of today, at least most of them, were started a few years ago in a very small way—just as we are asking you to make a start. A deposit of a few dollars, in some cases only a single dollar, for the first deposit and then a gradual building up until there is enough to make a good investment. Good investments are the road to financial independence, but either money or credit is necessary. You place yourself in position to get both when you start a bank account.

Come in and talk this over, let us tell you how an account with this bank will help you in either way.

"I Really Enjoy My Wife's Little Dinners, Now"

And it's all because we've got a dandy new range. Do you know—for the longest time I thought wife was losing the knack of her old-time good baking, when it was all the fault of an old worn-out range with loose bolts and open cracks that you could stick a knife into. No wonder wife had poor luck with everything she put in the oven. Because we were saving the price of a new range, we thought we were economizing—all a mistake, though—our new Great Majestic is really saving money in the best way imaginable—no such baking and roasting. You see, the Majestic is put together with rivets so that its joints and seams are practically unbreakable—and they stay so forever. The body is lined with a sheet of pure enameled board—placed behind an open grate so you can see it. This combination is the sole secret of the wonderful improvement in my wife's baking and roasting—since we purchased it.

ADVERTISING TALKS

Advertising is an educator. The right kind will instruct, and keep folks in touch with the new things in merchandise.

Be honest in your advertising. Do not misrepresent, nor make a boast about the goods in stock that you have talked about—right up to the mark.

Here is the way to learn how to write better advertisements. Choose one article you wish to push, sit down where you will not be disturbed, and imagine you are talking to a prospective buyer.

Write about the article, not about the article and its merits, then put your talk into writing. Do over what you have written, cutting out the unnecessary words, until you have reduced the article to a "skeleton."

"Give it a catchy heading, and add the price. Your arguments in the conversational style will hold the attention, and the price will be the "clinch."

Do not have an advertisement, and not a space-filler. It will give your store, your business, or even yourself, some distinctive name which will become a sort of trade mark.

For example: "The Careful Drugist," "The Sanitary Baker," "The Style Clothing Store," "The Practising Shoe Fitter."

When you have selected a name, use it in your advertising, and live up to it. People will begin to watch for your advertisements when they find that they have information in them.

Clocks may often be made, but your advertisement will never be impolite without your knowing it. People will have confidence if they always find you good just as you have priced and described them.

Suggestion is a potent factor in personal salesmanship. It is a very great factor in advertising. If it is not worth the cost of fool-clothing, this is the reason for an ice chest. Now is the time to push the sale of cool drinks.

In the springtime a young man's fancy lightly turns to love, and also to spring newing apparel. Tell about these things—how is the clothing made? What is the ice chest made of and what new features has it?

Has the ice chest been made by the best workmen in the city? Has the ice chest been made of and what new features has it? Has the ice chest been made by the best workmen in the city?

DEMOCRATS TO SHUT OUT REPUBLICANS

CLOSED PRIMARY WILL BE HELD One Committee Changes His Position—Saturday, October 11, is Date Fixed.

A closed primary, permitting only democrats to vote for postmaster, was the decision reached by candidates and committees at their meeting Saturday afternoon. The vote had stood four to four with Candidate J. E. Marshall absent. He was present Saturday, and is understood to have voted for an open primary. This would have given the republican candidates a committee which had not changed his mind during the week. R. P. Williams, who had previously supported the open primary, changed his opinion and voted accordingly. This, the vote stood four to four.

Saturday, October 11, is the date fixed for the primary. The polls will open from 3 to 5 o'clock p. m. It is expected that a lively campaign will precede the election, and that rival candidates will see that every democratic patron of the other comes to the polls and expresses himself by voting.

Many democrats are disappointed over the action which prevents carrying out the boasted notion of letting the people rule. They think if the question of choosing a postmaster is to be submitted to vote, all patrons of the office have a right in naming the man who is to serve them.

Other democrats believe in the doctrine that "the victor belongs the spoils," a doctrine which they think republican adheres to with a good deal of eagerness, and are strongly opposed to permitting members of an opposing party to step in and help them distribute their plans.

Republicans who voted for Congressman Stephens are especially angry over having the "rule of the people" restricted to the members of one party in filling a place in which all are interested. They think if they were willing to vote for a man of an opposing party, they consented to a platform whereby to let the people rule, they should be permitted to vote to settle the question of a postmaster in which they are directly and vitally concerned.

Since a meeting Thursday afternoon, M. Cherry announced his withdrawal from the contest. He was in favor of an open primary. His action leaves three in the field—O. W. Reynolds, C. A. Berry and J. E. Marshall.

Let us be thorough as far as we go. This article should appeal to the purest patriotism of the citizenry of this district number 3. The Hickman school has a total enrollment of ninety-two pupils. The high school has an enrollment of two pupils, the remaining to be distributed to the grades.

giving the grammar room the sixth, seventh and eighth grades. Now, since we cannot unite in having a consolidated school district that would enable us to give our pupils a through high school, we must give attention to the elementary school, which have a good, solid structure leading up to the high school instead of the present hodgepodge high school preparation consisting from an overcrowded grammar room. Would it not be more profitable and beneficial to the majority of the pupils in our schools if we were to employ another teacher who was to devote her energy wholly to the sixth grade work instead of expending $70 per month for the instruction of two high school pupils to the neglect of the grammar room? It is generally acknowledged that the most important period of a child's elementary education is the sixth grade, and since the majority of our pupils consider their school life completed with the eighth grade, why not make this the strongest grade, and not, as is the case, overcrowd the grammar room with three grades, which allows the eighth grade pupils fifteen to twenty-minute periods, where they should have thirty-minute recitations. It should be called to the notice of the board of trustees that the average cost per capita a month for the education of our two high school pupils, while the state of Nebraska assumes that 75 cents per week, or $3 per month, or $37 per year, pays the average year's expense for a high school pupil as compared with our paying $32 per month, or $384 per year for the education of one pupil. Taxpayers, can we afford this? The district could pay to send our high school pupils to Wayne and pay their expenses at the rate of $120 a year, $240 for the two pupils, and then still have $40 left for the salary of an eighth grade teacher, to relieve the overcrowded condition of the grammar room, thus doing the greatest good to the greatest number.—A Patron and a Taxpayer.

Let us be thorough as far as we go. This article should appeal to the purest patriotism of the citizenry of this district number 3. The Hickman school has a total enrollment of ninety-two pupils. The high school has an enrollment of two pupils, the remaining to be distributed to the grades.

THE WAYNE HERALD EARLY RAILROADS

In the Days When Making a Record Was Quite an Event. FIRST MILE A MINUTE TRAIN.

This Honor Was Claimed By Two Roads, the Boston and Maine, With the Locomotive Antelope, and the Mohawk and Hudson, With the Davy Crockett. The first achievements of American railroading are, in the greater number of cases, lost in the obscurity of tradition, and there has sprung up a host of interesting stories that go the rounds like Homeric tales. The honor of having created a record or a custom that is now commonplace has had many claimants in nearly every instance.

Take the first train to run a mile a minute. The Antelope, an engine on the Boston and Maine railroad, according to one of the most cherished of these legends, pulled the first train that made this record. Her run was between Boston and Lawrence, a distance of twenty-six miles, and "one way" she is said to have finished her last fourteen miles in thirteen minutes. But it is just as earnestly upheld that the Davy Crockett of the Mohawk and Hudson railroad has this distinction. The Davy Crockett was the pride of the road in her day. It is said that her engineer, David Matthew, loved her better than he did his family. But she reached the pinnacle of her fame locally when in 1852, sixteen years before the Antelope was heard of according to this other story, she covered a fourteen mile stretch away level stretch between Albany and Schenectady in thirteen minutes and six seconds for water boilers. A letter written by Matthew in that year mentions having done better than a mile a minute with her on several occasions.

Running an engine at a mile a minute in those days was many times more dangerous than it is now. Three-quarters of a century ago the rails were light strips of iron spiked down to all sorts of ties. There were no ties or flat plates then, and it was not especially safe to sleep and guard the road with iron spikes down. Not infrequently the ends of the rails would curve upward from the track, forming the much dreaded "snake heads" which were the horror of engineers and passengers alike. Many tales are told of "snake heads" springing up under the jolting train, piercing the flimsy car floors and impaling passengers in their seats. Until a remedy was found for these "snake heads" by using letter fastenings and more seasoned ties, a large force of men was constantly employed to walk the tracks and nail them down.

Broken rails were no more a problem. The present standard gauge is said to have been originally established by taking the distance between the wheels of a standard locomotive and laying it out on the highways. For the same reason, apparently, the first rolling stock was equipped not with solid wheels, but with cast-iron wheels of the wooden wagon wheel, though of smaller diameter. These were not submitted to the drop test of its now universal successor of a danglely light metal. The result was that often interior defects in the casting would pass unnoticed until the wheel broke and the train was derailed. It took time and accident, in which a number of people were killed, so runs the tradition, to bring about the testing of car wheels by tapping them.

Real time saving in running trains did not begin until 1851. Charles Minto was one of those given credit for inaugurating telegraph signals for the handling of trains. He was in the cab of a passenger train one day, so the story goes. There was no double track railroads in those days, and trains had to lie out on sidings and wait for the train bound in the opposite direction to come along. However long the delay, the train on the siding had to wait for the other train to pass.

On this particular occasion Minto's train took its siding. The operator at the little country station scolded over, remarking that the train in the opposite direction had got stalled on the grade some fifty miles down the line. "It would be two or three hours before she could patch up her leaky shoes and get power enough to climb the hill."

Minto was so angry, and he decided to telegraph down the line that the train he was on would not wait at the siding, but he would proceed for station agents to watch for the other train, and have it wait on the siding nearest the spot where they would meet. The telegraph man used to take any such talk, saying that it was against all railroad law and custom. Minto finally discharged him, put him off the engine and ran the train himself to the end of the division, keeping pointed by telegraph at each station. "The train was so slow, and so planned and was so satisfactory that it was an unannounced system of moving all trains on telegraph signals," says the history in Chicago Record-Herald.

Boys and girls should know that older heads when they will see later on for places of trust, are watching them and testing their reasoning and verbal qualities. If in their youth, boys are indolent, frank and manly, and girls are ambitious, modest and unassuming, they are establishing foundation for easy entry into positions of responsibility and profit.

Why not get down to brass tacks in the matter of paving and improved lighting?

Congressman Dan Stephens could have made his policy to elect postmaster work with less friction and more satisfaction if he had had the courage to establish a fixed rule requiring either a closed or open primary. It is desired that he express his preference for an open primary. Then why didn't he require it without any footling? Why did he invoke local defects in a term of bitter discussion? It looks as though he should have kept so quiet as to the kind of primary to hold, thus avoiding much ill feeling and dissatisfaction.

The last issue of the Pioneer Times contains a commentary that reads one of the deplorable and wretched features of the middle ages. It is the story of a man serving out a ninety-day sentence for assault and battery. His name is William Howard. In introducing the article, the editor says that Howard was brought to Pioneer charged with unlawful relations with his daughter, but after investigation, the charge was changed to assault and battery.

The paper reports that the grand jury to assault, though telling the court he was not guilty—because he was so overcome with shame that he wanted to get away from everyone. He included in his communication a letter from his daughter who confesses that she fastened a lie on her father through the instigation of others. She expresses regret and pleads for forgiveness. A letter from the wife and mother asking forgiveness, is also mentioned. It is an examination by two physicians put to the original charge for which an informed man at Winnebago, where the family lives, broke down Lynch law. Thus, we are created. He was charged with one of the blackest of crimes. If guilty, he deserved the severest penalty. But he is innocent, as shown by his communication, he has never been charged with anything which reveals nothing blacker and more vicious than those supposed to possess the lips of lowest hell. If what he says in his communication is true, Thurston county should be quick to do in its power to right the wrong that has been done him. If his story is true, Thurston county will have shown stronger symptoms of civilization if it had sought to repair the wrong suffered by the man rather than casting him into jail.

RATTLED THE BANDIT.

Curious experience with a band of outlaws. On the 21st of September, a passenger train on most of the railroads are guarded by detachments of soldiers. On every station platform are seen rural guards armed with carbines ready for an emergency. For some have to reduce themselves to the status of going about armed or else make themselves unfavorably conspicuous in the eyes of the natives. It was a noted experience, however, in a railroad surveyor, when called with their pocket work, armed to the teeth with knives and revolvers. As a matter of fact, arms were strictly forbidden to Mexico as a means of defense. As every where else, it is well known, and to be feared with and for that you are armed in case of a quarrel.

In this connection the principal location of the band had been an expense at which they displayed some nerve. He had to make a reconnaissance of a mountain range called the Sierra Nevada, and to be feared with and for that you are armed in case of a quarrel. He was warned to the effect that he was to be feared with and for that you are armed in case of a quarrel. He was warned to the effect that he was to be feared with and for that you are armed in case of a quarrel.

NO EFFORT TO CONCEAL THE FACT THAT THEY WERE THERE FOR BUSINESS.

The engineer complained angrily, and going up to the leader, mystified that he was by holding him to step aside. "I am told that it is unsafe to travel in these mountains," he whispered, "will you not therefore arrange my taking care of my property and allow me to remain under your roof until morning." With that he handed over his watch, money and other things, and the watchman, who was probably for the first time in his life treated to the novelty of being trusted, not only left the engineer, but he went in his house, but handed him back his property to the morning and furnished him with two extra beds to serve as an escort during the rest of his journey—Max T. Schmidt in Engineering Magazine.

CAPTURING ZANZIBAR.

Berle Comic Battle That Deposed the King Sultan.

Zanzibar reminds every visitor of the town described in "The Arabian Nights." It is a typical Arabian town, and there are many things which make a romance behind every door. The town is ruled for hundreds of years by a sultan until the English took it.

There is still a sultan, who receives a salary from the English government, but some day he will be deposed and there will be no further pretense of a sultan having anything to do with the government. The old palace of the sultan is now a hotel, which is like a boarding house—is used for the soldiers. Near the palace is the harem, now deserted, since the present sultan has but one wife.

The sultan, who had trouble with the English, was educated in England and was in Paris, where he learned the revenues in Paris. One day an English gunboat sailed into the harbor, and the captain told the gay sultan that he had been captured. The sultan resented the high handed proceeding and sent word to the defenders of his dignity to attack the English gunboat, and not the innocent captain in the dingy.

There was an old fort near the palace, on the walls of which mounted a few rusty cannon. The defenders of the sultan tried to fire these at the English gunboat, but they burst out one by one and almost wiped out the sultan's defensive force. The captain of the English gunboat then began dropping shells into the palace and with one solid shot sank the sultan's navy—a small vessel which carried four guns.—F. W. Howe in Howe's Monthly.

Going Astray at Sea. It is no easy matter to keep a motor steamer on a straight course. The helmsman steers by the compass, and while a single degree of deviation appears very small on the compass, it would, if continued, carry a steamer four miles out of her course in a single day's run. Yet the compass gives the course more or less, and the helmsman must be on the watch to the deflecting power of the waves and the rolling of the ship, the only way to continue on a little bit this way and that despite the helm.—Harper's Weekly.

Hordt; October 7, a son to Mr. and his leg.

The Wayne Independent Telephone company organizes a number of rural lines.
The Herald was sold to E. Cunningham in order to effect a consolidation with the Republican, which suspended.
The number of papers in Wayne to two.

Mr. William Webb and Miss Alice E.
Richards, both of Wakefield, were married in Wayne by Judge Hunter. The judge also issued a marriage license to Mr. Warren Wagner and Mrs. Doris
M. Lyons.

From the Ponca Journal, October 3, 1882:
Mr. Phillo is making very good additions and improvements to the dwelling house he bought of Mr. Hurley, near the schoolhouse. He will have one of the most stylish and pleasant homes
in town.

Those who rise before the sun, can,
if the sky is clear, see the new comet.
It will be seen in the southeast and short distance above the horizon. It is bright and compact, and is traveling in this direction very rapidly, and as it approaches through space it swings a long and vigorous tail.

Mr. G. B. Stone, from Norris, Cedar county, was in town on Tuesday on his way to Hebron, N. D. He returns in the evening, and reports that he should then start a creamery at Wayne. His creamery at Norris is now closed
for the season, and has done a remarkably good business. Mr. Stone stated that Norris continued to grow rapidly,
and that the prospects of the town
were continually becoming brighter.
The new hotel at that place is finished and has been let to Mrs. Garner, under whose management it cannot fail to become successful and popular.

From the Ponca Journal, October 14, 1889:
The coal hole is slowly but steadily being pushed into the ground. The distance now being penetrated, per day, is but three or four feet, as the hardest of rock is met with. The drill is down about 400 feet.

The railway track from Covington to Deming's Junction was finished last week. In a few days more, trains will be running between Covington and Omaha.

At Deming's Junction, the railroad has purchased the acres of land for a town site from the proprietors. It is supposed the new town will be a large one.

Rev. Mr. Smith does not go to South America as missionary, as was anticipated on the prospect of his going during the coming year. The M. E. pulpit at this place will be occupied during the next year by Rev. Mr. Fowler, who was located here once before.

A. W. Rose of North Bend, was in town yesterday and gave us a call.
He states that during the past two weeks twenty deaths have resulted from diphtheria at Vermilion. Many families of the town moved away, but the malignancy of the disease seems abating, and they are beginning to return.

CHRONIC DYSPEPSIA.
The following unsolicited testimonial should certainly be sufficient to give hope and courage to persons afflicted with chronic dyspepsia: "I have been a chronic sufferer from this complaint for all the medicine I have taken, Chamberlain's Tablets have done me more good than anything else," says W. G.
Mastison, No. 7 Sherman street, Herschell, N. Y. For names of all dealers

TYPHOID FEVER

Diphtheria in Lincoln
Typhoid fever is caused by a specific germ, a scientific fact, as clearly demonstrable as the accuracy of the multiplication table, but while the germs originate isn't always so easily ascertained. At a Philadelphia wedding a few weeks ago, nineteen of the guests ate watermelon sandwiches. The next evening of the number developed typhoid. As more than twenty attendants of the wedding who did not participate in the watermelon sandwiches
epidemic, physicians naturally concluded that the germs in these sandwiches
had by some means become polluted.
Aside from the fact that watermelon is unpalatable, indigestible and inexcusable, it has no nutritive value, and should not be eaten until the hay crop is a failure, and no substitute on the market.

The changeable weather of early fall brings on coughs and colds that have a weakening effect on the system and may, unless checked by the use of Hooper and Taylor's Compound. It has a very soothing and healing effect on the irritated and inflamed air passages, and will help very quickly. It is a well known family medicine that gives results. Shulthies Pharmacy—Ad.

ADVERTISING A MEAT FARMER.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat: It is full time for consumers to take alarm when the beef packers complain that there is not enough market for the country product. The packers are trying to control the market by advertising in the farmers to the growing of more live stock. We have not attention to the report of the packers to the effect that they are not getting the market for the country product. It is a well known fact that the packers devote half a million dollars to the work of advertising it. Most is high enough now in all conscience, high enough to compel consumers to curtail seriously
their supply on the family table,
and high enough, it would seem, to induce farmers to enter more largely upon its production. To make the farmers realize that beef and pork, at present a pound or more on the hoof,
is the most profitable form of stock
that can be marketed, is what the packers are going to attempt with this large sum. They are going to carry on an educational campaign additional to that which has been carried on for so long a time by the political colleges and railroads to get nothing of the press.
This scarcity of beef is something
the ordinary man does not understand.
He cannot see why there should be any. Roughly speaking, it is the result of two causes. First, the range industry is declining, and farmers have not gone into live stock growing fast enough to make up the loss. Second, farmers have been selling calves instead of raising them, on the theory that it did not pay to feed them for two years to make beef. Many have gone so far as to kill calves, believing that even the cost of raising them for veal is more than the selling price. This is especially true of range farmers who keep Jersey and other small-sized cattle, which do not take an amount for beef. There are other contributing causes, but these are the two great ones—falling off of the range in industry and selling or killing of calves.

There is a ray of hope resulting from the drought of the present season.
The farmers who have come through it
the best are those keeping live stock,
growing force crops, and having reserve for feed. The farmers who have hard hit are the growers of crops for the market. As a result, there is going to be a large abandonment of market cropping, and adoption of live stock raising. The packers will find the farmers in a more receptive mood
for their campaign of education than they were a year ago. Perhaps we shall not encounter that meat famine after
all. If the lesson of the present year is preserved, it will be to the farmers, who have lost their oats, corn and hay crops, and are hard up, while their live stock growing neighbors are getting along nicely. Experience is a most convincing school. Nevertheless, it should be a grand one for consumers,
begin experimenting in the art of substituting less costly food for meat.

Nothing to say.
A very laughable incident once occurred in the town of Columbus. An Irish member having risen was assailed
by loud cries of "Spoke, spoke!"
meaning that, having spoken once already, he had no right to do so a second time. He had, evidently, a second speech struggling in his breast for an introduction into the world, when seeing after consulting for some time on the best chance of being suffered to deliver a sentence of it, he observed, with imperturbable gravity and in rich Tipperary brogue:
"If the honorable gentleman suppose
that I was not to make a single thing, he is quite mistaken. I merely rose for the purpose of saying that I had nothing more to say on the subject."

"Norcross took three and lighted one.
He stood puffing it for a moment,
and the dealer asked:
"How do you like that cigar?"
"It's rotten," said Norcross.
"What?" said the dealer, "I can't see

I Shall Be Worthy.
My sword is drawn, my
halberd on the mountain peak
My company is ready to fight.
But, though I am a soldier,
I am not a man of war.

I may not triumph in success
Despite my earnest labors;
I may not gain the things that I miss
The efforts of my labors;
But, though I be a soldier,
I will be worthy of it.
—Edna Wheeler Wilcox

Both Sides Surprised.
At the age of twenty-three years
Sylvanville was sent to study history
under Bishop Stubbs, who was then in charge of a country parish in New England.

He arrived there on a Saturday and was surprised to find that he must be fired with his journey.
He had breakfast
and then he went to a hall
to get his things. He was a glorious warrior, he arranged
himself in armor slippers and a tight fitting dress, and he went into the garden and leaped positively over the gate, with his red hair flying brilliantly in the sunlight.

The church bells were ringing, and the parishioners had all to pass the parsonage gate to get to church. But some of them were so surprised to see him that they called out to him.
The church bells stopped, but at the instance of the vicar, who could not believe that all his parishioners had deserted him, were rung again.

At last the boldest man in the village
painted part of the gate, and the rest stamped on their feet and ran their in quiet wonder at their strange method of going to church.

He Knew.
A young lady one Sunday left behind her in church her prayer book, in which were written the following lines:
A bunch of flowers, a book or two,
A little something, a little something,
A little coming and going
They go to church and they will
—And that ends it.

On the following Sunday on taking up her book, she noted written under neath her lines the following question,
married man.
"How do you know you're wrong?"
You worked that time just too far.
It ends right there? Oh, no, Vanda!
For, coming home, she says, "I won't."
—And that begins it.

Evangelical Lutheran Church. A class meeting will be conducted by the appointed leader, and everybody is urged to attend and enroll as a member.

All the evening services are to be held at half hour service, beginning with October.

The latch string of the parsonage always hangs out. Try it.

If the pastor doesn't remember your name, just remind him.

Remembering is the greater than forgetting.

First Baptist Church.
(Rev. B. E. Richardson, Pastor.)
In spite of the inclement weather last week, our annual fellowship gathering on Wednesday evening was of happy occasion. A great number of people were kept at home because of the rain, but there was a nice crowd, and a delightful spirit prevailed throughout the evening. The different departments made most encouraging reports. It would have been a great thing if every one of our members could have heard the various reports. Such meetings as this are deeply significant in church life.

On last Friday evening, two of our faithful Sunday school teachers, Misses Ric. Kichkaiah and Ethel Huff, gave a social for their classes in the church parlors. It was a happy time, as well as helpful for everyone.

Sunday morning will be our communion service. More and more we want to make this service the strongest meeting of the entire month. The subject of the pastor's coming addresses will be "The Benefits of Worship."

At the missionary meeting last Friday, Mrs. Nettie Sears was elected secretary. Mrs. M. M. Norton is the faithful hardworking president of the society.

We are glad some of our members have decided to go to Lincoln to attend the state convention. It will mean much to our church. Let us be serious in regard to our going.

Next Sunday evening, Miss Laura Couvser will lead the young people's service. This will be a consoling service. "The subject will be 'The Christian Community of Grace.'"

At the preaching service, the pastor will give a brief sermon, after a good song service by the large choir.

Sunday, we change the hour of our evening service. It will be held at an hour earlier.

Our midweek prayer meeting will also change to 7:30 instead of 8 o'clock. Next Wednesday, our subject will be "The Individual and the Deomination."

This is the time for getting your addresses for the coming church year. The only way to make this your best year is to begin right. Ask for your booklets of addresses next Sunday. There is a book for you.

St. Paul's Lutheran Church.
(Rev. F. E. Blessing, Pastor.)
The subject of the sermon next Sunday morning will be "A Paralytic Question Answered." John xiv, 6. Our time is taken up each day with many perplexing questions of business or trade. But to whom the most perplexing question is the salvation of the soul. This is a question that is somewhat of a doubter, and it has caused many more since that time to entertain doubtful thoughts. But why should it? Jesus has given us irrefutable proof that the next day will be saved. But more than this, he has pointed out to us the way.

Our evening services will begin this Sunday evening. It has been some time since we have had evening services, but we hope not to be disappointed in the attendance. The morning services have been well attended, so let us begin the evening services in the same way. Evening services will be at half past seven. The subject will be "The Rejected Pharisee." Luke viii, 12.

Sunday school at 10 o'clock. We are more than pleased to note the increasing interest and attendance in complish. The importance of the Sunday school has not been impressed upon many people, still there are a great many who have come to realize what a great influence for good it has.

Catechetical classes will be organized the last of next month. We will be glad to welcome any who wish to join these classes.

"Choir rehearsal" next Friday night at 8 o'clock. All of the members are requested to be present.

The Ladies' Aid society met at the home of Mrs. Lund last Thursday afternoon. A most enjoyable time was spent. At the meeting, the ladies extended an invitation to the Ladies' Aid society of St. Luke's Lutheran church of Emerson, Neb., to be present at their next meeting, October 10. The invitation was accepted. A most enjoyable time is expected.

Presbyterian Church.
(Rev. Alexander Corley, Pastor.)
"The Greatest Thing in the World" will be the subject of the sermon at the Presbyterian church next Sunday morning. The service begins at 10:30. In the evening, the subject will be "Present Day Home Missions." A special feature of the evening sermon, the pastor will elaborate somewhat on his remarks which he made last Sunday evening in regard to present day idolatry, answering a criticism which was made on part of the sermon.

The young people meeting began at 7 o'clock, and the evening service at 7:30.

The Sunday school meets at 9:30 o'clock every Sunday, immediately following the morning service. "Westminster Guild class" and ladies has been organized which will take up the study of "Representative Women of the Bible." The pastor is teaching the class.

The young men's class, under the leadership of A. B. Davis, has been organized for its winter work. The course of study will be an adaptation of the Uniform Lessons.

At the morning service last Sunday, the foreward movement in the national church of America were discussed. The "Haymen's" movement was described, and its effects enumerated, and the Social Service movement was explained, and its philosophy explained.

The leading movement was declared to be the evangelistic movement which is sweeping over the land like a tidal wave. Its force at present is most felt in the east in the old-fashioned American communities, but even awakening new religious life among the foreigners, and promises to become the most important religious upheaval ever known in this country.

Present Day Idolatry.
Last Sunday evening, Rev. Alexander Corley preached on the most popular form of idolatry in our times, Idolatry of the Money.

Idolatry is the worship of something other than God. It is the worship of anything that is not God, but which is blighting Christianity. The first idol of which he spoke was dress, or the ornamenting of the body. This has become a great sin among the people. In the past summer, the extremes of style, which were adjudged immodest by common consent, drove women to face jail sentence and loss of reputation.

BERT M'CLARY

The prospects are that the meeting will be largely attended and some matters of importance will be discussed, and legislation upon Church Federation and home mission work, as well as some other activities of the church, will be debated, and in some things new policies may be adopted. It is expected that Rev. J. M. Caldwell, D. D. of Waterloo, will be chosen moderator of the synod, as he received the nomination of Nebraska presbytery. He is probably the oldest active minister in the denomination in Nebraska, and under his administration, a beautiful new church was dedicated last year in our neighboring town. Although he has been preaching for over half a century, and is now in his seventy-fifth year, there are few ministers who surpass him in extensive pastoral work or in vigorous preaching. As a preacher he is evangelistic and aggressive, and he has added many to the fellowship of the Waterloo Presbyterian church.

NEW BOOK OUT IN TWO WEEKS.
The publication of Alexander Corley's new book, "The Vision of Joy," has been somewhat delayed, but the date has finally been announced. It is October 13 in New York, and October 18 in Omaha. There has been a large advance sale of the book, as it is a sequel to the popular novel, "The Victory of Alton Rutledge."

STUDENTS FOR NAVAL ACADEMY
Congressman Stephens has been requested by the bureau of navigation of the navy department to nominate a principal and three alternates for each of three vacancies that will occur in the naval academy at the close of the present school year, which are to be filled by appointment from the Third district of Nebraska. Applications were on file for the principals and the nominations have been made, but the alternate nominations are still to be made. The alternates are numbered from one to three for each principal appointment, and the appointments are made in the same order, i. e., if the principal passes, he will be appointed, but if the principal should fail and the first alternate qualify, the first alternate will be appointed, and so on. The minimum age of admission to the academy is sixteen, and the maximum age twenty years. A candidate is eligible for examination on the day he becomes sixteen, and is ineligible on the day he becomes twenty. Under present regulations, the regular dates for examinations are the third Tuesday in February, and the third Tuesday of April of each year. Any young man who is interested in receiving one of these appointments should write Congressman Stephens, Washington, D. C., at once, as the nominations will be made in the order in which the applications are received.

FACTS ABOUT BABIES.

Some That Surprised and One That Pleased the Professor. "I never knew before I read one," said the professor of physics to his

"The most surprising babies are, it would seem, the cubes of their dimensions. It did not occur to me that a baby two feet long should weigh just about one-sixteenth of a man five feet high, also that, as the surfaces of two similar bodies vary as the square of their dimensions, a baby as before would have about one-sixth the surface of the man."

"Araping from this and knowing that the rate of cooling of a solid depends on the extent of surface, I found that a baby got cold quicker or warmer quicker, when exposed to a fire than a man also, as may, I believe, be illustrated in temperature than the surrounding air and has to lose heat continually—the rate of loss depending on the surface—it is readily seen that a baby, in order to keep up normal temperature, has to furnish more heat in proportion to his weight than a man, and therefore has to eat more in proportion to its weight than a man."

"The same knotty problem comes up when the baby is bathed. You know you're never cool any more when you bathe in a cold room in warm water, but in very little of it, so that most of your wet body is out of the water on account of the heat of your body being taken to evaporate the water? The baby suffers much worse on account of that same big proportion of surface."

Big and Little Ships. Speaking of the problem of unsinkable ships, the New York Commercial says:

"Ever" people outside of practical shipbuilders and navigators understand the difference between a large vessel and a small one in point of structural strength. The strongest vessel that floats in the water is a common row-boat. One can take an ordinary row-boat and carry it by the ends or it can rest on clogs under each end, but breaking in the middle. But the strongest man-of-war or ocean liner is subjected to a similar strain. The larger a vessel the weaker it becomes in this respect, and for this reason

Billion of Beans. "Beans—what do you know about beans, even in New Zealand?" writes an American from Manchuria. "Come to Dairen and see the bean mills which turn out 45,000,000 pounds of bean oil in a year and over 10,000,000 bean cakes, weighing about sixty-five pounds each. Some beans! The bean cake from which the oil has been extracted, contains the most nutritious food the country received last year about nine tenths of the product. Japan also took beans. Millions of bushels of beans in Manchuria. Some beans!"—New York Tribune.

Champion Mean Man. "My husband in a very unmanly way has done some things," complained the wife to the woman around the corner. "He has a deaf ear and never listens to what I say. He never calls me down but acts as if he didn't hear me."

Honest Child. "Since you worked your examples so well," said the mother teacher, "I shall give you a kiss." "Teacher, I didn't know there was to be a reward," responded the honest child, "but I will try to tell you that my big brother did them some."—Pittsburgh Post.

Took Her Time. "Thought you were going away to-day." "Nonsense. The ticket office is never closed." "No; but there was a girl at the window ahead of me."—Washington Herald.

Has a Great Field. Higginson, old climber, while wire-how is getting along in literature? He should be doing pretty well. He had so lively an imagination. "Why not write some things?" "I'm not now," said the specialist in excuses for married men.—Chicago News.

ATCHISON GLOBE SIGHTS.

As a rule, a broad-minded man is one who agrees with you. Unless a man likes you, he can't make a shogun pay a dividend. A great many men who are too timid to beat a carpet, play golf.

Don't think the other guy has all the luck unless he carries most of it. Among the other virtues of war, none of the songs written about it. If a man isn't very bad, he enjoys a reputation of being a hardened sinner. The friel union continues to maintain some record as an extensive advertiser.

An Atchison man has such a mean disposition, it is believed he enjoys beating people. You may have observed that a usual result rarely goes broke on the proposition.

It occurs to us that it is a surprise and how a rich man earned his first dollar. Anyone can do that. It is hard to convince a woman that she couldn't support the family on her husband's car money.

After having assisted at five funerals, Mrs. M. W. M. is finding it hard to break herself of an undertaker's trick.

A fashion journal informs us that petticoats are so unpopular that many women are wearing tights. And possibly many of them are not.

DON'T DELAY. Some Wayne People Have Learned This, Neglect is Dangerous.

The slightest symptom of kidney trouble is far too serious to be overlooked. It's the small, neglected troubles that so often lead to serious kidney ailments. That pain in the small of your back; that urinary irregularity; those headaches and dizzy spells; that weak, weary, worn-out feeling may be nature's warning of kidney weakness. Why risk your life by neglecting these symptoms? Reach the cause of the trouble while there is yet time—begin treating your kidneys at once with a tried and proven kidney remedy. No need to experiment—Doan's Kidney Pills have been successfully used in thousands of cases of kidney trouble for over fifty years. Doan's Kidney Pills are used and recommended throughout the civilized world. Endorsed at home. Read Wayne testimonials.

Doan's Kidney Pills have been used in our family for all pains across the small of the back, and other symptoms of kidney complaint, and the most satisfactory results have been obtained. I have seen what Doan's Kidney Pills will do, and don't hesitate to give them my endorsement.

AVOID RHEDATIVE COUGH MEDICINE. If you want to contribute directly to the occurrence of capillary bronchitis and pneumonia, use cough medicines that contain cocaine, morphine, heroin and other sedatives, when you have a cough or cold.
