tion should be understood that typhoid germs do not live around in the air like diphtheria or scarlet fever germs. Typhoid fever germs have to have more substantial means of travel, and are conveyed to the stomach in food or drink. They take to milk like a fly to fat. It milk, they multiply fast, and fight for a chance to tackle the human system.

WAYNE SCHOOL TEAM IN GAME AT NORFOLK

Norfolk Daily News, Monday, Oct. 7: Norfolk was the second victory of the football season Saturday afternoon by defeating the fast Wayne high school team by a score of 13 to 6. It was an exciting game, and many sensational plays, including some punting and runs, kept the crowd on the sidelines interested. The teams seemed evenly divided in team work, but Norfolk

The first quarter of Saturday's game was played fast. Both teams seemed to endeavor to rush the other from the field in a few minutes of playing. Norfolk won the fumble and kicked to Wayne. By constant line plunging and some clever forward pass work, Norfolk took the pigskin within a yard of Wayne's goal. Wayne pushed it back twenty yards, and the quarter ended with the ball one yard from the Wayne goal.

On a line plunge in the second quarter, Lucas took the ball over for Norfolk's first touchdown. The ball was only about half a yard from Wayne's goal, because the Wayne players were negligent for coaching on the side lines.

In the same quarter, Midner, playing right half for Wayne, made one of the most sensational plays ever seen on the Driving Park gridiron. The ball was in the middle of the field, and the Wayne player took it forty yards around Norfolk's left end for a touch-down.

The third quarter was evenly divided and there was no scoring on either side. Wayne kicked off to Norfolk, and the ball remained in the middle of the field, the major part of the quarter. In this time, Wayne threatened to score on clever forward passing.

In half a minute of playing in the last quarter, Lucas went through the Wayne line for a second touchdown. South kicked goal.

Shelby and Lucas featured for Norfolk in all second playing. Lightfoot, Midner and Powers featured for the Wayne team.

The line-up: Norfolk: Cole, L. T.; Manake, L. F.; Jacobs, L. E.; Lemley, C. G.; Moran, R. G.; Moran, R. T.; Hoguewood, R. E.; Orlow, H. J.; Schley, R. H.; Midner, P. B.; Lucas, F. B.

SENATOR VOLPP HERO OF WILD AUTO RIDE

WONDERFUL PRESENCE OF MIND

With Giant Strength, Lifts Car and Rescues Passengers—No One Seriously Hurt.

Wenatchee Daily World, September 27. Senator and Mrs. Volpp of Scraper, Neb., and Mrs. Volpp of Seattle, Wash., and Mrs. Volpp of Seattle, Wash., were on their way home Saturday night, departing for Seattle Sunday. The Volpps and Mrs. Hedger are old-time friends of the Senators being neighbors in Nebraska and had been visiting with them in Scraper Saturday night. The Volpps and Mrs. Hedger are old-time friends of the Senators being neighbors in Nebraska and had been visiting with them in Scraper Saturday night.

and begins he did not start a step. At Orondo, he covered a team to catch him back at the scene of the wreck, and another back to carry the rest of the folks back to Waterville, but before he reached the overturned car, some parties from Waterville had come along and taken Mrs. Volpp and Mrs. Gall back to town. They were taken to the home of A. L. Rogers, and Dr. Adams was called to determine the extent of their injuries. Mrs. Volpp was badly injured, but being a stout, heavy woman, it was impossible to determine whether or not any bones were broken, without the use of the X-ray, which will be done immediately upon their arrival at Seattle. Mrs. Gall, apparently had no injuries, but is badly injured, the exact extent of which cannot be determined for several days. She was taken to her home, and unless there are internal injuries, will come out of danger in a few days. It was not known what car triggered over, but wrecked her back while helping to lift the car off the other wheel under it.

The party was not in contact on the Mansfield train Saturday evening, waiting for a sparrow wing which was slightly swollen and painful, the year ago for he is now the worse for the experience, but he considers it little less than a miracle that they were not all killed. It was his first experience on a mountain grade, and he is not certain that he would prefer to take the road to these level hills back to Scraper.

Senator and Mrs. Volpp came west over a southern route, via San Francisco, where he was a delegate to a national gathering of the Shriners. He is engaged in the banking business in Waterville, maintaining a branch at State bank, with a half million deposits, and it is to be hoped that this automobile experience will not prevent him from paying this section another visit in the near future, for it is such a fact that this country needs to help in the development of the natural resources of north central Washington. He spent Saturday evening looking around town, visiting the commercial club rooms, and watching the throng in the street, and expressed wonder and amazement at the substantial character of the buildings and public improvements going on. He could not understand "where the money comes from" and he was surprised to him that there were scores of vacant tracts in the valley that would yield from $400 an acre up not to the owners this year, and that the average tract in the Wenatchee valley is but seven and one-half acres.

NEBRASKA'S CORN CROP. During the year 1913, according to calculations made by the state board of agriculture, the Nebraska corn crop amounted to 30,290,268 bushels; valued at 70 cents a bushel, the crop is worth $20,203,588.

BERT M'CLARY'S DRY GOODS STORE GROCERIES

I have opened a stock of General Merchandise in a newly fitted building on lower Main street, and am NOW READY for business.

I am here to stay, and expect by fair dealing and good values to merit a share of your patronage. My stock is new, fresh and up-to-date, consisting of things you need. In my line of Dry Goods you will find what you have been looking for and what you want. Inspect my Grocery department, and see if it does not appeal to you.

Call and get acquainted, look over what I have to offer and see if I cannot be of Service to you.

BERT M'CLARY

You don't know. Some women enjoy society, while others prefer privacy. At times about a day to a day's work, and sometimes more.

Of course it's the town's fault if you happen to be a failure. There is also the kind of a man who has more courage than sense.

So many talk brotherhood on the street corners, and don't practice it. The thinnest you a good deal of credit that belonged to rubbing it on. Short Jokes: "I would rather go to church once a week than quarrel with my wife about my absence all the week."

Bert Hoskins: "Explanations by the average married man are defenses." "I never man thinks he's clever, as every woman thinks she has winning ways."

A man never confesses to his wife until he's pretty sure she has found out about it. Sometimes a heepee'ed man becomes philosophical, and figures it is for his own good.

If the average man despised the fashions, not probably would he be the predominating color. He can't be found fifty times a day, but can't be found a day to a day's work, and sometimes more.

It doesn't prove anything in particular to say a man is wrong because he happens to disagree with you. Very few men have any new thoughts that they can't find time for their other chores to tell about them.

Here is a Saturday woman that should make all the women love the holiday. Men treat us much as women, and just as foolishly.

Telegrams are received only once or twice in a generation in some families, and to them the sign of a messenger from the front door suggests death or some other awful calamity. One such family received a telegram yesterday and the mother dropped in a faint before she could tear the envelope open. One daughter walked the floor in hysterical frenzy, while another one ran shouting to a neighbor. After the doctor and husband had arrived and some measure of composure had been restored, the telegram was opened, and it was from a daughter visiting in the east and read as follows: "Am invited on motor trip to Canada. Send heavy coat and winter underwear at once."

AVOID SEDATIVE COUGH MEDICINES. If you want to contribute directly to the assurance of capillary bronchitis and pneumonia, use cough medicines that contain codina, morphine, heroin, and other sedatives, when you have a cough or cold. An expectorant like Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is what is needed. That cleans out the culture harbor and brooding places for the germs of pneumonia and other germs. That is why pneumonia never results from a cold when Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is used. It has a world-wide reputation for its cure. It contains no opium or other sedative. Webster Bros.

Republicans who were unfavorable to the Wayne tariff program, will nevertheless accept a trial of the new policy philosophically, hoping conditions will be no worse if no better.

If imported goods no less to cheapen to the ultimate consumer; foreign manufacturers raising price to cover amount formerly paid in tariff, as reported, then foreign and American dealers will enrich themselves at the expense of the consumer, without benefiting the buying public.

Last week, the West Point Republican issued a booster edition that was a spot-on target. It used a high grade of paper, and ran a first-class article, excellently arranged and justified. The excellent paper and sturdy bind of the enterprise if the paper's partisans are so sufficiently appreciative.

On account of the dry months of the past autumn, people have been advised not to rake fallen leaves off their lawns, but allow them to remain to protect the grass roots. The advice will be regarded as the line of wisdom, and will be followed, but not to the extent of the natural inclination to paw over the lawn with a rake.

Colon bacilli—the Lord knows what they are—were don't-do not—accidentally, at a restaurant, did to greatly alarm one who drinks them in water, though they are not advised as health-beneficial. On the contrary, in great numbers, they may be harmful, though causing no disease. The reason is to be taken out of the water without needless delay.

In commenting on the new tariff law, the Sioux City Journal concludes with the following paragraph: "The most interesting question in relation to the new tariff law are (1) Will it seriously injure business? (2) Will it materially reduce the cost of living? Republican partisans are inclined to answer 'No' to the first and democratic partisans to make the same answer to the second. The newspaper of the newspaper, a plain 'No' would come close to answering both questions correctly. At any rate, the new law is to be tried, and the Public in patient mood."

It is reported that one-third of the admissions to the state fair this year were out of free passes, and the Hartford Journal says: "The editors, as usual, are held up as the chief beneficiaries of the system, whereas it is doubtful if 200 of them from outside the city were from the ground." Throughout the week? The Herald editor has had passes to the state fair every year, but has never used one. Many other editors could testify to the same.

Miss Weekes, editor of the Norfolk Press, has been advised that the proprietorship to which she aspires, is a man and that she ought to be careful, because her husband's work. She contends that the fact of her sex has never been found as a barrier to her conduct of a newspaper, to her hosting of party candidates and measures, and that it cannot be consistently raised now as an obstacle to reward for her services. Newspaper people were often given the postoffice by the republican party as a substantial evidence of appreciation, and a recent editor who had been prepared for years, naturally through many weary years, naturally feel deserving of annual treatment.

RENT-GREEN CORNERS.
Edges' Store in Columbus Telephone No. 2 was a little man with close-cropped whiskers, and he was as nervous as a woman in the evening of house-cleaning day. He occupied the house across the aisle from me and when I came into the store he came into the aisle, and after a few minutes he came through my dining car, the little man dived down into his grip, and brought out a silver tin. He held it up, as though he was a doctor, and said: "I have a little medicine here for you. It is called 'Rent-Green Corners' and it will cure you of all your troubles." He held it up again, and said: "I have a little medicine here for you. It is called 'Rent-Green Corners' and it will cure you of all your troubles." He held it up again, and said: "I have a little medicine here for you. It is called 'Rent-Green Corners' and it will cure you of all your troubles."

FRANKISH PHOTOS

Moonlight Effects Obtained by Taking the Sun.

TRICK OF THE GHOST FAKE.

"Book" and "Vision" Pictures Only. Require a Little Care and Simple Apparatus, and it is Easy to Photograph a Man Inside a Print Bottle.

Moonlight effects in photography are generally secured by trickery, of course it is possible to take photographs by moonlight, the exposure varying from thirty minutes to two hours. The results, however, are rarely satisfactory, owing to the more or less artificial character of the moonlight effect in the finished print. To obtain a moonlight picture of the approved sort—a fine cloud effect with the "moon" appearing as a bright, faint light upon a dark background—special preparations must be made.

A rather cloudy sunset must be chosen. The subject of the sun drops low on the horizon and is partly obscured by the cloud bank one sees the opportunity to secure a snapshot (the sun being well "stopped down") right into the eye of the light. The plate thus obtained should be slightly underexposed. If all has gone well the resulting negative will supply a picture, exactly resembling a moonlight effect, and by carefully gumming a small circle of opaque varnish upon the film, you are able to print out the "moon" into the bargain.

Photographs in which the snow appears to be falling are usually produced by artificial means. If the subject is to be a portrait the sitter should be carried, apparently, into the room before a wintry background. When the negative is obtained it should be dried, and well varnished, then placed flat in a tray, and the sun's rays directed most. Take a soft toothbrush charged with rather thick India ink and carefully rub over the negative and carefully hold some little distance from the negative. If this operation is successfully done, upon the film, you will see an irregular scattering of the pigment upon the varnished film, and when this dry a print will be produced which looks like a snowfall. The negative has been taken to a snowstorm.

Photographs of the class in which glooms or visions appear may be "faked" in several ways. The first of these may be described to the duplicate exposure method. Suppose, for example, you wish to photograph a man inside a bottle which will hold no more than a pint of liquid. To accomplish this apparently impossible feat proceed as follows: Photograph the bottle standing upon a dull black support and with similar background.—While focusing take care to mark out what will be the position of the man, and do this by fixing little pieces of gummed paper to the front glass screen of the camera. Then get your "man" to stand on a stool, and place a black cloth over a smooth black curtain behind him. Focus upon him so that he falls within the boundaries of the bottle, this being accomplished by means of the gummed paper guides. Finally expose the plate which has already been used, and you will see the "man" and the ghostly figure of his shadow upon the glass screen.

The man who was in the dining car, he insisted on having an individual table, but the car was crowded and he was compelled to take a place with three other persons. He laid the silver table, and he held the waiter to remove all the silverware from in front of him.—Then he opened that silver tube, and out came a knife, a fork and two spoons, and he used them in eating his dinner. Neither would he touch the glass of ice water which had been placed in front of him. He had an individual drinking cup, and he made the waiter bring him some boiling hot water which he drank from his own cup. The three men at the table with the subject came and entered into the spirit of the situation, and began telling stories about the firm dangers which lurked in public drinking cups, public plates, knives, forks and spoons. One man drove forward a spoon, a satisfactory nit of silver, and carefully examined the plate which the waiter had placed in front of him, and called the attention of his two companions to the living things which were on the silver. This was a joke on the part of the waiter. This made the little man with the whiskers and the individual eating tools exceedingly nervous. But the worst was to come. The little fellow had frequently wiped his eyes with individual silver knife, fork and spoons with his napkin. Another man in the past asked for a chance to try the microscope on the napkin, and with the result that he found millions of wicked germs, some of which he positively pronounced the deadly typhoid germs, and begged his two companions to throw their napkins on the floor.

The little man had ordered fish for his dinner. When the fish arrived, one of the other men at the table said that he would not eat fish, and after being seen the cook in the dining car took a fish on the dirty floor of the kitchen, and then put that same fish in the frying pan—well, so decided he didn't eat it. The man with the whiskers and the individual drinking cup had an uneasy that great beads of sweat were forming on his brow. He started to wipe his face with his napkin, but one of the gentlemen seated next to him, the gentleman who was alive with germs. He ordered an extra china cup into which he placed the contents of his napkin, submerged it in hot water, so as to kill the germs, and then he started to wipe his face with the clean cup. He ordered a fish, not for any other food on the table. And I joined heartily in the laughter which forty people in the dining car showered upon the anti-germ car.

A few minutes later, I went back to the sleeper, and found the crank washing his eating tools in a basin used for laundry purposes by the patrons of a Pullman car, and sometimes used by the porter in lavatory cupboards. And if this is the kingdom of anti-germ cranks.

Kansas City Star.

A man once arrived at Kansas City with a terrible pain under his belt. "Oh for a doctor!" said the sufferer, "and go quickly!"

"What kind of a doctor do you want?" inquired the messenger. "Any one that will cure me of this hydrophobic disease!"

"Oh," cried the traveler in his agony, "my path will lead—All paths lead to the cross."—Kansas City Star.

A Mixed Quarta.

Among other curious things I have heard of late, I have heard of a man, a newly in four languages, writes a roundabout contributor to the New York Times, that the German name of the company in "Martha." Miss Kellogg says in English, Bright in Italian, a German woman in German, and so on.

It is never noted the confusion of names.

"I ought to be immensely happy" the youth says to the girl who is not a girl, don't see much business ahead, but I have my diplomas and my books." Whereupon the "old man" wrote her:

"Put the diploma in a frame, make a pillow of the books, then rise up early and bid some good-bye friends for three weeks, and then bid your good-bye."

STATE'S POTATO CROP.

Lincoln, Oct. 7.—Four million five hundred and thirty-two thousand eight hundred and fifty-five dollars worth of potatoes will be ready for the market in Nebraska this year, according to figures reported to the State Board of Agriculture. These were grown on practically dried out this year, it makes the showing exceedingly good.

The crop amounted to 5,375,507 bushels as reported to the State Board of Agriculture. These were grown on 107,301 acres, which would be an average of 49.57 bushels to the acre.

Among the counties which produced the largest averages for the acre were: Morrill county with 800 bushels, Scotts Bluff with 125. American county did not get so large a yield per acre, but raised more potatoes than any other county, the average being fifty-seven bushels to the acre and the total yield 82,788.

Following are the counties making the largest showing:

County	Bushels
Box Butte	595,470
Brown	256,878
Cherry	219,540
Chesapeake	177,824
Dawes	101,775
DeWitt	170,118

Uncle Walt The Poet Philosopher

The season is pretty near ended, the leaves fall, swarming the flies; our brains have sweated been splendid, and doubtless our minds...

THE RESULTS lives were wise. My sister; we sweated when all lighted up, and now that it's nearly October, O say, is there joy in our cup? We killed off the flies by the bushel, say, millions-and-millions were, and many a mosquito, and surely, my girl will be plain in a season or two. Bumped up by this hope of achieving, we swatted and swatted and swatted, all over the furniture weaving to capture some blue beetle's pest. And now at the end of September our feet have grown weary and cold; I try, but I cannot remember when (this was so sassy and bold. They buzz round our heads by the million, and nothing their efforts can kill. They crawl on the grass by the billion, so what have we gained by our toil? They camp on our backs when we are working, and not all our thunder bolts, and not all our shaking and jolting, will drive them away from their haunt. They bite and they luff and they burrow, they tickle and torture and tease, they glow in your person a furnace, they sting like a parcel of bees. So now I am grieved by our swatting, by toiling until we were blind. Each fly that is dead and forgotten left ten million daughters behind.

When weather is confounded hot, I do not seek the sea; I find the old accustomed spot is good enough for me.

STAYING winter winds, I seek no HOME warmer climes; I stay at home and do my grind and earn some wooden dimes. In other ways I need to fly when flying is not possible. When I have things unpleasant, tortured me, and bored me just the same. I left my home to dodge the heat that stizzled from the sun, and when I went the water beat upon me by the tons. I went out when winter set its snowflakes in my eyes, and where I went I had to swat mosquitoes, bugs and flies. To forests, mountains, streams and lakes at times I used to roam, and always found them tiresome, and never compared with my old home. There is no paradise on earth—smoke that in your cigar; there is no place where joy and mirth and peace abide in care. If things at home should make you weary, and fill your breast with woe; you'll doubtless find that things are worse where you propose to go. If you refuse to mope and brood, your griefs will have an end;—not latitude of longitude cuts any line, my friend.

Jerome, his grippe's proffered with law, keeps on the trail of Harry Thaw. Whenever Harry flees the coop, Jerome lets out a mighty whoop. Jerome and chuckle some staffer in his grip and goes upon a flying trip. No other man in life has been thus just to chase poor Harry Thaw, and legislate him into jail whenever he has hit the trail. When Thaw is safe in doug he keeps Jerome drops out and goes to the packing found in his den till Harry Thaw cuts loose again. We never hear of Bill Jerome at other times, he stays at home; of neither good nor ill; he stays in his own camp or court. One time alone in life he likes to try around and see things which had spring law to do for you well whenever Harry jumps his coil. The most of us must toil and plan, and hear the ancient curse of man, to gain the things we want and want, and night comes, the evening chime, and dreary is the path we wind, with little happiness in the end. But this Jerome, who does not toil, who does not brood the midnight owl, who does not reap or sow, who does not plan, who does not change, Harry Thaw, in royal purple die is dressed, and has large diamonds on his chest. Our toil is all of small avail; let's quit, and camp on Harry's trail!

You may play your concertina and your fiddles and your flutes, with your trumpets or your bugles you may fill the air with toots; you THE RAIN may organize a chorus of a thousand voices sweet, you may charter Mary Garden (and folks say she can't be best); you may play the loud piano till the neighbors stand aloof, but there is no music more than the rain upon the roof. WHEN THE RAIN WEATHERS POURS, it is a grand old time to be in a dromy, drastic dromy, when the grass and leaves have withered in siroccos from the south, when the sun for weeks together has been sizzling hot, and the air is so hot that you can't breathe. There's neither rose nor nard, there's neither anise nor nutmeg, when the 8th of June is blistered and all blistered is the town, then there is no music sweeter than the rain's coming down. I can hear it splash and hiss, I can hear the shingles, off my head, bringing hope to all things living, bringing life to some things dead, like a windy demonstration it is coming in the night. The rain will wash it better.

though the glare may sting, together as they sing o'er Judah's plain, they can give us sweeter music than the falling of the rain.

Full many a merchant in his gloomy store, in sorrow sits, and wonders as he says, "Why people come to buy his goods, when he has no more. How goods piled up in store, musty heaps, "I wonder how," in agony he moans. "I've got myself, apparently, in Dutch? Few men come here to spend their shining bones—the answer is, he always failed too much. "I wonder why," a lonely housewife sighs, "my husband stays from home when he can't get the way that I find stinky eyes, that I was fashioned on the goddess plan, and now the love that once he did profess, seems crippled sore, and hobbling on a crutch; what have I done to earn this dire displeasure?" The answer is, she always talked too much. The country man who's searching for a job, drags on his feet in weariness and woe. "I wonder why," he murmurs with a sob, "my fortune goes no everywhere I go? To earn success, I've striven and toiled, and now I'm left with nothing; my job is as lost as soon as they are gained, and on my uppers I must tread the street. Am I a Jonah, or the sport of fate? I hoodoo all and everything I touch, why must I beg for handouts at the gates?" The answer is, he always talked too much.

Is the furnace oiled and ready for its task? Not much longer in soft breezes may he back for the winter season is due, with its READY FOR WINTER snow-storms and ice, gentle readers, why I ask. Have you banked the house the way it ought to be? Have you got a pile of kindling for the stove? Have you got your winter's store ready for the stove and grate? Oh, you ought to try and pattern after me! For old Winter never hits me unaware; I am ready when he raps around and tears, with my hair and my back, in the cold, my ankles, with my feet upon a half a dozen chairs. Ah, the careless man is always in the hole; when the blizzards and the tempests start to roll, he is raging here and there, in his fury and despair, buying coal for a bushel of coal. And the dealer, who is coming with a crown, and they will turn with a glance and turn him down, for their phones are bringing in the coal, and the dealer is always in the hole, from every corner of the town. How I wish you'd have more sense, you careless ones! How I wish you'd look ahead a day or two and be ready for the storm with a pile that's good and warm, and a fire full of tempting things to chew.

We learn that a man residing in the southern part of the county, named Chaon, last week killed his horses and burned their harness and stable on account of gladders.

According to the Wakefield Star, the town will have to either stop growing or an addition must be laid out for the place to accommodate it.

In many parts of the state, the female suffrage movement is meeting with great success. We believe that Dixon county will not be behind the other counties, and will give a good majority in favor of the amendment.

When people object on the matter, they will not be behind the movement of the right of suffrage to women.

ORDER TO SHOW CAUSE

In the District Court of Wayne County, Nebraska.

In the matter of the application of Herbert E. Gorman, executor of the estate of Ralph Stevie and Jesse Stevie, minors, for leave to sell real estate. On reading the petition duly verified and filed with the clerk of this court, by the said Gorman, praying that the title of Ralph Stevie and Jesse Stevie, minors, be sold, and that the following described real estate situated in Wayne County, Nebraska, situated in the 10th and 11th ranges and 24th and 25th sections, Township Twenty-Six, North of Range Four of the Sixth P. M. in Wayne County, Nebraska, subject to the life estate of Herbert Gorman therein and it appearing to the court from the said petition, that said minors and their said guardian are non-residents of the State of Nebraska, and that it would be best to sell the said real estate for the benefit of the said minors, it is hereby ordered that you, or any of you, interested in said estate, and in said real estate appear before me, the Judge of said court, at Chambers at the Court House in the City of Wayne, County of Wayne, and State of Nebraska, on the 3rd day of November, 1913, at 8 o'clock a. m., to show cause, if any there be, why license should not be granted to the said J. E. Gorman, executor of said estate, to sell the said real estate of said minors for the purposes above set forth.

This order is given for the benefit of all persons interested in said estate. Done in open court at Wayne, in said Judicial District, this 10th day of October, 1913. A. A. WELCH, Judge of the District Court.
