strains of a virolo added to the enjoyment of the guests. Refreshments of ice cream, cake and minis were served.

Twenty ladies of Wilbur precinct were invited to the home of Mrs. John McIntyre last Thursday to spend the day. After a sumptuous dinner the afternoon was devoted to sewing for the hostess. A prize was awarded to the lady making the best button holes. Mrs. Hollenbeck was the winner. The ladies organized a society to meet every two weeks, the next meeting to be held at the home of Mrs. Anderson. At 5 o'clock the ladies departed feeling that they had spent a delightful day.

THINGS DESERVING PUBLIC ATTENTION

In calling attention to important improvements made in Wayne the last few years, the Herald has never inadvertently overlooked the Nebraska Telephone company which spent $25,000 for a new system of telephones. Its completion last January gave to Wayne the latest and best facility for telephone communication, and people appreciate it. The passing of the old system was the passing of another village reminder.

In the line of things needing attention in Wayne, the Herald's attention is directed to the hill at the north entrance to town. It is said this hill is higher and more of a nuisance than any within a radius of five miles. It is farther said the county is ready with the cash to cooperate with the city in lowering the grade and making travel into the town from the north less of a burden. If it is the duty of the city to attack and subdue the hill in question, the progressive mayor and council can no doubt be depended on to do it. Every barrier to easy access to the town ought to be removed as far as possible.

Groping in the dark two nights last week when the city lights were off in order to make repairs stimulated appreciation of electric service, and emphasized the importance of replacing with new equipment the worn out plant before it is ready for the junk heap. To attempt to move around and do things with the aid of a feeble burning taper arouses slumbering senses to duly appreciate a modern improvement.

The Herald is informed that many inquiries for toolkits, picturing and describing Wayne and vicinity, have been received from time to time. This demand ought to be met. When the executive committee of the commercial club issues from inertia and renews its vigor, it may be expected to consider this matter with other things.

POSTOFFICE IN ITS IMPROVED QUARTERS

The postoffice was moved into its newly fitted quarters on Main street Saturday night, and has since been doing business there. For a few days previous patrons had submitted to the rather intellectual process of learning the combinations of their boxes. These were soon mastered. There are no call boxes and therefore there is no jostling procession in front of the delivery window after the distribution of mail. There are boxes enough for all. People thoroughly appreciate the new fixtures, and the large, well lighted lobby.

There is a growing demand for Sunday distribution of mails as handled by the express. It is understood this ruling grants the privilege of not delivering mail Sundays, but does not make refusal to do so imperative. As understood, such service is optional with the postmaster, and in that event, the popular demand is likely to be gratified.

HARD TIMES SOCIAL.
What is termed a "Hard Times Social" is to be given on Wednesday evening of next week at the residence of H. S. Winters, six miles northwest of Wayne, to raise money with which to buy seats for the McEachen schoolhouse. Religious meetings are held at the school house and there are not enough seats to accommodate the usual crowd. Comfortable, folding chairs will be bought. The worthy purpose of the social should attract liberal support. Besides helping a deserving cause, all who attend are guaranteed a good time.

TWENTY-FOUR HEAD OF ANIMALS BURNED

FERESH IN BARN AT TEKAMAH
Granary and Contents Also Destroyed by Fire on Farm of Late Congressman Latta.

Tekamah, Neb., November 20.—This morning about 3 o'clock a large barn on one of the farms of the late Congressman James P. Latta was destroyed by fire. The barn is located on the north farm, about seven miles north of Tekamah. When the fire was discovered by the occupants of the house, the roof was ready to fall in. Ten head of mules and fourteen head of horses and colts were burned to death. In addition, the combination corn crib and granary was consumed. It was about 4,000 bushels of corn and about the same amount of wheat. The principal granary of the Lattas was on the south farm, a half mile distant. In that was stored all their fall wheat crop. There was insurance on nothing except the barn. No cause can be assigned for the fire unless it was the carelessness of some one smoking around the barn. The ranch is under the active management of "Boor" Latta, the youngest of the two sons left by the late Mr. Latta.

CLOSE OF REGULAR SESSION OF COURT

NUMBER OF CASES DISPOSED OF
Appeal Bond Filed in Case of State vs. George Martin—Other Cases Tried—Adjournment.

The district court concluded its session yesterday when the jury was dismissed. The case of the state and city against Simon Gorham, charged with absconding, was the last jury trial. The jury pronounced Gorham guilty. In the case of the state vs. Paul and William Bruckner who were charged with rioting and abusing an officer at Hobbs, the jury returned a verdict of guilty. A motion for a new trial has been filed and will be heard by Judge Wickham next Saturday. In the case of the state vs. George Martin who was convicted on one of three counts charging illegal sale of liquor, the defendant was on Saturday fined $200 by the court, and thereupon filed an appeal bond and was released. In the state vs. Charles Mass, who was charged with assault, the jury dispersed after having been out for thirty-six

B. F. CORZINE DROPS DEAD AT NOON TODAY

B. F. Corzine dropped dead from heart trouble at his home in this city shortly after noon today. He had been suffering from heart disease for about a year, though he had been around town as usual until yesterday. He was lying down at noon and when he attempted to get up, he suddenly fell and expired. Dr. J. J. Williams was summoned, but on his arrival he found Mr. Corzine beyond medical aid. Mr. Corzine came to Wayne from Pierce about three years ago. He had farmed in the Pierce vicinity. He leaves a wife, two sons and one daughter. He had been under treatment at hospitals and at home for the trouble which resulted fatally. He was a good citizen, and his large circle of friends will keenly regret his departure, and sympathize with the sorrowing family. Funeral arrangements have not as yet been made.

SCHOOL NOTES.

Examinations today and tomorrow. Attendance is very good. Mrs. Theobald and Miss Babcock were recent visitors.

Mr. Henkel has hung the storm window on the west and north sides of the building and now it is ready for the cold winter days.

The Hopkins teachers visited the Wayne schools on last Friday afternoon.

Thanksgiving program will be given on Wednesday afternoon of next week. The Juniors gave the following program last Friday morning with Fern Oman presiding: Biography of Woodrow Wilson by Irwin Sears; biography of Theodore Roosevelt by Hattie Cook; violin solo by Esther Johnson; current events by Nellie Gustafson.

Miss Bechel and Everett Raymond made a beautiful drawing on the board in the high school room appropriate to the Thanksgiving season.

On Thanksgiving day Wakefield will play football against the Wayne high school team on the Wayne field. A good game is assured.

On Tuesday Miss Bechel showed the high school folks an exhibit of drawing and art work from the public schools of Turlic Creek, Penn. All enjoyed the exhibit very much.

Mr. Lingren speaks to high school. On Wednesday morning the high school students and teachers enjoyed an address by Mr. Lingren, the evangelist. Mr. Lingren took for his theme "Neglect not the Gift Within You," saying that every person is endowed with the possibility of doing something worth while. He told his audience that today each person is what he wants or will be. He divided all people into three classes—the Wills, the Wont's and the Cant's and asked every one to quickly put himself in the proper class. The speaker said that the reason people fail is that they really have no ambition or desire to succeed. Success, he said, is temper, cant, inspiration and ninety per cent perspiration, and genius is at least ninety per cent hard work. Too many people want maximum pay and minimum work. Mr. Lingren gave concrete examples showing that great achievements are the result of long and hard work.

Lastly the speaker made a plea for higher standards of manhood among the young men of our land. He told the girls that the standard of manhood determined by what they demand it to be, and urged the young women to help the men raise the standard by demanding a higher, nobler, cleaner and more manly manhood.

Members of the volunteer fire department met in the city hall Tuesday evening and talked over plans to further the organization. It is proposed to divide the department into two sections—a hook and ladder company and a hose company. By-laws will be adopted in due time, and everything done to organize and equip a full fledged fire department. Another meeting has been called for next Tuesday evening.

Mrs. S. A. Mick of South Sioux City, visited friends in Wayne yesterday being twice going to Carroll in the evening where she spent a day with her Will Mick and family.

The jury trying the action in which some boys were charged with snobbaling Henry Wesselschmidt, was unable to agree and was discharged. It is said the balloting showed eleven for acquittal and one for conviction, and the one who held for conviction to the rule is quoted as saying that he never before saw eleven so stubborn.

The action grew out of the snobbaling of Wesselschmidt by a lot of boys last February. It is estimated that the costs in the case thus far amount to in the neighborhood of $300.

The suit of Dr. W. C. Wightman vs. Patrick Coleman for $200.00, was tried by a jury, and resulted in a verdict of $121.29 for the plaintiff.

In the case of Dan Martin vs. H. L. Harmer, alleging breach of contract and damages, the jury found for the defendant.

tractive location for the hopes of an ambitious young lawyer, and accordingly he pitched camp there. He has served two terms as county attorney, and is now promoted to the district judgeship. He has always been an enthusiastic democrat and always took an active part in politics. Many Wayne people remember him and are pleased to hear of his success.

The Yellowstone Monitor, published at Glendive, makes the following editorial comment on the election of Mr. Hurley:

The vote received this week by C. C. Hurley for district judge must have been a good deal of a surprise and gratification to him as far as the Clatsop county ballot was concerned. But it is easily explained. When Judge Sanner received the nomination over Mr. Hurley four years ago, Mr. Hurley did not develop a "forehead" but turned to with a vim and worked for Mr. Sanner, the result being that the latter was elected by a large majority. Clatsop county democrats no doubt remembered the generous work of Mr. Hurley at that time and gave him their solid support. He has been and always will be a generous campaigner, and his wide experience, expert technical legal knowledge, and large sense of human justice will assure the people that Dawson county's first judge will be a shining light of the bench, not only in Dawson county, but throughout the entire Treasure state. Mr. Hurley has been long recognized as an authority on criminal law, one of the most important branches of jurisprudence, and his decisions on the bench will carry the weight of authority and common sense, the latter being the quality that governs all equitable decisions. There will generally be few exceptions taken from Judge Hurley's decisions. His election is an honor to the people of both counties comprising the judicial district, but especially to the residents of Dawson, where the judge has lived so long, and gained the position of one of its leading and most respected citizens.

FORMER WAYNE MAN IS ELECTED JUDGE

C. C. Hurley who was a member of the first graduating class of the Wayne college, now state normal, was elected district judge on the democratic ticket in Montana at the late election. Mr. Hurley came from Hall county to attend the school established by J. M. File. After graduating with the first class of 1902, Mr. Hurley taught school for a number of years. He was at the head of the school at Osmond and later at Newman Grove. Then he went to Lincoln to take a course in law. Following graduation from the law department in 1908, he decided to go west. While figuring on a suitable place to hang out his shingle as a lawyer, he taught school one year in Idaho. Glendive, Mont., appeared to be an at-

Hon. George Copeland of Elgin, one of the regents of the state university, was in Wayne the first of the week in consultation with State Senator P. H. Kohl and Representative Henry Bartels over proposed legislation for removal of the state university to the state farm.

Mr. Copeland is very much in favor of moving the university to the state farm, and is making an active effort to accomplish that end.

L. A. Fanske who has been engaged in the jewelry business in Wayne for three years, has this week moved into the newly fitted Kohl building first door south of Ahern's store, and in such new quarters he is able to arrange and display his growing stock of goods to better advantage. He found his former location too small for his increasing business. His new location has been repainted and repaired and has been made neat and attractive. His room, like the stock he carries, will be found modern and up-to-date.

Mr. Fanske is a progressive business man, and his friends are pleased to note his enterprise and success.

ABERN-GEARY WEDDING.

At St. Mary's church yesterday morning at 8:30, in the presence of a circle of friends and well-wishers, W. J. Geary gave in marriage his youngest daughter, Miss Frances Geary, to William Ahern of the Carroll vicinity. Rev. Kauffman performing the ceremony with high mass. The bride was becomingly gowned in a dress of white voile, trimmed with dainty lace and embroidery and wore a tulle veil, and carried an arm bouquet of white carnations and ferns. She was attended by her sister, Miss Marjorie Geary, and the groom by his brother, John Ahern. After congratulations, the bridal party went to the home of the bride where at 2 o'clock a delicious course wedding dinner was served. Mrs. and Mr. Ahern left in the evening for Carroll, near which place the young couple are residing.

EDWIN R. CHACE DIES AT HOME IN STANTON

Edwin Ruthven Chace was born at East Clinton, O., June 7, 1832, and died at Stanton, Neb., November 15, 1912. He was united in marriage to Polly Smith on November 30, 1851. In the year 1855 they were moved to Nebraska and settled near Independence, Mo., where they bought a farm from the government for $1.25 per acre. In the year 1859 they moved to Missouri, locating near Golden City, again engaging in farming and stock raising. From there, in 1883, they moved to Wayne, Neb., where for a time Mr. Chace was engaged in the hardware business, but at the early age of 53 retired from business. In the year 1895 he, with his wife, moved to Stanton, Neb., where they made their home until the time of his death.

He is survived by his wife and seven children: Cheney A. of Wayne, Neb.; Charles H., James R., Mrs. Anna McLeod, Mrs. Amanda Preece and Nathan all of Stanton, and Mrs. May Miller of Mont Falls, S. D.

The funeral was held at the family residence Sunday afternoon, November 17. The rooms were filled with friends gathered to pay their last respects. In the afternoon the front parlor lay the body in an easy manner upon a couch.

The beautiful floral decorations contributed by friends gave a marked tribute to his memory. Rev. J. J. Klapp of the Congregational church, conducted the service, assisted by Rev. John Fowler of the M. E. church. The music was furnished by a quartet composed of Professor J. H. Welch, Mrs. George Eberly, Mrs. Freiday and Bron Baer. The familiar hymns, "Nearer My God is This," "Glorious Day the Spirit Came Will Break," and "Abide With Me" were rendered in a very touching manner.

Rev. Fowler in characteristic style offered a choicely worded prayer in which he paid a fitting testimonial to the departed.

A "Tribute of Love" from the family was read by Rev. Klapp, as follows: "Father is gone; gone to that place from whence no traveler ever returns. But his life yet lives. His influence will remain with us and be imparted by us to future generations. We will miss his happy, pleasing way and his kind voice that has been stilled by that grim reaper, death, to whom all life is prone. In every walk of life he will be missed. The young, the old, the rich, the poor, alike will mourn his departure. Between poverty and plenty he drew no lines. His standards were based upon the highest perfection of manhood. In point of manhood he had no peers. For more than eighty years he built a manhood that now stands as a monument to defiance of the elements, and leaves it to us as a legacy, a pride in which we share alike.

"It may fittingly be said, that he was cautious, charitable and brave; generous, gracious and wise, possessed of a mature temper as of the finest steel, which was controlled by a heart of kindness and a mind almost unerring in its sense of justice. He valued honor as the choicest of virtues—his motto was as his synonym. Yes, we will miss his mark, but as our pretensions are of naught, and the wisdom of his taking we cannot question; we can but return thanks that he was spared to us a half score of years longer than the accepted allotted time of man. A spirit he returned to his Giver. He no longer suffers, but rests in peace, that sweet peace that has no ending."

"As a kind and patient father, a faithful and good husband we will ever revere his memory."

Following this, Rev. Klapp announced his text, "We all do fade as a leaf." The speaker won the hearts of his hearers by the able and pleasing manner in which he handled his subject. He pictured the analogy between nature and revelation; and between human life and the faded leaf, and said in part:

"The faded leaf suggests the brevity of life. How short the life of the leaf. For a few short months it lifts its beauty to the light. It throws its protecting shadow over the sunny pillars and offers its cool retreat to the happy birds that warble their heavenly inspired songs among the waving tree tops. But then the leaf fades. It loses its grip upon the bough and drops to the earth to die. Thus with life, how short our time! It is as a faded leaf's breadth. It is as the grass or the flower of the field. It is as the cloud that passeth over us and is gone."

In speaking of the frailty and uncertainty of the leaf being fraught with danger from the elements, he compared it with life in the following manner: "So with life; it is exposed to many a danger; it lives in a world of uncertainties. We cannot say what a day may bring forth. Perhaps before sunrise shall bathes light in the shadows of the western hills, some of us shall stand encircled by the dark clouds of some gathering storm and find in death to rise no more."

The speaker then drew the comparison of the mission of life and the mission of the leaf. He referred to the mission of life in these words: "So life has a mission. It is not for ornamentation or decoration. It is for useful service. It is this fact illustrated in the character of our departed brother that now yields him a crown of glory with which he's wreathed in the thought and affection of those who knew him best. Early in life he evidently realized that the greatest thing in the world is usefulness and service. As a husband and father, as a citizen, as a patriot, as a philanthropist, he gave himself in unostentatious service to his age and environment. He sought not honor, nor praise, nor fame, nor even wealth. These were secondary in his thought. To be a man, a many man in every act of his life should reflect a true humanity—this was the primary, the actuating thought of his life. Of his words of the poet may truthfully be said:

"Let me live in my house by the side of the road,

Where the race of men go by, They are good, they are bad, they are weak, they are strong. Wise, foolish, so am I. Then why should I sit in the corners' seat,

Or hurt the cynics' hat? Let me live in my house by the side of the road.

"And be a friend to man."

"It was this spirit that characterized the life of our brother. He was a friend of man. He had built his house by the side of the road where the race of men go by. He performed the duty of a manly man toward the one who was next to him—whether it was wife or children, or citizen, rich or poor, young or old, great or small, servant or master. Thus our brother fulfilled the mission of his life. Whatever his intellectual opinions may have been, his heart was the heart of a brother toward every other man.

Of him it may truthfully be said that he was the highway of the heart he journeyed through this world and the longer distance he has left behind are the contributions of a kind and noble and generous spirit. His interest was in everything that stands for righteousness among men. Honor and truth and fairness and sincerity were virtues that he admired. His children and his children's children rise up to call him blessed. He gave himself unreservedly to those whom he loved most and who by his tie of home had claims upon him. The "Old age, serene and bright, As lovely as a Lapland night Has led him to his grave."

The out of town relatives and friends who attended the funeral were: Mr. William Brady of Sioux City, Mr. Joe Chace of Clearwater, Neb.; Mr. Ed. Chace, Irving, Neb.; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ledy, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Neely, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Moran, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Cunningham and Miss Jane Arnold, all of Wayne; Mr. R. R. Wolford of Fremont, Neb., and Mr. J. T. Wachob of Omaha.

The early settlers of Wayne and Wayne county will be saddened at the news of the death of Mr. E. R. Chace, or "Grandpa Chace," as he was familiarly known. They will recall that he was the first lawyer of Wayne. He took pride in the building up and beautifying of the city. It was during his administration and by his recommendation that trees were planted outside the walks and blue grass sown on the side streets. All who know him will recall his affability. Many it was that he entertained by reminiscing his hunting and fishing trips, and relating experiences in southern Missouri just after the close of the war, and it was always with eagerness that his listeners gave attention. His many friends here will mourn his departure.

Emeline E. Tallman was born in Dutchess county, New York, September 6, 1832, and died in Walthill, Neb., at the home of her daughter, Mrs. C. O. Freeman, November 5, 1912 being aged 80 years and 2 months.

Mrs. Tallman was married to Darius B. Tallman of Saratoga county, N. Y., September 21, 1854. To this union eleven children were born, of whom eight are living. Mr. and Mrs. Tallman moved to Davenport, Ia., and were residents of that state for over forty years. In 1886 they moved to Nebraska where they spent the remainder of their lives. She united with the Baptist church at the early age of 16 years, living a Christian life for over sixty-five years, always ready to give a helping hand and a kind word to those in need, and to know her was to love her.

The floral offerings were many and beautiful. The past year she had been gradually failing, and six weeks before death she was a patient sufferer.

The funeral was held at the home of Mrs. C. O. Freeman in Walthill, Nov. 7. Rev. Pendell officiating. The remains were taken to Wayne, Neb. She was laid to rest by the side of her husband in Greenwood cemetery at 3 o'clock p. m., November 10, 1912. Rev. Gust of the M. E. church had charge of the services at the grave.

FUNERAL OF LATE PETER PRYOR

The funeral of the late Peter Pryor who died in an Omaha hospital November 12, following an operation, took place at St. Mary's church, Wayne, Friday morning, and was attended by a large concourse of sympathizing friends. Solemn requiem mass was celebrated by Rev. William Kearns, assisted by Rev. Walsh of Battle Creek, Rev. J. J. McNamara of Bloomfield, and Rev. Groebel of Randolph. Interment took place in Greenwood cemetery.

The following out-of-town people attended the funeral: J. T. Muldoon and Mike Kelley of Waterloo, Ia., Mrs. K. Edward of Chicago, Ed Carroll of Randolph, Mr. and Mrs. Owen Waad, Mrs. Cordelia, Mrs. McCann and Mr. and Mrs. McKerrigan of Norfolk, Mr. and Mrs. James Stanton, Mr. and Mrs. James Finn, Mr. and Mrs. Tim Collins, Mrs. John Kesterson, Mr. Lohberg and Mr. McCann of Carroll, Mr. and Mrs. E. Overland Model 71 T

Overland Model 69 T

From 400 Cars in 1908 to 40,000 Cars in 1913

UNDER the present ownership and management, the Overland has been before the public just six years. These have been the most trying and bitter years of the industry. The last six years have given birth, growth and expansion to the modern automobile as you see it today, and have determined which cars were to survive the fierce struggle and become permanently established.

During this historical constructive period, the Overland has progressed more rapidly than any other car of its type made. This is important and significant.

In six years we have jumped from 400 cars a year to 40,000 cars a year, an increase of nearly 10,000 per cent. This growth is greater than that of any other single concern in the industry. This growth is greater than the growth of the combined factories of the world. In ten years the entire industry has shown an increase of 3,300 per cent. The United States alone shows an increase of 5,229 per cent; Germany an increase 1,281 per cent; Italy an increase of 483 per cent; United Kingdom an increase of 321 per cent; France an increase of 180 per cent. But our individual increase in six short years has been nearly 10,000 per cent.

In round numbers we made 350 cars in 1908; 4,000 in 1909; 10,000 in 1910; 15,000 in 1911; 25,000 in 1912; and we will make 40,000 cars in 1913. The grand total is almost 100,000 cars, which translated into American money means that the American people have had faith enough to invest over $100,000,000 of their money in this car.

The Overland, by virtue of its unusual rate of implicit confidence, warm appreciation, and exceptional recognition, is today the most prominent, permanent, and popular car of its type produced.

We give these amazing figures to prove the indisputable evidence of our production skill, strength, and economical manufacturing ability. We have done what others could have done—if they had possessed the foresight to realize an opportunity. There are those who are now manufacturing cars, that started five or ten years before we did. They had our opportunity, but failed utterly. Six years ago we knew the secret of automobile success was quantity production. For increased production in any line of business is bound to decrease the selling price.

Big production, growing each year has made it possible for us to increase our car value, and in consequence decrease our retail selling price which accounts for and explains our phenomenal progress. By sheer force of huge production, which was our original conception of capturing the automobile markets of the world, we were able to give each succeeding year more actual car for less actual money than anyone else in the business. This big, broad manufacturing policy resulted in our rapid and remarkable growth.

Take our present 2985 car as a specific case. This car upset the entire industry. When announced abroad the trade stubbornly refused to believe such a car—at such a price—was possible. Jealous European competitors made every possible endeavor to pull it apart in a frantic effort to pick a flaw. But not one could be found, and the result is—we have more European orders alone than we will be able to fill. Of the demand for this car in America, we need hardly say much, except to mention the fact that we are over 8,000 cars behind immediate orders, and have been for over three months.

If you are in the market for a car see this Model of Overland. If you will compare it with others you will be convinced, you will save considerable money. It is a self-starting, thirty horse power, five passenger touring car, magnificently finished, moderately appointed, and completely equipped with every necessary essential. No other maker can give you its equal for a cent less than $1200.

Uncle Walt The Poet Philosopher

When the north wind roars at your cottage doors and batters the window panes, and the cold air forces that it seems to pierce right into your bones and veins, then it's sweet to sit by the fire and knit, and think, while the needles clink of the iron men, of the shining yen, you have in the village bank! When you've lost your job and misfortune robs your face of its wonted grin, when the money goes for your grub and clothes, though there's nothing coming in, when the fates are rough and they kick and cuff and give you a frequent spank, how sweet to think of the bank of chink you have in the village bank! When you're gray and old and your joints are tired and weak and your youth is gone; when you watch and wait at the sunset gate for the boatman grin, and bank, oh, it's nice to know there's a roll of dough all safe in the village bank! The worst, my friend, that the fates can send, is softened for you and yours if you have the price—have the coin on "leg"—the best of all earthly cures; oh, a healthy rad is your staff and rod when the buck seems tough and rank; your consolers then are the iron men you have in the village bank!

they carole and sing, for he always has a story that he's suffering to spring; and his tales are always dreary, so they make his hearers weary, and they wish him in Sibery with his anecdotal string. People dodge old Billy Riddle when he looms up in their view, for he always has a riddle that he wants an answer to; and his riddles are as heavy as the yams of Dad McGorry, and from Boston to Empory people seem to sit by the fire and think of his riddles. People dodge old Huckberry as around the town they go; for his stories are so very—very are of his riddles; oh, he always is complaining how he suffers when he's training, how his tortured there are training, how the wintry blizzards blix. People dodge old Sarah Twister, for she gives them all an ache; she's a tireless shrieking sister, bitty on the suffrage face; wearing out her vocal features she is lecturing the blanchers on the rights of female creatures when she should stay home and bake. People dodge old Peter Peddler; he's severely left alone; for he is a chronic meddler—in affairs which aren't his own; he's a rare old mischief maker, spreading gossip by the acre, he's a bad old scandal raker, and his name makes people groan.

I read some sushine stories advising me to smile, for smiles have charms and glories that make them well worth while. I held a job of clerking at Wax & Bolgers' store, and so, while I was working, I smiled and smiled some more. Oh, I was always beaming in that great mat of trade; my fangs were always gleaming, my gums were well displayed. Then Wax came up and muttered (he seemed as mad as sin): "Oh, keep your face shuttured! Cut out that chastly grin! Our customers are blinded by teeth from ear to ear; a home for ferbie minded they'll think we're running here." And so I started singing as round the store I sped, and Bolger soon was ringing—steel bootlocks at my head. "Cut out that silly laughing! What folks going to the store; they hear your waterwailing and go to come no more!" And then I tried to whistle to show how glad I was, and Wax (who's mostly gristle)—just-soaked me on the jaws. Those people optimistic who write, for telling throngs, their essays eulogistic of smiles and cherry songs, they have a noble calling, and they're sincerely teach, but they would find it galling to practice what they preach.

The country's full of also rans, who tell why they got left; the Peepul guard their little plans, and now they stand bereft. The

THE ALSO the snaps for which they yearned don't come their way at all; the second Peepul rose and turned their pictures to the wall. The holy Peepul, standing pat, a halo o'er each brow, said to their aspirations, "Seat!" and so they're frequent now. They're well-supplied with lids and cans, and they have soup to store; but will the tireless also rans a useful lesson learn? "Will they emerge from snore and mark the doings of the feast, and bravely say: "We'll go to work, and earn our bread and meat!" Will they forsake the idle course of all the statesmen crew, who rant and howl till they are hoarse, and nothing useful do? Will they upon the farm abide and labor as they should, and let the sacred Peepul slide while they are sowing wool? You little know the also rans if you are dreaming thus; already they are forming plans for stirring up a fuss. Again they'll soon be waving flags and tolling with their jaws, distributing the same old gags about the Peepul's cause. The drunkard who for years with gin his play-out tank has warmed, may by the doc be gathered in and by their skill reformed; the dope fiend, when the doctors try, becomes a useful man; but all the docs beneath the sky can't cure an also-ran.

kicks and mourners while the victor sings; but let's forget stale politics and try to think of AFTER THE helpful things. If you mean rears up and tries to thrash the threadbare issues o'er, let's biff him once betwixt the eyes and take him home upon a door. The land the dippy eagle guards without our efforts can make good; let's take the tin cans from the yards, and bank the bonus and whack up wood. Let's see the kids have done gags which to the school house they parade, our old-palladiums, and flags and balwarks do not need our aid. Let's fill our homes with true-delight and see the wives and children laugh, while Freedom on her mountain height is sitting for a photograph. Let's help the wife who daily slaves among herbs and pots and pans, the spangled banner wave above a crowd of also rans. Let's quit this thing of talking big of Vital Themes and People's woes, and give some bedding to the pig-and-put-away-the-garden-hose. Oh, let us for a while be sane and fix the porch and mend the pump, and let the dusty old campaign lie dead and rotting at the dump.

When Paddy Rooley takes his seat and thumps the shining keys, his heart cries: "They can't be beat, such harmonies as these!" THE PIANO Delighted, they applaud and laugh, and gather round his chair, and ask him for his autograph or ringlets of his hair. It is a mad moment, this thing of keys and wires, when handled by an expert gent it beats ten thousand lyres. But when it's played by some galoot who lacks the artist's knack, it's fiercer than the iron bolt, the thumbnails or the rack. Ten million blacksmiths daily pound the keyboard, might and main, and every day the hammer sound above a crowd folks hearse. Such players are the wairdest bunch beneath the sun or moon; regardless of your grief they punch the stuffing from a tune. You may be lying sick in bed, and longing for repose, with plaster casts upon your head and spilitis upon your nose; it matters not, piano-players will sham away next door, and roll you the rousers in banks, and roll upon the floor. Your house may be a house of gloom, the undercar there to take your uncle to the tomb, and while you tear your hair, piano in the house near your ear your ears and nose by murdering poor "Golden Deer," "White Wings" or "Jun-gle Joe." Of sorrows we shall never be stripped; they'll cling like cockle-burrs, till all pianos are equipped with Maxim silencers.

GRAUSTARK When George Starr McCutcheon wrote "Graustark" he gave to the novel-reading public a romance as absorbing as any ever written. This story of a mythical kingdom applied to more than the average reader of novels, and theatergoers of Wayne will have the opportunity of witnessing the dramatization and adaptation of same by Grace Hayward, at the opera house on Monday, December 2.

The story, and probably there are few who have not read it, is faithfully followed in its presentation in dramatic form. The first act brings Grenfall Lorry, the American and his friend, Harry Anghish, to Edelweiss, Graustark, in search of the fair "Miss Guggenlocker," whom Lorry met in America. They overhear a plot to abduct the ruling princess of Graustark. In the second act the abduction plot is foiled by the two Americans, who in doing so learn the mysterious "Miss Guggenlocker" is in reality the princess. In the succeeding act the action is carried out to a final happy culmination for all parties concerned. Cost and play are considerably strengthened by the magnificent scenic equipment in use by the organization, especially effective and pleasing in the scenes worn by the ladies of the company, which far outshine any effort of this character on the dramatic stage today.

SHORTHORN BULLS The kind every farmer should have. Scotch-top on heavy milkers, the kind that produce both beef and milk. Of my own breeding, at right prices. Satisfaction guaranteed.—JOHN S. LEWIS, JR., Wayne, Neb., oldest Shorthorn breeder in Wayne county.

Have "You" Paid You Grocer?

Pay him cash over the counter or by check on your banker. If by cash, do you know, positively know, your account was credited with the payment? In case the grocer was busy and forgot to give you credit you might have to pay the account again—no such bad luck when you pay by check. When your bank book is balanced the indorsed and cancelled check is returned to you and is a legal receipt for amount paid.

No matter how small your income, it is to your interest to open an account with a home bank and handle your finances in a strictly business like manner—pay all bills by check—the sure safe way. We shall be glad to have your account.

Now that Will Hayward's wife is suing him for a divorce, his reputation as the handsomest man in the state is reared. Many would prefer not to be so eminently good looking.

If peace movements, like the one proposed by President Taft, were encouraged rather than thwarted, the world's civilization would advance more rapidly toward a standard where the savagery of war, now going on in Europe, would not be tolerated.

Governor Wilson, president-elect, has made known his decision to call an extra session of congress to meet next April for the purpose of revising the tariff. If Wilson is to suffer on account of the tariff, he evidently wants to leave the worst early in the game.

It has been said that the Wilson men were satisfied because they won, the Taft men satisfied because Roosevelt didn't win, and Roosevelt men satisfied because Taft didn't win. It is probably true that satisfaction was not altogether monopolized by the democrats.

In order to allow the people to rule, it is said Congressman Stephens will ask each county to choose a postmaster by popular vote. But suppose Wayne, for instance, should elect a republican? In that event, would the congressman be so zealous to have the people rule?

The Nebraska Woman Suffrage association will have a big convention in Omaha December 4, 5 and 6. Among the speakers will be Richard L. Metcalf and J. M. Kennedy. The success of the woman suffrage movement in Oregon, Arizona, Kansas and Michigan no doubt encourages the Nebraska association.

Thanksgiving comes one week from today, and everybody can find an abundance to inspire the spirit of gratitude. Thanksgiving day really marks the beginning of the season calculated to stimulate good feeling and generous deeds. One who can't feel a kindly regard for humanity during the happy holiday period suffers a bad liver and is out of accord with the world.

Trade conditions have been reported healthy all summer. The prospect of a change in the administration did not seem to disturb business confidence, and it is no radical changes take place there is reason to believe prosperity will continue unabated. Latest reports from commercial agencies indicate business activity and plenty of money in circulation. The tendency to take business out of politics is encouraging.

The constitutionality of the federal law which requires newspapers to publish the names of their stockholders and disclose other inside facts, is to be attacked in the United States supreme court. The attorneys resisting the law in behalf of two big publications, urge that if the law is upheld, congress can pass a law compelling lawyers and doctors to give the names of their clients. Indeed, if a law requiring a newspaper to disclose facts of no importance to the public, is sustained, why wouldn't a law be held good, requiring lawyers and doctors to publish inside facts regarding those who employ them?

President Taft's speech before the Lotus club in New York Saturday night reflected the high mind and good humor which he possesses. He supported the proposition to extend the presidential term, and make a president ineligible for re-election. He showed no signs of disappointment over the failure of the people to endorse his administration, and expressed the belief that "substantial" progress had been made and that history would deal with it justly. He humorously disagreed with Mr. Bryan in his plan to dispose of ex-presidents by giving them places on the floor of the house. The president said he preferred to be Olerized because such method would be easier and quicker.

ATOCHISON GLOBE SIGHTS.
The main drawback with a candidate's politeness is the suspicion that it is too good to last.

It is money that puts prize fighters out so early; money buys so many things they shouldn't have.

People who get mad and won't speak to their enemies may be rather accommodating than revengeful.

It seems there is never such a demand for workmen that one can't go out and secure up a flock of laborers.

It is a pity that everyone needs a boss, and most of them are pretty well equipped in that particular.

It is hard for a business man to admit he is getting his share of trade unless he isn't and wants to sell out.

There are so many fools, it is a wonder the dangerous kind who carry revolvers aren't more numerous.

Once upon a time a wise man named a play "The Easiest Way," mainly to show that it was the hardest. Which role holds gold in a number of portions outside the social evil, a proportion of which problem was handled in the production mentioned. That is, the man who loafs on the job, because it may seem easier, is up against a losing game, while his more industrious neighbor goes up. The one who drinks because it seems easier than to refuse certainly has a harder lot than comes with sobriety. He who steals because it seems easier than working for a living, underestimates the hardships of our best regulated penitentiaries. By one who finds rudeness easier than politeness is coming trouble which courtesy avoids. So on in a hundred ways it may be shown that good behavior is worth while for selfish reasons. To learn which might prove more helpful than highbrow teachings, so many are somewhat selfish.

BIG BATTLESHIPS.

As Viewed From the Standpoints of Economy and Gun Fire.
A very important factor in the question of the size of ships is that of economy. A given amount of tonnage is more economically assigned to one ship than distributed among several. Three ships require three captains, three officers, constantly on deck in charge, three men at the wheel and three times as many lookouts. While the same proportion—threefold—of deck and engine forces may not be needed; the aggregate crews of three vessels would nevertheless show a very considerable preponderance in excess of one of the same aggregate tonnage. All this means much more expense for the same carriage of freight and passengers.

The same order of considerations applies to ships of war, but in a less degree, because naval vessels are not for purposes of gain. With them the running expenses in this particular count less with merchantmen, but the question of profit is replaced by that of military efficiency, as ministering to the safety of the nation or to the assertion of national policies.

Suppose one ship carrying twelve guns opposed to four carrying three each—With the very wide train of modern guns—that is, the long array of a circle over which their projectiles can strike effectively—it is easily feasible to bring all the guns of four ships upon a single opponent. Probably she on her part may bring also upon each enemy three guns, a fire power equal to his, but the concentration of four-fold impact upon a single vessel may drive upon her crew a corresponding physical as well as moral impression, diminishing their military efficiency, their power of rapid loading and aiming, not to speak of the proportionately greater chances of material injury.

If there be the same number of hits on both sides the one will have been more than twice as effective. Probably she on her part may bring also upon each enemy three guns, a fire power equal to his, but the concentration of four-fold impact upon a single vessel may drive upon her crew a corresponding physical as well as moral impression, diminishing their military efficiency, their power of rapid loading and aiming, not to speak of the proportionately greater chances of material injury.

While one learns from the advertisements that he can buy a gallon of whisky for $1.67, chances are it is that kind of whisky.

It is a lot of different times of day if every man in the crowd has a watch. A fortune teller doesn't get rich at it, but the fact that he makes a living is that much against our boasted intelligence.

LOCAL NEWS.

H. F. Wilson and C. M. Traven wear to Omaha this morning to attend a meeting of Shriners. Mr. Wilson was accompanied by his wife.

E. Cunningham officiated at auctioneer at two public sales of pure-bred hogs at Brighton yesterday and today.

Mrs. B. Craving and daughter Nettie went to Sioux City this morning to spend the day with Mrs. H. B. Craven and baby.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Jones and children arrived home last evening from Lincoln where they attended the wedding of Mrs. Jones' brother.

DIPHTHERIA AT PONCA.

Following reports spread in Tuesday's Omaha Bee, under a Lincoln date line:

As a result of the visit of State Health Inspector Wilson to Ponca, five families in that town are under quarantine for diphtheria and orders have been issued that every school child be vaccinated at once.

The inspector advised that no public meetings, including church services, be held until the situation improves. One hundred persons in the town are said to be affected by the disease.

While most of the cases are of a mild type, a few have been severe and it has been thought best to take no chances until danger of infecting a still greater area has passed. The origin of the disease there is not known.

In the Stehr Case. Because no briefs were filed in the Henry Stehr case, in which the defendant is charged with having caused the death of his young stepchild by compelling it to spend a night in a woodshed in cold weather, the supreme court will probably refuse to entertain a motion for a new trial Tuesday. The case was appealed from Madison county. Stehr asked that the briefs be printed at the state's expense, but the court refused to do so.

Official Paralysis.

With official figures at hand from every county in the state excepting Douglas county, the plurality of Norris over Shallenbarger for United States senator is closely estimated at 14,000. The official vote on governor shows Mr. Morehead will have a plurality over Governor Albrich slightly under 10,000.

In ninety-one counties the total official vote as shown in the office of the secretary of state is:

Senator—Norris, 111,847; Shallenbarger, 98,944.

Governor—Morehead, 108,569; Albrich, 102,075.

With the receipt of the official Douglas county vote, the complete official vote will be available. The state canvassing board is delaying their canvass until the missing county comes in.

Knowledge and Culture.

A great dictionary does not make a philosopher any more than a dictionary can be called a sermon. There are men who contribute to their minds a vast multitude of ideas, but with little real ability about their real relations to ward each other. These may be an aquarium, a snail, a naturalist; they may be trained in the law; they may be versed in statistics; they are most useful in their own place. I should shrink from speaking disrespectfully of them. Still, there is nothing in such attainments to guarantee the absence of narrowness of mind. If they are anything more than well read men, or men of information they have not what specialists designate the name of culture of mind or fulfills the type of liberal education.—Newman.

An Observing Boy.

"Little Boy" (who has just seen his mother dismiss the servant for staying away from home the previous night) says five or six hours without leave—Mama, want to be very wrong in Mary to stay out so late? Mama (indulgently)—Yes, Charlie, and very impatient too she was. But I won't keep such a person in my house. Little Boy—What are you going to do about it?—Lon Lon Telegraph.

Johnny's Sign.

The door bell rang out of the parlour. Mother instructed her John to put up some sort of notice to the effect. John is better at athletic games than to regard to punctation. Finally averted this sign, which a surly neighbor presently brought in to the door: "Please Knock the Door-Bell Out of Order."

DRAMATIZATION OF STORY OF GRAUSTARK

On Monday evening, December 2, the United Play company will present the dramatization of George Barr McCutcheon's great fiction, "Graustark," which was so successfully and delightfully presented the past three seasons.

The story of "Graustark" is of an American, Graustark Lorry, who falls madly in love with a princess in America, who is traveling incognito. He follows her to her home in Edelweiss, Graustark, where he and his companion save her from abduction by the ruling prince of a neighboring principality.

Not knowing his is the princess, he is cast into an important service but in several instances, and in the end, finally wins out. It is just a story of American bravado with enough serious moments to make it appreciable, and excitement enough to keep the attention tense most of the time.

The characters and the country of Graustark are mythical, but the story contains so much human interest and so many things a man will really do for the woman he loves, it is absorbingly interesting. Every character of the novel is full of dramatic intensity, and Grace Hayward, who dramatized the same, has faithfully translated every possible incident from the book to the stage.

There is romanticism about plays of royalty, which, when properly presented with stage settings and correct costuming, and interpreted by actors who render their parts in a capable manner, make it entertaining and fascinating to the fullest extent.

THE EARLY DAYS IN TWO COUNTRIES.

From the Wayne Herald-Tribune November 19, 1885:

Frank Dearborn succeeds to the position of E. L. Jones in the First National bank.

E. E. Craven returns to Wisconsin after building a house on his farm north of Wayne.

Died, October 22, 1885, at Colton, Cal., J. E. Walters, father of Charles and George Walters of Wayne.

Dr. Crawford goes to Tennessee with the intention of locating for the winter and opening a real estate office.

Married, November 18, 1885, in Wayne, Mr. Thomas B. Hughes to Miss Retta Richmond, November 17, 1885, in Sioux City, Mr. Anson A. Welch to Miss Anna B. Davies; November 16, 1885, near Earlham, Ia., Mr. Frank M. Northrop to Miss Ida M. Ford.

From the Wayne Herald, December 8, 1892:

George Lundberg buys an interest in a store at Wakefield.

Married, December 4, 1892 Mr. Geo. H. Culler to Miss Jennie McAller.

Johnstone, famous mind reader, gives an entertainment in Wayne.

Local markets. Corn, 24 cents; wheat, 45 cents; oats, 20 cents; flax, 87 cents; rye, 35 cents; hogs $5.25.

A new bank is organized at Winsditch with J. W. Thomas president; John Elliott, vice president; H. A. Smith, cashier.

From the Wayne Herald December 4, 1901:

A blizzard raged in this territory on December 2.

William Demmeyer's cigar store and W. L. Jones' barber shop are destroyed by fire.

John Swanson aged 23 years, died from appendicitis following an operation.

From Ponca Journal, December 2, 1880:

Speaking of Wayne county's famed city of Logan City, the La Porte Review says: "We confess that we are all at sea in the geography of our country, if any such place exists save in the fertile brain of some imaginative fabricating fiend. Hush is to blame for starting such a canard, anyway. It is not surprising that the worthy editors of the Review are at sea in the geography of Wayne, since the last legislature rebounded that county, and gave it a territory stretching from ocean to ocean—and we will bet when they look at those boundary lines they dare not swear that there is no town within their limit of the name of Logan City. It is true we did awhile ago describe Logan City, yet we cannot of course be absolutely certain that it exists now. It may have burned up; it may have been inundated by the overflowing of the Logan; an earthquake or volcano may have given to its blocks, halls, palaces, towers, pinnacles and business marts, the fate of Hermonia; or Pompeii; the remorseless hand of time may have smitten it and rotted it into the ground; it may have been raided and destroyed, and its inhabitants carried into captivity by the desperate bands of savages living just across the frontier on the Winnebago reservation; a tornado may have come along and whirled it into another sphere; and finally, LaPorte, jealous of its rival's rising greatness, may have gone down there and captured and hauled off the whole town bodily. Some of these fates may have happened. We cannot tell. When we described the place we did not warrant it to wear. In fact, we rather expected it would fade away, and that its greatness would be transitory, for so it has been with all the noted places of the earth in the past, and doubtless will be so in the future. Sic transit gloria mundi!"

From Ponca Journal, December 4, 1870:

Mr. West, Mr. Clark, J. Wilbur and others this week went out to the Logan valley to hunt deer, which are reported to be very plenty.

A young man named Mattison killed a big deer in N. S. Posters' field one day last week.

We hear of late no news concerning the Tonia volcano. Whether its spouting and internal convulsions have ceased we have not been informed, but trust that it has not yet blown out.

The snow in the east is from one to two feet deep. There is quite a contrast between that country of gloom and snow and this region of sunshine, warm weather and dry, and dusty roads.

To show the progress of events, we will cite Dakota county as an example. In the year 1865, that county contained the following named cities, towns, villages, and hamlets: Logan City, Gorlington, Pacific City, Franklin, Dakota City, Logan City, Omaha, St. Johns and Carrs City. These flourishing towns also occupied the entire territory of the county excepting a small and insignificant parcel of land which has since corner thereof. Had there been more room in the county, more cities than those above mentioned, would have sprang in to fill up the bill.

That Graustark, which the United Play company will produce here on Monday, December 2, at the opera house, in exciting widespread interest among all classes of theatre goers, is shown by the fact that not in a long time has there been such a demand for seats for a dramatic production. The wonderful success of the book, by Geo. Barr McCutcheon, is followed by the success of Grace Howard's dramatization.

The company presenting this beautiful play has chosen especially to fit the novelist's description of the characters, particular attention having been given to the scenic equipment.

AS TO PROSPERITY.

Premont Tribune: A telegram from Seattle states that a lumber contract involving the sale of 100 million feet of lumber out in Oregon and Washington has just been made to some railways and the Pullman company, and that this is the biggest deal of the kind ever made on the Pacific coast. At a gathering in the Bellevue-Stratford hotel, Philadelphia, of the country's most noted financiers and railroad presidents, the present prosperity of the nation will continue under the new administration. Represented at the dinner were companies having 38,271 miles of railroad with $4,000,000,000 in securities held by the public, whose gross earnings last year reached $81,789,520. Great banking houses with direct control of $200,000,000 were also represented and pledged by address to the boosting of prosperity. These are significant incidents and every American citizen may well hope there will be nothing done to retard the country's progress merely for political advantage to those who oppose the democratic party. Panic, as we have hitherto said, is often a state of mind as much as a condition of business. Much may be done to avert it by thinking and speaking in terms of prosperity, and the Tribune hopes to do something in that line itself. But when the democratic president and congress get down to business, in carrying out platform pledges there will be such a degree of uncertainty that it will be very difficult for the public to overcome it all with mental treatment. A year from now will be the real tug of war.

AFTER THE BATTLE.

(Sixty in Lincoln Journal.)

Time moves along—it gives me joy to say
The smoke of battle having cleared away,
We all may rise and, with great profit,
sing
That this same "clearing" is the proper thing.

The fight is over—it would be a joke
To lose the noise and save the mud and smoke.
Blest be the man who smiles when he's beat,
Who looks aloft and glories in defeat;
Who walks erect the same old beaten track—
The chances are that yellow can come back.
But woe to him who sits about and roars,
And takes great trouble to display his sores.
He worries when the world feels no concern;
The chances are he never will "re-surrect."

And that is all there seems to be to say,
The smoke of battle having cleared away.

Hon. George M. Complan, regent of the University of Nebraska, was a visitor one day last week.

Rev. William Gorst attended the chapel services Thursday and gave an interesting talk to the school, choosing for his subject "Obedience."

Coach E. E. Martin went to Omaha Tuesday to be present at a meeting of his college class.

Volume 1, Number 2 of the Goldenrod is just off the press. It is in every way a credit to the school and to the editorial staff.

Professor E. J. Hustemer who holds the office of county surveyor, was called to Cedar county last Friday on business pertaining to his office.

Dr. Alexander Corkey, accompanied by Evangelist Lingen, attended chapel services Tuesday morning. Mr. Lingen's talk to the students was very much appreciated.

Miss Marie J. Clark has registered in the Normal and will carry work in the department of domestic science.

Friends at the Normal received an announcement of the marriage of Miss Rose Head of Randolph, to Professor Daniel G. Sauntry of Kalispell, Mont. Mr. and Mrs. Sauntry are 14th graduates of the Nebraska Normal college. Members of Nebraska Lewis' class in civics were given a practical view of one phase of their work last Friday afternoon, when they adjourned from the class room to the court room and listened to a suit that was being tried in the district court.

C. C. Hurley, graduate of the Nebraska Normal college in the class of 1894, and now living at Glendive, Mont., was at the last election elected to the office of district judge. Mr. Hurley has many friends in Wayne who are pleased to hear of his success.

Members of the State Normal faculty are often invited to address educational meetings and they are glad to respond to calls of this kind whenever the acceptance thereof does not conflict with school duties. On December 6, Dean Hahn will lecture before a teachers' and patrons' meeting at Atkinson, and on Friday evening of the following week he is to appear on the program of a city institute held at Seward.

Much favorable comment is being heard concerning the excellent work being done by the literary societies. At the opening of the year the executive committee of each society made out and posted the program for the entire semester, and no one is permitted to have part in a public meeting without first appearing before a rehearsal committee. The success of the new plan was shown in the excellent program given by the Philomathean society on last Friday evening, and we are sure that the same will be true of the entertainment to be given by the Crescent society on Saturday evening, November 23.

Miss McBeth's class in reading entertained the school at the Wednesday morning chapel period. Mr. Boyce read a paper contrasting conditions in the country in 1869 with those of 1812; Miss Stearns gave an interesting sketch of Abraham Lincoln's Gettysburg address; and she was followed by Miss Knudsen who read the address of Mr. Lincoln on this occasion. The parts were all well performed and it is hoped that there will be other public appearances of the reading class before the close of the semester.

The citizens of the town are most cordially invited to be present at the musicale to be given by the Nebraska Wesleyan male quartet on Friday evening, November 22. This is the first number of the regular lecture course for the year and there will be no extra charge for those holding semester tickets. Single admission for adults will be thirty-five cents; children, twenty-five cents.

After an exchange of letters and telegrams between the two schools, final arrangements have been made for a game of football between the Chadron and Wayne normals. Chadron agrees to pay $200 of the expense of the game and the remainder will be met by the Wayne team. Accompanied by Coach Martin, our boys will leave Wayne at 6:45 Thursday evening and the game will take place on the Chadron field on Friday afternoon, November 22. Chadron possesses a fast team and has made a good record so far this year. A great deal of interest is shown in the result of the game and a full report will appear in these columns next week.

LEGISLATION FOR GOOD ROADS.
 Lincoln Trade Review: Nothing of more importance can come before the next legislature than an intelligent, systematic handling of the good roads question for Nebraska. Under present conditions, money expended in a large number of instances on the highways is wasted. With scores of road supervisors in every county, each doing work differently and along different lines, there is no uniformity or any general purpose in the construction of highways. If the money that is now expended for highways in this state were expended under the intelligent supervision of a single engineer, it is probable that a considerable saving would be effected.

The better. There must be some legislation along this line if Nebraska is to make sensible progress towards better roads.

This paper favors the enactment of a law that will create a state engineer and that will put supervising power in his hands. Then it favors giving to a county engineer in each county supervising authority over the county roads in his county; then it favors the creation of a law that will levy annually, at least a one-fourth mill tax for good roads development in the state. The question of expenditure of the proceeds from the one-fourth mill levy can be easily adjusted; it ought to be a fund available only to those counties that themselves expend a proper amount of money on their highways. As it is a general tax, the larger and more populous counties will contribute the most to the fund raised. When it comes to apportioning this money, if a certain county, through its county board, says that it will expend $20,000 on its highways for the current year, and another county says it will expend $10,000 during the same year for the same purpose, then the county expending double the amount should receive in turn double the amount from the state tax. There would be an incentive in this for counties to do more toward good roads than they might ordinarily do. The state appropriation would be in the nature of a premium, and the county doing the most work in itself would receive the most from the state in payment for its enterprise. Of course the details of a bill of this character would need a good deal of attention and working out along practical lines, but this ought not to be a difficult task. Taking the general proposition, there ought to be no objection of any practical weight in either branch of the legislature toward a law of this character.

The value of good roads, the way they enhance property values, the way they make for better rural transportation, is so self-evident as to need no discussion. No tax that could be raised would go in a broader way to the general good of all the people of the state and to the financial interests of the state than would a tax levied and expended for better highways. This coming legislature is going to have unusual opportunities to do some real practical good for the state in the way of development legislation of this character. It is most sincerely hoped that the next session of lawmakers will rise to the occasion and the opportunities that will be before them.

You may have observed that the engineer whose defective highway is appointed by the court is in danger of receiving Frank S. Morgan and D. W. Townsend with the thirty-six ducks they triumphantly tagged in the Wayne vicinity one afternoon recently.

Considering the way kids "hop" if the "refreshments" aren't better, there are comparatively few ones less than the meal a man gets at home, legged men in the procession. he is apt to find fault with the grub.

SPECIAL UNION REVIVAL SERVICES

The special meetings under Mr. Lingren's leadership, each evening at the Methodist church are now in full headway. Last Sunday evening a crowded house greeted the evangelist and was inspired by his plain, pointed, direct presentation of truth. Mr. Lingren is making good in every respect. He shows the force of personality in his addresses. No bombastic display, no oratorical flights, no fireworks, but the inspiring appeal of plain truth from a true man whose heart is where it ought to be. Every sentence has a purpose, and that purpose is to reach another heart. Bringing into the pulpit his tact in dealing with men, learned from his years of business life, he is able to speak with people heart to heart about the weightier matters of life—matters of heart and soul. There is a keen, clear application of truth in his striking statements.

There are a few of these pulpit pages which have a penetrating power: "You are a Christian all the time or you are a Christian none of the time; and you are a Christian everywhere or you are a Christian nowhere."

"What we enjoy tells what we are. We are no better than the worst thing we enjoy. All that is manifested in activity, is in spiritual life."

"There is some hope for sleeping Christians; you can get a religious shove out of them once in a while."

"As far as real activity is concerned, there is not much difference between the inmates of a dormitory and those of a church."

"Too many are living as though they were to be judged by the culturers or saints, on their tombs, rather than by their conduct."

"Don't be afraid of too much enthusiasm. We can use a few people who are wrong-headed in the right direction."

"The world is watching us. Christmas day is the week to see what our religion is worth."

Perhaps to most people, the singing is the important thing of the meetings. A chorus of about forty voices, each evening is led by Mr. Lingren. Here he leads a master. He sings from his soul and his spirit of song is catching. The entire congregation join heartily as he leads in the beautiful hymns. Many are learning new hymns and are learning how to sing and enjoy the old hymns. Each evening a large part of the service is given up to song. No one who loves to have the depths of his soul stirred by the old melodies should miss these gospel services.

Next Sunday afternoon at the Baptist church, the special meetings will be held at 7:30 o'clock. The church and high school are expected to attend in a body. This is said to be one of the best services of the whole season. Let all try to attend. By young people Mr. Lingren means people between the ages of eight and eighty. If your age is here defined, then you are invited.

THE WEEK WITH THE CHURCHES

German Evangelical Lutheran.
(Rev. J. H. Karpenstein, Pastor.)
Services at 11 o'clock Sunday and Sunday school at 10.

St. Mary's Catholic Church.
(Rev. William Kearns, Pastor.)
Mass in Wayne next Sunday morning at 8:30. In Carroll at 10:30. Sunday school in the afternoon at 3:30 and benediction at 7:30 in the evening.

St. Paul's Lutheran Church.
(Rev. J. Kahn, Pastor.)
Services Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. Sunday school at 10. The Ladies' Aid society will meet December 5 at the home of Mrs. C. J. Lund.

First Methodist Church.
(Rev. William Goring, Pastor.)
Next Sunday morning the topic of the sermon will be "Truth a Crown of Glory and a Diadem of Beauty," the effect of a Godly life on physical health.

Let everyone notice the program for the entire service and earnestly cooperate. Every Christian in Wayne and for miles around should get much benefit out of these meetings. The song services alone under the very able direction of Mr. Lingren are worth going many miles to hear and to have sung while the discourses are being preached. The sermons will be of the highest quality and of great value to all. Everybody in Wayne county would do well to hear Evangelist Lingren.

First Baptist Church.
(Rev. E. P. Richardson, Pastor.)
Next Sunday morning at the usual hour our regular service will be held. Evangelist Lingren will not hold an evangelistic service that hour, but the pastors will occupy their pulpits. The subject of the sermon will be "The Subjection of Christ."

In the afternoon a young people's rally will be held. A further notice of this occurs elsewhere in this paper.

Our regular service of the B. V. P. T. will be held at 6:30. A subject of singing will be studied, and the meeting will be led by the pastor.

At 7:30 the churches will again unite in an evangelistic service at the Methodist church. We hope our people will throw themselves into these special meetings with all their hearts, for we get out of such meetings just what we as Christians put into them. Remember the evangelist's review for a prayer list. Let us do our part to help him.

Presbyterian Church.
(Rev. Alexander Carkey, Pastor.)
The morning service will be held as usual in the Presbyterian church, as in all the other Wayne churches, next Sabbath. The Sunday school begins at 10 a. m. and the preaching service at 11. There will be a Thanksgiving program at the morning service, and some exercises by the members of the primary department under the leadership of Mrs. H. S. Bingham.

There will be no Junior meetings on Sunday afternoons during the Lingren evangelistic meetings. The Juniors will join in the great union Young People's Rally at the M. E. church at 3 o'clock when Evangelist Lingren will conduct a meeting in the interest of the young people of Wayne. It is planned to have the Normal students attend this rally in a body and their pennants and college colors, and a like attendance of high school students is also expected.

In the evening next Sabbath there will be a union meeting at the M. E. church to which all are cordially welcome.

Dr. Guy W. Wadsworth, representing the permanent temperance committee of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian church in America, was in Wayne last Sabbath and addressed the church in the morning service. His address was a modern arraignment of the liquor habit, and an appeal for a Christian attitude toward the liquor traffic, such an attitude being similar to the attitude which Christians take toward highwaymen and slavery, and like scourges of humanity. In the afternoon he addressed the students of the Wayne Normal school. His visit was greatly appreciated by both church members and students.

Tells the Whole Story
To say that Foley's Honey and Tar Compound is best for children and young persons and contains no opiates tells only part of the story. The whole story is that it is the best medicine for coughs, colds, croup, hoarseness, throat, chest and lung trouble. It is a simple, cough and has a healing and soothing effect. Remember the name, Foley's Honey and Tar Compound, and accept its substitute. Beware of cheap imitations.

THE DUMB WAITER

It Played a Low Down Trick on the Master of the House. A HOT TIME ON A COLD NIGHT.

The Trouble Was the Direct Result of a Thirsty Man's Craving For Drink and His Dogged Persistence in Attempting to Satisfy It. One of the old time humorous writers was "Sparrowgrass" and the following account of his adventure with a dumb waiter gives a good idea of his astounding style. One evening Mrs. S. had retired, and I was busy writing when it struck me a glass of ice water would be palatable. So I took the handle and pitcher and went down to the pump. Our pump is in the kitchen—a country pump in the kitchen is more convenient, but a well with buckets is certainly more picturesque. Unfortunately our well water has not been sweet since it was cleaned out. "First I had to open a bolted door that led from the basement bath, and then I went to the kitchen door, which proved to be locked. Then I remembered that my pig always carried the key and I went along with it until I under her pillow. Then I traced my steps, bolted the basement door and went up into the dining room. As is always the case, I found when I could not get any work done better than I supposed I was. Then I thought I would wake our girl up. Then I concluded not to do it. Then I thought of the dumb waiter and went up on account of its favor. Then I opened the closed door. There was no water there. Then I thought of the dumb waiter. I took out two of the movable shelves, stood the pitcher on the bottom of the dumb waiter, got in myself with the lamp, let myself down until I was within a foot of the floor below and then let go.

We came down so suddenly that I was short out of the apparatus as if I had been a catapult. It was the pitcher, extinguished the lamp and landed me in the middle of the kitchen at midnight, with no fire and the air not much above the zero point. I thought I had miscalculated the distance of the descent. Instead of falling one foot, I had fallen five. My first impulse was to ascend by the way I had come, but I found that impracticable. Then I tried the kitchen door. It was locked. I tried to force it open. It was made of two inch stuff and held its own. Then I bolted a window, and there were the night robbers. I never felt angry at anybody it was at myself for putting up those bars to please Mrs. Sparrowgrass. I put them up to keep people in, but to keep people out. I hid my cheek against the ice cold barriers and looked at the sky. Not a star was visible. It was as black as night. Then I made a noise. I shouted until I was hoarse and raked my preserving kettle with the poker. That brought our does out in full bark and between us we made the night hideous. Then I thought I heard a voice and listened. It was Mrs. Sparrowgrass calling to me from the top of the staircase. I called back to her, but the infernal dogs united with howl and growl and bark. So to drown my voice, which is naturally plaintive and tender. Besides, there were two bolted doors and window closed doors between us. How could she recognize my voice, even if she did hear it? Mr. Sparrowgrass called once or twice and I got frightened. The next thing I heard was a sound as if the roof had fallen in, by which I understood that Mrs. Sparrowgrass was approaching the kitchen. That called our neighbor, already wide awake. He came to the rescue with a bull terrier, a Newfoundland pup, a lantern and a revolver. The moment he saw me at the window he shot at me, but fortunately just missed me. I threw myself under the kitchen table and ventured to expostulate with him, but he would not listen to reason. In the excitement I had forgotten his name, and that made matters worse. It was not until he had roused up everybody around, broken in the basement door with an ax, got into the kitchen with his cursed savage dogs and shooting iron and seized me by the collar that he recognized me, and then he wanted me to explain it. But what kind of an explanation could I make to him? I told him he would have to wait until my mind was composed and then I would let him understand the matter fully.

THOUGHT TRANSFERENCE. AN EFFECTIVE TRIO.

Wireless Telegraphy May Point to the "Why" of Telepathy. Accepting telepathy as an established fact, the problem remains how are we to explain it? What is the mechanism by which one person is able to transmit messages directly and instantaneously to another person, although they may be half a world apart?

To this question it must frankly be admitted no positive answer can as yet be returned. But some interesting hypotheses have already been advanced, not by mere theorists, but by eminent men of science, who, themselves adhering to the actuality of telepathy, have given much thought to the problem of its mode of operation. Sir William Crookes, for example, calling attention to the marvelous and unexplained facts of the real vibrations as evidenced by the phenomenon of wireless telegraphy and the Roentgen rays, urges that here we have quite possibly an adequate explanation of the mystery of telepathy of a wholly naturalistic basis—that is to say, a basis which enables us to accept telepathy without discarding our entire conception of the physical universe. "It seems to me," he suggests, "that these rays (the Roentgen rays) may have a possible way of transmuting intelligence which, with a few reasonable hypotheses, may supply the key by which that obscure in physical research. Let it be assumed that these rays, or rays of even higher frequency, may pass into the brain and set on some nervous center there. Let it be conceived that the brain contains a center which uses these rays as the great channels for some vibrations (both being under the command of intelligence), and sends them out with the velocity of light to impinge on the receiving apparatus of another brain. In this case we have the phenomenon of telepathy and the transmission of intelligence from one sensitive to another, through long distances, seem to come into the domain of law and can be grasped." This undoubtedly is the explanation that most strongly commends itself to those scientists who courageously acknowledge the existence of telepathy. Nor do they see any objection to it in the fact that people apparently are affected by the telepathic impulse only at certain times, for the brain of both sender and receiver may conceivably, on the analogy of wireless telegraphy, be set to transmit and receive telepathic communications only when adjusted to vibrations of a certain amplitude. (See Addington Bruce in Hampton Magazine.)

RED TAPE AND A BATH.

Curious Experience of a Visitor in a Little French Town. St. Lo, a little town in the Manche department in France, has no public baths, and as these found in most French towns and cities for the private bath in France is yet, as it were, in its infancy. The youngsters of the town bath in the Vire—but the 12,000 people (including themselves) who constitute such a thing as a bath. Visitors can get a bath. It is true, but they must order four liters of water, all that they are permitted, and it is taken in them. Not four scoops of water in the town wished to take a bath. He went to the hospital to ask permission to take a bath there, as in Brittany this is the custom, but there is no public accommodation. The visitor's request was received rather coldly, and he was told that he would have to make his request in writing to the director of the hospital. This he did and patiently awaited a response. None came and the visitor left town. Two days later the response came and followed him from town to town throughout France, not catching up with him until he had returned to Paris.

Modern Husbands. Lady Nevill in her reminiscences talks of the decadence of the day as reflected in the lives of women. "The fact is," she says, "that in a great many cases modern women in England, I mean—is spoiled. Many have no interests and too much time on their hands, with the result that they will take up some fool. As for the well to do, a great number of them now seem to completely dominate their husbands." This struck the old school of people very hard. "It seems to me," said he, "that an English or American husband is nothing better than a sort of butler."

Lincoln Jotted Seward. Uncle Billy Green of Illinois was Lincoln's partner in the grocery at Salem. At night, when customers were few, he held the grammar while Lincoln recited his lessons. At Lincoln's first inaugural banquet Green sat at the table or the president's left, with the directed Secretary-Seward on the right. Lincoln presented the two men to each other, saying, "Secretary Seward, this is Mr. Green of Illinois." Seward bowed stiffly, when Lincoln exclaimed: "Oh, get up, Seward, and shake hands with Green. He is the man that taught me my grammar."—Kansas City Star.

Four Days in the Year. There are four days in the year when the sun and clock exactly correspond. In other words, there are but four days of the 365 in which the sun is directly south of the equator. The first of these is April and the seventeenth of June, respectively. August thirty-first and twenty-fourth of December. On these four days and none else in the year. The sun and clock both the same time declare.

Business-Humor. Here is a rare specimen of business humor received the other day by a London firm. It ran: "Our cashier fell unconscious at his desk this morning. Up to this time, 4 p. m., we have been unable to get a word out of him except your names. May we say to him, with a view to his immediate recovery, that we have your check, as we think that is what is on his mind?"—Pearson's Weekly.

Man and Woman. "Man, composed of clay, is silent and ponderous," preached John Rawlin in the fifteenth century, "but woman's rattle she keeps up. More a sack of earth and it makes no noise; touch a bag of bones and you are deafened with the clatter clatter."

Sorry For Pa. "I'm sorry for pa." "Why?" "He is going to marry a man who makes more money than he does."—Detroit Free Press. More helpful than all human wisdom was one drop of simple common sense that will save you a lot of trouble.

MAKING THE DAIRY FARM PROFITABLE

We notice in several of our eastern agricultural exchanges that there is a good deal of discussion being had on this important question, says Harold's Dairyman.

The Brown Swiss breed of dairy cattle are noted for strength of constitution and lack of nervous excitability.

will thrive exceedingly well. The Wisconsin dairy farmer has built up a wide demand for his grade Holstein and Guernsey cows and heifers.

To illustrate, the farmers of Jefferson county are realizing a large amount in milk product over $20,000 annually, while from the sale of cows and heifers they receive about $700,000.

Dairy farmers must become better stock raisers than they have been, where they operate east or west, it is a matter of fact and a large share in what they earn.

Keep Hogs in Fat Condition. Hogs that are to be kept over for feeders and fall pigs should go into the winter in fat condition.
