Automobiles, Luxurious feeding and surgical operations figure largely and conspicuously in the high cost of living.

With harvest fields calling for labor, there is no excuse for an able-bodied man to tramp around seeking for help.

The use of more paint in the business district would give conspicuous improvement at little cost. If the fronts of business buildings were properly repainted, the appearance would be made wonderfully better.

If people were more reasonable and more considerate of the sensitivities of one another, there would be far less worry in the world. There is often no occasion for worry except an active imagination and the selfish policy of others.

Senator Cummins has prepared a bill providing a prison term of not more than five years or a fine of $5,000 or both for any person who seeks to influence a member of congress or any official.

Scientists announce as a result of investigations covering ten years, that they will soon be able to forecast the weather a year ahead.

New families move to Wayne every week. They come here because it is the center of an exceptionally rich agricultural country; because of its growing State Normal and excellent city schools; because it is progressive under the impetus of a wide awake citizenship.

Half an hour's walk brings the pedestrian to Altengrues (Reuss, Younger, and Co. factory). An ever-fertile Drognitz, on Prussian soil, and the last stage is another hour's stroll, finishing up at Suhlthau, Saxo-Altenburg, Exchange.

Mrs. E. DeVonne Bowles, formerly corset fitter in Madison Genesee, New York City, will show all the 1913 models of the style-famous "Nubone Corsets" in the Briton Building, opposite old post office, next Saturday, July 12th.

Mrs. Jane Barnett will handle the line in this territory and endeavor to give perfect fitting corsets to all customers. When you want a good dip see G. W. Fortner, Feed Mill.

It needs a new modern hotel building, new open houses, paved streets, and a system of electric lights for lighting. Thus, the business district needs to be modernized and brought up to the standard of the rest of the town, and the surrounding country.

The Herald editor will soon move into the residence bought by him at auction recently, and hopes to quickly become adjusted to the manners of the Fayetteville neighborhood. The fact that the editor has been offered a considerable advance over the price paid for the property would be a credit to his business sagacity if he had not acted largely on the advice of someone schooled in real values.

It is somewhat more capacious than the editor has been accustomed to, and accordingly he has been informed that he will have the use of our extra room for his own office. He knows how to make a fairly respectable showing at night when he hangs up the other boys wears, but wonders if the closest won't feel homesick during the time he spends in the city.

There is enough energy wanted in picking the typewriter in "today," "to-night" and "to-morrow" every week day to haul a passenger train around the world.

It takes an ounce of energy to make three to run a typewriter machine, and three to make it on a typesetting machine, and the statistician has figured that typesetting and typesetting are about equal in energy.

FATE OF A WORLD

Its Course From Chaos to Its Hopeless Death Struggle.

THREE ACTS IN THE TRAGEDY

The First is Shown by Jupiter, the Second by the Earth and the Third by Mars.

No stage was ever set for such a tragedy as the planet Mars presents. It is the last act in the drama of a world's history.

The first act in such a drama consists of scenes from chaos. The huge planet Jupiter offers on a spectacle of this kind in its treatment of thick clouds and its swirling vapors.

The second act is represented by the earth, with its little crescent, its color, its swirling atmosphere and its life sustaining seas that give birth to the clouds which condensing on the mountains furnish the rains and set the rivers flowing.

The third act is the role of Mars, where the seas have vanished, the atmosphere has thinned out, the rivers have disappeared, the continents have turned into deserts, and life driven into a corner, is battling against final extinction.

That there is yet intelligent life on Mars is the universal belief of all the observers whom Mr. Lowell has gathered about him.

With them it has become simply a question of brain power against the forces of nature.

They have nights and days of the same length as ours. They have seasons almost precisely corresponding to ours.

In such a situation no vegetation can grow, and a civilization established by a gigantic system of irrigation.

Why, when the inhabitants of Mars derive the water needed for irrigation? The answer given is that they get it periodically from the melting of the snows.

It takes an ounce of energy to make three to run a typewriter machine, and three to make it on a typesetting machine, and the statistician has figured that typesetting and typesetting are about equal in energy.

While it is well known that some of the German states are aware that it is quite impossible to visit seven of them, including two duchies and three principalities, in an "easy walk" for and a half day.

This Is Your Town And It Is What You Make It

By HOLLAND. What makes a town? People and business.

You are one of the people. What you buy makes the business. The more you buy the better the business; the more business the better the town.

You want the town to grow and improve. Don't you? Then you should help it to grow by increasing its business as much as you can.

Every time you send enough goods to your town a blow. Enough of these blows will ultimately kill the town.

The small other houses do nothing for your town except try to kill it. Are you helping them? You are if you send your money to them for goods that you could buy at home.

SPEND YOUR MONEY WHERE YOU MAKE IT.

Butter and Eggs And Merchandising

By HOLLAND.

MC. FARMER do you spend money with mail order houses? Do you send your cash to Chicago or New York while doing a credit business with your local merchant? You do not? Then we congratulate you and beg to say that these words are addressed to the man who does.

You, Mr. Mail Order House Patron, should think a few thoughts before buying another money order or draft payable in Chicago. Think what sort of welcome you would receive if you went to that big Chicago concern with a few pounds of butter or a few dozen eggs! Would the Chicago concern buy your eggs, think you? Would it take your butter and give you in exchange sugar that is sold at such a narrow margin of profit that the weighing must be careful and close or there will be a loss? Hardly.

The mail order house insists on cash-cash in advance. There is no bargaining and no credit. It is "Send me your money first if you want my goods."

It will be to your advantage to send your real money where you take your butter, and eggs.

Advertiser's Aim Is Satisfaction

By HOLLAND.

OF the biggest retail concerns in the world, with stores in two of America's largest cities, and who naturally is one of the largest advertisers in the world, insists that his advertisement writers confine themselves to strict truth, and any promise made by one of his clerks is considered to have been made personally by the head of the firm.

A woman bought a fine tablecloth, and after she had it home there was a slight imperfection found. It was nothing to affect the wear of the tablecloth, but she took it back, explaining that she had paid a high price for the article and that she had looked it over for her "best." She was somewhat apologetic for returning a purchase with such a slight imperfection.

"You are a stranger in this city," asked the floorwalker, and the woman nodded. "I thought so," he said, "you do not understand our system. That you expect that tablecloth would sound like home-sown and as an insurance. When you buy here you must be satisfied. If you are dissatisfied for any reason, you are not fair to us unless you tell us and give us a chance to satisfy you."

That spirit is behind big advertisers everywhere. It is another reason for doing business with advertisers.

Satisfying a Customer Carried to an Extreme

By HOLLAND.

A WOMAN who bought a dress which she found was just what she wanted and went with it to one of the biggest stores in the world and said it did not suit her. She explained her money had been expended but she had lost the sales slip. The store manager was given to her the sales slip and discovered that she had not bought the dress at the store to which she had taken it and bought it at a rival establishment. She went to the store and explained.

"Why, how you had not bought the dress here," explained the manager, "but you were palpably dissatisfied with it and our aim is to satisfy all our customers. If we have impressed on your mind the fact that we are not satisfied with our merchandise, we covet no reputation as we are sure you will think that this was carrying fairness too far. Perhaps it was, but it was done by the customer's request of this one whose name is known wherever the English language is spoken and who has spent three for advertising run up to a million dollars a year."

Successful advertisers know that the customer's return of an invaluable asset, you have an advantage in dealing with successful advertisers.

Noise was not invented by the American people, but they have done more to develop it than any one else. If you doubt this go to a dinner party given by an American society woman. The manufacture of noise in most countries is produced by natural causes. In America it is the work of specialists. There are more people taking a living out of noise in this country than anywhere else on earth. Scientists are constantly trying to invent new noises. We depend as much upon new, fresh noises as we do upon new novels, new plays and new advertisements. Noise consists of vibrations, arranged in the noisiest way. A loud noise is not to be despised, but the best of all noises is the one that is softest from any other we have ever heard. Huge factories are devoted to the production of noise. It is canned, uncaned and strong on wires. Noise by succeeds like noise. When we reach the millennium we shall live on noiseless noise. Faster the day!—Life.

Genial Matthew Arnold.

In his "Memories" Hon. Stephen Coleridge draws this picture of Matthew Arnold:

"Of the soul I have known in the flesh he was by far the most interesting and charming—full of humor and geniality, with a blend of the Olympian manner that was perfectly delightful to all who understood him! Children were never afraid of or shy with him, and he would discourse with them magnificently about their toys, assigning startling qualities to them with a twinkling gravity till the children discovered new wonders about the familiar playthings never before suspected."

"He persuaded my son Johnnie, when he was about three years old, that his mother—knowing what she bore and kept on the job at succeeding visits and sent him books with inscriptions, 'Johnnie' from his affectionate nurse."

WHAT EIGHT SWEDES FROM NEBRASKA SAY ABOUT WESTERN NEW YORK FARMERS...

Having spent three days in traveling through Ontario and Seneca counties, New York, and after a most careful and painstaking investigation of land and general farming conditions, we wish to put ourselves on record in declaring these farms in the strongest possible terms. Like most western people, we had an idea that New York land was worthless and worn out, and its character consisted of scenery. However, we find the reverse is the case and it is the fertility of the soil, the heavy crops and the general air of prosperity which most appealed to us...

ATLANTIC GLOBE SIGNER. If there is some occasion for you to cry for a relief of suffering in this world it is due to pessimistic imagination. As the mercury goes up, a town gardener's enthusiasm is apt to go down. Probably you have traveled enough to know that most of the navigable rivers aren't navigable. Doubtless there are plenty of prominent club men who don't figure in novels or the police court. It is a man gets more than one black eye in the western market, which is a mighty big item. It is one thing to grow big crops, and another to get a big market for them.

It is no longer fashionable to wear enough hair for a mattress. Hats are sufficient for some, while others need a chapeau. A new dance which is supposed to be the extreme opposite of the tango and the like, is known as the purity dance, and consists chiefly of keeping a respectful distance from your partner, which is an excellent thing during this warm weather.

An Archdeacon bachelor wants to know why in the name of St. Hill a married man does not pick up and read the newspapers that are thrown on the porch during his wife's absence from town. A North Archdeacon man whose wife and children have been seen for the first time in front of his residence lately for enough to permit of his going in on account of the accumulation of newspapers. The bachelor wants to know whether a "sauntering widower" does not care to keep up with the world's doing with his wife's absence.

We wish also to herewith express our thanks to the people of Seneca county for the courteous and liberal treatment accorded us during the trip. They certainly do everything in their power to make the excursion a pleasant and agreeable one, and at the same time use every means to show the possibilities of this country which they are working. Occasionally you meet a man who says he never gambles. Doubtless there are bachelors who have never been in a saloon.

It is a man gets more than one black eye in the western market, which is a mighty big item. It is one thing to grow big crops, and another to get a big market for them. We are all delighted with the general attractiveness of these two counties, and believe that they offer an ideal place in which to live. The town are prosperous and busy; the farms well looked after; the country in general is rolling, well drained, and on account of the thousands of fruit and shade trees, the flowers and vineyards, the lakes and fine drives, it looks like a garden. There are these so productive farms sold at such a price! After making inquiries regarding existing conditions from personal observation, we came to the conclusion that it is first-class farmers the country needs. The children are well educated and are needed in the offices of the many industries that are to be found in every town and city of the land. The work has been replenished when there is a shortage by the incoming Scandinavians and Germans, but the east has not been so fortunate. There is a serious lack of farming ability. In conclusion, we wish to say that we have had a most enjoyable and beyond all expectations, and we heartily recommend the community and territory to our countrymen to investigate for themselves. Let us as Swedes people take hold of an opportunity such as is seldom offered. We wish also to herewith express our thanks to the people of Seneca county for the courteous and liberal treatment accorded us during the trip.

Wound Infection....

Now is the time of year when we must begin to fear wound infections and lockjaw. The children are going barefoot and are liable to wounds from rusty nails, stubble, sticks, etc.; wounds, accompanied by jagged tears, in which dirt has been ground, thus keeping out the fresh air and oxygen. A clean, open wound, which bleeds freely is little apt to have the germs of lockjaw as the light and air and oxygen striking into it kill them, and the bleeding washes them out. These germs are most widely distributed, being abundant in garden soil, stable bedding, street dirt, and that which has been fertilized; they may be on rusty nails, pitchforks and implements which are used, rarely, however. Following a wound, begin to use our plain disinfectant, general wound, and ointment with slight stiffness of the neck or of the muscles of the jaw, you have a well-developed case of lockjaw, and there is no time to be lost. We would suggest that you get this there was no cure for such, but today, by the aid of antitoxin, a large percentage can be saved, providing the physician is called in time. A wound should be washed with clean water, flooded with peroxide, and wrapped in a strip of antiseptic bandage. Then, even though the wound be small, it is well to have a doctor dress it. This small fee is money well invested. It may buy only a few minutes, but a long and painful illness, not then again, it may buy insurance against death. DR. LUTGEN
