BUILDING FOR STATE NORMAL

IMPROVEMENT ASSURED STATE BOARD VIRTUALLY DECIDES TO MEET NEEDS OF INSTITUTION

WILL ACT AT NEXT MEETING President Conn Behrens Contract Will Be Let for Building by September First

At the meeting of the state normal board held at Escalona Monday and Tuesday of this week, a program was started which practically assures the new administration building for the Wayne Normal during this biennium. A resolution passed the board setting aside $75,000 for a building to be located on the site of the old building and a dormitory at that place. The need of a building at Wayne was discussed at some length, but no formal action taken.

of the services of a bank? That they are confined to protecting and safeguarding the surplus money of depositors from burglars and from loss by fire, in keeping this surplus so that the depositor can have it to use at any time he wants it, and in loaning money to customers with your want it. These advantages are very material. They are of good and sufficient reason for keeping your money in a bank but if they cover your conception of the ENTIRE usefulness of this bank, the essential advantages we offer to our patrons we shall be pleased to have you come in and let us explain to you some of the other advantages which seem to the man who makes use of our check account plan for the protection and care of his income.

WILL MOVE FACTORY

J. H. Kite and E. J. Raymond have decided to move their X-ray machine factory to Des Moines, and will make the change as soon as possible. They have built up a prosperous industry, and hope to further grow in a larger center. In the going of Messrs. Kite and Raymond, Wayne will lose two excellent citizens, but their departure is regretted by a large circle of friends. As to the loss of the factory, while people would have liked to see it remain, its removal will not be materially felt under the influence of other industries assured, or in prospect.

FORMER BALLOON MAN BUYS BILLIARD HALL

W. C. Martin has sold his billiard hall in Wayne to J. F. Winteringer of Norfolk, possession having been given Monday. Mr. Martin contemplates taking a trip to the city of Washington, where he owns some land.
Mr. Winteringer is remembered by many as the "balloon man." He used to live at Harrington, and while a resident of that place twenty-one years ago decided to engage in the business of making balloons. He has since made several trips. He followed the work for fifteen years, and during that time made many excursions for county fairs and other public gatherings. He had numerous narrow escapes and some accidents—a few that were serious. On one occasion at Lyons, Neb., his balloon burst when 100 feet in the air, and he couldn't make use of his parachute. He fell to the ground, and while no bones were broken, he was crushed and bruised, and compelled to lay off for a month. In ascending at Redfield, S. D., he struck a fence and broke a leg, and was badly bruised.
Mr. Winteringer quit the balloon business six years ago. He says he never had any desire to run an aeroplane or any other kind of air conveyance.

MEMORIAL SERVICES FOR SONS OF HERMAN

The Sons of Herman had memorial services last Sunday. They marched in a body to Greenwood cemetery and decorated with flowers the graves of deceased members. The annual memorial address was delivered by E. S. Jones. Those who were present included: August Peipetoch, Henry Lueders, Chris Soderman, William Blecke and Charles Liedtke. Flowers were also sent to the grave of another member, Charles Rath, whose remains are buried in the cemetery five miles southwest of Wayne.

AUTOMOBILE TURNS OVER NEAR LAUREL

Otto Krel who lives in Wilbur precinct, suffered an automobile accident Saturday when his car turned over on mile south of Laurel, coming scratch and bruise, but no broken bones and no serious injuries. He was driving to that town, and was accompanied by his wife, three children and hired man. At the point mentioned, the steering gear failed to work, and as a consequence the machine rolled over and tipped over. Mr. Krel and children and the hired man, Leonard Priest, were considerably bruised. Mr. Krel escaped injury. Dr. G. J. Hess was called and pronounced none of the party seriously hurt.
Most people are fairly optimistic about other people's troubles.

Tennis and volley ball are receiving their full share of attention this summer. Spads for both of these games have been assigned, practice in volley ball being under the direction of Clifford Penn.
The Normal Catholic club expect to hold their regular meeting this Friday. This organization is doing good work under the wise management of a new set of officers. Bernice Patten is president, Thomas J. Musselman secretary and Gerhard Kuehn treasurer.
From A. H. Vich we receive the resignation of Dr. Rouch. He has been elected president of the board, was elected president for the ensuing year. Dr. Get is the new vice president, and J. L. Tooley of Asselmo, will continue as secretary.
At a meeting of the board previously held at Lincoln, Mo., Monday, the first week of the year, the board of trustees for the year 1913-14. Miss Fairchild will spend the year in New York City, taking special work in Columbia university.
Miss Anna V. Day, assistant state superintendent, spent Wednesday at the Normal. A visit from Miss Day is always enjoyed by students and members of the faculty. Her wide experience in all phases of school work renders her unusually efficient in representing the interests of the state department, and her genial disposition and attractive personality are a great asset to the people of the state wherever she goes.
Among the Burt county teachers enrolled this summer is Mrs. D. B. Fletcher, who was a student of the Nebraska Normal college during its first year. The school at that time was held in a small building downtown, and in connection with this time, Mrs. Fletcher can appreciate fully the great changes that have come about in twenty years.
The last issue of the Goldenrod contains a very complimentary mention of Prof. J. T. Sautry, who was graduated from the Normal in 1892. He was a teacher and later was an instructor in that institution. Prof. Sautry is now at the head of a commercial school in Kalspell, Mont., and is meeting with great success in his work.
Last Friday evening, the members of the Normal Athletic club were entertained at a supper at the home of Mrs. W. A. Alter, northeast of town. They met at Prof. Bright's, and went thither from the city in a hay rack. It is needless to say that Friday, June 13, will be added to an already long list of delightful events enjoyed by the Senior class of 1913.

STRUCK AND KILLED BY TRAIN AT NORFOLK

Norfolk, Neb., June 15.—William Bertram, 23 years old, a farmer living south of this city met his death tonight when he was struck by a North-western passenger train. It is believed that Bertram, who was driving alone in a buggy endeavored to cross the tracks ahead of the train. He apparently ran directly into the moving engine, being hurled over a hill. Bertram leaves a wife and two children.

INHERITANCE TAX CASE GETS RULING

Lincoln correspondence in Lincoln Journal in the matter of collecting an inheritance tax from the estate of M. C. Strahan, who died in Iowa, leaving an estate in Wayne county of $138,570, besides a large number of shares of bank stock in a Wayne bank, the Wayne county district court decided that the tax was due.
However, the supreme court reversed the lower court, holding that the tax given to the surviving spouse, an enlarged estate of the same kind and nature as that of dower or courtesy, and such estate like the dower or courtesy is not subject to the inheritance tax.

... Suggestions ...

Those who are having a serious time of knowing what to eat will find many pleasant suggestions by looking over our line of lunch and cold meat items. Things to be served cold instead of hot are more encouraging to a drugging appetite.

Below we give you a partial list of reasonable goods. We are receiving in weekly shipments of Government Inspected Mined Ham, Pressed Ham and Bacon, and all of these items are made by the best packing-house in this section.

SARDINES of every kind and price are in stock all the time, not just once in a while.

SMALL MACKEREL in Tomato Paste is a new item, and is repeating wherever sold.

CALIFORNIA TUNE FISH is also a new one, and is similar to salmon, used in salads and every way that salmon is used.

SALMON SEASON is now at its best, and a great many are buying in dozen lots, which not only saves you money in buying larger quantities, but proves very convenient in case of unexpected company.

BAKED BEANS in all popular brands are carried in stock, and like other things, can be sold in dozen lots at a saving to you.

OLIVES are more subject to care given them than is realized by the average grocery store. We have a special lot of olives that we'll agree with us when we say that olives bought here are of better flavor.

OUTING SETS contain one crepe-table cloth 46 x 92 and six napkins to match.

SANITARY DRINKING CUPS are made of paper, and heavily waxed, and are used for serving salads in addition to use as a drinking cup. Eight cups in a sealed package for 5 cents.

SUMMER HEALTH DRINKS—We have recently added the Deborah line of Root Beer, Ginger Ale, Lemon-Sour, Wild Cherry and Mineral Water. Order a dozen bottles and have them on hand when wanted.

ICED COCOA is made in ordinary way and served cold. Try it.

Uncle Wilt The Poet Philosopher

"The weather is cold when we'd like have it hot," the husbandman solemnly complains. "Cold WHATSOEVER IS Jupiter Pegasus IS WRONG ought to be shot; the snow of the winter don't help at all, but stir up our anger and annoy; they ought to be sent in the summer and fall, to help out the oats and the corn. The sweltering weather we have in July don't do us a little of good; it ought to be sent us when Christmas is nigh, and then we could sing and wool. Oh, yes," says the farmer, "my corn's laid by me for me; it's a 'victims' wilt corn; and put the kibosh on these green fields of mine, and knock the whole farm out of plumb. And, if peradventure, a cyclone should fall to come with its scolding don't there be a big temper of lightning and hail, to knock all my grain to the ground. I look for bad winds every morn when I rise to turn up the crops till they be black, and maybe a dorick'll fall from the skies, and cave in the roof of my shack." The farmer then cracked up his big tourist car, and in the front seat sat Ted down, and lit an imported Havana cigar, and went on a joy ride to town.

"All things are going to the dogs," the philosopher remembers. "The government is slipping coars; it is run by crooks and incompetents. The vote is being stuffed; the PESSIMISTS down men like me, and how can I get into this? Our prison system is a failure; the cattle thief complains; 'it is a shame that I must break up my home in the chair.' The wish almost thing should be reformed; the convict has no rights; give him a cell that's nicely warmed and fixed with tungsten lights." "All things are wrong," says the old woman; "on this hot day of where the peddle man has a tale, whenever I appear, because I am opposed in words, on principle, I'm slugged; why should a conscientious shirk be chivied round and jugged?" The man who dallies with the booze with grumbles fills the street because he has no over shoes when snow is there. The man who leads the hours away beneath the summer skies, is sore because he must eat hay when others have their pies. And thus it is all round, I wist, and will be till we die; where a man's a pessimist, we give the reason why."

The old world is wagging along in the bragging of those who have won in the battle of life; their vaulting and glowing we-beings are wagging along to us what we've strifed along in this merry and strife. But Midas King's changes have all gone to pieces, and millions of winners have crumbled to dust; the old world, still wagging, has heard legends changing, whose names are forgotten, whose riches are rust. The old world is crying along to the signing of those who have been chosen to be the king and queen, the walking sick souls and stinging, the chaos of sorrow, the dirge of despair. But millions are sleeping and one time were weeping and cursing their gods in the caverns of about the old world still flying has heard so much fighting, heard so much prating of dolor and doom! The old world is rambling along to the grumbling of those who can tell how it might be improved; the kicking and crying that way have been hearing since first in the dawn of the ages it moved. But millions are planted who once gallivanted around on the surface with croakings and kicks; the old world still rambling. This seen them go tumbling, has heard the small splashes they made in the Styx.

The chinebugs chew the corn and wheat, which keeps the farmer flinching; and though he knows just where they eat, yet he cannot catch them. THIS WEARY WORLD If he should buy a load of drugs and try to use his axon, by killing off ten million bugs, there'd be far more tomorrow. And so he feels misfortune. And, and grows beneath the pinchers, and lets the bugs go in and knock with their black action chinchers. The worms kill the wheat and corn with double-action cutters; the farmer leaves his house at morn; and views his fields and mutters some language of majorants; which here must be omitted; it wouldn't make sense in print for a child "can't be fitted. He goes to town to get relief by drinking soda fizzes, and while he tells about his grief, the worms wield their scissors. This sort of thing we hear each spring, and often times we wonder that crops are raised at all, by being water they're all knocked to thunder. "The farmers, in the fall, instead of being in this' leded' way, no consolation do they need, no comforting with flags. So let the humble outworm out, the chinchin' do it's carrying; they doubtless are a nuisance but the farmers are not starving.

The latest book by Mr. Gush has made a killing grand, and to the book-stores people run with money in their hand. "We want this THE BEST" best of Gush's works, "THE SELDER" "and here's the meal!" And so the ad soul weary clerks disperse it by the ton. The village laborer's in a stew for all the dangles are there; they want that book—none else will do—and are pulling hair! In street cars, in the busy mart, and in the social crush, they talk until they break your heart, about that book by Gush. And all the tremble low-brow dubs discuss it in the street; and women, at their culture clubs, read extracts and repeat. You hear of it from every pore, and in the evening's book store, they sit before your door and curse the name of Gush, and then the talk all dies away, as sudden as it rose; a new best seller is in sway, and Gush turns up his toes. If in the bookstore you would look next month, for Gush's work, "The next best" best of a Gush's works, "The SELDER" "and here's the meal!" And so the ad soul weary clerks disperse it by the ton. "Just a book may be a certain that holds the public mind; it passes like a winter dream, and leaves no trace behind."

Of all the horses above the ground, who should be sent to plow, the greatest is the one who's bound to tell a funny story. I always shudder when I see a horse-dogger, displaying all his teeth and yams in wrath he cannot vomper. I always know just what he'll say, and he'll be there then thinking "I heard a yarn the other day that seemed to be amusing." And then he starts a hoary tale that is too fierce to dwell on, a yarn that Adam counted stale, and Noah from the hull on "I yawn, I shrik, I growl, I howl; and say his yarn if history is done a bulky hour after hour he tells his boaring story. The bright and sunny morning goes, and still the jester labors. I hear him saying, as I doze: "The Paddy said 'Be Jahers!'" And now the golden afternoon is passing, sadly slowly; I hope that he'll be finished soon with that ranceless unlovy. In vain! Night comes, the stars appear on high in twinkling glory; the funny man still twinkles near and tells his shelf-word story. And when at last he ends his tale, so many long hours after, and I say, "You stare and nod, without a sign of laughter, as though you were out of joint, he says—"the wordy worder." "You-don't seem to catch the point—I'll tell the story over!"

BOOSTING ALFALFA. Wallace's Farmer: We fear that in their very proper desire to extend the growing of alfalfa in that state, our friends are in danger of allowing their enthusiasm to run away with them, and subjecting some of their converts to disappointment. For example, in a press bulletin recently issued by the Illinois farmers' institute, we find a comparison between the profit in producing and in growing alfalfa. The comparison is run away with the cost of growing corn are taken from the government investigations in Illinois. It is estimated that labor, interest on the land, or rental, and other expenses in growing an acre of corn amount to $18.25. The value of the plant food taken from the soil to produce this crop is said to be $7.87, making a total for producing an acre of corn of $20.82. The average yield (1912) is estimated at forty bushels to the acre, and taking an average market value of 40 cents per bushel, the total yield would be $16.40, which, subtracted from the cost, would make a loss per acre of $4.42. During the same year (1912) the average market value of alfalfa hay per ton was $17. The average yield per acre is given as five tons, making a gross value per acre of $85. The cost per acre, including fertilizers and interest, was $7.04, and the value of the plant food required to produce the crop was $7.48, making net charges of $14.52, which leaves an apparent net gain per acre of $66.80.

is very generally over estimated, not only in Illinois but Iowa, but also throughout the western alfalfa country. If three tons per acre during the season are obtained, that is a very satisfactory yield, and the average yield will come very much closer to three tons than to four tons per acre. The market for alfalfa hay, which is given as $17 a ton, is not too high for first-class alfalfa hay; but in Illinois, Iowa and throughout the country east of the Missouri river, it is very much more difficult to secure alfalfa hay in first-class condition than it is in the country west of the Missouri. And if hay of first-class quality can be secured from two cuttings out of three, the alfalfa grower in the north section should feel very well satisfied indeed. It not infrequently happens that all three cuttings are discarded and damaged by rain and dew.

Under such conditions, it is quite possible that the estimate put out by our Illinois friends would actually work out, but under average conditions we are quite sure it is very much too high. We doubt whether it is wise to over-estimate the value of any crop in order to induce its more general growth. A conservative estimate of the value of alfalfa offers sufficient incentive for growing it more generally.

MAKING A UNIFORM

It Was For the Czar, and He Wanted It in a Hurry.

A SCARED CRIMEAN TAILOR.

When Pounced Upon by his Majesty's General, Who Cloaked his Mission in Mystery, the Keeper of the Shears Thought His Form of Life Was Over.

By special permission of the court an amusing account is furnished of the circumstances attending the ordering of a military uniform by the czar from a little tailor in the Crimea. Khatko Kurkisch was the name of the Crimean dragon.

When the imperial family came to Litchka and some days before the annual review of the Crimean dragons, the czar told the colonel that he had in store a gift for him and the regiment. The czar had consented to become their chief. This majestic address meant that there were three officers present to the emperor and shall wear your uniform. The czar said I believe I have the uniform of the regiment. But that does not matter, there is time. If you hurry to give me one, you will be a hero.

Who lives? Each to All. The czar started was hit to the heart. Makes the firm bulwark of the country's safety. There is no truce war. —Susan Coolidge.

Branded Him. Dr. Norriss Horrit, the consulting surgeon of the Royal army. He told him that the czar's English doctor had been telling a story against himself. He says that on one occasion he was under the czar's chair to examine some meat that had been condemned by the medical officer of health as being unfit for human consumption. When the case came on for hearing in the local police court one of the witnesses, a butcher, was asked, "Who was present when the meat was examined?" To which the witness answered quite seriously, "Dr Porritt and a number of other butchers?"

A Scot's Tune One Set Didn't Like. A new adunial—a Macdonald had succeeded Admiral Campbell in the command of the Scotch garrison. He had been in the habit of playing "The Campbells Are Coming" when his former admiral had a dinner party. The first (the chief of the Macdonalds) heard it (tells Admiral Fitzroy) in the moment of the Scot's life. He was very angry and lost—forgot the captain being so short—and the following dialogue took place: "What are they doing by playing 'The Campbells Are Coming'?" "It has been customary to play it, sir, as a compliment to Admiral Campbell and his Scotch staff—no doubt the bandmaster thought it would be agreeable to you."

"Agreeable to me! Don't you know the meaning of the song, 'The Campbells are coming, the Macdonalds are coming?' Never let me hear that tune again!" The bandmaster was ordered to teach the band "The Garb of Old Gail" instead. "Granny Wife." The subjects of Queen Victoria held their sovereign in veneration and respect. It was only among her family that she was "granny" and not "my majesty," that any criticism of her character and disposition ever heard. There is a story regarding her point told by Mrs. Hugh Fraser in "The Reminiscences of a Diplomatist's Wife."

Miss Elizabeth C. Berdan was distinguished friend of the young princess and was in great request at the palace as a playmate for the young girls. One day the princess gave Mrs. Berdan a ring. It was a pretty little trinket, but simple and inexpensive. "I would like to give you something, my dear," she said. The princess apologetically, "but you know, Granny, I am so stingy!"

THEY COURT DEATH

Those Who Take Liberties With Fulminate of Mercury. PERILS OF BLASTING CAPS.

The Run Came In. Joe Stigden claims that he is the only living rival to John Anderson, who made himself history by stealing second with the bases full.

Joe let a flying run step across the plate while he took the ball in the hand and refused to touch the runner. There were more than second and third. Anderson scored 3 to 2 one day at New Orleans. Joe's team was playing there, back in 1893. The game was stopped for some reason, and the runner set out for the sack during the delay. Joe looked over the infield and saw three men on bases.

The great ball pitched when the game again started was hit to the third baseman, who threw home in the forms of time to get the man trying to score. Joe thought the man was forced out. Anderson, at home, the first baseman, to get on the sack to field a double play, while Loug, completed at Joe to touch his man.

The runner stopped, already on the plate, while Joe, exhort of the first baseman. They revived Joe with cold water when he had discovered what he had done. Each to All. Who lives? Each to All. The czar started was hit to the heart. Makes the firm bulwark of the country's safety.

These Dangerous and Sensitive "Play-toys," Often Picked Up Around Quarters, Are Responsible For Hundreds of Crapshooters. Over 600 children have been hurt or perhaps crippled for life in the last five years from playing with blasting caps. If this had happened at one time what would have happened to our country? But because the accidents are reported over the country and happen at the rate of only ten a month, nothing can be done except to educate the whole population to realize how dangerous the exceedingly easy to handle things are when they are out of their proper place. And what a dreadful thing it is going through the crippled or blinded for want of a little care and knowledge.

Days often play in and around quarters on Sundays and sometimes pick up stray caps and start to investigate them. It is the great thing that they ever do without getting hurt. They perhaps know they are dangerous and that a spark or a blow will set them off. But they do not realize how sensitive they are. How violent the explosion of live wires of caps. They see the name is misleading in this respect. The word "caps" suggests the paper caps used with fire pistols, and because the blasting caps are called by this name it is natural to think that the two are of the same family. They are, but they bear about the same resemblance to each other that the emergency-manufacturing does to the ordinary setting-tiger does to the ordinary setting-tiger. There are lots of ways of getting crippled by exploding blasting caps. One is to put them in a pocket and putting them in the coat. Another is to get into the contents with a pin distributed in the pocket. Another is to get into the contents with a pin distributed in the pocket. Another is to get into the contents with a pin distributed in the pocket.

Many a miner has blown a hole through his face in biting the cap on the fuse and other has blown his fingers with copper or lead been killed outright by the sparks from their lanterns or pipes dropping in an open place. Lots of workers continue to bite the caps on the fuse and think that because they have never exploded their wires they are safe. They do not know that the fuse is not safe and so lose something besides teeth. They will bite the fuse and use the cap as a tool, and lots of men use the cap as a tool, and lots of men use the cap as a tool, and lots of men use the cap as a tool.

A blasting cap is a copper shell about a quarter of an inch in diameter and an inch or two long, half an inch wide. It is made of a mixture of fulminate of mercury. This fulminate is the most sensitive and about the most impulsive explosive in common use. It is so sensitive that it will explode when struck by a hammer or a nail. It is so impulsive that it will explode when struck by a hammer or a nail. It is so impulsive that it will explode when struck by a hammer or a nail.

THE TWO BARONS. That day, as the king might want him, Bersardot walked and scolded. At last, three weeks later, somebody mentioned his name before the king, who exclaimed, "Bersardot, I told him to wait for me three weeks ago!" He sent and found the poor old Prussian still waiting. Through three weeks of tedious business, Bersardot had not dared leave his quarters. In the early part of last year, when the king had his neighbor, Baron Bersardot, snored so loud that he could not sleep, he changed his rooms from the wing to the main body of the palace, much to the disgust of the prince, who determined to get rid of him. They soon hit on a plan. His new quarters were so far from the telephone that he could not hear the king's orders and cross a large hall to get to it. One morning he got so urgent a call that he hastened out in his pajamas. The king, who had been waiting, stopped, but the king's attention was attracted by the sound of the door. He saw the king's attention was attracted by the sound of the door. He saw the king's attention was attracted by the sound of the door.

It Wasn't King Sargent After All. Once when John S. Sargent, the famous painter, was at a banquet a young lady whom he knew very well said to him, "Oh, Mr. Sargent, I saw you in the painting and I thought it was so much like you." "And did it kiss you in return?" "Why, no." "Then," said Mr. Sargent, "I was not the me!"

THE EARLY DAYS IN TWO COUNTIES.

From the Logan Valley Herald, June 26, 1884: A young son of Peter Coy was bitten by a rattlesnake.

Next Spring, living northeast of Wayne, had on his farm a chicken with three legs.

O. Stamm of Henskins, sold his farm in that vicinity with intention of returning to Germany.

W. H. Miller, who recently removed to this city from Merion, Wis., had purchased a lot south of Love's drug store, and will at once commence the erection of a handsome store building 22 by 40 feet.

From Wayne Herald, June 14, 1894: Belle Coy goes to St. Paul, Minn., to spend the winter with relatives.

Dr. Blair of Correctionville, Ia., moves to Wayne, and occupies rooms vacated by Dr. C. F. Thompson.

Local market: Wheat, 40 cents; oats, 25 cents; corn, 23 cents; hogs, $4; cattle, $4; eggs, 10 cents; butter, 12 cents.

Mrs. M. P. Savidge, June 11, 1894, a daughter to Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Cooper.

At the Masonic meeting Friday evening, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: A. Welch, M. W.; G. O. Fisher, S. W.; O. B. Kortz, right; J. H. J. Tower, treasurer; E. Hunter, secretary.

From the Wayne Herald, June 16, 1894: Died, June 12, 1904, George Rennick, aged 72 years.

Married, June 15, 1904, Miss Meade Bressler to Mr. Oliver Barker.

Died, June 9, 1904, of his home south of Winslow, Perrin Long, aged 58 years.

Wayne and Carroll golf clubs had a contest which resulted in favor of the former.

The annual teachers' institute opened in Wayne June 13, 1904, under the direction of County Superintendent C. H. Bright. Deputy State Superintendent McReina and Rev. Thomas J. Wright gave lectures.

From Lincoln Journal, June 28, 1883: The citizens of this town last week raised $2000 which they propose to devote to raising a landing.

Mr. Moxley, a full-time toll collector, placed between two parties in town, armed with Roman candles, with which each party peppered the other. Balls of fire fell like rain. No damage. Great fun. This incident was a reminder of what could be done on the Fourth of July night. Hence, it has been announced that the two military organizations, to wit, the G. A. R. and the N. S. A., will have a battle on that evening as the "closing entertainment." These two armies will advance upon each other in all the pomp of war. In addition to ordinary weapons, each army will endeavor to overcome and overwhelm its opponent by the discharge of a vast magazine of Roman candles, rockets, torpedoes, bombs, fire balls, cannon firecrackers, serpents, Greek fire and bell fire. We use this last word reverently and do not forget to certain well known locality, but to fireworks of that name. Thus, as will be seen, it will be an exciting and interesting season. Which of the combatants will come our ahead we have no idea. Everyone had better be on hand to see the fun.

From the Ponca Journal, June 17, 1880: The most severe rainstorm for a number of years occurred during last Sunday night. The rain commenced about 9 o'clock in the evening and all night long a perfect deluge was poured down upon us. In the morning, the town was flooded and was nearly a complete counterpart of Venice, all that lacked to make the resemblance full being the light and swiftly sailing gondolas, and these were in fact supplied by a skiff and a few dry goods boxes with which the classic streets were navigated. The creek was over its banks and rivaled in extent and fierceness the mighty Missouri, and was higher than it was before since April, 1875, when by the mark at Sheffield & Drager's mill it was about three inches higher than on Monday.

For matter in all northern Nebraska and southern Dakota, the storm was equally as heavy, and the country now has to show for it a loss of many bridges, injured mill property and bottomless roads.

Those who attended services at the churches last Sunday evening had had a difficult time getting home through the storm. We relate the experience of one party and as the others were like it, there is no necessity of giving more. A young man while ascending one of the fair-see-home, after the flood set in, came to where a river of water over his path.

He had no boat, and there was no way of circumnavigating the stream, and go across he must; so what was he to do? There was only one thing he could do, and that was to pick up his girl and wade through. The night was dark, and it was only when the lightning gleamed across the heavens that anything could be seen at all, and not knowing the depth of the water, the prospect was all but encouraging. But he was brave and gallant, and seeing no other way out of the difficulty, he stepped to the edge of the stream, and started to feel the carrying tide. That he had counted beyond his means is evident. He proceeded only a little way through the flood, when the current became too strong for him. The first flow out at a tangent and there was a splash. By the brief flash of lightning the forms of two persons might have been seen struggling, kicking and floundering around in the raging stream. Pretty soon they bit a bank, and emerged from the water, crawling up to higher and dryer land like seals from the sea, and as wet as porcupines.

The pleasure of the remainder of the journey as might be supposed was somewhat dampened.

LEGAL NOTICE. The unknown heirs and devisees of Margaret C. Shafer, deceased, defendants, will take notice that on the 12th day of June, A. D. 1913, the York Building and Loan Association, plaintiff herein, filed its petition in the district court of Wayne County, Nebraska, against the said defendants, and Thomas C. Shafer and Cora Shafer, the object and prayer of which was to foreclose a certain mortgage executed by one Margaret C. Shafer to the plaintiff upon the following described premises, to wit: Lot 9, in Block 6, of First Addition to the Village of Carroll, Wayne County, Nebraska, to secure the payment of a certain bond or obligation dated October 15, 1909, for the sum of $200, due in monthly payments; that there is now due upon said bond or obligation the sum of $184.45, for which sum with interest from the date of the filing said petition, plaintiff prays for a decree that the defendants be required to pay the same, or that said premises may be sold to satisfy the amount found due.

You are required to answer said petition on or before the 28th day of July, 1913.

SUGGESTIONS FROM HERALD EXCHANGES

The Lincoln Journal published two big, slightly pictures of a body of funeral directors gathered in that city, and the purpose may have been to show that a number of directors are not such sorrowful looking people as their occupation would lead one to suspect. They really looked smiling, happy and contented.

Gage county papers complain often and hard about their jail, which is in all the papers. It is unsanitary, dilapidated and almost worthless. Leisurely people often get into jail there for the fun of breaking out.

Laurel has a brass band which gives an open air concert every Saturday night. The Advocate mentions that the brass band is well formed, wearing white pants, which do not detract from the quality of their music, but which make them appear to better advantage, physically.

Speaking of the revelations of the erstwhile McBrien lecture bureau, the Omaha Examiner concludes that "in addition to causing damage to a crop of corn, hogs, sheep, cattle, alfalfa and statement. Nebraska produces more chautauqua lecturing talent to the square inch than any other state in the union, taking acreage and population into consideration."

Structor-Picker: Statute is evaded with professional beggars at all times of the year. First comes the blind, then the halt and lame, the paralytic, the deaf, the dumb, every weak, now beggar, now beggar.

Is it right to turn a deaf ear to their pleadings? Is it right to give them your hard earned cash when the state provides and pays for comfortable homes for them? We believe that if the money is given away to these professional beggars, who are too lazy generally to ask for help, but have their request printed on a card, was given to some charitable institution, a great work would be done. We believe in giving to charity, but not to every professional grater that hops into our domicile.

Hastington Herald: The young graduate is told at this time of the year that the one great essential of a successful career is merit. That grand sentiment has all the changes rung on it from nostrum and pulpit, and the graduate goes forth into the world firm in the belief that it is the truth. Of course, it is the truth to a large extent. Probably, no permanent success has ever been built up on a back of merit, but, nevertheless, our young graduates find to his surprise that there are some other qualities which enter into success of which the commencement speaker said nothing, and that the greatest of these is gall—it's a sad, disillusioning fact.

Merit, of course, counts, but that's not all. There's a certain quality called "gall" which is a mixture of small bristles and low education—force far ahead of men of brilliant natural endowment. It's a fine sentiment to tell your aspiring graduate that merit is the one thing needed.

It's fine thing to tell him to initiate the club and to brush up on his studies, but people who brush up on sediton get anywhere. There are conspicuous examples of this in every community, and in every occupation. One of the great essentials of a successful career is gall—divine, omnipotent gall—and it would seem only fair that our young graduates should be apprised of the fact as they launch forth upon the sea of life.

Speaking of the defeat of E. S. Scofield of the Nigh Register for the proffered plan through the primary method, the Creighton Liberal makes this discouraging observation: "Scofield was in every way entitled to election, but he went down to defeat as every deserving newspaper man deserves."

The people and the party men expect the newspaper man to fight their battles for them, but refuse to reciprocate.

THE WEEK WITH THE CHURCHES.

St. Mary's Catholic Church. (Rev. William Keenan, Pastor.) Mass next Sunday morning at 10:15. Benediction at 7:30 in the evening.

German Evangelical Lutheran. (Rev. B. Moehring, Pastor.) Services next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. Sunday school at 10. Young people's meetings at 7 p.m.

St. Paul's Lutheran Church. (Rev. Floyd E. Blessing, Pastor.)

The theme to be discussed next Sunday morning will be "The Changeless God." Hebrews xii. We may not trust our confidence in the things of this world, for we see with our eyes that we will have disappointment for the things of this earth are transitory. Today we may be living in great prosperity, but we may be in a state of ruin tomorrow. Today we may have many friends, but we cannot tell how soon they will be taken from us. So earthly things are not abiding, but are subject to many changes. But there is one in whom we can put our trust. He will never forsake us. A friend who sticks closer than a brother. Jesus—the changeless Christ.

Do not forget the Sunday school at 10 o'clock. The attendance was very good last Sunday, and we are glad to see so many new scholars. Let us make a special effort to get out to Sunday school. It will be worth your time.

Choir rehearsal has been changed from Thursday evening to Friday evening. Every member of the choir is requested to be present, as we will have a leader to be chosen.

The Ladies Aid society will meet this week at the home of Mrs. J. W. Ziegler.

First Baptist Church.

(Rev. B. F. Richardson, Pastor.) "The Life of the Master" will be the subject of the sermon next Sunday morning. It will be a study of how he used his time and expended his energies.

Appreciated the large attendance last Sunday morning, for in spite of the oppressive heat the church was filled. We believe the church is cooler than our homes.

Last Friday afternoon, the young people of the church, together with a good number from the colleges, about five altogether, went on a picnic, a mile and a half north of town. A delightful time was spent, a picnic supper was eaten, and about 9 o'clock the crowd returned home.

Last week on Tuesday evening, a business meeting of the young people was held at the parsonage for the annual election of officers and the transaction of other business. The following were chosen as officers of the society for the coming year: President, Shirley Sprague; vice president, Glen Wade; secretary and treasurer, Miss Laura Conroy; organist, Miss Hazel Norriss; and Miss Ina Hughes. It was also decided to pledge, on behalf of the society, $40 for foreign missions. It was also planned to make the last Sunday evening of the month a "Unit Service" with preaching to be beginning at 8 o'clock. A full program will be announced next week.

Sunday evening at 7 o'clock, the young people's meeting will be led by Miss Pearl Hughes. The topic will be "Familiarity of the Church."

First Methodist Church.

(P. B. Glaffly, Pastor.)

Next Sunday is Children's day with us. Sunday school exercises observing the day will be held at 10:30 a.m. A collection will be taken for the aid of worthy young people striving to obtain an education. This money is loaned through the schools by the board of education for a period of time without interest, this period reaching to two years after completing the school course. When repaid, it is again loaned, and so continues. It may be said that work of this kind is for children only, but it is held in connection with this service.

Sunday school at 12 o'clock. Morning Temperance lesson, Amos vi, 1-8. What about your carrier, is he not a worse enemy than the patient confined to the sick room?

A splendid attendance is desired.

Epworth league service will be led by Elsie Young next Sunday. Subject, "The Social Basis of the Last Judgment." Matt. xxv, 31-46.

Installation service for the new Epworth league cabinet will be held at the opening of the preaching service. Let every leaguer plan to be in attendance next Sunday. Important to all of us.

Good crowds attended the bible readings held by Evangelist Lindgren last week. At the service Sunday evening at 7 o'clock, a special invitation is extended to young and old for this service.

Good crowds attended the bible readings held by Evangelist Lindgren last week. At the service Sunday evening at 7 o'clock, a special invitation is extended to young and old for this service.

The Epworth league social held at the church Friday evening was a delightful success. A splendid crowd benefited to the following program:

Organ solo..... Mrs. Johnson
Address of welcome..... Rev. Glaffly
Response for students..... Miss Brechel
Vocal solo..... Letta Johnson
Address on "Life's Chief Work"..... Rev. Glaffly
Violin solo..... Evangelist Lindgren
Solo..... Alvo Blair

Carlyle Campbell presided at this part of the evening's pleasures, and at the close of the program, invited all to join in the partaking of refreshments, consisting of ice cream and cake, which were served on the church lawn. All enjoyed themselves and the program receives its thanks for all the aid given in its work.

The brotherhood meeting at Laurel was attended Monday evening by Professors Birch, Hebban and Baxen, with the pastor. Prof. Britel, district president of the Laymen's association, was the principal speaker. Thirty men of Laurel were present, and a good evening was spent together.

Presbyterian Church.

(Rev. Alexander Corley, Pastor.)

"Getting Our Full Reward" will be the subject of the pastor's sermon at the Presbyterian church next Sunday morning. The pastor's last Sabbath at Laurel, as he and his family leave next week for Michigan where they will spend the month of July with Mrs. Corley's parents at Long Lake, near Kalamazoo. The regular services will be suspended during the vacation time, the pulpit being supplied by visiting ministers, except during the last two Sundays in July, when the morning preaching service will be omitted. The Sunday school will meet regularly during July and August at 12 o'clock.

The regular service at 8 o'clock and the evangelist service at 8 o'clock. The C. E. prayer meeting begins at 7 p.m.

"The Greatest School in the World" will be the subject of the evening sermon by the pastor next Sunday. The Ladies Aid society will hold a social meeting at the home of Mrs. Clara Ellis next Wednesday afternoon, and all the ladies of the congregation are invited to be present. This will be the last social meeting of the society for the summer.

Evangelist Lindgren had charge of the midweek service this week on Wednesday evening. Mr. Lindgren's clear explications of the scriptures have been greatly enjoyed during his visit to Wayne, and his bible readings have been exceedingly popular. He makes the bible a practical, everyday book, and gives a very plain explanation as well as the theologian, can give a reason for the hope that is within him if only he uses ordinary diligence in the study of the sacred scriptures.

The missionary laws social at the home of Mrs. Ash last week was largely attended and a very pleasant profitable afternoon was spent by the ladies. Automobiles conveyed the party to the Ash home and a generous supper was enjoyed before the return journey was begun.

BURGLARY AT PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

Some time within the last few days, some miscreants entered the Presbyterian church and stole the contents of the primary department missionary box, consisting of several dollars in pennies. It has been ascertained that the box was in the church in the upstairs primary room, but robbery even in a church seems possible in Wayne. The thieves have not yet been discovered, but efforts are being made to locate them. Hereafter, the money will be kept in the bank's strong box.

LECTURE AT THE GRAVE M. E. CHURCH.

Rev. Alexander Corley will lecture at the Grace M. E. church on Friday evening of this week, under the auspices of the Epworth league. He will deliver his popular Irish lecture.

PRESBYTERIANS AT BELDEN PLAN TO ORGANIZE A CHURCH.

Rev. Joel Warner, a veteran Presbyterian minister of Nebraska, has been invited to Belden by a number of people there who are anxious to organize a Presbyterian church. Mr. Warner will visit the field this week, remaining for a month or two in order to complete arrangements for the organization of the church.

After All The "Advo" Grocery Is The Place To Trade.

"I've made the rounds, but must confess I could not get entire satisfaction in groceries until I tried the Advo. Their goods give me the best satisfaction, and I suppose it's because their years of experience have taught them how to judge the best goods. These Advo canned goods, Advo coffees and teas bear any that I have ever used." This statement from a lady who has "made the rounds" is typical of all. This is but one of many satisfied patrons. Our years of experience have been the means of enabling us to judge quality and when we sell you a line of goods has merit, you may depend upon it. That is why we sell the entire line of Advo goods; our stock is not all mixed up with different brands of goods; so you know what you get the Advo brands.

LOBBYISTS' FILING EXPENSE ACCOUNTS

Lincoln, June 18.—Lobbyists are filing expense accounts with the secretary of state. Frank Ransom of Omaha, says that he spent nothing during the recent session of the legislature. He represented the Omaha stock yards, a contractor at the Burlington railroad, expended $17.45, invested principally in food and other things.

G. W. Holdgren, general manager of the Burlington, says that there were 107 bills pertaining to the Burlington and he paid Judge Jesse L. Root $3000 to see that their bills went the right way. In addition to this, he spent $19,910.01 for stenographers, witnesses, postage stamps and the like.

Judge Root's Income.

Judge Root admits that he received the $3000 from the Burlington railway, a like amount from the Union Pacific, $173.01 from the Rock Island, $2533.33 from the Missouri Pacific, and $763.33 from the Northwestern, as attorney fees and expenses in giving advice to the committees of the legislature as to what a railroad wanted.

E. G. Flynn of the Burlington, invested $213.95 in the work of lobbying.

Union Pacific Expenses.

Charles W. Ware, general manager of the Union Pacific, handed over $3,331.76 as payment of expenses of witnesses, stenographers, attorney fees and other items.

W. M. Anderson, assistant superintendent of the Union Pacific, says there were 184 bills of interest to the railroad he represented.

He paid out $482.75 trying to carry on the work of the lobby, $365 of which was spent for hotel bills, $22.75 for telephone messages and $95 for incidentals.

S. B. Braden, general superintendent of the Northwestern, donated $2,759.10 which included attorneys' fees, feed, hotel expenses for witnesses and other minor items.

FOR INTERURBAN LINE—Omaha. June 18.—Evidently N. J. Baker of the Baker Construction Company which is behind the construction of the interurban line between Omaha and Sioux City, with a branch to the northwest from some point near West Point, touching Norfolk and West Point as a section of the line.

According to Mr. Baker, construction work is now under way at a number of points. It is believed by many railroad men, though denied by Baker, that the Milwaukee road is financing the project.

TO AUTOMOBILE DRIVERS.

Drivers of automobiles have been violating the speed law within the limits of Wayne, and they are hereby notified that arrests will follow unless the practice is stopped. Also, they are required to file the motor vehicle license within 48 hours after failure to do so, or they will be guilty unless liable to prosecution. The law governing the operation of automobiles within the city limits of Wayne must be obeyed. George Miner, City Marshal. J1922AG

ATLISON GLOBE SIGHTS.

Brothers are a great institution to give a girl the notion that she is a Princess.

While a man should have great confidence in his wife, he shouldn't teach her to shoot.

"I never give all my brain for her 'society,'" said an Atlison.

To a girl friend at a late reception as they were discussing a beautiful visiting woman. "Do you think the sacrifice would be very great?" asked her brother.

"Yes, it would be very great," she replied, "but not the two beautiful lamps walk home together from the reception."

An Atlison girl who spends much of her time visiting, has made a study of the art and is a very successful one. One of the first things she does upon arriving is to call her hostess and family in her own and receive every thing she owns. She carries boxes, trays and trunks to the bottom layer. She says it saves her hostess the trouble of sweeping among her things when she is out.

While reading bible stories to her little 7-year-old daughter lately, an Atlison woman was asked to see what she seemed deeply interested in a picture of "Jacob's Heavenly Dream," and studied intently over the host of angels coming down the stairs from heaven. The mother waited for some words and holy thought to be expressed by the baby, but she bit her lip and appointed. "They had awfully tucky-looking angels in those days, mother," said the up-to-the-minute child, finally. "They are bow-legged, and besides, their skirts are so luscious and fall."

VALUABLE CROP.

Francis Phillips. The harvesting of the first crop of alfalfa is a reminder of the wonderful productivity of that remarkable forage plant. To be able to cut three full crops in a season in this latitude makes it exceedingly profitable. A few years ago it was not regarded so much as a feed, but it has steadily risen in esteem until now it is reckoned as one of the best. In the form of hay, it is excellent for horses and cattle, and is even eaten with avidity by pigs and chickens. Ground and mixed with molasses makes an excellent feed for all kinds of livestock that consumes the very highest price. There are many factories in the country devoted to this industry and it promises to grow into a very important one. A crop that can be harvested three times in a season is of the utmost value to a country adapted to its production.

But there is an additional advantage in alfalfa. Not only is it a tremendous producer, but it does much in the way of renewing the soil. It is a paradox in science that it should take so much out of the soil and at the same time increase the soil's fertility, but that is what it actually does. Its penetrating roots open up the earth, and the bacteria of the plant bring about chemical changes that greatly enrich the soil. Thus, as a rotating crop, alfalfa becomes valuable. It has an advantage over other crops in that it produces more crops a year, all other things being equal.

Farmers in this section should learn to more and more employ alfalfa in their farm operations. It is invaluable for growing hogs and sheep. In fact, we do see them coming to it year after year.

Wayne People Give Credit Where Credit is Due.

People of Wayne who suffer with weak kidneys and had backs wate a kidney remedy that can be depended upon. Doan's Kidney Pills is a medicine for the kidneys only, and one that is backed by willing testimony of every people that has used it.

Mrs. J. C. Hanson, Wayne, Neb., says: "I have no reason to withdraw anything from the public statement I gave three years ago recommending Doan's Kidney Pills. I had a serious attack of kidney complaint and I suffered terribly from headaches, dizzy spells and a tired, languid feeling. The kidney secretions were unnatural and I had a dull, heavy ache through my loins. In a few days after I began using Doan's Kidney Pills, I felt better and the improvement continued until all the symptoms of my complaint disappeared.
