WAYNE CHAUTAUQUA BRINGS USUAL CROWD

Initial program on Sunday... One unexpected change in program... Wayne chautauqua did not open as anticipated this year...

The crowd has been of a high order... The program was well received... The chautauqua has been running along in a systematic and generally satisfactory manner.

Miss Luan McKee of Topeka, Kas., is in charge of the Sunday sessions... The attendance has apparently been as great as that of any previous year.

Monday afternoon's program by Chautauque George H. Bradford encouraged more attention to education and character training among the young people.

On Monday evening, Mr. L. H. Wier, secretary of the American Playground Association, spoke on "The Home Play as a Recreation." He urged that every town should have a systematic provision for the play of its children.

The Larger Success

financial success, if you will notice, comes to the men who make use of a bank account for conserving and protecting their income and accumulating their financial affairs.

This doesn't "just happen," it is one of the primary laws of success that the man who would accumulate money must have method in the handling of his income.

No other plan is so methodical, so systematic, so easy to acquire, so easy to follow up, so safe, so sure as depositing your income in a home bank and paying your bills by check.

There is no expense attached to starting an account at this bank. Will you open an account with us, and give this plan a fair trial?

EVANGELIST DENIES CHARGE OF OUBELTY

Present, Neb., August 26.—The Rev. M. Blyen, the evangelist against whom a complaint was filed at Meadow Grove at the close of revival meetings he had held here, that he has been greatly prejudiced.

"I was driven away from Meadow Grove largely through malicious stories," said Mr. Blyen. "I was conducting revival meetings on a farm and when the impression got out that I was trying to secure some money from a farmer. His relatives wanted to get rid of me, so they started a story that I had beaten my wife. I did not beat my wife, although it is said that the left eye had been returned to her home in Kansas, taking out baby along. The trouble with her parents was due solely to an attempt to defend myself when her father threatened me. It is not true that I was placed upon a prison bond."

Mr. Blyen wrote out the following statement which he requested be printed.

"I should know the truth, and the truth shall make you free (John 8:32). As to my being arrested on the charge of wife beating, it is a false statement. I was correcting my child as I should. Wife interested, I caught her, that was all. People like to get something on a court of God. As to my being under a peace bond as a similar charge in Kansas, it is a lie. God knows who is to blame. Let people keep still who don't know."

"T. J. Blyen."

Mrs. Smith who was shot, was formerly of England, and was well known in Carroll, where she lived for many years, and was also well known in Wayne. The grief-stricken parents will have the sympathy of many friends.

The following account of the tragedy occurred in Sunday morning's Omaha Bee: A letter found on the body of Robert Smith, who fatally wounded his wife and then committed suicide by cutting his throat yesterday morning, disclosed the fact that the tragedy occurred at the residence of Henry Penner, 2111 North Twenty-second street, had been planned by Smith several hours previously.

The missive was enclosed in an envelope without address, and apparently was intended for Smith's mother in Omaha.

"Well, mother, I have decided to settle this trouble. Mrs. Wehling, 1810 California, is the leader of the affair; she has caused it all, and I will settle it all. Thank God, we will go together.

"Please send Mrs. George Yarbans word about this, and let her understand, Telephone to Mrs. George Yarbans, Carroll, Neb. Tell her Bert and Maude had trouble. She will come and get the girl. I am going to go to Maude this morning to do the work."

The envelope bore the interoffice of the Des Moines hotel, and also contained instructions as to the storing of some personal belongings.

Child Feared Wounded Mother. Following the tragedy, and the arrival of Mrs. Smith in a hospital, Mildred Marshall, the 7-year-old daughter, was taken to the home of Officer Sam Egan, 1806 North Twenty-fourth street, next door to the house in which her mother and step-father lived up to three weeks ago. In the afternoon, Mrs. Egan took the child to the hospital to see the mother, but despite the injured woman's pleas, the little girl would not approach the bed, fearing her mother's strange appearance.

The child's greatest concern seemed to be over the fact that Mr. Penner, her mother's employer, would have no one to cook his supper. "And it's all that bad man's fault. Don't call him my papa, for he isn't," she said.

Mrs. E. W. Wain, 1810 California, with whom Mrs. Smith made her home the week following the separation, said the following story: "The day following Labor day in September, 1912, Mr. and Mrs. Smith were residing and cooking house, keeping rooms. From the first week of my house Mr. Smith acted the part of a very fiend toward his wife, flying in to rages at the slightest provocation, and time and again threatened to take his knife and child. They remained with me until March, but about Christ, mass time a serious quarrel caused me to order them from beneath my roof.

"Smith on this occasion threw the contents of the sugar bowl at his wife's face, and struck her with his fist and with a window stick. He then caught the child and threatened to dash her brains out against the stove, when I interposed, and ordered him from the house. His wife remained with me until they stayed until Mrs. Smith secured a house.

"Smith, I am confident, was a maniac, for his rages were unprovoked and terrible. Many times while they were at my table, I saw him throw the contents of his plate in his wife's face. He was not a drinking man, and during the time they lived with me, he was employed by the National Roofing company, and provided well for his family.

"During the twenty-one days of separation preceding the tragedy, Smith had repeatedly caught his wife with persons and threats toward her returning beneath his roof. I stated that he would not do so, but he had no effect on her determination to remain apart. Friday evening, according to the statement of the child, Mildred, her mother had promised to meet Smith and kill her in the affair. She called to go on Saturday morning. Smith entered the rear door of the Penner home and started abusing his wife for failing to keep the meeting. George Penner, 14 years old, was in the kitchen at the time, and heard the conversation that came before the shooting.

Wife Wants to Go With Him. Smith attempted to persuade his wife to go with him. She refused point blank, and the husband suggested that they commit suicide by taroing on the gas in the bedroom in which the conversation took place. She told him he was crazy.

CHILDREN ON WAY TO IOWA STOPPED HERE

LITTLE TOTS START OUT ALONE Quietly Slipped Away from Home, Near Norfolk, at an Early Hour—Restored to Parents.

When the passenger train arrived here Saturday morning from Norfolk, it was learned that two little children who had left home, near Norfolk, unknown to their parents, were aboard the train when it was waiting. Agent W. Moran received a telegram requesting him to take the children from the train and send them back to Norfolk on the 10 o'clock passenger, which he did. The children were timid, and he did not like to talk.

"The children were timid, and he did not like to talk. The children were timid, and he did not like to talk. The children were timid, and he did not like to talk.

REMARKABLE CURE OF DYSENTERY

"I was attacked with dysentery about July 15, and used the doctor's medicine and other remedies with no relief, only getting worse all the time. I was unable to do anything, and my weight dropped from 145 to 125 pounds. I suffered for about two months, when I was advised to use Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. I used two bottles of it and it gave me permanent relief. Dr. W. H. Wain, of 2111 North Twenty-second St., Omaha, Neb., told me of this cure. He is a dealer in Chamberlain's Remedy."

Governor Morehead has decided to follow the example of Missouri by setting aside two days for a mighty road-building campaign. The work will carry both in the state to turn out all work on the roads. Such a gigantic movement, if carried out practically, would work wonders for better roads.

The Lincoln Journal calls attention to the fact that the dress which every body in the state to turn out all work on the roads. Such a gigantic movement, if carried out practically, would work wonders for better roads.

People in Kansas, where crops are a total failure, have not lost their courage. They have they put on the brakes in the matter of living expenses, according to reports. They had had a long series of good years, and had generally grown well off. They can miss a year's returns without seriously hurting them, without serious inconvenience. It is said they are not denying themselves any of the comforts or pleasures of living just because they have lost a year's crops. They have an abundance of stored wealth, and have every reason to feel assured that coming years will treat them better. It was different twenty years ago. Then everybody was hard up. Now, nearly everybody is comfortably fixed, and can view the future without fear of distress.

A newspaper man in a neighboring town has questioned the value of the task involved in gathering the string of personal notices appearing in the Herald each week. Every paper contains some personal paragraphs. Often a publication mentions only those who happen to be observed by the editor without effort on his part, and by which the editor and his staff are made small number—usually about the same offer every week—receiver situation. That policy shows partiality, gives recognition to some and ignores the majority. If it is desirable to mention anyone who gives or comes it is desirable to mention all. That is the aim of the Herald. It believes its readers are interested in personal news, and therefore spends effort and money constantly to keep up and strengthen that feature. The Herald contains a large volume of such news because it goes after it, and it does not discriminate. Whether one is acquainted with the editor or not, whether one is friendly or unfriendly to the paper, his going or coming is noted with the utmost care if the fact can be ascertained, and everyone is on the job all the time to get the facts.

AS TO BROTHERLY LOVE.

In an editorial defending his ugly attitude toward the contemporary publisher of the editor of the Pioneer Republic contends that "there is no such thing as brotherly love in actual practice." The editor of the Republic used to preach the gospel of the Nazarene, and invited people to follow in the footsteps of the founder of the Republic, thinking and right living. War not "brotherly love" chief among the things he practiced and taught? Then, after twenty centuries of evangelization, twenty centuries of spiritual warfare, is it possible, as the publisher of the pulpit argues, that "there is no such thing as brotherly love in actual practice"? The Republic says in part:

"Someone once asked Tom Reed why he did not show more sympathy on a certain occasion. His reply was that the 'utternance of actual practice there was no such word as sympathy.' The name thing is true of brotherly love. People talk about it, and even go so far as to profess it, but in actual practice, there is no such thing."
"The lodge man, the church man, the preacher, and the editor talk about brotherly love as though it were the ruling motive of people's lives and that the fellow who fails to practice it is, for rare exception to the rule, when, as a matter of fact, it is just the reverse. The man or woman who is actuated even to the slightest degree by true brotherly love is a rare exception. Most people, in all their dealings with their fellow men, are actuated by selfishness in some form, or by their prejudices, or their likes or dislikes."
The editor of the Republic evidently believes every noble action or generous deed is inspired by a selfish motive. Evidently he believes every manifestation of kindness is prompted by woman or hope of material gain. Is that true? Absolutely no.

Is heroism in which a man loses his life—knows he will lose it—for the rescue of others, an act of selfishness? A few conspicuous are millions of acts of kindness, unperceived and unknown.

to the world. They are not published. They are done under cover, and they breathe hope and good cheer. The only evidence of such acts is soul exaltation.
The Republic editor would assume that the world has not advanced beyond the middle ages in spiritual development. He would brand all with the iron of utter selfishness. If his position were true, the centuries of service on the part of the churches and other beneficent organizations would have been wasted. If his position were true, the world should be obliterated. In making of such a statement, the editor, he doubtless needs himself to drink deep of the spirit of evangelization which he used to offer to others.

DON'T MISS IT!

Next Week Canning Week

Next week will be proper time for canning peaches and pears. The quality will be good, and the price as low as it will be this season. This store is in thorough touch with the market, and never buy any fruit until the proper time. Late California and Colorado peaches will be on the market in abundance, and peaches will make an excellent supply. They won't last at this time. This store is receiver of fresh fruit every day, and orders with us will have satisfactory attention.

National Light Kerosene

Most people throughout Wayne county know the superior qualities of this oil. The steady glow of lamp filled with National Light oil is restful to the eyes to read and work by. Don't breathe the poisonous odor of cheap oil fumes your system. Cheap oil contains sulphur, carbon and paraffine gas. Carbon takes to top of the glass forming a hard coating. Paraffine gas, when the oil does not draw freely, produces a small, red, unnatural flame. The result is a smoky chimney, smoky wall paper and a continual source of unpleasantness for the housewife. I have a fresh car of National Light soon to arrive. A fall and winter supply will be a satisfactory investment.

Fresh Bread Every Day at This Store.

Fall-16 ounces loaves, not touched by human hands—the sanitary kind. We sell 100 loaves every day. There's a reason.

Splendid Flour

A fresh car load just unloaded. This flour is produced entirely of old wheat, and the usual difficulties will not be experienced. Flour at this time of year made from or bleached with new wheat are unsatisfactory. If you desire flour that will more than satisfy, secure a supply of Splendid.

THE WEEK WITH THE CHURCHES.

German Evangelical Lutheran. (Rev. R. Mooring, Pastor.) Services next Sunday at 10 o'clock and Sunday school at 10. Young people's meeting to be held on evening at 7.

St. Mary's Catholic Church. Rev. William Kears, Pastor. Mass in Wayne Sunday at 8:30 a. m. Benediction at 7:30 p. m. Catechism Saturday at 11 a. m. Mass in Carroll Sunday at 10:30 and catechism at 11:30.

Methodist Episcopal Church. Rev. E. R. Glorffy, Pastor. Sunday, August 31: Class meeting, morning service, Sunday school as usual. Sunday evening, the usual union service. Arrangement to be made for any change.

Beginning with September, the regular Sunday services are resumed. Epworth League and evening service at 7 and 8 o'clock.

On Monday evening, September 1, at 8 o'clock, there will be a meeting of the official board. A full attendance is desired.

Sunday morning, September 7, will be observed the communion of the Lord's Supper. Let all prepare for this service, that it may be a time of refreshing from the presence of the Lord.

Only three Sundays until conference.

First Baptist Church. (Rev. R. P. Richardson, Pastor.) Services here a very happy one for all. All Sunday will be needed as a day of rest. But we shall have our usual services in the morning at our church, and in the evening on the court-house lawn.

The pastor will make a talk in the forenoon at the district of "Our work." He especially desires the presence of the members. We want it to be a sweet fellowship service for those who love the master's work.

Our next meeting will be held Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. Let us remember this. At this meeting, we will have a report from the association gathering at Carroll.

Any of our folks who can spend but one day at Carroll, should spend Saturday there—a day full of practical help. See if you cannot arrange to go.

How about that annual supper this fall? We believe it ought to be given free to all. A fellowship meeting, where we can develop a greater spirit of unity and the membership, and prepare all of us for a more hearty endeavor and cooperation in the master's work.

The advisory board will meet Tuesday evening.

LOCAL NEWS.

Miss Claire Colemick departed Sunday evening for Lander, Wyo., where she had secured the position as fifth grade teacher in the city school.

The C. E. society is to be congratulated on the success of their efforts in the bringing the Emmaus Kites to Wayne, basing the picture story of the life of Christ. The scenes of the actual life of Christ, the customs of the country and age, were all depicted with historic accuracy, and the impression made by the pictures deepened the wonderfulness of the marvelous life always in our minds. The actual expense of showing the pictures amounted to over $130 but the generous patronage of the people of Wayne enabled the payment of all expenses, and a net result of $100. In connection with the exhibition of the pictures the choir of the church assisted greatly by their rendering of sacred music. In the afternoon Mrs. A. R. Davis rendered "The Holy City" and Mrs. Daisy Gamble "Bury My Bones in the Green Hill far Away." In the evening, Miss Beba Nangle sang "The Palms," and Willis Fleetwood rendered "The Holy City." Mrs. Ebert also sang in the evening program. In addition to these special numbers, gospel hymns were sung by the choir.

The union services on Sabbath evening this summer have brought the churches of Wayne into closer fellowship than ever before. With the exception of one church, all the churches

PRIMARY FOR WINSIDE

On Saturday evening, on a call previously made, the members of the democratic central committee living within the city limits of Winside, together with the candidates for the party, gave a public address at the home of Walter Gaudin's store, for the purpose of devising ways and means to determine the issue of the next postmaster of Winside.

The local committee and candidates was made necessary by reason of the central committee reaching all action formerly taken for that purpose. The meeting was presided over by Walter Gaudin, chairman of the party.

On motion it was decided to permit candidates to file up to and including August 30, and that a filing fee of $3 should be charged each candidate for the purpose of defraying the expenses of the election, and any deficit existing after the election should be assumed by the successful candidate. The date of the election was fixed for September 5 at the town hall in Winside, the polls to be open from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m.

Miss Helen McKittick, the committee chairman of Walter Gaudin, Clint Fry and Sam Reichert, was appointed to pass on the democracy of all prospective candidates. A heated argument took place on the matter of making Mr. Charles Reed a qualified voters, patron of the Winside office. Many valid and logical reasons were given for and against the proposition, but on the clearing away of the smoke and the subsiding of forensic fire, it was found that the motion for an open election carried by a vote of 3 to 2.

The following statement was appointed: Harry, Hildick, Charles Reed and E. B. Henderson.
