

COURTHOUSE NEWS DURING PAST WEEK

ONE CHARGE OF LAW VIOLATION

Complaint Against A. J. Honey of Carroll Vicinity—Will of the Late Judge H. H. Moore.

In the county court yesterday, complaint was made by Dr. W. H. Phillips of Carroll, charging A. J. Honey of the Carroll vicinity, with violating the quarantine law. Dr. Phillips prosecuted the family suffering from smallpox, and accordingly ordering a quarantine. Mr. Honey will appear for a hearing at a date to be fixed by agreement between his attorneys and will handle the case. County Attorney A. L. Kiplinger will conduct the prosecution, and Attorney Fred S. Barry will appear for Mr. Honey.

The will of the late Judge H. H. Moore was filed in the county court Monday. Besides interests elsewhere, the estate includes 640 acres in Wayne county, and Wayne business and residence property.

An unprecedented thing in the experience of the county court happened this week. A man who had been sued for a certain amount, sent the court $17.48 more than was wanted to square the obligation. He wanted to be sure to send enough, and sent too much.

Under the new law, those who have given their home farms names, and registered same with the county clerk, are as follows: C. H. Morris of Sherman precinct, farm name "Waldenview"; Llewellyn E. Morris of Sherman precinct, farm name "Fingert"; H. T. Prines of Chapin precinct, farm name "Bus Gables."

Mortgage indebtedness for Wayne county, November, 1913: Farm mortgages—Filed, 8 amounting to $10,590; released, 6 amounting to $18,200.

City mortgages—Filed, 9 amounting to $30,400; released, 6 amounting to $6,678.

Mechanics' mortgages—Filed, 34 amounting to $30,065.93; released, 36 amounting to $16,954.51.

DISMEMBERED HEAD EXHIBITED IN COURT

Wabos, Neb. Dec. 9.—The dismembered head of Dutch J. John Johnson, for whose murder his wife is now on trial in criminal court here, was introduced as evidence today, and lay on the table for several hours until it was taken away by Coroner Biggerstaff, whose testimony concerned it. The jury was completed today, and taking testimony commenced immediately.

The first witness was Charles Bager, who told of finding the body on September 21, one mile north of Ashland.

Coroner Biggerstaff's testimony then followed, and he brought the head of the dead man to court to establish the identity of the murdered man. Mrs. Grothe, daughter of Johnson by a former wife, testified that she had been that of her father, and also nearly fainted in court while testifying. She said the last time she saw him alive was on August 27.

H. A. Coleman and bride were arrivals from Benson, Neb., Monday evening, and visited Mrs. and Mrs. R. P. Bedman, northeast of town, until this morning, when they left for Ell, Neb., where they will make their home. Mr. and Mrs. Coleman were married at Benson Monday by Rev. C. J. Ringer, formerly of Wayne.

A. P. Gossard returned yesterday from Omaha where he attended the annual farmers' convention.

MARRIED IN WAYNE AT NOON YESTERDAY

A quiet wedding was solemnized at high noon yesterday at the home of Mrs. and Mrs. William Fingert, where their eldest daughter, Rose Margaret Fingert, was united in holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. Martin L. Ringer. The ceremony was performed by Rev. C. J. Ringer, who performed the ceremony in the presence of family and good wishes, all gathered to the dining room, where a delicious two-course luncheon was served. A central table attraction was a large white wedding cake, surrounded by sprays of ivy, white roses, ferns and ivy were used in decorating the different rooms.

The bride wore a beautiful gown of white shadow point lace, with trimmings of white satin and rhinestones. She wore a bridal veil, arranged in the soft effect, with sprays of ivy, and carried an arm bouquet of Easter lilies, lilies of the valley and maidenhair fern. Her bridesmaid wore a gown of white voile. After luncheon, the bride and groom left by automobile for Elgin, where they will spend the next few days, including trip, expecting to visit Omaha, Des Moines and a number of other points, and will be at home to their friends in Wayne after December 20.

Both bride and groom are well and enjoying the honeymoon. The bride was born and raised in Wayne, and attended the public schools and State Normal, and for the past nine years has been bookkeeper for her father and stenographer for the Citizens National bank. She has also been active in church circles, having been organist in the German Lutheran church for the past eight years. The groom is also a graduate of the Wayne schools and later finished his education in the Wayne State Normal. He is at the present time inventor with the Kobi Land and Investment company, and has a promising future. The Herald joins their many friends in extending congratulations and best wishes.

Many beautiful and valuable presents were received.

Out of town guests were Rev. and Mrs. C. J. Ringer of Benson, Neb., and Mrs. Ringer of Omaha.

BANQUET FOLLOWS SOCIETY CONTEST

Members of the Methodist Aid society, at their meeting six weeks ago, decided to choose sides and have a contest to gain new members. For one month, the ladies worked faithfully, resulting in fifty-eight new members. The penalty imposed on the losing side was to be a banquet for the society, which was given yesterday afternoon in the church parlor. The room and tables were tastefully decorated in Christmas colors. A short program was rendered. Mrs. Britton gave, in well chosen words, a welcome to the new members, and encouragement to the society. A review of the early days of the society was given by Mrs. Fortner and Mrs. Crockett. A song by Mrs. Olson closed the program, after which a delicious supper was served. Members of the losing side proved royal entertainers. The result of the contest was not only a gain in membership, but an inspiration to all for greater work spiritually and socially.

The executive committee of the Commercial club met Tuesday evening, but did no business. It is expected to meet again tomorrow night.

CHRISTMAS BUYING BEGINS IN EARNEST

WAYNE STORES INVITE PUBLIC

Embellishment with Decorations and Stocked with Latest and Best in Holiday Goods.

Wayne stores are in holiday attire, and are heavily stocked with things suited for the holiday trade. Myriads of toys and fancy articles are attractively displayed, and big stocks of other and more substantial things appropriate for gifts have been selected with the utmost care and are ready for inspection.

The Herald invites attention to the advertising columns for Christmas suggestions. Everything conceivable for holiday needs is offered, and the price will be found marked down to the lowest possible notch. With the quality and quantity in stocks presented and prices quoted, there is no conceivable excuse for postponing for anything. And the Wayne goods are here. There is no delay in getting and taking home the things bought. Moreover, Wayne goods can be carefully inspected before purchase are made. Wayne merchants extend a cordial welcome to the public, and are supplied and ready to meet every want promptly and satisfactorily.

The Christmas spirit, by representing the school in this part of the year. In the first grade, the teacher is telling Elizabeth Harrison's story of the Christ Child.

The leading thought in the kindergarten, for the month of December, is Christmas. Last week, the children very much interested in the story of "The First Christmas." This week the subject of "Christmas in Other Lands" is taken up, especially in the countries of Holland, Germany, Norway, Sweden, France and Italy. Next week, the children will be enthusiastic over getting ready for Christmas, when the wax fingers will be busy finishing their Christmas secrets.

"And if you should happen on one, Don't you tell a single thing!"

Misses Wood, Burson, and Douglas were at Wayne Saturday afternoon, attending teachers' meeting.

Bessell Reese returned from Lincoln Monday morning. He reports Mrs. Reese's condition much improved.

The Carroll teachers want all people and women, interested in the school, to be at a school Friday, December 12. They have something for you.

The home of E. B. Francis, whose daughter Gladys was suffering from scarlet fever and diphtheria, was released from quarantine Saturday evening.

DRAGGING OF ROADS AND WAYNE STREETS

It is reported that farmers around Wayne have been dragging roads and putting them in good shape. Work of dragging Wayne's streets was started today, and is expected to be continued until they have long made smooth and easily passable. Then automobiles can be restored to use, and transportation made quicker and more comfortable.

DISTRICT RALLY OF M. W. A. HELD IN WAYNE

About one hundred members of the M. W. A. attended the district rally of the order held at the city hall at this place last Thursday night.

The inclement weather and muddy roads prevented attendance from the outside.

After the meeting at the city hall, the crowd repaired to the Odd Fellows hall, where a buffet luncheon was enjoyed.

At the city hall, Registrar W. D. Hedmond of the Wayne State Normal presented, and introduced the speaker of the evening, Consul A. B. Talbot of Lincoln.

As reported, Mr. Talbot's bitter by assumed insurgent literature sent to the lodges some time ago, and which he said had attacked the reputation and good name of himself and other lodge officers because of their support of higher rates in the lodge.

Mr. Talbot also entertained his hearers with a detailed explanation of the M. W. A. sanitarium for tuberculosis victims near Colorado Springs, Colo., illustrating his speech with lantern pictures.

In his defense, Mr. Talbot said, "I have spent twenty-three years in the service of the society, and during that time have tried to conduct myself in an honest, straightforward manner. Now, because I support a measure raised in the name which I know to be necessary, I am accused of attempting to sell the lodge which has taken the best years of my life, to the old life insurance interests."

"I am glad of the opportunity to do away with such accusations at this public hearing. I would as soon denounce my own family as besmirch and betray the great order of which I have been the head so long. I do not expect an immediate change in rates, but the society was never in better financial condition, but with insurance commissioners of every state demanding that we make a change, we must either ask the legislature for milder laws or accede to their demands."

"I believe I have a right to be indignant. I want the bare facts to stand before every lodge in our order."

"I know my opponents are uttering a lie, but I expect to stand before the grand jury as a candidate to sue myself, and will ask the neighbors with whom I have worked so long to decide whether I shall continue in the work to which I have devoted my life."

The next meeting will be with Mrs. C. L. Myers, and a cordial invitation is extended to all the women of Wayne.

The Junior circle entertained the Normal circle Saturday evening with an attendance of nearly sixty. Miss Florence Gardner presided in her usual pleasing manner and Miss Lou Hughes was the leader of the lesson study.

Eight refreshments were served; the hostess, Mrs. McVey, being assisted by Miss Stearns, and Miss Metcalf of Wakefield. The next meeting will be with Mrs. McVey on Saturday night with Miss Della Anderson as leader, who a company of girls from Wakefield will be present, and assist in making the occasion a helpful one. All girls are cordially welcome.

Thursday, December 4, was the twentieth birthday anniversary of Mrs. Mary Reynolds. In the afternoon, she was invited to the home of her daughter, Mrs. H. B. Craven, where she was later joined by her children and grandchildren who had her celebrate the occasion. At the close of the afternoon, light refreshments were served. Another pleasing feature was a postcard shower, in which Mrs. Reynolds received about two hundred cards from relatives and friends, and old acquaintances at different points, bearing congratulations and good wishes. The day proved a most happy one.

TRUSTEE OF BAPTIST NEBRASKA COLLEGE

C. M. Christensen of Wayne, has been elected a member of the board of trustees of the Baptist college located at Omaha, Neb.—Mr. Christensen served on the board the late Levi Klinghall or Wakefield, who held the place for a number of years, and who was an active member of the Wayne Baptist church.

Mr. Christensen represents the management of the school, and now will question the wisdom of selecting Mr. Christensen. He is a trustee of the Wayne church, and a financial supporter of these Baptist educational institutions. He is a man of excellent character and sound business judgment.

A regular meeting of the Wayne camp, No. 1076, M. W. of A., Tuesday evening, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Clyde Oman, V. C. W. D. Redmond, W. A.; George Fortner, leader; Le Roy Loy, clerk; F. H. Benhook, escort; P. H. Benhook, deputy; Drs. S. A. Laignon and J. J. Williams, physicians; Theo. Bell, secretary; R. E. Smith, watchman; D. S. McVicker, manager; J. E. Lane, manager. There will be a joint installation with the Royal Neighbors at their next regular meeting, January 6, 1914.

M. W. A. ELBOTS OFFICERS.—A regular meeting of the Wayne camp, No. 1076, M. W. of A., Tuesday evening, the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: Clyde Oman, V. C. W. D. Redmond, W. A.; George Fortner, leader; Le Roy Loy, clerk; F. H. Benhook, escort; P. H. Benhook, deputy; Drs. S. A. Laignon and J. J. Williams, physicians; Theo. Bell, secretary; R. E. Smith, watchman; D. S. DOG POISONER GETS VALUABLE ANIMALS.—Someone has been poisoning dogs in Wayne the last few days, and a number of highly prized animals have been killed in that manner. The dogs of Perry Theobald, William Weber, Vern Bishop and J. H. McIntire were found dead Tuesday morning. The valuable dog belonging to F. E. Strahan was released from home at 6:30 yesterday morning, and a half hour later was found dead. The owners of these dogs are deeply incensed over their losses, and a movement is being considered to ferret out and prosecute the guilty.

LOCAL NEWS.—A large audience listened to the third number of the Wayne lecture course at the opera house Friday evening. The entertainment was a reproduction of different classes of literature by Wallace Bruce Anshury, and was very interesting and instructive.

Laurel Kivric, wife of G. Jones, a farmer living near Wynot, died from complications of the New Meningitis at St. Louis City Saturday night. He was returning from a trip to Montana, and retired about 1:30 p.m. in the morning. The odor of gas was not detected until morning, when the manager of the hotel noticed it while passing through the hall. The coroner declared the man had been dead several hours when found.

Separate bids to be made upon each class of bridges and each class of approaches, and at a specified sum per linear foot for the superstructure of each of said classes of bridges, and each of said classes of approaches. Bids to be built within ten days, from notice by said county to construct the same, and in case any contractor is to be selected who on all one stands, contractor to tear down said old bridge, and remove and pile all old lumber on each bridge; this to mean also the removal of all pile along with the lumber in each bridge, and to transport the same to the place where the timber and piles to remain the property of the county. Said bids to be filed with the county clerk of said Wayne county, Nebraska, on or before the 10 o'clock noon of the 16th day of January, 1914. Said bids for the building and repairing of bridges will be opened at 12 o'clock noon on the 16th day of January, 1914. Said bids to be opened by the county clerk of said county in the presence of the board of county commissioners of said county, at the office of the county clerk of said county. No bids will be considered unless accompanied by cash or certified check for $200, payable to Chas. W. Reynolds, county clerk of said county, to be forfeited to said county in case the bidder refuses to enter into contract with said county or some is awarded to him. Successful bidder will be required to give bond to the county to the tune of more or good and sufficient sureties in the amount of $1,000 conditioned for the faithful performance of the contract awarded to him. Also, bids will be required for all of the above work at same time and place, and under all conditions as above set forth, and the county to furnish all material delivered at nearest railroad station, except pile, which will be delivered either at Wayne or Carroll.

The plans and specifications as adopted, and also the bidding blanks are furnished by the State Bridge Engineer of Lincoln, Neb., who will upon request furnish copies of the same. Bidding blanks will also be found in the office of the county clerk.

The board of county commissioners reserve the right to reject any and all bids.

Dated at Wayne, Nebraska, this 9th day of December, 1913.

The Scrap Book

She Balked.
An amazing anecdote of Pomb, the great South American poet, is told by Phanor J. Eder in his volume "Columbia." The incident happened in a New York literary circle, presided over by a distinguished Argentine lady, Pomb, who was a tall, thin, very-bona-fide had been presented to her, and she asked him with such enthusiasm who was the anonymous poetess, the famous Edla the Sorocana.

"Do you really know these verses?" she asked.

"SPEAK, MAN!" cried the Argentine poetess.

"Words reading! Verses vibrating with the deepest passions of a woman's soul, so essentially feminine, so full, so exalting, the mysticism, the adoration of a Santa Teresa! Oh, you men! Who among you could write such verses?"

"Well," said Pomb, "Edla is now in New York, and if you want to make her acquaintance—"

Speak—meant—said his hostess impetuously. "Where does she live? What's her name? I'll see her tomorrow. I will cover her with kisses."

"The best of women," said the ugly little Pomb, "—I am Edla."

Duty, Friendship, Love.
The truest friendship, love, duty, friendship, love, without them that good which boys in earth above.

But why discuss can that? What else so long survives In courts to endure To live their human lives? Believe, for they are real. These virtues pure and high. Pursuit of the ideal. This men to live and die.—John Goadby Gregory.

Could't Fool Her.
This story of Gibbon, the famous historian, was told by a contemporary: "Gibbon had a small face, almost lost between a high forehead and a big double chin and a caricature of a nose which was curled between the encroaching slopes of a pair of baggy cheeks. One day he was introduced by M. de Launay to Mlle de Launay, a young lady who was in the habit of passing her hands over the features of her renowned contemporaries when introduced to her in order to get an idea of their appearance. Gibbon received these marks of attention offering his face to the exploration of the blind lady's fingers with a delightful frankness."

"This is a bad joke!"

"Miss du Defend passed her fingers over my face and said: 'This is a bad joke.' She did her utmost to discover some other outstanding trait than the pair of abnormally developed cheeks, but all to no purpose. During the accompanying expressions of doubt and bewilderment chased each other over the face of the blind woman until, at last, in an outburst of anger, she let her hand fall on his side and cried out: 'Bah, this is a bad joke!'"

We Was No Scot.
On one occasion Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman and Taylor, the golf champion, were at a dinner. A Scotch relative of Sir Henry's earnestly contended that Taylor was of Scotch birth, a claim which Sir Henry was inclined to support. One of the guests then interposed: "Well, all I know about Taylor is that he is a very nice man; my golf club engaged him to play an exhibition match at a fixed fee. Taylor duly came, but the weather was so wet that no golf could be played, and when he offered his payment he refused frankly, only raising his hand in traveling expense." Whereupon Sir Henry turned to a companion and said, "It is said that a fact is quite fatal to our contention!"

A Matter of Course.
A famous actor and always pretended to scorn golf as a game for old men and cripples—was once persuaded to try a link-club to support. Almost the whole club went to the first tee to see him drive on.

"What have I got to do, caddie, my old friends?" he remarked in disgust.

"You drive off from here, sir," said the caddie, pointing to the tee, "and foot's set out to get the hole that little hole with the red flag flying above it. I'll go on and put your ball."

The caddie moved on and the cripple, who never drove, turned to the hole. By an extraordinary stroke of luck, he drove a beautiful ball, which landed just on the edge of the green and slowly trickled down into the hole.

The caddie, wild with excitement, came dashing back, shouting: "You're down in one, sir—the ball's in the hole!"

"Oh, is it? I'm glad of that," replied the novice uncomprehendingly. "At that rate I shall have published in the Badminton Magazine."

You are further notified that the time in which you may redeem said property will expire on the 15th day of April, 1914, and that unless the same is redeemed, I will apply for a sale. Dated this 14th day of December, 1913. I. W. ALTER, Purchaser.

HIS OWN LAST WAGER.

Even Though It Was a Sure Loss, He Was Perfectly Satisfied. They were talking in the smoking room about steamship adventures, and Alf Hayman, the impresario, said: "I'll tell you a story about an American easy money." "Mr. Easy Mark, on the way back home from a summer tour of Europe, shared a stateroom with two men who he believed to 'revere' were 'muffins'." "He talked to them was slaters because they were continually proposing the most tempting bets to him—bets where it seemed impossible for him to lose—and yet, as soon as he put up his money, the two men took it away from him." "So he came to believe that the bets were crooked. Nevertheless, they were also tempting that he couldn't resist them, and finally his funds got down to $5.00." "On the last day of the voyage he had the two men."

GOT RID OF THE BORE.

The Method, Though, Was Less Tactful Than Clemenceau Intended. M. Clemenceau, the French statesman, for many years an excellent and faithful servant, whose education had unfortunately been somewhat neglected. In point of fact, he could neither read nor write. Some time ago a respectable senator who was also a venerable bore called on M. Clemenceau and asked to see him. The latter called through the faithful servant that he was exceedingly busy and would be much obliged if the senator could find time to call again next morning. But the senator insisted. It was, he said, an affair of the utmost urgency, and tomorrow would be too late. So he scribbled the object of his visit on the back of his card, which he gave to the servant to take to his master.

M. Clemenceau, somewhat annoyed by this persistence, handed the card to the servant and gave it to the secretary, M. Coussol. Now, the second line ran thus: "Coussol, get rid of this old fool in five minutes." The servant went to look for M. Coussol, but M. Coussol was not in the office. He had to go to the office to the courage to disturb his master again, so he took the card to the expected satisfaction of the senator. He said, "I am, unfortunately, M. Clemenceau's boss, and M. Coussol is not; but my master has written the reply here. If you would care to read it, I will be glad to do so." The senator read and left the house, and since then M. Clemenceau counts one supporter less in the upper chamber.

ALL in the Same Boat.

This is one of President Wilson's stories. "A friend of mine was in Canada with a fishing party, and one member of the party was prudent enough to sample some whiskey that was called Squirrel whiskey because it made those who drank it inclined to climb a tree. This gentleman indulged too much of this dangerous liquid, and the consequence was that when he went to the train to go with the rest of the company he took a train bound south in stead of a train bound north. Wish- ing to recover him, his companion telegraphed the conductor of the south bound train, and the latter, after a long search, took for the northbound train. He is intoxicated."

A Timid Bull Fighter. Giuseppe Campanari, baritone of the Metropolitan Opera company in Grau and Courled days, now spreads his numbers at Sissonson, having been inveigled there by his friend, former Justice Flammer of New York. Of all the baritone's parts his favorite is that of Escamillo, the torero in "Carmen." Judge Flammer, who was laid upon his back, persuaded the singer Campanari to undertake to learn the "game" on the Sissonson links. The baritone drove off. His tall, erect, athletic left hand came and landed gracefully between two cows grazing on the outskirts of the links. The baritone gazed indignantly at him, but did not move. "Your bull!" said the former magistrate. "There it is between those two cows. Go and get it!" Signor Campanari took a few steps forward and then a step back. "They look dangerous," he said doubtfully. Mr. Flammer looked at him for a moment in a pained silence. "Campanari!" he said at length, "excuse me, but you're a— of a torero!"

royal, noble and simple. Only then did every one behind the scenes of misbehavior in their entirety and for the last time, as after marriage they were lastly dressed on the head. Among some the trousers were cut and carefully stowed away on a woman becoming a wife. It was customary in Russia for village brides to check their locks on returning from church. Family Doctor.

The Bridal Veil. The bridal veil is an oddity of eastern origin, being a relic of the bridal canopy held over the heads of the bride and bridegroom. Among the Anglo-Saxons a similar custom existed, but if the bride was a widow it was dispensed with. According to Sarum usage, a fine linen cloth was laid upon the heads of the bride and bridegroom and was not removed until the benediction had been said. The old British custom was to use the bride's veil—adorned with the long hair of the bride, which was so worn by all brides.

The blizzard of snow hurricanes of the Pacific is a meteorological phenomenon of great interest. Even in midsummer the temperature during a snow storm frequently falls to 40 degrees F., while in one winter it dropped to 45 degrees below zero at the end of January. When blizzards come on, starting suddenly, the atmosphere growing dark with whirling snowflakes were scarcely a minute before the sky was perfectly clear.

THE WEEK WITH THE CHURCHES.

German Evangelical Lutheran Church (Rev. R. Moehring, Pastor). Services and Sunday school at the usual hours next Sunday.

St. Mary's Catholic Church (Rev. William Kearns, Pastor). Mass in Wayne Sunday morning at 8:30, and benediction in the evening at 7:30. Mass in Carroll at 10:30 a. m., and catechism at 11:30 a. m. Catechism class in Wayne Saturday morning at 11 o'clock.

First Baptist Church (Rev. H. P. Richardson, Pastor.). Our meetings continue with increasing power. In spite of the disagreeable weather last week, a deep spiritual atmosphere was created in the church, and the meetings were remarkably well attended by the members.

Sunday was a good day with us. Splendid audiences and a deep interest. One confession of faith at the evening service. Others, deeply interested. The best reports of the meetings are the afternoon prayer meetings. These have been well attended and fervent in spirit. Last Friday, in spite of the rain, about thirty ladies attended prayer meeting. Telephone Mrs. M. Norton or Mrs. C. M. Christensen, at home to where the next prayer meeting will be held.

Next Sunday should be our greatest day. There are many reasons why it should be so. It is ought to mean much to every member of our church, and much to our city.

Let us make a desire to have every person in Wayne go to church, some where on next Sunday. Invite your neighbors. It may mean very much to him and his family.

St. Paul's Lutheran Church.

(Rev. F. E. Blessing, Pastor). Sunday school at 10 o'clock. We ask the assistance of every member of the church in the "Old Sunday" service. Come and bring the children, and by so doing you will cause them to take greater interest in the work. The children are working hard on their Christmas program. Services in the morning at 11 o'clock. The subject of the autumn-vest Sunday morning will be "The Lord's Requirements," Micah vi, 8. Has man been placed in this world as an independent being? Has God placed him in this universe simply to enjoy the pleasures and blessings it can give, never to be mindful of the source from which they came? There are some people who think so. Many people who believe themselves independent of all power, even that of God. How true such a person before he was stricken down in the road on his way to Damascus, and became a helpless man. But in his helpless condition, he realized that man has his duties to perform to his God, and that he is to bear his prophet, saying: "If he hath showed thee, O man, what is good, and what does the Lord require of thee, but to do justly and to love mercy and to walk humbly with thy God."

The evening service begins at 7:30. The subject will be "The Descent of Christ into Hades," Acts ii, 24-31; I Peter iii, 18-20.

Chair rehearsal has been changed from Friday evening to Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Mary Sorenson, Thursday, December 18.

"Inspection" by the Commander-in-Chief. The meetings have been of much help to the church, and have stirred up an increased interest in the general work of the congregation. The services were arranged specifically for the edification of the church membership.

The lazar conducted last Saturday by the ladies of the church was a complete success. A large assortment of fancy articles, and a fine display of food stuffs and candy were offered for sale, and the patrons of the bazaar showed their appreciation of the bargain by quickly purchasing almost the entire stock. Over $100 was realized by the Ladies' Aid society as a result of the enterprise.

Preparations for the Christmas exercises in the Sunday school are in progress, and committees have been appointed to prepare the program, and arrange for the annual Christmas treat to the Sunday school pupils. The exercises will be given at the church on Christmas eve.

The services last Sunday were of more than ordinary interest as it was the first Wayne "church Sabbath." In the morning the pastor showed the unity of the faith of all the christian churches throughout the world, and especially in Wayne, comparing the present-day divisions of the church to the divisions of an army into brigades and regiments. "Every christian church in Wayne preaches Jesus Christ as the son of God, the savior and the perfect example for men."

Methodist Church.

(Rev. C. L. Myers, Pastor). Special meetings. You are invited. "What shall I do to be saved?" Brother Miner and Sister Hixcox are the speakers. Mrs. Maud Craven transfers her letter from Fullerton to Wayne. Seven members received and four dismissed the past quarter. The district superintendent was with us Saturday evening and Sunday evening, giving us a splendid address. The bass solo rendered Sunday morning by Mr. Fleetwood was very much appreciated. More than sixty people attended the Fourth League devotional meeting. Mrs. Young was the leader, and Miss Emdee sang a fine solo. The Methodist of Wayne has their faces to the front. On the 14th-in-the-morning, the sacrament will be administered. Let every member be present. A fine meeting of the King's Herald last Sunday afternoon.

Christmas preparation has begun. Regular monthly meeting of the Missionary societies Friday, December 12, at 2:30, with Mrs. A. M. Holt. This meeting always occurs in the second week of the month. The Sunday school is on the increase. Can our attendance reach the enrollment? Brother Beckenbauer resigned and Brother Ward was elected as superintendent in his stead.

Would you like to join a teachers' training class? Ask your pastor about it.

On the first of the "church Sundays," we had five hundred present. Can we make it larger? A new campaign, and on a different line will be opened about the first of the year.

How would a contest in the brotherhood suit you? Surely we can get more than fifty men to join, and then this is just the time of the year for contests.

How's your spiritual life? Come to the special services and be revived again.

The orchestra adds, very materially to the attractiveness of our music. This is a permanent addition which we hope to enlarge.

How about that church letter of yours, hidden away under a lot of things that are never used? Dig it out and hand it to your pastor, then get to work for the Lord and your church.

Every religious effort should be made through some church or organization with a machinery that has both power and prestige. Reasons will be given in this column next week. Meanwhile, think.

The 14th is the second of the special church Sundays. Don't forget to encourage others to come with you. Bring your children to the Lord's table next Sunday.

Jeopard meeting will be held in the city hall Saturday at 3 o'clock, conducted by the ministers of Wayne. Come and have a season of refreshing.

of the city, all of whom are invited to be present, and will be quite informal. The service will last from 3 to 4 o'clock and the people from the city are asked to step into the meeting for part of the time even if unable to remain during the entire service. Short stirring talks will be given by Revs. Richardson, Corkey, and Myers, and gospel hymns will be sung.

If a woman is sufficiently good looking, it doesn't take much of an excuse to get her pictures in the papers.

Her Christmas Stocking

I'm expecting such a lot of stuff,
My stocking won't be big enough,
And so before I go to bed
I'll just hang mamma's up instead.

THE BEAUTIFUL SANTA MYTH.

Don't Undecide the Little Ones About St. Nick.

If your daughter is just six or seven years old and you are beginning to feel your conscience pinch you at deciding her any longer with the beautiful myth of Santa Claus, just silence that conscience and wait until she finds out the truth for herself.
If your daughter has any illusions left in this day of disillusion, let her keep them. She will feel some resentment toward you for shattering them than she will for deceiving her. You do not think it necessary to tell your growing girl all that is on her mind discovered about love and matrimony and thereby terminate her dreams that those myths are all they seem to be.

After all, the sweetest part of a girl's life from babyhood up is the dream part. Some day she will find out that there is no Santa Claus, and then she will find out that there are no fairies, and then she will find out that romance doesn't last, and then that matrimony has its thorns, and then that women grow old but why open her eyes to these things?

Let a child believe in Santa Claus just as long as he or she will, and pluck the delicious fruit from the mythical Christmas tree to her heart's content. It is bad enough to discover the savdust in the doll of life when it begins to fall out without being told about it when you thought it was truly flesh and blood.

If any mother's conscience is troubling her about the Christmas myth, let her just move, let her sit down and try to remember that awful day when she first discovered that there was no Santa Claus, and that conscience will shut up tight and never open its mouth again.

The Glastonbury Thorn.
A famous old English tree was the Christmas "thorn." According to the old monkish legend, St. Joseph, while resting, fixed his staff in the earth, where it immediately took root and after eight blossomed forth on Christmas day. Curiously enough, when the change of state took place, when the was seen on the tree until old Christmas day came round. The incredible truth is the tree was one brought from Palestine by some of the pilgrims, there being a species of thorn, a native of that country, which blossoms at Christmas.

Devonshire's Yule Log.
In Devonshire the Yule log was represented by the "ashdon fagot" which was brought in and stored with great care. The fagot was composed entirely of ash timber, bound round with nine bands, and while it burnt merrily on the hearth, health, wealth and fun were the order of the night. For every crack which the burning of the hoops made, a master of the house would proceed to furnish a fool with a liquor.

A Mistletoe Doubt

By W. B. HOLLAND

SWEET Blossie was there 'neath the mistletoe.
An alluring picture in pink and white.
Her eyes were inviting, her cheeks aglow,
Her lips were puckered and arranged just right.

She knew, of course, when I found her there
That she was caught in the kissing trap.
I got the kiss—she played the game
But I think she expected the other chap.

The Lord of Misrule.
The "Lord of Misrule," who sometimes reigned in the whimsical title of "Mayor or Emperor," was a very important functionary of the Christmas ceremonies in the olden time. His office was that of master of the revels, and in castle and hall, from Christmas eve down to Twelfth day, he was absolute master of all. On taking up the duties of his office he generally made some quaint speech, explaining to the company that he absolved them of all their reason and that they were to be his subjects, to make fools of themselves. Under his rule all were to be equal. No one was to sit again in pride of self, stately to laugh at others. Moreover, being possessed of the magic power to turn his auditors into "fools," if it pleased his intention, while his sovereignty lasted, that these about-castles, householders as such.

AN ARTICLE IN THE LINCOLN JOURNAL

W. D. Redmond, Registrar of State Normal, Makes Report Touched by Lincoln Paper.

Lincoln Journal: U. S. Conn, president of the Wayne State Normal school, has filed his semiannual report with the governor. In accordance with instructions or permission from the state normal board, he attended the national educational association at Salt Lake City at the expense of the state.

Mr. Conn made the trip to Salt Lake City in July, June 16, he drew $75 for traveling expense.

His report is full of payments to him for funds advanced for the maintenance of the institution over which he presides. It is noteworthy for the heads of state normals, under the new arrangement, to pay out large sums of money from their own pockets during the year, and to draw on the state treasury from time to time for reimbursement.

Normal schools are under control of the state normal board, which appoints a fraction of a mill annual levy for their maintenance.

From this fund, the principal draw for reimbursement when they advance money for the benefit of the institution over which they preside. The cost of requiring the head of normal to advance funds for their own for the benefit of their institutions has been criticized, but it still prevails.

Under the Gerdes law, the heads of normal are required to pay into the state treasury cash derived from the sale of state property, and other receipts including matriculation fees, which go into the state treasury as a primary fund.

The new state board of control has provided that each employe or officer of a state institution shall receive an individual warrant on the state treasury for his services, but this law does not apply to the normal. The head of normal continues to draw from the state treasury in a lump sum an amount sufficient to pay all employes monthly.

The heads then pay the employe by private check. The amount is covered by the report of Mr. Conn, he draw monthly payroll in lump-sums as follows:

Table with 2 columns: Month, Amount. July: $3,378.90; August: 3,496.49; September: 3,509.60; October: 3,578.20; November: 3,520.00.

Total $18,540.00. For advancement expenses, Mr. Conn advanced $92.10 for which he was reimbursed. He advanced $75 for a lecture by A. E. Winship of Boston. He paid the city of Wayne $167.84 for the purchase of electric light.

The state normal board appropriated a total of $110,000 for the maintenance of the institution out of a tax on the town of Wayne. The fund was $20,000, leaving on hand $90,000.

The library fund, made up mostly from matriculation fees, now contains $2,148.56. In the cash fund there is $2,877.18. The sale of state property in six months brought $276.78 into the institution cash fund. The report does not show what kind of property was sold.

The attention of W. D. Redmond, registrar of the Wayne State Normal, was called to the above article, and he makes the following comment: "The criticism relates to methods used by all the normals, and statements are made which are misleading unless properly understood. Attendance at the National Educational Association was authorized by the board at the June meeting, and each of the four principals attended, their expense being paid out of the fund for maintenance of the normal. The normal board does not give an individual salary voucher and agrees to it before a notary public. At the same time, he signs a general payroll voucher, directing the auditor to include his warrant in a sum total in payment of the entire amount made to the principal, who will distribute the same to the several parties to whom it is payable. After approval by the principal, these vouchers are mailed to the president and secretary of the board of education, and then presented to the auditor. When the warrant is received, it is deposited to the credit of the state normal school salaries fund, and each employe receives the amount of his salary by check stamped and signed by the principal, for an amount which corresponds with the amount appearing on the voucher on file with the auditor. The statement that "heads of the schools pay the employe by private check" is not true. The principal receives his monthly salary in the same manner as that of any other person employed by the state. The present plan, while it is carefully safeguarded, affords the school no advantage over that of having each employe receive a warrant made out in his own name, and as for money done, it is a decided advantage for the state, inasmuch as it saves the cost of the monthly warrants, where it means the writing of four monthly warrants instead of 150.

The practice of requiring the principals of the state normals to make payments in the interest of their institution is also criticized. "The facts are," it is pointed out, "that the warrants made by principals of normal schools, it is done now less frequently than ever before. The need of making advance payments is and always has been an annoyance to the business manager of a normal school, and the board of education and the principals avoid making them except in cases that seem advisable, or, as often is the case, absolutely necessary. It should be remembered that every claim allowed, except for salaries, must be passed upon at a regular meeting of the board. This board met on September 2, 1913, and the next meeting for allowing claims is called for January 13, 1914. At that time, every principal will present one or more vouchers drawn in his favor, the attached receipts showing in each case the purpose for which the money is expended. That is, less some of the receipts will show amounts paid in a sum not to exceed one or two dollars, and for labor performed early in September. If the principal does not advance it each month, he is unable to carry out his account, must wait three or four months for his pay. "Again, there is the question of postage. If one of the state departments at Lincoln should be in need of postage stamps, he makes out and signs a voucher, presents it to the auditor, and receives at once a warrant with which to pay the postmaster. If a normal school president runs out of postage, there are two courses open to him: he may either stop writing letters or advance money for the stamps. The latter case is the one always pursued. The same problem exists in meeting the bills presented for freight and express. At Wayne, payment for such items is made at the close of each month, not because it seems desirable or entirely satisfactory, but because this is the best arrangement that can be made with the express company. "Advanced payments, however, whenever it is possible to do so, are authorized by the board before the payment is made. Take, for example, the item mentioned by the Journal as being presented for freight and express for a lecture. Referring to President Conn's report to the board of education on June 16, it will be found that he asked permission to secure Mr. Winship for an educational lecture, and that the board on the same date authorized him to pay not to exceed $100 to defray the expense of educational lectures given during the summer session. On July 1, Mr. Winship presented two lectures and was paid $75. His receipt for the same was attached to the voucher presented by Mr. Conn at the next meeting of the board, which was held on July 21. "Those who understand the system explained by the board in passing upon claims know that every voucher presented must meet certain conditions

FUNERAL AND BURIAL OF LATE JUDGE MOSES

The remains of the late Judge H. H. Moses, whose death occurred in Pasadena, Cal., December 1, were delayed by snows in the mountains, and did not arrive here until a day later than expected. Accompanied by his son P. E. Moses, and family, they reached Wayne Sunday morning, and funeral services were held in the Presbyterian church Sunday afternoon. A large number of friends attended. The sermon was preached by the pastor, Rev. Alexander Crocker, who was assisted in the services by Rev. C. L. Myers of the Methodist church, and Rev. B. P. Richardson of the Baptist church. The pastor took his text from the first verse of the fifth chapter of First Corinthians, and preached a very appropriate sermon. Interment took place in Greenwood cemetery. The following friends of the deceased acted as pallbearers: H. B. Jones, H. F. Wilson, John T. Bressler, Dr. J. J. Williams, J. G. Mines and W. H. Morris. P. E. Moses who, with his father, was found dead in bed on the morning of December 1. His heart had stopped, and he had passed away without a struggle some time during the night. He seemed to have had full command of his faculties until he died. The day before, he had walked about outdoors, as had been his custom.

VICISSITUDES OF REPAIR BUSINESS

Nels Swanson who made a deal for the sale of his shop regarding business to Anderson Brothers of Sioux City, and later, rented a building to erect in the same work at Winfield, is back in the old stand. The Andersons remained on the job three days, all the time developing, as expressed in common parlance, "a cold foot." Until they decided to sell back to Swanson and return to Sioux City. The weather was foggy, and gloomy, and not exactly the variety to make one feel at home in a strange town. So the Andersons, yearning for recognition, presented $50,000 in return to Sioux City, and Swanson restored his plan to locate at Winfield.

COMPANY MOVES INTO NEW RAILWAY DEPOT

The railway company began use of its new station Saturday evening, and the convenience and comfort of the modern structure are thoroughly appreciated by employes and the general public. Use of the separate track for the Bloomfield train facilitates transfer of passengers and baggage, and saves time in the departure of trains.

BOYS' AGRI-CULTURE

Lincoln, Dec. 9. - For three years past, the State Board of Agriculture has been carrying on a boys' acre contest with good results. Two years ago, the state agricultural fair started a similar contest, and in order that the farm may have the entire field, this year was the last that Board of Agriculture will hold a contest. A peculiarity of the two contests is that Jesse Sheriff of Cambridge entered for both contests and won first prize in both. Below are given the prizes won in the state agricultural board's contest. Mr. Libs, Pres.

- Jesse Correll, Cambridge, 90 10 85; Walter C. Walthill 74 25 85; Eugene Goran, Corad 74 30 85; Walter Cor, Walthill 74 20 10; Walter Pfeiffer, Hooper 75 10 85; Murvil Goran, Corad 68 10 85; Sterling Redfern, Aurora 62 30 85; Aug. Engstrom, Wames 57 90 85; Otto Schmidt, Fairmont 23 10 4. Warrants for these premiums have been drawn by Secretary Mallor, and are being sent to the winners. The prizes are paid out of state fair savings.

On his return home from the festive holiday, the average university student can't understand why a head and a crowd didn't meet him at the depot.

INITIAL MEETING OF COUNTY TEACHERS

ROADS NO BAR TO ATTENDANCE

Boys and Discussions Followed by Address—Interacting County School Exhibits.

(By C. E. T.) The Wayne County Teachers' association held its first meeting last Saturday in the courtroom, and in spite of the unpropitious weather...

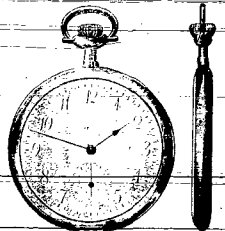

The opening number of the session was a group of songs sung by a chorus from the seventh and eighth grades of the Wayne public school...

Following this was an address by Dr. J. T. House of the Wayne State Normal on "The Values of Life," taken from the first chapter of his popular book on "Education."

TWO-LEGGED BRUTE.
This account of the tongue of a human being appeared in last week's Dixon Journal: A party, consisting of a man, wife and four children going across country in a prairie schooner camped outside of John Elison's place one night last week. Next morning, before resuming their journey, they got into a quarrel, the woman throwing dishes at the man, and the man seizing the woman and battering her head against the side of the wagon box. The children were mingled with the voices of the man and woman, could be heard half a mile away. She said that they had left the Black Hills with more than $200 in money, and that her husband had gambled it all away and now they had no money and were actually starving. The husband should have been immediately arrested for such brutal treatment of his wife and children. It is said that at one time, the family lived north of Dixon.

CITY COUNCIL.
Wayne, Neb., Dec. 9, 1913.
The city council of Wayne met at the city hall in regular session, there being present Mayor G. A. Chace, and Councilmen G. A. Lamherson, Herman Lundberg, W. O. Hansen, John Larson, and J. G. W. Lewis.
The minutes of the last regular meeting were read and approved. The following claims were examined and on motion allowed, and warrants drawn: Electric Light fund.
A. C. Norton, painting, $1.970
W. A. Hedges, lumber, etc.

The death of Judge H. H. Moses recalls an interesting event in connection with his eightieth birthday anniversary. On July 12, 1910, the judge was four score years old and he celebrated the day by inviting him to a birthday supper which was served on the lawn in front of his cottage. The birthday was commemorated with rightly burning candles which the judge extinguished with as much enjoyment as "mackerel" was the last of the bay at the beginning of life. As an expression of his appreciation of this kindness on the part of his friends and neighbors, Judge Moses entertained the company some time later at the Union hotel. A sumptuous supper was served, the menu being complete in every detail, and the guests invited to sing an orchestra during the feast. After supper a number of talks were given, and Judge Moses himself responded to the toast, "At her eighty years," His happy remarks were those of an optimist and philosopher, and will be long remembered by those present. At the close of the evening, the party was photographed, and the above picture represents Judge Moses on the occasion surrounded by his friends.

CHRISTMAS MOTTOES.

Every one knows that a fitting sentence to do with a gift greatly enhances its value. Here is a very old one, which is appropriate for nearly every individual, and is consequently a safe one to use, for it is in the quality of spelling, which is attractive in fancy lettering: All give and little wait on his holiday; With flowers on the pathway thou must tread; And glad if haply they may find some fragrance in perfume and comfort here. The last one, which is by Tolstoy, is a beautiful inscription in a book or to go with a gift: The time that's near the birth of Christ; He came to bid us love and do it. One Christian tells him to bid Answer each other in the mist.

THE OLDEN MISTLETOE RITE.

Origin of Present Use of the Classic Plant.

The druids, at Yuletide used to cut mistletoe to place upon their altars with elaborate ceremonies, their name for it was all heat of all healing. There was a large procession headed by the druidical priests, with burning candles and hymns; then a herald preceded three druids, a herald, with implements for severing the sacred plant, the priest, at the chief of the druids, accompanied by all his followers. The chief mounted the oak and with a golden knife detached the mistletoe and presented it to the priest, who received and bore away the branches with great reverence. Two white bulls were sacrificed during the rite. On the first day of the new year the branches after resting on the altars in the interval were distributed among the druids by a sacred and high priest, the druid priest crying, "The mistletoe for the New Year." Just when the plant is severed the priest says "the mistletoe" is not known.

A Mistletoe Romance

I ASK might I went to call on Edith. On Edith, the fairest maid I know. With a laughing lip and a gleaming eye, she came down to greet me. I saw her hair hanging from the chandelier. A white bird was perched on the top. Which had conceived a faint, contrast, an error. I think I loved with the purity of mistletoe. Then my sister's resolve to be a nun. A wild resolve and one extremely bold. To wit, that though I'd known her but little. If she should chance beneath that branch. To pause, I should at once assert the ancient right of joyous Christmas. And to kiss her. To the maiden came, and outstretched, with a welcome smile, and outstretched, gladdening hand. No wedding expectant she advanced. Her cheeks and eyes, all aglow. Directly needs the abiding mistletoe. And though with trepidation in my heart, I kiss my pledge into myself and did the druidic deed. The wedding followed; then while startled she sought refuge in my arms. But bring the joy, for then from under my arm. A favor, her little brother-crowed. And cried: "Ray, sir, I told you so, you had to be paid. Pay up." But quick she flew by the ear unto the door and out. What did the rascal mean! I do not know. No do I care for such things as to be a god.
