Ed. J. Raymond sold his residence at public auction Saturday afternoon, and E. W. Hunt bought the property for $1100. Being a house at auction was something new here, but it is not uncommon in many localities. A considerable crowd gathered at the residence at the appointed hour, and Auctioneer Fred Jarvis of Carroll, had charge of the proceedings, with H. S. Ringland officiating as clerk. Bidding started at $4,000, jumping quickly to $4,800, then $4,650, and finally $4,600. No one seemed willing at the time to go above that mark, though a few have expressed regret since then that they did not buy the figure. Some think it brought enough, while most people conversant with the cost of building, believe it is worth considerable more than the amount paid for it. The new owner will take possession about August 1.

placed on S. 1/2 N. W. 1/4 S. W. 1/4 of 6-26-3, near barn, which was assessed at $200 as assessed valuation, was struck from the list for the reason that the same was assessed in the 1912 assessment.

Come now Henry Valkamp and says that for the year 1913, he was assessed with a mortgage of $6,000 actual valuation, or $1,200 assessed valuation, but by reason of holding such mortgage, he bought other land in Wayne county, and gave a mortgage back to $6,000 in all - or gave a mortgage for $6,000 and assumed a $3,000 making $9,000 in all, and he now asks that this mortgage be stricken from the list for the reason that it is an offset under the law. Board after due consideration strikes the assessment from taxation.

Whereupon board adjourned to August 6, 1913.

Mora Was a Good Cook, With Positive Opinions on Wedlock. Johannes Brahms, the famous German composer, was a hearty eater and particularly fond of Italian cookery. One day he and Dr. Bilroth, the eminent Austrian surgeon, visited Herr Wichmann in Rome and were invited to a breakfast with the young man. The host's cook, Mora, did her prettiest, and the wife supplemented her efforts. Brahms' thoughts were on the viand. He had just enjoyed, in jovial humor he raised the question whether it was not his duty to come back with him to Germany a wife who could provide so admirably a meal as Mora. Finally Wichmann, with mock seriousness, pointed him off to Mora as an auditor for her hand in behalf of the great German artist. "Moreover, he is a musician," he explained, "and you surely are fond of music, for you sing about the house all day. What say you?" Mora's answer was eloquent. She looked at Wichmann, then at Brahms, from top to toe and, with energetic gesture, replied, "Some romania, mata al Fante Rottio dove il tempio dove il Vesuvio, non spessero un barbaro." ("I am a Roman, born near the Ponte Rottio, where the temple of Vesuvius stands. I never will marry a barbarian.")

Prosperity For One Is Prosperity For All

By HOLLAND. If you are a farmer the value of your farm depends on the value of the adjoining farm, and the value of both depends on the value of property in the nearest village or town. Farms near prosperous towns are always more valuable than those near dead or dying centers. And this is true without regard to the fertility of the soil. The farmer depends on the town just as the town depends on the farmer. Their destinies are interrelated; their interests are common. What hurts one hurts the other. Poor crops will affect the city resident who does not even raise radishes, and depressed business affairs affect the farmer who depends on soil, water and outside for his living. Money sent to mail-order houses helps to turn thriving towns and cities into dead centers, thereby depreciates the value of farm land. It decreases the population of the towns that must directly supply the products of the farm. It lowers the price for butter and eggs, for chickens and for fruits and vegetables. So, Mr. Farmer, if you deal with a mail order house in a distant city you are taking a course that takes from the value of your farm, that renders it less desirable as a place of residence and less productive of profit. You can't follow a system that injures your neighbors without being compelled to consider some of the expense yourself. Take the safer course and SPEND YOUR MONEY WHERE YOU MAKE IT.

The Quality of Life. It is not fortune or personal advantage, but our turning this to account, that constitutes the value of life. Fame and riches are the least part of the opportunity is the thing—Charles Wagner.

Completed St. Peter. A Boston correspondent has a witty Irishman stood before the gate of the other world asking for admission. St. Peter refused him, however, telling him he was too stout to enter. The man went a little distance from the gate and then crossed three times like a rooster. St. Peter at once threw open the gate and cried out: "Come in, Pat! Well let bygones be bygones!"

Played the Limit. Advertisers Are in Good Company

By HOLLAND. MR. BUSINESS MAN, have you ever thought that advertising puts you in good company? It is an old saying that a man is known by the company he keeps. When you join the ranks of the advertisers you join the ranks of the biggest and most successful merchants and manufacturers of the world. How many concerns can you name in Chicago, in New York, in Kansas City, in Boston, in any large city in the country? Name them and you will realize that all our big advertisers and all are leaders in their lines. Ask your friends to name the most successful merchants they know in the big cities and in each case the name of a great advertiser will be mentioned. The same is true of smaller cities and towns. The successful merchants are the advertisers. The advertiser stamps himself as a man of confidence in himself and his wares, as one proud of his calling and seeking publicity and the best of advantage. JOIN THE RANKS OF SUCCESSFUL ADVERTISERS.

SATURDAY EVENING SAW A PHOTOGRAPHED SESSION.

Saturday evening saw a protracted session, when the interest was so great that it was "doubtless" that the following morning saw the two devotees at church as usual. The vestryman proceeded up the aisle with his staid, making brief but profitable remarks at each pew. With careless grace the widow dropped a half dollar on the "freely" offering collection. "Some again, sister," said the vestryman softly but distinctly in the auditor's ear. "The limit has not been changed." The widow heard and saw and made good—Argonaut.

"Clincher" Paint

We know a paint which holds to the wood like a driven nail. Seasoned lumber is porous. The pores are the empty capcells. White lead paint, which dries on the wood in the form of a solid, elastic film, fastens into these pores, and the whole coat of paint is actually riveted like armor-plate to the surface it decorates and protects.

Red Seal-White Lead Dutch Boy Painter Trade Mark and Dutch Boy Lined Oil

make the paint that spreads into a solid body, it becomes a part of the wood itself—an outer layer that preserves the life of the lumber.

We sell it, as well as other painting requisites. Come in and have a talk with us about painting.

An Advertisement Is a Challenge

By HOLLAND. THE man who advertises is fearless. He courts the light. He dares all and sundry to put him to the test. "This is what I say," he says in effect. "Can you beat it? Can you do better elsewhere? Make comparisons and then do business with me only if you find it to your advantage." "There is nothing hidden about the advertiser. He stands up for himself, for his goods, for his reputation, for his town. He wants every body to know him, to know his methods of business and his manner of treating customers. This makes it safe to do business with him. Having spent much money making advertisements, he cannot afford to have it tarnished, and he will go much more than halfway in an effort to make his advertisement shine. That is not of his making. He wants to tell more than the truth to do more than what he really wants. DEAL WITH ADVERTISERS FOR A SQUARE DEAL.

Turkish Names. On our visiting list are Mrs. Elyci, Mrs. Tolly, Mrs. Apples and Mrs. Nightingale. I am also happy enough to possess the acquaintance of Mrs. Sweetest, Mrs. Diamond Mrs. Alr—though some know her as Mother Bro. Miss Max-Sher-Lamp and Mother He-Walded. This last appellation seemed to me so curious that I inquired into it and learned that my young gentlemen were to be born. These are not surnames, you understand, but no Turk owns such a thing. To call one Mrs. Elizabeth from mother or you add the name of her man. And in his case all you can do is to tack on his father's—you could hardly say Christian—name—H. D. Dwight is a

Early Saxon Customs and the Advent of the Flaming Veil. In the old days, as now, the bride generally dressed in white. From early Saxon times down to the eighteenth century a bride of the poorer classes came to the wedding arrayed in a plain white robe—a public-appealing habit since she brought nothing to the marriage—her husband was not responsible for her debts. Brides soon began to add some little touch of color. Blue was for constancy and green for youth, but in some places these might not be used because of feuds between families having these tints in their liveries. Yellow might not be worn, as it stood for jealousy; golden might not, as it meant avarice.

The Anglo-Saxon bride went to the wedding with her hair hanging loose as a sign of freedom; but upon reaching her new home immediately bound it up as a sign of submissiveness. In the days of Shakespeare the veil began to take the place of the flowing tresses, but this, however, was not original with the British, for centuries earlier the Roman and Hebrew brides had worn gowns with veils, while the early Christians of southern Europe had adopted both hair and veils to one large cloth. Whatever was lacking, however, in gorgeousness of dress was compensated among all the nations by the profusion of flowers chosen for their significance—Duoce Romae Maritima

A very pretty home wedding took place at Mrs. F. G. Wadsworth's at noon Monday, when Mr. James Simonin and Miss Alice Wadsworth were joined in marriage, in the presence of the immediate families. The bride is the youngest daughter of Mrs. F. G. Wadsworth and has lived in Wayne since childhood. She is a graduate of the Wayne State Normal, was one of Wayne county's successful teachers, a young lady of excellent qualities and holy ideals. She was very beautifully dressed in white marquisette-trimmed in shadow lace.

The groom is the son of Mrs. J. H. Simonin, living two miles south of town. He also successfully taught in Wayne county, and for about two years has been a mail clerk, working between St. Paul and Aberdeen. He is a noble character, a conscientious worker, one of these young people are connected with the Baptist church of Wayne, and are highly esteemed by all who know them. Guests from away were Mr. Cash Wadsworth of Winnebago, and Misses Lena and Orea Cress of Pigeon. The ring ceremony was used, and immediately after it was over an excellent dinner was served. Rev. B. P. Richardson, pastor of the Baptist church, officiated. Mr. and Mrs. Simonin left on the afternoon train for St. Paul, where they will be at home to their friends at 415 Holly avenue.
