MRS. M. MCINTYRE WINS FIRST PRIZE BALLOT

Several Contestants are Close—For Assistance and Courage Arrived Needed by All.

Mrs. B. M. McIntyre, Mrs. Anna Mae Thomas, and Mrs. Davis are the winners of the prize mess bags which were awarded last Sunday.

The following are the winners of the prize ballots for last week: First: Mrs. McIntyre; second, Sam Davies; third, Anna Mae Thomas; fourth, Stella Bruggeman and Emerig Young; fifth, Dora Hinrich; sixth, George Worr;

"Minutes soon pass into hours, the hours into days, and the days into weeks."

"To add life here are several contestants who stand comparatively even, and the race from now till the night of March 15 promises to be close as well as hotly contested every minute of the time."

As things stand, it is a matter of possessing the "courage of your convictions," and the knowledge that you cannot rest on past laurels for a single moment.

Much more to be accomplished in the next two weeks, and contestants who stand a little lower in the list may be looking for a change of position.

Do your best every day, and go on to the finish with a firm determination to be a WINNER.

REGISTRAR REDMON VISITS LEGISLATURE

On his return from Lincoln where he inspected the work of the legislature, Registrar W. D. Redmond of the Wayne State Normal, gave at the session of the Herald, expression to his views and impressions as follows:

"I was in Lincoln less than two days and did not have time to do more than look at the legislative session. I am convinced that sooner or later the University will be removed, and they favor such action at this session of the legislature as will provide for the building up of a consolidated institution at the state farm.

"The normal school interests for the next biennium are to be provided for under the provisions of House Bill No. 437, which makes a levy of three-fourths of one mill on the assessment roll of the state, the fund derived therefrom to be used for the maintenance of the four normal schools, including permanent improvements. If this bill is amended to read one-tenth of a mill instead of three-fourths it will meet the needs of the normal schools for two years and place them on a firm financial basis in the future."

Monday's legislative proceedings, as reported in Tuesday's Omaha Bee, would seem to settle the uncertainty over holding an election this year. As the Herald understands, there will be no election of state or county officers this year. The Bee's report says:

"By the perfecting of the code commission bill to complete provisions for biennial elections, the time this afternoon took action which makes it clear that no state election will be held in Nebraska next fall. A constitutional amendment was adopted in November providing for biennial instead of annual elections, but it was not plain whether an election would be necessary next fall. The legislature says in effect that no election shall be held."

Planned to Wayne Herald. Please keep that half-page ad. in two more weeks. In spite of the snow and bad roads last Saturday we sold two nice bills to parties north of Wayne and Monday and yesterday had three more by taking five rugs. The cost on average makes the shift move—Waynefield Furniture Store.

The soprano, Madame Dorthes North, presents a note of considerable agreeable timbre. Her singing captivates by reason of technical excellence and round full beautiful voice. Among others, her rendition of "Come Unto Him" and "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth" was of artistic style and feeling.—Milwaukee Herald (A. J. A.)

MARRIAGE LICENSES.

Judge James Britton has issued marriage licenses to the following applicants: February 20—Mr. Henry Engeland and Miss Emma Alberts, both living south-of-wayne. February 21—Mr. John E. James and Miss Anna M. Mumford, both of the Carroll vicinity. February 24—Mr. Francis I. Hughes and Miss Jeanette Jones, both of the Carroll vicinity.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Jones gave a miscellaneous shower at her home last evening, complimentary to Miss Jessie Beechel, whose marriage to Mr. H. H. Bessire of Laurel takes place next Wednesday. The rooms were artistically decorated with ferns, carnations, and ferns. The color scheme in the dining room was red and white, with the photographs of the bride and groom in a conspicuous place. Following a dainty two-course menu, some time was devoted to making a book, giving in brief the past present and future of the bride and groom. Other amusements and a mock marriage brought to close a delightful evening. Miss Beechel was the recipient of many beautiful gifts. Twenty-five ladies were present and took part in the evening's enjoyment.

The husbands of the U. D. club ladies executed in faultless fashion an elaborate planned social function Friday evening. The hosts and ladies had a number of invited friends, thirty-two altogether, gathered at the B. E. K. Mellor home for a 6:30 o'clock dinner. The table was decorated with roses and violets and Anemone. Toasts and good-will, and witty remarks. Clusters of roses and hibernia tree trays.

Made with different Baking Powders

From a Series of Elaborate Chemical Tests:

An equal quantity of bread (biscuit) was made with each of three different kinds of baking powder—cream of tartar, phosphate, and alum—and submitted separately to the action of the digestive fluid, each for the same length of time.

The relative percentage of the food digested is shown as follows:

Bread made with Royal Cream of Tartar Powder: 100 Per Cent. Digested.

Bread made with phosphate powder: 68% Per Cent. Digested.

Bread made with alum powder: 67% Per Cent. Digested.

These tests, which are absolutely reliable and unprejudiced, make plain a fact of great importance to everyone: Food raised with Royal, a cream of tartar Baking Powder, is shown to be entirely digestible, while the alum and phosphate powders are found to largely retard the digestion of the food made from them.

Undigested food is not only wasted food, but it is the source of very many bodily ailments.

TO ELECT OFFICERS AND DECIDE ON BONDS

The city election takes place April 1. It is proposed to submit the question of voting bonds for improvement to the power plant at the same time. Candidates for mayor and other offices are not numerous thus far. A few have been talked of, and in due time no doubt enough willing to fill the offices will be pushed to the front. In the matter of voting bonds, some maintain that the character of the improvements should be left with the council, while others hold that the people after an understanding of different propositions, should determine by ballot at the time of voting bonds whether an oil burning or a steam engine should be bought, and whether the current should be changed from direct to alternating or not.

INCUBATOR FACTORY STEADILY GROWING

The X-Ray incubator factory is doing three times the business that it did a year ago, and the demand for incubators is increasing every day. Thirty people are constantly employed, and newly installed machinery enables one man to accomplish what three men could do with the former equipment. All summer a force of men was kept employed getting ready for the busy season. The business of the factory has increased from year to year. Present unprejudiced growth will encourage more improvements and more extensive advertising, and thus next year's business will be still greater.

BARADA WHITE WEDDING

A quiet home wedding was celebrated last Saturday afternoon at 1 o'clock, at the home of Miss Charlotte White, at the home of Mrs. Charlotte White, John T. Barada, of Rosalie, and Miss Margaret White of this city, were united in marriage. Rev. Alexander Corkey officiated, using the Presbyterian rite ceremony. The young couple departed on the afternoon train for Omaha on a brief honeymoon. Mr. Barada, the groom, is a young business man of Rosalie, and the bride is one of the successful teachers of whom Wayne is proud. She has been teaching school in Rosalie for some time past, and the home of Mr. and Mrs. Barada will be established in that city. Their many friends wish them a prosperous journey as they go down life's pathway together.

COULD REPAIR OPERA HOUSE AT SMALL COST

G. M. Dalton, who recently presented "Ole Olsson" in Wayne, became sufficiently interested in improving the condition for dramatic companies coming to this place to consider the cost of putting the opera house in good shape. He has written A. E. Smith, the local manager, that $9,000 would make all needed improvements and rebuild the house in a desirable condition as would be found in a town that has spent $20,000 in the construction of an opera house. Thus, by improving the old building, Wayne could have a first class opera house at little cost. It would seem that capitalists could be found willing to undertake the enterprise. It would be a valuable improvement for the city.

SIXTEEN WANT THE LOCAL POSTOFFICE

It is said sixteen democrats will enter the postoffice arena to contest for the local postoffice appointment. Some of the candidates are in favor of the proposed primary, while others are opposed to it. The former contending that the people should name the man who shall dish out their mail, and the latter claiming that an efficient postmaster, following the rules and regulations of the postoffice department, may not be a popular vote-getter. Thus Congressman Stephens' primary plan is favored by some and opposed by others. If it is enforced, at least one of these now supporting it will favor it throughout the administration. If it is not enforced all fifteen of the sixteen candidates will, following the appointment, be secretly, if not openly, mad at the congressman. And there you are.

W. H. Hoguewood and Fred Ellis appeared before the city council in regard to the matter of a dumping ground. On motion the matter was referred to the street and alley committee. On motion the council adjourned to February 26, 1913, at 8 o'clock p. m.

Housekeeping Is Not the Task It Used to Be

MODERN invention has done away with much of the hard work of housekeeping. For instance, the cleaning and polishing of hardwood floors, the dusting of moldings, the tops of high furniture, the stairs, under the radiator, etc.—These back-breaking tasks are now made easy with the

O-Cedar Mop

Polish Mop

With it you can dust, clean and polish a hardwood floor in the time it formerly took you to get ready to do it.

Besides, you do not have to get down on your hands and knees to dust under the bed or other hard-to-reach places, or to stand on a chair to dust the top of the high furniture. All of the hard work is done easily with the O-Cedar Polish Mop. It carries the dust or dirt from crevices and holes, and cleans by rubbing and then removing by pulling on a long O-Cedar Ribbon.

Uncle Walt The Poet Philosopher

Old Kind's always willing to preach and hand out wise counsel and teach; but ask him for aid when you're hungry and frayed, and GENEROSITY will kick to his head. He'll handily with proverb and text to comfort the needy and feed; but when there's a plan to vent indigent man, his Kind never seems to get next. He'll help the widow with repairs and pray for her fatherless claims; but he never would try to bring joy to her eye with "sour" and "sourheart" and "lame. On Sunday he'll give "the light" and makes the responses with vim; when they pass round the box for the worshippers' rocks his gift is exceedingly slim. He thinks he is fooling the Lord and is sure of a princely reward when to heaven he goes at this life's journey's close—with which vice I am not sure he's "top" lock. He is wise to gold bricks, and the humming who crosses the Styx will have to be sharp if he captures a harp; St. Peter will say to him: "Nix!" They size up a man neatly right when he comes to the portals of light; and no stingy old fraud ever thimberlegged God or put on a robe snowy white.

The great men come and prance a while to do their stunts and charades; we watch their obit; admire their style and say they are GEORGE'S immortal. But when BIRTHDAY they're laid beneath the grass, our memories are rotten—before a few brief seasons pass the great men are forgotten. The shining lights who died last year from human made have faded and—immortal gambol here where 't'others toiled and dickered. That fame must like the rock be made if it has safely traveled alone the length of a decade and is not tripped or tumbled. "The gift is to but few to forge a deathless reputation, like that of your "immortal George," the father of the nation. His name is never still—because the poet and writer; fill time shall end each passing age will make the story brighter. In countless schools we teach the youth for "helpful facts" inquiring, that "Washington" means honor, truth and all that's worth admiring. In countless homes his pictured face is viewed with veneration; one man who never knew disgrace—the father of the nation. One man whose glory bears no stain—what conqueror can match it? Beat at his white raven in vain, Time, with your little hatchet!

From sport to sport goes this old sport; to find a peaceful haven, and every where he meets despair—his emblem is the raven. He goes to CASTRO, they show him from the harbor; "your record's wrong your beard's too long," they cry, "go hire a barber." He goes to Spain; he's sold again, the dons won't let him linger; "oh, fade away," they sternly say, and point forbidding finger. On England's docks a peeler walks his exit to determine, and there's a gun to plug his side in every large German. The world around is never found at "We came to Our City"; no cordial hand when he would land, nor even words of pity. From Rome to Greece the bay police are watching for his nobles, and he must eat the outcast's meat, and drink from bitter goblets. Across the waves come bloody knives and brigands of all nations; we let them in with social graces to ply their weird wares. The roughest thief, the bandit chief, the gambler skilled to shuffle, may join our bands; when Castro lands, we beg him to go further. Oh, is it fair that everywhere this poor old is harried? That there's a man on every shore if he two hours has tarried!

When you took a blushing bride to the altar, at your side, it was time to quit the fighting, and such exercise as that; in your quiet BAT NELSON English you should have a pipe and pair of slippers, like the other fellows, that LIVE's married man believe, looking reverend and grave, raising whiskers and potting in your yard behind your flat; talk of hats and gloves and things and forget the glaring rings where you won and lost your hand; see you ever a being so dumb? It's not getting to work you in public make a lotch of the postime publicistic, for you cannot whip a cat; you would better far retire to your rocking chair and fire, and your spotless and slippers and your cushioned footstool, but: "When a man has won a wife he should quit the sporting life if he has a heart of money; your money will fill at bat; he should go to feeding hens, or the piggies in their pens, he should lead a life domestic, far from all the limelight, Bat! If you could put up a scrap there would be excuse, maybe, but the fœman always soaks you in the larynx, on the slat; so like other men with frans, you had better walk your cows, fix the fence, dig the kindling, and dig up the garden, Bat!

I would not care to live, my dears, much more than seven hundred years; if I should last that long, for I would tire of things in 400, and I would tire of things in 400. LIVING and I would tire of things in 400. TOO LONG seem a crime and I'm a public wrong. Old Gaf for Goodworth, whom you know, was born a hundred years ago and states the fact with mirth; he's rather proud that he has hung around so long while old and young were falling off the earth. But when his beautiful fit is gone, a soldier comes his life upon, that speaks of utter woe; he sits and broods and dreams again of vanished days, of long dead men, his friends of long ago. There is no loneliness so dread as that of one who mourns his dead in white and wintry age, who, when the lights extinguished are, the other players scattered far, still lingers on the stage. There is no solitude so deep as that of him whose friends asleep, shall visit him no more; shall never ask, "How'd you stack?" or slap him gaily on the back, as in the days of yore. I do not wish to draw my breath until the papers say that Death has passed me up for keeps; when I am tired I want to die and in my cozy cot, to be in a calm sleep. When I am tired of dress and gold, when I am tired of heat and cold, and happiness has waned, I want to show the neighbor folk how gracefully a man can croak when he's correctly trained.

In Canada, the land I knew, when up from infancy I grew, they're chopping down the noble trees and using all the wood for paper, and using for water. IN CANADA power for factories, O Canada, fair Canada! In Canada where roamed the bear, jay whistles point the air with smoke and germs and things like those; where once the unstarved forest zoss; the housewife's hanging out her clothes, O Canada, my Canada. In a Syrian grove, where once the owls were frightened by the gray wolf's howl, the whiskered farmer builds his shack and shapes his ugly forage stack; the frontier's driven further back, O Canada, sweet Canada! You see it all, and nothing loath, you talk about your greater growth! You see your beauties fade away, the prairie flowers give place to hay, the water falls grind what will; they O Canada, proud Canada! In time ago, foothills will invade your arctic regions with a spade and shovel all the snow away, so that the greedy grangers may shoot squashes in the fertile clay, O Canada, swift—Canada! You'll manufacture bricks and tiles upon your famous Thousand Isles, and harness down the forest and bring that out in a few million trees, so it will manufacture wooden O Canada, great Canada! The dear old Canada of Jorel Ne man shall see it anymore! The Canada of fine romance, of woodland pump and circus stance, of mighty deed and perilous chance, O Canada, old Canada!

REV. CORKEY AT FREMONT.

Rev. Alexander Corkey gave an address at the annual men's banquet of the Presbyterian church of Fremont on Wednesday evening of last week. Speaking of his address the Fremont Herald says:
Rev. Alexander Corkey may have been the lodestone which attracted so large an attendance to the banquet, for his theme of "Three Poets" proved an edifying mentor to the gentlemen who indulged so generously at the episcopal spread. Rev. Mr. Corkey undertook to make his hearers believe everything had gone Presbyterian, for he traced the triumvirate of that Free-dericket Wilson and Vice-president-lect Marshall were both Presbyterians, and that William T. Heyden, counted as the premier of the Wilson cabinet, and Governor Sulzer of New York, were likewise of the faith, in which his hearers were wont to testify as to their religious convictions. Mr. Corkey was at his very best, and his address was a repertory of his many delightful observations he has offered to friends in Fremont.

The way the weather has acted the weather it will be in shape to get the usual variety on the day of the inauguration.

The Fremont Tribune has announced its intention to change to the conventional way of spelling, quitting the abbreviated style to which it had steadfastly held for many years. The Tribune says it has grown weary of being the only paper in the state practicing reformed and altered spelling.

It will be President Woodrow Wilson after next Tuesday. He takes up the affairs of chief executive with the good wishes of all people regardless of party, and it is to be hoped that he will not be hampered in the performance of duty and the encouragement of confidence, prosperity and the general welfare by politicians and near statesmen who are anxious to play to the galleries and achieve prestige.

The Wayne Leader, democratically explain that Governor Morehead has signed the bill making appointments. The best part of the state has never received the political recognition and reward that it deserves. The south part has more people and more nerve per head. The south was settled first, and had a long lead in population. But the north is fast catching up, and in due time will be able to command its deserts through force of numbers.

Following his overthrow for the post office, the Wayne Leader editor proposed to the Wayne County Board of Supervisors that he be appointed to the post office in a similar manner, providing the latter will do the same. It is now up to the call. If the Leader's desire for the post office results in the two editors dwelling together in peace and harmony hereafter and never more of real value to themselves and society will be gained through defeat than would have been gained through victory.

Congressman Darr Stephens has introduced a bill in congress providing for the election of postmasters by the people. The measure permits members of all parties to vote at such election, but makes eligible only such candidates as are in sympathy with the political policies of the president. This plan would allow the people to vote unless they were determined to have a postmaster of another political party than the one in power. It would also relieve members of congress of a huge lot of responsibility and grief.

The right idea is expressed by the most Tribune in the following: "If Will Massey really did write Governor Morehead's campaign speeches he was undoubtedly paid for it, for the governor has the money. Whether he was paid or not, it was confidential work. Newspaper men ought to regard their profession as highly as attorneys and physicians do theirs. Men of such professions who betray confidences sooner or later suffer for it."

Whether the overthrow of any controlling power in Mexico by a revolution is a justifiable or makes worse the condition there in question. It is reasonably sure that the Mexican character has not become sufficiently civilized to govern justly and avoid abuse of power. Whether the Madero reign deserved to cease or not, the manner of the president's betrayal and capture by a trusted general in the government may show deeply and indelibly the treachery. There still is the cowardly murder of Madero and Suarez while they were ostensibly being taken to the penitentiary. The claim is made that the guards escorting the prisoners to the penitentiary were attacked by an armed group, and that Madero and Suarez, who tried to escape, were killed. The story is too probably incredible to be looked like a villainous plot on the part of the new ruling power. It looks as though the two men had been shot down like dogs. American intervention appears probable if an agreement and it would seem that an agreement would be necessary before a type of Mexican citizenship high enough to govern justly and avoid abuse of power and equality would be developed.

ORDINANCE NO. 213.

An ordinance calling for a Special Election for the City of Wayne, Nebraska, for the proposition of issuing the Bonds of the said City in the sum of $15,000.00 for the purpose of establishing an electric light system in said City, fixing the rate of interest to be drawn and the time said Bonds are to run, and also providing a tax levy annually to meet the interest as same shall become due on said bonds, and providing a sinking fund for the liquidation of said bonds.

Be It Ordained by the Mayor and Council of the City of Wayne, Nebraska:

Section One: It is hereby ordered that a special election be called in the City of Wayne, Nebraska, at the several voting places therein on the 1st day of April, 1913, that the question to be voted upon shall be submitted upon the ballot at said election, the following form: "Shall the City of Wayne, Nebraska, issue its negotiable bonds to the extent of $15,000.00 or so much thereof as shall be necessary for to establish an electric light system in the city of Wayne, Nebraska, and to be in denominations of One, Five, Ten, Dollars each and to draw interest at the rate of five per cent per annum, payable annually, and to run not less than five and more than twenty years from the day of their issue, and payable at the fiscal agency of the State of Nebraska and to provide a tax levy annually to pay the interest on said bonds as it becomes due, and to provide a sinking fund for the purpose of payment of the principal of said Bonds as they become due.

FOR THE BONDS.

Section Two: Said election shall be conducted, with reference to Judges and Clerks of Election, canvass of the votes and returns thereof, the same as a general City election, and the polls of said election shall be open at 9 o'clock a. m. and continue open until 7 o'clock p. m. of said day.

Section Three: The notices of said election shall be published for twenty days next prior to said election in some newspaper published and of general circulation in said City and a large and bold notice containing the proposition to be voted upon shall be posted in a conspicuous place in each and every voting place during the entire day of said election.

Section Four: The ballot to be used at said election shall have printed on them the proposition as set out in Section One and in addition thereto, in bold type, "Official Ballot."

Section Five: This Ordinance to be in force and take effect from and after its passage and approval and publication as aforesaid.

Passed and approved and ordered published this 26th day of February, 1913.
J. H. KATE, Mayor.
J. M. Cherry, Clerk.

ADVISING IN THE MEDICAL PROFESSION.

Every business man advertises. Every doctor advertises in some way. Some by sending cards, some through personal friends, some by prominent work in church, lodge or other public work. All are perfectly legitimate as is my way of using the press. Being born and reared on a farm, my education began in the rural schools. I later attended public and high school at Colby, Kan., entering the Lincoln Medical College, at Lincoln, Neb., in 1900. During my four years spent there I had my extra time and vacations were spent studying the eye, ear, nose and throat under Dr. Ketchum of that place, now of San Francisco. After graduating I located at Elk Creek, Neb., to be near my brother, an M. D., eight years my senior, and assist him in his hospital at Auburn, Neb. During my stay there I took post graduate work at Chicago in the Eye, Ear, Nose and Throat College, Surgery under Drs. Pratt and Ochsner of that city, and have spent some time each year with Mayo Brothers, at Rochester, Minn. Besides doing general practice, my office is equipped with the latest x-ray apparatus and special things needed for these special lines of work.—DR. S. A. LUTGEN, Phone 30.

Woman's Part In the Inauguration

Mrs. Wilson's photo copyright by Pach Bros, New York. MRS. WOODROW WILSON. MRS. THOMAS E. MARSHALL.

BY JAMES A. HEGGERTON.

HE growing influence of women in the political, intellectual, and social life of the nation will be reflected in this year's inauguration. The woman who has been the subject of so much talk of the suffrage party to Washington, there will be and civic questions of woman's advanced position. She may not appear in the agricultural parade, but she will be present at the actual inauguration ceremonies except as lending color and cheer to the galleries and the touch of dress of spectators, but aside from these more formal functions she will be present by a large majority.

Let no one harbor the erroneous notion for a moment that lovely woman has ever lacked a potent voice in the conduct of national affairs. In Washington some of the best politicians of the feminine gender, and this has no reference to lobbyists. The national capital is a social city, and the wives and daughters of some of the leading statesmen, and many of some who have done a great deal of public affairs, are well informed on current issues and have an interest in the political game and an aptitude for playing it.

This has been true from the days of the American Abigail Adams and Dolly Madison down to 1913. But in our times women are voting in nine states and are making a prodigious effort to vote in the other states. In business, the professions and almost every occupation where men formerly worked alone and have thousands of them, women are voting in nine states and are making a prodigious effort to vote in the other states. In Washington, which is the political and social mirror of the nation, must needs reflect these things.

During the last campaign all of the national committees had women's departments. Women speakers, and quite effective ones at that, were in an even greater number in the field. Women were connected with the press bureaus—wrote the letters, mailed the documents, attended to the card indexes and helped in a great many ways. In the inauguration of the new president, Mrs. Marshall will be present in force at the inauguration of the new president.

New First Lady of the Land. A change of administrations makes an even greater stir in the social life of Washington than in the political life of the country. Of course there is a social life in the capital city quite apart from the government side. The class of wealth, culture and leisure have been making Washington their home. The beauty of the city, its climate and charm to it loveliness, wit and brilliancy, and in time it is probable that the American capital will become as much a social center as the great capitals of Europe.

The resident set, which continues however administrative may come and go, accepts only those among the official circle who whip their way into its acquaintance by their own merit. Nevertheless the advent of a new administration has a profound influence on Washington society. The wife of the president is the first lady of the land in fact as well as name. She has the right of precedence everywhere. Her invitations are commands and her influence in social matters is powerful not only in the capital, but elsewhere.

Daughter of a Clergyman. Mrs. Woodrow Wilson is the daughter of a southern clergyman and was educated in the South. Her father, a prominent professor at Bryn Mawr, is now wife of the president of Princeton, governor of New Jersey and president of the United States.

Never Apart For a Day. Mrs. Thomas R. Marshall will be the second lady of the land and promises to be a favorite as such. It is said that she has never been away from the next vice president twenty-four hours at a time since their marriage many years ago. When she went on a shopping tour to Chicago or elsewhere, she was accompanied by her husband, who dropped the affairs of state and went along, and when the governor had a campaign tour Mrs. Marshall accompanied him to look after his affairs, her tickets and time tables and make things easy for him on the road. In one campaign Governor Marshall lost a race that was out some of the old guard of campaigners, but Mrs. Marshall did not seem to mind. She was as bright and vivacious at the end of the grueling trip as at the beginning. The same was true in his four years of the country as a candidate for vice president.

with Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Marshall the leadership of the government set and in a general way of all Washington society. One thing appears certain—there will be more democratic simplicity than during some of the recent regimens. The next vice president says frankly that he is poor man and will govern his affairs accordingly. There will be no more democratic simplicity will be a rule of the new administration, socially and otherwise.

That Suffragist Parade.

Neither Mrs. Wilson nor Mrs. Marshall is an advocate of woman's suffrage. Nevertheless the campaign in behalf of votes for women has made immense headway in the national capital, many of the society leaders having espoused it. At first there was talk of an elaborate suffragist division in the inaugural parade, but this was afterward abandoned, for reasons not being advertised, and a parade on March 3 was arranged instead. It was proposed to have leading women from all parts of the land present to witness the inauguration of the president. The idea was abandoned by their costume, the advance of woman from their ancient position of semierand to the proud place of citizenship and boss of the work-day, hood, today and otherwise to make the procession the most gorgeous and imposing in the history of the movement.

It was at about this stage of the proceedings that Major Sylvester, chief of the Washington post, got himself distinctly provoked to the parade. After the inauguration was over, he was distinctly so that he could get in a word edgewise, he rather lamely explained that he thought the parade was to be held at night and he could not afford to protect the fair members from offensive remarks and hoodlums. But if it was intended to hold it in the daytime, it was also a different matter. Albeit while the major was thus crawling, hurriedly if not gracefully, various gallant men volunteered to act as a guard for the fair procession, and it was hinted that if necessary President Taft, who will still be on the job on March 3, would call out the troops as a protection.

The entourage of the party did not think they needed any mere masculine guard. They would have a parade so imposing that the chance hoodlums would be afraid to molest them. At about this time came news of reports. General Roselle Jones, who had led Colonel John Craft, Surgeon General Cook and one of two others to the big New York to Albany to present a petition for woman's suffrage to Governor Sulzer, sent word that she would march from New York to Washington. The governor's memorandum to President Elect Wilson, General Jones promised that city would march with her. With this news the parade was abandoned. It will be amply protected!

MRS. MAGGIE DAVIS LET OUT OF ASYLUM

Norfolk, Neb., February 25.—Mrs. Maggie Davis, who killed Ira Churchill near Colveridge, Neb., on November 2, 1910, was discharged by District Judge Welch tonight from the Norfolk insane hospital after an insanity case was affirmed named by the court had been affirmed his former delusions that Mrs. Davis is sane. Mrs. Davis was released from the hospital tonight and will leave Norfolk tomorrow morning for Hartington, Neb., where she was twice tried for the murder, convicted and sentenced to life imprisonment at the first time and acquitted at the second trial on the ground of insanity.

Mrs. Davis will visit her sister at Hartington, and will then accompany her 14-year-old daughter, Loretta, Ind., where she expects to live with her aged parents. County Attorney O'Gara of Cedar county opposed the release of Mrs. Davis and declares he will appeal the case to the supreme court, and hopes to retain her in the vicinity of Colveridge, where the crime was committed, until a decision is rendered. Judge Welch declared the state law does not provide for the keeping of sane persons in the Nebraska insane hospital, and that the evidence showed Mrs. Davis is sane. County Attorney O'Gara declared that Mrs. Davis is of a type of criminal like Harry Thaw and that she would be a dangerous woman. Attorney Mahler of Hartington, and Attorney Davis of Wayne, appeared as counsel for Mrs. Davis. Mrs. Davis said she was delighted to be free.

A communication named by Judge Welch to examine Mrs. Davis was Dr. P. H. Salter, Dr. A. E. Tasselman and Judge I. Powers, all of Norfolk. Saturday's Norfolk News reports the decision of Judge Welch as follows: Judge Welch, in announcing his decision, cited the statute of almost every state in the union. The Nebraska statute was very brief on the subject, and did not provide for criminal patients who were sent to hospitals for the insane to be cared, after these patients had been announced "cured."

He declared that under the Nebraska statute, a patient in a Nebraska hospital for the insane could not be held after that patient had become sane. He then cited the process of the habeas corpus proceedings and proceedings before commissions. He declared the case of Maggie Davis was a combination of the two processes of law.

Finds Thaw Case Different. Judge Welch was prevailed with the evidence in the Harry Thaw case. He declared that this record does not show that Thaw had recovered his sanity. "Under the Nebraska statute," ruled Judge Welch, "if a person becomes sane and is not dangerous to the community, there is no power to continue him in custody when acquitted of the crime with which he was charged. In this case it must be presumed that the insanity continued from the time of the crime and up to the present time. The evidence, however, shows that Mrs. Davis is sane and is not dangerous as to insanity. There is no power that could continue her in custody and I would rule that she be discharged from custody, the finding of the court being that she has become sane."

Mrs. Davis was employed as housekeeper for Churchill, a farmer living near Colveridge, in 1910. Churchill's first wife was ill at the time and intimate friendship between housekeeper and husband became known to the wife. Mrs. Davis was discharged. After the first Mrs. Churchill died, Mrs. Davis is said to have resumed her old position as housekeeper. Later Churchill re-married. Mrs. Davis, on November 2, 1910, came to the Churchill farm and found Churchill milking cows in the barnyard. She stood over him and shot him dead. Her first trial was a sensation at Hartington. She was found guilty and sentenced to a life term. The supreme court ordered the case and she was found not guilty, on grounds of insanity, by the jury in the second trial. She was committed the Norfolk hospital for the insane last March. Mrs. Davis did not sleep at the state hospital last night. Her attorneys believed she would be unable to reach the city through the heavy drifts this morning, in time to reach the court room for the home of her sister at Hartington. They provided a room for her in the Pacific hotel where she spent the night. She was up long before 9 o'clock this morning, and before 7 o'clock she was in the lobby of the hotel, ready to start on her homeward journey.

BRICK HOUSE SENT BY MAIL. Mr. J. F. Sherbahn of Wayne, Neb., sent by parcel post Friday morning a brick of local manufacture to be used in building a brick house at the Cotseum, Chicago, during the clay products exposition which is to be held February 26 to March 8. This brick will be one of 26,000 sent by parcel post from every brick plant in the United States to be used in the construction of this house, which will be given away and erected after the exposition.

The idea was originated to test the merits of the parcel post system and it is certainly a novel one. A record will be kept of each brick from the time the brick is mailed until it is delivered in Chicago in order to see how speedily the mail can deliver a brick house by mail. It is probable that Uncle Sam's mail service in Chicago will not be nearly so enthusiastic for this method of delivery of a brick house. Other mail carriers throughout the country will watch the experiment with interest and fear and trembling. While the brick, fireproof home is becoming more and more popular because of its permanency, economy and superiority, it is not probable that they will be delivered by mail to any alarming extent. At any rate, J. F. Sherbahn will have a brick in the first brick house ever sent by mail.

ATCRISON GLOBE SIGHTS. People talk a good deal about their principles when they mean their prejudices. When Jude Johnson dies you can depend upon it that some reporter will write that Jude was a successful man. And that will make everybody laugh, even in the face of death. Usually a man who knows most about a subject is the one who says the least about it.

There used to be an old gent in our village forum in the town's popular shop, who seemed to know more about putting down a rebel than Grant or Lincoln did when on the job. He could take a U. S. history and punch its annals of those stirring times as full of holes as a peckaboo waist, and emphasize the fact that he was there and ought to know. Finally some doubting Thomas who wondered why it took the old patriot so long to quell the disturbance, wrote to the war department to get the facts.

He ordered that most of his service was in the quartermaster's department at Washington, and that the rest of the time he was in the hospital ill from over-exertion. It seems he was afraid of the rebels as he was of his wife, and every one of his heroes he had him bluffed. And a lot of heroes before and since have talked themselves out of it.

POEM BY WAYNE WOMAN. Mrs. Charles H. Robbins, formerly of Wayne, now of Twin Falls, Idaho, recently wrote a poem for the ladies' club of which she is a member at Twin Falls, and the poem was published in the February number of a Boise magazine. Mrs. Robbins' Wayne friends are glad to read her list poem, and the Herald will therefore reproduce it as follows: AS THE DAYS GO BY. This world of ours is a busy place, And the days go by till we're face to face.

With the fact of life slipping steadily by, And every hour seems to faster fly. As the days go by. And the things we've dreamed and planned to do, We've somehow missed, tho' our hearts were true; For we meant to do such wonderful things, But time flies by on its magic wings, And the day was done.

Each day is a thread in the loom of life, And the shuttle flies through peace or strife; Tomorrow so soon becomes today, The shuttle moves—and it's yesterday. And the days go by. We dream too much of future deeds, Of the good we'll do for tomorrow's needs. But the surest way and the safest plan, Is to live today the best we can, As the days go by.

For only one life have we to live, And so many beautiful gifts to give; Smiles, and words of cheer to the sad Help that will make the weary glad; As the days go by. Each word and deed we must weigh with care, They may make or mar, we won't know where. Something or shadow, each hour we give, Not a soul on earth to himself can live. As the days go by.

Where our neighbor fails, we can see so well, And what we would do we often tell; But could we know of the struggles there, Of the trials and sorrows she has to meet. As the days go by. Perhaps you could change your point of view, And the keys of her life be given to you. And you'll see how rocky and steep her way, You feel you hadn't a word to say. As the days go by.

For it may be, when the work is done, And the tasks are finished, one by one, What we deemed failure, in God's own test, May be success, if we've done our best. As the days went by. Mrs. Charles H. Robbins, Twin Falls, Idaho.

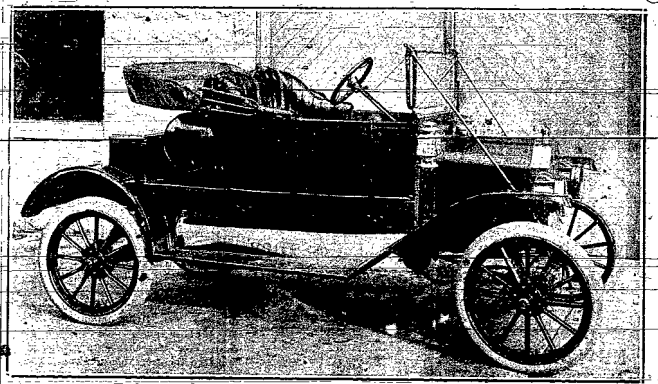

PEOPLE SHOULD GUARD AGAINST APPENDICITIS. Wayne people who have stomach and bowel trouble should guard against appendicitis by taking simple buckhorn bark, glycerine, etc., as compounded in either-ika, the German remedy which became famous by curing appendicitis. A SINGLE DOSE relieves sour stomach, gas on the stomach and constipation INSTANTLY because this simple mixture antiseptizes the digestive organs and draws off the impurities. Sultheis Pharmacy—Adv.

W. S. Shelton, a merchant at Stanley, Ind., says he would not take $100 for the relief a single box of Foley Kidney Pills gave him. "I had a severe attack of kidney trouble with sharp pains through my back and could hardly straighten up. A single box of Foley Kidney Pills entirely relieved me." Sultheis Pharmacy—Adv.

BARGAINS I have a large list of Wayne residence property for sale, some of the best in the city. Prices from $1,000 to $45,000. Very best terms.—GRANT MEARS. Saws, razors, knives and shears sharpened at the Novelty Works. JOEL Adv

Just Two More Weeks Of The Contest

Photograph of our First Prize.

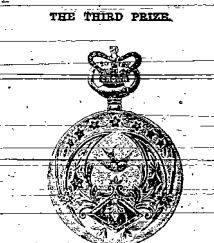

In any field of endeavor discouragements are usually encountered. When you meet with a discouraging outlook turn to the above picture and remember what you are striving for. It is surely worthy of your best effort. See our first prize at the Waynesboro-Auto-Go's garage.

THE SECOND PRIZE. Diamonds are the same as so much money the world over, and we are sure that the public will agree with us when we say that we got a fine stone, and one well worth the advertised value, in the one we purchased of Mr. Mines. This sparkling beauty will be given to the contestant who has the second highest number of votes at the close of the contest, and we want everyone interested to call at Mr. Mines' store and inspect the gem which will soon adorn some one's hand. Mr. Mines handles the celebrated Hamilton line of watches.

WORK

Of the hard, continuous and persistent kind is required of you during the next fourteen days if you expect to be a winner. Make EVERY DAY A VOTING DAY AND EVERY FRIEND A VOTER. You must not allow yourself to think for a single moment of failure. MAKE EVERY DAY COUNT

THE THIRD PRIZE. At Mr. Fauske's well known establishment we found a watch which any person would be proud to own. It has the incomparable Rockford movement—fifteen jewels—and has a lady's 6 o'clock case. If a gentleman contestant wins this prize, arrangements may be made to change the same for a gentleman's watch.

OF SPECIAL INTEREST

The following offers went into effect Monday, January the 27th, and will remain in force till Saturday, night preceding the close of the contest. In other words the following offers will be in force till about March the eighth.

EXTRA VOTES!!

On each club of three NEW SUBSCRIBERS an additional one thousand votes will be given, viz: If you turn in three one year new subscriptions you now get 4,000 votes on the same; on six one year new subscriptions you now get 8,000 votes; etc. In order to get the extra votes on new subscriptions, they must be turned in in clubs of three, six, nine, twelve, etc. If you do not understand this offer, please explain at once.

PRIZE BALLOTS!

To the contestants who turn in the highest number of subscriptions (both new and old) each week up to 6 p. m. each Saturday night, the following prize ballots will be given:

1st	5,000 Votes	2nd	3,500 Votes	3rd	2,000 Votes
4th	1,500 Votes	5th	1,000 Votes	6th	500 Votes

These prize ballots are in addition to the regular number of votes issued on each subscription, viz: If you turn in the most subscriptions (both new and old) this week up to Saturday, 6 p. m., you will be given 5,000 votes in addition to those regularly given. The contestant who turns in the most votes will be given 4,000 additional votes at 10 o'clock on the 5th day of March. This notice will be published in the Wayne Herald for three weeks successively prior to the 5th day of March, 1913.

THE WEEK WITH THE CHURCHES

German Evangelical Lutheran. (Rev. H. Moulbrig, Pastor.) There will be no preaching services next Sunday as the pastor will occupy the pulpit at Winside. Sunday school will be held as usual, at 10 o'clock.

St. Mary's Catholic Church. (Rev. William Kavana, Pastor.) No services in Wayne Sunday, as the pastor will be in Carroll where he will conduct Mass at 10:30 a. m. and Sunday school at 11:30. Liturgy devotion in Wayne Friday morning at 7:30.

First Baptist Church. (Rev. B. P. Richardson, Pastor.) The services of last Sunday were highly pleasing. A well-attended congregation with a large number of men present, in the evening, made the men's service very interesting. The solos rendered by some of the men were appreciated by all while the reading by Miss Martha Wooley, of Van Dyke's, "The Lost Word," held the closest interest of every one. Many of the men spoke up at night for the service. We will have to have another such a service for some time.

On Sunday morning will be our communion service. The subject of the communion address will be "Our Father." Let us make this a communion service of deep significance.

Sunday evening at 6:30 the young people's meeting will be led by Miss Hughes. At 7:30 the pastor will preach on the subject, "Discovering Lost Treasures."

We are planning on a special Sunday school program for Easter Sunday. It will be in the nature of a missionary program, filled with messages fitting the Easteride.

It is our purpose to hold services each evening of the week just preceding Passover. These meetings will be in the nature of prayer, meditation services. In our prayer meeting room, for the purpose of deepening the spiritual life of our people.

The Missionary society will hold its meeting tomorrow (Friday) afternoon at the home of Mrs. Buff. Mrs. Dayton will be the leader.

The Ladies' Union will serve lunch on Saturday, by reason of the pavilion sale at M. S. Philbo's lumber shed. They will serve at noon and during the afternoon.

St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church (F. Kuhn, Pastor.) On account of the storm the church in cathedral did not meet last Saturday. The class have their meeting at the pastor's study on next Saturday. All who intend to prepare for confirmation at Easter should not fail to be present.

The pastor's plan for increasing the attendance of children at the preaching has the promise of good success. Several were present on last Sunday, and others expressed sorrow for not being there. All who come will receive a reward of merit. Come, children, and bring offers with you.

Let us give to the pastor of the Ladies' Aid society, to be held on Saturday, March 8. Send a helping hand and publish as much as possible. It deserves our patronage and that of the people of Wayne and vicinity. It has been several years since our church has thus appealed for public favor and patronage.

We had a good attendance at both the Sunday school and preaching services on last Sunday. The subject of the sermon was "The Bible and its Purpose." Text: 1 Tim. 3:16-17. "The Bible Word of God. The internal and external evidence clearly shows this fact. A careful study of its contents shows that it is beyond the capacity of man to produce. To destroy it has met with failure. This also is evidence of divine origin. Its purpose is the good of mankind. It is the revealed will of God to man. By this man in his sinful state is enabled to know what to do in order to be saved. It tells him what he is, revealing to him his true character.

And it shows him how he may reach the highest happiness of his being and the greatest happiness. It should be read with reverence. To understand its meaning, divine aid should be sought, and to present thereby its precepts should be carefully and faithfully put to practice. It is our life. "Hear the Word of the Lord; ye and your soul shall stand." Our services will be held on next Sunday. Sunday school at 10 a. m. and preaching services at 11 a. m. The Rev. W. T. Kase, field secretary of Midland College, Atchison, Kas., will preach the sermon. He will be assisted in the services by the pastor. The brother is an able preacher of the gospel. We trust he will be greeted by a large number of converts.

We are sorry to lose several of our members next week. Harold Christopher has resigned employment at Concord, Neb. We shall miss him from our choir and services. Mr. Hostetter will move to a new home in the family. We shall greatly miss them all, but trust they will have great success and meet with many friends in their new home.

First Methodist Church. (Rev. William Gorst, Pastor.) Next Sunday morning the pastor will speak on "The Core of Religion—God."

Following "Among Us" with a Trio, "Friend and a Happy People." This discourse will be in preparation for the Love Feast at 7:30, followed by the quarterly communion service.

It may be well to remember again that the first Sundays in March, June, September and December of each year have been set apart for the administration of the Holy Communion and for the observance of the day as a day of heart searching, renewed diligence in the work of the Kingdom, along with earnest prayer and with sincere and abiding forgiveness of all the wrongs real or imaginary, we may have sinned at the hands of whomsoever. The communion service marks a time when every member of the church should, so far as possible, stand by his or her God in his place at the services of the day.

It was believed by many that the communion service in December was the most largely attended of any similar service in the history of the church. There is no particular ambition to count numbers, but rather that all the people should be brought into the church and solemnly dedicated and shall glorify the Triune God by no precious memorial it brings.

By some strange and unaccountable accident the name of Lucille McConnell was left out of the list of names published a few weeks ago of those who had recently become members of the church. Lucille McConnell is the best of families. But this beautiful and charming little girl is a member both by previous grace and personal choice of the spiritual church and the visible and militant church is glad indeed to count her also among its members.

The King's Herald and Little Light. The church for church will be held Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock, in the League room. An address on the organization up to 11 years of age are welcome.

Presbyterian Church. (Rev. Alexander Corkey, Pastor.) "The Fulfillment of Scriptures in our Day" will be the subject of the morning sermon at the Presbyterian church next Sunday. In the evening the pastor will give the address "The Success of Billy Sunday Explained," giving sideglances into the great religious campaigns which are shaking the cities of Eastern states.

The morning service begins at 10:30 and the evening service at 7:30. The Sunday school meets at 12 and the C. E. meeting at 6:30 p. m.

At the morning service last Sabbath in addition to the reception of a number of new members an interesting part of the service was the presentation to the church of the pulpit linen and hymnal (which had been rebound) by the Juniors of the congregation. The bible was presented by Joe Ringland, and the hymnal by Elizabeth Adams.

At the evening service a beautiful paper bible was presented to Mrs. H. H. Welch by the members of the grade school department in the Sunday school on the occasion of the retirement of Mrs. Welch from the superintendency on account of her removal from Wayne.

The congregational dinner on February 13 was a splendid success. There were 12 large tables, both of the men and country members and the supply of eatables was severely taxed, but all were amply satisfied. After the dinner an informal program was enjoyed, consisting of singing by Dr. R. N. Donahy and "show" addresses by Miss C. M. White, Mr. J. P. M. Corbit and the pastor. At the close of the program the missionary meeting of the church held a business meeting. In his excellent address P. M. Corbit proposed that the congregation dinner be made a semi-annual affair as it promoted fellowship and acquaintance in a way that was essential for the best interests of the church.

Remarkable Success of Church Work. One of the most remarkable religious awakenings that ever stirred an American city, comparable to the success of the first Christian preachers in Jerusalem 1600 years ago at the time of Pentecost, has taken place in the past few weeks in Columbus, O. Upward of six hundred Christians united in a simultaneous campaign, and an immense tabernacle was built capable of seating 20,000 to 25,000. A choir of 1,000 voices was organized, and continuous services were held for seven weeks, closing on February 16. As a result of the meetings over 16,000 new converts were added to the church; the number of converts reaching over 2,000 on the last day. Among the converts were the leading men of Columbus, such as Chief of Police Carter, Hotel Manager Young, who owns the leading hotels of the city, Dr. R. J. Carter, who is chief inspector of the board of health, and a great number of the lawyers, physicians, business men and manufacturers of Columbus as well as prominent society ladies, and a whole regiment of high school and college students. As a result the churches are overcrowded and plans for the enlargement of church buildings and for the conversion of new edifices are already in operation. The commander-in-chief of the whole campaign is the Rev. William A. Sunday, D. D., a minister of the Presbyterian church, latter known as "Billy" Sunday; but the success of this Columbus campaign surpasses anything that even this experienced evangelist has seen. It is doubtful if any religious awakening has ever taken place in any American community since the discovery of the continent. Gov. Cox of Ohio, whose executive mansion is in Columbus, was the most interested worker during the special meetings and entertained Dr. Sunday at the executive mansion and also appeared several times on the platform with him. At the close of the meetings Gov. Cox made this public statement: "Billy Sunday's success in Columbus ought not to be surprising. The man has a wonderful personality. He has a splendid organization. He is the right side of the argument. He is simply bound to succeed at anything he undertakes and we are all fortunate that he has undertaken to help men to lead better lives by inducing them to embrace the Christian religion." This record of Dr. Sunday's triumphs in the religious field is interesting to church people in eastern Nebraska—at present on account of the fact that Omaha is striving to obtain the honor of being the foremost headquarters of the "Billy Sunday" revival in 1914. It is the plan of Billy Sunday to visit all the larger cities of America in the next few years, and the results of his campaigns, if Columbus is a sample, will be a quickening of religious life generally and an increase in church membership such as we have not seen in a generation.

THE BOARD OF CONTROL. Lincoln, Feb. 25.—Private Secretary Murray found his way to the senate chamber this afternoon and delivered to the secretary of the senate a communication which he said was from "His Excellency, the Governor," who requested that the senate would set some hour for its consideration. The communication contained all the important and long looked for appointments for the Board of Control and is supposed to contain the names of Henry Griggs of Falls City, Charles Graff of West Point, and C. H. Greig of Kearney. "The three G's" will receive consideration at 11 o'clock Wednesday morning in executive session.

STATE NORMAL NEWS

Professor Lankey attended the Nebraska convention on progress at Lincoln last week.

Dr. Alexander Torkey was a visitor Wednesday and addressed the students at convocation.

Members of our advanced classes are beginning to receive notices of election to places in public school work. Miss Margaret Ploster was recently notified of her election in the primary department of the State Normal school, and Miss Hazel Allen has been offered the position of intermediate teacher in the same school.

Preparations are now under way for the inter-normal debates, which have become one of the most interesting events of the school year. The subject for discussion is: "Resolved, That the minimum wage scale should be established in all industries." This question will be debated between Peru and Kearney at Peru, Wayne and Kearney at Wayne, and Wayne and Kearney at Kearney.

The theory class had need of old readers for comparison with up-to-date textbooks. Upon application, the Bureau of Education looked to the Kent four old readers printed in 1828, 1848, and 1851. The most interesting one of the four was the New York reader No. 3, devoted almost entirely to religious thought and scripture lessons. No effort had been made to grade the subject matter any of them, and in comparison with modern textbooks, these old readers were found very interesting.

Washington's birthday was appropriately observed in a program given Saturday evening in the chapel by the ladies of Kingsbury Hall. An admission fee of ten cents was charged and the proceeds were given to the Y. W. C. A.

The program showed artistic ability and vivacity in its numbers. The solo by George Wilcox pleased his hearers, as did the piano duet by the Misses Gask and Mathison, and the cornet solo by Mr. Rogers. The history of the colonial times was emphasized by a series of tableaux, in which children appeared as Indians in the Boston Tea Party, as Francis and John Alden in the spinning wheel scene, as William, Ben, Gads, and even as Paul Revere in his famous ride, as Anne by Miss Breschman and Paul Revere's Ride by Miss Fish brought the days of Washington more clearly to mind, and the Singing Circle gave its share to the evening's enjoyment. In the Minuet as given by four ladies and four gentlemen, all the qualities of beauty and dignity of the colonial dress had more or less been realized. It gave a clearer realization of the strength, grace and courtesy of the days of the "Father of the Republic." After the program light refreshments were served in the gymnasium, and a concert in the recognition of noted men and places closed the evening's program. To the girls of Kingsbury Hall.

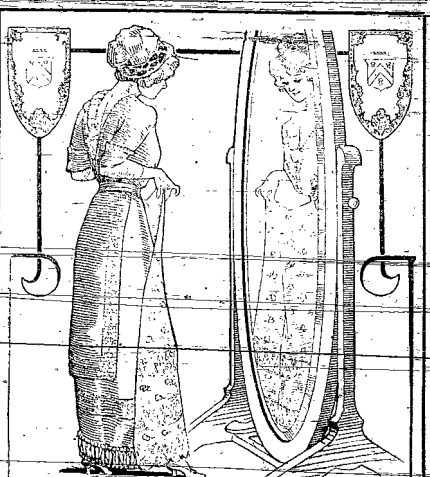

During the past week a number have inquired about pending legislation in the interest of the state normal schools. Briefly stated the facts are as follows: The continuing of the terms of the four state normals for the next biennium was passed upon by the board of education and filed with the auditor at the opening of the legislative session. The amounts asked by the different schools were as follows:

Peru—salaries, maintenance, etc., $197,300; new building, $75,000; Kearney—salaries, maintenance, etc., $159,200; new building, $65,000; Wayne—salaries, maintenance, etc., $124,020; new building, $85,000; Chadron—salaries, maintenance, etc., $101,500; new building, $72,000; expense of state normal board, $4,000, making a grand total of $886,020.

At the opening session the finance committee of the house recommended instead of passing separately on the needs of each institution that the financial interests of the normal schools be met in the same manner as those of the state university, which has been supported for years by a mill tax levied on the assessed valuation of the state.

This plan had the approval of the board, and accordingly a bill was introduced by the finance committee providing that in the year 1913, and annually thereafter a tax of three-fourths of one mill be levied upon the dollar valuation of the grand-assignment roll of the state, and that all money accruing therefrom be appropriated for the maintenance of the state normal schools at Peru, Kearney, Wayne and Chadron.

Including salaries, current expenses, building and permanent improvements, together with all other expenses of the state board of education having charge of the normal schools. As computed by the secretary of the finance way and means committee of the house the

ZION LACES

WHEN John Alexander Dowie established the immense Zion Lace Industries at Zion City, Illinois, the whole lace world looked upon it as a hazardous undertaking.

Laces had never before been made in America. But the great plan had been a success from the start. Even experts from the historic lace centers of the old world marvel at the beauty, exquisite finish and wearing qualities of Zion Laces.

We are offering the beautiful products of the Zion Lace Industries which include narrow Valenciennes, Normandy Valenciennes, some with Allovers to match, Fancy Novelty Lace Bands, Fancy Novelty Lace Allovers, Shadow Lace Bands, Shadow Lace Allovers, Porchon Laces and Cotton Cluny Laces.

Women tell us that Zion Laces wear better than other laces and the prices are much lower.

An elegant assortment of these famous laces now on display in our south window. We have exclusive sale.

fund derived from this tax for the next two years will amount to $625,552.05. There is only one objection to the bill introduced by the committee. It is evident from the estimate of expenses for the four normals for the next biennium that it also creates a permanent fund which will insure the future growth and development of normal schools in Nebraska.

It sometimes happens that a man is allowed to present his arguments without interruption to give people a chance to laugh at him.

This is a busy world regardless of the fact that the simplified spelling fans find time to print a paper about it.

CHIEF-JUSTICE WHITE and the hot potato who catch colds.

Nevertheless it is a great day. The bands play "Hail to the Chief," the militia of the various states proudly found the momentary the governors and their staffs come forth to dazzle the eye, the political clubs keep time to a secret refrain in the heart of each member that sounds suspiciously like "want a job, want a job," the city is brave with flags and bunting; the president elect struggles to his feet and struggles to keep his feet as he bows to the plaudits of the multitude while his carriage passes by. He delivers a laudatory address that is already in type in nearly all the newspapers of the country, he reviews miles of parade and shakes thousands of hands, the cannons boom the salute, and all goes merry as a marriage bell. This is especially true of the coin that tumbles into the tills of the various hotels, stores, theatres and theatres. For real merriment that sound has the average marriage bell sounding like a dirge.

Speaking of the Weather. Our inaugural ceremonies may be likened to the tree of liberty bursting into towers. Some towers—what the only trouble is that the blossom is what the weather is. The weather is not optimistic and promising weather department hands out each inauguration day. Professor Willis L. Moore pronounces the weather to be a disappointment and calls on all the weather men to signal service to witness his good intentions. This prophecy having been duly made, telegraphed to the ends of the earth and published in the papers, the weather proceeds to perform, incidentally making an assorted variety of monkeys out of the said Willis L. Moore. On the morning of inauguration day it snows. This is followed by hail, sleet, rain, wind, sleet, snow, influenza, grip, coryza, cold feet, blue lips, red noses, profanity, ineffectual doctors' bills, craps, undertakers and a frenzied endeavor to change the inauguration date which comes to nothing.

It is said by some of Washington's oldest inhabitants that there have been five inauguration days. There is even one myth to the effect that there was a mild and sunny day on March 1st. Possibly that was at one of the inaugurations of George Cleveland. You can't prove it by me. So far as my knowledge and belief go, inauguration day weather in Washington usually is bad.

There have been various measures introduced in congress to change inauguration day to the end of April. They have ranged all the way from simple bills and resolutions to constitutional amendments. Whatever their form, they have all traveled through the valley of the shadow of the pigeonhole. Everybody admits that the change should be made, but that does not help the efforts to change it. People who participate in inaugural parades or look on the said are bored in consequence, but the deadly date goes on. President Elect Wilson proposed that he be sworn in on March 3; but that the public celebration be left till later. Everybody said it was a fine proposal and then proceeded deliberately to prepare for the public ceremony on March 4. Can you beat it?

Custom is mighty and shall prevail. President Elect Wilson also suggested that he wanted a simple inaugural without so much fuss and feathers and so many troops. Thereupon the committees in Washington got together, adopted a solemn resolution approving the idea of a simple inaugural, made various speeches telling why simplicity should prevail and then proceeded to follow precedent and to arrange the same kind of inaugural that had been held from time immemorial. The head of the committee in charge of the inauguration is William Corcoran, Esq. of the District of Columbia and state of Virginia. He is assisted by Vice-Chairman and Major General Leonard Wood, now the head of the army, is grand marshal. There are various subcommittees containing the names of such well-known names as prominent in Washington. If these committees alone were to parade they would require quite some time to pass after passing the same matter to the honorable committee on the comfort of visitors, the honorable committee on legislation, the honorable committee on decorations, the honorable committee on this and the honorable committee on that. All of which teaches us that the inauguration of a president of the United States is a simple function. A quarter of a century before we expected in the capital city that week. Not will they all be looking for work. It is expected that at least the bankers and the public will have no bankings to enter the public service.

The Faithful Will Be There. It will be a day of glory for the Democrats. Not for twenty years have they had an opportunity to parade in a big festival of joy. During four successive campaigns they have fought, bled and died for their country, only to have the victorious Republicans play the star game in the inaugural parades. Will our Democratic friends permit this proud opportunity to slip now that it has come their way? Not a slip. As the Hon. Charles Calhoun remarked to the Georgia judge: "It is a long time between Democratic inaugurations—let us do our duty and have no more." All the faithful will be there, either in body or spirit. Not only so, but the good will of the whole people, regardless of party, will attend the celebration. No matter who elected him the figure in the affair is to be president of all of us. He is our foremost representative and most beloved during four years. We may not agree with all his views, but we are for him nevertheless. He may want the tariff scribbled while we like it hard but we think these things shall not mar our good feeling. If we do not approve his brand of government we will have a chance to work it in four years. In the meantime let us inaugurate him in the good old way—with bare of hands and much shouting.

There will be no inaugural ball, however the officers of various people who wanted to dance the turkey trot, the "blony hug" and other fiftieth slides and wiggles; also to the dealers in adult dress gowns and those who expected to sell tickets, but much to the satisfaction of the pension office, Uncle Sam and the people generally.

The proposed reception at the capitol building was also called off, since it would have entailed expense and would have kept the new president shaking hands most of the night. In place of these affairs there will be various private functions, one at the New Willard promising to be the most elaborate. If people want to dance they will have the opportunity provided they can get Plenty of Red Fire. If they do not desire to dance they can repulse to the ellipse south of the White House and watch the fireworks. These will break all records. They will open by firing the national salute of 101 guns—pictures of Wilson and Marshall and an immense American flag will be burned in the air. There will be thousands of colored lights, batteries, candles and bonns, 100 aeroplanes and balloons and hundreds of pennants, streamers, flags, etc. The Red Fire will be burned all along Pennsylvania avenue.

The inauguration itself will follow the fire and proceed to the capitol to clock the president elect will visit the White House, where he will be introduced to the committee of senators by the president. At another half hour the party will enter carriages and be driven to the capitol. Mr. Taft occupying the right hand seat in the carriage will be the first to enter his left. The president will repair to the room reserved for him in the capitol to sign bills, while the president-elect will be in the vice president's room. In the senate chamber the sergeant-at-arms will push back the bands of the clock one or twice. Then the presidential party will enter, also the supreme court, diplomatic corps, and other high dignitaries. The vice president will be sworn in—deliver a brief address and give the oath to the new senators. The procession will move to the temporary stand on the east portico, Chief Justice White will swear in the new president, the guns will boom the presidential salute, and the inaugural address will be delivered to as many of the throng as can hear. Then the procession will return to the White House. President Wilson now has the right hand seat—ex-president Taft on the left. The four parade will be reviewed from the White House stand, the multitude will be reviewed, and a new administration will have begun. All this being attended to in due and ancient form, there is but one question remaining: How would you like to be Woodrow Wilson?
