INCUBATOR FACTORY BUSY INSTITUTION The X-Ray incubator factory is a busy place these days following on the volume of business has largely increased over what is was a year ago, and the satisfaction invariably given by the factory's product is a guarantee of continued growth. President J. H. Kate has planned a bigger machine for next year—one that will hold 200 eggs. He proposes to be prepared to fill special orders calling for still higher maximum machines that will hold as high as 800 eggs. One advantage secured by the factory is its success in avoiding all waste in the making of machines. No lumber nor other material is wasted. By following a carefully worked out system, cost of production is materially reduced while the quality of workmanship is improved. What the factory now needs to facilitate and cheapen shipments is a side track from the railroad. By such encouraging enterprise, the railroad company would have assurance of an increasing volume of freight on account of the factory. PLEASANT VALLEY. March 19. Visitors to the Danforth school are shown a round column in the transept with algebraic grooves cut as ornamental forms from top to bottom. Behind the column a short distance apart are two long columns and more ornamental than these falling on the column has the curious effect of throwing it out of the perpendicular. Looked at from one side the column appears to lean to the left, but on the visitor shifting his position an opposite result is obtained. It is only by standing directly in front of the column, with the light falling equally on both sides, that it is able to see how correctly the builders really worked. It is said that the deception was contrived so that those who saw the column might be convinced that it is necessary to see things from the proper point of view before expressing an opinion.

Antics of a Comedian. In "The Autobiography of Mme. Judith" the author, a famous French actress, tells this story of Bouffe, the comedian, who it appears, was fond of displaying his versatility in the street. On one occasion he said, "You just wait a minute, Judith, and I'll make you laugh."

He went to the edge of the pavement, and with head bent back, hunched up shoulders, pinched features, head shaking pleasantly and tottering gait, he suddenly became an old man. "Thump, thump, thump," he tapped on the pavement with his stick, tottered to the edge of the road, made a few trembling steps backward and then, raising a pair of legs coming, started back and feebly endeavored to step up on the curbstone again.

Finally when a little worse-girt companionately helped him, remarking, "Poor old fellow, your dancing days are a long way off," Bouffe of a sudden turned head over heels, after which he plunged into the gutter, and the shirt-tow and left her stupidly petrified with astonishment.

Edmund Kean as Richard. It is impossible to form a higher conception of Richard III. than that portrayed by Kean. Never was character represented by greater distinctness and grandeur and perfectly articulated in every part. If Kean did not succeed in convincing the audience that the actor he gave a vigor and relief to the part which we have never surpassed. He was more refined than Colley, more and more original than Kemble. The scene with Lady Anne was an admirable specimen of bold and smiling duplicity. Why addition could possibly be made by his eye, as he appeared like the first tenant in the garden; Kean's attitude in leaning against the pillar was one of the most graceful and striking positions ever witnessed. It would serve as a model for a Danish Ragnarr or a Svaltorr Ross. There was a quality which Kean possessed over every other actor that ever appeared. Many have attempted to describe this quality, but the most appropriate called, William Hallitt.

Some men have a fine faculty of thinking of something which should be celebrated in an appropriate manner.

Women! Remember This!

If you want to end your darning worries and like to get a line of hosiery which gives good satisfactory service in every respect, just try our pair of armor plate hosiery. For the last year, we have experimented more or less, trying to either improve the quality of our hosiery without raising the price or to reduce the price without impairing the quality. We think we were successful in both ways.

The Armor Plate hosiery is our 16-cent hosiery, but worth more money. It is a new line with us and before we took hold of it, we wanted to be dead sure that quality was behind it. So one day we distributed some among our customers to try them. Every single report received was that they wear better, need less darning and give better satisfaction than any other hose at that or even at a higher price. The secret of the strength of this hosiery lies in a new dyeing process which does not injure the yarns.

The "Service Hose" is our 10-cent hose. It stood the test for the last six months and is today the very best hose on the market which can possibly be handled for a dime. The history bill of an average family amounts to quite a sum in the course of a year. Here are two lines on which you can cut down your expense and still get a good reliable hosiery.

DON'T NEGLECT that COLD

There are two reasons why you should check a cold as quickly as possible. One is to relieve the pain and discomfort that always attends a cold in greater or less degree, and the other is because delay in treatment may lead to something far more serious than merely a cold.

In all our experience we never have found anything so excellent for the relief of a beginning cold as Rexall Cold Tablets. They help check a cold, tend to clear the head, ease the "tight" feeling, difficult breathing and irritation, relieve hoarseness, difficult swallowing, and inflammation of the nasal and bronchial tubes. In the many instances in which we have recommended Rexall Cold Tablets we have yet to learn of a single one in which they have not promptly helped to bring about just this beneficial and pleasing result. Is it any wonder that we recommend them? Is it strange that we offer them with the positive guarantee that they will give satisfaction of your money back? If our experience proves that we need not hesitate in making such a guarantee should you hesitate to use them immediately whenever the need occurs? Price 25 cents. Sold in this community only at our store—the Rexall Store.

MAYOR J. H. KATE.

them, and if I believed that a saloon was needed here I would say so. During the two terms I have served you as mayor, I have had an opportunity to study the needs of the city as I could not if I had not held the important office. I fully realize that the opinions of good men will differ upon this important question, so all I ask is that you will read and consider with an unprejudiced mind what I write as my opinion unless it would be a good investment for Wayne to have saloons again. It might be possible for some towns in Nebraska to have saloons and not find them a damage, but Wayne is differently situated than any surrounding towns and there are interests here that will suffer if saloons are again located in Wayne. Now, I believe that every good citizen in Wayne is anxious to see this city grow, and would not willingly vote to introduce a business which would retard the growth of the town. The question is, will a saloon bring more good people to this town to live? Will a saloon bring more people to this town to trade? Will Wayne grow faster during the next two years with a saloon than it has during the last two without one? Will Wayne be a better place in which to live with a saloon than without one? Will it pay to put back the saloons? Now, these are important questions, and we are all interested in them. We all feel that we should decide them right.

Will you please consider these questions as I present them and then ask your wife and family what they think if you have no wife or family, ask your neighbors. If you have a mother, ask your mother, and if you have no mother, ask yourself. Will Wayne grow faster with saloons? During the time I have been mayor, Wayne has built more and better homes than during the previous two years, when there were saloons in town. We have built more public buildings, and made more public improvements than during any two years when we had saloons here. Do you believe if you would send a petition to the state legislature, now in session, saying we were going to put saloons in Wayne, that it would help to get a new college building for our State? Ask your wife whether she thinks it would. Wayne is a college town and in a few years will have the best normal school in Nebraska. We have the proper location and we are getting the people to move here for that reason. Saloons and colleges do not thrive in the same town. All we have to make a good town are our schools, and a good town is a town we put in a saloon and drive away boys and girls who want to come here to go to school, what have we left to induce good people to move here? Think of this before you cast your vote for license.

During the past year I have had more than fifty men apply to me for houses to rent. They wanted to move here and educate their families. They wanted the benefit of the public schools and Normal. Do you believe that with saloons in Wayne more people would move here? If you do please ask some one who has come here during the last two years. Do you believe the Normal will grow faster with Wayne a saloon town? If you do ask anyone you are interested with that institution what his opinion is. Ask children who go to school. Will a saloon bring more people to Wayne to trade? I have been in the clothing business for more than thirty years. About half of the time I did business without a saloon and a neighbor could tell that my business was a-gonna better with a saloon than without one. I have asked merchants here as they sold as much merchandise now as when we had saloons and they have assured me that their business was fully as good. Will it pay us to go back to saloons? I know quite a number of good citizens who think a saloon pays because they pay a license. Now, good friends, I am not discussing this question from a moral standpoint; I am not a preacher, and only claim to be a common business man, so I leave the moral question with you to decide for yourselves, but I feel that I know something about the question of license and what it would pay to have saloons again in Wayne. During the time I have been mayor, we have asked for city expenses as they paid during the time we had saloons here. We have levied about five mills more but as we now have a normal library, two parks and a sewer plant that amount has been set aside for new expenses. We have built more crossings and worked the streets better than when saloons were here to pay licenses. Now, how much will the saloon license help you if you are paying taxes on a home worth three thousand dollars? That would be two saloons here the city would receive $2000 from them. That would save you about a five-mill tax or thirty cents a year on your home. Please look up the number of arrests made when we had saloons, and then look up the record for the last two years. Last year three arrests were made. If, after seeing that record, you feel a saloon pays, vote for it.

Now, my friends and neighbors, I have asked you these questions not because I feel the importance of being mayor or that I think I understand them any better than the average citizen, but Wayne is my home, and like all good citizens I am interested in its welfare. Then, I thought not every one might consider this question as so important unless it was called to his attention. I feel confident the saloon people will be defeated in this election, but I do not feel that it would be right for us who feel that it would be a backward step to put saloons in Wayne, to sit idly by and let the election pass without calling the attention of all voters to these important facts stated here. If there were a general demand from Wayne citizens for the saloon, I would not feel justified in expressing my personal opinion in any way except by voting. Some believe farmers want a saloon in Wayne, but saloon people well know that if Wayne county should vote upon the question there would not be a saloon in the county. Of course, some farmers would want a saloon, but the farmers who live near Wayne do not. Please ask some of them.

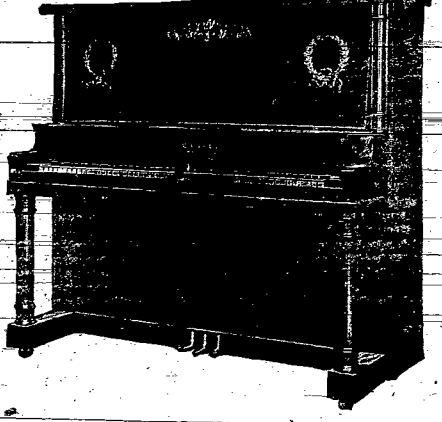

I am confident that this election will decide the question for all time. If the election for license does not carry, the saloon people will feel that Wayne does not want a saloon. Of course, if the saloons should win, the question will be up again next year and every year. I am not for any more saloons here never to be satisfied to have saloons here again. Ask some of your friends in when you have confidence and to whom you often go for advice about this. Ask your doctor, your banker, or your merchant. Ask your minister his opinion. Ask the priest if he thinks the saloon a good thing. Ask your wife and children if they want you to vote for license. You have confidence in all these people and you trust them in many things. We all like to do what we know is best for our friends' and families' comfort and happiness. Think the matter over and get your conscience clear. Stand with your family for they are your best friends, and you will be in the winning line in this important election. When life is about over and you sit in your home waiting for the final end to come, surrounded by those you love, you will feel the satisfaction of having always done your duty in helping to make the world better, and you will receive your reward. J. H. KATE.

PRESIDENT O'CONN'S STATEMENT.
President U. S. Conn of the State Normal issues the following statement in view of the coming election to decide the license question: "It is my opinion, and it is also the opinion of the heads of higher institutions everywhere, that saloons and higher institutions of learning should not be in the same town. I have received letters from many parents who indicate their desire to send their sons to a school where there are no saloons. We have used with profit to the school and pride to ourselves, the advertisement that Wayne has no saloons. Three or four hundred different young men attended the Normal each year. When parents demand that the arrangements of the saloon be kept away from them. In securing the location of the State Normal, Wayne has assumed the moral obligation of keeping the city as free as possible from those things which tend to lower mankind. Our young men are away from the home and are not under the best influence which the school and town afford. Aside from all other considerations the welfare of our young men in the Normal demands that Wayne cannot afford to return to the saloon. I hope that every voter in Wayne will cast his vote on this proposition, and also hope that the result will be so

ATKINSON-GLOBE SIGHTS.
As a matter fact, a cowboy in real life denotes very little of his time to reading fair maidens. A man enjoys a family row as long as his wife does, getting into and out of bed when she begins to look punitive and shock them; it suddenly dawns on him that he is a lowly index down; if it weren't for the debating societies, more talk might be devoted to getting him back on the installment plan.

For EASIER WASH DAYS

We are starting a crusade on behalf of the house wife who has to do the washing by hand.

Why not relieve her of all the most trying drudgery of wash day by getting her a washing machine here that works easily, quickly washes more thoroughly and washes more clothes?

Save her time and strength. Don't allow her to work an hour or two longer on wash day than she has to.

We have everything to help make wash day easier. And our prices are as low as you can find anywhere.

Services Appropriate to the Day Garded Out—Weather Discourages New Millinery.

In view of Easter coming earlier than usual, ideal weather for the introduction of new millinery and new gowns could not have been expected. The elements were threatening early in the day, and for only a few hours were they warm enough to encourage the appropriateness of spring toggery. Some ventured out in new finery, while others deferred, the display until the season had advanced farther. For a short time in the afternoon the weather was too warm for an overcoat. Then night—dark, gathered, a light rain fell and the elements turned very cold. It was the angry bank of clouds, seen in the southeast late in the afternoon, that spread death and destruction at Omaha. The unpropitious weather did not mar Easter programs at the churches. Cut flowers were profusely displayed, and music and other services were appropriate to the resurrection.

Easter was celebrated in St. Mary's church Sunday with mass at 8:30 and high mass a 10:30 in the morning. Special singing was greatly appreciated. Cut flowers and Easter lilies were used in decorating the altar.

The German Evangelical Lutheran church had Easter services Sunday morning at the close of which Holy Communion was administered, a large number taking part. The altar was beautifully decorated with cut flowers and potted plants.

At St. Paul's church, the Lenten services each evening last week, in spite of the very disagreeable weather, were full of life and inspiration. The address with the devotional, given by Dr. Grogg on Wednesday evening, was one of the best things ever had in the church. Each evening, events were considered corresponding with the last week in the life of our Lord. These week-evening lessons naturally lead up to the Easter Sunday program and services.

The church was beautifully decorated with blooming flowers and house plants. So, in spite of the early season, the effect of spring was produced. Miss Ina Hughes sang most impressively, "Easter Morning," at the morning service. Professor Davis and his choir gave a choice Easter anthem. The subject of the pastor's sermon was "The Hope of Immortality." The audience completely filled the auditorium.

At the Sunday school session, I. Q. V. class rendered two beautiful Biblical songs, and gave some interesting missionary readings.

In the evening, both the young people's service and the regular service were full of the resurrection message.

St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church

Easter was a great day at St. Paul's church. All of the services were splendid. The Sunday school was the best attended this year. The chief attraction for the day was at the preaching session when the class in the Bible which was received by confirmation. The following are the members: Ernest Segerstrom of Hopkins, Herman and Anna Krenpke and Dora Brogren of Carroll. These young people have received a special course of instruction by the pastor and were well prepared for this important occasion. A very large audience witnessed the event and took an active interest in the services. The singing was excellent and the communion was the largest ever recorded. A very liberal offering was given. The church was made quite attractive by natural and artificial flowers. Many indeed, are the words of appreciation from the large audience present. It was a joyous occasion. In the evening the Sunday school gave its program, entitled "Songs of Victory." This consisted of special music, songs and recitations by the little folks and an address by the pastor. The storm of the afternoon interfered somewhat with the attendance. All did their parts well. It was a fitting close to a very glad and joyous Easter day.

At Presbyterian Church

The Easter day was appropriately observed at the Presbyterian church last Sabbath morning. The church was tastefully decorated with flowers, including two beautiful Easter lilies. A large audience, overflowing into the gallery, was present, and the services were very impressive. The choir rendered an Easter anthem and Mrs. A. R. Davis sang a solo. As the hundredth anniversary of the birth of David Livingstone, the far famed African explorer and missionary, was celebrated in conjunction with the Easter services, the boys of the Junior department gave an address in honor of the missionary. The primary department also rendered a song, and a recitation was given by four boys. Superintendent J. H. Kemp read impressively the 21st Psalm, a favorite of Livingstone, and Mr. J. Hanson, superintendent of the Sunday school, spoke to the children on the "Empty Tomb." The text for the Easter sermon by the pastor was found in 1 Corinthians 15:20. "Now hath Christ risen from the dead and become the first fruits of them that sleep."

In the evening, the choir, under the leadership of Mrs. James Miller, gave a choice service of songs. In spite of the unbecoming evening, there was a large audience present, and the service was enjoyed greatly by all. A varied program of solos, quartets and choruses was given. During the interlude the pastor related some incidents in connection with the resurrection of Christ and drew appropriate lessons from them.

First Methodist Church

Easter Sunday was a good day at the church. The pastor preached to a large congregation in the morning and many expressed their high appreciation by the use of such terms as "sond," "good," "reasonable," "discouraging," "strong," "attractive," in referring to the teachings of the sermon on the doctrine of the resurrection of Jesus. At this service, the choir rendered "I will ye Portals" by Gounod, "So the Conquering Hero Comes," by Handel and "He Leaver His Heavenly Portals" by Mendelssohn. In the rendition of the anthems, the great excellence of Professor Alexander's work was invariable evidence.

Every phase of interest was well sustained at the Sunday school and Epworth League services. At the latter, Miss Olive McBeth was the leader, and greatly interested the young people, but the unique series of the boys were held in session during the afternoon. Professor R. B. Lacher, the Sunday school minister, conducted the vicar service. The first few rows of seats on either side, and the great middle section had been reserved for the Sunday school, and under the very able leadership of Professor Lackey, gave a most attractive and inspiring concert, using the ordinary songs of the school. The songs were interspersed with prayer by Mrs. A. P. Gossard which was comprehensive and full of inspiration and good cheer. Little Emanuel sent the resurrection story from St. Matthew's gospel in a sweet, clear, well modulated voice, that charmed and blessed every one present, and Mr. Willis Fleetwood sang "The Palmes," to the great appreciation of all.

Then there were the four brief addresses by Mrs. S. A. Lutgen spoke on "Fixing the Time of the Easter Festival and the Symbolism of the Easter Lily"; Miss Rachel Fairchild, pastor of the other ladies; Miss Edith Mitchell, of the Epworth League; and Mr. H. H. West, "The Influence of Easter on the Religious Life." Each one of these addresses consumed seven to ten minutes and contained both material and merit worthy of much larger space than can be given to this entire article. To say the least, the Methodist people were proud of their work, and indeed, any participant in the program, directed by Superintendent Beckenhauer, who always presides and manages with such dignity and smoothness that you scarcely perceive the hand, at times, that keeps on the machinery running so smoothly. Any notice of Easter would be incomplete which failed to mention the splendid decorations with a profusion of various blossoms. Easter lilies greatly leading and palms in abundance. Miss Nettie Craven was responsible for all this and plainly showed as often before, that she, too, is truly an artist.

ATCHISON GLOBE RIGHTS

It is hard for a staunch patriot to see how his candidate can be defeated. You never really know men until you have had business relations with them. As a rule, there isn't anything in an open letter that would warrant reading it. Not tipping the porter is one way to gather impression that he comes the Russian car. There are many Indians who aren't chiefs, and some one should inform the fiction writers. Whenever someone of the old-fashioned patriot who thought men should vote as they shot. Politics is often as tooth as the old-fashioned torch-light parade which used to go with it. The hardest thing to believe is that the people who don't agree with you may be right about it. A considerable portion of the famous "rough system" isn't proved to operate as a system. Despite many fair promises, visitors continue to do most of their traveling by train and steamship. The first straw hat may attract too much attention, but it has the merit of looking better than the last one. You don't know a great deal if you don't understand which side of the counter the old machine is working for.

TOSCANINI'S DEBUT.

He Was Literally Forced to Conduct Opera the First Time.

As an opera conductor Toscanini has both a high and a low reputation. He has had previous triumphs and in the Century Max Smith, giving a character sketch of the eminent conductor, thus describes his first triumph.

Some one suggested Toscanini who best a retreat to the stage, where he was found trying to hide in the wings. His forte was to escape, but no excuse was accepted.

The youthful maestro seized the baton and suddenly the noise was quelled. He held out the conductor's attention not only of the orchestra, but of the mob.

Horace Greeley and an Autograph. In his "Recollections of a Busy Life" Horace Greeley tells the story of how he once dealt very effectively with a persistent autograph hunter. A grabbing youth wrote to Greeley as follows:

Dear Sir—Among my literary treasures I have countless preserved letters and photographs of our country's late lamented poet, Edgar Allan Poe. If so, and you can take one, please bring it to me and receive the thanks of your truly.

To which Greeley replied:

Dear Sir—Among my literary treasures there happens to be just one autograph of our country's late lamented poet, Edgar Allan Poe. If you are interested in it, please let me know by mail, and I will send you my autograph of the book. If you are not interested, please let me know and you may have it for half that amount. Yours respectfully,

HORACE GREELEY.

The autograph was found among Greeley's possessions after his death.

THE WEEK WITH THE CHURCHES.

First Methodist Church. (Rev. William Gort, Pastor.) Services at the usual hours next Sunday morning and evening.

German Evangelical Lutheran. (Rev. E. Mooring, Pastor.) Services next Sunday at 11 a. m. and Sunday school at 10.

St. Mary's Catholic Church. (Rev. William Kearns, Pastor.) There will be no services next Sunday as the pastor will conduct mass at Carroll at 10:30.

First Baptist Church. (Rev. R. P. Richardson, Pastor.) Those who were privileged to hear Dr. Groesbeck last Wednesday evening will not soon forget his message. He made a great appeal on behalf of missions. No other aspect of Christian work was so clearly set forth as that of uplifting heathen nations. Let us rejoice that we have some share in this divine work.

Special notice: All money for our missionary budget must be in by Sunday if it is to be counted on this year's budget. We need every dollar that has been pledged. Do not fail to respond, if you have made a pledge. We must not fail in this appeal.

"The King's Double Legacy" is the subject of the sermon on Sunday morning. Hear it.

The young people's study will be led by Miss Pearl Hughes on Sunday evening. It will be a study of the missionary work on Congo.

At 7:30 the pastor will preach a sermon, especially to men, on the subject "Conquering the Enemy." The good people of Wayne, just now, are facing a great enemy.

Tomorrow (Friday) afternoon, the missionary society meets with Mrs. Mary Norton. This is a very important meeting. Attend it.

Next Wednesday we will have our regular covenant and prayer meeting. At this service, the ordinance of baptism will be administered.

Our next Tuesday evening, the advisory board will hold its regular meeting at 7:30, in the pastor's study.

A cordial invitation to our services.

St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Chh. (J. Kuhn, Pastor.) We were delighted with our audience and services on last Sunday. All were the best we have yet held. The communion was the largest yet recorded for the church. The total offering for benevolence for the day was $26.00. Large audiences were at all the services.

The services at Emerson were also very fine and largely attended. Seven new members were added to the church and the offering for benevolence was $34.85. Total added to both churches was eleven members and an offering of $59.55. This is splendid. It gives both pastor and people great satisfaction.

We are sorry to lose Clarence Kraft from our church and Sunday school. He has gone to his new home at Russell, Minn.

We were glad to see so many new faces at our services on last Sunday. We shall be very glad to have these people return and become regular attendants at our church. We will accept of all the services both interesting and profitable. Come and welcome.

Our services on next Sunday will be as follows: Sunday school at 10 a. m. and preaching services at 11 a. m. At the Sunday school, those who have been present every Sunday during the first quarter, starting Sunday, will receive a beautiful bronzed pin at this time.

The sermon will be illustrated by our beautiful picture roll. The pastor desires a large audience of both old and young. It will be of much interest and pleasure to all.

In the report of Easter services, elsewhere in this paper, the name Anna Kemph should have read Hattie Kemph.

Presbyterian Church. (Rev. Alexander Corley, Pastor.) "The Second Coming of Christ, or Our Blessed Hope" will be the subject of the morning sermon at the Presbyterian church next Sabbath. In the evening there will be a Fanny Crosby service in honor of the 100th anniversary of her birth, which will occur on March 31, 1913. Although this noble and venerable woman has been blind every day of her life, except a few brief weeks in her earliest childhood, she has lived a joyous, happy, Christian life, and has been privileged more than most Christians to be so near to the throne of God.

Christians are invited to the service of her life next Sunday evening. Hymns will be sung which she has given to the church.

As a testimony to Rev. William Gort, the pastor of the M. E. church, and also to hear Secretary E. P. Denison of the Y. M. C. A. of Omaha, the members of the Presbyterian church met at the church last Wednesday evening and wait in a body to the M. E. church. In common with the other churches in Wayne, the Presbyterians regret very much the retirement of Dr. Gort from the pastorate on account of his health, and hope that a season in the west may restore him to the pulpit again. In organizing the tabernacle meetings in Wayne, and in pushing every cause for the moral and spiritual uplift of the community, Dr. Gort has won a large place in the hearts of the Wayne that now is, while the years of pioneer service in the early days gave him an abiding place with all the older members of the city who remember his services.

The Westminster Guild is planning to give a program and hold a reception for the membership of the church in connection with the annual church meeting which will be held on April 7. The church service begins at 10:30 o'clock and the Sunday school at 12 every Sabbath. In the evening the G. E. meeting is held at 8:30 and the evening service at 7:30.

STATE NORMAL NEWS.

The preliminary debating contests closed Monday evening and the judges have announced the following as winners in the debate to be held with Foss and Kearney some time during the month of May: Herbert Welch, John Rockwell, Tracy Kohl, Mahol J. Banks, Alfred H. Lewis, William J. Van Camp, Eugenia Madson and Jennie Babitt.

"I should like to break it off, but I can't best to give up this debating thing."

"Then why don't you tell him so?" he told me he'd be willing to lose the thing.

Real Nice Neighbors.

A strange couple had moved in the first-floor flat and soon proved themselves unneighborly. They were making what had been a perfectly respectable atmosphere. The woman across the hall reported to the owner of the property that she had listened at the court balcony and heard a very odd conversation going on between the man and woman.

The woman's shrill voice accused the man: "You stole them porters, you know you did, and you stole that gear for the baby, too; you know you did."

"Yes I did," replied the man's voice complacently. "I stole the porters because you had been wanting for some and your mother liked them so well when she saw them that she asked me to steal a pair for her too."

"They moved on the next day by request," Kansas City Star.

The Story of the Pearls.

Nearly everybody in a social set composed of elderly people who live in the upper part of New York has heard the story of the pearls—it is a traditional piece of gossip. The man of the dinner party were smoking and the women were in the drawing room. "I have always admired your pearls," said Mrs. A., who was seated next to Mrs. B. "And I think yours are just lovely," retorted Mrs. B. politely. "Yes, but I would gladly give mine for yours." "You would be sorry if you didn't own a pearl?" she inquired. "I take the risk," Mrs. B. smiled and, leaning over whispered: "They are not real. The only genuine thing about the piece is the bag. The diamonds are real ones." "Is that so?" said Mrs. A. "Well, even the clasp of mine is a fake believe." And then the man came in—New York Tribune.
