reported thirty-three members on the cradle roll, of whom five will graduate into the primary department next Children's day.

A solo was sung by Mrs. A. B. Davis, which was very much appreciated. After which the pastor of the church gave a brief, illustrated talk on "Life." He compared life to a railroad, and, with a toy railroad and engine, he showed how God's plan for lives was like the track, while trust in God was like the flange on the wheels which kept the people going along in God's way.

It is a very much appreciated letter which the pastor of the church gave a brief, illustrated talk on "Life." He compared life to a railroad, and, with a toy railroad and engine, he showed how God's plan for lives was like the track, while trust in God was like the flange on the wheels which kept the people going along in God's way.

A large free-will offering was made in the interests of the work of the church among the immigrants, and the services were closed by the benediction.

WAYNE TEAMS SUFFER DEFEAT IN FOOTBALL

SIoux CITY WINS FROM NORMAL

Local Team Loss in Score of 27 to 0—Wayne High School Boys Defeated at Norfolk.

The Sioux City high school foot ball team played the Wayne Normal boys in Wayne Saturday, the result being 27 to 0 in favor of the visitors. The game was closer than the score indicates. Those who attended saw a sturdy struggle between teams pretty well matched. It is to be remembered that for two years it has been a question whether the Normal should give the foot ball team of any sort. Many of those who played last Saturday, so far from being skillful players, had not only never played before, but they had never seen a game. The Normal boys are a fine, strapping lot of fellows, but they have hitherto had absolutely no chance to become skilled in the game. On the other hand the players from Sioux City were many of them old players. We do not mean to detract in the least from the pleasure and desert of victory. They won well, but it was to be expected. At the beginning it looked as if the Normal had a chance. Our team went through the opposing line easily and carried the ball nearly to the goal line. Then, unhappily, the ball was fumbled, and a Sioux City player led it with an open field before him. In a brief moment he had crossed the distance between him and the Normal goal and had planted the ball squarely between the goal posts. That took some of the courage out of the Normal team, but they came back gamely and might even then have won had they been able to stop the long passes made by the Sioux City backs and ends.

On one occasion the Normal worked forward pass exceedingly well, but as a usual thing the ball went wild in such attempts. Practice in stopping and executing forward passes will render the team formidable to the opponents. It is to be met later in the season. Gerald Cross of last year's graduating class, and of local base ball fame, principal of the schools at Winsford, acted as referee and did excellent work in that difficult role.

Gates Academy will meet the Normal on the local grounds Saturday and everybody who takes an interest in clean sports should be out. Coach Hummer has a good team and deserves the encouragement of the community.

Game at Norfolk.

Monday's Norfolk Daily News: The Wayne high school foot ball team went down to defeat to the Norfolk team by a score of 46 to 3, in the first official game of the season on the driving field yesterday-Saturday afternoon.

Wayne lost these scores in the first quarter by a play goal kick. This first quarter belonged entirely to Wayne and the lads from the normal city played the locals off their feet. Almost the entire line of the first quarter found the piskin in Norfolk's territory.

But Captain Emery's lads found they had recovered their second wind after the first quarter was over. Let the people of Wayne insist on the best in music and our children will not favor the noisy drivel and the street song which are popular for one day and with a joke the next. Let us rise to the level of the artist! The Choral Union is exceedingly fortunate in numbering among its members so capable a musician as Mrs. Miller, who is heretofore accepted and so creditably carried out the arduous task of playing Mr. van Vliet's accompaniments.—MRS. J. T. HOUSE.

ATCHISON GLOBE SIGHTS.

At least this can be said to the credit of the New York 400: they do not give surprise parties.

Women who wear skirts so tight they can't walk, wouldn't walk much if they were loose garments.

Norther can a big man derive much satisfaction from whipping a little one, which helps the little ones.

Notwithstanding all our swatting, the common housefly is finishing the season by covering the usual amount of ground.

The American people boost about their intelligence, but we notice for some tellers are still able to make a living here.

Governor Hadley points out as evidence of progressiveness one's attitude toward political primaries. Still an avowedly progressive-republican convention in Wayne county little more than a year ago adopted a resolution in opposition to the primary. Most men all at the same and pull evenly in the same direction all the time.

Boss Bill Flynn, Pennsylvania booster for Roosevelt, testifies before the senatorial investigating committee that he contributed $144,988.29 to the Roosevelt pre-convention campaign. Of the amount, he says he spent $102,000 to persuade the people of his own state that Roosevelt was the man for them to support. Did Boss Flynn let loose of his money to help a "noile cause" or to make himself solid as a political dictator in Pennsylvania?

Naturally the democrats have been tossing bouquets at the Dakota City Eagle for breaking former political ties and coming out for their party and candidates, and in return the Eagle editor blushes as proudly as a young man whose matrimonial engagement has just been announced. It is reasonable to presume that the Eagle man has abandoned the republican party on his suspicion that it will be defeated and pass out of business. He was postmaster at Dakota City for a long time as a republican and had a position in the state legislature when it was republican. It is supposed he is not holding any office at present. If the con-temptation of some great principle, not supported by the republican party, has led him to quit the party which favored him, but which he thinks is now doomed to defeat, he does not explain it. And some other former office holders besides the Eagle editor have turned, either openly or covertly, against the hand which, though now of uncertain future, they eagerly and successfully sought for favors in times past. And no adequate justification for such a course has yet been offered.

The president's position with reference to presidential primaries seems to be considered decisive proof of the quality of his progressiveness by Governor Hadley. Hadley commends Taft and his administration, but chaps at the anti-primary-presidential primaries and asks him to go on record. Early in the pre-convention campaign, however, the president expressed favor for the primary and a free and honest expression of the electorate. If Hadley who led the Roosevelt forces in the republican convention at Chicago can conceive of no other ground for complaint against the president, other republicans ought to be able to withdraw their imaginary grievances and vote for him.

One of the few things Roosevelt in his platform failed to agree to do—abolish the first of the month and all settlements incident thereto. Without disturbing his record of consistency and practicality, he could have promised to see that what a man owes he would not have to pay, and what is due a man he should get promptly. That would be no more difficult than making high what one sells and cheap what one buys. These evils have so long oppressed society that it is surprising they have been ignored by party platforms, especially the bull moose platform.

Democrats wouldn't feel so anxious to change party control of the national administration if it were not for the subsequent distribution of political plums. If they get possession they will have to put into practice certain theories which might work hardship to the country. That was the result when they got hold of things some twenty years ago. Considering the welfare of the country, it might be advisable and economical to continue the present administration and avert disappointments and demerits by postponing as many of its number as there are offices to fill.

The White Rhinoceros.
The white rhinoceros is not much whittier than the common rhinoceros, but instead of ending in a triangular upper lip its muzzle is square. The white rhinoceros is the largest animal on earth. With the exception of the elephant, the common rhinoceros lives on leaves, roots and berries, which he digs up with his frontal horn. The common rhinoceros is a tame and cruel; the white rhinoceros is calm and lazy, living exclusively on grass and herbage. Though long regarded as a one horned animal, he has two horns. But the smaller of the two, set back of the frontal horn, is so rudimentary that it is not seen from a distance. The forward horn is four and one-half feet in length, and one of its sides is flat. Some of the frontal horns are grooved. The white rhinoceros closely resembles the unicorn of antique legends, whose horns, when used as drinking vessels, sterilized poisons and rendered them harmless.—Harper's.

Waterproof Foliage.
An oriental scholar was giving an address on the philosophy and religion of the east. His English was of good quality, only now and then becoming interesting from the humorous point of view when he attempted colloquial idioms. After describing with fervor the sage—the one who can walk amid the difficulties and perplexities of our life—existence and yet unaffected by these, retain his perfect serenity—the speaker was looking about for some familiar comparison by which to bring home the idea to his hearers.
"Ah, I have it!" he said, pleased at the recollection that rewarded his effort. "It is an expressive saying of four-owl language, said to me once; with whom I was last evening conversing. Take that familiar bird, the duck: it is possible to pour a bucketful of water over that duck and yet the water can never get into his feathers."

The Hat Question in 1790.
The Handel festival was originally given in Westminster abbey, and the official notice of 1790 announced that "no ladies will be admitted with Hats, and they are particularly requested to come without Feathers and very small Hoops, if any." As ecclesiastical law demands that female worshippers shall cover their heads in church, this regulation was curiously anomalous. A suggestion in regard to ladies' headgear was also made by Sir Frederic Coven in 1806, when he gave as his opinion that the ladies might discover in their wardrobe some "extremely fascinating hat hats" which would not obstruct the view. The preaching of hats" were, however, chiefly conspicuous by their absence, owing presumably (we write subject to feminine correction) to the fact that the flat hat was not among the fashions of that year.—London Globe

The Lion's Share.
It is really not the male lion, with his terrific roar and formidable appearance, that the explorer fears, but his mate. The male lion is a good looking pooper, but when it comes to business it is his wife who counts. In the African native game is pulled down by the female lion, and then the male beats her off until he has feasted to repletion, when she may have what is left; hence "the lion's share."

Out of Her Line.
The horny handed son of toll who had just inherited a fortune went to see a maniac.
"Can you do anything with these hands?" he asked, exhibiting his hands.
"Yes, sir," she said, "after you've gone to a surgeon and had those cracks stitched up. I don't meddle with jobs that belong to the regular practitioners."—London Tit-Bits

COUNTY CORRESPONDENCE

Miss Sarah Zeimer went to Wayne Saturday afternoon for a short visit with her sister, Miss Estella who is attending the Normal.

Ralph Sterling of the Wayne Normal, was in town Saturday for a short visit with his sister, Miss Ruby, who is principal of the school here.

A new stock buyer came to town last Wednesday night and will make his home with Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Behmer. He only weighs eight pounds.

Word was received from Rochester, Minn., that Mrs. M. Benedict, who had an operation performed shortly after her arrival there two weeks ago, is making a safe and rapid recovery.

Mrs. J. H. Burton of Murray, Neb., left Monday for an extended visit with relatives at Brunswick, Neb., after visiting with her daughter, Mrs. John Cook, a few days. She expects to return here before leaving for home.

Harold Wenke, 8-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. G. A. Wenke had the misfortune to run a pitchfork through his arm just above his wrist Sunday evening. Several small boys were playing at the Wenke home when the accident happened. The fork was so old that one of the boys wanted to throw it into a hayloft door for some reason, but failed, as the fork hit the barn and took a rebound, penetrating the boy's arm. Dr. Patchen was called at once and dressed the wound. The boy is able to go to school and if no complications set in the arm will be well in a short time.

London's First Balloon Ascent.

When Lunardi made the first balloon ascent from London in 1784 he had for fellow passengers a cat, a dog and a pigeon. Such was the excitement caused by this ascent that a jury, deliberating on the fate of a criminal, returned a hasty verdict of acquittal in order not to miss the spectacle, while King George III. took up a meeting of his council to watch the progress of the balloon. It was in the following year, 1785, that an adventurous Dublin undergraduate, Mr. Maguire, made a balloon ascent and was actually engulfed by the hot Lieutenant for his courage.

Object Achieved.

Well, Mrs. Park used to say she wouldn't marry the best man living. Well, she has the satisfaction of knowing that she did.

BOILING-GEYSERS.

What Causes the Spouting of These Natural Steam Engines.

Geysers are found in only three places in the world, according to a publication entitled "Geysers" issued by the department of the interior. These three regions are Iceland, where geysers were first discovered; New Zealand and the Yellowstone National park, in which these natural steam engines are more numerous and of greater beauty than in the two other areas mentioned. In the Yellowstone National park, in which these natural steam engines are more numerous and of greater beauty than in the two other areas mentioned. In the Yellowstone National park, in which these natural steam engines are more numerous and of greater beauty than in the two other areas mentioned. In the Yellowstone National park, in which these natural steam engines are more numerous and of greater beauty than in the two other areas mentioned. In the Yellowstone National park, in which these natural steam engines are more numerous and of greater beauty than in the two other areas mentioned.

The intermittent spouting of geysers was long a riddle to scientific men. The theory, which bears the name of the illustrious chemist Ransom, is now generally accepted. This theory is based on the well known fact that the boiling point of water rises with the pressure and therefore higher at the bottom of a tube of water than at the surface. In a long and narrow or irregular tube ebullition in the lower part is only possible if the water temperature there is at the top owing to the weight of water column above it. If by the continued heating the lower layer of water attains the temperature at which it can boil steam is formed whose expansive force lifts the superincumbent column of water, causing a slight overflow at the top, which shortens the column, so that steam is formed at a higher point and a further lifting and relief of pressure ensues, followed by an eruption.

They Shoot, but Never Score.
The men themselves are the possession of two great attributes—prudence and honesty. Their love of country has been demonstrated in their history, and their honesty is witnessed to by their laws. One remarkable law of the Black Mountain Kingdom directs that any man finding a purse of jewelry upon the road shall place the same upon the nearest stone, so that the loser will have only to retruce his steps to recover his property. That law is never violated. A Montegnegrin thinks nothing of shooting a man with whom he disagrees, but would shrink in horror from the idea of stealing the vest of a rival. Montegnegrin law is more severe upon the thief than the homicide.

Ancient and Modern Bathing.

Soap is really quite a new factor in the world's life. Most of our ancestors were filthy and dissembled the fact by the use of stinging perfumes. Washing one's hands, which was only done by the very best people, meant dipping the fingers in rosewater and drying them on a napkin. Even the Romans of the decadence, who were probably cleaner as a community than any before or since, bathed in water and rubbed themselves with oil. It sounds nasty to us, but they do so, for example, Chinese music, which millions of human beings think delightful.

Homes Under the Ground.

In the salt district in Cheshire, England, the brine has been pumped so continuously out of the earth that the land has settled very considerably. The houses naturally sink with the earth, and in some of the streets in Northwich only the roofs are visible. The houses are inhabited, although the rooms are underground. In a great many cases additional stories have been added, so that by living in the upper rooms the residents may have some light and air. The roadsways sink, too, but are kept up to the proper level by the government.

Andrew Lang and John Knox.

Apocryph of Andrew Lang's "John Knox and the Reformation" has for a long time appeared after its publication in criticism of his views:

I think when I saw two meet
Whoever these two were;
Knox will come on 'till he bang
Our friends no more be Andrew Lang."
—Westminster Gazette.

The Same Thing.

Pa Twaddles—Well, what's the matter now, Tommy Twaddles—Ma says I mustn't never say a word while she's in the room Ma Twaddles—Why, no, I didn't see—I said you mustn't interrupt while I'm talking Tommy—What's the difference?—Cleveland Leader.

It is very capable of proving that brands is a political bore.

THE BLACK BALL.

A Cunning Scheme That Was Spoiled by Quick Thinking.

Two young men in a French village were called on to draw for conscription. One only was wanted to complete the number, and of the two who were to draw one was the son of a rich farmer and the other the child of a poor widow.

The farmer intrusted himself with the superintendent of the ballot and promised him a present if he could find means to prevent his son from coming in the army. In order to accomplish this the official put into the urn two black balls instead of one white and one black ball. When the young men came he said:

"There are two balls, one black and one white, in the urn. He who draws the black one must serve. Your turn is first," pointing to the widow's son.

The latter, suspecting that all was not fair, approached the urn and drew one of the balls, which he immediately swallowed without looking at it.

"Why," said the superintendent, "have you done that? How are we to know whether you have drawn a black or a white ball?"

"Here," he said, "is the other ball," was the reply. "Let the other now draw. If I have the black, he must necessarily draw the white one."

The superintendent, half dead and the farmer's son, putting his hand into the urn, drew the remaining ball, which, to the satisfaction of the spectators, was a black one.

Power of the Spectroscope.

The almost uncanny power of the spectroscope, which has made it such a powerful instrument of research, is the following: If any element such as iron, copper, sodium and the like is heated sufficiently to be vaporized and the light of this heated vapor is analyzed by the spectroscope, it does not give a continuous spectrum, but only very narrow portions of the colors, so that in reality the view presented is that of a series of bright lines of the various colors. Each chemical element has its own characteristic set of lines. Century.

STEEL RAILS A MARVEL.

The Strain, the Pull, the Pounding and Grinding They Endure.

Have you an idea of the strain to which a steel rail is subjected today? Let us consider one for a moment in the line of its greatest torture and see. The Cannon Hill express is coming. It is drawn by two engines. The largest weighs 160 tons. They carry seven tons of the weight on each of the six driving wheels, which means almost thirteen tons to a wheel. Thirteen tons of weight upon each wheel. That means thirteen tons of weight impinging for a fly-by instant upon a rail square perhaps no more than an inch square and then moving forward all the time, a succession of whirling blows from a thirteen ton hammer.

If the train is going thirty miles an hour an imaginary square rail has but one five-hundred-and-twenty eighth part of a second in which to receive the blow, when under it, distribute the terrible force of it through its elastic elements to the surrounding mass of the soil, brace itself to help distribute stresses that are being set up on adjacent surfaces and squeezing back and forth in all sorts of ways through the content of the rail and then almost instantly lift its deformed head to receive the blow of the next driving wheel.

If the train is going thirty miles an hour it takes about a sixth of a second to pull the top or head of the rail, to pull it all to pieces. It is the business of the rail to stick together, hard and web and flange, in every single and separate molecule with all the tenacity of which steel is capable.

But we have stated only one-half the tension strain. This strain is reversing all the time, for while the huge drivers are pulling one part of the rail toward them they are pushing another part away from them. This jacking and spurning, hauling and kicking, tension and compression go on continuously. Complete reversing from compression to tension or back again takes place with every half turn of a driving wheel and at a frightfully rapid rate. The marvel is that the rail does not ground to powder.

Dumas' Chicken on the String.

Amusing reminiscences of the old Dr. Dumas have been supplied by his cook, Mme. Colin. Dumas' most famous recipe was "poulet a la ficelle" (chicken on the string). The plucked bird is suspended by a string from the ceiling and turned slowly before the fire. The flames, just touching it, brown it slowly. It took time, says the cook, but made a tasty dish.

"Dumas lived a highly piggedly life," said Mme. Colin. "He kept open house and always had at least fifteen people to dinner." But he lived from hand to mouth and at times a sheet served as a tablecloth. After his receptions he sometimes worked all night. Such a middle displeased me, especially as his guests were bohemians. So I left after six months of it."

A Good Reason.

Two Irishmen were digging a sewer. One of them was a big, strong man about six feet four inches in height, and the other one was a little, puny man about four feet six inches. The foreman came along to see how the work was progressing and noticed that one of them was doing more work than the other. "Look here," he cried, "how is it that little Dennis Dugan, who is only half your size, is doing nearly twice as much work as you, Patrick? Glancing down at his partner, Pat replied: "And why shouldn't he? Ain't he neerer to '4?"

Double Meaning.

"Umbrellas Recovered," was a sign that attracted our attention the other day; but only for a minute. We shook our heads sadly and walked on. It would take a whole galaxy of clairvoyants and a large squad of detectives to get back a few of our lost ones.—Boston News Letter.

Hope's He Can't.

"I don't like that new neighbor of yours," said the grocer.

"Why not?" asked the old time customer.

"He always seems surprised when I tell him I can change a ten dollar bill."—Detroit Free Press.

Wanted Mrs. Light.

A dealer was explaining to a prospective woman purchaser the proper mechanism of a "Deed." "It under-takes that perfectly," she said at last. "Now that makes the front wheel go round?" "Everybody's Magazine.

Another Job Shattered.

It is nonsense to say "Laugh and the world laughs with you." The laughter never, in any case, follows the lead.

LITTLE SENTIMENT FOR ROOSEVELT

Minnesota Republicans Have No Interest in a Third Term Party.

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 27.—The recent primaries in this state demonstrate that the Roosevelt sentiment in this state is decidedly on the decrease.

The sentiment is found in Wisconsin for Roosevelt, and the contest without doubt, is narrowed down between Taft and Wilson.

The business men of Milwaukee, and other Wisconsin cities, are rallying to the support of the Republican ticket and countering their services to elect Taft.

ROOSEVELT VOTE SMALL

Primaries in Michigan Show That Republicans Are Loyal.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 28.—Charles D. Hillen of the Republican National committee, who recently spent a day in this state, held a conference with the Republican county chairmen.

These reports are the logical sequence of the recent primary in Michigan where the vote for the third term party ticket was pitifully small.

Representative McLaughlin of the Ninth Michigan District, in speaking of conditions in that state, says that Roosevelt is losing ground daily and the outlook for a splendid majority for Taft is growing every day.

The recent state Republican convention was attended by nearly 1,600 delegates. Great enthusiasm was manifested and the speakers were applauded.

ROOSEVELT'S STRENGTH IS FALLING OFF

Washington Republicans Outnumber Democrats and Third Termers Combined.

Seattle, Wash. Sept. 28.—In the recent primaries in this state the Progressives cast about 25,000 votes out of a total vote exceeding 300,000.

A FAILURE IN COLORADO

Why the Roosevelt Movement Has Failed to Materialize.

The Roosevelt movement is a failure in Colorado, said David Hester, general manager of the Colorado State of Salda, Colo., during his visit to Chicago, while discussing the political situation in his state.

Uncle Walt The Poet Philosopher

Oh the sport awakes as the morning breaks, with a head like a load of brick; and his eyes are red in his aching head, and his poor old stomach's sick. THE MORNING AFTER He is furled and he thinks some bird—a buzzard—has nestled there; his throat is dry and he thinks he'll die, and there's free lunch in his hair. He notes with dread that he went to bed attired in his shoes and hat; and he sees a bear on his bedroom chair, but it's only the thomast cat. He groans and sighs as he tries to rise from his couch of misery. "This let's me out from the festal rout— it's never again," says he. To the joint he slinks for some saving drinks, the hair of the dog, you know; a few good jerks for his weakened wits—he'll quit when the tremors go. But a slug of gin, when it's safe within, calls loud for a running mate; and the poor old sport takes another snort, and lifts up the same old gait. And the sport awakes when the morning breaks as sick as a glandered horse; his eyes are red in his swollen head, his comrade is K. E. Morse. To fill your vat with the snail like that, to sleep in your bed and shoo: Do you call that fun, Oh, you sporty one, just getting the taste for booze!

from o'er the raging sea. "There will be a big revival of the whiskers of our sires," Men will spoli SIDEBOARDS their faces' shapes wearing British fringes escapes! Oh, against that resurrection, let us work and pull the wires! I have preached for many years, I have shed my blood and tears, to discourage British whiskers of the Uncle Chan- cey brand, and I thought, with futile pride, that I might, before I died, see the last-foret set of sideboards banished from this happy land. We who work and watch and pray, bear the burden of the day, teaching that sideward whiskers show a softness of the brain— have we toiled so long for naught? Do our lessons hit the spot? Shall some silly, foolish fashion make our efforts all in vain? Will you, by your idle fads lead astray the growing lads who have learned the useful lesson that sidewiskers are a crime? Change the fashion if you must, all our fine traditions but—the bitter retribution will o'er- whelm the ladder in time!

I had some fell diseases; my backbone and my kneecaps were racked with bitter pain; and I had infirmity, that drove me to a frenzy, and water on the brain. Oh, THE SICK I had corns and bunions, and boils as big as my eyes, and in my eye a stye; I suffer if any duffer could sit around and doubt more earnestly than I; I took the doctor's potion, his bit- ters by the ocean, his capsules by the peck; the neighbors heard my grow- ing, and often they were honing to come and break my neck. And then my Uncle Aaron came up and heard me swearin', and said: "You are a cheese; your noxious dose you drink of, and all you ever think of is just some old disease. The more you sit here grumblin' about the spasms rittin' along your battered spine, the more your ills will scar you, the more your griefs will jar you, the more you'll weep and whine. Forsake your ill- dewed hovel and go and take a shovel, and dig around for bait; forget to shake and shiver, forget your lights and liver, and get your smile on straight." There isn't much of hair on the dome of Uncle Aaron, but inside there is sense; he kept around me scolding, until I quit him-squalling, and built a mile of fence. And when it was completed and I was tired and heated, and soaked with honest sweat, I said: "My pals are banished! The last old ache has vanished! Oh, work's the one best bet!

One works all day and earns two dollars, and when the toilsome day is spent, his cheap tin dinner-pail be col- lars and homeward

THE WORKMEN goes serene, content, and ten. As he de- vours his evening pottage he counts the blessings he enjoys; he has a neat, unmortgaged cottage, well filled with happy girls and boys; his wife with disposition sunny, is singing as she prances round; each week he saves a little money and puts it safely in the pound. In worldly blessings he's as wealthy as any plow in all the land; he thanks his gods that he is healthy, and always has a job on hand. One works an hour and earns ten dollars, and then cavorts around the town, and wrings his hands and shrieks and hollers, and tells how he is trampled down. He is, he says, the martyred victim of grafters who to long have sinned; the Wall Street bays; the devil hatched him, and Government's set by and grinded. His feelings have been badly dented, his dearest corners are sadly pinched, and he will never be contented until some congressman are lynched. The men with pockets full of guilders are the toilers, yeomen, diggers, builders, contented work and draw their wage.

Oh, friends, let's have the reform- dom! We have all sorts of woe and grief, and that, I know, will surely end 'em and bring our weary REMEDIES souls relief! This world of living costs like thun- der, we pay so much for grub and coal; let's referend such evils end, and win our freedom at the polls! Brace up, brace up, ye patient druggers who slave to gain a penny, stand fast on the re- call of judges and all your troubles will be o'er. The hours for which our toil- ers battled are forced away from their men, but when we have the judges rattled, we'll get such blessings bak- ing! The bitter yoke that thou art surest, the yoke that doth thy withers wrench, will fall when thou canst grab a jar, and drag him screaming from the bench! We view conditions with deep loathing; we have no fat upon our slats; our kids are shy of needful- thing, our wives are wearing last year's hats. Let's rise and have some revo- lutions, demanding for the People's gain, publicity of contributions to ev- ery national campaign! When once the figures have been printed, the cost of living will decrease, our future will be rosy-tinted, and life will seem as slick as grease!

Now we hear the Autumn calling and her- fall is wreathed in smiles; and the white leaves are falling in the quiet forest sides. Put AUTUMN away your trusty swatter down, let the carnival of slaughter cease till summer comes again. For the frost is on the pumpkin and the fodder's in the shock, and the drowsy rural bumpkin leaves his couch at 3 o'clock that he may afford to shake the sun his long arms; and the old gray mare is bucking for her hair is full of frost. Put away the wire screen swatter, let surviving flies remain; for a fellow bull'd oughter have destruction on the brain. Now the pastures are too seedy to support the cows, alas, and the cow, lauk and weedy, bawl for redigested grass, and the bogs are chewing mubs which in nourishment are rich, and the mule, in futile rubbia's, would al- leviate the itch. Oh, on all the land and waters coldly gleams the autumn sun. Let us put away our swatters, for the summer's work is done. Let us put away our swatters till the flies return next spring; when we'll soak their sons and daughters as we carole and sing!

ATCHISON GLOBE SIGHTS.

Courtroom spectators are often drawn thither in hopes some of the lawyers will be fined for contempt of court. It must be rather discouraging to a man when he begins to find more hair in the comb than there is on his head. A cool day, when the doors and win- dows must be kept closed, is a God-send to a piano stricken neighborhood. "It may be different in your case, but some of my worst mistakes were made after taking time to think it over,"—Burt Hoehner. When a woman has what she con- sidered a "good figure," she is as con- scious of it as a man is of being a con- gressman. While Father is opposed to child la- bor he is curious to know the formula by which the employers induce the children to work. If a pitcher hasn't control he doesn't last long in the big leagues. And this control is equally important in other lines of endeavor. One who arrived late at a dinner party remarked that he couldn't tell much about what the woman wore

Much depends on the point of view. "I don't know much, but I am con- fident there are several ways of en- joying a vacation which beat being a lodge delegate."

Take care of yourself and you can be avenged on most of your enemies by seeing them carried out to a well-kept cemetery. But they might not be enemies by that time should you take care of yourself, instead of taking something the doctor prescribes when repairs are needed. For grouches grudges and hatred don't wear well with the physically fit, nor can you get that and maintain such passions. Anger is a worse enemy to digestion than rich food eaten in good nature, and hatred is anger in Marathon form, which gnaws the vitals more certainly than other more cheerful forms of dis- sipation. A smart doctor told us the other day that a normal man could make his health about what he wanted it, if he would.

Men marry for several reasons, but to get their rights isn't one of them. In the modern, three-ring wedding wo- men are about the whole show, and the groom and his able assistants being in- cidental like the persevering gent who mired stakes and dispense red lem- onade in other colossal performances. But the men don't feel so bad about it. That isn't what makes them feel so bad, the real ailment being an in- grown fear that they will be considered a feature, and attract some attention. If they could appreciate their own in- significance as thoroughly as do the spectators, they would feel better and walk up the steps of the scaffold with a firm tread. An equal share in the wedding attention is one of man's rights he will never struggle to regain, having lost it about the time the cave man fashion of dragging his bride home by the hair became passe.

BLIND BOONE

Thurs. Evening, Oct. 10

At The Wayne Opera House.

Toronto Mail, Oct. 15, 1891: The Blind Boone Concert Company completed a three days' engagement at the auditorium last night. The audience was larger than the two preceding nights; every person present was delighted with the evening's entertainment. Blind Boone's instrumental selections were received with rounds of applause, as were his imitations of different instruments. The audience also thoroughly appreciated the plantation melodies sung by Miss Stella May. Among the selections by Boone were Hungarian Storm March (Liszt), Hungarian Rhapsody No. 5 (Liszt), Sonata Pathétique (Beethoven), Dolores (Waldteufel), and a composition of his own, Man- field Tornado. His rendering of these was good throughout each one. With the public Boone seems destined to take the place vacated by Blind Tom. Boone's audience steadily increased during his engagement here, and should he ever return he would be greeted with large houses.
