Do you want to save half your coal bill?

How much money did you spend for coal last year? Let us say you spent $40.00. If there was a way in which you could buy that amount of coal for $20.00 this year, you would want to know about it, wouldn't you?

We can't sell you coal for half price, but we can show you how you can heat your home perfectly this winter at half the expense of last year's fuel.

With a Favorite Base Burner you can heat every room in your home comfortably on the coldest day of winter; and do it with less coal than is possible with any other Base Burner.

Why? Because the Favorite is the only Base Burner which pours heat into the room from every square inch of its surface. It gets every atom of heat out of the coal and throws it all into the room. None goes up the chimney. You get the benefit of every bit of heat from every piece of coal you buy. Your home is warm and comfortable on blustery, icy-cold days when, with any other Base Burner your family and children would be huddling in a frozen group around an apparently inactive stove. When you come to the question of a heating stove, you can't afford to overlook the FAVORITE. It is unquestionably the Best Base Burner made.

SUMMER IN GERMANY WITH LEHRERBUND

(By E. Kingsbury.)

(In Two Installments.)

To talk plain English and solve the riddle of the title of this article it will be necessary to explain the word "Lehrerbund." The National Deutsch-Amerikanischer Lehrerbund, organized in 1871, was established mainly to preserve the German language and customs in America. Two years ago the Lehrerbund proposed the summer's trip and two German teachers from across the sea, one from Bremen and the other from Breslau, urged the carrying out of this plan and promised a cordial reception on the part of the teachers of Germany. The plans included the chartering of a steamer for the ocean trip, and the Grosser Kurfuers of the North German Lloyd was secured. The date for sailing was set for July 2, 1912, and the itinerary included twenty German cities. No special attempt will be made to describe the natural beauties of these places, for the thousands of tourists have sung their praises often enough. I shall only try to touch upon the special ways in which each city welcomed us, each program being individual enough to leave its special impress.

Never was departure more auspicious. The ship sailed upon us and the sea was brightly blue after an eleven days' trip with but a day or so of rough weather, we reached Bremen on Saturday, July 13.

Bremen teachers were at the service of our visitors and guided us over the city and I can hardly suppress mention at least of the beautiful old Rathaus and the square or quaint old houses about it. The cordial reception culminated in a banquet in the splendid hall of the Art society, where city magistrates and leading school men bode us welcome. The most delightful part of the evening's entertainment was the male chorus of one hundred teachers, who sang German folk-songs in a way never to be forgotten. I must say, in brief, wherever we went, the German singing in large choruses, as of one superb, highly trained voice, impressed me almost as nothing else.

In Hamburg in a boatride on the Elbe we were given a view of the second finest harbor in the world, and after lunch in the Ratskeller and a walk through the magnificent Rathaus of this proud, free city, we were given another boat ride, this time upon the Alster, a lake-like expansion of a river in the center of the town. Here we saw the Zappelin ship's rise and sail away.

In Dusseldorf the program consisted of sight-seeing, a ride on the Rhine, a banquet and songs.

Of course the central object in Cologne is the cathedral. This we viewed without and within, including the treasury chamber. A tour of the city was followed by a banquet, greetings, selections by a fine orchestra and best of all, singing of the Cologne men's chorus which had carried off the prize twice in annual contests with other German cities. Next day, in groups led by Cologne teachers, we viewed museums and schools. Among the latter the Wacker college was of greatest interest—a building superbly equipped with machinery, maps, charts, models—everything to advance knowledge of the various trades, reminding us that Germany is pre-eminently a nation of commerce. In the evening a delightful dinner at the illuminated "Flora," fifth corner by men and women teachers, ended our visit in this attractive city.

We next took cars from Cologne to Oberhausen and here began our trip down the Rhine, which was as always incomparable with its lovely, vine-lad hills, its many noble castles and its Lorelei, which we greeted with the well-known song we floated by.

A most enthusiastic and unique greeting was given us at Buedschien, where all the school children met us shouting Hurrah! and waving American flags. Here we took the cars up to the national memorial statue of Germania, a magnificent work consisting of gigantic bronze statues and reliefs commemorating the German victory over the French in 1871. Here we had a fine view of the Rhine and after photographing and picture-taking we returned to inspect the extensive cellars of the world-famed Ruedeschlager wine, and to take lunch in a garden overlooking the Rhine. When we left in the evening the station was crowded and every one seemed filled with people who waved us goodbye.

In Wiesbaden, the famous watering place, we found a city which had devoted much of the wealth brought in by tourists to elegant public buildings, statues, fountains, flower gardens, and parks. The Kurhaus, a sort of public club house, is very handsome and sumptuously furnished, containing halls, reading rooms, conversation rooms, banquet halls, etc. In its spacious garden which was beautifully illuminated for the occasion, we heard a fine concert opened by a march composed by Dr. Eisenheimer, one of the Lehrerbund. During the afternoon we had mounted the Verberg from which we had a fine view of the city and the Taunus mountains. I have not mentioned my good fortune in having fellow travelers Miss Carolin von Brauchitsch, Miss Pauline Braunger of Emerson, and Miss Caroline Johnson of Dana College, Blair. We made the acquaintance in Wiesbaden of a lovely Volksschule teacher who guided us the whole day and who told us many interesting things about German schools. With her we visited the spacious new girls' school and sipped the hot water of the famous Koechhruener.

In Mannheim Dr. Sieckinger lectured on the world-famous Mannheim school system, especially the provision for special classes for the supernormal or very bright pupils and for the subnormal or intellectually weak pupils, as well as for the normal or average ones. The plan was very interesting as it has been much discussed also on this side of the water.

A most interesting boat ride through the ramifications of the wonderful inland harbor of the Kecker and Rhein at Mannheim filled the late afternoon. It is needless to add that here as in each city the evening was devoted to banquet, toasts and music.

Helmberg, with its university and ancient castle was wonderfully interesting in spite of a drizzling rain. The proctor of the university welcomed us in the university chapel, after which we inspected the main building. The student prison was unique, as its walls were covered with drawings, paintings, and witty verses made by the pupils through several centuries. I personally was specially delighted to see the original illuminated Mss. of the poems of the Minnesingers and others in the university library, and to view the vast castle on the mountside at my leisure. In spite of the rain the ruined part was illuminated with spot lights in the evening and looked like an enchanted castle in the glow. We were also specially fortunate in being able to visit two schools here and classes in the same, for visitors are not usually allowed in the German school room.

The feature of our visit to Nuremberg was a tour of this quaint old city, conducted by teachers, including inspection of the two old churches, the famous Brunnens church, the Frauenkirche, St. Sebald, Duerer and other noted men were accustomed to take their lunch, and of course the very picturesque and interesting old castle.

In Munich we stayed four days and were royally entertained in the free and easy Munich fashion. The first evening we dined at the Hofbrauhaus and were greeted with music and speeches, the most novel being a witty poem of welcome, written in the Munich dialect by a teacher in the city schools and delivered by a lady dressed as a "Muenchener Kindel" in the monks' habit for the monks are said to have been the city's founders. I missed hearing an address by Dr. Kerschschuener, one of the few city superintendents in Germany, for besides the head teachers of each building school management is usually in the hands of various city and state boards.

A delightful boat ride on the Chiemsee to Ludwig's sumptuous palace, free tickets to plays on two evenings, and viewing of various school buildings were among the forms of entertainment offered.

THE WAY TO HANDLE TRAVELING BEGGARS

Frequently a stranger drops in on a business man and hands out a card, complaining of misfortune and asking for aid. Wayne has had as many as three such visitors in one day. One is pleased to assist as far as possible, any one who is really in distress, but one wants to have his credibility and generosity imposed upon by travelers who are mere professional beggars. In Coleridge, a Commercial club committee passes on the merits of an applicant for aid. If found deserving, such applicant is given a testimonial for presentation to charitably inclined people.

In the following paragraph the Coleridge Blade tells how the plan works: "Some estimate of the number of times that people in country towns are imposed upon by fake cripples and fake widows and fake needy ones of various kinds may be seen in the Coleridge Commercial club made a provision that all such people must first secure a permit before going over town. Many of these people have called at the Blade office as upon other business and professional places. We tell them to first get a permit from the club chairman and direct them where to go, promising assistance if they come back this recommended. We can remember but one who ever returned. A number have never even gone to the chairman to be interviewed. They simply vanquished out of town, knowing they were faken and fearing detection. A few have been granted the privilege to solicit and all the people would be of those who are not

Oh, many ten-cent men go forth to boost the Popul's cause; throughout the land, East, West, South, North, you hear their clash. THE UPLIFTERS sing laws. And some are ordinary skates who've always sought the spoils; the cheap old chronic candidates who meet the people's needs. And there are hosts of abolitionists who hope some sun to win, and now are full of pious sumps to turn the rascal in. And there are men whose soaring strains stir up the soul to thrills, who, when they're home between campaigns, don't pay their grocers' bills. Before you get a reform you'll have to damn these gnomes who all their days have raised a storm—and never earned ten cents. The fly-fingered claps who shriek about the toiler's woes, would perish if they worked a week in old blue denim clothes. They promise helpful laws and bills, and size you up for loaves; they care no more about your ills than they care for grapes. The man who never shed his coat or knew the world's rough knocks, should never get a worker's vote, no odds how loud he talks. When windmills and aristocrats propose to raise your pay, just breathe some reference to rats, and you're the other way.

When the toothache rumbles along your gums, be happy, and be glad to sing; when your mother-in-law on a visit it comes, be happy and BE HAPPY dance-and sing; when the razor gashes your shapely chin, when the coal is low in the yawning bin, oh, fit your face with a charming grin, be happy and dance and sing! When the butcher sends you a pound of mutton, be happy and dance and sing; if your roller-tan can walk alone, be happy and dance and sing; if the man next door fairly rasps your ears with his phonograph, with its squeaking gears, which plays one tune for a hundred years, be happy and dance and sing! If the roosters crow when you want to sleep, be happy and dance and sing; if the neighbors bawls hows his kassal keep, be happy and dance and sing; if the horses come into your humble cot and fill your ears with their tireless rot, concerning the tariff, oh, don't get hot! Be happy and dance and sing; if you find a brick in your pumpkin pie, be happy and dance and sing; when the horse is lame and the cow sees dry, be happy and dance and sing; when the milk is sour and the coffee vile, when a day runs over your Sunday tile, oh, twist your features and make them smile! Be happy and dance and sing!

Watch his greenwood-free and wait the girls go by, achieving gum wish-estates-and-ones in each eye; they chew their gum as though THE GUM they knew that every bit CHEWERS of gum they chew will take them nearer to the blue and angel-haunted sky. They chew their gum-with-fringed-eyes, and poets write their odes; they chew as though they seem to feel some conscientious goods; the Nells and Alices and Maudes and other sweet beribboned frauds chew on and throw their chewed out wads along the quiet roads. The jaws of gentle little Jill, though wearied, worn and numb, are clanking like a coffee mill, upon her chunk of gum; her duty she'll never shun, she'll chew until her task is done; all other things beneath the sun may go to Kingdom Come. The damsel pines my humble cot in groups of one or two; they seem to have no other thought than just to chew and chew; they haven't time to talk or sing, they haven't time for anything but just to make their jaws bones swinge-oh, here's a howdy! I dare remark that chewing gum is not our end and aim; 'tis not the pinnacle or sum of this our mortal game; the chowers now and then should pause, for they can find a nobler cause than this wig-wagging of their jaws until those jaws are lame.

When life is done—this life that galls and frets us, this life so full of tears and doubts and drears—the undertaker comes along and gets us, and UNDERTAKEE tucks us neatly in one of his little beds. When we are done with tolling, boarding, giving, when we are done with drawing checks and breath, he comes to show us that the cost of living cuts little ice beside the cost of death. I meet him daily in the street or alley, a cheerful man, he dances and he sings; and we exchange the broadest jant-alls, and we be all smiles of grim-appeal and things. We talk of crops, the campaign and the weather, the I & B, the trusts—the nation's curse, to graveyard hints while we converse together, no reference to joyridin in a hearse. And yet I feel—perchance it is a blind delusion—as I stand there, rugged, hale and sturdy, that I am to be taken to account why in thunder, and other things, do you hang on so long? When I complain of how the asthma tightens upon my lungs, and makes me feel a wreck, it seems to me his face with rapture tightens, smile stretch his lips and wind around his neck. And when I say I'm feeling like a heifer turned out to grass, or like a humming bird, he heaves a sigh as gentle as a zephyr, yet fraught with pain and grief and hope deferred.

Judge Rinkum makes no foolish head, no blunder head or shocking; he goes his way day after day and one day he hears him talk. THE SILENT MAN. He answers "no" in accents low when some one asks a question, or murmurs "yes," as in distress from verbal indigestion. He doesn't detect, he won't detect, he's solemn quiet; he shakes his head—all has been said—he wants no wordy riot. So in the town he has renova as being crammed with knowledge; his bunch of brains more low contains than Yale or Harvard college. We're proud of him, this jurist grin, this man who never chatters, the referee and umpire he is all our village matters. The names are proud when he has bowed in stately recognition; if Rinkum stands and shakes your hands, he betters your condition. Yet this old boy, our pride and joy, whom some consider greater than Cicero or St. Pinchoff, is not selling shaver. If he should drat his massive brain and take out all that's in it, he wouldn't need, to do the deed, much more than half a minute. Oh, just look wise and you will rise and have good things before you; but talk too much and you're in Dutch, and no one will adore you.

In the garden of dreams let me rest, far, far from the laboring throng, from the moans of the tired and distressed, from the strains of THE GARDEN OF DREAMS song. As a native of Bagdad or Turk, I'd live in Arabian nights, away from the regions of work, from troubles and hollow delights. In the garden of dreams I would stray, and bother my fat head no more, wondering how I shall pay for groceries bought at the store. Ah, there in that garden I'd sit, communing in peace with my soul, and never again have a fit when handed the bill for the coal. In the garden of dreams I'd rest and eat on the wings of romance, forgetting this old hat of mine, the patches all over my pants, the clamor of children for shoes, the hausfrau's demands for a gown, the lodge's exorbitant dues, the poll-tax to work in the town. Alas! It is as I supposed—there is no escaping my fate, for the garden of dreams has been closed, a padlock is fixed on the gate. The young, who are buoyant and glad, may enter that garden, it seems; but the old, who are weary and sad, are warned from the garden of dreams.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF WAYNE COUNTY, NEBRASKA.

ORDER TO SHOW CAUSE.

On this 5th day of October, 1912, it being one of the days of the regular February, 1912, term of this court, and on reading the petition presented to me duly verified and filed with the clerk of this court by Juliane Jensen, guardian of the person and estate of Elmer Jensen, a minor, for license to sell the undivided one-ninth (1/9) interest of said minor in and to the following described real estate, situated in Wayne County, Nebraska, to-wit: the Southwest Quarter of Section 15, and the Northwest Quarter of Section 14, Township 55, North of Range 1 East of the 6th P. M. and it appearing from said petition that said real estate consists of farm lands owned in common by the said minor with his brothers and sisters, five in number, and with his mother, Juliane Jensen, and that it would be for the benefit of said minor and of his estate that his interests in said lands be sold and the proceeds thereof put out at interest or invested in some productive stock:

It is therefore ordered that the next of kin of the said minor and all persons interested in his estate appear before the judge of said court at the court house in Wayne, in said county of Wayne, Nebraska, on the 7th day of November, 1912, at 1 o'clock a. m., to show cause if any there be, why license should not be granted to the said Juliane Jensen, guardian of the said minor, to sell his said real estate for the purposes above set forth.

And it is further ordered that a copy of this order be published at least three successive weeks once each week in the Wayne Herald, a newspaper printed and published in said county of Wayne, and that it shall not be necessary to make personal service of this order upon the next of kin or upon other persons interested in said estate.

Nebraska, in said judicial district, this 5th day of October, 1912.

Judge of the District Court.

ATCHISON GLOBE SIGHTS.
Those who have tried say an imitation of beer is never very correct. A little drop is usually worthless, but it is less than the larger ones. So many people want to see how the doctor blue looks from the far side. The country is usually with the drivers. It does not pay as well as steady work. Link Preston is always willing to help and always has an excuse to get out of it. What we desire to know, do they put in vegetable soup to make it taste that way? One can get up hill faster without carrying the toboggan on which he expects to come down. Some day a novel hero may be caught taking a cigar that isn't of the Big Black variety. Times have changed to this extent: the citizen now carries an automatic pistol instead of a dagger. Friday the largest appetite is not in the possession of a boy, but a sick man who is getting over it. You may think all your peevishness is righteous indignation, but others will hardly agree with you. You don't feel as bad about another man's mistake as he does, although you may say more about it. While the Indians have quit fighting, many pale-faces on the warpath know numerous ways of torturing their enemies. Occasionally there is a remarkable man who will go good if left alone, but bows his back and stands still at hint or suggestion. What has become of the old-fashioned painter who put three cents of paint on the house and four on his once while overseas? Any newspaper can win a hero medal by printing the truth about home talent shows, but it would lose considerable other business.

What is a fireproof building? Nearly all modern industrial enterprises are housed in buildings that are to some extent fireproof. The question may reasonably be asked, What constitutes a fireproof building? Nothing is more fireproof than a furnace, and yet the decomposition of its contents by fire is its chief use. Buildings must therefore not only be made of non-inflammable material, but they must be so arranged that fire when started can be confined to one room or to the smallest possible space. With this object in view they should be equipped with self-closing metal doors and windows with wire glass or metal shutters. They should have automatic fire alarms and above all, an adequate sprinkler system. Steel framing must be inclosed and protected with some material, such as brick, tile, terra-cotta or concrete. Under these conditions, with insurance on the contents, manufacturing enterprise is reasonably safe.—Engineering Magazine.

Old Toasts.
Toasts are now rarely proposed except at public dinners, but there was a time when they were the order of the day at every convivial gathering. The compiler of a book published in 1873, "The Toastmaster," remarks in his preface that "it is the custom in most societies, whether public or private, for the president to call on the company in that form for a toast. Individuals are consequently often at a loss. This collection of gaudy sentiments and toasts will supply their deficiency, as it contains a larger number than ever before published, the greater part of which are spirited and new." The gaudy toasts range from the righteous, such as "May contemplation upon our last resting place check vain hopes and prevent weak despondency," to the frivolous, such as "Lots of beef, oceans of beer, a pretty girl and a thousand a year."—London Chronicle.

Cut the Ship in Two.
"It was a passenger on one of the old-fashioned sailing steamers going from London to Australia in 1888," said a traveler. "In the Red sea we ran plump into a vessel, and our boat cut entirely in two, so neatly that it might almost have been done with a huge knife. We went clean through her, and the men on the vessel struck stepped from the two halves of that ship on our deck. The injured vessel went down within a few minutes after it had been struck. The thing was so strange that when the captain of the vessel we had struck went back to London an investigation was held, and it was substantially proved that the officers had with design got in the middle track of our vessel in order to bring about a collision in the hope that they could collect insurance money. The captain and some of the officers were punished by imprisonment."

The Work That Tells a Story.
Better the rudest work that tells a story or records a fact than the richest without meaning. There should not be a single ornament put upon the chief buildings without some intellectual intention.—Ruskin.

The Lincoln Journal says most people are get-natured enough in this campaign to be courteous. The Journal should have mentioned Roosevelt as an exception to that rule.

The fact that Norfolk is considering a commission form of government may lead Wayne to take steps in the same direction. If it is good for other cities, it would be desirable for Wayne.

Governor Hadley had evidently forgotten Taft's position in regard to the primary, for when his attention was called to it he promptly announced himself in favor of the re-election of the president.

The Appeal to Reason, a socialist paper, proposes a condition by which every one would get $2,000 a year, and be required to work only six hours a day. We would amend that proposition by cutting out work altogether.

If the people are against political bossism and the use of great sums of money to influence primaries and elections, they will, according to the revelations made by the senatorial committee, vote against Roosevelt.

Roosevelt can't win and he knows it. The only thing he can hope to accomplish is the defeat of Taft. If the bull moose had not selfishly butted in, the president's election would be assured. As it is, if voters, seriously considering the best interests of the country, rally to his support, as now seems likely, he will yet triumph over all opposition, and there will be no question about continued and increasing prosperity and progress.

In figuring on the election of a president, the farmers are getting down to brass tacks. The feeling is fast spreading among them that the wire thing to do is to let well enough alone. Even people who have not sufficiently examined the Taft record to fully appreciate it, have reason to believe a change of administration could not make conditions better than they are today. On the contrary, they are naturally fearful that a change to either Roosevelt or Wilson, causing uncertainty and a series of threatening experiments, would precipitate a change for the worse. They know what to expect under Taft. They don't know what would happen with either of the other men at the helm. Therefore, people, hitherto wavering, are rapidly coming to the conclusion that it would be a serious mistake to defeat Taft.

The democrats say they want to restore the government to the people. The inference is that the government was once hooked up with the people but that it is some time or other unhooked and has since been drifting by itself. When did the people have more of a hand in running the government than they have now? Did the democrats restore the government to the people when they elected Cleveland and both houses of congress twenty years ago? It will be remembered that during that administration congress dropped to fourteen cents or lower, oats to seven cents, and other things, including hogs and cattle, dropped accordingly. Had the government been restored to the people then? Would the democrats restore it to the people in the same way again? People should not be flim-flamed into believing the cry for votes based on the assumption that they are in running the government, denied privileges that would be secured by changing the administration. If a change would restore conditions that prevailed under Cleveland, we would all be so un-

HARRIMAN CONTRIBUTIONS. Sioux City Journal: The consensus of the testimony shows that Mr. Harriman did raise a fund of $240,000, and that all of those who contributed or to whom Mr. Harriman had talked about it understood that the money was raised at the request of Roosevelt. Col. Roosevelt would like to have us understand that it was Harriman who wanted to raise the fund and who asked Roosevelt's approval for the hat passing. Essentially the colonel's point seems to be immaterial. According to both versions, Roosevelt and Harriman collaborated as to the financing of the 1908 campaign. And Harriman, with the approval of Roosevelt, raised a fund of $240,000 to help save the country. Whether Roosevelt suggested it to Harriman or Harriman to Roosevelt is not absorbingly interesting. The significant thing is that the partnership was formed and the goods delivered—at least such goods as Mr. Harriman was expected to deliver.

MR. BARTHOLOMAY'S LETTER. Richard Bartholdt, congressman and editor of St. Louis, has replied in a two-column article to the unwarranted attack made on him at Des-Moines recently by Colonel Roosevelt. Mr. Bartholdt is a German-American and is known as a citizen and scholar of the highest class. Every one should read his entire letter. We will reproduce his reference to the often mistaken view of the republican national convention. Touching that point, Mr. Bartholdt says: "After your defeat in November when you will have leisure to study the record you will find that every delegate who was seated at Chicago by decision first of the national committee, and finally of the convention itself, was honestly entitled to his seat. This has not been true, as you well know, of all national conventions held by either party in the past, but it is true of the Chicago convention of 1912. The situation was so serious as to discourage at the outset any political trickery and all members of the national committee with whom I conferred agreed that if there was anything that could allay the excitement and heal the breach in the republican party caused by your ill-advised candidacy, it was the square deal, and by its decisions the committee religiously lived up to that obligation. The only fraud attempted at Chicago emanated from your side in the shape of the fake contest styled as "psychological"; by your own press and condemned and voted down by your own friends. Who, then, is the high-wayman? It may be said that the democratic states and that the smaller states should not have been permitted to control the nomination, but that is entirely different matter, and the national committee could certainly not be expected and had no right to change a system which had been in vogue for half a century merely to make your nomination possible. For one, I voted in each case as the facts warranted and my conscience dictated, and being convinced of the justice of the committee's decisions, I have challenged Senator Cummins, who bases his position to President Taft on the disposition of the contests, to produce his evidence to the contrary and meet me in joint discussion on any platform he may designate."

LIVED UP TO THE TEXT.

"It made a deep impression on Little Julia, and she did her best. "Be not forgetful to entertain strangers, for thereby some have entertained angels unawares." The foregoing quotation is from chapter xiii, verse 2, book of Hebrews, and it is introduced solely because it constitutes a vital part of this story. Julia is ten years old, and she goes to Sunday school. It appears that on a recent occasion the Sunday school teacher had considerable to say about this matter of "entertaining angels unawares." Anyway, it made a deep impression with Julia.

A few days after the lesson Julia's mother left her in charge of the house for a few hours. When the mother returned she went to a particular cupboard to extract therefrom a half dollar. In this cup is kept the family pin money, and Julia's mother knew that she had put 60 cents there before she had gone out. But the half dollar was gone. There was an expression of anxiety on Julia's face, and mother scented mischief. "Did you take that money?" asked the mother, somewhat severely. "Julia broke into tears. "I gave it to a man that came to the back door," sobbed she, "the girl."

"Stenography" Not the Only Name by Which It is Known.

Shorthand writing is known by other names than "stenography." "Tachygraphy" is only one of them. Its second part, of course, comes from the same root as the latter end of "stenography"—that is, from the Greek "tachy," meaning to write. "Tachy" is derived from the Greek "tachys," meaning swift, so only the shorthand writer who has the ability to take down rapid speech and transcribe it quickly has the right to call himself or himself a "tachygrapher." (The "ch" sound is like that of "k.") "Stenography" comes from "grapho" combined with "steno," which means "narrow" in Greek. So a "stenographer" is either a narrow writer or scribe or he practices "narrow writing." Not so many years ago we heard a good deal about "photography" as a name for shorthand writing, but the term seems to have gone out of use. It comes from that same useful root "grapho," combined with "phono," the latter word means "sound." Then there are "brachygraphy" "telegraphography" and "logography" as other names for what we generally call stenography. In the order given they are derived from "grapho" combined with "brachy," meaning "short"; "telegrapho," usually "hears"; "sacro" (a stenographer is one who writes in cryptic or mysterious writing, not to be read by the uninitiated and "logos," meaning "speech."—New York Times

FIREFLIES IN JAPAN.

Large and Brilliant and Numerous and Not Afraid of Man. In Japan fireflies are more than mere beetles—they are Cupid's light to guide lovers, souls of ancient soldiers, the devil's snare to tempt wanderers to death. In their light of magic gold with a tint of emerald green the Japanese see stasis of hope, sorrows of broken hearts, the everlasting spirits of warriors, but, most of all, the joys of love and lovers. Whenever they see the glimmering faint green light of fireflies hovering over the stream running into the dark, hoes of night the Japanese dream of love and loving hearts. The light of fireflies is the guide of lovers along the narrow paths to meet their sweethearts. The Japanese fireflies are much larger and give brighter and more steady light than those seen in Europe or America. In old days many poor Japanese students, unable to buy candles, were wont to gather fireflies in a bag and read their books by their light. The Botan kago (twenty cases), made of fine lacca, placed on the veranda, was wont to hold a bright light as the large stone lantern, but much more quaint and dreamy. Fireflies are plentiful everywhere in Japan. They are not at all afraid of human beings and will often alight upon the trees just even on the hair of hands. It is not seldom that fireflies fly into one's pockets or sleeves.

HIS BAPTISM OF FIRE.

The Sensation Was Different From What He Expected.

A curious story of a lieutenant Harford of the New York engineers, who served in a Zulu campaign, is told by Colonel Hamilton Brown in "A Lost Legionary in South Africa."

"Well, we were in rather a hot corner and he was standing in my right rear when I heard an explosion, and, turning round, saw him lying on the ground, having dropped his sword and his rifle."

"No, sir," he replied, "not hit, but I have caught such a beauty!" "And there the incident, in his first action and under a heavy fire, his qualities of nervousness all forgotten, had captured some intricate or other thing."

How an Eloquent Kentucky Lawyer Freed a Guilty Man.

John J. Crittenden—the eloquent Kentucky lawyer of a past generation—was once tried for a murder. Every one knew the man was guilty, but the eloquence of Crittenden saved him.

"O God, make him not sad Justice sternly, for he will surely trample upon thy laws."

"And Truth, what sayest thou?" "O God, make him not, for none but God is perfect, and he will surely sin against thee."

"And Mercy, what sayest thou?" "The Mercy, dropping upon her knees and looking up through her tears, cried:

"O God, make him! I will watch over him with my care through all the dark paths he may have to tread."

"O God, make him! I will watch over him with my care through all the dark paths he may have to tread." "O God, make him! I will watch over him with my care through all the dark paths he may have to tread."

The Carpet Cure.

Matrimony ridiculed the Smith household until there was nothing left of it but the old carpet, neither of whom took old enough to be in the father and mother in law class. When Hesse got married Papa Smith took possession of her room, and it has been his study, library, smoking room and grocery since then, and its condition made the life of his otherwise happy wife a burden.

Birds Big Eaters.

Birds of prey have been observed to eat half their own weight of beef scraps, digest all this within three hours and then be ready for another meal.

No Chatterbox!

"Muggins has made a pile of money, and now he's trying to get into society, but the question of manners comes up. Has he got any?" queried Bolivar.

Imprecational.

"He has a lot of good ideas, of course, but then some of them are utterly impractical."

Look Beyond the Frames.

We should laugh if a man said he went to an art gallery to see the picture frames. Yes, that's the way many go through life and it is little wonder that they are soon dead.

Ed Ellis has bought the Ruffin restaurant fixtures and will open the place for business, Monday, October 21, according to his advertisement in this paper. In the meantime he will make improvements and put everything in first-class condition to serve the public.

FLOWERS OF THE NIGHT.

They Are Usually Pure White With a Peculiar Glow.

As we all know, there are both day-blooming and night-blooming flowers. The former are generally decked in red, blue, yellow or purple and have lines, spots or markings on their petals which often act as guides to the nocturnal insects which visit by the bees and butterflies.

The night blooming flowers, on the other hand, invite the visits of moths and other night-flying insects and their fore-limb, recourse to something like the tasks of the frefles and the glow worms. They are usually pure white and have such a peculiar feature that they seem to glow with luminous light in the dim shades of evening.

At times you might almost fancy that they were stained by nature with some fore-runner of luminous paint, so clearly do they reflect every visible ray of the faint twilight. They thus succeed in catching the eyes of the moths, which, of course, are modified especially for perceiving and receiving the slight stimulus of the dust and glowing.

But the nocturnal flowers have no eyes or spots, because these last could never be perceived in the dim gloom of the evening. They make up for it, however, by being very heavily scented. Indeed, almost all the strong smelling flowers, which are such favorites with moths, such as Jasmine, tuberose, gardenia, stephanotis, serenis and arizana, which belong to the night blooming plants, are especially adapted to attract the senses of winged nocturnal insects.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

First-Man Dressmaker.

One day in 1730 a beautiful carriage appeared on the boulevard of Paris with an coachman in the shape of a pair of scissors and an open pair of scissors painted on the panel of each door. This was the coat of arms of Rhombert, the first man who made a name as a woman's dressmaker.

Look the Hint.

"This seems like a sweet dream," he rapturously remarked as he lingered with her at the door step.

Her Luck.

"Too bad Mrs. Smartleitch always has such abominable weather for her afternoon teas."

Yes, she never pours out it rains.

—Judge.

Lucky.

"Missus—I see you broke my china plate in two. The cook—this is my lucky day. I generally have to gather the pieces in a dustpan.—Chicago News.

The Explanation.

"How was it that thieves got away with that roll of carpet?" "I suppose they beat it.—Baltimore American.

Lieutenant Norris makes a speech upholding republican principles. Born October 20, 1854, to Mr. and Mrs. William Frazier, a daughter. The county teachers had a meeting in Wayne, and listened to a talk by Mr. Hako and by Mr. Kneedy and Mrs. Witham.

John Commins, baggage-man on the Norfolk train, fell under the wheels of the train at Hoskins and had one of his legs crushed so badly that amputation was necessary.

The 10-year-old son of S. F. Koch, section boss on the Hartington branch, was accidentally shot in one leg. The joining of a wagon in which he was riding caused the gun to discharge.

From Ponca Journal, October 23, 1878:

A Mr. Coff, living on the Logan, had his house, stables and a considerable amount of hay and grain destroyed by prairie fire last week. We did not learn the full particulars.

Last Saturday night an immense number of shooting stars or meteors, were seen in the heavens. The sight was grandest at about midnight when the entire sky seemed to be alive with flaming stars.

We hear no more about the railroad. Whether it is to remain as it is, or to be extended, or torn up, or to be repaired, or is to be allowed to pine away, we have not been informed. We don't hear of any more accidents lately although it is said trains still run up and down every day.

About twenty miles above Niobrara, a venomous little toronado came along on Tuesday afternoon of last week, and stripped things clean, making a path about fifty rods wide. When the toronado crossed the river it seemed to scoop a channel in the water clear to the bottom. Our informant states that it was one of the most terrific sights he ever saw. Fortunately no great damage was done.

From the Ponca Journal, October 25, 1880:

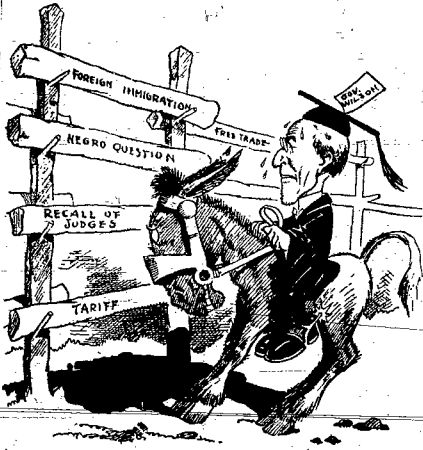

It is reported that the Northwestern telegraph company will begin on the first day of the month to construct a line from Covington to Ponca.

Lieutenant Norris delivered an able republican speech at Gable's ball Saturday evening. Lieutenant Norris will attend election day lectures at this place on the subject of "Credits."

The Wayne County Review states that within a radius of ten miles around LaPorte, $2,000 worth of stock perished during the late storm. Among the list of losers is B. H. Wilbur, formerly of Dixon county; he lost six head of cattle.

During the blizzard Mr. Taylor whose herd in the western part of the county, lost twenty-eight cattle. Mr. Lamson of Cedar fourteen, and Tollen twenty-one head. On the Dakota side, near Vermillion, a man had a very large herd of cattle which, travelling with the storm, came to the Missouri. He has found twenty-five of the herd on this side of the river, they having drifted across. The rest were probably frozen.

UP AGAINST THE HURDLES

FIRST YEAR VOTERS

They Should Vote With Republican Party.

It has stood for progressive policies with the masses in the Country Unemployed Prosperity.

Between three and four million young men in the United States will this year cast their first vote. Every one of them should vote for President Taft and the Republican party.

In choosing his political affiliation the first voter should thoroughly study the platforms, principles and records of the great political parties; before allying himself with either if he goes into the record of facts impartially, he cannot escape the conviction that his choice must be with the Republican party. From Lincoln to Taft, with one single exception, every president of the United States has accepted the inspiring Republican doctrine. The Republican party preserved the Union, abolished slavery, freed Cuba, rescued the Philippines and Porto Rico from three centuries of Spanish tyranny, secured the open door of trade in China, and is building the Panama Canal—making the old world dream of centuries come true—and reshaping the world's highways and connecting them up to all this, its beneficent policies and wise administration have resulted in the progress of the nation, with commercial and national wealth reaching a point almost beyond imagination.

Democrats Are Destructive.

On the other hand, the first voter will find that the Democratic party has always been an obstructive and destructive party instead of constructive; that when in power it has always brought disaster to the country not only because of its incapacity and incompetence, but also because it has invariably destroyed manufacturing interests by attempting to foist foreign-made goods upon the people. It has always been on the wrong side of everything, and if it could have had its way would have destroyed the free coinage of silver. In the last Democratic administration the national debt increased and industrial activity paralyzed the great industrial system of the country. The net of farm products decreased $500,000,000, banks closed, business firms failed, factories were silent and three million jobless men were begging for work. These things happened during the short administration of the Democratic party, which has done nothing for progress, nothing for the cause of liberty and freedom, and nothing for the glory of our common country, for more than half a century.

Republican Party Will Live.

More than 100 years ago he received by the attack now made upon the Republican party by men who are smarting under the sting of disappointed ambition. This is not the first year in which the Republican party has been subjected to similar experiences. There was the bolt of the Liberal Republicans in 1856, the defection in the early '90s to the Farmers' Alliance, Greenback and Populist parties and the withdrawal of the Silver Republicans in 1896. But the men who have been loaded with the vilest abuse by their contemporaries just as President Taft is assailed today. But the Republican party has survived all these experiences just as it will survive the present attempt to bring about its destruction.

The men who left the Republican party in the past have gone down to political oblivion. Those who have remained with the Republican party have, on the contrary, been distinguished in their great achievements. The Republican party offers to the first voter an splendid record of its past and the glorious promise of its future.

TRUSTS ARE FOR T. R.

Their Directors Contribute to His Campaign Fund.

Harvester Trust Perkins and Steel Trust—Mansey—Give—Half of Total Amount Contributed.

Roosevelt's cry of "Stop thief," has not succeeded in diverting public attention from the liberal support which he is receiving from the big trusts. Among the significant contributions to the third party campaign funds the past week were those of George W. Perkins, a director of the Harvester Trust, and Frank A. Mansey, of the Steel Trust, for $15,000 each. Perkins says that more will be forthcoming when needed. He cannot be charged with ingratitude.

The Harvester Trust was organized during Roosevelt's administration with a paper capitalization of one hundred and thirty million dollars. The tangible assets upon which the vast amount of watered stock was issued amounted at the time to only thirty millions of dollars. Ex-Senator Hansbrough of North Dakota declares that a word from Roosevelt, who was president, would have prevented the formation of this great combine. But the word was not spoken. The deal went through and the farmers who buy Harvester Trust implements have been left to pay the dividends on this extra one hundred millions of watered stock ever since. Later in the Roosevelt administration the department of justice, on its own initiative, was about to begin prosecution against this trust for violation of the Sherman law. But Mr. Perkins appealed to his friend, President Roosevelt, and by the president's personal order the proceedings were stopped. Mr. Perkins has not been a member in the White House during the present administration, and by direction of President Taft a suit is now pending to dissolve the Harvester Trust. It is interesting to note that Mr. Perkins contributes liberally to the third term campaign fund.

And is it any wonder that Mr. Frank Mansey is equally liberal when it is remembered that he is a heavy stockholder in the Steel Trust, whose coffers were enriched to the extent of fifty millions of unearned dollars by the absorption of the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company. Its most dangerous competitor—an absorption which President Roosevelt, heavily interested in the law, and which never would have been made except for the promise obtained in advance from President Roosevelt that the law would not be invoked against it.

These are not campaign slanders. They are acknowledged and undisputed truths. And they are set forth here merely to make it clear why it happens that George W. Perkins, a director of the Harvester Trust, and Frank A. Mansey, heavily interested in the Steel Trust, can afford to be generous with their funds in financing the third term campaign. They found Colonel Roosevelt's friends "indeed" when he was last in the White House, and from their point of view they are fully warranted in drawing upon their plebeian bank accounts to put him back again.

A Word to the Farmers.

From the Leavenworth (Kan.) Times: If the farmers want good times to continue, they will vote for Taft. If they want to take the chance of getting less for their crops, they will vote for either Roosevelt or Wilson.

Some long-observer has remarked that the longer Col. Roosevelt reflects over his past life, the more certain he is that he never made a mistake.

From the Chicago Tribune, Sept. 18, 1912. Pittsburg, Pa., Sept. 16.—(Special)—Prosperity that will enjoy anything the nation has ever witnessed is what James McCrea, president of the Pennsylvania railroad, sees in the future. McCrea came to Pittsburg last night. Asked what he thought of the business situation, he said: "Prosperity—why it is here! Everybody can see that. The pulse of the whole country is beating to the rhythm of a happier time. And we are just entering the new era of prosperity."

St. Paul's Lutheran Church. (Rev. J. Kuhn, Pastor.) Services at 11 o'clock Sunday morning. Subject of sermon will be "A Christian's Title." Sunday school at 10 a. m.

German Evangelical Lutheran. (Rev. J. H. Karpenstein, Pastor.) Next Sunday, the annual mission festival will be held. Services will begin at 10:30 a. m. and in the afternoon at 8:30. Rev. C. H. Mubermann of Grand Island, and Rev. E. Walter of Lincoln, will assist the pastor. On account of the early services, there will be no Sunday school.

First Baptist Church. (Rev. B. P. Richardson, Pastor.) The Baptist church of Wayne will be the center of the religious life of our community during next week. On Saturday evening, the young people's department of the state convention will open. On Monday evening the convention proper will be opened by the preaching of the annual sermon, Sunday morning at 10:45 the Rev. H. R. Waldo of Lincoln, will preach. In the afternoon at 2:30 Mrs. Chamberlain of Kansas City, a specialist in international Sunday school work, will conduct a meeting. This will be very important for Sunday school workers.

At 5:30 p. m. the pastor of the B. Y. P. U. will be held with Mrs. B. L. Lough as leader. Some of our state and national workers will be present and give their messages.

At 7:30 p. m. Rev. W. E. Chambers of Philadelphia, will give an address. Mr. Chambers is the national secretary of the B. Y. P. U. A full program of the convention was printed in last week's paper. Cut it out and make an effort to attend each session as far as possible. Our people have gone to considerable effort and expense to entertain our visitors, and can get paid back by letting them give their messages. The Minister's messages which they have brought.

We are especially anxious that our men attend the banquet on Wednesday evening at 5:30. Some good address will be made there and the fellowship and inspiration of the hour will do us all good.

Our church will probably not have the privilege of entertaining the convention again for many years. It ought to mean much to us this time. We hope each member of the church will realize its significance and get out of it what it intends to give.

First Methodist Church. (Rev. William G. Pastor.) Next Sunday morning Dr. Wilson Mills of Omaha, budget secretary of the Baptist state convention, will preach at the M. E. church at the usual hour, 10:30.

In the evening there will be two union services beginning at 7:30, one at the Baptist church and the other at the Methodist church. It was thought by the local management of the convention interest that no one church would be large enough to accommodate the congregations that will want to hear the eminent talent that the state convention will bring into our midst. As yet it has not been decided who will speak at the M. E. church in the evening.

Our ladies will serve dinner and supper on Wednesday and Thursday to the Baptist state convention and they will highly appreciate having near at hand two or three helpful men for such odd jobs as men can help with at such times.

"What Shall We Teach at Sunday School Next Sunday?" is the topic of inquiry at the Wednesday night services. Sunday school teachers and other Bible students will find help by attending.

Fine congregations attended church last Sunday evening at 7:30, one at the Baptist church and the other at the Methodist church. tion in Wayne, will preach in the Presbyterian church next Sabbath morning. The meeting addressed by Rev. C. H. Bandy of India, in the church last Monday evening was much appreciated by those interested in worldwide Christian work. The service was opened by an organ voluntary by Mrs. James Miller. Rev. William Dorset led in prayer and the Normal male quartet rendered a sacred selection. Mr. Bandy was introduced by the pastor of the church, and gave a descriptive account of the work of reaching the Hindus and bringing them over to Christianity and civilization. He emphasized the individual service which every church member in India is expected to render, which individual work accounts for the amazing increase of the Christian church in this pagan country. He related several incidents showing the human nature of the Hindu's, especially the same with us, and he clearly proved the adaptability of Christianity to satisfy all the wants of the physical, mental and moral natures of the inhabitants of India.

Meeting of the Synod. The annual meeting of the synod of Nebraska, comprising the Presbyterian churches in the state, will be held at Hastings, beginning on Wednesday of next week and continuing until the following Monday, October 10 to 21. The local Presbyterian church will be represented at the meeting by the pastor and Mr. David Cunningham.

Reception to the Synod. A "reception" evening was tendered to the students of the Normal by the young people of the Presbyterian church Friday evening. There was a very large attendance, necessitating the use of both the parlors of the church. A number of guests were present and a good hearing was given to the pastor's address on the subject of "The Christian's Responsibility." This making formal introductions unnecessary. A number of games were enjoyed and a short program was given, including two readings by Miss Olive McBeth and a display of shadowgraphs. Dr. Corley also made a brief speech of welcome, emphasizing the necessity of religious and social unity.

The high school foot ball team will play the Wakefield team at Emerson next Saturday.

Seventy-five high school students were present in attendance the first month.

Major Kate Addresses High School. One of the most helpful and pleasing addresses ever made before the high school was the one given by Major Kate on Wednesday morning. Mr. Kate first impressed upon the minds of his hearers the importance of being on time. He said the world wants men and women who are punctual and worthy of being depended upon. He then argued upon his audience the necessity of good writing, saying that no person worth his name wants to employ a person who is not good at writing and making figures. In all your writing and figuring practice care and neatness until it becomes a habit. Mr. Kate congratulated the students on the fact that they all had begun to study English.

KANSAS IS REPUBLICAN

Roosevelt Strength Among Voters is Decreasing Perceptibly Throughout State.

Topeka, Kan., Sept. 23.—Notwithstanding the enthusiasm which has always existed in Kansas for Theodore Roosevelt, it is undeniable that his strength as a presidential candidate is decidedly waning throughout the state.

If he were the candidate of the Republican party, and if there were a chance of his election, he would, of course, sweep the state without any serious opposition. But neither of these conditions exists. The fact that his own leaders have been obliged to recede to the wave of indignant protest which swept against them on account of their effort to have Roosevelt's electors placed in the Republican column has not only proven the strength of the Taft sentiment, but it has eliminated all possibility of Roosevelt carrying the state.

The Roosevelt sentiment has been further weakened by the universal conviction that there is no possibility of his election and that the only effect his candidacy can possibly have is to expose the country to the danger of a Democratic victory. Kansas is as far from a Democratic state as it ever was and the substantial collapse of the Roosevelt campaign, this state will be found in its accustomed place, that of the head of the Republican column.

SLIDING BACK IN NEVADA

Roosevelt has Reached His Limit and is Rapidly Receding.

Reno, Nev., Sept. 25.—The decline of the Roosevelt movement, noticeable throughout the country, is very apparent in Nevada.

The interest in the Bull Moose movement is crystallizing in Roosevelt, says the Evening Gazette, and that interest is waning. The Gazette further states that Roosevelt's disappointing speech in the state, the fact that he is receiving funds from George W. Perkins and is being supported by other politicians, are all dragstones about his neck. The Gazette sums up the situation in Nevada as follows:

"Roosevelt has reached the limit of his power and is sliding back rapidly."

ACT QUICKLY

Delay Has Been Dangerous in Wayne.

Do the right thing at the right time. Act quickly in time of danger. In time of kidney danger Doan's Kidney Pills are most effective.

Plenty of evidence of their worth. Marcus Kroger, Wayne, Neb., says: "I used three boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills about a year ago, procuring them as J. T. Leahy's drug store, and I am pleased to say that they cured me of a dull ache across my kidneys, together with other symptoms of kidney complaint. I hold a high opinion of Doan's Kidney Pills and always recommend them whenever I know of anyone in need of a kidney medicine."

DEMAND FOR LABOR

Unprecedented Prosperity in the United States Sends Up a Call From Ocean to Ocean for Unskilled Labor.

The demand for unskilled labor never was so great in the United States as it is at present. There is also a large and general demand for skilled labor in many important lines. The cry has gone up from New York state and extends south along the Atlantic coast, across the south Pacific coast to Seattle, and back across the heart of the country from Kansas City to St. Louis, to Chicago, to Detroit, to Pittsburgh.

Everywhere laborers are needed in the harvests, the forests, the mines, the factories, the mills, on the railroads, for the construction of public highways and in our great industrial centers.

Even within a hundred-mile radius of New York city the call is no less insistent. Labor-agencies cannot supply the demand there. Contractors need manual help for aqueducts, tunnels, building-excavations. There is work for every man willing to take pick and shovel and utilize the opportunity to earn a daily wage whose minimum is $1.75.

Can anyone doubt that it is this condition of universally employed labor which is responsible for the high prices for farm products—prices which are giving the American farmer the greatest degree of prosperity he has ever known?

And can anyone believe that those conditions, either as to laborers or farmers, would be bettered by a change in the administration at Washington? Why make a change for the mere sake of change? "Let sleeping dogs lie."

LOSING IN NEBRASKA.

Progressive Party Will Die Before Election Day Comes Around.

Reports from Nebraska show that the Roosevelt sentiment is decreasing. "The Third Term," says one letter to Director Mulvane of the western bureau of the Taft campaign, "is drifting down to Pop."

James H. Clark of Hastings, Neb., president of a large company which handles investments, securities and farm mortgages, and who has exceptional opportunity to know the feeling among the farmers, says that in Nebraska the farmers are beginning to realize that if they followed Roosevelt they will land nowhere, and if they allow a Democratic president to be elected, they will be ruined. "In Lincoln, Neb., the Third Term party had difficulty in securing over two hundred and fifty signatures to a petition for their county convention. The Progressive party will die before election," says one report. "Sentiment is looking better for Taft every day."
