SPREAD CHRISTMAS JOY AMONG CHILDREN TO REMEMBER UNFORTUNATES

Wayne Business Men and Members of P. E. O. Society Co-operate in Worthy Act of Giving.

Wayne business men are planning a happy surprise for children of the city whose households are unable to provide them with good things on Christmas day. They will co-operate with the P. E. O. society in the furtherance of this laudable movement to spread holiday cheer among the unfortunate.

The business men will contribute money to buy candies, nuts and fruits, and the P. E. O. society will furnish clothing and toys. The gifts will be neatly prepared in packages, and distributed on Christmas morning. These men have been chosen to accept contributions, varying from ten cents to $15.

This movement to carry sunshine into the lives of little folks, not fortunate in material things, is most creditable and deserves, as it will receive, hearty support. The effort and cost are richly compensated by the happiness imparted and the consciousness of having benefited deserving and appreciated charity.

FRANK A. BERRY DIES AT HOSPITAL SUNDAY

Wayne people were inexpressibly shocked the first of the week when the word spread that one of their number, Mr. Frank A. Berry, long-time resident of Wayne county, successful lawyer, respected neighbor, loyal friend, honored citizen, had passed away Sunday afternoon in a Sioux City hospital, following an operation, performed Friday, revealing a sarcoma or cancerous growth of the most malignant type. He had mingled with people here a few days before, and was apparently in usual health.

Therefore, the unexpected end cast a pall of gloom over the city and county. Not many knew a growth had recently appeared on Mr. Berry's neck. He did not know the nature of the trouble, and the degree of alarm warranted depended on whether he suffered from a simple tumor or a cancer. A swollen gland was suggested. Surgeons were unable without an operation to diagnose the trouble definitely. When he attended his father's funeral in Sioux City the week before, a surgeon examined his neck and advised an operation, though expressing uncertainty as to the character of the growth.

While in Sioux City last Thursday on business, he decided to have another examination. The opinion was expressed that he had a cancer. As a result he decided to enter a hospital at once for an operation. He carefully concealed the serious nature of his trouble from members of his family, and conveyed no suspicion of alarm when he told his wife what he thought best to do and asked her to follow him to Sioux City. She went there Thursday afternoon.

On Friday the operation was performed, and besides the surgeons, was witnessed by one of his brothers. The malignant sarcoma was soon revealed, and in two hours was removed. It was found the growth had started six or seven weeks before, and was developing rapidly. He recovered from the operation satisfactorily, and it was the purpose to apply treatment and take every precaution to prevent recurrence of the trouble. Then came the fatal stroke of apoplexy Sunday morning, and he immediately passed into unconsciousness, from which he did not recover. His brother, Fred S. Berry, of Wayne, was notified, and in company with Rollie Lay, left for Sioux City Sunday afternoon. They reached the hospital twenty minutes after death had taken place.

Frank A. Berry was born on a farm near St. Joseph, Mo., April 6, 1860, and was therefore aged at the time of his death 52 years, 8 months and 11 days. The family located near Magilton, Ia., in 1881, and the deceased was married to Edith Bell at Onawa, Ia., December 30, 1882. Mr. and Mrs. Berry located on a farm six miles northwest of Carroll, in June, 1883. They moved into Carroll in March, 1886, and Mr. Berry engaged in the lumber and coal business. While in business, he studied law, having been admitted to the legal profession. After earnest application for such study, he was admitted to the Nebraska bar, and decided to engage in practice in Wayne. Thus, he located at this place thirteen years ago, and has since lived here, with steadily increasing circle of friends. Fred S. Berry became his partner here two years ago, and among important legal contests handled by the firm during that time is the Flege case, now in the supreme court.

Besides his wife, the deceased leaves one daughter, Mrs. Hattie Dougard, of Shields, N. D., and one son, Fred Berry, of Chicago. An infant son, ten months old, died twenty-five years ago. He leaves one sister, Mrs. Emma Stafford, of Sioux City, and four brothers, Frederick S. Berry of Wayne, John A. and Thomas A. Berry of Sioux City, and William E. Berry of Kansas City. All the surviving relatives were present at the funeral which took place from the Presbyterian church this morning at 10:30 o'clock, conducted by the pastor, Rev. Alexander Corkey, assisted by Rev. William Gors of the M. E. church, and Rev. B. P. Richardson of the Baptist church. At the funeral services, A. R. Davis, in behalf of the Wayne county bar, gave an appropriate address. A large concourse of people gathered at the church to pay deserved respect to a true friend, and mingle tears with those of the sorrowing family. Beautiful floral pieces, gifts of friends, further attested to the esteem in which the deceased was held. Business houses were closed during the funeral hour. Interment took place in Greenwood cemetery.

The new line built from the Norfolk power house to that town during the summer by the Norfolk Electric Light and Power company was put into operation last night, for the first time and the current is miles distant, twenty-four hours a day. Tilden's streets are brilliantly lighted and attracted much attention last night. While trying to connect inharmonious and unfriendly lengths of stovepipe in the Herald office Saturday morning, Elwyne Elywood descended head first from the top of a staphyloid on which he was standing and which broke. Aside from spraining one wrist, he was fortunately not hurt. He says he will have a parachute attachment to insure safety in the future. H. S. Welch who was performing from the apex of another staphyloid, had his position re-enforced when he saw Elywood describe medical evolutions in the air and finally obey the law of gravity by landing on the floor. County Commissioner George Farran of Winside, who was in town Tuesday, attended the state meeting of county commissioners at Lincoln last week. He says county affairs were generally discussed, and that the system of road improvement was especially criticized. It is the general opinion among commissioners that the law governing roads is inadequate and burdensome. It is believed the new law which authorizes a county board to appoint a highway commissioner does not go far enough. Deputy commissioners or assessors ought to be made responsible to the commissioner, and the latter should be authorized to discontinue the services of the former if the work done for the money expended is not satisfactory.

Moffat Fined for Contempt of Court. Ed Moffat who did not appear in answer to a summons at the late session of district court as a witness in the case charging Simon Gosman, George Genthner and Sam Miller with Gambling, was captured by Sheriff Porter Saturday, and taken before Judge A. A. Welch. The judge asked him if he had any good reason for not appearing in court and he replied that he "guessed he didn't." Thereupon the judge fined him $50 for contempt of court, and ordered him committed to the county jail until the fine is paid. Applications for Naturalization. A. H. Bode of Des Moines, authorized examiner of applicants for naturalization, was in Wayne Saturday, and presided at an examination held in the office of the clerk of the district court. The following persons passed the examination and are pronounced qualified for full citizenship: Alex Theodor Nelson of Tuylberg, living ten miles southeast of Wayne; Eric Stamm of Hoskins; George Wagner, four miles south of Carroll; Elias Williams, four and three-fourth miles northwest of Carroll; John Frederick Hoff, four miles northwest of Wayne; Soren Anderson, eight and one-half miles northwest of Wakefield; Andrew Person, seven miles southeast of Wakefield; Robert Gotthilf Roggenbach, four and one-half miles south of Alton.

"For Conscience Sake"

By Alexander Corkey

We have placed on sale for first orders about 300 copies.

We have sold more than twice this number of the "Victory of Allan Rudledge." "The Testing Fire" also has far out sold this number. We expect equal sale of the New book "For Conscience Sake." The author in his foreword says of this book: "The scene of the following story is laid in Ireland and I frankly acknowledge that my thoughts are freest when I turn my attention to the Emerald Isle. In "For Conscience Sake" I introduce the reader into the inner life of modern Ireland, showing the hopes, fears, trials and heartbreaks as well as the unconquerable spirit of the Irish today. "For Conscience Sake", strange as parts of it may appear, is founded on actual facts*The truth which this story makes clear is the growth of the spirit of liberty in Ireland, the rising tide of modern life which brooks no tyranny' political or ecclesiastical".

This book will appeal to the public because of its message and its fascinating interest.

WELDON CLOSSLAND WINS HIGH HONORS

The following account of new honors achieved by Weldon F. Clossland, appearing in Saturday's Lincoln Journal, will be read with pleasure by the young man's friends at this place:

W. F. Clossland, student at Wesleyan university, was the only one of the four men who took the Rhodes scholarship examination at the state university last October, who passed. Such was the announcement made yesterday afternoon through the chancellor's office. However, Clossland is not the only eligible Nebraska youth for the coveted honor and the committee on selecting the scholar will have to choose between him and two others: Paul F. Good, a resident of Lincoln, who took the examination at Harvard, and L. Ross Newkirk, who took and passed the examination here two years ago.

The date for the meeting at which the committee will select between the three candidates has not been set, but it will probably be the last week in December. At the meeting each of the three men will be called before the committee and closely questioned. Credentials bearing statements from each of the youth's instructors will be presented. After the examination the lucky one will be picked, not only through scholarship records but on personal hearing, demeanor and physical ability. The successful candidate will go to Oxford university next October. Those on the committee who will decide between the men are: Chancellor Avery of Nebraska, chairman; Chancellor Palmer of Wesleyan, Chancellor Deschauer of Colver, President Schell of York College, and E. U. Graff, superintendent of Omaha schools.

W. F. Clossland is the son of W. G. Clossland of Wayne, Neb. He is a senior at the Wesleyan and has received honors in both debate and athletics. Clossland is one of the popular students of Wesleyan. Although he has had to work his way through school during his four years there he has been able to take a leading part in activities of that institution. At present he is editor of the college paper. Physically he is an athlete but has been unable to make a name for himself in this line because of the outside work he has had to do to keep himself in school.

Weldon Clossland has won numerous prizes since attending Wesleyan university, and he observes them at tested by his earnest and faithful application to duty. Last year he won the state collegiate oratorical contest, and represented the state in the interstate contest. Lately he was chosen to give the graduating address of his class at the commencement next spring.

AT M'EAUGHEN SCHOOL HOUSE WEST OF TOWN

Rev. Alexander Corkey gave his lecture on Ireland before a good-sized audience at the McEaughen school house, west of town, Friday evening. The speaker's descriptions of Irish scenes and life was clear, instructive and interesting; his account of the ocean voyage was made realistic. The lecture was seasoned with characteristic wit, to the relish and enjoyment of his audience. Frequent bursts of laughter and applause showed how highly his effort was appreciated. The cash proceeds of the lecture are to be used to help buy chairs for the accommodation of people attending religious services at the McEaughen school house.

HOSKINS MAN HELD TO DISTRICT COURT

The case of the state vs. Fred Brueckner who was charged with using obscene language in the presence of ladies at a dance at Hoskins, was heard in the county court Saturday, and the result was that the defendant was bound over to the district court. It is alleged that Brueckner got into a dispute at a dance over his ticket of admission, and that he lost a volley of highly offensive language. Five witnesses supported the charge, and the defense rested without giving any evidence.

SPECIAL COUNCIL MEETING.

The city council met in special session Monday evening for the purpose of assessing an improvement tax against certain property along which the city has built sidewalks. Mayor Kito presided and Connelinan, W. W. Kingsbury, D. S. McVicker, J. G. W. Lewis and George Lamberson were present. Owners of such property protested personally or through a representative. After the hearing, a resolution was passed levying a special tax on certain property, the assessment amounting to the cost of construction. The clerk was instructed to advertise for another meeting to make special assessment against certain other lots.

NEW CHURCH DEDICATED.

Last Sunday was a great day in Wakefield where the beautiful new Presbyterian church was dedicated in the afternoon. There was an immense congregation, crowding the building to its utmost limit. The dedication services began at 3 p. m., beginning with a voluntary on the new pipe organ. Professor Hansen of Coleridge, was present and sang two sacred selections during the services. Rev. Alexander Corkey preached the dedication sermon and formally dedicated the church to the worship of God and the blessing of men. The new church building has been erected at a cost of $8,000, and part of the old church was used also. A gift cross surmounts the church spire. Accommodations for the church and Sunday school are ample, and the pastor, Rev. J. M. Caldwell, D. D., and his congregation are to be congratulated on the prosperity and growth of their work.

A party from Wayne attended the dedication services and at the close of the meeting were entertained at the home of Mrs. J. D. Haskell.

INHERITANCE TAX SUIT.

Lincoln correspondence in Tuesday's Omaha Bee: Mary W. Strahan, widow of J. M. Strahan, who died August 14, 1907, in Iowa, leaving an estate in Nebraska valued at $163,011.36, has appealed to the supreme court from the decision of the Wayne county district court wherein the county was seeking to collect an inheritance tax due the county from the Strahan estate. The lower court decided that there was due the county $1,039.07, from the share given to Mrs. Strahan and her five children.

Grant S. Mears

Uncle Walt The Poet Philosopher

The saddest spectacle I know is Reggie Wax, a man I know—a man of ten der years; he's only twenty-two or there, yet he's as fixed
THE BLASE as you can be of this YOUTH poor yale of tears. He's trotted with giddy boys and sampled all the empty joys and bright light brands of mirth; and now he looks with deep disgust at everything upon the crust of sad old Mother Earth. He has the cheap job crane's sneer at everything that's "worth while here, by wiser folk adored"; with jaded heart and empty mind he finds this life—a dismal grind, so badly is he bored. The man whose course is safe and sane will reach old age and not complain of life as being flat; new joys each dawning morning bring, he shortly and he smiles and sings and throws aloft his hat. Each day to him is a delight; the mystic wonder of the night, the hymns my breezes sing, the suns that sink and rise again, the beauty in the souls of men, all keep his spirit young. The Sabbath singing of the choir, the weekday evening by the fire, grandchildren at his knees; the quiet days, the peaceful ways, the moments of happy days—ah, who should tire of this? How pitiful the jaded soul who thinks the world a place of dole when life is in its more, who sees his cheerful fellowmen, and, like a jackal in its den, sends forth a growl of scorn!

Full soon the winter winds will blow,
 and there'll be fifty kinds of snow, all standard brands of ice; then you must pony up a yen to
THE CALL of help the poor and THE POOB sad eyed men who haven't got the price. It is a pleasure thus to stalk the man whose children cry for cake if he's a worthy gent, with honest aims and second straight, who has been but fated by fate only he's worn and bent.
 But little pleasure do we find in helping out the other kind who swear in every town, the men who loafed when days were bright, and hid when work loomed up in sight, and held street corners down. The men who argued politicians instead of laying stone or bricks and shedding honest sweat, may suffer on the wintry day and long for pies in vain but they deserve just what they get. If every able-bodied guy would hustle bravely in July he wouldn't starve in March; he'd have his bacon and his ham, his larder would be full of jam, and prunes and kraits, and starch. The statesman five is an endless laws to fit most every bughouse cause, but what we need's a law requiring every healthy man to go and work as best he can with hands instead of jaw. This thing of loafing should be made a felony, then bums, afraid of spending years in jail would strive to earn the grub they eat, the kippers, oats, the shredded wheat,
 the oysters and the quail.

He brings home hams and fruits and jams and yarbs and canned tomatoes, he brings home peas and beans and cheese, and—sweet and
THE GOOD sour potatoes. He's PROVIDER loaded down when from the town he comes, his gun behind him; "You always was old Sam, wasn't you with your kid-riding him. He can't fool his time at pool, at billiards or at checkers; nor does he steer his way for beer or gin or other wreckers. He doesn't stop down-town to yawn with every chronic fretter, but homeward hikes because he likes his cheerful fireside better. He doesn't shake the dice or make a hand at keno or euchre; a better plan this wise man to spend his filthy here.
 He wants to see his household be a place of peace and pleasure, so to his shack he carries back things in a bushel measure. He brings home hats and put-ent rats to fix his daughters tresses, he brings home boots and strong cheroots and parasols and dresses; he brings home books and shepherds' crooks and New Orleans molasses, and pie and tart and works of art and Browning's "Pippa Passes." The wolf before his cottage door long since gave up its growling; the wife is glad and so is dad, when winter winds are howling.

If each might be the chooser of destiny, I guess no man would be a loser, or languish in distress. But things are so adjusted in this sad
THE LOOSE mundane place that some one's hopes are busted whenever there's a fess. Some one must cry in sorrow when'er the sun goes down, with hoping that the morrow will also rear a frown. Mankind is ne'er embattled, there is no great advance, but some one's badly rattled, and some one's name is Pardee. And so the luckless snorer who can't keep in the van should be a patient loser, and smile as best he can. In all the bygone ages, since Adam flew the coop, the winner drew the wages, the loser drew the soup. A girl is never married, all orange-wreathed and gay, but that some guy has carried a brooding grief away.
 There is, I fear, no blessing, that hasn't got its sting; the losers wail distressing hant those who deface and sting. I sit and eat my dinner in circumstance and pride, and doubtless some poor sinner is gnawing bones outside. Today I'm fat and happy, I eat and loaf and chuckle; tomorrow's dawn, old chappie, may see your uncle broke. And if I am a loser, knocked out by fortune's game, I surely won't abuse her, that good old giddy dame, but bless her dear old picture, and when the wheel goes round, again a smiling victor I'll hope I may be found.

The world is growing better yearly, and will grow better right along. He is a chump, and reasons queerly, who holds that every IMPROVEMENT thing is wrong. The human creature are always trying to improve, and not because the platform teachers by politics would make it move. "Do everything by legislation," is what the noisy statesmen say, but things are done by education, by upward striving day by day. The man who toils in smook and sweater, determines that his children shall have a change in life far better than he after know, is teaching men a better lesson than the raptors will teach them in a thousand years, than all the gifted gal-livers will ever drill in human ears. The men who labor, bravely, galli, are they

The Wayne Herald

The Oldest Established Paper in Wayne County

Entered at the Postoffice at Wayne Neb., as Second Class Mail Matter.

HERALD PUBLISHING CO., 212 N. 10th St., Wayne, Neb. Telephone No. 146.

Published Every Thursday
Subscription $1.50 a Year.

It begins to look as though Bryan would be the unanimous choice of the democratic party for secretary of state in Wilson's cabinet. And republicans will not object.

President Taft has decided to accept the Kent professorship of the University of Chicago. And with Wilson's professorship as a precedent, Taft will not find the professorship a hindrance if he should ever run for office again.

The next legislature will do something of permanent worth to the whole state if it can manage to thrash out a new road system which will save each county and effectiveness in improvement of the highways.

Of the towns investigated by the Herald to gather some facts about electric plants, five reported use of the direct current, being York, Central City, Madison, Ord and Minden, and without exception they reported satisfactory service. The direct current in Wayne has also proven satisfactory. That, it would seem that a change to an alternating current would simply be a waste of money.

Most newspapers coming to the Herald's exchange table the last few weeks have been full of attractive Christmas advertisements. Judicious and persistent advertising is indispensable to business success. The way some get on without it, doesn't get on. Merchants are depending more and more on newspaper publicity as a means of selling goods. They have learned to look as carefully after their advertising as they do after selecting stock and hiring clerks.

Christmas joys are great or small according to the spirit of the individual. The one who imports happiness to others is thereby made happy himself. The satisfied impulse to give joy to the expectant young, exalts and conduces to holiday cheer. The radiance of genuine good feeling is more important than costly gifts. An expensive present, without expression of the noble spirit embodied in the life of the Nazarene, is worth nothing. Genuine giving must be prompted by genuine good will to enjoy and manifest the spirit exemplified by the grand character whose nativity is commemorated.

The reports from different points regarding their electric plants show wide variance in rates. Some private corporations and some cities what seem unreasonably high rates, while other private corporations and other cities make moderate charges. It may be suspected that a private corporation, possessed of insatiable greed and aided by an overly favorable franchise, would raise rates unfairly. Any such attempt to charge high rates to make up in return for the loss sustained on account of careless management. Some points where plants are owned by private corporations, are favored by very moderate rates. In such cases the corporations are either marvelously equipped with scruples of conscience or were made in franchise grants to get their hooks firmly and securely implanted. While most people favor municipal ownership it is a fact that much can be learned from private corporations in the management of public service plants. In the privately owned institution, there is centralized power and responsibility, and therefore prompt attention to repairs, and the utmost care in buying supplies and looking after all details. Such strict management is impossible with authority scattered and inadequately paid.

TO QUICKER UNDERSTANDING.
It is rumored that this paper will be started in Wayne as soon as the post office change hands and that the Herald will drop the cancelling stamp and take up his old trade in the line of sellers and postpaid. A move of this kind would be bad for the other papers.—Winfield Tribune.

The above from the imagination of the Winfield Tribune is calculated to scare the Wayne papers somewhat. Of course, there is no such thing as a free lunch. The Herald will be glad for the Tribune to understand that if anyone attempted to run this paper in Wayne he would be up against the most astounding and hopeless task he ever tackled. To make respectable competition, he should land in the arena with $20,000, half of which for equipment. After he had spent $10,000 to keep afloat, he'd wish he had wasted his money in a way that required less work. A man with sufficient ability and capital to make an appreciable showing against the Wayne papers has sense enough to avoid the misery and loss. A man with a mere stock of nerve and self-assurance wouldn't last long enough to get to first base. These things are patent to Wayne publishers, and are mentioned for the clear understanding of the Tribune man who falsely imagines local papers quail with fear whenever it mentions a third journalistic venture as being in prospect for this point.

AN ACQUIRED TASTE.

Odd Compliment That Was Paid to an English Artist.
Richard Wilson, the English landscape painter, was not of a pliant disposition. Conscious of his own merits, he disdain to humble himself to those who measure men by rank and value them by power. But Wilson's friends liked him no less for his brusque manner.

Goldsmith, Storne, Wilson and Dr. Johnson were assembled at Carrick's house with a party of ladies for supper. "We were very likely at your expense indeed, gentlemen," said Mrs. Garrick, relating the story of Carrick's arrival late. "To punish you for not obeying our summons the ladies likened you all to plants and fruits and flowers."

"Pray let us hear," said Wilson. "Doubtless I come in for a sprig of laurel."

"No, sir," said the pretty, lively lady, "for you are not a plant."

"For Mr. purchase," said he. "No, sir; guess again."

"Why, I am dubbed bitter enough, perhaps a crab," said he. "For that I am entitled to Carrick. Has dubbed me Sour Dick."

"Guess again," said Mrs. Garrick, frowning. "Will you give it up?"

"Yes, madam."

"Why, then, sir, you are likened to olives. Now, will you dare to inquire further?"

"Let me see," said Wilson, with all that grace which he had, "What, then, my dear, out with it I dare."

"Then know, sir," said she, rising and courtesying most—gracefully. "Mr. Wilson is rough to the taste at first, but he is a little tender and delicate and delightful at last."—Exchange.

CAUGHT THE BLUFFER.

De Wint's Clever Ruse That Sold One of His Paintings.
Peter De Wint, the English landscape painter, was accustomed each year to have a couple of portraits of his pictures before sending them to the Water Color society's exhibition. On such occasions his friends frequently bought pictures, which, of course, appeared in the public exhibition marked "Sold."

Among the painter's friends was a wealthy man who wanted to appear a patron of art and at the same time keep his money. He noticed this by loudly admiring the paintings already sold. He was always a bit too late to buy the pictures that pleased him most, and having seen them, he was wont to declare, he could never content himself with less beautiful works.

De Wint at last suspected the man's sincerity, and when the next show day came he decided to test him. After plenty of time had been allowed for De Wint's friends to make their purchases the rich man arrived. As usual, his eye soon fell on two "perfect gems" marked "Sold." Turning to the artist, he said: "Now, De Wint, those are exactly the things I should like to possess. What a pity they are not to be had."

"My dear sir," said the painter, snapping him on the back, "I knew you would like them, so I put the tickets on to keep them for you."

The awkwardness of the situation was only relieved when the enthusiastic admirer became the somewhat unwilling purchaser of the two "gems." Youth's Companion.

Resistance to the Sun.
Animals whose capacity for thermal regulation is limited, such as rabbits and mice, are not adapted to exposure to the tropical sun. In the same circumstances the skin of a man rises some 3 or 4 degrees C above the normal. Practically the black skin of negro races absorbs more heat than that of the white people. However, colored races are better able than the white to regulate their temperature under the intense heat of tropical sun, perhaps because perspiration is more abundant. The ape, although a native of the tropics, is less capable of resistance to the sun than the human and even the white man. This is no doubt attributable to the fact that its natural home is in the forests. For certain monkeys two years of exposure to the tropical sun is fatal.

A Unique Laboratory.
Outside the harbor of Szar, Transilvania, in the shallow water of the clear Mediterranean, is situated a biological laboratory for the study of sponges. It is one of the most unique in the world. Practically the entire site is reserved for the development of the sponge from day to day, so small that it can only be studied under a microscope. The sponge has been developed into a perfect sponge.

HOW KITTY WAS CURED OF WISHING

HOW many little boys and girls do you know that say, "I wish?" It matters not how many nice things they have, they are always wanting something else.

Well, Kitty Sanson was one of these, and this is the way her mother cured her. Kitty had three pennies. "Two ten-centes" and a quarter in her bank and was trying to count up how much all this wealth made. She couldn't add it right, but concluded it was "most a dollar."

"Wish I had piles and piles of money. I wish this old bean bank laid pennies. Wish I owned a toy store, so I didn't need to buy things," and Kitty began, somewhat discursively, to count all over again her hoarded wealth.

"Dear, dear, dear, what a mournful girl!" said mother, entering the room. "What are all those wishes I hear? Didn't some one say last evening, when Uncle Ted brought her a lovely Paris doll, that she had nothing more to wish for?"

"Oh, but, mother, I'm not wishing for myself. You said wishes for other people were not selfish," replied Kitty rather angrily.

"So this wish is for some one else? Well, that's better. Suppose you tell me what it is. I may be a regular wishing cap for you."

"Mother Sanson, do you know what's coming? Why, Christmas, and this is all the money I have to buy all my presents."

"Well, well, that is too bad. How much have you? Most a dollar? Why, that's a very good start. Here, let me count it."

"Kitty, Kitty, will you never learn arithmetic! What do they teach you at school? Now, count with me. Ten and ten are twenty and twenty-five more are forty-five. Now add the three pennies and tell me what it makes. Quick!"

"Forty-nine," answered Kitty triumphantly.

"Poor Sanson laughed.

"Kitty, Kitty! To think your father is a professor of mathematics and your mother shone in figures at Bryn Mawr! You have exactly 45 cents, which certainly will not buy many presents. How many must you give?"

"Why, there's you and father and nurse and cook and grandmother and Uncle Ted and Annie and all the girls."

"Sue, Janie, Madge, Betty and Nora—and what me think."

"Let more yet?" laughed mother. "No wonder you wished for money!"

"Oh, yes; Tige and Matie and Annie and Clarinda."

"Worse and worse," said mother. "Why, you'll need a regular Santa Claus' pouch of money! How would you like to earn some pennies?"

"Oh, mother, that would be lovely! But how can I?"

"Suppose you stop wishing for now to Christmas. Every day you do not once say 'I wish' I will pay you 10 cents."

"Well, just once more, but remember, this is positively the last time to day."
Poor Kitty found earning money very difficult. The first week she made but 10 cents; but, as she tried very hard by and by became easier to overwork her bad habit, until one week, about the middle of December, she never "wished" once.
How glad mother was! And Kitty herself was ever so much happier and more contented.
When father saw the brave struggle his Kitty was making he offered to repay her for each good mark in arithmetic. Then Uncle Ted promised her 10 cents a wash rag for as many as she could make before he was ordered on sea duty.
"That was the busiest and happiest six weeks Kitty ever knew. But it paid."
At the bank breaking a week before Christmas there was more money than Kitty had ever owned before. Better yet, she could count it all herself—twenty whole dollars!
Such fun it was to shop, and what fine presents were bought!
But mother said the very best Christmas gift of all was a daughter who no longer said fretfully every few minutes, "I wish."

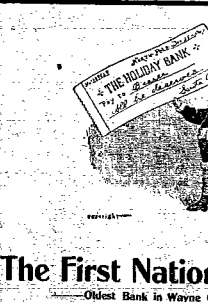

Christmas Animals.
Nearly every boy has made various animals out of toothpicks, vegetables, securities, etc. For example, a potato may serve for the body, an onion for a head and cranberries for eyes. Toothpicks may do for tail and legs. All sorts of combinations can be made. A cucumber for a body; carrots for legs and a red apple for a head would make a gorgon and fearsome animal, toothpicks being used to join all these together.

Buttons Barred.
"Our collection today, my dear brethren," said the rector, "for the clothing fund. At the same time, may I earnestly impress upon you that though the collection is for the clothing fund, it is not necessary to contribute buttons."

WILLIE and his sister, Mabel, Long had looked for Santa Claus. Waked as soon as they were able Every Christmas morn, because Willie said that they might catch him Some time "fore he got away." Then they'd peek and slyly watch him Riding in his reindeer sleigh.

But the Sandman on them creeping From their eyelids hang a weight, And somehow he kept them sleeping Always till it was too late.

"Sandman is a mean old fellow," Willie cried; "an' you'll just see I'll punch him an' make him bellow— When I'm big enough," said he.

ONE day, shopping with their mother, They a wondrous figure spied. It was Santa and no other, And their eyes were opened wide, Half adrifted, all excited, Timidly they sought him out. Then a smile his features lighted, And they closed in with a shout.

Each one by a hand they caught him, Clung to him and held him fast. To their mother soon they brought him. "We've found Santa Claus at last! We will take him home," they parted. So they prattled without end And his praises ever chanted: "Santa Claus, he is our friend."

The Wayne flour mill installs a new engine and other machinery.

D. C. and J. H. Patterson open a real estate office in Omaha, and arrange to move to that city.

Local market: Wheat, 50 cents; corn, 18 cents; oats, 16 cents; butter, 15 cents; eggs, 15 cents; hogs, $2.50; cattle, $2.30.

Marrried, December 15, 1885, Nets Swanson to Christine Areckson; December 19, 1885, W. H. Linn to Miss Alice Minar.

From the Wayne Herald, December 17, 1893:

The Lady of Lyons is presented by the educational department of the Normal college.

A party of friends help Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Smith celebrate their tin wedding anniversary.

The tenth anniversary of the founding of the Baptist church in Wayne was celebrated with a literary program and banquet.

The livery barn of Fred Thompson was destroyed by fire together with nine head of horses. The neighboring number sheds of Smith & Ellis were also burned.

From the Wayne Herald, December 17, 1893:

Frank Weber was called to Gordon, Neb., by the fatal illness of his brother.

Died, December 16, 1903, Mrs. Gertrude Randall, after a long illness.

W. H. Hillmer suffers a second stroke of paralysis.

Judge E. Hunter issued a marriage license to Mr. Grant Bayne and Miss Nevada L. Lee.

Died at Winnsie, December 10, 1903, August Nahrng.

Three hundred people attended the reception given at the M. E. church for the new pastor, Rev. Thomas J. Wright, and family.

The lodge of M. W. A. met Tuesday evening and besides electing officers, voted to consolidate the two local lodges.

Officers were elected as follows: L. W. Roe, W. C. A. Letz, W. A. W. H. Merryman, banker; E. Hunter, clerk; J. L. Winterburn, escort; Henry Koch, J. W. Carl Sund, O. W. Dr. J. J. Williams, physician; Alex Holtz, manager for three years.

From Ponca Journal, December 21, 1882:

Tuesday was a beautiful and sunny day. Had it not been for the snow on the ground, it could have almost been believed that summer had come.

Wayne having risen to the dignity of a county seat, now desires to be incorporated.

Wayne's new hotel, the Boyd House, is to be opened next week. It is said to be the finest hotel in northern Nebraska.

Two distinguished warriors of the Omaha persuasion, namely, Hog Bark Bull and Big Leg Bill, and whose Indian names are Ha-ka-da-wa and Mash-go-ho-ho) called on us Tuesday evening. They were proposing to commemorate some of the many deeds of war in which they had been engaged, by performing with a picked company of braves and braves a number of dances in the hall, and wished to get out some handbills giving notice of the performance. The chiefs were much pleased with our office and examined with great interest the stock of Indian weapons which were sent us from the Fort Peck agency.

The Elk Point Coyote, conducted by our brilliant editor George C. H. Kipps, gives these who contemplate giving holiday presents. We make the following extracts: "In the first place you give within your means. If your salary is $3 a week, your undershirt split down the back, and your wash bill three weeks behind, don't throw your gifts about in a Vanderbilt's style. Go about in clean, to paddle. A paper of chewing gum or a ring with a green glass diamond, given with the knowledge that you can afford it, will be more to your credit than a ten-dollar box of French bon-bons or a fifty-dollar set of jewelry that you haven't paid for." And the recipients of your gifts will think so too, if they are worthy of being presented with anything. Give for the love of giving, and not for the sake of making people think that you are a bigger man than you really are. Remember the poor. Out of your abundance remember them in this happy Christmas time. Give, and give freely and cheerfully. A recollection of having ing done so will afford you a keener relish for the enjoyment of taken of affection and esteem of which you are the recipient yourself."

From the Ponca Journal, December 20, 1877:

What infamous cross walks, what infernal depths of mud, what exasperating puddles of water, slush, spittle and slosh, are seen all along these streets.

The time has been changed for the running of trains on the C. C. & R. H. railroad? By the new arrangement the cars will leave Ponca at 7:30 and arrive at Covington at 9:30. Returning, leave Covington at 2:30 and arrive at Ponca at 4:30 p.m.

This is fine weather for polluted boots and things. What a pleasant sensation to step into a pool of slush and feel a column of mud shoot up your leg like a "serpint."

We are informed that Judge Valentine decided last week that the bonds voted by Wayne county to the C. C. & H. R. Co. were void.

Tonight (Thursday) Professor Davison, the music teacher, and his class, will have a concert at the hall of Stough & Mikesell. It may, judging from the past, be assumed that the music and singing will be first rate and well worthy of patronage. There will doubtless be a large attendance.

The West Point Republican states that the trial of John Goehl for murder in Wayne county last summer, took place before the district court at West Point last week, and resulted in the conviction of the accused, of murder in the first degree. He was sentenced to be hanged.

LIVE STOCK RECEIPTS GIVEN FOR TWO YEARS

An analysis of five Omaha's live stock receipts for the fiscal year ending November 30, 1912.

Receipts 1912-1911.
Cattle.
1912	1,012,869
1911	1,178,709
Decrease	165,840
	14 per cent
Hogs.
1912	2,879,871
1911	2,200,792
Increase	679,079
	26 per cent
Sheep.
1912	2,901,877
1911	2,974,489
Decrease	73,112
	2 per cent
Horses.
1912	32,141
1911	31,990
Increase	151
Cattle.

The decrease in cattle receipts was due largely to decreased number of cattle fed in Nebraska last winter and spring because of shortage of hay and corn, and the general supply of cattle receipts from Nebraska having decreased 49,000 and from South Dakota 35,000. Colorado, Arizona, Iowa, Missouri, Minnesota and Montana all showed increases to South Omaha. From Colorado we gained 25,000; from Iowa 11,000; others were minor gains.

As illustrative of jobs in northern Wyoming and western South Dakota, Northern lines west decreased in deliveries to South Omaha 127,772 cattle and receipts from Burlington lines west fell off 30,000 head and Union Pacific 12,000. Small gains were made in receipts from C. M. & St. P. and C. & N. W. east, C. B. I. & P. east and west and I. C. roads. Gains were chiefly from competitive territory, whereas serious losses occurred in territory naturally favorable to the South Omaha market.

Receipts of hogs, totaling 2,879,871 head, establish a new high record for the South Omaha yards, passing Kansas City by 319,000. Each railroad reaching South Omaha showed an increase over 1911 in the number of hogs delivered.

THE VALUE OF A WIFE.

Prudent Valence, Congressman Mann, is defending the policy of members of the congress voting themselves liberal mileage. Others do the same thing. Our own Congressman Stephens, who was confronted with the duty of voting upon the proposition soon after he went to Washington, argued it was a part of his contract with the people to get money, and he was to be traveling expenses, and he was to be reimbursed to pay himself the twenty cents.

tags to a member of congress to have his wife with him at Washington, and it costs money to transport her and the children. He is certainly right about this if the member have a wife. Congressman Miller of Duluth went to Washington without his wife and she recently got a divorce from him for doing it. He may have done worse things than leave her at home and she may have found him out. We do not know about that, but violation of the clearest commandment is almost inevitable especially in a member of congress. Congressman Moses P. Kinkaid of the Sixth Nebraska district has been going to Washington for ten years without a wife. He has no wife, but we believe he would be happier and better if he had.

A wife is a big help to a man. She keeps him looking decent and setting correctly. She increases his pride in himself and thereby gives him greater courage and confidence and these are highly requisite to success. She stimulates him to usefulness. She glories in his achievements and triumphs and makes him go ahead from one victory to another. She discovers his longings and need for appreciation and bestows it at crucial times when it does the greatest good. Many a wife has thus nerved the most ordinary lump of mud into a pretty good imitation of a man. It requires artistic skill to do this, but a wife's delicate touch can do it.

Wives of congressmen should accompany them to Washington. Wives of other men should accompany them everywhere it is possible. It makes them all happier and stronger and better. This is a great purpose of domestic relationship.

THE WEEK WITH THE CHURCHES.

St. Mary's Catholic Church.
(Rev. William Kearns, Pastor.)
Mass at 8:30 a. m. Sunday. Catechetical class at 3:30 p. m. and benediction at 7:30 in the evening.

German Evangelical Lutheran.
(Rev. R. Moehring, Pastor.)
Services next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. Everybody welcome. Sunday school at 10 o'clock.

St. Paul's Lutheran Church.
(Rev. J. Kuhn, Pastor.)
Our regular services will be held next Sunday at the usual hour. Sunday school at 10 a. m. and preaching service at 11 a. m.

The Sunday school will give their Christmas entertainment on Tuesday evening. It promises to be a very interesting time.

Our services on last Sunday were quite well attended. This is as it should be. We trust this will continue. There is a couple frequently quoted which would be well to consider and to act as it becometh wisdom. It is as follows:

"If all the people were just like me, what kind of a church would my church be?"

The pastor spent a few days' last week among the country members. This was very pleasant indeed. It gave him a view of the largeness of the work and he was greatly impressed with the need of greater activity of all the members.

The sermon next Sunday will be especially appropriate to the day of Christ's birth, the greatest event in the world.

Presbyterian Church.
(Rev. Alexander Corley, Pastor.)
"A Visit to Bethlehem" will be the subject of the morning sermon at the Presbyterian church next Sunday. The service begins at 10:30 a. m. There will be special music appropriate to Christmas time.

In the evening the service begins at 7:30. The subject of the evening evangelistic sermon will be "Yielding to God." At the close of the evening sermon an opportunity will be given for seekers to confess Christ.

The C. E. prayer meeting begins at 6:30 p. m. The subject is "What the coming of Christ Has Done and Will Do for the World." Scripture references, Luke 1: 67-79.

The congregation is packing a box of clothing to be sent to Greenboro, N. C. to be used among the needy in that city, as there is actual want and much destitution among the poorer classes there. The box will be sent to the Presbyterian minister who labors among the colored people in Greenboro. "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me."—Christ.

The Christmas exercises will be held at the church on Christmas eve next week. The members of the Sunday school will give the annual program, and there will be the customary festivities for the sake of the children.

First Baptist Church.
(Rev. B. P. Richardson, Pastor.)
Sunday morning will be our Christmas services for the church. The Sunday school program will be given. But next Sunday our services will center around the Christmas thought. Special music is being prepared. The Sunday morning's subject will be, "The Christmas Message." The evening subject will be, "Behold the Man."

We are gratified to see such large crowds present at both services on Sunday. There were, between fifty and sixty present at young people's meetings. To feel the shrob of life flowing from such a meeting is exhilarating. Mr. Oscar Anderson leads the meeting next Sunday. Come and feel the inspiration of the young people.

Our prayer meeting will hold its regular service on Christmas evening. As Christ's coming has given us Christmas, it will do us all good to stop for a little while on Christmas day and think of him. The thought of the evening will have to do with the deeper meaning of Christmas.

First Methodist Church.
(Rev. William Gant, Pastor.)
Every department of the church last Sunday felt the impetus given by the Lingren meetings. The communion service was no doubt the largest for years. Aged the Wednesday night prayer meeting. It will help you to live a Christian life.

Next Sunday morning the pastor will speak briefly upon "Baptism as the Sacrament of the Holy Spirit." It's place in the Christian system. At the close of the discourse the sacrament of baptism will be administered to both children and older people and those presenting certificates of membership and those to unite on profession of faith will be received into church membership.

The special feature of the evening service will be Christmas music by our large chorus choir. The music will be interspersed with some other items of service.

St. Paul's Lutheran Church.
At St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran church Christmas services will be carried out Tuesday evening. The program will be a concert service entitled "Under His Star" followed by the distribution of a treat among the children.

A cordial welcome is extended to all members and friends.

GROWING OLD.
(Author Unknown.)
A little more tired at the close of day;
A little less anxious to have our way;
A little less ready to scold and blame,
A little more care for a brother's name,
And so we are nearing the journey's end,
Where time and eternity meet and blend.

A little less care for bonds and gold,
A little more zeal for the days of old,
A broader view and a surer mind,
And a little more love for all mankind!
And so we are faring adown the way,
That leads to the gates of a better day.

A little more love for the friends of old,
A little less zeal for established truth,
A little more charity in our views;
A little less thirst for the daily news;
And so we are folding our tents away,
And passing in silence at close of day.

A little more leisure to sit and dream,
A little more real the things unseen,
A little nearer to those ahead,
With visions of those long loved and dead,
And so we are going where all must go,
To the place the living may never know.

A little more laughter, a few more tears,
And we shall have told our increasing years
The book is closed and the prayers are said,
And we are part of the countless dead,
Prize happy then if some soul can say,
"I live because he has passed my way."

FAREWELL FROM MR. AND MRS. A. J. FERGUSON.

As the winter becomes more severe a number of the citizens of Wayne migrate to California to enjoy the milder climate. Among those who left this week to spend the winter in the golden state were Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Ferguson, who left on Tuesday morning for Pomona, Cal. Through the columns of the Herald they desire to bid farewell for a few months to their Wayne friends, as it was impossible for them to say this all personally before starting. They leave Wayne regretfully at this time, and will return eagerly in the springtime, as they feel like exiles from home during their winter trips. Their many friends in Wayne wish them a pleasant winter amid the roses of California.—Contributed.

Tickets will be $1 for dancers and 25 cents for spectators, and the occasion will be enjoyed by all who attend.

TO PREVENT DISEASE.

Altruism among men is more prevalent today than at any stage in history.

The wealthy are making donations of princely gifts for schools, libraries and hospitals. The past few years the medical profession has entered upon a special effort for the prevention of disease among their fellow-men. Although such efforts, if successful, deprive him of the very means of making a livelihood, the honest and honorable physician of today is using his best knowledge and skill to prevent rather than cure disease. Tuberculosis, the great white plague, has slain more than all the wars our land has ever suffered. The medical profession had thousands outside the profession have enlisted in a war against this dreaded scourge. In the United States there are 1,000,000 people suffering from tuberculosis and 170,000 of our citizens die in a year from this disease. Shall we not enlist in the army to fight this deadly enemy? Almost every state in the union is enlisted in this war and Nebraska is at the front. Red Cross Christmas seals placed upon your Christmas packages mean but a few pennies to the giver, but in Nebraska, in the next four years, by such means, nearly $9,000,000 has been raised to prosecute this fight. Citizens of Wayne, when you go, during this happy Christmas time, to purchase your Christmas gifts, remember that a few pennies for Christmas Red Cross seals will help make up the hundreds of thousands of dollars which will be raised this season to fight our common enemy and keep sickness and death from man's home. Call for these seals at any of our stores and you will be supplied.—E. S. Blair, M. D.

ATLANTON GLOBE SIGHTS.

A dime for the side show always struck us as an exorbitant price. Statistics are also used to prove a good many things that aren't so. People will pardon a good deal of conceit if there is some occasion for it. "I never worked so hard for any one else as for a man who boasted he didn't expect his employes to work any harder than he did. The fact was, they couldn't."

There are a number of better ways of being patriotic than waving the flag. There are so many unsatisfactory justices, one suspects that may explain why they are janitors. A little boy is seldom bold enough to attend a girl's party without feeling kind of sneaking about it.

Except in the jewelry business it isn't a good idea to spend much of the working day looking at the clock. It would help some perhaps if boys could understand how the man who smokes evades the one who never did.

It isn't a good idea to visit over business places in business hours unless you want the boss to succumb to nervous prostration.

People pay about as much attention to the shop early talk as they do to the warning of it to not eat too much on Thanksgiving.

Thanksgiving is mostly a state of mind; the most persistent singer we ever knew was a farm hand who had to work fifteen hours a day.

A speaker can get by with many mixed metaphors, yet infinitives and other English atrocities, if his censor previously has been devoted to something besides talk.

Any man who can whip his wife or otherwise demonstrate that his home is his castle, can enjoy the blessed boon of air that cheers and invigorates; fresh air, the one commodity that doesn't seem to be soaring. If he works in pleasant places he may do fairly well away from home, even if fate framed him up for an indoor job. Still one lives to learn that that which should be free isn't always. And often in places where it is most needed.

One may, for instance, argue himself out that the atmosphere of a car is foul and fetid, without getting anywhere. Arguing with a soulless corporation is a slow and painful process, and there ought to be law.

Sparking of kicking a man when he is down, as no good sport should expect to protest, it happens oftener to a woman. And this regardless of the fact that women are supposed to hold the largest membership in the soulful society of man. Who serves to recall the fact that man alone isn't responsible for the double social standard shaped to give wrong broken the best of it. Which seems, and is, an unjust fact, but may be of greatest benefit to woman after all. Regardless of what the reformers may say, a severe penalty is still some inducement to good behavior, and good behavior pays better than any other investment one can name right off the reel.

Perseverance, properly directed, is a great little institution, and is responsible for many notable achievements in all of the Panama canal and a democratic victory. But this misarrange of meditation questions the advisability of telling the children there is no such word as "can't." Of course there is or saint parents might be born opponents of J. P. Morgan or Christy Mathewson, or others of the elect, not to say elected. And, while every one should truth some, for distance and endurance, it isn't a bad idea to know about this word

NO REASON FOR IT.

When Wayne Citizens Show a Way.

There can be no reason why any reader of this who suffers the tortures of an itching back, the annoyance of urinary disorder, the pains and dangers of kidney ills will fail to heed the words of a neighbor who has found relief. Read what a Wayne citizen says:

"Mrs. Ira Esham, Wayne, Neb., says: 'About a year ago I was confined to my bed for several weeks by an attack of Grapello and on recovering found that my kidneys were badly disordered. I suffered intensely from sharp, darting pains across the small of my back and there was much lameness through my loins. I did not rest well and the kidney secretions passed too frequently. After taking Doan's kidney pills a few days, I felt better and in about three weeks all symptoms of my trouble disappeared. There has never been a return attack.'"

"can't" without making its application general. "There is a difference between perseverance and plain bulldozing, and to grasp this distinction is to know some things cannot be, and reserve one's forces for those which can.

There is so much misplaced sympathy in this well known world that verdicts of not guilty are more popular than the other kind.

STOPS SCALP ITCH.

Dandruff and Every Form of Scalp Disease Cured Quick by Zemo.

It is simply wonderful how Zemo goes after dandruff. You rub a little of it in with the tips of the fingers. It gets right down into the glands, stimulates them, stops the itch and makes the scalp feel fine. No, it isn't sticky! Zemo is a fine, clear, vanishing liquid. You don't have to even wash your hands after using Zemo. And what a wonder it is for eczema, rash, pimples and all skin afflictions. A twenty-five cent bottle at Sultheis Pharmacy is guaranteed to stop any skin irritation.

Zemo is prepared by E. W. Rose Medicine Co., St. Louis, Mo., and is regularly sold by druggists at $1 per bottle. But to prove what it will do at trifling expense, Zemo is now put up in twenty-five-cent trial bottles.—Adv.

RESOLUTIONS.

At a regular meeting of the members of the I. O. O. F., the following resolutions were adopted:

Whereas, it has seemed good to the Ruler of the universe to remove from fellow member, Frank C. Barry, therefore, in view of the loss we have sustained, and the still heavier loss occasioned to his wife and family, be it Resolved, That the members of this lodge hereby desire to express their sense of bereavement and grief at the loss of one of their most faithful and gifted members, and to record the joyous and profit which they have long had in the genial social qualities and the intellectual arguments of the deceased;

Resolved, That we sincerely sympathize with the relatives and intimates of the late brother and that we respectfully commend them for consolation to that Divine Power which throughout his sometimes inscrutable in his dispensations, yet "doeth all things well," feeling sure that to them as to us there is comfort in the knowledge that the deceased was not only honorable and manly in all respects but a loving husband and father and a kind friend;

Resolved that the secretary of this society send a copy of these resolutions to the bereaved wife and children and that a copy be spread on the minutes of the lodge, and that they also be published in each of the city papers.

W. H. SKILLIS,

HEAVENLY MANSIONS IN FATHER'S HOUSE

Jesus Now Makes Ready For His Bible, the Church.

Places For Humanity and For the Angels of Various Degrees, and the Seraphim, Principals and Powers, but None Previously Prepared For the Bride—She Is God's New Creation—Here to Be the Highest Place, the Divine Nature.

Buffalo, N. Y., Dec. 15.—We report one of Pastor Russell's sermons today from the text, "In My Father's House are many mansions." I want to appear in a place for you. * * * I will come again and receive you unto Myself, as John said, 14:3.

The Heavenly Father "dwelleth not in temples made with hands," in the literal sense of the whole creation, in His House, every apartment of which shall ultimately be peopled with holy, happy beings. "All the wicked will He destroy."—Psalm cxix, 20.

God provided Adam a mansion—the earth's Paradise. But that unforgotten sinner brought Adam and his race under a death sentence. God chose to permit sin and death to reign during Six Great Days of a thousand years each, thus to give victory to both angels and men. He does not intend that this lesson shall work disadvantage to any. He has provided a gracious redemption, which shows His sympathy for His creatures and the unchangeableness of His Law.

The Divine Program for dealing with this rebellious progeny is to be carried out by the Kingdom of Messiah, during the Seventh Great Thousand-year Day. Satan and every evil influence shall be restrained. "The Sun of Righteousness shall arise with healing in His beams," and the curse of death will be set aside. Man will be assisted toward righteousness and life everlasting by the interposition of the Kingdom for which we pray, "Thy Kingdom come; thy will be done on earth, even as it is in heaven."

Humanity's Mansion—Perfected Earth. At the close of Messiah's reign—the thousand-year reign of Adam and his race will be fully restored to a glorious Paradise. (Isaiah lx, 13.) All refusing the blessings of Messiah's Kingdom will be destroyed by the Second Death.—Acts ii, 23; Rev. xiv, 15. While there were places arranged in the Divine Plan for the angels, and for humanity, no habitation was perfected for the Church. This is because the Church is a New Creation.

Writing of these, St. John says: "The world knoweth us not, even as it knew Him not." The Church is the New Creation—the "ministers of God." All of these demonstrate their faith and obedience by walking the "way of life" of self-sacrifice. "Faith and not by sight." In all things it is declared, "Through much tribulation shall ye enter the Kingdom;" "But this class have the assurance that 'all things work together for good to them'; that they 'shall not be tempted above that they are able to bear.'"

This New Creation is "made a spectacle to angels and men"; God is giving the angels a great object lesson in connection with the development of this class. He is able to transform some of the mean things of this world into nobler "jewels" or royal diamonds in the hands of His God.—Malachi iii, 17; Isaiah lxii, 3.

Heavenly Mansion For Church.

St. Peter tells us that the "mansion" prepared for the Church saying, "God hath given unto us [consent and lovers of Jesus] exceeding great and precious promises; that by these we might become partakers of the Divine nature."—II Peter i, 4.

"Thus we see what it means to be members of the New Creation! 'Eye hath not seen; ear hath not heard; neither has entered the human heart the things which God has in respect to them that love Him'—the choicest mansion, the highest place." As our Lord Jesus in His Resurrection ascended "to sit above angels," so will His Church, and be made "like Him," see Him as He is, and share His glory.
The Master's death was for humanity in general, but His resurrection was appropriated at the inauguration of His Kingdom. The whole world still "lieth in the wicked one," until Christ makes satisfaction for their sin with the merit of His sacrifice.
Meantime, our Lord deals merely with His Church, as we read: "He appeared to the witnesses of God for ever" (Hebrews ix, 24)—as the Church's Advocate, to make "satisfaction for our sins." The preparation in His aid for this will be completed when the number is full—144,000. It is the condition of sacrifice and of "walking in His steps," thus to make our calling and election sure. We need not be the New Creation.

AN EYE FOR BUSINESS

The Way Drazell 'Put One Over' on Publisher Colburn

When the Hon. Mr. Ward wrote his novel 'Tremaine' he was fearful of acknowledging himself the author unless it happened to be a success. It accordingly, the letter to preserve his inviolate, with the manuscript copy by the wife of his attorney to Mr. Colburn, who, although accepted, was not considered likely to pay extremely well, and consequently a trifling sum was given for it. Contrary however to Mr. Colburn's expectations, it ran to three editions. The ingenious author of 'Vivian Grey,' then twenty-two years old, having heard of the circumstances, determined to use it to advantage, and accordingly, having arranged his work for publication, he proceeded to find out the honorable gentleman's fair messenger. This he quickly effected and then promptly returned the MS. so induced her to be the bearer of his novel to the same publisher. The woman was instantly recognized by the man, and the same person who brought him 'Tremaine,' and recollecting the great sale of that novel, he leaped at the manuscript presented to him with the utmost eagerness. It was quickly read and a sum given for the copyright. A short time, however, enabled Mr. Colburn to find out his error, but too late to remedy himself. The work was not successful, and a considerable sum was lost by its publication.

TRAPPING AN ERMINE

One of the Reasons Why the Prized Fur is So Costly

'This stole of imperial ermine is worth $1,000,' said the dealer. 'Dear? No,' just considered how the animal contained in it was caught. In the first place, the creature caught in a winter of extreme cold, it is only in such a winter that the weasel, or ermine, turns from tawny to snow. To remedy himself, the ermine only turns to a greenish white, like this $400 greenish white stole here. In the second place, the ermine, caught young, for men fully developed, it costs as much as $100 as in this $250 stole, and to catch them young the tongue trap must be used. Any other trap would tear the delicate fur. 'The tongue trap is a knife, an ordinary hunting knife, smeared with grease, that the hunter lays in the snow. It consists of a cross bar and a hook, which it mistakes for ice. If it bites and is caught fast, its tongue, in that seething, frozen to the steel. Yes, so simple is the trap, like this don't begrudge a good price for it, for every ermine to it was tongue trapped in snubbery weather—a night's work and you had your head'—New York Tribune.

The Blanket Tree

Blankets grow on trees in Ecuador, and, while through being dried, they come fresh from the forest being covered might give luscious and a backbone to the child of civilization who likes to snuggle comfortably under several layers of down and wool, the natives find it all right, as in fact it is. When an Ecuador Indian wants a blanket he hunts up a Semangium tree and cuts from it a five or six foot section of the tree bark, which he cuts up. This is dampened and beaten until the flexibility of the sheet is much increased. The rough gray exterior is next peeled and the inner part is left. The result is a blanket, soft, light and fairly warm, of an attractive cream color. It may be rolled into a compact bundle without hurt and with ordinary care will last for several years.—Harpers.
