Royal Baking Powder

Absolutely Pure

The Woman Makes the Home

She makes it best who, looking after the culinary department, turns her back resolutely upon unhealthful, or even suspicious, food accessories. She is economical; she knows that true economy does not consist in the use of inferior meat, flour, or baking powder. She is an earnest advocate of home made, home baked food, and has proved the truth of the statements of the experts that the best cooking in the world today is done with Royal Baking Powder.

There is no reason why a man who is not sick should be out of employment. Farmers are on the lookout for huskers, and they are paying good wages. The man who is really anxious to work does not need to look long to be accommodated. The trouble with some men out of work is that they entertain the suspicion that nature designed them for positions as managers of big enterprises and that they should not labor with their hands. There lies the secret of their failure. They ought to bite out husking corn, or while thus engaged develop the spirit that inspires success and which does not shy at hard work. The voice of the farm is now calling for more help, and to any one out of a job the opportunity is presented.

Bixby in Lincoln Journal: A writer in the "Ladies' World" says there is usual time for beginning an evening reception is nine o'clock. So it is, and that is the pity of it. People go receptions at the very hour when they should go to bed. There are a string of people in the receiving line; it is necessary to shake hands with them, and then shake hands promiscuously for some time later. Talk a little foolishness, drink a little punch, nibble a wafer-soil wearily home at about 11:71. This form of dissipation seems innocent enough, but it does irreparable mischief to the vital machinery if kept up. The sleep that builds you up and makes you strong and steadily nerved, comes before the hour of midnight. Between that and the early onset of dawn, there may be a great deal of loud snoring, but not the quiet and satisfying consciousness of the earlier hours.

To facilitate composition on the late election ballot, a stereotype plate covering amendments, national and state offices, was secured, but on submitting the proof to county clerk Reynolds, he noted that the separate after many of the names were too close together and did not comply with the law, and his ruling was supported by the county attorney and other members of the local bar. It was believed the arrangement of squares would confuse voters, and cause errors that would be avoided by the insertion of a blank space strictly between them. Therefore, all the plates could not be used and the names had to be put in type here. Through the caution of Clerk Reynolds the ballot in Wayne county fulfilled the letter and spirit of the law. Some other counties were not so careful. They used the faulty plate, and ran the risk of legal complications.

WILLIAM MORGAN'S PUREBRED HOG SALE

William Morgan's sale of purebred Duroc-Jersey pigs took place in the Wayne stock pavilion Saturday afternoon, and was highly attended. The sale was officiated as auctioneer and H. B. Organized About 25 Years Ago.....

this bank has been developed and conducted on the principle of safe, conservative banking along progressive lines. On this plan it has gained a little each day in strength, in scope—in its ability to serve its patrons.

In the future it will be governed by the same principle. And, as the officers and directors fully appreciate and recognize the law of reciprocal relationship between the bank and its customers we expect it to continue to grow both in its capacity and in its opportunity to serve the people of this community.

On this basis your account is respectfully solicited.

MISS OLIVE M'BETH

AN ACCOMPLISHED READER.

A goodly portion of this community were aware that we have, in Miss Olive M'Beth of the department of education at the Normal, a reader of more than ordinary attractiveness, but it was not until last Thursday night, when she read so delightfully "The Launching of the Ship," that everybody came to understand how superior is her ability in this direction. It is fitting that the Herald should let its readers know more of her personality and her work in the great school that is growing up in our city. Miss M'Beth is a Nebraska girl, having attended school in Shelby, Neb., and later at Wesleyan University. Miss M'Beth only had an ambition to excel in the reader's art. At the age of 14 she had already become a prime favorite in such role in her home town and in neighboring places. While in Wesleyan she had the privilege of receiving training from Professor A. E. Turner and she acquires him as the one who gave her a firm foundation of instruction in and appreciation of great literary artists. Later, feeling that she could accomplish more in her chosen profession if she were to go elsewhere, she left Wesleyan for the large institution at Evanston, Ill., Northwestern university. Here she received instruction from the great reader Cunningham, to whose genius as a teacher and interpreter of literature she feels deeply obligated for knowledge acquired and inspiration received. After graduating from Northwestern, Miss M'Beth traveled for some months with a party of her fellow students in Europe. She was a favorite with the company, and one fourth of July while in Rome was called upon by a party of Americans to render some selection of patriotic import. She electrified the group with James Whitcomb Riley's "Old Glory." When asked what her favorite selections are, Miss M'Beth said she feels especially pleased when she is allowed to render something of a person's nature, especially the tragic. If the piece is dramatic that fact adds to her appreciation of it, as she feels that with such she becomes more in touch with her audience. Book readings, such as "The Wishing-Horn," "The Magic Pot," "The Sign of the Cross," still out her fullest power and give her the most complete expression of herself. Some of her friends are especially fond of her musical readings. "Missionary Ridge" and "Old Glory" are particularly pleasing to the old soldiers and she often reads them on Decoration day.

Miss M'Beth has spent two summers on the chautauque platform, under the management of the Redpath bureau, and has many opportunities to go on the platform permanently. But she feels that as a teacher she can do more in spreading the "sweetness and light" of intelligence and taste than in any other way. To her her profession seems a mission and she seeks to serve humanity by means of it. She feels that the training of the dramatic instinct is to become more and more recognized as a special duty on the part of our public school system and she seeks to do her part in this great work.—J. MAN DIES SUDDENLY FROM HEART FAILURE

James Hart who had been employed for three years as foreman of the wool department of the X-Ray incubator factory in Wayne, fell dead from heart failure Sunday afternoon. Mr. Hart was out for a drive in his automobile, and was accompanied by his wife. When near the W. A. K. Neely farm, three miles northeast of town, he stopped and got out to fix something in connection with the automobile, and after he had worked on the machine, presumably starting, he fell to the ground and quickly expired. Help was summoned, and George Hart, son of the deceased, accompanied by Drs. Zoll & Hess, hurried to the Neely farm, but they found the man dead and beyond medical aid.

Mr. Hart was about 61 years of age, and leaves a wife and one son. Mayor J. H. Kate had known Mr. Hart intimately for many years at Audobon, Ia., and when a foreman for the incubator factory was wanted three years ago he was sent for. He was a faithful and efficient head of the department, and was in all respects a good citizen. His son who has also been employed at the factory, will succeed to the place made vacant by the death of his father. The remains were taken to Audobon, Tuesday for the funeral and interment, and were accompanied by the sorrowing wife and son. The many friends of the surviving members of the family sympathize with them in their bereavement.

OBITUARY.

(By His Pastor.)
James Milton Hart was born October 5, 1851, and departed this life on November 3, 1912, aged 61 years and 29 days. At the time of his birth his parents lived in Indiana, but they moved to Carroll county, Ia., during his early youth, and he grew to manhood in the western state. He was married on December 1, 1887, in Audobon county, Ia., and he resided there until about three years ago, when he came to Wayne to accept a position in the incubator factory. During his residence in Audobon he owned and operated a planing mill and won for himself a good name as a business man of honor and integrity. In his capacity as foreman in the factory in Wayne he proved himself fully capable to oversee this growing industry and was respected by his employers as a man on whom they could depend. He has been a personal friend of Mayor John Kate for a number of years and it was on Mr. Kate's invitation that he removed to Wayne and accepted the place which he held at the time of his death.

He leaves to mourn his loss his wife and son, George; four sisters, Mrs. Maggie Howard, Mrs. Emma Warner, Blackhawk county, Ia., Miss Julia Hart Bagley, Ia., Miss Minna Hart, Viola Center, Ia., and one brother, Mr. Dave Hart, Audobon, Ia. Interment will be at Audobon.

The passing of Mr. Hart was sudden and unexpected and was a sad shock to his family, relatives and friends. However, for some little time he had been ailing, although he rarely complained. An affection of the heart to which he was liable, gave him trouble, but the serious nature of the complaint was not realized. Stricken suddenly while taking an outing in his automobile in the company of his wife, he passed away in a few moments after the fatal shock at the home of Mr. W. A. K. Neely. His family and relatives, and his wide circle of friends in Audobon and his many new-made friends in Wayne mourn his sudden loss and cherish his memory as a kind husband, good father, faithful workman and loyal friend.

SERIES OF REVIVAL MEETINGS IN WAYNE

Beginning Sunday evening, November 17, the churches of Wayne will unite in a series of special evangelistic meetings, led by Mr. Frank E. Lingren of Chicago. The services each evening excepting Saturday possibly, will be held at the Methodist church, extending probably for three weeks. In addition, arrangements will be made for several morning meetings down town, for business men.

Mr. Lingren comes to us well recommended. For several years he was manager of an important business house in Chicago. His ability as a gospel-singer, caused him to be persuaded to give his full time to evangelistic singing. His ability to organize and lead men was soon seen as was his influence as a personal worker. For five or six years his whole time was devoted to assisting strong evangelists in their work. But some years ago, feeling himself called to enter a larger work, he began to do the work of an evangelist as well as a singer. His last years of experience proves him equally strong as an evangelist as he had been a singer. He has promised to give us not only the service of an evangelist, while here, but also a ministry of song.—Those who have had Mr. Lingren with them speak highly both of the character of his work and of the spirit and presence of the man.

A strong music committee has been organized to assist him. Two hundred special song books have been ordered and we have a right to expect a strong chorus choir will respond to the call.

A number of men from the various churches met Sunday afternoon and heartily endorsed Mr. Lingren's coming and directed that complete arrangements be made for the meetings. The pastors were directed to select the necessary committees, and lead the work of making full arrangements. Accordingly the following men were named on the various committees, the chairman being the first named on each committee:

- Finance committee: F. G. Phillips, Victor Carlson, Jack Cherry, H. C. Henney.
- Devotional committee: S. W. Dayton, F. H. Jones, J. E. Marsteller, S. E. Spurgus, David Cunningham, Lambert Roe, and the pastors.
- Music committee: Professor David Miller, Professor Alexander, Professor Coleman, Dr. Gamble, Mrs. Davis, Mrs. Ed Johnson, C. O. Jones.

Now that the political campaign is over it is time to think of Christmas shopping. Do it early.

One newspaper suggests that the ballot used at the late election lacked a bill of catching the right remedy by law for hotel bed sheets. The next legislature will no doubt fix the law so the ballot will be still longer, and then by pasting a few strips together, surplus ballots can be used for bed sheets.

People were never before burdened with such a long political campaign, and they have reason to be pleased that it is over. No sooner had the smoke of battle cleared away a year ago than the bombardment for the late presidential contest commenced, and it kept on continuously. People have had a surfeit of politics, and will be relieved to be able to give attention to other things without being confronted by the claims of rival candidates and rival platforms. However, the local campaign was not so exciting as usual. It was conducted in a very creditable manner by all candidates. The race from bitterness, and was carried on quietly and unobtrusively. The candidates deserve credit for their fairness and good sense.

With a split in the republican party, caused by the Roosevelt candidacy, neither Taft nor the bull moose leader could have won unless an immense number of democrats had deserted their natural leader. This was unlikely. In view of two strong factions in the republican party, Wilson did not need a great popular vote to sweep the country and gain an unusual majority in the electoral college. All Roosevelt accomplished was the defeat of Taft and the triumph of the democratic party. If Roosevelt had yielded to a compromise Chicago, a new man might have been named, and a reunited party would have marched on to victory. As to the president's record, it will stand the scrutiny of time, and history will give it the important place it deserves. If Governor Wilson's administration does as well by the country as the one drawing to a close, we may well be thankful.

MAGIC OF WOODCRAFT.

Facts of Trailing the Result of Observation and Deduction. The truth is that without a knowledge of woodcraft one would soon perish in the wilderness, and woodcraft is simply the art of making use of the things of the wild life, a matter of observation and deduction. If a man finds a lot of hair adhering to a trunk of a tree, he knows that a bear has been there, and he is assuming that no man took the trouble to stick it there. Thus he arrives at the conclusion that some animal has been scratching itself on the tree.

But in order to tell what animal has been there he must be familiar with the hair belonging to all the inhabitants of that section. For example, he can say that a deer, a moose, a caribou or a wolf, as the case may be, rubbed its side against the tree trunk. Of course if there is any blood on the tree trunk, the animal will give him in identifying the creature. Again, if the day is absolutely calm and the sun is shining and he notes that there are exposed bestragons, he can conclude that some animal disturbed the leaves or pebbles. In fact, all the apparently wonderful feats of trailing are based primarily upon a matter of observation. -Dan Beard in Leslie's.

AN ELEPHANT'S CHARGE.

The Way It Was Met by a Cool Head. Dr. Dunbar-Brunton spent some years in Africa as a district medical officer. One of his most thrilling adventures was with a bull elephant. The elephant had been driven off other tracks, he had been following up the tracks of elephants all day, without success, and just before sundown returned to camp. He was going back to the river when he decided to return also, but before starting on the homeward track sat down and lighted a pipe. He was smoking quietly when he heard the voice of his friend's best friend, and a native who carried a gun, said, "Look!" A great bull elephant was close upon them. Very quietly the doctor hid his pipe and took his gun. The natives scuttled up the trees in terror. The doctor took a quick shot, but just missed the elephant's brain pan. It threw up its trunk, opened its mouth, put its tusks forward and charged. A second shot struck in the shoulder, but did not check its onrush. The doctor shot again when it was close, but the bullet only grazed its side. It fell, with legs outstretched, with a bullet in its heart. The doctor turned to his pipe. It was still alight, and he took a few puffs, when he noticed a dark round body of the elephant. -Chicago News.

Man Eating Sharks. The shark is the most ferocious creature that swims in the sea. It is the shark by that does not mean every shark, but what is called the man eater, just as a certain species of tiger in India is called the man eater because it hunts human beings for its prey, preferring them to animals. The man eating shark is not a new species, but it is a shark that is noted for its strength, also the rapidity with which it swims. It goes through the water so rapidly that few fish exceed it in swiftness, and it is able to catch food of that kind. This is especially true in the waters—such as the Indian and south Atlantic oceans, the Pacific ocean and the waters tributary to them—and the deep-sea shark is a shark to swim in. -Chambers' Journal.

Oddly Shaped Spiders. The most peculiar spiders in the world as well as the largest one inhabit the island of Sumatra. They are of all conceivable forms and colors, and some of them spin threads almost as large and strong as the grocer's twine. Some queerly shaped spiders have square bodies polished on long red legs; and others have crooked green and yellow bodies which support five black bodies. One of the very oddest of the lot has a body that looks like that of a young turtle—the "shell" having large black and pear-shaped projections all over it.

A Bad Recovery. Scene: Registry office. Bridegroom to the groom: "The first time I was married was in a plain and simple way. It's so plain and simple, and I should come here if ever I got married again." Groom: "You're right, but I don't see he's said the wrong thing. That is, my dear, if ever I have been—misfortunate to get married again, of course." -London Punch.

A Dip at Dubleigh. "Dubleigh—Your little dog barked at me, but stopped when I looked him straight in the eyes, and I don't think he noticed my presence of mind." Miss Keen. -Possibly. They say animals often see things that human beings cannot. -Boston Transcript.

DARING YEGGMEN.

Ways of the Most Desperate and Cunning of Burglars.

BLOWING OPEN A BANK SAFE.

Nitroglycerin is the Explosive Used in Wet Blankets Help to Deaden the Sound—Making the "Soup" is a Perilous Part of the Business. Of all the thieves and crooks that operate in the country the yeggan, or bank burglar, is the most cunning and systematic and in the majority of cases the most desperate. Some people have an idea that a common tramp housebreaker is a yeggan, but that is far from the truth. In nice cases out of ten yeggmen are intelligent, educated men. There is a bond between them as strong as that which unites any brotherhood or union in the country. There are not more than fifty good yeggmen in the United States. To be successful the yeggan must understand every detail of the work, because a man usually means a life. When a man becomes too old or is disabled or infirm, another cause remains an active member of the gang. Then a street the younger and less experienced members. In all the time that I have been connected with bank investigations, only a few yeggmen have been known. One of the most interesting cases of a case in which one yeggan drove the other across another, and I don't think that can be said of any other branch of thieftaking. I will describe the methods used by the yeggmen, also some used by the investigators.

Four or five men usually make up a gang, and these gangs are organized over the whole country, each having its own territory. For instance, one gang had the territory between Albany and Boston and the Boston and New York. Some of the yeggmen would be scattered out along the road between Boston and Albany looking for a bank or postoffice which they could easily blow open. It sometimes takes three months to get the money, and the job and get everything in readiness for the "touch off," as they call it. One successful job with these men was made in a very small bank that other thieves make. When the job is spotted the gang is called together, and every detail is gone over and the plans are mapped out. The men look over the bank, and the discussion of methods sometimes lasts a week. I once knew of a gang operating in Indiana, who were in doubt about blowing open a bank in Maine. That probably took three or four weeks. I mention this to show that they absolutely will not let a job slip. There is the least doubt about its success.

After the job is located and their plans are settled the next thing they do is to get the tools and make their preparations. They need a great many fuses, caps and nitroglycerin are needed. The soap fuses and caps are easily obtained at any hardware or grocery, but the nitroglycerin is not so easy to get. To obtain this material the yeggmen will be taken out of dynamite sticks, and that is almost an art in itself, being a very dangerous process. For an ordinary shot they take five-pound sticks of dynamite to make enough nitroglycerin, or "soup," as they call it, for the job. The utensils consist of two hard cans and a quart whiskey bottle. The bottle is filled with one of the lard cans and holes made all around the sides. A charcoal fire is then built and the lard can is set on it. Then the oil is run on the fire, and the water and placed on the first. The water is allowed to become lukewarm, and then the sticks of dynamite are placed in the water. The whole affair is covered with a blanket. After that time the water is allowed to cool and is then strained through a piece of cheesecloth, after which it is again allowed to stand. In a short time the whitish crystals rise to the surface and is skimmed off and placed in the bottle. The yeggs call this process "making soup." Several times it is repeated, and in one instance, when it blew the operator's arm off. It led to the capture of two of the best men in what was known as the E. and T. H. gang.

It sometimes takes as many as three shots to blow a safe. Four holes are drilled around the combination knob, and the nitroglycerin is poured in the holes, each containing one of the soap fuses and fuse are then attached, wet blankets are thrown over the safe, and the shot is touched off. The men inside throw themselves face down on the floor. After the smoke has cleared the safe is sometimes found ready to be rifled. Often there is a strong box which the first shot does not hit. In that case a second and sometimes a third shot must be fired off in the same manner as the first.

As soon as the citizens hear the explosion the men who are watching outside give the inside men the alarm and endeavor to hold the town at bay, giving their inside pals a chance for a clean getaway with the plunder.

He Understood. "You must always be nice to your little girl." "I know. I've got my lesson all right, ma. I'm just beating them around a bit trying to teach them that they're not to be nice to me too." -Detroit Free Press.

Liberty will not succeed because people will not raise their voices in its defense. -Cooley.

POTTED GHOSTS.

An African Tribes Method of Driving Away Sickness.

One of the most curious and interesting of African tribes are the Baguoro, or cow people, of Uganda, who are believed to be the only people whose wealth, religion and health are all connected with cows. It is degrading for any member of the tribe to dig, so milk and fat are the staple foods. Their beliefs are very queer. The only beast they fear is the leopard. Their chief weapon is a long stick, and armed with this they go out to meet a lion that is ready to eat at their previous catch and drive him away by the simple process of thrashing him. Though they are brave, they are in various things, and very superstitious. They are very afraid of their thefts and concealing their guilt by it. Indeed, one of their favorite mottoes is, "Keep a grave face even though you are laughing behind your hand." When sickness comes to these people they believe that it is one of their enemies, the ghosts, that is attacking them, so they proceed to capture him, dress the pot and eat at once. This potted ghost is then taken away from the village and buried, the spot being marked by a ghost shrine.

The position of the pot and the people in a half sitting posture, and when they are holding a council they will remain in this posture as long as ten hours. When they die it is in this posture, and the king who dies his successor is generally selected by the drastic process of civil war.

PLUCK OF A DEER.

A Big Buck That Was More Than a Match For a Cougar.

It seems to be generally assumed that wild animals of different species have no fight when they meet. The experience of some woodsman striking disproves this peaceful view of forest life. Two sportsmen made a trip to the Blue mountains in the state of Washington, and in the course of the shooting witnessed a rare occurrence. They had been on the trail of a large buck for some time, and as it chanced, one of the sportsmen saw a cougar, and when the cougar launched himself upon the buck from the limb of a tree. The cougar landed squarely on the back of the buck, almost throwing him to the ground. The buck quickly recovered and, throwing back his head, drove two powerful strokes of his antlers into the cougar's body and with a swing forced him to the ground. Leaping backward, he then vaulted with lowered head for a second attack. The cougar, in rage and pain the cougar sprang upon him. He might as well have leaped against an army of bayonets, for he was caught on the horns of the buck, and buried several feet into the air.

The instant he struck the ground the buck's forehead, which cut like knife blades, and driving his antlers again and again into his body. Finally they separated, and the cougar crawled forward for the final struggle. The deer was wounded, but still in excellent fighting trim, and hunters interfered. One of them walked up to the cougar and shot it through the heart. -Exchange.

Sea Level and Tides at Panama.

The average sea level of the Pacific ocean and the Caribbean sea, at opposite sides of the isthmus of Panama, are at different levels. The sea level of the two waters during all days of the year. But there is a great difference in tides. The Caribbean sea has a tide of only one foot, two feet, while the tides in the Pacific at Panama are not Pacific, for they at times rise ten feet and sink ten feet below normal undisturbed sea level. The tide level, however, varies alternately north in the canal from south to north entering, and from north to south escaping. -New York American.

A Political Pointer.

"A president has to eat a good deal, these times." "What do you mean?" "The chief executive has to attend a great many banquets and like a 'Seamus' so. What about it?" "I was just thinking that the next president ought to recognize the growing importance of the social side of the job and appoint an addition to the cabinet in the shape of a toastmaster." -Louisville Courier-Journal.

A DUEL IN BALLOONS.

Curious Aerial Battle Fought by Two Franchimen in 1808.

In the history of the development in aeronautics it may be interesting to recall the first duel that was ever fought in the air. It took place in 1808 and, as might have been expected, occurred in France. It was Grandpre and M. le Pique had a quarrel arising out of jealousy concerning a lady engaged in the Imperial Opera. They agreed to fight a duel to settle their respective claims, and in order that the heat of angry passion should not interfere with the polished elegance of the proceeding they postponed the duel for a month, the lady agreeing to bestow her smiles on the survivor. The duellists were to fight in the air.

Two balloons were constructed exactly alike. On the day of the duel Grandpre and his second entered the car of one balloon, Le Pique and his second the other. This was in the garden of the Tuilleries, amid a big crowd of spectators. The men were to fire, not at each other, but at each other's balloon. In order to bring them down by the escape of gas. As pistols would hardly have served for this purpose, each prepared a blunderbuss in his car.

At a given signal the ropes holding the balloons were cut, and up they went into the air. The wind was nearly moderate and kept the balloons in their respective positions, about eighty yards apart. When about half a mile up in the air the preconcerted signal for firing was given. M. le Pique fired, but missed. M. de Grandpre fired and sent a ball through Le Pique's balloon. The balloon collapsed, the car descended with frightful rapidity, and Le Pique and his second were dashed to pieces.

De Grandpre continued his ascent and terminated his aerial voyage at a distance of seven leagues from Paris. History does not state whether he was rewarded by the hand of the lady for whose sake the duel had been fought. -New York Herald.

SPOKE HIS OWN DOOM.

In Spite of His Caution an Innocent Farmer Commended Himself. The father of Guesse de Reversaux had been a distinguished lawyer, and through his influence he held important offices under the government. When the revolution began he gave up his office at La Rochelle and retired to Chartres.

From the time that the revolution began Guesse de Reversaux devoted his life to the study of the law.

WILSON IS TRIUMPHANT Country Wide Sweep Made by Democrats ILLINOIS TO ROOSEVELT.

Wilson Carries New York State by Large Margin. SULZER LEADS FOR GOVERNOR Sweeping Victory Carries With it Gains in Lower House.

New York, Nov. 7.—Without affecting in the slightest the certainty that Wilson and Marshall captured an overwhelming majority of the electoral votes, conservative estimates compelled a transfer to the doubtful outcome of some states where the results had been recorded as certain. Among these states were Minnesota, with twelve votes, Wyoming with three and South Dakota with five. Heavy reductions in the early reports of a large plurality for Roosevelt in Kansas upset all calculations, so that Roosevelt's lead over Wilson had

The Smile That Won't Come Off narrowed to 625 votes on returns from about one-fourth of the precincts. In Illinois the heavy Wilson vote outside of Cook county reduced Roosevelt's lead to about 15,000, as against the estimated 100,000 or more given him upon the Chicago returns. The Roosevelt supporters declared there was no reason to put Pennsylvania in the doubtful list, even though he admitted that early reports of the colonel's plurality probably had been exaggerated. On returns received from states where the result was reasonably certain it appeared that Governor Wilson would have almost, if not quite 490 of the 531 votes in the electoral college, and that Colonel Roosevelt would have nearly 100. President Taft had received twelve votes, those of Vermont, Idaho and Utah; while the thirty-four votes of Minnesota, New Hampshire, South Dakota and Wyoming remained in the doubtful class. Twenty-nine thirty-eight votes are apparently certain for Roosevelt. The race between Taft, Roosevelt and Wilson was almost an even affair until about noon, when 155,000 ballots had been counted. As precincts outside the large cities began to report Roosevelt and Wilson forged ahead and with over half the vote counted Roosevelt led by a plurality of over 20,000. Minnesota, conceded to Wilson early, later slipped back into the doubtful column as assessments to the Roosevelt strength reduced the Democratic lead. Iowa, given to Roosevelt by the early returns, showed a strong reversal of form and later returns give Wilson a slight lead. New Hampshire in Doubt. The returns from New Hampshire were so close as to make predictions of the result impossible. Taft's lead over Wilson, apart from 15 to some districts out of 400, and with many districts yet to be counted, the electoral vote remained at issue between the Democratic and Republican candidates. No other vote was near to counting the popular vote for the presidential candidates. In the majority of the states, however, the vote was largely settled at an earlier date. In the selection and the final returns on the actual number of ballots cast for the three candidates is expected to exceed all records. The division of the Republican vote between Taft and Roosevelt resulted in complete Democratic victories in Maine and in New York. The Democrats carried the state ticket and the legislature. In Illinois the Democratic candidate for governor carried the state. Democratic senators appeared certain to be re-elected by Republicans from Colorado, New Jersey, Delaware, Montana and several other states. Socialistic Vote Grows. A general increase in the Socialist party vote, polled by Eugene V. Debs, the presidential candidate, was accompanied by a setback to the local Socialist organizations in two of their strongholds. In Wisconsin, Congressional Republicans, who carried in the house of representatives, was defeated with a number of other officeholders, and in Schenectady, N. Y., where the party had carried the state ticket at the last election, practically all of its candidates were defeated. President Taft Wilson will have found him a greatly strengthened majority in the national house of representatives and on late returns the Democrats apparently have a chance to gain control of the United States senate. In Illinois the Progressive and Socialist held the balance of power in the legislature and to select two senators. In Colorado, who two senators are to be chosen, the Democrats are in apparent control, and in other states late returns may show a shift of the local vote from Republican to Democratic hands. Governor Wilson not only carried his own state, New Jersey, by a large margin, but he carried the state in all of his appointments, the state of his own primary, Pa. Indiana, and the state of Colonel Roosevelt's running mate, California. Control of the legislature in New Jersey is said to be in the hands of the choice of Governor Wilson's successor in the gubernatorial chair, and the choice of William Hughes as toward to succeed Senator Briggs (Rep.). Democrats Gain Three Governors. In the twenty-nine states electing governors, the Democrats got only 10, but maintained their own, according to late returns, but overthrew majorities in three states—Illinois, Missouri and Nebraska—in which Republicans were in control. In addition the election of a Democrat to succeed Wilson in New Jersey was assured. The constitutionally-adjacent grant of the legislature was adopted by Michigan voters. Frank J. O'Hair (Dem.) is victor over former Speaker Joseph C. Cannon for congress in the Eighteenth Illinois district by 511 plurality. Missouri. St. Louis, Nov. 7.—Missouri, the "mysterious stranger" for eight years in the Republican ranks, scrambled back into the "solid south" line. Both national and Democratic state tickets were carried in an election at 100,000. For the first time in its history, St. Louis went Democratic on a national ticket, electing Democratic national state and city officers. Returns from 1,570 of the 3,200 precincts in the state gave Wilson 155,546; Taft, 100,914; Roosevelt, 58,448. For governor, Major (Dem.), 143,152; McKinley (Rep.), 73,939; Norton (Prog.), 13,453. Of the sixteen Missouri Republicans to be elected, only two Congressmen were returned to office. They are Richard Bartholdt in the Tenth and L. C. Dyer in the Twelfth district. The First, Third, Eleventh, Eleventh, Fourteenth and Fifteenth, the only others, from which definite returns have been received, returned Democrats. South Dakota. Sioux Falls, Nov. 7.—From scattering returns from about half of the 1,653 precincts in South Dakota Roosevelt has a small lead over Wilson and the result seems in doubt, although Roosevelt claims to carry the state by 5,000. Byrne (Rep.) has a slight lead over Johnson (Prog.) for governor. Congressmen Burke, Secord and Dyer, and Senator Fairbank, Republican, appear to be re-elected. C. H. Dillon (Prog.), in the First district, seems to have won. The legislature is in doubt. Kansas. Topeka, Nov. 7.—Colonel Roosevelt's lead in Kansas was greatly reduced by late returns. Returns mostly from city districts from 425 precincts complete and 180 more incomplete out of 2,200 give Wilson 128,000; Taft, 24,581; Taft, 14,547; Stubbs (Rep.) for United States senator, 12,693; Thompson (Dem.), 9,320; Capper (Rep.), for governor, 11,521; Hodges (Dem.), 4,819. Wyoming. Cheyenne, Nov. 7.—Returns indicate Warren (Rep.) for governor has a five and Kendrick (Dem.) thirty-four members of the legislature. Three counties yet to hear from are claimed by the Republicans. Return of the

HOW THE EARTH DRIES. And Why the Drying Up Process is "Continued" by "Drying Up." Which water is decoupled by radium or by ultra violet rays it produces hydrogen and peroxide of hydrogen, and it does not form oxygen. Electrolytic decomposition forms oxygen. A German investigator bases a new theory relating to the drying of the earth on the fact that one form of decomposition—produces oxygen, while the other form does not. Part of the water vapor emitted by the sea is decomposed by the ultra violet rays of the sun. The hydrogen formed rises toward the high atmospheric strata, and all the water does not return to the surface. Therefore the quantity of water on the face of the globe is always diminishing, and the earth is, incessantly, if gradually, drying. To cite one example: On the north side of the Alps occur a continual falling off in the depth of the lakes and a gradual formation of swamps. Two hundred and fifty years ago there were 148 lakes in the canton of Zurich. Today there are seventy-six. The destruction of the forests and the cultivation of the land partially explain this, but the loss of hydrogen is an important factor. The hydrogen accumulated in the higher atmosphere is diffused in interstellar space—Harper's Weekly.

Homelessness Spoils Photographs. Aunt Maria thought, and so did I a New York relative, that the photographs were unimportantly discarded. For three successive days he refused to take Aunt Maria's photograph. On the fourth day he got why? "In justice to her," he said. "I do not want to take her picture now. She is too homesick! Most out of town people used to be photographed while in New York. If they are longing for home I put them off with one excuse or another until the homesickness wears off. "If you want your aunt's pictures to turn out well just hunt up one from her home town; who happens to be visiting in New York at present and bring him here so she will meet him unexpectedly. The meeting will put sparkle and animation into her face, and neither she nor I will be disappointed with the photographs."—New York Times.

REPORTED THE WEDDING. The Dramatic Critic Got the Job and Did the Best He Could. In the absence of the regular society reporter the dramatic critic of the Daily Dining was detailed to cover a wedding. "If I do the best I can," he said, "but I feel sure I shall make a mess of it." This is what he turned in, omitting nothing and saying about the size of the house and the delay in beginning the performance: "Mr. Barker, in the role of the bridegroom, acted the part in a stiff yet

LETTER TO HERALD FROM BINGHAM, UTAH

A communication from Mrs. Pile to the Herald left Bingham, Utah, September 25, and reached Wayne October 30, having been on the way over a month.

Editor of Wayne Herald: Ever since I became settled here I have deferred it for one thing and another until today.

When I reached Salt Lake one month ago, I found I could remain in that city or come out here. I chose Bingham for two reasons: The first was, because Bingham is one of the greatest mining camps in America.

The other reason was my work would be just what I like to do. I assure you I do not regret the choice I have made, although I am in the midst of a "great strike."

From the letters I have had from friends, both east and west, you seem to know, or think you know, more about what is going on than is really happening.

However, enough is to cause. A description of this place and its allied interests will be more interesting.

The Standard Oil Co. owns about sixty per cent of the stock and this is a good way to freeze out the other stockholders.

High on the banks of Firth Mir. one of the snow clad giant Himalayas of Central are the old mines where opium is found.

"On my arrival five or six men with bloodshot eyes and faces covered with yellow dust crawled out. Although not injurious to health, the opium, I was told, affected the hands of the miners in a peculiar way.

"In the farther corner there was what looked like a well, and toward this my guide led me. Following his example, I sat on the floor and held myself down face foremost in this dark and narrow hole.

"I felt my legs swinging in space. A hand grasped one foot, pulled it to a rock and I let myself down on solid earth. I was in another chamber, smaller than the first and stiffer. But still there was no equipment.

"A hole appeared to lead away in a downward direction from the farther end of the chamber, and on our way to see it, I was met by my guide cheerfully told me that this was the grave of eight men, who had been buried under this fall of stone while working on this part of the passage.

"The air was foul and full of sulphurous dust. If it had been possible to turn round and retreat I think I should have done so. After traversing forty feet, which seemed as many miles, in this pitiful manner we reached another chamber, in which it was possible to sit up.

"Here at last was the opium, and it was almost worth the trouble of coming to see. Except where the roof was blackened by our torches - the miners do their work in the dark for the sake of pure air - the walls of the mine were here and there strewed with pieces of gold and rubies.

"The excitement in relation to the great discovery of oil and coal in this vicinity is increasing rapidly, not only here but abroad. It is natural that great interest is felt, as it is the first coal bed of paying thickness and quality thus far discovered in the state.

Yours truly, MRS. PILE, Bingham, Utah, September 28, 1912.

WHY MEN FAIL.

Omaha Trade Exhibit: Sometimes because they are rascals, but more often from one or more of these reasons: Over-smartness; unwillingness to labor hard; want of energy; lack of energy; lack of principle; undue haste to get rich; want of punctuality; incorrect views of the great end and aim of life; idleness; shirking of hard work; giving undue attention to affairs outside of regular business; a desire to take things easy; want of a thorough knowledge of business; lack of energy; trying beyond one's means; going into business too young; fast living - bodily, mentally, spiritually; dishonesty in little things, as well as great; lack of attention to details; having no definite object; disposition to float down stream rather than row up; lack of appreciation of the golden opportunities of life; mistakes in choice of employment; too many lions in the fire; lack of judgment in giving credit; unwillingness to begin at the foot of the ladder and climb.

High on the banks of Firth Mir. one of the snow clad giant Himalayas of Central are the old mines where opium is found. Opium is a fleshy, glutinous, a compound of arsenic, lead and sulphur, the basis of certain beautiful yellow pigments, the surpimentum of the ancients.

"The holes through which the mines are entered are in the face of precipitous rock and are reached by a narrow, downward sloping ledge. They were about large enough for a hrena to walk into without inconvenience.

"On my arrival five or six men with bloodshot eyes and faces covered with yellow dust crawled out. Although not injurious to health, the opium, I was told, affected the hands of the miners in a peculiar way. That was obvious enough. The hands of many of the men I saw were shrunken to the bone, of a dark slaty color and covered with knots and excrescences.

"In the farther corner there was what looked like a well, and toward this my guide led me. Following his example, I sat on the floor and held myself down face foremost in this dark and narrow hole.

THE EARLY DAYS IN TWO COUNTIES.

From the Wayne Herald-Tribune, November 5, 1885: Rev. J. G. Travis has accepted a call to the pastorate of the Baptist church. Invitations are issued for the first social dance of the season at the rink. L. Newton stocks the pond on his farm northeast of Wayne with German carp.

From Ponca Journal, November 13, 1879: Judge Barnes, D. Hurley and E. M. Bisbee started yesterday morning for Omaha to attend the trial before the United States court of the railroad bond case in which Dixon county is interested.

It appears from the official canvass of the votes of this county so far as county officers are concerned, the following persons were elected: A. Drager for commissioner; E. M. Bisbee for clerk; D. Hupley for treasurer; W. C. Smith for county judge; E. H. Jones for sheriff; A. C. Palmer for school superintendent; George O. Lanpher for surveyor and J. U. LaFollette for coroner.

There being, according to the vote on state officers, a democratic majority of twelve in this county, it follows that in the election of county officers, party lines were not strictly regarded by either party.

At this time next year, our railroad will have been changed into a standard gauge, and the cars will be running past this town either on the South creek and Daily valleys, or up the Aoway through Newcastle. Whichever the route may be, this town will no longer be its termination, but the railroad will run through the county and be of great benefit to it.

Professor Aughey, the state geologist, who was written to, has not yet arrived but will, as we learn, be here some time this week, for the purpose of interviewing and investigating our great coal discovery.

From Ponca Journal, November 23, 1880: The train ran off the track yesterday morning at this place, and it took about three hours and an unusual quantity of labor to get it back again.

The popular meat market of Skinner & McDonald has now several magnificent deer, which it is to be supposed are designed for Thanksgiving.

Harness and Collar Talk THE ONLY HARNESS THAT WILL GIVE ABSOLUTE SATISFACTION IS ONE SEWED BY HAND... the old-fashioned way and made of pure oak-tanned leather tanned by PURE CHESSNUT OAK BARK. Such harness wears longer than any two sets made by a machine. Likewise collars. My collars are manufactured from the best pure oak tanned collar leather and sewed with pure oak-tanned thong. As a result the sewing does not give away and it does not become necessary for you to have them repaired after a few months' service. 1913 Models of the Indian Motorcycles.

Following the "14 Important Improvements" of 1912, the Heude Manufacturing company announce no less than a dozen additional new features in their 1913 model of the Indian Motorcycle.

By far the most significant feature of the new machine is the cradle spring frame. It is something entirely new, a radical departure from the conventional bicycle and recent motorcycle systems of "springing." Briefly the new device consists of the application to the rear wheel of the Indian Cradle Spring device as used on the front fork for the past three years.

Extending back horizontally from the frame joint, cluster under the saddle, flanking the rear mud guard, are two leaf Chrome Vanadium steel springs. The "C" shaped curbs at the rear end of these springs are connected by stays to bell cranks on which the rear axle is hung. The forward end of the rear fork has a hinge joint which enables the rear wheel to yield to imperfections of road surface. All shocks are completely absorbed by the leaf springs. The rear wheel can go through almost any vertical motion without affecting the body of the machine. There is no "bottom" to this spring device. The life of the machine is greatly increased. The engineering department of the Heude Manufacturing Co. devoted eighteen months of exhaustive test to the cradle spring frame before finally deciding on its adoption for all models of the 1913 Indian.

In addition to the cradle spring frame the 1913 Indian embodies ten other important improvements which will be appreciated by motorcycle riders in general. Prices remain the same as last year.

New style, single-cinch rims; larger tires; wider mud guards front and rear with larger splashers; casing for upper stretch of transmission chain and carry sprocket; larger luggage carrier in rear, fitted to all models; foot rests, as well as pedals, fitted to regular 4 h. p. and 7 h. p. models; foot brake lever fitted on left side now operates hand brake as well as the pedal action; larger size multiple disc clutch now fitted to all models alike; improved Indian type saddle.

STATE NORMAL NEWS.

President Conn will attend a meeting of the board which will be in session at Omaha on November 7.

The Crescent Literary will give a program in the chapel on Friday evening, November 8. The public is invited.

Principal Morris Brakeneyer of the Lincoln schools, registered last night and will carry in absentia, the advanced work in the department.

President Conn, Dean Haba, Dr. Edna Professor Luckey, Miss Kingsley, Miss Fairchild, Miss Stocking and Miss Bettcher are attending the State Teachers' association in Omaha this week.

The Philomathean literary society gave a program in the chapel last night. The meeting was held in every particular, attendance, quality of program and interest in the work.

Miss Stella Trego of Plainville, in a student. Miss Trego has been a student in the Fremont Normal school and also in Morning-side college.

The First Normal team will go to Norfolk Friday and meet the Norfolk high school in a game of football. Norfolk is a fast team and the game will doubtless be an interesting one.

The Normal male quartet received many calls to fill engagements in different parts of the state. On Saturday evening, November 9, it will give a musicale at Wakefield.

The first issue of the school paper for the year made its appearance last Saturday. It is a 20-page magazine with an attractive cover, and devoted to the interests of the school.

The management is to be congratulated upon the success of the first number.

The first social event of the Sophomore class took place at the gymnasium Saturday evening, November 2. The aim of this party was to give the members of the class an opportunity to get better acquainted.

The girls were prepared to entertain and were assisted by a great crew, who worked out a number of interesting things. A very laudable debate took place between the boys and girls on the subject, "Resolved, That the Boys of the Sophomore Class are Better Looking than the Girls."

Refreshments were served and fortunes and funny stories told a program was at the table. The party ended with every one enthusiastic for the sophomore.

The following report of Saturday's game was reported by Coach F. E. Martin: "By a score of 27 to 14 the Wayne State Normal football team defeated the Wayne team in the game of football."

The Wayne team was composed of the following players: Left-half Gilmerleece of Wayne was the star of the day.

Ending the aggressive play of the Wayne left line he ducked and dodged through a broken field and oftentimes reached the safety man before he was checked.

Wayne's success was due to Leitz and Wenko. The Wayne ends, who successfully handled many difficult forward passes.

On defense Mines and Jacobson were a tower of strength, stopping the heavy Negish backs, without gain. One feature of the game was the clean sportsmanlike conduct of the players of both teams.

A BONE IN THE THROAT.

Lemon Juice, It is Said, Will Quickly Melt Away.

Sitting at a table, had dinner, a laughing glow drew a bone into his throat, and he began to struggle.

Some one suggested that the sufferer swallow a lump of dry bread. "Oh, no!" exclaimed one man. "Don't give him bread. It might catch the bone, and it might not. Give him something that is sure to give relief."

"Well, Joe," said one, "how about it?" "It's gone," was the reply. "The bone has slipped down."

"Not exactly that," said the man who suggested it. "The bone slipped down all right, but it was melted first by the juice. I can assure you that a dash of a substance. You can test the power of lemon juice by dropping some on the fishbones you may have lying on your plate."

In each case the acid reduced the bone to a soft pulp, which could be easily swallowed.

THE WEEK WITH THE CHURCHES.

St. Paul's Lutheran Church. (Rev. J. Kuhn, Pastor). Services next Sunday at 11 o'clock and Sunday school at 10.

St. Mary's Catholic Church. (Rev. William Keenan, Pastor). Mass at 8:30 a. m. Sunday. Sunday school at the school at 9:30 and benediction at 7:30 in the evening.

German Evangelical Lutheran. (Rev. J. H. Karpenstein, Pastor). Services at 11 o'clock Sunday morning. The sermon will treat on the Reformation topic. Following the services, the Lord's Supper will be administered. Sunday school at 10 o'clock.

First Methodist Church. (Rev. William Gorst, Pastor). The rally day program, "Loyalty," rendered last Sunday evening, proved very attractive. It drew a large and appreciative congregation.

The church school board and the official board will meet in joint session this evening. Also the choir meets at the same hour and is particularly interested this week that all the members shall attend—partly because of the nearness of the time when the evangelistic campaign will begin—big Sunday evening, November 17.

There will be preaching services both morning and evening next Sunday. The morning theme will be announced at the time. The theme for evening is "Onward to the March 31, 1913."

Evangelist Lininger will be in Wayne to begin November 17.

First Baptist Church. (Rev. B. P. Richardson, Pastor). Worship and preaching 10:45 Sunday morning. The subject of the sermon will be "The Prayer of the Master."

We were glad to greet so many of our members last Sunday morning at communion. It was a joy to see the young people take their stand for Christ on Sunday night. A spirit of revival seems already present. In another article there is a full account of our coming revival and the names of the various committees. We are sure the different brethren will give a hearty response to this call.

On Sunday, the pastor's class, taught by Professor Lewis, Professor Howe will be present and discuss some vital aspects of the social gospel. We wish a large number of our men would hear him.

The young people's session met at 6:30 and preaching at 7:30. The subject of the evening sermon was for Christ on Sunday night.

Let us all keep up our hearts the burden of the coming revival and be prepared to throw ourselves into it with all our might.

Presbyterian Church. (Rev. Alexander Corkey, Pastor). Morning services at the Presbyterian church both morning and evening will be preparatory to the evangelistic meetings which begin on November 17.

In the evening the pastor will preach from the text, "O Lord, Revive Thy Work."

The Sunday school begins at 10 a. m. and the church service at 11 o'clock. The Junior next at 3 and the C. E. society at 7:30. The evening service begins at 8:30.

The Women's Missionary society meets on Thursday afternoon, November 14, at the home of Mrs. Shulteis, the pastor's home.

Leaders are Mrs. Ferguson and Crawford. Roll call will be from the home. Let us bring the topics will be Latin-America and the Frontier. There will also be a short mission study conducted by the pastor.

There will be a preaching service next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the M. E. Church on Wayne—west of town.

The Social Circle of the young people's horizon has joined the welfare society in purchasing a number of chairs to be used in the school-house for the preaching service and on other social occasions. The recent Sunday services have taxed the seating capacity of the school house. Ensign Young assists in these services as volunteer.

NEW HEATING PLANT.

An inspection of the new hot water heating plant installed in the Union hotel by A. G. Grunmeyer, local plumber, gives proof of a high order of workmanship.

It is the American Radiator system, and said to be the only one of its kind installed in Wayne perfectly, heating every part of the building evenly, easily regulated according to the temperature of the weather. The thirty rooms and all halls have radiators. Three radiators warm the hotel office. The bath room is supplied with an automatic expansion tank, and is made conventional and first class in all respects. The superior level sectional boiler, with what is called a Honeywell heat generator attached, is used. A. G. Grunmeyer, proprietor of the hotel, and Mr. Grunmeyer, plumber, are well satisfied with the system and justify proud of it.

ANNUAL SHOOT.

The shoot at Meadow Grove between the Wayne Club and Meadow Grove Gun club proved a victory for the Meadow Grove club by eight birds.

The result of the annual shoot for northeastern Nebraska, held here last month, follows:

Events No. 1 and 2 were not shot on account of the fact that the number to enter would not justify the club to put up a purse, and it was the intention of the manager to put a purse on the last day, but the time would not permit.

They Tell a Different Story. There are peculiarities of our English language which no other language exhibits. Did you ever notice how many English words are formed by simply dropping the first letter? For example, wheat, heat, eat; sham, ham; awe, wheel, heel, eel; whale, hale, ale; and scores of others?

Again, we have the habit of joining two words, which—joined together—make a distinct word of an entirely different meaning. Just as a single word disintegrated does. Thus the words "sincerely" and "sincerely" are pronounced "sincerely." To illustrate:

Your letter came in words that tempt me to write you. I am sure you will be glad to hear you wrote them: sweet, most truly and sincerely yours.

The Best Pose, as a Rule, Is For the Three-quarter Face.

How few few people really know how to sit for a photograph. Every face has its weak points, and these unfortunately have a way of cropping out in a picture and ruining the effect. Of course a photograph should be absolutely artistic, but at the same time, no matter how good a face in a hundred has features perfect enough to produce a satisfactory photograph in profile, for this pose brings any little defects into the foreground.

For full face picture a sitter must possess the eyes above all things. If they are good, the pose will be a success, even if the other features are lacking in beauty.

If one has any pronounced defects to hide, the three-quarter face is really the happiest way to be photographed. This position emphasizes the charms of the beautiful and tones down the irregularities of the plain face.

It is never well to be photographed in a hat distinctly modern style, for in a year or so the fashion will be ruined by the old-fashioned headscarf. But a picture hat—such as those worn by the Gainsborough women—makes a most picturesque setting for a beautiful face, and thus of course is never out of fashion—London answers.

Business Men Must Act with the Farmer. Some Common Sense Advice Addressed to Men of Common Sense. (Campbell's Scientific Farmer.) There is much talk just now about a closer union between the business men of the towns and small cities and the farmers and vintners, together in behalf of their common sense.

Business Men Must Act with the Farmer. Some Common Sense Advice Addressed to Men of Common Sense. The plain, economic fact is that there is a community of interest between the country man and the town man in developing the country and town. Whatever increases the population of a town adds to the farmer's market. Whatever improves the condition of the country adds to the possibilities of the town for growth and development.
