A GOOD OLD LAXATIVE

For a good general tonic and alternative, one that you can depend on and one that you can make yourself, use—

NYAL'S Mountain Herbs

This is the method: In a suitable vessel place a tablespoonful of the Herbs, pour upon them two tascupfuls of boiling water, cover and set aside to steep—do not boil. In fifteen to twenty minutes the strength will be extracted. The tea will arouse dormant functions, give force and vigor to the nerves, purify the blood, increase the appetite, aid digestion and supply nutriment to the body tissues.

A large quantity of medicine can be made from one package. The Price is 25 Cents.

Whatever a good drug store ought to have—and many things that other drug stores don't keep—you'll find here. Come to us and you'll get what you want.

Merry Christmas

WHAT'S THE USE IN WAITING

→ till the bells chime out Christmas before extending your greetings.—We may be a little ahead of time, but we mean it the same. The fact is we have been working on Christmas things and thinking about Christmas till it almost seems to us this really is Christmas. You will think so yourself when you see our Christmas stock. Come in and absorb a little Christmas spirit. We have presents for everybody, no matter how young or how old.

For The Baby	Tickle the Baby with a Woolly Sheep, make him laugh with a Tumbling Clown. Low priced goods like Rubber Balls, Rattles, Iron Toy's, Horses, Trained Poles, Blocks, Rubber Dolls, and many others are just the things that strike baby's fancy and you find them all on our 10c, 15c or 25c tables.
For Little Girls	Nothing pleases a six year old girl like a rosy cheeked Doll. We have them for 25c, 50c, 75c and up, that will make her gasp with delight. Next to dolls in her estimation come Doll Furniture and here, again we can help to please; her, Dressers, Beds and Chairs as low as a dime. Pastry Sets and Kitchenware from 10c up. Pianos, Stoves, Hammocks and the like. Toy Dogs, Teddy Bears, Paint Boxes, Doll Beds, Doll Cabs and a host of other thing make us. Holiday Headquarters for little girls.
For Little Boys	A Christmas without noise is a failure for the little boy. Get him a Drum, a Horn, a Singing Top. He wants to imitate grown ups and one of our Watches for 5c, 10c, 25c or $1 will make him feel as big as father. He wants to build things. Our Blocks from 10c up will just suit him. Autos, Fire Engines, Wagons and horses will complete the little boy's paradise. GAMES will entertain him during the long winter months.
For Big Girls	Twelve year olds love finery. How about a Necklace, Handkerchief Box or Brooch. Besides the 10c and 25c goods we have put in a stock of higher priced JEWELRY with a 10 to 20 year guarantee attached which are good enough for anyone. She is big enough to make doll clothes, get her a Sewing Machine. We have good stitchers for 98c, and she will need a Trunk for those clothes; we have good ones for 25c, 50c and $1. Don't forget a Cab for her doll. If you come to us you will find a large stock of all the things girls like.
For Big Boys	All boys want a Gun. Our Air Rifles from 50c up are fine enough to please him and good enough to suit him. A real Steam Engine or Electrical Toy will keep the boy amused for hours and will teach him a lot of things. A Slate or Writing desk will keep him busy. We also have a fine selection of Friction Engines, Mechanical Toys, Boys' Games, etc.
For Women	Among the many beautiful things for women we mention Toilet Sets, Manicure Sets, Hand Mirrors, Side and Back Comb sets, Framed Pictures, Fancy Stationery, Jewel Boxes, and a lot of others. A woman always loves pretty things on her dresser like a Puff Box, Hatpinholder or Bureau set, Fancy Dresser Scarfs, Doilies, Towels, Handkerchiefs, Perfume are other articles women enjoy and last but not least a Fine Piece of CHINA. A Special Cake Plate for 50c. China is always acceptable and we show the biggest variety at the lowest price.
For Men	A Collar Box will please him. We have nice ones for 65c. Does he smoke? Buy him a Smoker's Set and help mother or wife keep burnt matches and ashes off the floor. We have some as low as 25c and dandy ones for 50c. Our $1.50 Military Brush Set is good enough for any man. Our Traveling Sets, Wash Pops, or Cuff Links are very acceptable; we have lots of them and our prices very moderate. Shaving Mugs and Shaving Sets are two useful gifts. And then you must see our Holly Box items for men—Neckties, Gloves, Handkerchiefs, Suspenders, Arm Bands, and so forth. We can please anybody.

Remember This—The best things are always picked out first, so shop early if you want something we have not on hand tell us and we will get it for you. Our prices on Christmas goods are on the average lower this year than last year.

From one Ponca paper it is ascertained that smallpox instead of diphtheria is the disease prevailing at that place. Smallpox is not restricted and civilized, is in all respects more desirable than diphtheria, and if local had frankly announced the trouble false impressions would not have been so likely to spread. No reports or half concealed truth always cause suspicion, exaggeration and unwarranted fear. It is a mistake and short-sighted notion that contagious fever regarding an epidemic of disease held tight. Newspaper silence gives impetus to magnified reports.

 My party, 'tis of thee,
 Author of pie for me,
 Of thee I sing;
 I date on thy success,
 Thy wondrous power to bless;
 'Tis thee, in my distress,
 This song I bring.

Please to remember that I am a democrat,
 Dried in the wool;
 With that fat job in sight,
 'Writ thou my soul requite
 I am a Dahnmanite,
 Sturdy and "fjell".

Let no republican,
 Or any other man,
 My prospects rob.
 Let it not seem absurd,
 That it may be inferred,
 From what you now have heard,
 I want a job.

There are two sides to the get-rich-quick game, and only one of them can beat it.

WEST POINT YOUTH TAKES HIS OWN LIFE

West Point, Neb., Nov. 26.—Little Gilmore Neligh, 15-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. John Neligh, "played hooky" from school the other day and his mother whipped him for it. The boy became morose after the punishment and told a number of his playmates that he was going to hang himself. Last night in the public park west of town, one of Gilmore's schoolmates found the little boy's limp and lifeless body curled up under a tree where he had carried out his threat. One end of a rope was tied in a noose around his neck, by which he had strangled, and the other end of the rope had been twisted once a link of the tree.

By pulling on the free end of the rope the little fellow had drawn himself off the ground and strangled. When he became too weak to longer hold himself up, he dropped to the ground and died.

John Neligh, the father, conducts a pool hall in West Point. The father and mother were stricken with grief over the tragedy, but discussed the child's death with his little playmate last night.

Little Gilmore Neligh was in the sixth grade at school. Last Friday he stayed away from school and when his mother found it out she punished him. He told his little friends about the whipping and declared he would take his own life by hanging. The threat was not taken seriously, being considered only in the light of a child's remark.

Gilmore was an average little boy of 12. He was not a dependent but was quite normal in disposition and other traits. His mind seemed to be that of a normal, average lad of his years.

Besides his father and mother, the child is survived by two sisters and a brother, the brother 9 years old and the sisters aged 15 and 5.

The lad's little friends were terribly shocked at his tragic deed, as was the entire community.

ALREADY PLANNING PIONEERS' PICNIC

PRESIDENT FERGUSON ACTIVE

Proposes to Make Next Picnic Big Success—Brief History of Association.

Mr. A. J. Ferguson, president of the Pioneer and Old Settlers' association of Wayne county, has already commenced his plans for a successful meeting in 1913. A full set of committees has been selected and Mr. Ferguson hopes to secure the hearty co-operation and assistance of every resident of Wayne county who is interested in an organization of this kind. President Ferguson is anxious not only for a large attendance next year, but that every part of the county will be represented and share in the pleasures of the day. With this in view he has named as members of the various committees people in every section of the county and will urge upon each committeeman the importance of working up a favorable sentiment in his vicinity. The date of the meeting and the program in detail will be announced later.

Perhaps a brief reference to the history of this organization will be of interest at this time. The nucleus of what constitutes the present association came into existence in 1898, and for two years was conducted as an annual Pennsylvania picnic, the membership being confined almost entirely to residents of Wayne county—who formerly lived in the state of Pennsylvania.

In the fall of 1900 the question of changing the name and enlarging the purpose of the association came up for discussion, and by a unanimous vote it was decided that the name be changed to "The Pioneer and Old Settlers' Association of Wayne County."

At the same time the following officers were selected: John T. Bressler, president; J. D. King, secretary; W. A. K. Neely, treasurer; Dr. R. B. Crawford, historian.

The first business meeting under the new organization and management was held in Wayne on July 1, 1901. The records show that the following attended this meeting, the figures after each name indicating the date of arrival in Wayne county: James Britton, 1878; F. M. Northrop, 1881; J. E. Harmon, 1871; P. L. Miller, 1884; Patrick Coleman, 1882; M. S. Davies, 1881; J. D. King, 1880; B. E. Feather, 1877; E. L. 1870; Great Meers, 1879; John T. Bressler, 1870; F. M. Skeen, 1882; J. R. Russell, 1899.

A sentence from the secretary's minutes, referring to the meeting of August 20, 1903, tells something of the interest shown in this organization ten years ago: "The attendance today was much larger than at any time heretofore, people coming from Omaha and surrounding towns, while a number of former residents of the county were present from Iowa." The total expenditures for this meeting were $269.15, leaving a balance in the treasury of $42.91.

The following served as president of the association at the time indicated: 1902, John T. Bressler; 1903, James Britton; 1904, H. H. Moses; 1905, William O. Gaubler; 1906, R. B. Crawford; 1907, R. B. Crawford; 1908, R. Philcox; 1909, J. T. Bressler; 1910, T. W. Moran; 1912, P. M. Corbit; 1913, A. J. Ferguson.

THE COLONEL'S EDICT

Premont Tribune: The colonel has given it out that he very much continued and that there must be no fusion by it with other parties; no fusion for the reason that appeals to members of all other parties for support. The colonel burned the bridges behind him in a way that out of many of his followers did. He went to the extent of formally withdrawing his membership from the New York Republican club. In Nebraska, for instance, the evidence is that the larger portion of these republicans who voted for the colonel did it as a protest against methods of the national convention, which methods have passed forever. The tenacity with which they held to the name republican shows their purpose. The colonel is essentially a stonewaller. The work of an agitator will suit him. It affords abundant opportunity to be in the spotlight. Back in the republican party he would have to contend with such men as LaFollette, Cummins, Hadley, Borah and others. In the Bull Moose party he can be the whole thing. Besides, his plan is worth more to the magazine of which he is contributing editor.

CONTEST NOT AIMED AT U. S. SENATORSHIP

The contest instigated in Douglas county by defeated democratic candidates for the Legislature against successful republicans has been pointed to as an effort to turn down Norris for United States senator and elect Shallenberger. This was called to the attention of Senator Phil H. Kohl of Wayne, and the local seceder said he didn't believe the Douglas county contest was prompted by an intention to attempt the defeat of Norris. He said he had signed statement No. 1, pledging support to the senatorial candidate receiving the popular vote, and that most other members of the legislature had done the same. He can't conceive of anything at this time that would warrant him in not carrying out the intention of this pledge.

ADJOURNED SESSION OF DISTRICT COURT

At an adjourned session of district court in Wayne Saturday, Paul and William Braecker who were pronounced guilty by a jury on the charge of resisting and abusing an officer, were each fined $100 and costs. The total costs amounted to about $230. W. H. Stephens, marshal at Hoskins, is the officer alleged to have been resisted.

Also in the district court Saturday, the petition of Mrs. Henry Manck for a divorce was granted.

Another adjourned session of district court will be held next Saturday.

OBITUARY (Continued)

Benton F. Corzine was born in Garretts county, O., on the 27th day of May, 1859, and died in Wayne, Neb., on the 21st day of November, 1912, at the age of 53 years, 5 months and 25 days.

At 3 years of age he moved with his parents to Illinois where he grew to manhood and where he was married to Miss Emma Rittler on the 21st day of March, 1888. To Mr. and Mrs. Corzine were born six children, one daughter and five sons. Two of the boys died in infancy and the other four children are left in the home with their mother, being Lois, a young woman; Wayne, 13; Harold, 8, and Kermit, 3.

Mr. and Mrs. Corzine with their older children, moved from Illinois to Pierce, Neb., in 1908, where he continued his life long business farming and stock raising—until three years ago when he came to Wayne and settled in their present home.

Soon after their marriage Mr. Corzine united with the Presbyterian church at Moweaqua, Ill., of which church his wife had been a member since childhood. A little later, upon going to another neighborhood where they found no Presbyterian church, they joined the Methodist Episcopal church—the denomination in which Mr. Corzine was reared—they transferred their membership to it, later on at Pierce and thence to the Methodist church in Wayne on settling here three years ago.

Benton F. Corzine was a rugged, manly man, physically, tactically, in religion and in conduct. Whatever he loved of cant or sham found no appreciation in him. He was straightforward, open and above board. In his home he was cheerful, generous, loving and beloved—a true friend.

Nearly two years ago he was taken with a terrible cough—probably whooping cough, which the children were having at the time and from that time he has made a brave, hard fight against an insidious disease which laid hold upon him. Always hopeful and determined to recover, it was as late as last Monday when he first expressed to his pastor real doubt of realizing that fond hope and purpose.

The pastor said: "You have reached the time when you should be ready to go in either direction. Is there anything in your spiritual condition that needs further attention?" A moment's thought and he replied: "I would like to recover, but I am ready and willing to do whatever may come to me." Four days later, with almost no specific warning, he "fell asleep" in the arms of his wife and daughter as they were sitting him from chair to a bed.

Mr. Corzine was the seventh child of Allen and Mary Ann Corzine who reared nine children to manhood and womanhood, of whom five are still living—two sisters at Assumption, two brothers at Stonington, Ill., and one brother at Douglas, Neb. He was a member of Evergreen lodge No. 15, A. F. & A. M. at Pierce, Neb., and also of the Modern Woodman at Wayne.

Uncle Walt The Poet Philosopher

The winter may want as it lists and carry its message of woe; the blizzard may shriek as it twirls and plies up the hills.

SOLID COMPOET: "snow; I heed not the elements' ire; I yearn not for summer or spring; I've a book and a pipe by the fire, and life is a bully good thing. The frost's lying thick on the pane, the snow's lying deep at the door; but heroes throng to win in vain done by bully and near. I have all the things I desire, I rejoice to have like a king; I've a book and a pipe by the fire, and storms are a bully good thing! So go to a far-off port, where blue is the midwinter sky, when soft, scented breezes await, and weather is fit for July. To naught of that sort aspires; you've a book and a pipe by the fire, and winter's a bully good thing. I'm fond of the long winter nights, when darkly the sky o'er us beads, when the windows of houses are bright, and smoke from the chimney ascends; there's nothing then so useful or dire, I whistle and gambol and sing. I've a pipe and a book by the fire, the world is a bully good thing!"

The outlook's rather dark and murky for yonder fat and sturdy turkey that roosts upon a limb; Thanks giving comes, the year grows grayer, and SALT RIVER grows the deer and antelope slayer will put the lid on him. Some morning when the world is waking, some morning when the dawn is breaking, the East all painted red, that will rouse from dreams, and be astonished and delighted to find he has no head. But you, who blithely plan to eat him, beware, for he'll be there when we meet him. May he before that turk; his life, alas, is so uncertain, that he never is always "firtin'", and may get in his work—just read the shomer and ponder upon the billion germs that wander around man as he walks; the billion germs that pine and languish if they can't fill his breast with anguish and put him in a box. Just think of an eagle and consider how and how he have a wider before Thanksgiving day; devour today your apple, eat and do not bank upon the knowledge that's yet two days away. We know not when the final curtain may fall on us, for life's uncertain as marriage is a ball; but while it's here, with its carousings, let's gather and enjoy its blessings in cottage and in hall.

Today is the day for me—the present is always ours; I'll hump like a bumblebee that rustles among the flowers; all thoughts of YESTERDAYS the past I've spurned, all sighs for the days of old; for yesterday's wood is burned, and yesterday's stove is cold. The present is in our grasp, for glorious deeds or crimes; then why do we sit and grieve and yearn for the good old times? The past is beneath the sod, we have but this flying hour; for yesterday's milk is sour, let's gather a store of plum, each do "ing" his little heart; or that when the evening comes and brings us the hour of rest, our neighbors may see the jinks, for which we have wrought and toiled; for yesterday's drinks are drunk, and yesterday's eggs are spoiled. Tomorrow is but a ghost, and yesterday's but a dream; to work with the hustling host—there isn't a better scheme. So gambol and dance and sing, and gather your store of rocks; today is the vital thing, today is the stuff that knocks. For yesterday's birds are gone, and yesterday's fish is hooked, and yesterday's that's in pawn, and yesterday's geese is cooked.

Oh, we have laws as thick as straws upon a stable floor; the harmless sport is hauled to court and fined till he is sore. You cannot walk LOPSIDED around a block but what LAWs some laws are cracked, and you must sneak before the hawk, and by him up be jacked. For trifling things we're pulled, by jings, and carted off to jail, and we must spend of time on evil a rattling round for bail. But if a crank like Mr. Schrank decides some one to slay, he takes his men and buys a gun and no one says him nay. Thou shalt not place a bet on race, or play a slot machine; thou shalt not speed the foaming steed, or your chug-chug machine; but you may go at will and blow yourself for earthly toils, which makes us pause, and think that laws are oft laid down by fools. You cannot get a cigarette in divers moral states, but you can still buy guns to RIDE wagon loads or crates. You cannot win a slug of joy to clear your throat of fury; but any man who's fixed to play may buy a howitzer. You'll go as far as you want, but vicious cranks, Guitans and Schrancks, a license have to slay.

The long campaign is o'er, and on Salt River's shores we stand and watch the boats of those who tried to save this country from its SALT RIVER grave, and only best their coats. The sea's cold and dark, the boatmen in their bark don't smile or sing or joke; they do not care a whoop what government's in the soup, what government goes broke. They sadly guide their ship by the white, their teardrops die into the briny flood; the captain, ho's on mate, have got their groans on straight, the vessel's name is Mat. The sailors in the hold just stand around and scold and curse their blighted lives; their hope, they murmur, ends because their faithless friends get after them with knives. Ah, dismal is the scene! The old ship's mast creaks and stinks each spar and yard; and from the haunted rigging the sailors hear the wail of woe and the wailing of the dead. The wailing along the beach reaches to the screech of elephant and moose; the donkey stands and brays for perished yesterday, and mutters: "What's the use?" Oh, sad old ship and crew, go on your weary way, with all your weeping wail. Your voyage is in vain; when there's a new campaign they'll bring you back again! Once more they'll want to save the nation from the grave, and help the Federal's cause. The shouter seems to know; her thimbers groan in woe; she wallows, tacks and yaws!

Once more around the groning board we gather in our glee, while father, with his trusty sword, or shining staff, and THANKSGIVING the large and stately bird, while we the fragments spare, from which it will may be inferred Thanksgiving day is here. And as we fill our divers tanks with viands rich and rare, we ought to breathe a hymn of thanks, since plenty's everywhere. In countless homes the laughter rings the quip and fine jest, while some are asking for the jinks, and some prefer the breast. In countless homes deep, fervent hymns the grateful people chant, while some are wishing for the limbs and some the gizzard want. In countless homes are shining eyes, and hearts will joy re-learn, while mother reaches for the pies and sends the piecious round. Such scenes as these in countless homes are acted are today, and all the birds and

Rear Axle Analysis

THE rear axle of this Overland model is a remarkably fine piece of mechanism. It is noiseless, perfectly smooth, unusually rugged and practically frictionless. It is known as the three-quarter floating type. This is a rare feature for a car at this price. Most all of the $1,000 and $1,200 cars have rear axles of the semi-floating type.

The semi-floating axle consists of a rear axle housing, the differential and the two axle shafts, which bridge between the housing and the shafts. Thus the weight of the car and its load is carried half and half on the axle shafts and on the housing. Consequently the axle shaft has to do double duty.

It is entirely different with the Overland three-quarter floating rear axle. Here the load is carried on the axle housing, directly on the bearing—and not away from it as is the case with the oldest semi-floating type of rear axle.

In distinction to many other cars, the Overland combines the transmission and the differential mechanism into one unit; in other words, the transmission is "on the rear axle" instead of amidships. This practice is employed by many producers of very high priced motor cars. The result is more rigid construction and a saving of much engine power. In the Overland transmission the shafts are short and all gear changes are made with short movements of the gear-shifting-levers in the center of the car.

All gears are of drop forged steel, case-hardened and heat-treated. Havel gears, axle shafts, brake drums, axle tubing, brass rods, transmission cases, etc., all made in Overland shops, by Overland men, and designed by Overland engineers. All parts are fitted to one-half of one-thousandth of an inch. No rear axle construction could be made more carefully or more accurately.

The description of this Overland rear axle gives you a splendid conception of how finely made this car is throughout. No car can be good in spots and weak in other spots, and be perfectly serviceable.

If we did not produce 40,000 cars a year, the price of this car would have to be raised at least 30 per cent. And this is substantiated by the fact that there is not a $1200 car built that has any more practical value to offer than this completely equipped one for $985. A comparison of competing specifications will prove this beyond doubt.

There is an Overland dealer near you who would be glad to give you a demonstration of this car—America's greatest automobile value.

Editor Wayne Herald: Since I wrote you we have passed through a great election. You doubtless know Utah gave Taft her electoral vote. Our "strike" is still on, but it is not nearly as bad as the newspapers would have you believe. It's something like what the Lady of the Decoration said about the Russia-Japan war: "Newspapers describing fighting in forts that never existed." There have been several men killed, a few wounded, but it was largely their own fault.

I notice that Mr. Kate has had the tow, half dedicated. Wayne has just cause to feel proud of the building, but she should be prouder still of the fact that she has a man as city executive who is not afraid to do things—there are not many such men, and when you have such an one as mayor help him rather than discourage his efforts. I was sorry I could not have been in Wayne for the grand reception.

The Fremont Herald approves of early revision of the tariff because of the healthy condition of our country. It thinks it can better stand any ill-effects of the operation.

Under the present road law it is apparent that results are not commensurate with the cost. If the next legislature would take the subject in hand and figure out a feasible and effective system for road improvement, it would do at least one thing of real and permanent value to the whole state.

The mere physical exercise of saying we are thankful for material and other blessings does not go far in bestowing beneficial effects. Words of gratitude and kindly good cheer, prompted by sincerity and expressive of the depths of a man's soul, reflect a standard of thinking distinctly helpful to all within its influence. One cannot be a force for good and develop his spiritual nature by moving his lips in thanking and at the same time hating and hurting a neighbor. The material damage to the neighbor, if any, is but a small fraction of the loss. The spiritual injury to the offender and offended is infinitely more to be considered and guarded against. Benevolent thinking is an essential concomitant to benevolent doing.

The postmaster general calls attention to the burden of expense caused by the franking privilege. The cost of carrying documents free for members of congress is a needless one which should be materially reduced. A great deal of matter franked to constituents is designed to gain party or personal strength. Another enormously used and largely worthless piece of stationery is the annual distribution of garden seeds. Originally, sending out garden seeds was intended to promote a business. The spirit of the law is to reduce the expense. The seeds now often fall into the hands of horticulturists, however, but are usually sent to men of political influence, and thus men who do not want a carrot top from a pumpkin vine. Congress should heed the suggestion of the postmaster general and seriously and effectively attack their own extravagance. It is a waste of money to devote some attention to reforming themselves in the matter of privileges that burden the public treasury without adequate good to the public service.

A farmer said one difficulty in making boys contented with the farm and ambitious to succeed in life is the education fits them for something easier. As a matter of fact, education and sound judgment are, as essential on the farm as in any vocation in the world. Often a young man is not satisfied with the line to which he is adapted or to which he can most easily turn with assurance of success. A young merchant believes he would like the farm; a young farmer imagines he would like to run a store or become a lawyer or doctor; a newspaper man may think that he would like to enter the ministry; a preacher believes he would prefer devoting attention to raising corn and other farm products; to the frequently discerning task of detecting men's souls. Thus, people often become uneasy and dissatisfied. A young man is an expert judge of animals, and understands the best methods for producing the biggest and best crops. Such ability requires an educated mind. But he might not be able to tell the difference between a piece of calico and a piece of broadcloth, and if he were put behind the counter in a store, his mind would be somewhere else, and he would be irritated by the seemingly trifling but necessary details of the position. The young merchant, educated in his line, would doubtless be helpless on the farm, where he may yearn to go. The hind of endeavor is a waste for the man who succeeds. Success in any line exacts close application and hard work. And inevitable toil would be lightened if one could feel content with his lot and not dream of an easy road to success, which in fact can nowhere be found.

POLITICAL JOBS
There are so many men candidates among Democrats that officers to fill such a large majority will suffer disappointment. To such disappointed ones, the following from the editor of

The Aurora Republican, who speaks from experience, will doubtless give a measure of comfort:

One of the inscrutable mysteries of human nature is the appetite of the average mind for a political job. With few exceptions the patronage plums dispensed by state and federal officials are not worth the effort, it costs to win them. Salaries are moderate, and after the first glamour of office-holding wears off, the duties are likely to be found far more irksome than those of private life. The enjoyment of one's expended in handling the average political job, and in holding it afterward, if devoted to the prosecution of private business, would bring far more profitable and satisfactory results. One of the worst evils connected with the habit is that it is likely to leave a man high and dry, and more or less addicted to re-enter the outside world's struggle for existence, just when he needs the salary the worst. Far be it from us to throw cold water on the hopes of our democratic friends, but those who fail to connect with the pie counter will not be so unfortunate as they may for a time imagine.

THANKSGIVING IN THE WOODS

URBANITES need not think they are the only persons who have a good time on Thanksgiving day, for if they could but peep into the activities of the people on the farms, they would reverse the holiday. It would not be surprising if just a tinge of envy should be incurred.

Thanksgiving day on the farm is a day of festivity and jollification. It is a genuine product of enjoyment, dependent sometimes largely upon conditions of the weather and upon the natural facilities provided for enjoyment, and it is entirely unadulterated with the more modern and perhaps superfluous trimmings of a ruralite's viewpoint contrived for entertainment of the city affords. If a nation can be judged by the manner in which its national holidays are observed, the character of the people who inhabit the country and the city can be determined by the application of the same rule.

Probably the majority of the men folk on the farms turn their thoughts to hunting on Thanksgiving day. The instinct to go out on Thanksgiving morning and shoot a turkey for the holiday feast is still quite strong in the average ruralite, although the birds have become few in number. There are comparatively few places now in the United States where a hunt results in the capture of a turkey. Those good old days, when people did not need to consult the market price of turkey when planning their Thanksgiving feast have gone by, and even on the farm some thought is given to the market price of the fine young gobbler before it is decided to serve him up for the holiday dinner instead of supplying him to the city market.

But the larder of the prudent farmer family is generally well filled, and perhaps less thought is directed to the Thanksgiving dinner as to the manner of sport and enjoyment that can be obtained out of the day. Fowls of some kind are always to be found in abundance about the barnyard, and the preparations for the dinner require but little time when a decision is made as to what the menu shall consist of. And "butchering time" is just passed, and in the cellar of the smoke house are plenty of good hams that would make the mouth of an urbanite water.

So thoughts turn to the field and forest for a day's hunting. And it seems to be about the only day in the year when nearly every man and boy old enough to handle a gun goes hunting. The farmer will let the hunters from the city bang about all over his farm during the early part of the season, when game is plenty--if it ever is--but he will keep right about busting his corn, baling his hay, hauling in pumpkins, etc., until Thanksgiving day comes around. Then he gets the hunting fever.

There is no work done on Thanksgiving. It would be almost a heathenish act not to "make the day off," no matter how urgent the farm work may be. If there is snow on Thanksgiving it is a regular day in paradise for the men and boys, for then it is quite an easy matter to track Mr. Bunny to his hiding place and chase him out to become a target for the hunters. The rabbit being about the only kind of game that cannot be exterminated, but sticks like the faithful dog wherever space is cleared away for a home in the forest, it is the most common game that is hunted on Thanksgiving. Although there is often about one hunter for every rabbit, this does not seem materially to diminish the sport, for after the dogs over those who are short in their string of game take consolation in the fact that they "had a good time anyway."

Aside from rabbit hunting, there is a little game to be found in most wood-try districts, such as pheasants and quail. But whether all this game has been killed earlier in the season by professional hunters, makes little difference to the people in the country, for they will have their annual hunt on Thanksgiving day at any rate. It is an unusual custom with them, and the woods and fields constitute a sort of Mecca to which they make their visits as regularly as the holiday comes.

But with it all the Thanksgiving dinner is looked forward to with a somewhat primary importance that indicates that the farmer and the resident of the city are not so much alike in their holiday inclinations after all.

ONE WAY OF GETTING CIDER FOR THANKSGIVING

The annual spectacle of a celebrated Boston divine doing sentry duty with a musket on his shoulder in front of his own residence on Thanksgiving morning, and all for the purpose of securing a drink of Thanksgiving cider is worth retaining, even after a lapse of 133 years.

Dr. Matthew Byles, a Puritan clergyman, born in Boston in 1701, owed his fame to his wit and practical jokes as much as to his pious ability. In November, 1779, he was arrested as a Tory and sentenced to confinement in his own house. A military guard was stationed around the house with instructions not to permit Dr. Byles to leave house under any circumstances.

On Thanksgiving morning the staid old Puritan of the arrested minister's flock were surprised to see their pastor leisurely packing up and down before his own front door with a musket on his shoulder. The regular sentry had disappeared, and Dr. Byles was doing sentry duty in his stead.

"You see," Dr. Byles explained, "I begged the sentry to let me go out to procure some cider with which my family and I might celebrate Thanksgiving day. He would not permit me to leave the house. So I proceeded to argue the point with him, and he has now gone to get the cider for me on condition that I shoulder his musket, and keep guard over myself during his absence."

Inconsistency.
 "What is inconsistency?" asked the curious one.
 "Well," responded the wise one, "it is that spirit which moves a woman whose steers stop at the elbow to send her maid to buy a new hat, but says she will not buy any hats on Exchange."

THE LOST FALCON.

Its Curious Recovery and a Test to Which It Responded.

A curious story about a falcon is told in "Game Birds and Wild Fowls." A colonel in the English army on a visit to Canada took with him two peregrines. During the voyage across the Atlantic one was missed, and the owner made up his mind that it was irretrievably lost.

While in Halifax some weeks later he happened to see in a newspaper a paragraph to the effect that an American schooner just arrived in port had on board a fine hawk that had come on board during the passage from Liverpool. It at once occurred to the colonel that it might be his falcon, and he lost no time in visiting the schooner.

The captain of the craft was inclined to doubt his story, but the colonel suggested that his claim to the ownership of the bird be put to a test. He was to be brought into the presence of the hawk and if the bird was his he felt sure that it would show signs of recognition that would convince the bystanders that he was its owner. The trial was agreed upon, and the hawk was brought into the room.

The door was hardly opened before it darted for the shoulder of the colonel and evinced by every means in its power its delight and affection. It rubbed its head softly against his cheek and taking hold of the buttons of his coat, clamped them playfully between its mandibles.

The proof was sufficient, and the bird was promptly given over to the rightful owner.

He Obeyed Orders.
 Sir Henry Roscoe tells this of the scientist Faraday and his assistant, Sergeant Anderson: "Anderson was the sole assistant to Faraday, and of course was utterly uneducated in scientific matters, but he could obey orders, which is not always a characteristic of an educated man. One day Anderson was told by Faraday to keep stirring a pot containing some chemicals over a fire until he returned, Faraday being in the habit of going upstairs to begin his lessons and coming down directly afterward to work in the laboratory during the evening. For some reason he was prevented from coming down again and forgot that he kept stirring Anderson to watch the pot. On coming down the next morning he found Anderson still stirring the pot, having been at it the whole night and thus carrying out the order which was given him."

From the Wayne Herald-Tribune, No. 26, 1886:

A correspondent of the Lincoln Journal visited Wayne and as a result contributed the following article to that paper describing this place:

Wayne is situated near the center of the county and is backed on three sides by well settled farming communities. Every branch of business is carried on here by thrifty and enterprising business men, and all the town seems to make it its home. A cross line of railroad and the county generally will improve. In churches and schools the town is well fixed, there being four of the former—already built and a fifth under contract. The school is first class and well attended. A new roller mill has just been completed by Weber Brothers at a cost of $10,000, while the question of waterworks is being talked by citizens as one that needs attention. And it does, as there are not many brick buildings in the place, nearly all being frame, and such structures as would burn down in twenty minutes with a started fire and fair wind. About the best brick in the place is occupied by F. B. Taylor with the Citizens' bank on the first floor. This is a strong financial institution, and Mr. Taylor is making it pay for himself and for his customers. A. P. Childs, now runs the Gazette upstairs in this building, and his brother, A. N. Childs, practices law from the same office. A. A. Welch reads law and disposes of the same to farming clients. The hall in front, James Britton, one of the best lawyers in northeast Nebraska, deals in justice.

Other gentlemen whom I met were these: Goshorn & McNeal, who make the Herald-Tribune a good paper; D. C. Patterson of the First National bank; George F. Sebald, the best barber who respects any hardneck check since I left Lincoln; Frank Fuller, as good a lawyer of his years as I know; I. O. Woolston, general merchant and a rattling good business man; P. L. Miller, leading grocer of the place; County Clerk Steele who is a genial fellow; Dr. W. A. Love who practices medicine and deals in drugs, paints and oils, and last, but not least by considerable, A. H. Ellis who runs the Best hotel and makes it one of the very best hotels to be met with in any section. Mr. Ellis used to be in and about Beatrice, but for two years past he has been where I found him, and making money.

From the Wayne Herald, December 15, 1902:

The residence owned by Dr. Regan and occupied by Dan Harrington, was destroyed by fire.

E. Cunningham and family, move to Wayne from Gilman, Ia.

Local market: Corn, 24 cents; wheat, 45 cents; oats, 20 cents; hogs, $5.25.

A. A. Welch moves into his new residence on Douglas street.

From the Wayne Herald, December 11, 1902:

J. H. Pingree suffers a stroke of apoplexy.

F. L. Neely and family who moved to the state of Washington, decided to return to Wayne.

Local market: Corn, 32 cents; wheat, 57 cents; oats, 22 cents; hogs, $5.30.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Strahan were summoned to Wayne from Malvern, Ia., on account of the serious illness of Mrs. Ella Strahan Conger who was suffering from typhoid fever.

From Ponca Journal, December 9, 1888:

The long continued, infernally cold weather, leads us to pity those who live nearer the north pole than we do.

The higher and intermediate departments of the Ponca school closed last Friday, and the primary classes this week.

The Ponca Coal company commenced this week to bore down to the lower coal bed, as advised by Professor Aughey.

Those who miss their advertisements from this issue, may know as the reason that just as we were about to go to press an accident happened which reduced three columns, of as handsome ads. as ever were seen to the most conglomerated mess of "pi" that ever struck a print shop.

The present term of the Silver Ridge seminary will end next week. That excellent school, under its talented and popular teacher, Rev. W. H. Clark, is rapidly gaining a wide reputation.

Lieutenant Norris returned Saturday evening from a visit to his friends in Minnesota. We are glad to learn that he has entered into a co-partnership with Counselor Gantt in the law business.

From the Ponca Journal, November 26, 1887:

Dakota City (so says a friend from that place) is an old city, and it really is a most pleasant town, and its citizens are not to be excelled for refinement and hospitality.

At the late election in Wayne county, nearly all the old officers were left out in the cold and a new set elected. R. R. Crawford was elected clerk; J. T. Hresczer, treasurer; J. E. Hunter, judge; J. W. Ager, sheriff, and A. D. Allen coroner.

Mr. Rockwell, the poet laureate, will undoubtedly now tackle the muse, and describe in a plethoric poetic effusion the earthquake which lately afflicted this hyperborean region. Our columns will be kept open for the poem, and if it is to be heard that next week, at farthest it will reach us.

John H. Armstrong of South-Creek states that the earthquake broke and tore up a large portion of his farm. Level ground was chawed into ravines, ravines were filled up, and dry land was transformed into mud, with pools of water unattractable, incomprehensible and by reason of their sulphurous smell, diabolical and abominable. Verily this is getting to be a wonderful country.

Since the earthquake, we have not heard what the effect was on the Ionia volcano. Whether it increases the spouting or whether it is dried up by the operation, we have not heard. It is rumored that the shaking of the earth has opened a crevice near the volcano which emits sulphurous fumes. If such is the case, we will endeavor to have it investigated, thereby ascertaining perchance the cause of the volcanic action.

"GRAUSTARK"
When "Graustark," George Barr McCutcheon's book play, which has been dramatized for stage purposes by Grace Hayward, comes to the Wayne opera house, Monday, December 2, the theatre-goers of Wayne will have the opportunity of witnessing the most talked of and successful romantic drama before the public in recent years.

This play has been dramatized with Mr. McCutcheon's novel as a basis, and these readers of fiction who have passed a few hours pleasantly pursuing same, will be more than satisfied with its appearance in play form.

Miss Hayward, who made the dramatization, has closely followed the book. From the time of the meeting of the young couple in Denver, through the strenuous and trying ordeals of court life and intrigues, to the final culmination of the story, he has been most faithful in his portrayal.

The play comes to Wayne with the assurance of all concerned in its presentation, of a most excellent cast of players, especially fitted for their parts, and a magnificent scenic production of old world scenes, with costumes to match.

It is seldom a mythical principality such as Graustark is used as a back ground for a play; hence the tremendous success of this offering. Not since the "Prisoner of Zenda" was given for the delectation of theatre goers has there been a romantic drama as clean and wholesome as "Graustark."

As a dramatic offering, it should surely prove the banner attraction of the year.

STATE NORMAL NEWS.

President Conn and Dean Hahn visited the high school department of the Colbridge and Laurels schools last Thursday afternoon.

On Thursday and Friday of this week school will be dismissed in all departments and nearly all the students will spend Thanksgiving day at home.

President Conn has announced that the holiday vacation will begin at Saturday, December 21, and that work will be resumed on Monday morning, January 6.

Miss M. Dorothy Schultz, a student of the summer term and now engaged in school work in Stinson county, has been a visitor at the Normal during the past week.

Miss Edith M. Rouse, one of the successful teachers of Holt county, entered the Normal the first of the week and will take special work in the department of domestic science.

The Wayne county teachers' association, which is to hold a session on December 7, will be addressed by Dr. J. P. House, his subject being "If We Were Again a Country School Teacher."

A very excellent program was given by the Crescent literary society last Saturday evening. Each number presented showed careful preparation, and the meeting as a whole reflected credit upon the management of the society.

A special chapel service has been arranged for Wednesday morning, the exercises being under the auspices of the Philomathean literary society.

The last issue of the Goldenrod, now all was imparted from which it appeared that Professor Lahey was in need of an adding machine. It was written as a joke, but an unsuspecting agent made a trip to Wayne and ordered to supply him with the latest Burroughs model for $250.

A special chapel service has been arranged for Wednesday morning, the exercises being under the auspices of the Philomathean literary society. The program will consist of special music under the direction of Professor Coleman, reading of the President's Thanksgiving proclamation by Alfred H. Law, recitation by a pupil from the model school, reading by George Wilcox and a vocal duet by Mr. Rogers and Miss Albrecht.

let, assisted by a reader, gave a concert in the chapel on Friday evening, November 22. This concert was one of the entertainments of a series of athletic events and entertainments for which student tickets had been sold early in the fall. The concert was well attended by students and citizens of the town and was well received by all present.

Wayne Normal Losses to Chadron. The following report from the pen of Coach F. E. Martin tells the story of the football game with the Chadron Normal last Friday afternoon:

Worn out by an all night ride, the Wayne State Normal football team went down to defeat before the husky team of the Chadron Normal. A terrific rain swept over the field from the northwest, rendering impossible the use of the forward pass, upon which Wayne depended. Chadron played the old style line-smashing game. The speedy half backs of the western team shattered the flanks of the Wayne line and ripped through tackle for gain after gain. But with all their weight and speed they were unable to penetrate the center of the line. Mines played himself a star in this position, and his heady, consistent playing, coupled with the determination to defend his color against all odds, won the admiration of both friends and foes.

Wayne's line, with the exception of a few men, were not up to the secondary defense was constantly called into action to stem the tide of the rushing half back. The back field trio, Gildersleeve, Welch and Townsend, played well and had they received proper support from the line, might have turned defeat into victory. Johnson played a very effective, offensive game, opening several holes through which Welch and Gildersleeve plunger for gains of from five to ten yards. At the close, the score stood 27 to 0 in favor of Chadron.

ORDER OF HEARING ON PETITION FOR APPOINTMENT OF ADMINISTRATOR.

In the county court of Wayne county, Nebraska, County of Wayne.

To the heirs and to all persons interested in the estate of Florantine Papstein, deceased.

On reading the petition of Arthur Papstein, praying that the administrator, pro hac vice, and the secondary administrator, be appointed, it is hereby ordered that you, and all persons interested in said matter, may, and do appear at the County Court to be held in and for said County, on the 16th day of December, A. D. 1912, at 2 o'clock p. m., to show cause, if any, why the petition should be granted, and that notice of the pending of said petition and that the hearing there be given to all persons interested in said matter by publishing a copy of this order in the Wayne Herald, a weekly newspaper printed in said county, for three successive weeks prior to said day of hearing.

Witness my hand and seal of said Court, this 25th day of November, A. D. 1912.

(Seal) JAMES BRIDGTON, County Judge

INTEREST GROWING AT UNION MEETINGS

(Continued.) One week and a half of our special meetings have passed. We have already had a great meeting in many respects. Evangelist Lingren is leading in a noble way. The people are responding in a good spirit. Last Sunday afternoon at the Baptist church, a remarkable service was conducted by Mr. Lingren. It was a unique, sane and helpful service on behalf of young people and children. A good number of them made noble response to his appeals. Our hearts were touched to see the spirit of sincerity manifested by those who came forward.

Below are some things from his Sunday night's sermon. Read them thoughtfully.

"For there is no difference, for all have sinned and come short of the glory of God. The hardest task we have is to make people in an emotional way, or slight-of-hand methods. He lets the plain, simple truth work itself out in its own way. You ought to hear this man. He has something for you."

"Below are some things from his Sunday night's sermon. Read them thoughtfully. 'For there is no difference, for all have sinned and come short of the glory of God. The hardest task we have is to make people in an emotional way, or slight-of-hand methods. He lets the plain, simple truth work itself out in its own way. You ought to hear this man. He has something for you.'"

"Receive Christ into your heart and life and you will be saved, no matter how bad you may be; reject him and you will be lost, no matter how good you may be."

Announcements. There will be a special musical program Thanksgiving night in connection with the union revival meetings at the M. E. church. Quartets, duets, trios and solo instrumental selections will be rendered.

Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock Evangelist Lingren will speak to men only at the Presbyterian church. This is a meeting every man should attend. There will be special music by the male chorus.

The subject Sunday night will be "Hot Shot for Skeptics." This is an address that has changed the course and life of a number of infidels and skeptics.

WANTS TO GET OUT OF ASYLUM.

Monday's Norfolk Daily News: Mrs. Maggie Davis, an inmate of the Norfolk insane hospital, where she was sent following her acquittal at Hartington of the murder of Ira Churchill, is not insane and wants to get out of the asylum, the superintendent has written to Judge Graves of the district court and also to Judge Reese of the supreme court for advice as to what to do with the woman, but neither court will take the responsibility to recommend.

Mrs. Davis was convicted at her first trial and sentenced to life imprisonment. Later on, a new trial was granted by the supreme court on the ground that she had not been permitted to plead insanity, the woman was acquitted on the ground that she was insane at the moment she killed the man. She was brought to the Norfolk asylum, but has never shown any signs of insanity here.

County Attorney O'Hara of Cedar county is quoted as saying that he will vigorously oppose the release of Mrs. Davis.

"Graustark." George Barr McCutcheon's thrilling romance of a love behind a throne, has not only made a fortune for its author, but for two different firms of publishers, and now promises to make a fortune for a firm of theatrical managers who have secured dramatic rights for the book and are presenting the play in the leading theaters of the principal cities this season. It is conservatively estimated that more than one million people have read the book, and as there is an edition on the market now, it is certainly safe to say that it will probably continue to be read for some time to come. Judging by the immense crowds who turned out to see this play when presented in New York, Chicago and Philadelphia, the majority of those who read the book desired to see the story portrayed in dramatized form. The play opens Monday, December 3, at the Grand Opera.

THE WEEK WITH THE CHURCHES.

St. Mary's Catholic Church. (Rev. William Kearns, Pastor.) Mass at 10:15 Sunday morning. Catechetical instruction as usual in the afternoon and benediction at 7:30 in the evening.

St. Paul's Lutheran Church. (Rev. J. Kuhn, Pastor.) Sunday school 10 to 11 a. m. Preaching at 11 a. m.

At the preaching services on next Sunday the Holy Communion will be celebrated. The preparatory service will be before the sermon. At this time a special offering will be taken for ministerial education to be applied to appointment of synod. The pastor would like to see the entire membership in attendance. A cordial invitation is extended to the general public.

The Sunday school is planning for Christmas. A good program is assured. They should be a large addition for department added to the school. We earnestly hope such may not be scarce. Come and help us.

The choir meets regularly at the home of Mrs. Miller on Friday evening. Any who can sing will be gladly welcome to help.

First Methodist Church. (Rev. William Gorst, Pastor.) "When First Things are Displaced" will be the topic of discourse next Sunday morning.

The Thursday evening services of this week will be distinctively Thanksgiving services and everybody is most cordially invited to attend.

Evangelist Lingren conducted a most unique and successful meeting for children and young people last Sunday afternoon at the Baptist church. His voice was never raised above a conversational tone. He refused all methods that might excite or procure action on the part of any person because some one else had acted. Each one must decide for himself and come forward by himself as a token that he personally mean now accepts Jesus as his savior. Before the services closed, though time after time the warning had been given: "Don't do this unless you are in deepest earnest." About thirty children and young people had come forward and accepted the Saviour.

Next Sunday will be a great day. At 10 o'clock in the afternoon there will be a men's meeting at the Presbyterian church. Every man in Wayne should attend and many from out in the county and towns nearby. It will be a great meeting.

First Baptist Church. (Rev. R. P. Richardson, Pastor.) The usual hour of the usual hour there will be our regular service. But on next Sunday we shall have our communion service. It is fitting to keep this memorial meal in memory of our Lord and Savior. The pastor's communion address will be on the subject: "The Way of Rest." Matt. 11:28-30.

We are desirous that all who have come into our church since last month, by baptism or otherwise, will be present Sunday morning and receive the hand of church fellowship. It is a great inspiration to us to see so many strong, enthusiastic young people of our college publicly surrender their lives to Christ. The possibilities of the next three days are great. Thinking young people to this point of decision is our greatest contribution to their welfare.

Our Sunday school and young people will hold their regular sessions on Sunday. Let us bring the revival spirit into all these activities of the church. Notice the special announcement about the union revival meetings in another section of this paper. Do not fail to attend these meetings.

Presbyterian Church. (Rev. Alexander Corkey, Pastor.) Morning service will begin next Sunday at 10:30 at the Presbyterian church. The services will be especially interesting in harmony with the union meetings now being held.

The Sunday school will meet at 10 o'clock, after the service of worship. At 3 o'clock a men's meeting will be held at the church under the leadership of Evangelist Lingren. All men who are interested in a splendid effort to uplift the world are cordially welcomed to this meeting. In the evening the congregation will unite in the union meetings at the M. E. church. Paul Mines will conduct the Mission Study class of the C. E. next Sunday evening from 6:30 to 7:30 o'clock. The hour of the Sunday school has been changed from 10:30 to 11:00 a. m.

DESTROYS SLEEP Many Wayne People Testify to This

You can't sleep at night With aches and pains of a bad back When you have to get up from urinary troubles. If the kidneys are at fault Set them working aright with Doan's Kidney Pills. Here is proof of their efficiency. Mrs. W. M. Fleetwood, Wayne, Neb., says: "When I began using Doan's Kidney Pills, I was in such great misery that I could hardly get about. There was a dull heavy ache across the small of my back and I was lame and stiff. I had a feeling of tiredness and languor and it was out of the question for me to rest well at night. I felt the beneficial effect of Doan's Kidney Pills immediately after using them and I continued taking them until I was restored to good health. Whenever I hear of anyone complaining of ached kidneys, I advise a trial of Doan's Kidney Pills."
