COUNCIL LISTENS TO CASE OF STEAM VS. OIL

HEARS ENGINEER'S REPORT

Kansas City Representative of De La Vergne Machine Company talks to Council.

At a meeting of the city council Monday evening, the proposition to substitute for the power plant was for an improvement again. E. C. Gaylor, engineer employed to furnish estimates, made his report. Also, F. L. Weakley, representing the De La Vergne Machine company, was present and explained the merits of high grade oil engines.

Mr. Gaylor figured that the total cost of putting in a new power plant for the steam plant and changing to an alternating current would be something over $20,000. Here are the separate items of cost as noted down by Councilman W. W. Kingsbury, and reported to the Herald:

- Changing to alternating current, $2,000
- Taking up motors, 1,000
- Two oil engines, 4,000
- New boilers, 4,500
- Electrical supplies, 3,000
- New pumps, 1,500
- New building, 3,000

He said he figured strong on everything and did not estimate what could be realized from old building. He expressed the belief that the new method of propulsion would be the best. He also figured that the De La Vergne unit between $19,000 and $20,000 would be the best.

Mr. Weakley fully explained oil-lubricating engines. While the cost of installing one of his engines is considerably in excess of what a steam plant would cost, he believes the difference in operating expenses abundantly warrants the cost for his proposition. The cost of fuel for the present plant is about $30 per day, while Mr. Weakley figures the cost of creating the same power with his engine at something over $5 per day. He maintains that installation of one of his big engines would be sufficient in the start and that the saving in cost of operation would later pay for changing to an alternating engine. Members of the council and other citizens present listened closely to Mr. Weakley's explanation. Following is a statement which he has issued for publication:

Mr. E. L. Weakley, representing the De La Vergne Machine Company, makes the following statement after determining the needs of Wayne in connection with the power plant:

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 12, 1913.

Citizens of Wayne, Neb.:

Gentlemen: The writer has spent some time in getting data as to the load being carried by the electric generators at your city power plant and from figures obtained from the electrician in charge of the plant as to the probable cost of operating the same on oil or gas engines. The data obtained and the resulting calculations are submitted on a separate sheet in order that they may be checked by any one who so desires.

The voltage on the direct current machinery is assumed at two hundred and forty volts and the generator is given for "B" type run-around. The best dynamo and belt efficiencies are assumed and in order that we may not be severely criticized in this regard these efficiencies have been taken 70 per cent, running from 60 per cent to 85 per cent. The lightest load given is from 5 to 6 o'clock a. m., and is taken as 750 k. w. The heaviest load from 7 to 9 o'clock p. m., at 400 amperes. The heaviest morning load given is from 7 to 8 a. m., 250 amperes.

We will maintain our original position that our 150-horse-power type "B" Liquid Fuel Engine will carry this load all of the time with the possible exception of the peak load for one or two hours in the evening. With proper handling and with good attention to apparatus between the engine and switchboard, the overload capacity on the engine will take care of 400 amperes for a short period.

BIG PAVILION SALE FOR NEXT SATURDAY

An unusually large lot of live stock and other things have been guaranteed for the sale in the Wayne pavilion next Saturday, and therefore it is important for buyers to be on hand early. There are many more things to offer than to receive mention in the advertisement in today's Herald, and it is the intention of the management to begin the sale promptly at 1 o'clock. This is necessary in order to finish during the afternoon. People wishing something high class should be there, and there are early.

LIQUENES ISSUED

Yesterday Judge James Britton issued three marriage licenses and married one couple, as follows: Mr. Charles B. Perfect and Miss Ruby McWilliams, both of Randolph M. August, Bridgman and Miss Minnie West, both of Lehigh, and Mrs. Amanda Reynolds of Elgin. The last named couple was married by Judge Britton.

old year led the year around with the exception of a short season in which the amperage runs high one or two hours in the evening at which time the automatic steam engine could be used to help over the hill. The cost of the engine installed, with all labor, freight and accessories can be estimated liberally at $10,000. The foundation for oil tank could be estimated at $2,000. The run might run considerably below these figures under certain conditions.

After operating the plant as above for a year or two enough money would be saved over your present expense of operation to make the change to an alternating current system without having to ask the tax payers for more money. It is possible that the engine could be bought to help carry an increased load. Our principle is to buy something that will come within the means of the city and which will put the plant on an earning basis such that further improvements can be made out of the saving and cost of operation.

You already know or should know what your present cost of operation is and from the above figures you can estimate what your probable saving would be with our equipment.

Respectfully submitted,
F. L. WEAKLEY,

KANSAS CITY REPRESENTATIVE OF DE LA VERGNE MACHINE CO.

The Herald sent telegraphic queries to the Mayors of Russell, Kas., and Dodge City, Kas., and answers came back promptly. Russell has a 100-horse-power De La Vergne engine in use, and at Dodge City a 25-horse-power Diesel engine is in operation, having supplied equipment similar to that now in use in Wayne. Following are the telegraphic questions and answers: Honorable Mayor, Russell, Kas.:

What are you considering all engines? What would you advise? Is your engine economical, reliable, and does it require an expert to operate? Answer today collect.

E. W. HUSE, Editor Herald.
Russell, Kas., Feb. 14, 1913.

E. W. Huse, Wayne, Neb.:

We consider our oil engine a good investment; economical and reliable, and does not require an expert to operate.

JAMES B. FRED.
Honorable Mayor, Dodge City, Kas.:

Our city is considering oil engines. What would you advise. Is your engine economical, reliable, and does it require an expert to operate? Answer today collect.

E. W. HUSE, Editor Herald.
Osgo City, Mo., Feb. 11, 1913.

E. W. Huse, Wayne, Neb.:

Advise buying oil engine; very economical and reliable, and engineer of reasonable ability can operate.

E. J. MORGAN, Mayor.

The city council will meet in adjourned session next Monday evening when the vote will be taken on the proposition. The proposed improvement is too costly and necessary that the importance of exercising the utmost wisdom and care in framing a proposition for consideration of voters is appreciated. It has been suggested that voters be given the privilege in voting books to decide the kind of engine to buy and decide whether a change should be made to the present at this time or not.

WHY

We Try to Keep A Sanitary Store

Last week I told you how impressions are formed and a store that is kept clean and in order, means more money—more profit when more money is being put out in effect of Sanitary Conditions as pertaining to food stuffs. Should it be necessary to have regular inspection trips made to the grocer to see that things are kept up to the standard, or should you give your support to one who is trying to give you the best of pure foods that are taken care of in the "ideal" way?

To "Tag" Grocers

Each grocery store is to be duly investigated, tagged and classified by the National Housewives' League, according to Mrs. Julia Heath, president of the organization. It is the housewives purpose to conduct an investigation of all "bakeries," groceries, meat shops and all other places where food stuffs are sold. These concerns which are well conducted, clean and are selling pure food products are to receive a white tag from the league. Accordingly to Mrs. Heath, there is to be no black list or boycott system but the league will simply ask permission to hang their sign in places which have passed their inspection.

Should it be necessary for you to tag the grocer to separate the sheep from the goats? It costs no more to buy your groceries from one who has a CLEAN STORE, CLEAN GOODS AND CLEAN SERVICE.

Let the merit system win and help me to "grow, sir."

BLAIR PETERS.
On Monday, February 10, at 10:30 a. m. we laid to rest in Greenwood cemetery the remains of Blair Peters of Sioux City. Blair Peters was the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Peters and a nephew of Dr. E. B. Blair of this city.

He was a frequent visitor to Wayne and had met a number of our acquaintances and friends during his visit here. He was a graduate of the class of 1912 of the Sioux City high school, a member of the Civics club, and a young man of exceptional character and promise. He had high aspirations and was looking forward to several years of further study in college or technical school to prepare himself for his life's work. Nearly a year ago he began to suffer from some serious stomach trouble which gradually increased until in October last he was taken to a Chicago hospital where he had been continuously since, and where he had been the benefit of the best skill that could be afforded in the attempt to save his life. About four weeks ago he was operated on by Dr. Oschner, Chicago's most eminent surgeon, and though at death's door when the operation was decided upon, for a few days he seemed to rally and give promise of recovery. His vitality had been so reduced, however, that nature's efforts proved unavailing and the end of his life came peacefully.

His remains were brought to Sioux City Saturday morning and on Sunday at 2:30 p. m. the funeral services were held, conducted by Rev. Wallace M. Short of the Congregational church and the Elks' Quartet. The body was brought to Wayne Sunday evening and on Monday at 10:30 a. m. the funeral services were held. Friends followed the remains to their last resting place in Greenwood cemetery where a short service was conducted by Rev. William Gorst.

ADVERTISING IN THE MEDICAL PROFESSION.

Advertising is merely telling the public in your own way, who you are and what you have to sell. Every honest business should be open to advertisement. No one would think of sending to a mail order house for a set of teeth—yet many attempt to cure all diseases of the body, whether of the heart, stomach, lungs, or other organs, from one common bottle of Patent Medicine. Some people seem to think doctors are necessary evils. They shun doctors as long as possible. This is not fair to the profession nor to the public themselves. It is just as necessary to know when to leave off medicine as when to begin. Don't try to be your own doctor by any means—more than your own lawyer. Medicine is a life-long study. It is an education of itself to diagnose your aches. If you do not believe it, take any "Doctor Book" and you will find that you have symptoms of every disease. Let us be just and fair. No doctor has any miraculous power. He can do no more than shorten the time and aid Nature in the process of repair. Have confidence in your doctor. Don't employ him because he is a relative or friend, church or lodge member. Employ him because you are satisfied he is competent and will deal with you justly. Without health, the achievement of wealth, fame, or glory is sought. It pays to keep health. It pays to use doctors for this end. Do not count them necessary evils; count them friends. It is my aim to make myself as proficient as possible and do my best for all who need my help.—DR. LUTGEN, Wayne, Neb., Phone 30. P131 Adv

ARCHBISHOP GLOBE SIGHTS.

More people talk themselves out of favor than in. There are several ways for a genius to show it beside in abusing his wife. Don't you hate a man who can't pay tribute without crying like a baby? When a 16-year-old girl thinks of fate she doesn't realize that there is an adverse variety. It is our observation that the masks at a mask ball don't fool those who are expected to know.

COMMITTEES FROM SENATE AND HOUSE

INSPECT WAYNE STATE NORMAL

In Addition to Appropriation for Maintenance School Asks for New Building.

During the past week three committees from the state legislature visited the Wayne State Normal and investigated the needs of the school for the next biennial period. On Thursday Representative Fred Hoffmeister of Lincoln, accompanied by Senator John P. Douglas, paid a visit to Wayne, the former representing the committee on university and normal schools and the latter the finance committee of the House. Dr. Hoffmeister is an old-time friend of Mr. and Mrs. V. A. Senter and his visit to their home is one of the pleasant features of his trip through this part of the state. He also examining an informal inspection was arranged by the commercial club, and by courtesy of Mayor Kate, the visitors were shown through the city hall and enjoyed a social hour with the business men of the town.

The special senate committee which came to Wayne on Saturday consisted of Senators Walter Koebel of Auburn, John P. Cordak of McCook, and J. A. Ollie of Ord. This committee inquired very carefully into the needs of the school and seemed greatly interested in plans for the future. The members of the committee, Senator P. H. Kohl and W. D. Richmond were entertained at dinner by President and Mrs. Anna Adams in the evening and were the guests of Senator and Mrs. Kohl.

Senator Cordak knew Miss Elizabeth Bettner when she was teacher in the high school department of the McCook schools and he was pleased to learn of her success as a critic teacher in the Wayne State Normal.

The committee left Wayne at 6:50 for Chadron and expected to visit Chadron, Grand Island, and Kearney before returning to Lincoln. Representatives J. M. Gates of Sarp, M. J. Murphy of Saline, and N. J. Anderson of Douglas, were the members of a special committee from the House that stopped off at Wayne on Monday evening and remained until 10 o'clock the following day. They were accompanied by State Architect Burd F. Miller, and later joined by Representative H. C. Bartels, who came down from Carroll on the morning train. This was the only committee that came while the school was in session. They were present at the chapel exercises on Monday on being introduced by President Long, each expressed himself as being well pleased with the excellent condition of the school.

In every case the legislators who visited Wayne were men of ability, broad-minded, eager for information, and showing a desire to represent the state and to deal justly with the various institutions of the state. In addition to the request for maintenance, the Wayne State Normal is asking an appropriation of $25,000 for a new central building to take the place of the old college building which has been declared unsafe by the state architect. Providing suitable quarters for such departments as are now housed in the old college building attracted the attention of the present session of the legislature, and the Herald feels sure that all who visit the Wayne institution and acquaint themselves with conditions are convinced that the need here is real and urgent.

CHILD INSTANTLY KILLED BY AN AUTO

Wayne people will regret to learn of the tragic death of the 6-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Toombs in Los Angeles, last Friday. While playing in front of his home, an automobile, recklessly driven and exceeding the speed limit, struck the child and killed him instantly. The shocking news was received in Wayne by Mr. Toomb's sister, Mrs. M. A. Phillips. Remotely, the result of the coroner's inquest which was held, has not been received here, although it is believed an effort will be made to fix the responsibility for the child's death, and deal out the law accordingly. Mr. and Mrs. Toombs are known by many in Wayne where they lived ten years ago, and where they were married. Mrs. Toombs was formerly Grace Vinton, and she was at one time teacher in the city schools here. The sympathy of Wayne friends will be extended to the stricken family.

MAGGIE DAVIS CASE IS STILL UNDECIDED

The commission appointed to ascertain the mental condition of Mrs. Maggie Davis who has been confined to the asylum at Norfolk since her acquittal on the ground of insanity, for killing Jim Churchill in Cedar county, filed its report in the district court at Wayne last Saturday. The commission reported that it found Mrs. Davis sane. T. J. O'Gara, county attorney of Cedar county, was present and resisted the release of Mrs. Davis from the asylum. The court was directed to meet at Norfolk Tuesday to gather additional evidence, and a hearing will take place in Wayne the following day.

A Different View

Many young men who in past years have been content to buy ready-made clothing now have a different view of the clothing question.

Now, instead of buying garments made up months in advance, they come here to be measured for a "make-to-order" suit, choosing the fabrics before they are made up, selecting the style which best suits their fancy, and then having me tailor it for them in perfect fashion exactly as they want it tailored.

You can do the same. More than 1500 exclusive weaves of pure wool fabrics, wonderful in patterns, await your selection.

Remember my clothes cost you no more than good ready-made.

Price $15.00 up.

When you fail to fertilize your farm right—to till it right, you have failed to get the best out of it.

Success of farming today means scientific farming.

And there is no farm today giving forth its fullest capacity of crops, that isn't drained.

The Poet Philosopher

John Milton's greatest, noblest poem was sold for fifty books; he only took the money home, and his wife said: "Shurlet! T'is better times, thing of singing deathless strains in the east, a violin, so help me John, there's less reward for poets than there's, for taster's brains. You should have wed a girl and had your wife in the east, you'd have no housewife, but this spring, as you did last. The girls must wear their old print gowns—'tust they'll dance and sing—and I must wear the lead me down's I bought when James was king." The modern poet gambles, hence that honest with laughter. He says: "I sold that music to some about Drury Lane, I have an order for a sign, concerning Lincoln's inn; and now, my dear, a holy time we're about to have, of the low wain, self, for gaudy rags, and the kids a treat, for joyously the old world wags, and I'm an easy street."

Just a year ago, McCarthy, that huge pugilistic party, was so bulky up against it that he had no place to sleep, with his mentor, Bill McGarney. LUTHER he yelled on bouncer and MCGARNEY blarney for a share of soap, and sinkers, but he didn't hope or weep. "Fortune doubtless is a quary," argued "bumpy Lark McCar," "I mean, that's the case, but it's a dippy, dippy way, but she's bound at last to notice any man who sets a goal, who pursues her still, untiring, during her day after day. Though my conscience she's cooking, when she sees me, she's telling me, 'Oh, what a man!'"

Some one dropped a change pad carelessly upon the walk, and he noticed that some heel, stepping there, would catch a check. Some CARELESSNESS, one electric bill, he down, full of his pines and cheer, then he hid all over town and the suburbs in his car. Then for seven months, about, on a couch, of pair he lay, and the language he put on made the nation turn away. Then we see his moral state underwent an awful shock, all because some trifling skate dropped a peeling on the walk. Some one dropped some carpet ticks on a quiet thoroughfare, where the autos make their tracks when the days are bright and fair; then a load of ill will, a thousand times as bitter, than the raucous pitch of their voices, as they arose. Sorrow then succeeded mirth in the twinkling of an eye, and the men fell to paving the earth, and the girls sat down to cry. Some one told a trick at a passing butterfly, and it made a neighbor sick for a bit in the eye. Some one's doing that kind of things every minute of the year, and his folk always brings grief to some poor dunder head—'s I write these earnest knockers I have got a broken jaw, caused by some one throwing rocks, and there ought to be a law. It's easy to be a success; as thousands of winners confess; no man's secure of un-lucky or poor, that he can't be a winner 1 guess. And SUCCESS success, Mr. Men, doesn't IN LIFE mean a roll that would suggest a queen, or some gems of your own, or a palace of stone, or a wagon that turns gasoline. A man's a success, though renown doesn't place on his forehead a crown, if he plays as he goes, if he's true that he owns not a roll in the dog-eared town. A man's a success if his wife finds comfort and pleasure in life; if she's proud and content that she married a gentleman reluctant to organizing strife. A man's success if his kids are joyous as Katy H. Dids; if they're handsome and neat, with good shoes on their feet, and roses next to their nose. A man's a success if he tries yet, if their theories are correct; if he's slow to repeat all the lies he may meet, if he swats both the scandals and flies. I know when I'd talk for Pette Gray one morning was taken away, by Death, lantern jowled, the whole village howled, and murdered him for many a day. Yet he was so soon that he had but sold the half of a seal; he tried to do good in such ways as he could—he was a successful old lad.

If you remark in cordial tones that J. Augustus Caesar Jones is worth his weight in gold, the fact will doubtless reach his ears and he will smile and give three cheers. POLICY as soon as he is told, "Then Caesar Jones will demonstrate how much he can appreciate a tribute of the sort; and as he through the village winds, he'll pause a while to tell his friends that you're a first-class sport. If people trying to be smart should read you, he will take your name and name, and you're hard; your good repate he will defend, and thus you gain a faithful friend by saying kindly word. If your inform the village cronies that J. Augustus Caesar Jones is but a false alarm, he'll hear of your remark, and then, throughout the busy haunts of men, he'll try to do you harm. It's human nature then to knock, if some one lifts you on the block, or kicks you on the shins; the hero only lives in books who turns the other cheek, gadzooks, and takes a great and grins. So if you'd have the people praise you as they go their divers ways, praise others when you can; say pleasant things about the folks who wish you well on their yokes, for that's the better plan.

Though cheerful the world and pleasant, and gave the skies o'er all, he cannot enjoy the present 'till dreading what may befall. THE UNHAPPY He's tortured by MAN dire forebodings of what may occur next week; new sorrows in griefs and readings he goes to much pains to seek. It's useless to say: "Be cheerful, exult in this gorgeous day!" His face will be always tearful, because he is built that way. I see many wayworn cripples around in the haunts of men; and over each face there ripples a smile every now and then. A man may be shy a trifle, or a little more, or a little less, but find that his isn't no matter than that of the friends he's known. A man may be forced to scamp along on a bass wood limb, nor let a moment hamper the joy that abides in him. I know an old man who's twisted and bent, but he's none the worse for it. He's got a heart that's strong and beats, but he's twisted that life is a bully scheme. Alas! If your twist is Hamlet, the world will be cold and gray; you'll need much assistance daily, or you'll gnash all your teeth away.

BIXBY VIEWS THE REMAINS.

Dr. A. L. Bixby, Lincoln Journal's poet and philosopher, used to run a newspaper at Columbus, and occasionally goes back there to view the town. He visited the old place recently, and told about the experience in Monday's Journal. This is what he says in part: After Scrivens was burned 51 the great success of the mounted band, a quiet regard in that community for some time. The good man was glad to get away from his persecutors, and they felt relieved to know that the teacher of dangerous literature would molest them no more forever. At least that he would not appear in the flesh and spread his pernicious doctrine by word of mouth. There is a belief among a certain class of Catholics that to destroy a man's body does not finish his existence by a long shot. Scrivens continued to exist after the visible light was extinguished, and is being yet, if their theories are correct. But it is said that his freed spirit chafed at the rudeness of the ecclesiastics who pronounced the doom of their antagonist. He wanted to play even, and the only way was to recur occasionally to the series of his teachings and trials in the Alpine hills, and by the subtle influence of his thought transference impress the inhabitants with the truth of his prophecies, and shame the ones who tied him to a stake and set fire to it. It has been more than twenty years since I passed away from Columbus under parallel conditions. Only it was the lack of weight rather than an excess of it that warded me hence. There was no visible stake, no cracking fetters, no mocking abuse, no refusal to consent. There was nothing to make back, nor was there much of anything to take with me. To use a hackneyed expression, I was on the big trail, and it was outward bound. But I like to come back just to let them know that there is more to me than there was to Jim Jeffries. It is a pleasure to look in the benevolent faces of those who once refused to subscribe for my paper and let them feel that they are forgiven and not forgotten. Pleasant memories cluster about this place dating back more than a third of a century when the farmers from as far to the Northwest as Oskaloa brought their golden wheat to this market and returned to their homes with lumber and clothing and groceries and booze.

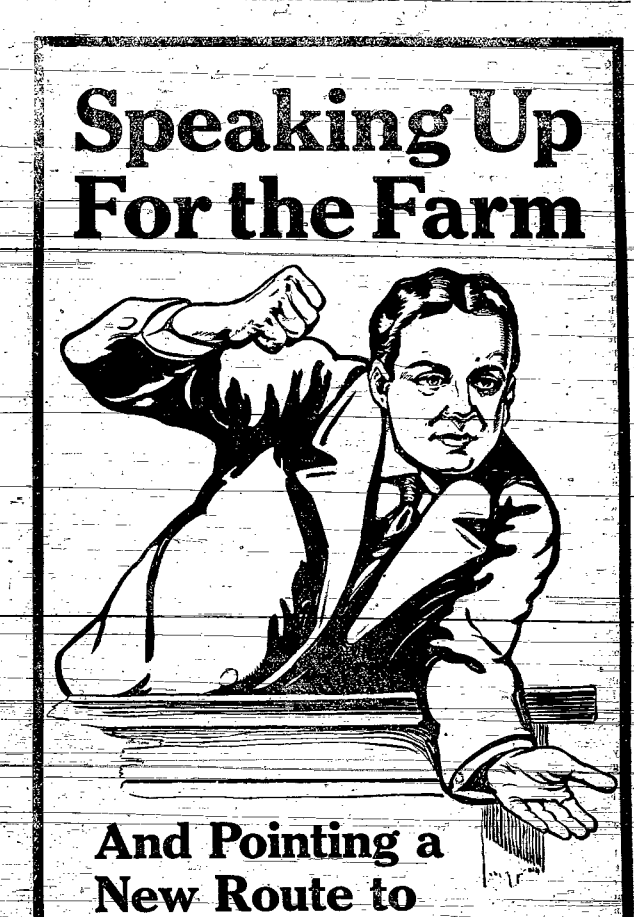

What a little time it takes for a generation to disappear for the generous accommodation of a younger set. I do denude the room and don't take so for an answer. And so it is with all things that are the handiwork of man: even the marble monument, extolling the virtues of some grand old malleator crumpled with the years until the deceptive inscription is as completely obliterated as the bones that rest in the sodden clay beneath. How short is life; the fleeting years; with all their toil and all their tears, have slipped away before we know. The reason for their acting so. And just when fortune seems to smile, and we are fixed to live in style; To put a mortgage on our lot. And get us into, like as you are. Our weary limbs begin to float, The grim destroyer gets our goat. And neighbors say, who view our fix: "He's better dead than living."—BIX.

AT THE OPERA HOUSE.

The funniest of all distinct comedy dramas, "Ole Olsson in Spiritland," will appear at the Wayne opera house February 13. The play is the latest and most up-to-date version of the Swedish effect comedy and presents "Ole" in new surroundings. His wit and humor permeates the piece during the four acts, keeping the audience in a perfect roar of laughter and applause throughout the show. The supporting company is all that could be desired, and a large number of clever musical and advanced vaudeville specialties are given throughout the play. The regular house prices will prevail and reserved seats now on sale.—ADV.

SHIPPING BY PARCEL POST.

Wallace's Farmer: We appreciate that in the next few months many consumers in towns will be getting their hoots, eggs and poultry, direct from the farm by parcel post. We anticipated that the class of shippers claiming to be the commission man, who solicit orders from farmers, and then under one pretense or another, compel them to take low prices, will be ready to take advantage of parcel post. Farmers will therefore need to be on their guard. Those who know the position and know them to be honest, they can afford to ship and collect monthly; but where a person unknown to you asks you to send him products, the best thing to do is to state your prices and require cash in advance. Our western people know little of the way eastern people order by parcel post, and they are better off than they are, when they get a stranger, who under guise of "damage" or poor condition, or one pretense or another, collect products at half of their value. There is no need of that in shipping by parcel post. Know the man you are sending your produce to, and if you do not know him, better get cash in advance, and then get your products sent. We don't believe that the people in town have a monopoly of profits, nor do we believe that farmers have a monopoly on honesty and integrity.

And Pointing a New Route to BIGGER PROFITS!

That's what James H. Collins, business expert and writer, and himself a farmer, does in his new series of practical and common-sense articles, showing how the sale of all kinds of farm products can be increased. You will find the first of these articles

Maple Sugar.—Within its wide range the sugar maple appears as a predominant tree only in the New England states, New York, southern Canada, northern and western Pennsylvania and in parts of Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin and Minnesota. In the southern Appalachian district of Georgia, the forest growth is often almost pure maple and even considerably farther south, where beech and birch become associate trees, the sugar maple holds its own as the dominant species. In northern Pennsylvania at an altitude of over 1,000 feet the mixture is much the same as it is in New York, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, a similar condition is found. But as the hilly country disappears the maple retreats to the richer and damper soils, leaving great areas to the oak and chestnut. Bulletin of the Department of Agriculture.

The Fascinating "Danzon."—The "danzon" which is the universal Cuban dance, is the oddest, most terrific and most lascivious of dances, at first the least inviting, at last the most indolently fascinating. Long, long ago the Spaniards and Moors bargued in our land, in Havana they walked through dances. But you can dance the "danzon" all night on three feet square of floor. A dancer must be in constant motion, a few steps, a queer shiver that runs down the body, a rest, then a few steps again—so hundreds of couples go on for hours. It would be ridiculous but for the music, the music that seems bloodless at first, but ends by pulsating your very blood with some strange magic.

It seems forever beating rhythmic drooping, its beat will at times the barbaric rattling and din of crashing gongs, wholly drops the monotonous melody. There is a very little that seems to be in the "danzon" music, it floats rather at Africa and transplanted sound writes in the Cuban forests—Metropolitan.

A HINDU IDOL.

Its Strange History Caused Mme. Carnot to Order It Destroyed.

When Mme. Carnot, widow of Sadi Carnot, died and her will was read a clause in it caused considerable comment. This was to the effect that a certain small Hindu idol carved from a hard stone which would be found among her property must be taken out and crushed and completely destroyed. Many marveled at this apparently singular request, for the idol seemed harmless, only little thing, but her instructions were carried out to the letter.

The idol had been presented to Sadi Carnot years before he had ever thought of the presidency of France by a friend who had brought it from India. Later he learned that there was a legend attached to it which asserted that whoever would retain it in his possession would rise to the highest height of power in his chosen profession, but die of a stab wound when at the zenith of his career.

Mme. Carnot traced the history of the idol and found that for 500 years it had either in battle or by assassination from some wounds. Yet he laughed at the story, called the man who addressed his search a mere chain of coincidences and retained the idol. He died by a dagger in the hands of an assassin; hence Mme. Carnot's strange request.

LURE OF THE MISTS.

Curious Experience in the Clouds in an Aeroplane.

It was at Manchester, Aeroplanes were swooping the skies in the city of Britain, and had landed, and impaled at the rules that made him wait ten minutes before taking up the craft, went about jabbering in French.

what kind of a trip he had had. Yedrine's quest was to hold up his hands expressed.

He was newer for many seconds, then he said: "I was blanketed in clouds so that I could not see a meter before me. Below me was nothing but rolling mist that gradually took on all fanciful shapes and colors. I caught myself wanting to descend, to 'drop suddenly' into it and see what it was like. To escape this feeling I flew higher and higher, until venturing to look down again, I saw wonderful lights and shadows that never before had been revealed to me from the sky. I saw a dreamy city, a wonderful utopia, and I believe I would have forgotten everything but these exquisite colorings, had I not been brought to my senses by the fact that I became sick as sick as a dog—away in the clouds."—Edward Leffell Fox in Harper's Weekly.

Only Truth Abides. Was it not ordained of old that truth only shall abide forever? Whatever we may say today or whatever we may write in our books, no stern tribunal of history will review it all, detect falsehood and bring us to judgment before that tribunal, which shall bless or curse us as we may act now, wisely or otherwise. We may hide in the grave which waits us all in haste. We may hope to be concealed there, like the foolish bird that hides its head in the sand in the vain belief that its body is not seen. Yet even there the spirit's waiting future will disclose that it was only its posthumous pretense, under which we sought to conceal the avarice which prompted us to cover our souls by forcing truth which was put out. SPANISH SWINDLE AGAIN.

Laurel Advocate: S. C. Jensen received a letter yesterday from Madrid, Spain, the writer of which claimed he was in prison, and asked Mr. Jensen if he would help him financially; that he could secure his release for a certain amount and all court costs. The writer stated that he had hidden securities to the value of $400,000, and that if Mr. Jensen would aid him in making his escape he would reward him with $100,000. The letter named a friend of the prisoner (?) at another point in Spain to whom Mr. Jensen was to cable if he would help a man in distress (?) Mr. Jensen says he has no money to throw at the birds in this manner.

THE EARLY DAYS IN TWO COUNTIES.

From Wayne Herald-Tribune, February 12, 1908.

Mr. Crawford and family left for New Orleans Monday morning to take in the exposition.

The groundhog is a grand institution. He has furnished in the last two weeks an average of six items to every newspaper published in Nebraska.

Wakefield has issued a call for a meeting of all persons interested in the organization of a society to hold annual fairs at Wakefield.

Although the thermometer has registered lower several times this winter than it did Monday night, it was the severest night of the winter, owing to the cutting wind. The thermometer showed twenty below.

J. G. Milligan, Co., last week shipped 600 bushels of that corn that never ever shipped from this station. It went to northwestern Iowa. In previous years corn has been shipped in here to supply our feeders, the home supply not being equal to the demand.

Mr. Brudigan, aged 65, living near La Porte, died and his remains were taken to Wakefield, and he is now recovering from his burns, though Mr. Rosen was most severely injured and suffers considerably.

From Ponca Journal, February 8, 1908.

Wayfield was incorporated this week by the county commissioners.

The thermometer on Saturday night indicated thirty-four degrees below zero.

The railroad between Ponca and Sioux City is the only well traveled road in the whole outfit. It has been blocked since the winter, while all other roads seem to be buried under mounds of snow.

Some of our business men are talking of the plan of establishing a telephone line between this place and Sioux City, and if satisfactory arrangements can be made, the line will probably be put up this spring.

There was a clear sky and a bright and smiling sun on Monday. But the decease of it is you can't spare any dependence on these bright and smiling suns at this time of the year, when a clear day is generally the precursor of an infernally cold night, cold enough in fact, to chatter the teeth of a cast-iron dog.

From Ponca Journal, February 24, 1908.

The snow still continues to be a source of trouble to the railroads. So much of this article lies on the ground that it takes such a slight wind to drift the tracks full and stop the running of trains. Monday evening no train came up from Covington on this account.

The valley of the Logan, beautiful as it is in the summer, does not put out as a nice place to live in during the winter. This winter that valley has been terrific. Sheltering timber and hills are, after all, much more comfortable than the bleak and naked prairie.

A large number of cattle died of exposure in the southern part of the county during the late storm. The heaviest loss reported is that of Philo Graves of Sioux City, whose herd is being wintered in the Logan and of which between sixty and seventy succumbed to the severity of the weather.

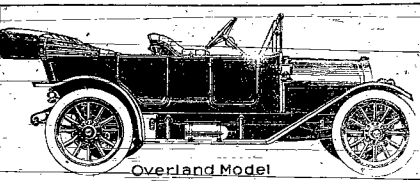

Wayne Review, February 17, 1908.

Shields, Long, Wilbur, Reed, Emerson, etc., from the Logan, were in town Tuesday, having by a good deal of pushing and perseverance worked their way through the drifts. They report no loss of any kind except at Mr. Wilbur's, who lost twelve head of cattle during the storm. Mr. Wilbur reports

DOES CLIMATE CHANGE?

Wallace's Farmer: Men are constantly insisting that the climate changes. They remember that in the days of their youth the summers were drier and hotter and the winters snowier and colder. According to most old men, the climate is constantly moderating. Notwithstanding the weather reports of most of the United States show that the climate, over a long series of years, changes very little. But in England we find that there has been a slight change in the climate during the last seventy years. Whether or not this will prove permanent, no one can say. At Greenwich, in England, they have kept an account of all the frost days for the last seventy years. By adding up the number of these days for a series of fifty years, commencing with 1841, and ending with 1891, and then commencing with 1892 and ending with 1911, it is found that during the fifty years commencing with 1891 and ending with 1911, there was a fewer number of frost days than during any other period of fifty consecutive years. In other words, the climate at Greenwich seems to have moderated slightly in recent years.

THE WEEK WITH THE CHURCHES.

St. Mary's Catholic Church. (Rev. William Keenan, Pastor). Mass Sunday morning at 10:15. Sunday school at 10:30. Benediction at 7:30. Lenten devotion Friday evening at 7:30.

German Evangelical Lutheran. (Rev. H. Meiering, Pastor). Next Sunday services will be as usual. Sunday school 10 o'clock. Sermon 11 o'clock. In the afternoon the pastor will preach at 4:15.

During this season of the ecclesiastical year (called Lent) the pastor will preach a series of sermons based on the words of the dying Savior. Do not forget to fix your eyes on Calvary's cross that after some weeks you shall be prepared for a joyous celebration of Christ's resurrection.

First Baptist Church. (Rev. B. P. Richardson, Pastor). All the services were well attended and full of interest last Sunday. In the evening one young woman publicly confessed her faith in Christ. A splendid spirit is manifested in all departments of the church work.

Beginning Sunday, part of the spring sessions of the Sunday school will be a short missionary program given by one of the classes. A different program will be given each Sunday by a different class.

Our prayer meetings are exceedingly helpful, especially to the young Christians. Last Wednesday we considered the difficulties in a Christian life. Next week our subject will be, "Heils in the Christian Life." One week from next Sunday evening, we are going to have a service especially for men. The ladies will be heartily welcomed, but we shall make the service primarily for men. The music will be by a male chorus and special solo by Benj. Allen. The program will be especially suited to the needs and work of men. Notice the program in next week's paper.

St. Paul's Lutheran Church. (Rev. J. Kubu, Pastor). Our choir has new sabbath books. They were, at the request of the choir, purchased by the Ladies' Aid society. For this we all are truly thankful. The music has good music and improved services.

We had a splendid congregation last Sunday. Being the first Sunday in Lent, the services were appropriate to the day. The subject was "Temptations and How to Gain the Victory Over Them." The pastor took for his text I Cor. 10:13. Our temptations are placed under the general heads, "The flesh, the world and the devil." As general temptations of Christ who was tempted in all points like as we are." In like manner our Mother Eve was tempted and all her posterity. To overcome these we must have divine aid. This comes in answer to prayer, by faith in God and a faithful use of the sword of the Spirit, which is the word of God. This gains the victory over the highest joy and the crown of life.

Our Ladies' Aid society have their meeting on Thursday afternoon of this week with Mrs. E. C. Tweed. At this meeting plans will be completed for the bazaar which is to be held on March 13. From present indications this will be a very successful undertaking. The ladies are quite enthusiastic over it.

Our Sunday school has adopted the "little gift system." This is designed to increase the attendance and retainment of both teachers and scholars. All are anxious to make a good record. Already it is bearing good fruit. We trust that there will be a large enrollment of new scholars of those who do not now attend. Sunday school always.

Presbyterian Church. (Rev. Alexander Corkey, Pastor). "Unseen Possibilities" will be the subject of the sermon next Sabbath morning by the pastor. In the evening he will conclude his series of sermons on "Spiritual Fundamentals." The topic of the closing sermon will be "The Kingdom of God on Earth," or "What Christianity is Going to Accomplish in Society."

"Bulletins from the Temperance War" will be the subject of the C. M. prayer meeting on Sunday evening at 6:30. The church service begins at 10:30 on Sunday morning followed by the Sunday school at 12 o'clock. In the evening the preaching service begins at 7:30.

There will be preaching in the Methodist school-house by Rev. Alexander Corkey next Sunday afternoon. The subject of the sermon will be, "The Gift of a Sabbath Day."

Last Sunday evening the sermon on "The Power of Hell" was listened to with considerable interest. After a brief preface, in which the speaker showed the rise and decline of a belief in purgatory, the teachings of Christ in regard to hell were set forth clearly, and the blessings of the doctrine established. Among the blessings which are brought to the world by the revelation of the fact of hell is the assurance that God is just. Men are to be judged as such as they desire, but in every case they have to pay the price. The doctrine of hell also shows the value of Christ's work of redemption and deepens the love of the Christian for his Lord. In addition to this, the secret of the earnest Christian's interest in the welfare of men is to be found in a sure doom for the wicked. This account for such lives as those of MAUD BATHINGTON Booth and Mrs. Alexander, who look on the most degraded as worthy of all effort for they are still out of hell.

In conclusion the minister said that a belief in hell takes all desire for vengeance out of the Christian's heart and it is possible for him to understand the command, "DEARLY beloved, avenge not yourselves, but leave room for God's judgment, for it is written, 'Vengeance is mine; I will repay, saith the Lord.'" Lynchings, feuds, revenge, unwritten law episodes, murder and general debauchery result from the rejection of man in Christ's teaching in relation to hell. Rev. Corkey is doubtful whether there is hell or not it is certainly possible that there may be one, and just as we insure our lives and our homes on the possibility of fire it is well to be certain of missing the "unquenchable fire" by living a Christian life, especially since, Christianity enables one to live a happier and better life in this world.

The Truth About Ireland. "Tonight at the Presbyterian church Rev. Alexander Corkey will repeat his popular lecture on 'The Truth About Ireland.'" Mrs. A. R. Davis will sing before the lecture. The evening's entertainment is given under the auspices of the G. E. Society and the M. B. Society. The president of the society will preside at the meeting. The tickets to the lecture are free, but a collection will be taken up in the interest of the G. E. work.

"I first became interested in Ireland when I was quite a small boy," says Dr. Corkey, during his lecture. "I remember the day when I saw a few square miles of an Irish valley was the entire universe. I have traveled across now, but I still think the valley of my boyhood memories is the most beautiful spot on earth. I have given my lecture on Ireland a good many times, but I always enjoy it myself. It is like a trip back to the scenes of my early life."

First Methodist Church. (Rev. William Corst, Pastor). St. Valentine's day, February 14, from 3 p. m. to 9 p. m., is the big Methodist day. Come at 3 and take in the afternoon program—in the interest, mostly, of the great women who organized the church, along with music, vocal and instrumental, and some high class humor. The district superintendent will be one of the speakers.

Picnic and social in the basement parlors to 7:30. Professor I. H. Brill is the president of the evening and general manager. He and his assistants will assign a table to the various groups of families, friends, etc., at 6 o'clock. No tables or space can be claimed or will be assigned before 6. But people arriving with baskets, wraps, etc., can take them to the basement and lay them on any vacant tables or seats and men will be in waiting to properly care for them until 5:30. The picnic and social will be held at the picnic and social from 11:30 to 1:30. It can be had in the basement kitchen as free as water. But people must bring coffee pots, and all other dishes, knives, forks, spoons, etc., that they want to use. It is very earnestly desired that all families having children in the Sunday school, whether they be Methodist or not, will prepare their baskets, bringing children and have a good time. The evening program also at 7:30 will be full and strong. No one should be unable to attend the afternoon service or the picnic they may be able to attend the evening program. Only the capacity of the church building is intended to be the limit of those attending the evening program.

Next Sunday morning the pastor will speak on some lessons from the life of Abraham Lincoln and in the evening will discuss some characteristics among the negroes. In connection with the evening service, Miss Olive Marsh will read a poem in connection with the life of Lincoln.

Grace Church. Grace church was well filled last Sunday afternoon when Dr. Alexander Corkey unexpectedly arrived there and emptied his into load of human freight into an unoccupied corner of the auditorium hardly big enough to hold the audience. Dr. Corkey was in the midst of his sermon on the topic, "The Entrance of Thy Word Giveth Light." It was a very helpful discourse and the people were most interested. The Sunday school regularly follows the sermon, but after a few moments' counsel between the pastor and Superintendent A. E. Gillespie, things were arranged so that every man of the "load" being in turn ordered to the platform to make a speech—ready or not ready—Corst, Clasen, Corkey and Young, and when the hour was past all seemed to think they had had a good time.

But what of it all? Little children have grown to manhood and womanhood since the organization of this church twenty-four years ago, and are now going their active careers. Youth of that day, now in middle life, stand in the forefront to bear the heat and burden of the day while many who were not brought there have been transferred to the Church Triumphant. But not the least joy about it all is to see such people surrounded in the privacy of prayer by multitudes of their own children, high favored, intelligent youth, with that ideal of life—a band of youth that either individually or collectively would grace any church or community in the country. These are some of the compensations for the sacrifices of years ago. Congratulations to Grace church.

Cheapest Hairs Ever Sold. Sometimes an extra credit in the published announcement of a big store, due to the negligence of the proofreader or to the compositor in the printing of the paper, it is rarely funny in the recent editions of our paper. The morning reading sheet first issued. One day a department store in New York advertised "Sugar Cured Hams at 7c a lb. Rather cheap, you say? Well, 120 old persons thought so, too, for that was the number that asked for the ham at the ridiculously low price the morning that the ad appeared. It transpired that the ad had got into the hands of the grocery buyer and sent down to the newspaper office for insertion in the day's issue read "14 c a lb." The first announcement had simply dropped out of sight. 125 sales were made at a loss of 10 cents per pound.—Woman's Home Companion.

Poetry and the Child. Read poetry to the child. Read easy, simple verse, read something verse, read real poems—read something verse, read real poems and read the child in an Irish valley was the entire universe. "Paradise lost." Of course the child will not understand the thought, but he will enjoy the sound; and he will remember it. Read to the child. Poetry was never meant to be read to oneself, but always to be read aloud or recited. It is harder than prose. The order of the words is often the key to the meaning and the words themselves are frequently different. Even especially children need help. If they find it, they learn to love poetry, and they know that so long as they live as a genuine love for poetry for its beauties and for the helpful lines that come to one's mind in hard places.—Home Progress Magazine.

Hardy Shetland Ponies. The cool of raising Shetland ponies is remarkably low. These little animals are natives of a rough and scrubby barren country, where they are noted for existing for very mouthful of their food. When they are first brought over to this country they do not know the difference between oats and rice. They are complete strangers to a grain ration. In the Shetland islands they run out the year round, without any shelter, and pick their living from between the rocks. For generations after generations these ponies have had to make this kind of a struggle for existence, and the result is a race of hardy and animals that are able to live on the coarsest food and to stand an amount and degree of exposure that would put an ordinary American horse out of business. National Six-man and Farmer.

Jerred Her. A Chicago man was traveling in the Orient. On a train through a desert he was carried by four tall black men—a chair suspended on poles. The natives started out with great cheer, but as the journey progressed and the sun beat down upon them they began to chant a prayer to Allah. It was melodious though a bit mournful. In constant repetition was nothing, and the lady dozed. On awakening, the prayer, grown more mournful, almost despairing, was still being intoned. Turning to her interpreter she asked the meaning of the mysterious words. The interpreter pretended not to hear, but being pressed for an answer finally bowed low and said: "Madam, since you insist, they pray that the great Allah may make you lose fat."—Chicago Tribune.

NEW ZEALAND EELS.

Monsters That Kill Salmon and Drown and Eat Human Beings.
Eels can cause the death of a salmon of considerable weight by the use of strategy. One will obtain the grip between the dorsal fin and the tail and then hold on like a bulldog while the unfortunate victim in vain throws itself backward and forward endeavoring to shake off its captor, until at length its strength is exhausted, and the eel proceeds to make a meal at leisure.
Worse crimes than these are laid to their charge in New Zealand. A great number of bathing fatalities had taken place at a certain spot, where the current ran with such strength that a powerful swimmer could only just retain it. It was a favorite pastime to have a tussle with the stream, but several times a bather disappeared before help could reach him, and when his body was found it was discovered that much of it had been eaten by eels.
The cause of the fatalities remained unknown for a long time, but at last it was discovered that while the swimmer was almost stationary in the rapid stream a huge eel would seize him by the foot or leg and drag him down beneath the surface. Eels attain an immense size in these waters, rarely to thirty pounds being no uncommon weight.—London Telegraph.

AN OLD CLOTHES MODEL.

Why the Poor Man Purses in the Rich Man's Garments.
"Of all queer jobs last night's was queerest," said the impetuous man. "About 5 o'clock I called on a rich man whom I knew a kind of cousin and asked for a small loan. He said he had nothing to lend, but that if I would come up to his house about 3 o'clock he would give me a job which was almost stationary in the rapid stream a huge eel would seize him by the foot or leg and drag him down beneath the surface. Eels attain an immense size in these waters, rarely to thirty pounds being no uncommon weight.—London Telegraph."
I am going to give away all these things—these of my own—said he. "That is what I want you for—to find out which suits still look decent. I can't get much of an idea when they're on myself, but you've got a tidy figure, and anything that looks well on you will still pass muster on me, and I'll keep it."
I began to try on clothes. I turned around and he kept me from examining his stock. Finally he determined to send six suits to the Salvation Army. The rest he guessed looked classy enough to wear these few days. For my evening's work he gave me $2 and a suit of cast off clothes.—New York Press.

In a Perfume Factory.

Musk is perhaps the most valuable and delightful of all perfumes, yet the refiner, as he opens the musk pods, must wear thick cloths over mouth and nose to prevent inhaling the dust that the pods emit. Indeed this odor labaled for any length of time causes nosebleeds.
Crank, Lemington and Ambler have in actual use the most delicate perfume, but in large quantities they smell so abominably as to give the worker nausea.
The methuena blossom is delicately sweet, and perfumers prize it highly, yet a roomful of bathuena blossoms smells like a charnel house. This, too, is true of the tuberose.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Explaining What a "Snob" Really Is.

"A snob, Eddie, is a person who inherits a great deal of money, goes abroad and buys himself a veneer of culture, returns home and poses as a connoisseur of something, and consequently calling his poor relatives parvenus. Why do you ask such a question—Eddie?"
"Because I heard Donald's big brother talking about this afternoon and he said you were a snob."—Kansas City Star.

DIVINE JUSTICE IN THE DELUGE

The Deluge Rightly Understood Was an Act of Mercy, Delivering Man From Slavery.

Pastor Russell's Interpretations Unlock Bible Mysteries—Dark Statements Made Luminous—Lucifer by Rebel—Nun Became Satan—How His Evil Example Was Permitted to Test the Loyalty of All the Holy Angels.

Duxton, Ohio, Feb. 11.—A crowd of about 100 heard Pastor Russell today at Memorial Hall. He spoke for two hours, and reported his discourse on the Deluge from the text, "The flood came, and took them all away."—Matthew 24:39.

He continues today my subject of a week ago at Brooklyn. I am confident that many of you keep in touch with my weekly discourses through the newspapers. Last Sunday's discourse on the physical causes which led to the Deluge, and found them most reasonable, in full harmony with history and geology. Only a few of the Deluge from a different standpoint. We shall show from the Bible why God permitted the Deluge, and that He was fully justified in blotting out humanity, except Noah and his family. The Pastor showed that Adam created perfect, could have maintained that perfection by constant obedience to his Maker. When Satan, the serpent and guided it to eat the forbidden fruit, he produced a temptation. Eve saw that the serpent was not poisoned by that fruit, but that it was the wisest of the animals. She thought increased wisdom would make her innocent and herself like God. Only by strict commandment obedience her husband the highest ideals. She partook of the fruit and recommended it to Adam. He knew that death would surely follow disobedience, but he preferred to die rather than to be separated from Eve.

Disobedience led to depression from Adam and the gradual extinction of the sentence, "Dying thou shalt die." Adam died within the thousand-year day in which he ate—the hundred thirty years of his race. His descendants, however, are under the curse of death, said the Pastor.

The Deluge's Deliverance.

Pastor Russell proceeded to show that according to the Bible the Deluge was a blessing in disguise. It had gotten into slavery, and would have been wiped out by a new race, most peculiarly introduced upon humanity. The race that had been introduced was not exclusively of males, propagated by the human female. These were giants, "men of renown." The fallen race, he continued, were unable to cope with the superior strength of the invaders. Robbed of their wives and daughters, and compelled to struggle for their new masters, mankind found life a struggle. The new race was vicious, brutal, immoral: The Bible declares, "The earth was filled with violence." Noah, however, was a righteous man, and his posterity, the "sons of Noah," were the "righteous remnant." See Genesis 9:11.

The Pastor declared that we have not studied the Bible carefully enough. The origin of the giants is clearly laid out. Satan, a glorious angel, dejected to sin because of ambition, thought to establish a separate empire on earth. If he could become master of the first part of the creation, he would be the master of the rest.

When Satan perceived humanity growing weaker under the curse, he determined to wipe out the race. Permission had been given to help humanity. These possessed the power to exterminate Satan suggested the setting of a new race, with human mothers. To these, the angels could impart their own vitality.

The Pastor then showed that the children of the "sons of Noah" were giants, renowned at a time when mankind rarely reached maturity earlier than a century. Genesis 6:4 declared that these "sons of Noah" filled the earth with violence.

Hope for the Antediluvians.
Pastor Russell pointed out that these giants could not be included in the redemptive work of Jesus, who died only for Adam's posterity. (1 Cor. 15:22.) The antediluvians of Adam's race have the same hope of a resurrection, but the "remainder of mankind" have not. This means that a "Day of Restoration" to the perfection lost in Eden. This hope rests on God's promise that all the families of the earth shall be blessed in Abraham's Seed.

Which Seed is Christ?—Jesus, the Head, and the Church, the members. In the Messianic Kingdom the Seed will accomplish the blessing foretold in St. Paul's epistle, "If ye be Christ's, then are ye Abraham's Seed, and heirs according to the promise."

Next Sunday's discourse will show what part Divine Justice has imposed upon Satan and his angelic rebels. Those not in touch with any of the hundreds of newspapers publishing his sermons, written to drop him a card to Washington Temple or Brooklyn Tabernacle, if they desire further reading matter.

RURAL EGYPT.

One of its quaintest spectacles is a native wedding. However modernized Cairo is or will become, says a writer in the Wild World Magazine, rural Egypt remains the same today as it has been for countless generations. One of the quaintest sights-out in the country is a native wedding. I was fortunate in seeing two of them, one from a train and the other while walking near the village of Helwan, which is the site of the ancient city of On, mentioned in the Bible.

The bride and bridesroom were completely screened from the public gaze by a canopied arrangement on the back of a camel. It looked like an immense ottoman adorned with a cover, illuminated by gaudy patterns. This camel was followed by the bride party, all women, seated on a long train of camels, each camel supporting two women.

The wedding ceremonies the camel, not the women, were almost developed in immense rugs, on the of which apparently a feather bed was deposited, and on this the women squatted, giving every few moments to a prolonged shrill trill, which gathered was intended for a festive song. Altogether the incongruity of the spectacle was exceedingly comical.

DEATH OF MRS. GRAY.
Rock Island, Ill., Argus: Mrs. Mary C. Graham, 927 Second Avenue, received, word Wednesday, noon of the death of her sister, Mrs. Caroline Starr Gray, which occurred at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Lucy Wollenhaupt, in Chicago. Mrs. Gray was one of the early pioneer residents of Rock Island, coming here in the year 1839, when the city was but a small cluster of log cabins. She was the widow of Joseph A. Gray, and was a member of one of the oldest and most prominent families in the city. Her host of friends will be grieved to learn of her death.

Mrs. Gray was born October 20, 1847, in Springfield, O., coming to Rock Island with her parents when a child two years of age. She made her home in this city until the year 1883, when the family moved to Wayne, Neb., where they lived until the death of Mr. Gray in 1899.

Lived With Children.
Mrs. Gray spent the latter part of her life in Nebraska and most prominently her children and with her sister, Mrs. Mary C. Graham of Rock Island, who is the last surviving member of the family.

She is survived by the following children: Mrs. Emma Dyrast of Winslow, Neb.; Mrs. Lucy Wollenhaupt of Chicago; Harry A. Gray, also of Chicago, and Fred W. Gray of Seattle, Wash. The body of Mrs. Gray will be taken to Wayne, Neb., for burial beside her husband.

Mrs. Gray was the oldest of eight children of Jacob and Elias Starr, who came to Stephenson, which is now Rock Island, in the year 1839. Joseph Gray was identified with the erection of public buildings in this city and was one of the original owners of the Weyerhaeuser & Denkmann mills.

In the Early Days.
Game, especially deer, was plentiful when the family first settled here. It is said that Mr. Starr, with several neighbors, would go to what is now South Rock Island, which was then a dense woods, and return with a wagon load of game after a day's hunt. When the hunters returned, any body of the little village who desired a fat ham from a deer or a juicy fowl would find it simply for the asking.

OBITUARY.
(By Wayne Pastor.)
Catholine D. Starr was born at Springfield, O., on October 26, 1847, and departed this life at Chicago, Ill., on February 5, 1913, aged 75 years, 3 months and 6 days. While a child, her parents removed to Rock Island, Ill., where she grew to womanhood, and where she was married August 28, 1865, to Joseph A. Gray. She and her husband continued to make their home in Rock Island for a number of years, and six children were born from the union. Of these, four survive, Mrs. Emma Dyrast of Winslow, Neb., and Mrs. Lucy Wollenhaupt of Chicago, Ill., and two sons, Harry A. Gray of Chicago, and Fred W. Gray of Los Angeles, Cal. In 1883 the family came to Wayne county, and settled on a farm south-west of town. Her husband, Joseph A. Gray, died on December 3, 1891, and in the following year Mrs. Gray moved to Wayne where she made her home for a number of years. For some time past she has lived in Chicago with her daughter, Mrs. Wollenhaupt, where she resided when the same health later in life was never very robust, and in recent years she had been quite frail.

While residing in Wayne she united with the Presbyterian church with which she retained her fellowship until her death. She was an earnest Christian, letting her light shine and revealing by her life the inward work of grace on her heart. As a wife and mother she was true, legal, self-sacrificing and loving, and her wide circle of friends appreciated her worth and character. Having finished her work, and kept the faith, she awaited the call to the higher life in patience, and was ready when the summons came. Jerusalem, the golden, with milk and honey blest,
Beneath thy contemplation sink mind and heart oppressed,
I know not, O, I know not what joys await us there,
What radiance of glory, what light beyond compare.
For so he giveth his beloved sleep.
Funeral services were held at the home of Henry Ley, in Wayne, at 10 a. m., conducted by Rev. Alexander Corbey, assisted by Rev. William Gorst.
