Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Jones arrived home Saturday from their tour of the Pacific coast and were accompanied on their return by Mrs. Jones' sister, Miss Jessie Tucker of San Diego, Cal. Mrs. and Mrs. Jones had a delightful trip, and a pleasant visit with relatives and friends at different points. They spent some time at San Diego with the family of A. L. Tucker, father of Mrs. Jones. Mr. and Mrs. Tucker who formerly resided in Wayne, are enjoying the best of health in the mild climate of southern California. Mr. and Mrs. Jones also visited the former mother at Pasadena, where she spent the winter. They visited Los Angeles, Long Beach and San Francisco, and renewed acquaintance with a number of Wayne people. They visited the celebrated Hotel del Coronado, across the bay from San Diego. The hotel is richly furnished for the comfort and pleasure of very wealthy people who journey there from all parts of the world. Mr. and Mrs. Jones took a boat ride to the Catalina islands. They went up the picturesque Shasta route and over the Sierrita mountains, and Mr. and Mrs. Jones also visited Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Tucker, formerly of Wayne. Mr. Tucker has a position with the Lumberman's National Bank of Portland, and is doing well. At Boise, Idaho, Mr. and Mrs. Jones stopped off to visit Mrs. Jones' sister, Mrs. W. M. Green, after leaving the Boise valley they were very favorably impressed with the country until they reached Nebraska. They were absent about two months.

Elma Fayne Duncan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Duncan, died at their home in Wayne, Neb., May 23, at 4 p. m. She was born in Stanton county, May 24, 1869, and so lacked one day of being 44 years of age. Her health had been poor for some time, but her last illness had been for the weeks, most of which time she was confined to her bed, and a nurse was attending her. Mr. and Mrs. Duncan and family had moved here early in the spring, from their farm near Pilger, Nebraska, that time being about 1895. She was a member of the Wayne church. Her school days here were of short duration, only two brief weeks, and then after two months of suffering she was promoted to that greater school above. Funeral services were conducted at the home Sunday morning at 4 o'clock by Rev. E. G. Glatfelter, and at the Piger Methodist Episcopal church at 1 o'clock. Interment was made in the Stanton cemetery. May her memory ever be blessed.

SCHOOL NOTES
The exercises of the school year closed last Friday evening when a class of twenty-one was graduated from this high school.
Dr. Gallagher's address was good and well received by the large audience. The music was unusually good and was a credit to the high school orchestra and choruses. Mrs. Tracy Cook's piano solo was particularly good.
P. H. Kohl, president of the board of education, presented the diplomas and in his brief speech made a very good point when he recommended to the public that they bring their suggestions and criticisms to the school trustees; that the meetings of the board be open to all.

WHAT IS YOUR IDEA?
of the services of a bank? That they are confined to protecting and safeguarding the surplus money of depositors from burglars and from fires, in keeping this surplus so that the depositor can have it to use at any time he wants it, and in loaning money to customers when you want it. These advantages are very material. They offer good and sufficient reason for keeping your money in a bank. If they cover your conception of the BANKING usefulness, then this is the service we offer to our patrons who are well pleased to have you come in and let us explain to you some of the other advantages which accrue to the man who makes use of our check account plan for the protection and care of his income.

DR. CORKEY SPEAKS TO NORMAL GRADUATES

CROWDED CHURCH HEARS HIM

Muscle Under Leadership of Prof. J. J. Coleman of Chicago... The Presbyterian church was crowded Sunday night when Dr. Alexander Corkey gave the baccalaureate service for the graduating class of the Wayne State Normal.

...law, which was explained to be the law of service. "He that would be chief among you, let him be the servant of all." This was illustrated by the lives of the immortals whom all the world honors.

THE WEEK WITH THE CHURCHES.

German Evangelical Lutheran. (Rev. H. Moehring, Pastor.) Services next Sunday at 3 p. m. and Sunday school at 10.

St. Mary's Catholic Church. (Rev. William Kearns, Pastor.) Mass in Wayne at 8:30 a. m., next Sunday, and at Carroll at 10:30, and catechism at 11:30. Benediction in Wayne at 7:30 in the evening.

St. Paul's Lutheran Church. (Rev. Floyd E. Blessing, Pastor.) The subject of the sermon for next Sunday morning will be "The Christian Home." Phil. iii. 13-14.

The choir will hold its rehearsal Thursday evening, at 8 o'clock. At the meeting of the general synod, a rank ago, which was held at St. Louis, Mo., Rev. H. L. Yarger, D. D., was elected pastor.

First Methodist Church. (P. R. Glotfey, Pastor.) Preaching last Sunday was well attended, considering all things, but we were sorry to see absent Sunday school and Epworth League, so we cannot say concerning them.

Next Sunday, our services will begin at 9:30, with the Love Feast. Following this, at 10:30, the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be observed. Let all hold their hearts in mind and plan to partake therein.

Sunday school will meet at 10 p. m. We may not all be there for the hour together in Bible study? We trust that all will make use of this hour during warm weather, when all can attend.

Epworth League will meet next Sunday with regular devotions at 7 p. m. Let every League be present to lend enthusiasm to the leader. May we not come expecting great things?

First Baptist Church. (Rev. B. P. Richardson, Pastor.) Sunday morning will be our communion service. The hand of church fellowship will be given to new members.

We enjoyed the presence of the veterans and friends last Sunday. The reunion here in the heart of many of these old men, give inspiration to those of the present generation.

...services of our school. For nothing, except the churches, mean more to our higher life than our schools. But now, since the commencement season is over, we are glad to have our own young services.

The prayer meeting have been broken into more or less for a few weeks. We hope now to resume faithful work. These long, cold evenings afford us a good opportunity to join in this meeting of prayer and fellowship.

Presbyterian Church. (Rev. Alexander Corkey, Pastor.) "The Day of Pentecost" will be the subject of the sermon at the Presbyterian church next Sabbath morning, as the customary session of the remarkable event of Pentecost, A. D. 30, when the Holy Spirit was first given to the church, and Christianity began its victorious career in human society.

Last Sunday morning the pastor spoke on the relation between the church and state, taking for his text Peter's charge to the church to be subject to Caesar, and to give the things that be God's. He showed that the state and the church were similar in several ways.

A cordial invitation is given to all who wish to worship with us. Next Sunday, our services will begin at 9:30, with the Love Feast. Following this, at 10:30, the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be observed.

UNAVOIDABLY ABSENT. To our unrepentant teachers and pupils. Comes now A. J. Ferguson, duly appointed "patriotic instructor" to the schools of Wayne, with humble apologies to the above because of being unavoidably absent from the fact that he was duty bound to appear at other places; and also for the fact that those upon whom he had depended to fill his place in such a contingency were likewise absent from our city and the post of duty, but all unavoidably and unintentionally. Respectfully submitted by yours truly, A. J. Ferguson.

STOCKHOLDERS' MEETING. To the stockholders of the Citizens' National Bank of Wayne, Neb.: You are hereby notified that the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Citizens' National Bank of Wayne, Neb., for the purpose of electing six directors for the ensuing year, and for the purpose of transacting such other business as may legally come before said meeting.

GIANT POLITICAL MACHINE.

The Lincoln Journal has this to say of a California political machine built up under the leadership of Gov. Johnson and the administration of Gov. Johnson. They claim that commission of all kinds have been created and filled with the benches of the governor, to the great scandal of the state, and to the almost complete depletion of the treasury.

The conservative California newspapers express surprise and horror over the character of the political machine built up by the progressives in their state under the administration of Gov. Johnson. They claim that commission of all kinds have been created and filled with the benches of the governor, to the great scandal of the state, and to the almost complete depletion of the treasury.

REMINDER OF WAYNE COUNTY MURDER CASE

INVOLVED WIFE AND HIRED MAN

Milton McLaughlin Who Died Last Thursday at West Point. One of the Prosecutors.

Milton McLaughlin whose death occurred at West Point last Thursday, and who was the oldest practicing lawyer in northeast Nebraska, is especially remembered by Judge James Britton of this city, in connection with the trial of a murder case which originated twenty-six years ago in Wayne county, but which was taken to Cuming county on a change of venue. It was the case of the state against Mrs. Simon Ghele and Ferdinand Shultz, and the prosecution being conducted by then district attorney, now one of the judges of the supreme court, was assisted by Milton McLaughlin. The defense was handled by Judge Britton of Wayne, and W. A. Marlow of Fremont.

In the spring of 1877, Simon Ghele whose home was the now farmstead owned by the town of Hoskins, Wayne county, went to the Black Hills, leaving his property in charge of his wife and hired man, Ferdinand Shultz. Ghele returned the next fall. Soon afterwards, the coroner, A. D. Allen, notified that Mr. Ghele had accidentally shot and killed himself. A jury was summoned, and to that body Mrs. Ghele and the hired man sorrowfully related how Ghele had come into the dugout to get his musket and in falling it had been from the wall, how it had changed and torn a fatal wound in his neck. Mrs. Ghele and the hired man had tenderly prepared the body for burial. The jury was about to return a verdict of accidental shooting when someone suggested turning over the body. This was done, and a small wound in the back was found a frightful gunshot wound. This discovery paralyzed the story of Mrs. Ghele and the hired man, and both were immediately arrested.

The defendant's attorneys had their heads full in the effort to show their clients, and in the trial before Judge E. K. Valentine at West Point in December, 1877, the only defense was "Not guilty." The jury pronounced the defendants "Guilty," but as the verdict did not specify the degree of murder, a new trial was granted by Judge Valentine.

In the spring of 1878, Shultz and Mrs. Ghele were allowed to plead guilty to manslaughter, and were sentenced to ten and five years respectively in the penitentiary. Both served the full terms.

THE EARLY DAYS IN TWO COUNTIES

From the Wayne Herald-Tribune, June 18, 1883:

Local market: Wheat, 50 cents; corn, 27 cents; oats, 25 cents; cattle, $2.30; hogs, $3.40.

J. K. Ryther, at one time Wayne manager for Logan & Co., was drowned in the lake at Wakefield while bathing.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year at the last meeting of the Wayne lodge A. F. & A. M.: J. T. Bressler, W. M.; A. A. Welch, S. W.; A. P. Childs, J. W.; D. W. Britton, G. O. Anderson, secy. E. F. Feather, secretary.

A severe wind and rain storm passed over northeast Nebraska Sunday night, June 14. Many barns and sheds in the vicinity of Wayne were blown down. Henry Erickson, living northwest of Wakefield, was crushed to death by falling timbers.

From the Wayne Herald, May 24, 1894:

A heavy frost kills about all the fruit and early garden truck.

The question of an electric light plant for Wayne is being agitated by G. A. Anderson, son of C. A. Anderson, living five miles south of town, died.

Local market: Wheat, 40 cents; oats, 23 cents; corn, 23 cents; hogs, $4; cattle, $4.

The residence of Madison was secured to give the address in Wayne on Memorial day, May 30, 1894.

An election is advertised to decide on a proposition to issue $5,000 worth of bonds for the purpose of building a new school house.

From the Wayne Herald, May 25, 1894:

C. C. Clark is instantly killed by lightning on his farm seven miles northwest of Wayne, May 24, 1894.

Supper Sullivan, aged 65 years, died at his residence seven miles southwest of Wayne, May 24, 1894.

Mrs. Georgia Bonawitz died at her home in Wayne.

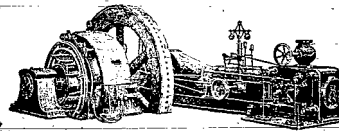

Prof. Snodgrass of the Waynes school, and P. E. Taylor of Tahamah, were on the program for addresses at the De-

A Simple Idea Behind a Simple Starter

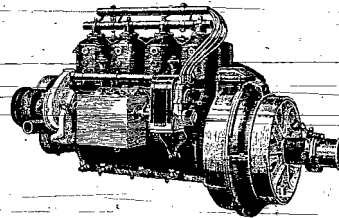

This electric lighting idea

Every Pullman car in the land is giving a daily demonstration of the Cross Country electric lighting system. Motor generator directly connected to axle for lighting purposes.

Coupled with this power idea

Allis-Chalmers direct current generator directly connected to a heavy duty Corliss engine. This is the type used in the Jeffery factory power plant—but much smaller.

Produced this perfected starting and lighting system

The Cross Country gasoline engine is directly connected to the electric motor generator. No chains; no gears; not even an extra bearing.

It is not strange that the ideal self-starter grew out of a simple thing. For many years a great corporation has been making motor generators to attach to the axles of Pullman cars for lighting purposes. The application is direct and the light generating capacity positive. One day a man attached a similar motor generator to a gasoline engine and by a simple arrangement made it serve as the fly wheel. He simply adopted a principle proved practical by the builders of the great Allis Chalmers power generators. It is not a new, untried experiment, but an old principle simply applied to a new use.

The attachment of the electric generator to the Cross Country gasoline motor is not an after-thought. Little weight is added. There are no extra bearings, no chains, gears or belts. The parts are large and substantial. There isn't a single delicate piece. The result, of course, is efficiency.

STOP and listen when you see a Cross Country owner starting his car. Even in the most quiet street the sound will hardly be audible. You will recall that some puff, others grind and a few squeal. This one operates quietly, starting the motor without jerk or jar. There is only one operation. Others require three. The lighting system is positive and the lights brilliant. You will know the Cross Country if you meet it on a country road on a dark night.

A beautiful, four-color reproduction of the Cross Country, from an oil painting by R. Philip Brinard, is ready for mailing. See the Cross Country by all means, at any Jeffery branch or dealer's display room, but send for the picture anyway.

From the Ponca Journal, June 7, 1883:
A rapid piece of business was transacted when the district court was in Wayne, week before last. A man named David E. Smith stole a horse named Wayne Sunday. He was captured on Monday, and on Tuesday he was indicted by the grand jury, arraigned before the court, plead guilty and was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary.

Every day brings news of tornadoes and waterspouts occurring in different parts of the country. No state in the west or south has thus far been so fortunately as Nebraska in escaping such disastrous visitations. Nebraska has this spring had only one little, feeble tornado, which occurred in the southern part of the state. But in other states these appalling storms have been frequent and the destruction of life and property has been far greater than has ever from such causes been known since the country was settled.

It will, of course, add somewhat to the taxes to build an additional school house. But whether it adds to the taxes or not is not a fact that an additional schoolhouse is needed. The present schoolhouse does not give near enough room for the scholars. Money expended for schoolhouses, for books, for public libraries and free reading rooms will spend. One had better give education to the children and be poor rather than to board up wealth and hang to it with a miser's grip, and the rising generation be thereby deprived of education. A good education is far better than any amount of money. Eduation is the only species of property which no misfortune can deprive us of. Even death cannot take it from us, and it will be the capital stock with which we will commence life in our next stage of existence. In that life, we believe, a person will be measured by what he knows instead of the number of dollars he has hoarded up in this world. Yes, by all means, let no effort be spared to give education to the children.

From the Ponca Journal, May 27, 1889:

One day last week, while J. W. Darro was sinking a well on his farm at Logan valley, just over the Cedar county line, at a depth of forty feet, he found, through a thin layer of gravel, and the formation had every resemblance of the carboniferous. An effort is to be made in that vicinity to investigate the matter further.

At an early hour last Sunday morning, this section was visited by the most severe rain storm for many a day. The flood gates of heaven opened, and for an hour and a half, deluged the earth with a perfect torrent of water, while the firmament was rent by the most vivid and cutting flashes of lightning, accompanied by deafening and terrific thunders. The streets of town were soon filled to a depth of several feet with a rushing mass of water, and each one was not unlike the creek in to which they flowed, and which in a short time was swollen in its banks to ten feet higher than its wont. Wood piles were transferred on the hills by fresh crews, barns sailed around with unlimited freedom, and from the appearance of East street, it is to be supposed that last year's corn stands on all the fields within several miles of here joined the floating medley. In the country around us, the rain was fully as heavy. Creeks become rivers and ponds grew to the size of lakes in a few minutes, while bridges were swept away and fields inundated.

Newspaper advertising whose benefits are questioned by his business men, should not be influenced by personal feeling towards a publicity agency. Advertising is a business getting, and the wide-awake, progressive dealer uses a newspaper to win results, not because he favors the publisher. Advertising should be influenced by the advertiser and advertiser, but used as the cheapest and surest means of extending and enlarging trade relations.

"When is a man drunk?" is the bewildering question to be determined in the libel suit receiving attention this week at Marquette, Mich., where Col. Charles Roosevelt seeks to recover $10,000 from an editor who charged him with drunkenness.

It is the toughest problem imaginable to find out when a man is drunk. One person may drink enough alcoholic tanglefoot to float a mattress and still have the appearance of exemplary sobriety. Another man may drink a shambleful of real liquor, and be down and out. In attempting to solve this question one has taken the following extreme view, the question being from memory and therefore possibly not exactly correct in the word usage: "A man is not drunk when from the floor he can neither rise or drink some more. But he is drunk when on the floor he can neither rise nor drink some more."

NORMAL SCHOOL BUILDINGS.

Saturday's Norfolk Daily News: At the last session of the legislature a law was enacted providing a levy of 35¢ of a mill for the maintenance of the state normal schools. The normal school asked for an appropriation of one mill. The original plan of the board was to erect a new building at each of the four schools. The legislature, through its committee, considered that the need for new buildings at the two older institutions should not temporarily be met by the present plan and accordingly fixed the levy at 85¢ of a mill. This amount is sufficient to provide funds for the maintenance of the four schools and to build and equip a first-class building at each of the two newer institutions during the present biennium. To same levy will be added the two older institutions each to have a new building in keeping with the needs and dignity of state institutions, and thus the state normal

DOUBTFUL MONEY.

They Almost Rank With Those of King of the Mountains. Italy Teems With Worthless and Counterfeit Currency. CONFUSION IN ITS COINS.

Of all the so-called "great powers" Italy has the most unstable and most unsatisfactory currency. Not to mention the exchange subject to fluctuation in the market, there are so many worthless or doubtful coins in circulation that the temptation to add to their number is not easily resisted. Like some of the paper money that is common in our own country, the Italian is inclined to remain in circulation until disastrously dirty and discolored and therefore difficult of recognition as counterfeit or genuine. To add to the confusion, French silver is generally used for the making of the money in Switzerland, Belgium and Greece, although officially recognized, are, as a rule, refused in commerce. Numerous Italian banks and banks of other countries, although they are valueless and accepted only by unwary foreigners, whom the Italians regard as "fools," are in circulation.

GROOVED, EYESTONES.

Found in Tiny Mollusks of the South American Coast.

South American eyestones are tiny objects in their look like flat round bits of polished wood. They are made of eyestone, there is no numerus it has been very much as if it were alive. It moves slowly about in various directions and altogether conducts itself in the most mysterious manner. The strange activity has given rise among ignorant and superstitious persons to the notion that the eyestone has life and "loves to swim."

WHOOPIING COUGH.

A Highly Contagious Disease That Should Not Be Neglected.

Many persons regard whooping cough as a tedious and annoying but entirely without importance. Unfortunately that mistaken often leads to the neglect of the disease itself and the failure to isolate the patient properly. But that statistician of the children under one year of age who have whooping cough one in four dies. The mortality decreases rapidly with increasing age, and at five years of age only one patient in fifty dies. Ten thousand children die of this disease every year in the United States. A person when whooping cough does not result fatally it is still to be dreaded, for it may be followed by consumption, attack of the bowels and the distance are often greatly weakened by the violent and exhausting cough.

The disease is highly contagious, although the infectious virus has not yet been discovered. Consequently the mother or the nurse of a child with whooping cough ought never to take it into the house, and the child should be sent to school or to church—anywhere, in short, where it will expose other children to the infection.

The disease begins like a simple cold, in the head and rapidly goes to the chest. The cough at first is almost sharp, but gradually increases in intensity and occurs in paroxysms. At the end of one of these attacks the air is muffled and the child has a deep breath at once. But now a spasm of the larynx occurs, and only a small amount of air is inhaled. Through this opening the child draws his eager breath and this makes the peculiar noise of "whoop" that gives the disease its name.

Often following a severe attack of coughing, and sometimes there is nosedrip or hemorrhage from the throat.

Never neglect the treatment of whooping cough. At present we know of no cure for it, but the child should always be under the care of a physician, who can do much to mitigate the severity of the cough and to avert serious complications. "Whoop's Companion."

DO YOU LOVE YOUR WORK?

If You Do Not, Then You Are Simply Wasting Your Efforts.

If your work is a burden, if it is drudgery to you, if you have not found your place in life, if you are in the wrong line of work, if you feel your family and function in you tugging away at your purpose with delight. Everything within you will give its consent, its approval to the work which you do. The mental attitude which we hold toward our work or our aim has everything to do with what we accomplish. Every one of us has a right to be satisfied in the task and see in it only drudgery if you work without hope, see no future in what you are doing, do not get a sure living; if you see no light ahead, nothing but poverty, deprivation and hard work all your life; if you think that you are destined to suffer and to die, you will never get to get anything else than that for which you look.

Every one should go to his work with the attitude of the great warrior approaches his enemy with his sword, led by a great longing and heart hunger, an all-absorbing eagerness to triumph, to conquer the mighty prey which is consuming his soul.

If you approach your work as though it were a burden, which you would like to get rid of, you will never get it merely from a sense of duty you will continue to be a nobody in the world. That sort of a spirit never lifts a man up to any eminence. Orison Swift, Married in Nauticus Magazine.

Queer Uses For The Crocus.

The crocus is used in many ways, not only its existence by its beauty, but in bygone centuries it was cultivated with an eye to profit, its saffron being used for coloring and its roots for medicinal and as a flavoring for cakes and pies. A distillation of crocus blossoms also was held to be good for strengthening the lungs and heart and as a preventive of plague. Evidence of the flower's commercial value survives in the name of the chief center of its cultivation, the town of Waikiki in the Sandwich Islands, which were the crocus to obtain it—London Chronicle.

A Mother's Kiss.

"Having grossly offended my mother one day," wrote Miss Schreck, "I got rid of her from my mind by merely from a sense of duty you will continue to be a nobody in the world. That sort of a spirit never lifts a man up to any eminence. Orison Swift, Married in Nauticus Magazine."

A Sad Fall.

"Pop, did you hurt yourself much last night?" "Yes, myself. What on earth does the old man mean?"

"Why, Jimmy! Smith's papa said he saw you fall off the water wagon."—Baltimore American.

BAGGAGE SMASHING.

In Russia Customs Officials Make it a Habit to Destroy the Goods.

In the Railway Magazine Robert Westfarber, says the Russian customs officers for the manner in which they abuse passengers' baggage in their ransacking examination. Describing his arrival at St. Petersburg, Mr. Westfarber says: "After a long and noisy shouting we at length moored alongside the quay of Washi Gator, one of the islands on which St. Petersburg is built. The babel of tongues in various languages had almost a bewildering effect. From this it was assumed by the customs officials, who, selling my trunks and boxes and demanding my passport, led me to their superior. The examination was pretty swift, and it included the smelting and snuffing by a lot of dirty landed port-men of certain jars of preserves and plum cakes which I had taken in my baggage, and it was not exactly pleasant to see the busy and industrious manner adopted in packing those innocent articles.

"Heavy loads and plum-cakes, preserves, writing paper and ink, well ironed white shirts and collars, neckties crummed into neat steves—all these articles were taken out of my trunk and stowed away—were thrown in a mass in two or three of the spacious bins of fish, falling to reach the lock by some inches, so as to remain open mouthed in silent protest against such ill usage.

"Afterwards the dirty hands were brought out for WASHI, or for money, an institution of which I knew more. The quarreling of the isosthetics, or, perhaps, who likes shoes, and who really scented their prey, would at any other time have been intensely comical.

BOARD OF EQUALIZATION.

Notice is hereby given that the board of county commissioners, the county assessor and county clerk will sit as a board of equalization, commencing on Tuesday, the 10th day of June, 1913, for the purpose of reviewing the assessors' books, and hearing any and all complaints regarding the assessment of personal property and additional improvements since the last assessment.

It is urged that as many of you as can, call and look over your statements, which will be appreciated by this board, and may aid us in avoiding any errors that might creep in.

The board will continue in session for not less than three (3) days, and all complaints must be made at this time.

Witness my hand and seal this 28th day of May, 1913.

CROP CONDITIONS ARE ENCOURAGING

Though corn planting has been delayed by reason of the wet weather, general crop conditions are said to be encouraging. The corn in the ground is reported growing, and the wheat crop is moving along triumphantly. With the favorable turn in the weather the first of the week, corn planting has been rushed ahead with all possible haste. Sunday's Omaha Bee gives the following report, based on the investigations of the Northwestern railroad: Advance sheets of the Northwestern corn crop report, due Monday, are out. They show the condition of the growing crops for the week ended Friday night. The sheets are made up from detailed reports wired in to the general manager's office, everything indicating that the outlook for a bumper crop of small grain continues to improve in every portion of the state's wheat belt.

During the week, the precipitation ranged from three to five inches, some water retaining the planting of corn. During the week end, the weather cleared and farmers everywhere rushed the planting, securing every inch available. It is predicted that with good weather, planting will be finished during the coming week.

Contrary to expectations, corn that was planted prior to the wet spell sprouted, instead of rotting, and in some fields to appear through the ground, the stand being first-class.

Dealing with winter wheat, the agents report the condition perfect and no bad spots in any of the fields. Considerable of the wheat, especially through out the southern portion of the state, is beginning to joint, and the heads are expected to appear during the coming week.

Spring wheat, wherever sown, is making good headway, but the ground has apparently been a little too dry, and in some fields shows signs of rindling, though not to any great extent.

Alfalfa is about ready for the first cutting and will lay in the best in the history of the state. Pastures were never better.

On motion, the bond of J. M. Cherry, water commissioner, was approved.

Meesa, O. E. DePew and T. E. Clark, with their attorney, L. A. Kiplinger, appeared before the council and presented a petition by Warren O. Shultheis, asking that a bridge be granted to O. P. DePew and T. E. Clark to operate a pool and billiard hall in the city of Wayne for the fiscal year. On motion, the prayer of the petitioners was refused.

The matter of claim No. 443 of the Havens-White Coal company was discussed and the council refused to consider the matter as the council had already acted on the matter and the same closed.

It being midnight, the council adjourned to Thursday, May 29, at 8 o'clock p. m.

GIVE BACK THE FLAGS-TWINE NEW WREATHS

NEW heroes come to claim trophies. And rank in world's glory. To hear the people's glad huzzas "Give-backs in song and story. Past wrongs appear as present rights. Old scores and hates are buried. And always unto fairer heights. Citizens of men are hurried. But rich in honor still they stand, And bright their pages shine. Who fought for their God given land And saved your land and mine. We may forgive, we may forget. The wrongs which run asunder. The bonds that should have bound and torn. Escape the cannon's thunder. I greet my father's former's son. An trusted friend and brother—

And Eighty spirits broken, But ever while the hearts beat true. And sun and stars shall shine Fresh laurels for the heroes who Saved your proud land and mine!

General Butler and Old Ironsides. "The ship," constitution, "popularity know the ironies, lay at Annapolis during a part of the war—General Butler, on taking possession of that Maryland city—suggested a Confederate plan to secure the historic old vessel. He called for volunteers from his men to man the steam ferryboat Maryland, which he had captured, and to fly the flag of the much dreaded, old-of-harm's way."

Mending Eggs. "The following is taken from 'Farm and Fireside': "During the hatching season last spring I had placed a sitting of five eggs. A few days before the chicks were due, the eggs were accidentally cracked and began to bleed, showing that the chicks were fully developed and alive. I took the eggs from the nest very carefully, melted a little paraffin and when it was slightly cool I poured it over the broken places of the eggshells, being careful not to cover any more surface than was necessary. Both the eggs produced fine, healthy chicks that were raised to maturity."

The Name He Got. In some cases abbreviating a name improves it. In others it doesn't. For instance, the "Bubbs" thought they were doing a favor to the Father of His Country as well as to their fraternal organization when they named George Washington Tubbs. But when he grew up the handle proved too long, so everybody dropped the "George" shortened up the middle name and called him simply "Wab Tubbs"—judge.

Perplexed. Shelby—Hurry, dear, what am I doing specially on the 14th? I've put red ink around it of the calendar, but I can't remember. Daddy—Won't the knots in your handkerchief help you? Shelby—Oh, I tied those for convenience. I'd marked the calendar.—London Mail.

SHELBY GOT THE HORSE.

California Tells How He Lost Valuable Animal. "I was very anxious to see General Joe Shelby during my stay in Kansas City and regret that he is away," said Charles C. Allen of Los Angeles. "My first knowledge of Shelby was during the war and was down in the southern portion of Missouri. Shelby was in command of a force of Confederate soldiers who were galloping over the country and making it very hot for any small bodies of Federals they overtook. A Union regiment, in which I was an officer, was very short of provisions one day. I decided to ride on ahead of the command and see if I might possibly find something to eat. I was accompanied by our body servant, a faithful negro, who on that trip rode my horse—That horse was the pride of my heart. We were both very tired and I soon nodded my head and dozed as I was riding, and while I was thus oblivious of my surroundings the negro went on ahead a short distance. Without warning he rode directly into a strong force of Confederate cavalry, commanded by Shelby. I was aroused from my doze by the commands to the negro to halt. I can see him faintly in front of me saw the Confederates in force, wheeled my horse and fed up the road at the best gallop possible and with enough bullets whizzing around me to load a small wagon. It was a race that was run in earnest. The stake was human liberty, and you bet I gave that horse all I could see him get out of. I never saw and finally was able to get back to a place of safety. But that horse! He was a fine fellow, and I lost him and the negro. Since the war I learned that after the capture the horse became the property of General Shelby and was ridden by him for many months during the hardest service he saw.—Kansas City Journal.

Advertising in the Medical Profession

"The Twentieth Century is so filled with opportunities that to say a child with a well body, a firm purpose, square morals, and a courageous will, can make a place for himself without sib or wealth or social status. It is because of these facts that we are suddenly awakening to a realization that the scientific raising of boys and girls is as profitable as intelligence with any crop. It will soon be that every child in the classroom at school is honest and clean and obedient. It is in fact, we are now investing his physical condition and try to locate the cause. It may be his teeth; possibly adenoids or enlarged tonsils; perhaps his eyes need attention, etc. No one can study a book and say that the physician should read the text; certainly a child can remember a statement if he did not clearly hear it stated; no brain can do good work when it is clouded by impeded circulation. This nation is wanting to read your child, for the child's health to start at the early stage, where flaws and twists can be controlled. Give your child every chance to come up to the standard. Now that vaccination is here, you should mention to your child, the physical defects, should he have such, and fit him for better work than ever another year."

ORDER TO SHOW CAUSE.

In the district court of Wayne county, Nebraska.

In the matter of the application of Emile Ring, guardian of the persons and estates of Rutolph E. Ring, Phoebe Ring, Philip N. Ring and Evaline L. Ring, minors.

On the 17th day of May, 1913, said day being one of the days of the February A. D. 1913 term of this court, on reading the petition presented to me duly verified and filed with the clerk of this court by Emile Ring, guardian of the persons and estates of Rutolph E. Ring, Phoebe Ring, Philip N. Ring and Evaline L. Ring, minors, and in and to the following described real estate situated in Wayne county, Nebraska, to-wit: all that part of the Southeast Quarter of Section 4, in Township 28, Range 22, Meridian 2, in Wayne county, Nebraska, located and lying north of Logan Creek, consisting of 9.93 acres, and it appearing from said petition that said real estate consists of farm land owned in common by said minors and by their six brothers and sisters, to-wit: the late estate of Emile Ring, Sr. and it appearing that it would be for the benefit of said minors and each of them that the interest of each of said minors in said land be sold, and that said minors have no personal property and the income therefrom is insufficient to support and maintain said minors or any of them, and that it is necessary to sell the interest of said minors and each of them in and to said real estate to support and maintain said minors and each of them.

Wherefore, it is ordered that the next of kin of the said minors and each of them, and all persons interested in the estate of said minors and each of them appear before the judge of the district court of Wayne county, Nebraska, at his court house in the city of Wayne, Nebraska, on the 25th day of June, 1913, at 10 o'clock a. m., to show cause, if any there be, why the license should not be granted to the said Emile Ring, guardian of the said minors, to sell the interest of said minors in said real estate for the purposes above set forth.

And it is further ordered that a copy of this order be published at least three successive weeks, once each week, in the Wayne Herald, a newspaper printed and published at Wayne county, Nebraska, and that it shall be necessary to make personal service of this order upon the next of kin of said minors or any of them, or upon any other person or persons interested in the estate of said minors.

Done at the court house in Wayne county, Nebraska, this 17th day of May, 1913.

"How old was Paul Jones when he died?" he gloomily asked. "When Bernierie told me that Napoleon had been marked," he said.

ODDITIES IN RELICS.

A Bit of Shelley's Charred Skull Traced in a Kebab.

It is not every man, not every hero worshiper, who would esteem the tooth of his hero more value than diamonds.

This tooth cost no less than $3,500, but it was the tooth of Sir Isaac Newton.

Another tooth, which so far excites the curiosity of the world, is said to be able to hold a court of its own and to draw from long distances a small host of followers.

The wig of a literary man appears to have been even more sought after than his tooth.

They were bound for the fishing grounds off Matinec Island. Freeman and Olson were in a school of dogfish, which had eaten him alive before the eyes of his helpless companion.

There was a splash, and Freeman was struggling in the water. In reaching for a plank, he had lost his balance and fallen into the choppy sea.

Many stories are related to show the ferocity of the dogfish. It was not more than half a dozen years ago that two New York yachtsmen were lolling along in a sloop chugging to Penobscot bay one July afternoon.

A Wee Bit View

A Story For Memorial Day

"T'S only a wee bit view I ha'e but it's a bonny one," said my old Scotch friend cheerfully. She sat beside her window in her big cushioned chair, her crutches within easy reach for she was very lame and hobbled about her four little rooms with great difficulty.

I went to the window and looked out. I saw the corner of a street and saw coming around the bend a little procession of children playing ball. They had bats and a drum, and their voices sounded pleasantly as they marched by.

"Auntie," I inquired, "how long have you been lame and unable to get about?" She replied cheerfully: "A matter of forty years and more, dearie. I took cold soon after the war, when my last ladie came home to die, and I never got over it. But I'm not so very much, and I take great pleasure in my house and my friends and my bonny wee bit view."

Mrs. MacGregor smiled. She was a biglander from Luterness, a large framed, stately woman with black eyes and coal black hair, and always dressed in a simple, dignified and a band of black ribbon—the sort of cap worn by the women of the island.

VETERAN TELLS OF WAR'S GRANDEST SIGHT

"THE GRANDEST sight of my war experience," declares a great veteran "was during Gordon's sortie at Petersburg. The Union batteries on the left of Gordon had been ordered to retreat. But the getting out of a trap is the hardest part of it. It was at that time that I witnessed that wonderful sight—a Confederate officer on a white horse riding at the blazing cannon at full tilt. I stood near a gun that fired which was doing more than his share of slaughter with the commander of the battery called out to a knot of his men of a rifle company, 'shoot at the man on the white horse.' One after another our best marksmen squeezed in between the gun and the parapet wall and took aim through the embrasure. After several had put in their shots the best sergeant tried it and came back crestfallen. 'Firing his rifle,' he exclaimed, 'with lungs. Here, you, Vest! Fetch down the man on the white horse!'"

"With a reputation to sustain I accepted the challenge. When I drew a bead on the gallant horseman I saw that he was leaning a hand of men back from the main line street upon our gun. Six to two the ground in front of him or exploded overhead, and inevitable case shot cut down his followers, but he held his seat like a statue of stone. Firing at random I chivald back, handed the reins to the aide and said: 'He is too brave. Let him go.' He was finally shot dead by a hit through the temple within thirty yards of our fort."

GENERAL GRANT HAS MARVELOUS MEMORY

General Grant's retentive memory was always marvelous, more especially for those most closely associated with him from day to day. In the midst of a long and thoughtful talk, apparently by unconscious manner his quick eye and eye seemed to hear and notice everything, and two weeks or months later, when the subject of the conversation was again mentioned, he would remember it as if it had just happened. He never failed to remember every card that had fallen, whence it came and why it was there, and all remaining, which he scooped in as a matter of course, although he never seemed in the least absorbed in the game. He was indeed an extraordinary composer in this as well as in other respects.—National Magazine.

BASEBALL MAKING

Materials and Methods Used in Building Up the Spheres. ONLY ONE PROCESS BY HAND.

That is Sewing on the Covers, a Task to Which Machines Are Not Equal. The Yarns Are Wound by Machinery. Because Hand Work Was a Failure.

There are few fans who realize just how much work is required in the making of a regulation sized baseball. The centers of baseballs are made of pure-pink rubber in most cases, but the cork center ball, which has been patented, is an exception. The idea of the cork center ball, of course, is to give the ball elasticity. If the ball was made without this center piece it would be "dead"—that is, it would not have the desired bounding quality of the "live." The centers are generally made to order for the various ball factories. The next process in the making of a ball is the winding on of the woolen yarn. There was a time when the yarn was wound around the hand by the man coming to work at a factory in the morning, putting off better balls than he was in the afternoon around 3 o'clock. Winding by hand was a tiresome job, and toward the late afternoon the men began to get tired, and consequently the yarn was not wound around the ball tight enough. Many balls were returned to the factory because they did not possess the resilient powers.

Realizing that this personal defect was something which had to be overcome, a machine for the winding purpose was worked upon and perfected. Now all baseballs are wound by mechanical power and much better work than man did or can do is accomplished. The yarn is wound around the Para under heavy tension, almost to the breaking point. Consequently when enough has been put on the ball is very strong and almost solid, due to the tight tension used. In the days of hand making many balls were soggy and, as a consequence, a uniform could not be kept by the person winding. There are three layers of woolen yarn over the para. For about an inch of thickness three ply yarn is used. The color is used, and over this is wound a thin layer of white two-ply yarn. The blue yarn is again brought into use, but is only of one ply.

Naturally it develops that something to cover the wool yarn must be used in order to keep it from unwinding. The ball must be so solid that when it comes in contact with a bat the threads will not break or move out of place. It has been found that canvas is the best material for this purpose. The ball after the wool has been put on and the ball is the size desired, this ball is put on wet, and when it dries the threads contract and the ball becomes firm. It is at this time that the same time solidifies it. Only a thin layer of the canvas's hair is used, just enough to warrant the wool yarn being in position. After the drying process is over a very fine layer of specially made cement is applied by hand to the ball.

Most balls are covered with a fine mesh of the best material, a claim which has been found to be of great use for the measuring which a base ball gets. This is cut into its proper shape by means of a pin dies, which are used to cut the holes around the edge of the die to be used in the sewing. The ball is sent to the men doing the sewing, which is now and always has been done by hand. A machine has been tried, but not one that has proved good to the task. The men who sew on the covers are not experienced, but very capable in their work. This sewing process must be done with great accuracy. The work appears to be tedious and not tedious, but it is, in many working at his fastest can do only two to three dozen a day.

With the covers sewed on the finished ball goes through a rolling machine, just after the sewing has been completed the seams are rather rough. A good baseball, if one will notice, is smooth on the entire surface, and the stitching seems. A pitcher, if he had to use a ball with rough seams, would not be able to do his best work as a batter on the ball would be trying to hit the roughness would make the fingers sore from the continual rubbing. Therefore to do away with this roughness, it is rolled in a rolling machine, which presses out the rough seam and makes the ball smooth all over. This done, the trademark is stamped on, together with the name of the manufacturer and the ball. The balls are then taken to the packing room, where they are wrapped in tissue paper and still further secured in the entire surface. They are sealed in pasteboard boxes and are ready for shipment.

There are surprising numbers of baseballs in this country and other countries to some extent, but only of every 150 dozen it is claimed that but one ball comes back for being in bad condition.—Springfield Republican.
