ATTEMPT ON LIFE OF COLONEL ROOSEVELT

SHOT BY CRANK IN MILWAUKEE

Wound Not Considered Serious and Latest Report From Hospital Favorable

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 14--Theodore Roosevelt was shot in the breast here by a would-be assassin. With a bullet in his body Colonel Roosevelt went to the auditorium to make his speech...

The wound was superficial and the colonel went on to the hall and began his speech after he had seen the assassin arrested and taken to the police station...

Description of the wound was given tonight by Dr. W. B. McCauley, the first to be given by the public by the surgeons. He said the bullet's path through the muscles of the chest is located to some extent by the battered coat, but that there was little contusion and no extensive area of bruise and laceration surrounding the tissue...

"The bullet did not murther, as might have been expected," said Dr. McCauley. "For that reason it cut a comparatively small hole in the skin and did not reduce a large portion of the muscle tissue to pulp. As the size of a soft bullet that murther in animal tissue that hits a bone, I think the bundle of papers checked it, and the spectacle case for some reason failed to spread the bullet much."

Mrs. H. F. Wilson Monday afternoon and devoted the session to a general discussion of this subject: "Are American Women Losing Their Love for Home?" The club served a light course luncheon at the close of the session...

It was "Citizens' day" at the meeting of the Monday club at the home of Mrs. Chace this week. Mrs. Hahn talked on the subject, "Our Public Schools;" Mrs. Chace, "Swat the Day;" Mrs. Kato, "Wayne, the City Beautiful;" and Mrs. Welch, "The High Cost of Living." These subjects were ably presented and proved both interesting and helpful...

Do you want to save half your coal bill?

How much money did you spend for coal last year? Let us say you spent $40.00. If there was a way in which you could buy that amount of coal for $20.00 this year, you would want to know about it, wouldn't you?

We can't sell you coal for half price, but we can show you how you can heat your home perfectly this winter at half the expense of last year's fuel.

With a Favorite Base Burner you can heat every room in your home comfortably on the coldest day of winter; and do it with less coal than is possible with any other Base Burner.

Why? Because the Favorite is the only Base Burner which pours heat into the room from every square inch of its surface. It gets every atom of heat out of the coal and throws it all into the room. None goes up the chimney. You get the benefit of every bit of heat from every piece of coal you buy. Your home is warm and comfortable on blustery, icy-cold days when, with any other Base Burner your family and children would be huddling in a frozen group around an apparently inactive stove.

When you come to the question of a heating stove, you can't afford to overlook the FAVORITE. It is unquestionably the Best Base Burner made.

Those who heard the address of Dr. W. E. Chalmers of Philadelphia say it is one of the best school talks ever given before the school. Mr. William Ritchie, formerly county superintendent of Cheyenne county, and now representing the University Publishing company of Lincoln, was a visitor Wednesday. He was accompanied by Fred C. Williams, the general agent for Silver, Burdette & Company. The chapel exercises on Wednesday morning were of unusual interest. It was very pleasing to the school to have so many distinguished visitors present. The inspiring address of Dr. Stackhouse of New York, was listened to with the closest attention and the vocal duet sung by Mr. and Mrs. Brown was greatly enjoyed. Professor J. T. House has been receiving the congratulation of friends upon the completion of his work leading to the degree of Doctor of Philosophy in the University of Chicago. Dr. House's scholarly attainments have already won him recognition as one of the leading educators of Nebraska, and it is highly pleasing to his friends to know that he holds a Doctor's degree from one of the great universities. The report of Miss Steeking for the month ending October 11, 1912, shows that the following pupils in the primary department were neither absent nor tardy during the month: Gladys Ernest, Henrietta, Hursted, Phyllis James, Charles Senter, John Ahern, Claire Senter, Edna Senter, Myrtle Senter, Lyle Senter, Lyle Senter, Gordon Leckey, Mary Skiles, Frances Cherry, Donna Senner, Irma Bennick, Theodore Kraus, Dora, Nina Barnatt, Fred

SPANISH SWINDLE AIMS AT WAYNE MAN

GEO. GRUNEMEYER GETS LETTER

Writer Claims to be Imprisoned Banker Who Wants Help in Return for Share of Fortune.

George Grunemeyer, local plumber, has received a neatly penned letter from an account purporting to have been written by an imprisoned banker who wants help to rescue a fortune of $480,000 for his "darling daughter." In return for assistance he proposes to give one-third of the fortune. Accompanying the letter is a newspaper clipping giving the details of two crimes charged against the banker—one for absconding from Russia, with five millions of rubles and the other for killing a man in Spain. He claims his fortune which he wants is tucked away in a secret place in his baggage which was seized and which he needs help to recover. This the appeal to Mr. Grunemeyer, the banker is in jail. Mr. Grunemeyer is advised not to write a letter, but to send a cablegram, asking for more details, thus indicating his willingness to be roped in.

This is not the first swindle of the kind, attempted by a Spanish source on Americans. Some years ago letters were received in this country of a similar character. A man in jail and a "darling daughter" were chief figures in the plot then as they are now.

Mr. Grunemeyer is not the only Nebraskan selected as a victim of the evident swindle. The Omaha Trade Exhibit gives this account of letters received recently at Fremont from a banker, all purporting to come from a Madrid address, has been flooding into Fremont lately. "A dozen Fremont business men have reported getting them. J. T. Harkness was made the recipient of one a day or two ago. R. E. Turner and J. R. Baker are others who have been targeted in a neatly penned letter to aid the absconding Russian banker with a sweet daughter in hope of receiving a third of the fortune he stole.

"A Fremont man who returned a few days ago from an extended trip through Europe says the operations of the Spanish swindlers are well known to the natives in Spain and France, and that efforts are being made to prevent them. They seem to have a great organization, conducted something on the plan of a mail order house, and influential men are believed to be concerned. A Frenchman told the promoter that the police of France charge that a company has been organized which employs a managing director, a staff of penmen, ledgers and classified correspondence. The concern has ramifications all over Spain, each provincial capital having a branch office with a sub-director and a special code for the transmission of secret messages.

"There are workshops for the making of the false checks, which are made to give an appearance of genuineness to counterfeit documents like court orders and magisterial decisions.

"Owing to the concern having an excellent espionage service, the chief operators of the swindle got warning in time of the intended action of the police. The general manager has an automobile always ready at his disposal, and availing himself of this he crossed the border into France. Only subordinates and a confederate were arrested.

"The plan of the operators is to induce recipients of their letters to deposit a sum of money for the release of the supposed imprisoned banker. This money, of course, is never returned. Cable messages, the photograph of a handsome Spanish girl and in extreme instances, the actual meeting of the girl with the victim of the swindle figure in the series of transactions intended to bring deposits "across." So far as is known no one in Fremont or vicinity has been caught by the scheme, but at least one man is known to have carried on a correspondence for a period with the swindlers."

Reducing a Pound to Nothing.
"In what way is the lightest on the scales?" A British scientist has attempted to tell how to make the proof, but it isn't the easiest thing in the world either to prepare the sound of lead or place it in position for the proof. He says that making 1,000 small balls of the pound or lead the weight remains the same though the surface is greatly increased. Thus reduce the small balls into 1,000,000 balls, with the surface enormously increased, but the light still weighs the one pound in the scales. But this scientist says that if these 1,000,000,000 particles further are reduced to one twenty thousandth of an inch each, they will rest in the atmosphere. Just where they are placed. This for the reason that that pressure of light from the sun exactly overcomes the forces of gravitation. To make the lead disappear he says, never, the scientist says that the sun might select them and hurl them into space.

TEACHERS MEET AT EMERSON SATURDAY

ABOUT THREE HUNDRED ATTEND

Timely Papers and Lively Discussions—Interesting Speeches and Good Music.

Although it was difficult for rural teachers to get in from their schools on account of the heavy rainfall of the previous day, about 360 school people attended the meeting at Emerson Saturday.

Sectional Meetings in Forenoon.
The rural school section which met in the assembly room of the Emerson high school building was well attended and the discussions were animated.

A. Emmet Andrews of Hubbard, read a paper on "Composition for Rural Grades," that contained many good points. One splendid point particularly emphasized was that there should be three or four days of oral preparation before a pupil is told to write an "essay" on any subject.

The paper that provoked the most discussion was the one read by Miss Edith Carter of Dorcas, who took as her subject, "The Other Side." The hard lot of the rural teacher was set forth in so doleful a manner that one wondered how anybody could continue teaching in the country. After the reading of the paper, Superintendent Teed, who presided in this section, invited the teachers to tell their woes, and such a wail there were school boards who ordered the doors to be left unlocked so that tramps would not break them down when they wished to stay all night; stores that ungodly teachers who had to pay for the carrying of drinking water, and who had to "scrub out" after election; and then, after working so hard to earn a month's wages, had to trot to three corners of the district to get their check on a bank "ten miles away."

There are a few who are not so pessimistic, however, and there were those who objected seriously to this long-faded, pessimistic view of the situation.

In the high school section, presided over by Superintendent J. H. Kemp, Superintendent A. B. C. Jacobs of Tekamah, advocated that agriculture taught in high schools should be local and should be outlined by the teacher. The subject was generally discussed by Professor Lackey, Superintendent Lundak of Wakefield, and Superintendent Lief of Pender.

Superintendent F. W. Rice of Sioux, read an original paper on "Modern Optimism and the Profession." He said, "A made-in-Germany smile is worn too much and the pupils know it is insincere."

Superintendent C. M. Matheny of Emerson, handled the subject, "High School English" in a most satisfactory manner. Less intensive work on the classics, but more of them covered with plenty of composition work, and a four-year course is his idea of a properly balanced English course.

"The Social Efficiency" of the high school was discussed by Superintendent E. C. Hansen of Walthill. That the high school does not meet demands of the present time was admitted. Others who took part in the discussion were Professor J. C. W. Lewis, Miss Beck of the Emerson high school, Miss Kingsbury and Superintendent Gibson of Lyons.

The writer was not present at either the grammar or the primary section, but those who were present report good attendance and interesting discussions. Miss Mamie Wallace presided over the primary section and Miss Clara Burson read a paper in the grammar section.

General Session.
The Wayne Normal quartet, Dean H. H. Hahn, Chancellor C. A. Fulmer and State Superintendent DeBell appeared on the program in the afternoon. Mr. Hahn in his address on "Man-Engines in Man-making," dwelt upon the influences of heredity in determining the character of the child, and closed with a plea for the right of every child to be well born.

State Superintendent DeBell spoke on the subject, "Developing the Individuality of the Child." He said: "No one should select the life-work for another." He showed how too often teachers and parents are guilty of trying to make "room for a peg in a square hole." His address was inspirational and well received by the audience.

The program was rounded out by Chancellor Fulmer who emphasized the influence of environment in developing character. He made his address very practical by bringing in concrete examples of bad environment in homes and school houses.

The Music.
Mrs. Murfree who supervises the music in the Emerson schools, directed the Emerson pupils as they sang before each sectional meeting. Their work was excellent when one considers they have only had musical instruction since the beginning of this school year.

The Wayne Normal quartet appeared twice on the general program and both times was most enthusiastically received.

Base Burners

Certainly one of these beautifully designed, and economical stoves should appeal to your sound judgment when you buy a base burner.

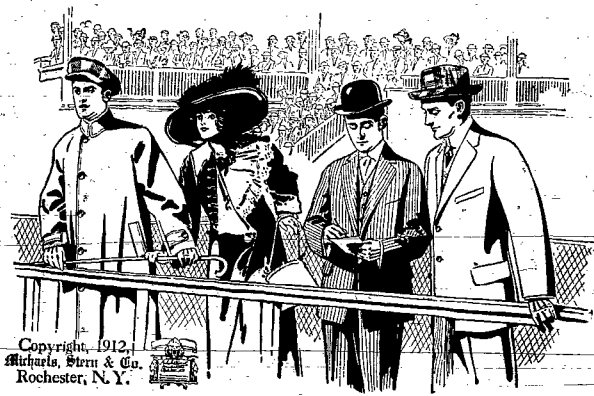

Everything a late model stove contains is built into these two stoves:

Three flue return.
Nickel removed in one minute without touching a bolt or screw.
Ground joints, and the best of iron.

In fact, there is nothing lacking in either of these stoves—and three beautiful designs from which to make a choice.

Uncle Walt The Poet Philosopher

The falling leaves float, dizzy, on every vagrant breeze; and some one should get busy and glue them to the trees. I hate to see them falling down to their great MURKINS; my tomb; they bring reflections galling of death and sable plumes. The end of all endeavor they seem to typify; I can't hang on forever, like them I'll wilt and die. 'Tis them I'll whirl and eddy and land down in the mud, and there I fear, already, I'll make an lousier track. Man, think that when he'll perish, his friends will break their hearts; his memory they'll cherish, alas, when he departs it is a sad confession--the world but lightly grieves; he makes no more impression than do the falling leaves. His conditions may languish while and tear their hair, and suffer what agonies; but they alone will care. He'll be the solar system; when he dies, he'll be a star, and I will rub you.

My barns are full of succotash that grew on every knoll and tor; and I'm preparing now to thrash my spinach and excelsior. I filled the soil, though grievous was the heat, I sowed; the gods rewarded all my toil, and I am fixed for winter now. Behind my lop-eared buckskin mare I plowed the corn rows, day by day, and gave but little thought or care, to things a thousand miles away. The READY FOR summer long I killed WINTER. I have a head of corn, and I am fixed for winter now. My neighbors often went to town to buy a bee. I swung the ax, I plowed the saw, I herded hens and milked the cow; I raised a bumper crop of slaw, and I am fixed for winter now. My barns are full of cocklebur, the product of my fertile lands; my cheerful wife is weaving furs, the girls have diamonds on their hands. The man who fooled with Vital Things now goes around with moody brow; to him the winter troubles bring, but I am fixed for winter now. It's expanding to be joyous when the straw-vote fiends annoy us, when they pass the bat for ballots in their dippy, dizzy way; it's HARD WORK is hard to look serene o'er this idyllic traffic, when we'd like to take a bluebeam or an ax, and slip, and slay! It is hard to keep on beaming when the girl next door is screaming some old, stale, moth-eaten ballad of the Injun maiden kind; hard it is to be pretending that the melody heart-rending is a solace to your spirit, a refreshment to your mind. It is hard to keep on grinning in a fashion glad and winning when the tall, distinguished stranger who's admitted to your home, proposes as a base, designing agent who begins whining of his starving wife and parents and his "History of Rome." Ah, the strain on us is frightful when we smile and cry "Delightful!" at the coming of some kindred whose arrival's a surprise; oh we think their visit is merry, for the house is topsy-turvy, and the shack's already crowded, and the barber's short of pins. We are most heroic mortals! Every day man smiles and chortles when he's full of gall and wormwood and would like to wall a few; every day when he'd be weeping if he had his way he's keeping up a front serene, undaunted, crying cock-a-doodle-doo! The road that leads to Sleepytown is causing much complaining, and folks was travel up and down forget the moral training. For GOOD AND when the weather's BAD ROADS wet that road is like the swamp named DIM, and horses, with their wagonload, sink in the depths abysmal. And motorists who go still was so, and they're in a panic that they'll be stuck there to best the best of them.

the weather's dry those tracks are ridged and rough and rutty, and travelers have broken backs or else are driven nifty. And in the streets of Sleepytown the citizens foregather, and say: "Other's something keeps us down and handicaps us rather. Why is our burg thus standing still, no prizes ever landing? The rival village Rustleville, is growing and expanding! The roads that lead to Rustleville are excellent, inviting; and over valley, bridge and hill the travelers are skating, no broken axletree or the hinges from a burst of swearing; no horses founder in the mire or swim for shore despairing. And so to Rustleville they go, the crowds, with cheerful chatter; at Sleepytown, immersed in woe, they wonder what's the matter!"

Young Bulger in our village grew to manhood, and we thought him slick. "He'll win prizes before long," he'd say through. "For he's THE LARGER FIELD a brick." He held positions here and there, and all employers said the same; he was a youth of genius rare, destined to rise to wealth and fame. He harvested so great a yield of praise his head began to swell; "I'll have to seek a larger field," he said; "I see, that very well. A man can't in a village shine; his punk surroundings hold him down; 'twere shame to hide such gifts as mine beneath a bushel in this town." So Bulger shook the village ground, and to the city took his way, and we old shags who stayed behind were sure that he'd put up much hay. The years rolled on; there came no news of victories that Bulger won. "Just wait," we said, "we'll bet our shoes he'll make a noise before he's done." We listened for such news in vain, and Bulger 't'other day came back; a brakeman kicked him from the train and shoed him from the railway track. He's working now in Pumphead's store and draws less wages, so they tell, than he was paid five years before, just when his head began to swell. "The larger field," poor Bulger sighs, "still runs the village champs elsewhere; they leave a load of meat and pies to live on husks and shredded air."

The times are swift, so help me Bob, and you can't be a-sleeping if you would get and hold a job that's really worth the keeping. You'll NOTHING have to hump yourself, old ass, achieving and putting, and putting laziness to rout or there'll be nothing doing. Some youths acquire a punk renown that gives poor satisfaction; they loaf and languish in the town, and always shy at action. They talk of wreath and of scrap and other games a-brewing; and when they try to get a snag, there's always nothing doing. Some clerks are always much afraid that they may, absent-minded, do more than that for which they're paid; such lads, by folly blinded, will run against a snag some day that they'll be always ruing; when they request increase of pay there will be nothing doing. Oh, many of the village pats had habits are acquiring; cigars and loaded cigarettes they're diligently firing; they're betting on some dinky race, they're playing pool and chewing; and when they want to get a place there will be nothing doing.

George T. Craddock, Ruby, Ark., says: "I was bothered with hoarseness for seven years but I could not work. I tried several kinds of kidney medicine which gave me little or no relief. Two bottles of Foley Kidney Pills cured me and now I can do any kind of work. I cheerfully recommend them to my friends." Sinalthet's Pharmacy.

ATCHISON GLOBE RIGHTS. Sometimes one is told to take his choice when there isn't any.

Also remember that the joke of an elopement isn't always on the parents. Devote most of your enthusiasm to your regular work but not all!

It is hard to possess an extensive vocabulary without talking too much. If there were enough in this early rising theory, the janitor would own the building.

There should be more of a general inclination to regard the marriage certificate as a peace treaty.

Farmers have to take a good many chances, but they have the advantage of playing the odds on their own game.

A poor woman's notion of heaven is, somewhere she can spend all the money she wants for pretty clothes.

Cheerfulness is our most constant charm, but gloom gathers a little when a mouse passes and we aren't feeling very well.

As the falling of the leaves is particularly sad to the boy who knows he must make them off the broad, rolling lawn. One will not, however, get any great benefit from signing the pledge if his deeds that often enough to make it amount to practice in penmanship.

The latest from the postoffice department at Washington is a request for exact information as to how many newspaper subscribers are in arrears. By the time such information is supplied, the department will have thought of something else it wants the newspapers to do. We would be glad if the department could find a few other chores with which to keep their clerks employed and thus save less time to studying out ways to multiply the already burdensome details in newspaper offices. The department might well diversify the duties of its clerks by having them scrub the floors, paint the roofs and carry in the winter's coal.

The attempt on the life of Colonel Roosevelt at Milwaukee Monday night is a source of universal regret. It is deplorable that there are diseased brains at large in the world, willing to strike down men in public life. That it is necessary to guard prominent characters in order to shield them from harm is most unfortunate. Colonel Roosevelt's nerve in making a speech after having been shot, although impressive, as stated by physicians, excites admiration. People like to see fearlessness, and the colonel is fearless. It is not known that the wound by arsenic is connected with any society that would suggest organized effort. The assassin is apparently a mere black-brained individual bent on murder. His act bears no relation to politics, and will likely have no influence in any way on the campaign. The public is glad, without regard to political belief or party association, that Colonel Roosevelt will recover.

"If you had $10,000 to invest, would you invest it now or wait to see how the election turns out and what would happen as a consequence?" was put to a bull moose by a Herald representative. Here is his reply: "Well, I suppose I would kind of wait and see." Thousands, regardless of party affiliations, are "kind of waiting," because they are not sure what would happen to conditions if a change should be voted at the coming election. Many who will support a change are secretly distrustful of results, and would not make heavy investments pending uncertainty. If Taft is re-elected, the wave of prosperity is certain to continue and grow, as even those who are prejudiced against him and will vote against him well know. The number, however, who will not invite uncertainty by voting for a change is, happily for the country, increasing steadily.

In the republican national convention, the one contest in which Roosevelt men pinned their greatest hope, came from California. About that contest, Governor Dwiner of Illinois, who was a Roosevelt supporter in the convention, says this: "I voted with the Roosevelt delegates on a resolution to unseat the two California delegates. I do not think they were seated fraudulently. There was ground for an honest difference of opinion upon the merits of that case." Governor Dwiner of Missouri, who led the fight for Roosevelt in the republican convention, but afterwards came out for Taft, did not charge the convention with fraud. If he had believed the methods used were irregular and dishonest, he would not have been in the field actively supporting the nomination of Taft. He is satisfied that the proceedings were regular and proper, how can others, less familiar with the situation, reasonably rest opposition to the republican nominee on the charge of fraud which cannot be sustained by the facts? It looks as though the unsupported cry of fraud were used as an excuse for the injustice which cannot be explained or justified in the light of reason.

-SURPRISING CRITICISM. The Herald has received the following criticism, under date of September 11, from W. D. Redmond, registrar at the State Normal:

Dear Mr. Huse: I am sorry you sought to make political capital out of the fact that Professor Huse was asked to address the meeting of the Wilson-Marshall Club last Tuesday evening. It was my personal desire and that of the entire committee to make the meetings educational and as free from partisan politics as possible. The talk by Professor Huse and the round table discussion conducted by Professor Lewis were each arranged with the intention of securing an unbiased and objective headline display in the Herald, and the report given of the meeting indicate merely a hope to turn everything to party advantage. A correct report of the meeting would have included the special music furnished by the male quartet and the address of P. A. Berry on the Public Life of Woodrow Wilson. Very truly yours, W. D. REDMOND.

Following is the Herald's account, subject to criticism: TAFT-MAX-ADDRESSES LOCAL WILSON CLUB

At a meeting of the Wilson club Tuesday evening, Professor Huse, registrar of the State Normal, gave, on invitation, a talk on the life and character of President Taft. The speaker prefaced his talk by lauding President Taft, and while he did not take the liberty to advise the democrats to vote for Taft, he likely would have done so if his advice on that point had been asked. Mr. Huse reviewed the life of Governor Wilson and commented his intellectual attainments. The speech was followed by an interesting round-table discussion led by Professor J. G. W. Lewis, who was asked many questions touching governmental subjects. The round-table will be a feature of each session of the club, and it will put the democrats next to many things they will need to know if the government should happen to be turned over to them.

There is such an utter absence of ground for just criticism that we will submit the above without comment. From these few suggestions, however, were surprised to find such motives imputed to plainly good-informed references to the Wilson club, by one who usually shows himself to be broad-gauged, and who is sufficiently so to want to keep the organization aloof from partisan politics. One very good way to show freedom from party bias is to avoid questioning the motives of others unless a bias can be conceived by an ordinary stretch of imagination. An extraordinary and violent distention of the faculty mentioned is hardly warrantable in entangling foundation for a grievance. To make the club strictly non-partisan, it should not be called a "Wilson Club" but rather a "Society for the Study of Economics," or a "Literary and Musical Circle," or something that does not smack of party. We appreciate and applaud the effort of the club to make its meetings educational, and fully endorse the selection of a Taft man to help the worthy intellectual uplift along.

Winter Apples

Have purchased an entire orchard of winter apples containing not less than 2000 bu which will be sold on the Wayne market. These apples are of exceptional good quality, the trees having been properly sprayed three times. The fact that this stock is 98 per cent free from worms makes it very desirable for keepers. The keeping quality of an apple depends very largely on this point.

Most of this stock is selling in lots as the general character of the stock warrants purchasing in quantities. Quality considered I have the best apple proposition yet offered.

Phone your orders. I will guarantee quality. Come and inspect. First car being unloaded now.

Another car of Rock Salt just unloaded. The best stock obtainable. Special price in ton lots.

The Wayne-Wakefield Game.

The foot ball game played last Saturday at Bonerott between the Wayne and Wakefield high school teams resulted in another victory for the Wayne team by the score of 35 to 0. Though the opposing team outweighed the Wayne team, Captain Stoddien's lineup outplayed them at every point and won easily. Wakefield won the first quarter by kicking off to them. The first quarter the two teams struggled hard around the middle of the field, each team losing the ball on a fumble or two and the quarter ended with honors about even, neither team scoring. The second quarter, Wakefield advanced the ball by well executed forward passes to Wayne's five-yard line, but were unable to get it an inch farther. The Wayne line held like a stone wall and Wakefield lost ground on every down. With the pigskin in Wayne's possession it was soon carried to Wakefield's ten-yard line, but was lost on a fumble. With the oval in Wakefield's possession they were forced over their goal line on a fumble, scoring a safety for Wayne. Score, Wayne 2, Wakefield 0. The second half Wakefield kicked off to Wayne and in a few minutes the ball was advanced to Wakefield's five-yard line and Fullback Lenny carried it through the opposition for the first touchdown. Marsteller kicked goal. Score 9 to 0. Wakefield kicked to Wayne three and three minutes later Lenny again tore through the opposition's line and carried the ball thirty yards for another touchdown. Marsteller again kicked goal. Score 16 to 0. Wakefield again kicked and two minutes later the ball was on Wakefield's five-yard line. Signals were now given for Left Half Jones to carry the ball and he did. He hit the line probably the hardest it had yet been hit and he placed the ball beyond Wakefield's goal line with a couple of yards to spare. When Marsteller had kicked goal the score was 23 to 0 and the third quarter was over. The final quarter ended two more touchdowns for Wayne. Both were made by Marsteller, one from the eight-yard line and the other from the twenty-five-yard line. He missed goal and the score was 35 to 0. Wayne kicked to Wakefield and by a couple well executed forward passes, Henry carried the ball over Wayne's line for a touchdown. They missed goal. Score, Wayne 35, Wakefield 6. It was a clean game. Wayne was not penalized. Wakefield was penalized twice. Each team worked several forward passes successfully. Wakefield could gain nothing through Wayne's line. Wayne made their downs at will through Wakefield's line. The Wayne team played as one man, as a perfect machine. Every fellow on the team played his part. There was a great contrast in the form shown by the two teams and the better team won the game. Mr. Cross of Winslow was referee. The "Gleaner" of Lyons was umpire. Mr. Borg of Coleridge, was head linesman. A large crowd witnessed the game.

Robataille, a son; to Mr. and Mrs. K. F. Larson, a son; to Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Sundahl, a son; to Mr. and Mrs. Peter Oman, a daughter. At the democratic county convention William Miller was nominated for treasurer, F. A. Dearborn clerk, M. D. Webster sheriff, James A. Elljort superintendent, John T. Mettlen county commissioner, C. D. Martin county surveyor, Louis Nuralberg, coroner, Dr. W. C. Wightman was elected chairman and Dr. H. G. Leisinger secretary of the county central committee.

From the Wayne Herald, November 3, 1892: Local market: Corn, 26 cents; wheat, 48 cents; oats, 29 cents; flax, 90 cents; rye 38 cents; hogs, $4.80. Frank M. Northrop received a telegram announcing the death of Mrs. Coshorn at Santa Fe, N. M. Funeral arrangements will be in Wayne. C. H. Van Wyck addressed an audience of 300 people in Wayne, upholding the platform of the populist party. Republicans of Deer Creek precinct have a big rally at Carroll with fireworks and speeches. From the Wayne Herald, October 30, 1902: Elmer Lundberg buys the Carroll Index. James Britton makes improvements at the opera house. Born, October 27, 1902, to Mr. and Mrs. Max Moeller, a daughter. Leslie M. Shaw, secretary of the treasury, made a political speech in Wayne. Married, October 29, 1902, Miss Mary G. Caylor of Wayne, and Mr. Harry W. Whitaker of Craig, Neb. A marriage license was issued to Mr. John Laubenberg of St. Louis and Miss Lois G. Childs of Carroll. Local market: Corn, 25 cents; wheat, 50 cents; oats, 21 cents; hogs, $6.10; eggs, 18 cents; butter, 15 cents. Donald, son of George Porter, residing west of Wayne, was thrown from a horse and sustained a fractured knee bone.

From the Ponca Journal, October 16, 1878: It is very evident that Old Probabilities has been a little "off" and has got the months of September and October transposed. In September we were visited by Jack Frost nearly every night while this month we have as yet had no frost at all. On the contrary, the thermometer has several times run up in the nineties, as on Tuesday, it stood at 92 degrees in the shade. Last Friday a corn husking party was held in the fields of R. Wilbur on Aoway creek, and the way those present made the golden ears fly was marvelous. In the evening an adjournment was taken to the house, where a most excellent supper was provided, after which, to good music, the merry dance was participated in till a late hour. The large number of persons who enjoyed the generous hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur, pronounce the entertainment the most enjoyable of the season. At the term of district court held last week in Dakota City, the Edifian, Holy Scott, who has been confined in jail for several months, was indicted by the grand jury for murder. On being arraigned before the court, a motion was made by Scott's counsel to quash the indictment, which was done. Scott was thereupon re-indicted, and pleading guilty to murder in the second degree, was sentenced by the judge to imprisonment in the penitentiary for ten years. It was certainly an economical thing for the county to dispose of Scott in this manner, as a trial for murder in the first degree would have subjected the county to an expense of not less than two thousand dollars. Three other indictments for murder were also found, one against a man named Bilinsky for killing an Indian, and the others against Indians for killing an unknown white man. In these cases the defendants will probably be arrested and brought to trial before the next term of court. From Ponca Journal, November 4, 1889: Wayne county has valuable land and magnificent expectations, but it has now only about 800 inhabitants. Hence there is plenty of room yet. The coal excitement is reviving again. The hole is now down over 500 feet and the indications are growing better every day. The trial is now a region of very hard rock, with occasional layers of slate and thin veins of coal. It is confidently expected that before the miners get down another 100 feet they will strike a paying vein of coal. There are also strong indications of oil. Whether they find coal or oil, it will be a big thing for this county. The Wayne County Review says: "The editor of the Northern Nebraska Journal is a little off when he imagines that the county seat of Wayne county will be removed to the new town in the course of a year. In the first place, it will be some time yet before the new town is located; secondly, perhaps they will ask the advice and consent of the people in the eastern part of the county, which contains a large per cent of the legal voters of the county. Just because the railroad company saw fit to slide around us, is not sufficient reason why we should surrender all the rights of which we are possessed as citizens, just to accommodate them and build up their town. There will be a warm fight before the county seat is moved and don't you forget it." ELECTION. Notice is hereby given that on Tuesday, November 5, 1912, there will be held a general election, in the usual voting places, in Wayne county, Nebraska, for the election of the following officers, to wit: Eight Presidential Electors. SUMMER IN GERMANY WITH LEHRERBUND

In Stuttgart I went to church in the fine old Stiftskirche in the morning, and in the afternoon went in ante to the Solitude, a palace of Duke Karl Eugen of Wurtemberg who tried to mould Schiller along military lines, and upon this hill Schiller attended the military academy in his youth.

Frankfurt was most liberal in plans for our entertainment. Teachers conducted us in squads to many interesting places, supplementing their guiding us everywhere with very interesting historical explanations. Thus we visited the cathedral, where in olden days the emperor was crowned, and crossing the square past the fountain which on one occasion spouted red and white wine, we entered the Roemer, the old town hall, where the new ruler received the guests.

On the next day besides afternoon-tours a fine organ-concert in the beautiful Kaiser Wilhelm Memorial church was rendered by the organist of the church and the celebrated William M. Teleutsch of Chicago.

Throughout the whole trip we were treated like princes rather than ordinary folk and we agreed that we were spoiled children who would find it difficult to go back to the homely duties of the school room.

THE WEEK WITH THE CHURCHES

In Leipzig besides greeting by the Oberbürgermeister in the splendid Rathaus or city hall, and by leading professors in the university, we were in ways an exhibit of the city and the social need in teaching by the noted firm of Reiblich most interesting in its manifold models and charts, and very characteristic of the book-city. In Dresden there were the usual banquets, speeches and tours, but the two things which will always remain fresh in my memory were the delightful ride up the Elbe to a summer palace of the King of Saxony and the even more delightful visit to the art gallery with its many gems of art, especially the incomparable Holy Night of Correggio and Raphael's 'St. Cecilia'.

Berlin was of course the goal toward which we were journeying and here the elaborate program offered us a wealth of entertainment and instruction quite unparalleled.

The first Sunday in November has been set as Sunday school rally day. We expect to see every member of the school in his place at that service.

The usual services will be held next Sunday, the ladies' morning meeting and evening at 10:30 and 7:30 respectively, and the topics of discourse will be announced at the hours of service, so that only they who attend are likely to know the themes for November 20.
