William Weber says he expects to be able to plant a tree on Christmas day this year, and plans to do so. He says he planted a plum tree at Florence on Christmas day in 1877, and that it lived and flourished fifteen years. He adds that the entire winter of 1877-78 was mild, that plenty of moisture fell during the following spring, and that crops of that year were exceptionally good.

The city authorities should see that the streets are cleaned as soon as they are dry enough to do it after a wet spell. Main street should have been dragged before Saturday last week, but was neglected because the one usually doing such work was hauling coal. When Main street needs dragging it ought to be dragged without delay, and if the commissioner is busy doing other things, someone else ought to be employed. It is important to have the streets kept in good shape.

FORMER WYANE GIRL MARRIED

The following paragraph appeared in Tuesday morning's Sioux City Journal: "The marriage of Miss Agnes Leahy and James F. Sutherland, both of Jackson, Neb., took place yesterday morning at 9 o'clock at the Cathedral of the Epiphany. Because of the serious illness of the bride's brother, Dr. Leahy, only the immediate relatives were present. Mr. and Mrs. Sutherland will live at Jackson."

Miss Leahy was a teacher in the city schools of Wayne for several years, and lived in Wayne until two years ago, when she left with her mother for Jackson.

AN UNPRECEDENTED CROWD VISITS WAYNE

More people were in Wayne Saturday than on any previous day during the year. The roads were good, and the weather was ideal for travel. Main street presented a lively, happy throng. The stores were crowded all the afternoon, and Christmas shopping was unprecedented. A number of stores reported total sales considerably in excess of those up to the same date in December last year. The crowd was largely, however, for Christmas gifts. On account of the mild weather, heavy goods have been moving slowly. The pavilion sale attracted a share of Saturday's crowd, as did also the A. E. Lutatiff home. The offering at the pavilion consisted largely of cattle, mostly calves. The sales amounted to an aggregate of $1,900. At the Laase auction the highest bid was $4,000 which did not reach the record set by the owner, and, therefore, the property was not sold.

—Christmas shopping started off lively Monday morning of this week, and premises continue at an increasing rate until the shades of night are drawn on the eve of the big holiday. If the weather is favorable, next Saturday should surpass in Christmas buying the biggest day of last week.

ALTONA YOUNG MEN ORGANIZE GUN CLUB

The young men of the Altona vicinity have organized a gun club with the following officers: Fred Orman, president; O. A. Frenzler, secretary and treasurer; C. J. Erdelien, shooting captain. December 23, the club will have a shooting match, and offer ducks and geese as prizes. The first proceeds will be used to defray the expenses of the club. Everyone is invited to take part in the match.

REPRODUCED FROM HERALD EXCHANGES

Emporia (Kan.) Gazette: There was a young woman with cash, who shopped in a manner most rash. She neglected to buy until Christmas was high, and nothing was left but the trash."

It is reported that smallpox has become epidemic at Elmore, and that the public schools of Wayne for several years, and the county superintendent is said to be one of the sufferers from the disease.

Hartington merchants have decided to put into practice an early closing policy the first of the new year. Their policy of business will be closed every evening at 6:30 excepting Saturday evenings, when the time will be extended to 10 o'clock.

The business men of Hartington join hands in the buying of clothing. One kind is bought for all, and everybody gets a good calendar, the gift of the dealers. The plan is economical and seems to be satisfactory. Why wouldn't such a policy work well in Wayne?

Norfolk Freeman: W. B. Montgomery, the Kansas newspaper man, says Weber had a man who had proved himself a master of finance. He is the father of fifteen children, and he earns but $50 per month, yet he manages to feed and clothe them all. The oldest child is 15 years old.

—Sister Hunter: Mrs. Fred Volp who has been away for several months, first on a visit in western states, and after sustaining severe bruises in an automobile accident, she visited with her sister, the Shastler, Monday, returned home yesterday morning. Mrs. Volp went down to Altona Tuesday morning to meet his companion, and accompanied her from that place. Mrs. Volp is still carrying her arm in bandages from a fracture sustained in a fall during her visit at the home of her sister.

Randolph Enterprise: Postal Inspector Thompson, from Omaha, was in this city Tuesday and Wednesday of this receiving bids for furnishing a building for a term of ten years, to be used as the local postoffice. From what we can learn, he has two bids, one from Z. Boughs on the second room south from the corner in his new building, and one from E. C. Langner for a room in a new building to be erected on the lot just east of the First National bank. These bids will go to Washington, D. C., to the United States postal department, and one from E. C. Langner will be the approval of the department will be the decision.

Randolph Times: For the past two weeks, the children on Randolph's east side have been filled with apprehension because of the alleged, nightly robbing of a woman dressed in black, who is supposed to peep into windows, rattle doors, or stand around in door wards. The rumor of such a midnight prowler is persistent, yet no well founded fact has so far been discovered on which to base the claim. The alleged crying of the woman has been traced to a puppy left out at night, scratching on window and door sills, and the alleged robbing is something else, but the rumors have been beneficial in keeping the children close to home, and the houses well locked at night, so there is some good in it after all.

All some men have to be proud of is their chests.

THE WEEK WITH THE CHURCHES.

St. Mary's Catholic Church.
(Rev. William Keenan, pastor.)
There will be mass in Wayne at 10:15 Sunday morning. Benediction in the evening at 7:30. Catechetical instruction Saturday at 11 o'clock.

German Evangelical Lutheran Church.
(Rev. R. M. Aebischer, pastor.)
Next Sunday will be the Sunday school and services as usual next Sunday.
Sunday, January 11, the German Lutheran church will celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of its foundation here. Two ministers from out of town will be present to assist Rev. Mr. Mooring in the services.

First Baptist Church.
(Rev. H. P. Richardson, pastor.)
Next Sunday was a special day with all both services. A deep interest was manifested. The fruits of our series of meetings can be seen in the church.

During the coming weeks we want to perpetuate the revival spirit and all homes and hearts are reached for Christ. Let some of our members stop their regular and activity because the meetings have closed. If our religious worthiness of special effort. It is worthy of continual effort. If our salvific worth possessing, it is worth giving to others. If a little thing in our life kills our religious activity, then the Christ we have served has not been a large Christ. So man would give up a thousand dollars for two cents.

Next Sunday, the pastor preaches at both services. Let us all work and pray for a day that will mean much to all who come. Since this is the golden fruits of our week's work should be made manifest.

The committee arranging for Christmas exercises for the Sunday school is busy at work. Let everybody help where they can.

The church mourns the death of Mrs. Kimball of Wakefield, following shortly the death of her husband. Yet there is something peculiarly fitting in her going so soon after his departure. They were constant companions while in this life, and it seems good that even death itself could not keep them separated very long. We extend our deepest sympathy to the widow and grandchildren in this second great loss within a few months.

Presbyterian Church.
(Rev. Alexander Corkey, pastor.)
"Christmas Joy" will be the subject of the morning sermon at the Presbyterian church next Sunday. In the evening, the pastor will preach "Two Ways of Honoring the Christ Child."

The Christmas exercises will be held at the church on Christmas eve, December 24, at 7:30 p. m. There will be a beautiful tree, the gift of Mr.

V. G. Phillips, and the usual treat for the children. The program will include songs by the primary department.

Continuation and an exercise by the intermediate girls, entitled "The World's Christmas Tree." Girls, representing Japan, China, Korea, India, Spain, and other countries will give a dialogue, dressed in costume, and participating in vivid manner the world-wide interest in the Christmas story of the "Christ Child."

Wayne church day was a glorious day at the Presbyterian church. At the morning service, a large number of new members were baptized, and several children were baptized, after which the communion was observed. In the evening, a very large congregation again assembled, and the interest in the service was very marked. The subject of the sermon was "Shedding Light of Religion," and the preacher set forth vividly both the sin and the punishment of those indulging in this crime. At both the morning and evening services the pastor and choir were assisted by Prof. W. P. Hanson of Coleridge, whose beautiful solos added much to the impressiveness of the services.

The success of the two church weeks has encouraged the church to persevere in the awakening of the spiritual life of the congregation. Prayer meetings will be held both in the country and in town at the homes of members, and preparations will be made for further public meetings after the first of the year.

Street Sermon by Rev. Alexander Corkey.

Last Saturday afternoon the throngs of Christmas shoppers were given a genuine sensation in a real street meeting conducted by the local pastors. Rev. R. P. Richardson and a large company of Christian workers gathered in front of the First National bank about 4 o'clock in the afternoon, and began singing a hymn. A large crowd quickly collected, and Rev. C. L. Myers climbed upon a drugstore box in the middle of the street and offered prayer, after which Prof. W. P. Hanson of Coleridge, who was imported for the occasion, sang a solo. By this time, the crowd filled the street, and all were listening attentively. At the close of the solo, Rev. Alexander Corkey mounted the drugstore box and proceeded to deliver a sermon to the uninvited congregation.

He was given the closest attention, and the novel scene was deeply impressive. Without taking a text, the preacher initiated the first Christian street preacher, the Apostle Peter, by getting right down to business. "He began by calling attention to Wayne's church Sunday, which was observed on December 14, and said the movement showed the essential unity of the Christian churches in Wayne. "Every Christian church in Wayne," he shouted enthusiastically, "preaches that Jesus Christ is the Son of God. Every church proclaims him as the only savior of men, and the perfect example of Christian character." Accounting for the fact that there were six churches instead of one—he declared earnestly. "We are all in one army, but we are divided into six regiments. The Kingdom of God in Wayne can be built up better by buying these different churches, just as earthly armies fight better when united in larger and regiments. He further declared that each church was intent on saving the souls of men and preparing them for the kingdom world to which we all go in brief intervals of time—namely—'Christ,' he concluded vigorously, 'he does not have to get down in the gutter. Christ does not ask you to do anything that will disgrace you or make people shiver with fear. On the contrary, he lifts you up, and makes you a blessing to your fellowmen.'"

St. Paul's Lutheran Church.
(Rev. F. E. Hering, pastor.)
Sunday school at 10 o'clock. Preparations were being made for the Christmas program which will be given Christmas eve.

Services—Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. The subject of the sermon will be "The Greatest Love of God to the World." John III, 16. As we look back over the history of man, we can see that God has revealed his love to man in many different ways, and at many different times. But never was it so marked as at the time man became so low and degraded in sin—as the psalmist says: "They have done abominable things: they are without the fear of God." It was during this period of sinfulness, that "The Word became flesh and dwelt among us."

Evening services at 7:30. The subject will be "The Birth of Christ." John I, 14; Gen. III, 14. It will be a parallel and a contrast of the two lives.

The Ladies' Aid society will meet at the home of Miss Mary Swanson next Thursday afternoon.

The evening for choir rehearsal has been changed from Friday to Tuesday evening.

The catechetical class will meet Saturday afternoon at 2:30. If there are any who have not entered this class, and would like to do so, we would be glad to have you come next Saturday.

Methodist Church.
(Rev. C. L. Myers, pastor.)
The department and committees are busy with Christmas preparations. A large number of persons received the communion Sunday.

The average attendance at morning church thus far this quarter is thirteen. The new Christmas morning at the Sunday school Sunday, Organization later.

Top cards for the new year, giving names of leaders of the Epworth League (voluntarily) are being prepared.

The chorus of the Wayne school helps the music and the movement.

The brotherhood class grows. Men, come and join. We need you.

Regular midweek prayer meeting. You can't afford to miss it.—Every Thursday evening.

The special meeting has closed, but the effect is to be kept up. "There is no discharge in that warfare."

We want the street meetings to be success. What do you think of it?

The work of the church is to win the world.

The second of the "church, Sabbath school" has come and gone, and we must continue to urge the people to attend public worship. Attendance was not quite so large on the 14th as on the 7th.

Professor Alexander would be pleased to have more voices in the choir. If you will join the chorus, some special work will be done.

IN THE BALMY CENTRAL WEST
Omaha, Neb. : A drawing appears in a Los Angeles newspaper, showing a maiden fair, sitting under the leafy boughs of a tree beside the placid waters, reading such headlines as "Death-Dealing Floods in Texas," "Blizzard Raging in the East" (All this talk of the Rockies is "east" to Californians), "Central West Snowbound," "Traffic Tied Up, Business Suspended."

The hapless citrus fruit growers of this world have been all right if southern California could have had the benefit of weather that has prevailed in the central west thus far this autumn and winter. The joke is on our California tourists, however, who seem oblivious to the fact that the prevailing orange belt of Nebraska and adjoining states, we have scarcely sniffed a wintery breeze as yet, and in Omaha seen no snow, except a few stray flakes that blew over the rocks in October. With the mercury ranging from 40 to 65 and 70, not many people have found it necessary to turn from this section to the pleasure resorts of other climes for warmth. "We would like it. There were a number of trout in some features of the picture, which is labeled "Almost Unbelievable." The only almost unbelievable thing about it is that the great corn and wheat belt could so completely have appropriated the Pacific coast winter climate.

Exchange—Bound and gagged, the maiden was thrust into a guano sack, and unable to move or to utter herself carried up a flight of stairs from the dungeon, then put into a heap and driven down the street. In effect she struggled to release herself from the gag. Alas! She was bound too securely. Finally the convicence stopped. She was again carried into a building, and fainting and crying for breath, the sack was taken from her head. The villain, still masked, took the gag from her mouth, his eyes gleaming like coals of fire through his black mask, released her, and with his tightly clenched teeth, "There, my pretty bird, scream and yell as long as you like, no human ears will ever hear you! You are in my power! Do you hear? Totally within my power! Where am I?" she says, but her answer that never varies, "Alas, Alas!" was the cruel response. "Alas, Alas!" she moaned. "No power on earth can save me; no one will look for me here," and the poor girl fainted.

From the Ponca Journal, December 1, 1882:

Professor Wabeek who was down to Sioux City on Monday, states that the Missouri river is now lower than it has been before for twenty-five years. The water of the river is very high. It is like a modernized crank, being only about four feet wide.
R. Phillip of the firm of Phillip & Ryan was in Dubuque and Clinton last week, being up of lumber for the spring trade, of which he purchased largely. He also says that the prices paid for hogs in Ponca were only twenty-five cents less than were paid in Dubuque, the same day, and the grain dealers are paying fully up to the prices paid elsewhere. Similarly noted.

From Ponca Journal, December 11, 1895:
It is rumored that one railroad company, at least, has perhaps two, now proposed to be merged together. Along the bluff, near the place, and that in addition to the mining of the railroad bridge will be built across the river. The fact that this is the easiest place to build such a bridge in a distance of two hundred miles renders the rumor plausible.
A surveyor, Indian, with woe-begone face and hobnobbed patriotic pose, through town Tuesday afternoon. He informed our reporter that he was a "brave Indian," and was going down to the Winnebago reservation in search of one of his wives who ran away to that place from the State reservation a few weeks ago.
The railroad wharf, being across the Missouri has been repaired and trains are again crossing. A permanent bridge is what is needed, and when one is built, the journey from Corning to Sioux City will no longer be a nightmare to travelers. Considering the wealth in Sioux City, and the great profit a bridge would be to that place, it is surprising that its citizens do not get about building it. They certainly would do so if they would act for their own best interest.

HIGH COST OF LIVING.

In a recent editorial, the Sioux City Journal treats the high cost of living in this logical manner.

A lot of nonsense is written and spoken about the high cost of living. The reason this is so is because it is popular to complain of the cost of things people have to buy and never very popular to complain of the high cost of what they have to sell.

If the cost of living is materially reduced it will be in a time when labor is a drag on the market. That is something worth thinking about, and it is something of which there appears to be very little serious thought.

The price of labor is the important factor in determining the price of all commodities. The excuse for protecting and advancing wages has been found in what is called our American civilization. There has been a pretty steady stream of denunciations in behalf of maintaining the American standard of living. It has been insisted that the family of the working man must have educational and social advantages, "the proper labor (the rope)" has served well in our politics.

In order to safeguard the rights of society, the agencies of government have been vastly increased. Institutions of learning have been multiplied, increased taxation, and as a result of voluntary offerings is no small item—result of these innovations on the simple life.

Many of the things that should be done, personally are in one way and another shifted to governmental expense-account. It is urged that all the people be reached through tax levies should assist in bearing the cost of public improvements. United States, where the maintenance of order and civilization is the chief part of the business of the country is done on credit, and much loss is involved in a credit business.

The great carrier companies of the country need more money and they need an easy money market. Their board are based on the earning power of their properties. Railroad corporations must improve their road beds, their rolling stock and their terminal facilities. The public demand the best at the least cost to itself. The laws enforce expenditure and restrict receipts. An increased volume of business has served to keep the wheels moving.

Nothing will ease the demand for higher wages except slack demand for labor. If the labor market becomes sluggish, occasion will appear for popular reduction in the cost of living. If, however, the labor market be kept so tight that the price of labor can be regulated under pinching need for employment, no diagram will be required to establish a stringency of the times. The farmers do not want their markets to slump, nor do the farmer want an exception to the rule. The effect does not complain until he becomes a buyer. The old rule of the railroads to charge what the traffic will bear has not been entirely ostracized.

Men in politics are privileged to make the air sad with their complainings of the high cost of living. It is not in their line to be specific. They do not care to say to the farmer that he is exacting too much for his grain, his cattle and his hogs. They do not care to undertake the task of convincing organized labor that the cost of labor is too high.
People also regret the cost of living by engaging in a course of work to reducing themselves. They should not be free with indulgences they cannot afford.

Logically, the complaint of the high cost of living is fulfilled at the high cost of labor. There are some things the servants of the people, under their estimate of what is expedient, prefer not to reverse and consider in regular order.
The cost of living, made full partly by reducing the cost of production, and the cost of production might easily be decreased by cheapening the price of labor. High cost of labor is supposed to cost time, and cost of living is supposed to be a cost of time.

FOOTBALL AT WAYNE STATE NORMAL

(From The Goldenrod)

FOOTBALL SQUAD 1913

FOOTBALL SEASON OF 1913.

The football season of 1913 opened auspiciously. Many difficulties prevented themselves which did not seem to portend a successful season. For financial reasons, the schedule had not been definitely arranged and it is very hard to procure a good football team without a schedule.

On October 11, Sioux City High journeyed over here for the opening game of the season, and defeated us by a score of 35 to 0. This stinging defeat seemed to have been a blessing rather than a curse. After this, the "real mettle" of the school and the team began to show itself.

A Booster Athletic Association was organized, a second team came out to practice, some equipment was provided, a "stadium" was erected, and the first team went after football, tooth and nail. Some real spirit was manifested, and when the Waldin Indians made their appearance on October 23, they were simply "snowed under" by a score of 51 to 0. Our team work was the big hit of the game.

On Wednesday evening, October 23, after school, our second team defeated the local high school team, in a three-point game, by a score of 14 to 6. On November 22, the high school team was again played; this time score, 0 to 0. These games furnished excellent experience for our prospective players of next year.

On November 1, the first team ran-up against the strong Norfolk Business College team, and the Norfolk boys went home with a goose-egg score, 23 to 0. 'Twas a decisive defeat for Norfolk. The Norfolk team was outplayed and outwitted, and the score was of much significance to the local team. The men who comprised the Business College team belonged to teams in Norfolk that had many times before defeated Wayne.

Our plucky little second team played Wakefield high at Wakefield on November 7, Transportation was kindly arranged for by President Coma. The following gentlemen donated the use of their autos and made the trip possible: President Coma, Professor Brett, Herbert Welch, and Tracy Kohl. Through a slip of a forward pass, Wakefield won the game by a score of 21 to 0. The game was hard fought, and demonstrated the fact that our second team was about on a par with the best high school teams in this section.

On the evening of November 15, Dr. and Mrs. House and Mr. Redmond very pleasantly entertained all the football boys, the cheer leaders, and the coach. It was a kindness not soon to be forgotten, and we feel sure it will be given due attention elsewhere in this issue.

Of the second team: Lower, Half; Noakes, Quarter; Hultman, Fullback; Fuchs, Guard; Hosman, End; A. and E. Johnson, Tackles; Beach, Guard; Munasinger, Half; Berrie, End; Hughes and Dougherty all helped to make the season a success.

The men of our team men by graduation this year. Not taking into consideration the new men who will come to us next year, how does this lineup for 1914 look to you?

Muhn, Center; S. Johnson and Hultman, Guard; McKeegan and Lamberson, Tackles; Jones and Van Norman, Ends; Marsteller, Quarter; Lesby, Fullback; Moran and Becker, Halfers. Not so bad, eh? With Lower pushing the ends and halves hard for their jobs and John Fuchs and A. Johnson making our guards and tackles heavy.

To the men who leave school by graduation: May you, by your actions after you

On November 14, came the climax of the season. On that date, we had an opportunity afforded in association with the colleges of the state. The Bellevue team made its appearance, full of confidence. Our boys had worked hard in preparation for the game, and demonstrated their football abilities by decisively defeating Bellevue by a score of 20 to 7. The seven-point Bellevue scored through a fumble forward pass. This was the only time the Normal goal line was crossed, after the first game of the season. It was a great victory for the Normal and one that will go down in her football history. It was not until after this game that the local townspeople and the school waked up to the fact that the Normal had a real football team.

On November 21, the team journeyed to Atkinson where the strong team at that place was defeated by a score of 7 to 0. The score does not really represent the game as a whole, for at four or five times other than the time in which it scored, the Normal team was within striking distance of the Atkinson goal. Over the ball was on Atkinson's one-yard line, but the time the Normal tried a goal from placement, but the ball went wide. Owing to the long, hard trip, the Normal team seemed to lack the "punch" to carry the ball over when the opportunity presented itself. At no time during the game, was Atkinson within striking distance of our goal. The Atkinson team fought gamely, and the Normal boys received excellent treatment at their hands. The boys were glad to see Professor Martin, last year's Normal coach, who referred the game. This game ended our season, much to the regret of many.

The school spirit at our games this year is good. Our excellent cheer leaders did much to make the season a success, and everyone felt better after he had given vent to good, wholesome enthusiasm.

Paul A. Becker gave much time and effort to the arranging of a schedule, and advice on conditions. The members of the Boosters' Athletic Association rendered valuable aid in advertising, etc. Hering was faithful as a gatekeeper and caretaker of the grounds. Professor E. J. Hantemer, although relieved of the duties directly connected with athletics, rendered assistance many times which was greatly appreciated.

On the evening of November 15, Dr. and Mrs. House and Mr. Redmond very pleasantly entertained all the football boys, the cheer leaders, and the coach. It was a kindness not soon to be forgotten, and we feel sure it will be given due attention elsewhere in this issue.

Of the second team: Lower, Half; Noakes, Quarter; Hultman, Fullback; Fuchs, Guard; Hosman, End; A. and E. Johnson, Tackles; Beach, Guard; Munasinger, Half; Berrie, End; Hughes and Dougherty all helped to make the season a success.

With Lower pushing the ends and halves hard for their jobs and John Fuchs and A. Johnson making our guards and tackles heavy.

To the men who leave school by graduation: May you, by your actions after you leave this institution, prove to the school the real worth we believe you possess, and may some football experience have made you better men physically, and may it serve as a link to lead you just a little closer to your Alma Mater.

This concludes the football story of 1913.

ATHLETICS OF THE PAST.

To give a definite idea of the athletic activities which have taken place on these grounds since the organization of the school in 1890, would require a historian. I will not attempt that, but rather give a few incidents prominent from those years up to the school in days past.

It seems that the interest in athletics during the first years of the school was almost entirely along the line of baseball. The late president, J. M. Pile, was a great enthusiast for the national game, and during the spring and summer months, the Nebraska Normal always had one of the strong teams in this section of the state. In the fall, the general interest ran into such things as organizing knowledge to induce in any kind of team work that required physical effort, unless we count as athletic activities the annual class scraps, melon raids, chicken chases, and apple hoes. The boys generally waited until spring to show their physical skill, and as an old student of the early years, told me, in the fall, I needed a rest after completing my term. I got my share of exercise behind a plow."

In 1906, when the auditorium building was finished, the large room under the chapel was opened for use as a drill room. The plan was to have the classes in physical culture and military drill use this room on different days of the week. In the fall of 1907, two separate organizations were formed: The Girls' Athletic Association and the Young Men's Athletic Association. During the year that followed, interest in gymnastic work was exceedingly good, and the plan of each member of the association paying one dollar into the treasury as a fee to help support the organization was carried out. This money, together with goods and apparatus raised by entertainment of different kinds, was expended in gymnastic supplies. To that year's energetic young men, we owe the apparatus of the gymnasium as it is today.

During this same time, the girls, not content with physical culture alone, organized basketball teams, and with the able coaching of Miss Jennie Bellows, played a good game. This outside court was used on all days when weather would permit, and a small inside court was laid off along the west end of the present field.

When I came to the Nebraska Normal in 1908, President Pile assigned me the work in athletics, or "gymnasium" work, as it was called. Early in the fall, the young men were organized into an association known as "The Nebraska Normal College Athletic Association." This organization had control of all the work in football, basketball, baseball, tennis, track work, military drill and gymnastics. Five students were elected to the offices of the association, and these five worked with the athletic director under the name of the executive committee.

In the fall, the street was turned toward the grading of the athletic field, and basketball teams were organized among the young men. During the winter, several games were played. The next fall, the first football team was organized. Everyone played—in fact, we needed more players than were generally out for practice, and after a defeat from the Norfolk high school, James Pile and I donated our old football logs. Herbert Welch, then in the high school, was too good material not to use, and he helped us out. With this material, a victory was won over the Omaha town team. Games were played in return of the Norfolk game, and also a game with Stanton. During the basketball season, games were played with Bancroft, Bloomfield, Creighton, and Plainville. Which of these were won or lost, I do not remember. The next fall, attorney William Rooney helped coach the football team, and several good games were played, with the high schools of nearby towns. During the winter, the basketball team played more games than any other team ever organized, and won eleven out of fourteen.

When the state took charge of the school in the fall of 1910, the attendance of young men was very small, but we managed to have a football team about the same number as the teams before. Often times, the material was either new in the positions or in the game, and it was all we could do to compete creditably with high schools. Basketball secured the strong game of the institution until last year, when Coach F. E. Martin built up a football team that commenced the good work of placing Wayne of the map in the West. Last year's basketball team was the strongest in the history of the school, and rightfully can claim the championship of northeast Nebraska. Playing eleven games, the Normal lost but one, that by a single point to the Sioux City, Y. M. C. A. The past year, our baseball team made an equally good record.

Now the past has been told. The new Student-Faculty Cooperative Association can serve the interest of the school far better than the organizations of the past. Those who handle these activities now have the cooperation of a larger per cent of persons who should be interested in this part of school life. As the organization now is, every class, every student has a voice through the representative whom his class elects to secure just what he desires. It is this very thing that spells success to athletic activities in the future, and it is this athletic success and enthusiasm that will in the near future make this institution known and recognized among other schools.—E. J. HUNTEMER.

A USEFUL EX-PRESIDENT.
Lincoln Journal: Mr. Taft continues, as from the beginning of his presidency, to solve the problems of what to do with our ex-chief executives. Just let them alone, and they will find a quiet berth somewhere where to best upon their country such good advice as their experience enables them to dispense. Adviser emeritus is the natural dignified status of an ex-president. Mr. Taft made at least half a dozen public speeches last week, most of them solid food for thought for his countrymen. He has expressed his doubt of the wisdom of his successor's Philippine policy. He has also spoken his conviction to stand as one man behind his country's Mexican policy. At Springfield, Mass., where city charters are an issue, he argued for the "federal method" as a standard to adopt as against the commission plan of city government.

All these views will have weight, as become the views of a "major" of Mr. Taft's political status of an ex-president. Another matter remains which Mr. Taft's views will have more interest to more people, perhaps, than any of these. This is the matter of Mr. Taft's reduction in weight from 340 pounds to his present weight of 270 pounds. It is interestingly specific, directly affecting the comfort and happiness of a million men and women. Of course Mr. Taft was too anxious for the happiness of his fellow men to decline to say how it was done. What did he take? The advice of a reputable physician, "and not a quack." This physician happened to be the doctor of the Anker-Myer medical clinic. Without money or price, Mr. Taft gives us his country's resulting program which gave such startling results as the loss of two pounds a week of superfluous flesh.

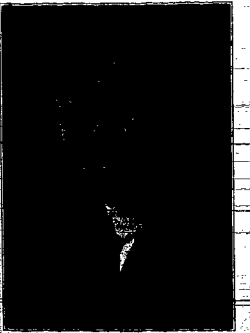

"I had dropped potatoes entirely from my bill of fare, and also bread in all forms. Pork is also tabooed, as are large portions of fat. All the vegetables except potatoes are permitted, and as much of all as is desired is permitted. In the fish line, I abstain from salmon and bluefish, which are the fat members of the fish family. I am also careful not to drink more than two glasses of beer or wine at a time, and to abstain from wines and liquors of all kinds, as well as tobacco in every form."

Many a "fat" man will go away sorrowing from this prescription, we fear, even as many people have been sickened and ruined by such prescriptions. It is not economic. Be that as it may, Mr. Taft is doing his duty by his country as he sees it. Meaningfully, he is as problem at all.

CALIFORNIA WOMAN SERIOUSLY ALARMED.
"A short time ago I contracted a severe cold which settled on my lungs and caused me a great deal of annoyance. I would have had coughing spells and my lungs were so sore and inflamed I began to be seriously alarmed. A friend recommended Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, saying she had used it. I got one bottle and, after only a few doses, I noticed my cough the first night and, in a few days, I was well and free of my lungs." writes Miss Marie Gerber, Bawtelle, Cal. CONFERENCE AT HIGH SCHOOL BIG SUCCESS

ATTENDANCE OF SIXTY-FIVE

Local Students Furnish Entertainment - Pleasant and Profitable Time for All

The High School Leaders' conference took place in Wayne Saturday and Sunday, and was the third annual meeting of such organizations in northeast Nebraska.

The five sessions, which were held in the high school building, brought much to the young men present.

The first session, Saturday afternoon, was opened by a song by the choir.

The High School Leaders' conference came to a close Sunday evening.

The address of welcome which was given by Hay M. Main of the Wayne high school was most popular.

The conference then adjourned until evening, when the visitors were the guests of the Wayne high school.

MRS. LEVI KIMBALL DIES AT WAKEFIELD

Wakefield, Neb., Dec. 17.-The death of Mrs. Levi Kimball occurred at her home Tuesday morning, December 17, at 3 o'clock, after a ten days' illness from her late home Friday afternoon at 11 o'clock, conducted by Rev. B. F. Richardson, pastor of the Baptist church at Wayne, of which she was a member, assisted by Rev. J. M. Caldwell, pastor of the Presbyterian church of this place, of which she was a faithful attendant and earnest worker. The remains were laid to rest in the village cemetery, beside those of her husband, who so recently preceded her to the better world, with her son Thomas who died several years ago.

Abigail Hill Merrill was born March 5, 1841, and was reared in Turner, Mo. Coming west, she made her home at McGregor, Jo., with her uncle, Gov. Samuel Merrill. There she became acquainted with Levi Kimball, to whom she was married on October 25, 1866. Later, they moved to Grenell, and then to Des Moines, coming to Wakefield in 1887.

Mrs. Kimball was much interested in the welfare and advancement of the church, and during her presidency of the Ladies' Aid society inaugurated the movement for publishing the Presbyterian church. She was a member of the O. E. S., and the library board. She only said of her that "her children will rise up to call her blessed."

By the death of Mr. and Mrs. Levi Kimball, Wakefield suffers a great loss. Pioneer residents of the town, they always took an active part in its development and forwarding its interests. They were people in whom it was good to know, and their memory will long be cherished by a host of Warm friends.

STATE NORMAL NEWS

The holiday vacation will begin on December 20, and class work will commence on January 5. Good reports come in the office concerning the work of Paul H. Young, who is principal of the Surprise, Neb., schools.

George J. Lehr writes an interesting letter from Chase county. Mr. Lehr is in the midst of a successful year as principal of the schools at Wauneta. A. E. Hughes received a diploma from a rural school district, and began work on December 1.

Last Thursday morning Prof. C. U. Reckley delighted the students and faculty at convocation in his rendition of "Dandy," by Eliza Day.

The Normal recently enjoyed a visit from Frank S. Perdue of Lincoln. Mr. Perdue was formerly deputy state superintendent, and at one time instructor in the Nebraska Normal college.

"Elements of Education Not Old" is the title of an address given by President Coan before the teachers of Washington county on December 6.

Dr. J. T. House will attend a meeting of the American Sociological society held at Minneapolis, December 24-26. Dr. House will appear on the program, discussing the subject, "The Teaching of Sociology in Secondary Schools."

The basketball season opened on Tuesday evening with a game in the gymnasium between the Juniors and Seniors. The score was 18 to 11 in favor of the Juniors. Judge E. P. Hunsaker acted as referee.

THE NINE-HOUR LAW

Lincoln, Dec. 16.-Labor Commissioner Paulie filed himself up against a difficult proposition in regard to the employment of female labor. In this case, the violator happens to be the Lincoln Sun himself, and the labor commissioner does not know whether he can make a fine stick against the old law.

Several complaints have come in that girls are being worked above the regulation time in some postoffices in Nebraska, and the question arises in the mind of the commissioner whether he has jurisdiction over government employees.

While the last legislature enacted the law making the working day for females more than nine hours a day unlawful, the records of the section show that a large number of female employees get in two days' pay in one day, which means that they must have worked over the nine hours.

thought out and the work is almost done.

One of the first things you'd think of if you were speaking directly to the girls would be the best what the present was to say just what the gift was. This is one of the big things to remember when you write your "Thank you" notes. Mention the present in each case.

This gives a real personal touch to your note and proves that you didn't get your own toys. The girls are one of the fortunate children who get ever so many presents be sure to keep track of the number of presents. If there is a card attached don't take it off until you are sure you will remember just what you gave that particular child or what the work is almost done.

A Prayer for the Children

Whenever children go to bed with their thoughts busy in care I pray that Santa Claus somehow will find the time to answer theirs. I pray no little child will wake at night to find upon his chest an empty stocking and to weep because old Santa Claus forgot.

Oh, how many mothers, young girls and the little girls, with a smile and a warm hug. When the girl has the gift in her hand she will be glad to see the father and the mother.

The Aftermath.

When the Christmas spirit strikes you and we describe a scene which we saw and which we describe a scene which we saw and which we describe a scene which we saw...

A Christmas Tragedy.

It was a little town in the mountains of the West. The town was small and the people were simple.

Back I say? Back before I fire? Let us crawl over the wall around the house and look into the room that was filled with a thousand soldiers—more than that.

There, in regiment after regiment, were some of the best, the finest, the bravest men that God ever made. Some were old, others of the youth, those making the assault on the red wood.

THE REVOLT OF THE TOYS

By WELLS HAWKS.

The irritated boy in the street was fast asleep. He was not dreaming and quarreling with the clock because he could not sleep. It was 10 o'clock on Christmas eve, and the thought of mercenaries on the streets made so much noise that the hammer on a ground floor was impossible to miss.

Outside a throng of merry people joyfully awaited the coming of the golden day in all the year. Women and children, old and young, jostled and pushed, blew horns and threw confetti. And the policemen stood on the corner and smiled, and the real people who could not sleep looked out from their windows and laughed and said, "It is so good to see them happy."

"Fine, fine," said he. "Those fools! I'll get some sleep now." And he undressed and went to bed. Long ago, when the hat just above his ears began to show a little gray, a great wall arose in his mind and behind the wall he saw a boy.

The boy was a boy, and died here. He was a boy, and died here. He was a boy, and died here. He was a boy, and died here. He was a boy, and died here.

A DOWN-POUR OF BALLS OF EVERY DESCRIPTION.

Outside the noise grew fast and loud. Only a little glow and the bolts would ring the midnight hour and it would be Christmas morning. A million house-pieces were silent, for beneath them, in their tiny beds, were the little expectant fathers.

Back I say? Back before I fire? Let us crawl over the wall around the house and look into the room that was filled with a thousand soldiers—more than that.

There, in regiment after regiment, were some of the best, the finest, the bravest men that God ever made. Some were old, others of the youth, those making the assault on the red wood.

for more time. Suddenly the troops were back again, and around the bed spewed bullets of their spite. The man in the bed groans. They are going to starve him out.

The man sticks his head out from the cover for air. His head is bashed on when it is struck by a great rubber ball, and then, like a July storm, with a great tidal breeze, there comes from above a down-pour of rubber balls, footballs, baseballs, jackballs, tennis balls and balls of every description.

"It is the boys, the boys!" cry the women soldiers. And so it is. The air is filled with every kind of hoop, and they roll back and across the bed like a storm of hot iron. The man scurries to save himself. Some of the hoops have bells on them, and they ring in his ears as the sharp edges of the bent lively cut his face. He weeps and pleads, but does not get it.

"There is a clang of bells and a blowing of whistles, and with a rush comes a new wave of shells, and he falls. The shells are the tin locomotives, wildly ringing their bells, and back of them the toy soldiers. The iron balls like a hail-storm drive down for four alarm dire.

Now the hose connections are made, and streams of streams of water beat his face. From the front of the engine comes a cloud of steam from the engines. With the hot and blazing above are sent from the towers as the steam hisses along the brass of the boiler. He fights hard, but finally succumbs and falls weak and exhausted. The firemen ring their bells and start back for the houses, while the soldiers keep back the crowds of brownies, Indians, rubber men, longins, jumping jacks and walking monkeys that were clinging around the ropes.

The boys worked all this carefully and the crowd of boys with them. Somehow it all faded away. He seemed to be clinging over a wall. He reached the top and, looking down a pathway, saw a summer house. He the blues fell in great clusters, looking through the redness, he saw the night visits of the soldiers and waving the red flag. The boys were all there, there was there among them, the boys were all there, there was there among them.

The boy was a boy, and died here. He was a boy, and died here. He was a boy, and died here. He was a boy, and died here. He was a boy, and died here.

The boy was a boy, and died here. He was a boy, and died here. He was a boy, and died here. He was a boy, and died here. He was a boy, and died here.

The boy was a boy, and died here. He was a boy, and died here. He was a boy, and died here. He was a boy, and died here. He was a boy, and died here.

The boy was a boy, and died here. He was a boy, and died here. He was a boy, and died here. He was a boy, and died here. He was a boy, and died here.

The boy was a boy, and died here. He was a boy, and died here. He was a boy, and died here. He was a boy, and died here. He was a boy, and died here.

The boy was a boy, and died here. He was a boy, and died here. He was a boy, and died here. He was a boy, and died here. He was a boy, and died here.

Miss Helen Peterson of Pasadena, U.S. arrived in Wayne Tuesday evening to visit her uncle, Chris Thompson, and other relatives in this vicinity.
Mrs. J. H. Foster left yesterday for Grand Island, Ia. in response to a message stating that her mother was not expected to live.

The Christmas Table

So many table favors of little value and useless are to be had nowadays that it is difficult to carry out the idea of a table to represent Christmas in an old fashioned village.
The first investment is that of a sufficient number of little snowbound cut-glass. Some of these can be altered easily enough so as to look a little different one from the other.

The Little Fellers

When you see the snowflakes flyin' at the winter's nose to say Watch out for the little fellers—make the Christmas come their way.
Some of them in tooty places, where the day is always dry.
They'll come from the hills and make the Christmas come their way.

CHRISTMAS SUGGESTION

Why not buy mother, father, grandmother, or grandfather a pair of new glasses for Christmas? Come in and let us talk it over. I will be in Oneida over Christmas and I urge that those who have eyes need attention, should call on us—Dr. N. Danahy, optical store, north of the Union hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Ferguson expect to leave next week for Piquon, Cal. with the balance of the winter.
Mr. and Mrs. B. E. Feather, formerly of Wayne, live at Piquon.

Mr. and Mrs. Adam Pfeiffer who recently returned from Minnesota where they had been visiting were Wayne visitors from near Winona yesterday afternoon.
Mr. Pfeiffer says that he and his wife were well pleased with the climate and that the climate did not agree with them.

Japanese Toweling For Christmas Gifts

AMERSON—attentive, novel Japanese toweling. A choice material, which costs about 10 cents to $1.25 a pair of ten yards. This material, made of the best quality of cotton, is made of the two toned designs, showing simple and bold designs.
A hot or two may be easily converted into presents. A farseeing merchant bought the toweling and made it into presents. The crosspieces forming the cloth proper are of a contrasting color. She fastened the two strips together with a couple thin ties; she marked the markings with the singular Japanese letters, one above the other, with a dash beneath. The marking-in blue was done in a corner where the white background predominated. One of her sets, she is sure, will be enjoyed next summer by a hostess who has a wintered friends and the other one. Another is to be sent to a young bride in whose simple little dining room blue and white china is used.

Gloom in the office of Platt & Jones was thick enough to cut clients who were unknown and neither of the partners had any ready money. Nevertheless, at the close of the day, Jones, who was young and audacious, approached the senior member of the firm, who was wearing a magnificent suit.
'I say,' he began nervously, 'I need money for a week, old man.'

Wayne County Teacher

SPELLING CONTEST.

All the local and precinct spelling contests should be held during January so that it will be possible to hold the final county contest in Wayne the latter part of February.

Each teacher should determine by contest in her school who is the best speller. When the precinct manager arranges a time and place for the precinct contest, the winners in each school will attend and compete for first place in the precinct. Those winning in the precinct will come to the final contest at Wayne. In conducting these contests it will not be necessary to divide those spelling into two sides, as in the old fashioned spelling bee, but aside from this, the contest will be very similar to the spelling match of years ago. When a pupil misses a word he will be scolded. The last pupil to go down is of course the winner in the contest.

- Principals have been appointed as follows:
- Davies, Randolph, District No. 34, 82, 24, 44, 76.
  - Geisler, Marion, District No. 40, 42, 44, 46, 48, 50, 52, 54, 56, 58, 60, 62, 64, 66, 68, 70, 72, 74, 76, 78, 80, 82, 84, 86, 88, 90, 92, 94, 96, 98, 100.
  - Holmes, Lela, Wilcox, District No. 41, 75, 21, 49, 3, 69, 9.
  - Deer Creek—Homer Jones, Carroll, District No. 80, 75, 59, 54, 70, 56, 32, 38.
  - Chapin—Arthur Hughes, Winside, District No. 62, 65, 63, 24, 38.
  - Hancock—Ida Heyer, Winside, District No. 29, 16, 79, 11, 31, 53, 28.

spent in the community, getting acquainted with the people, learning the children, discovering their talents, so as to be able to develop them.

On account of bad floods, the box social announced in district No. 55 for last Friday night, was postponed until Tuesday night. Over $38 was raised. The money will be used to buy a hanging globe and other material for the schoolhouse.

Several schools in the county will lose the state appropriation this year because they do not have the number of months of school required by law.

VALUABLE BULLETINS FREE TO TEACHERS.

A very valuable service of the United States Bureau of Education is that of supplying teachers, students, and school officials with carefully selected bibliographies on important topics of education. The bibliographies have been accumulating for several years, and the bureau now has on hand several hundred of them in typewritten form and the number is rapidly increasing. To supply the large demand for certain of these, the bureau is having them printed. These now available are printed forms as:

- The Montessori Method.
- Higher Education in the United States.
- Rural Life and Culture.
- The Economic Value of Education. Play and Playgrounds.
- Home Economics.
- Mothers' Clubs and Parent-Teacher Associations.

WHAT SHALL BE DONE WITH THE BOX SOCIAL MONEY?

This is the season of the year when teachers and pupils are giving box socials and entertainments to raise money for the school, and the question naturally arises—how shall the money be invested most advantageously? Many schoolhouses have not one good picture. A good Turner of Coplay print of some masterpiece may be secured for from $5 to $10, according to subject and size. A gaudily framed, highly colored list of scenery placed up at the nearest furniture store is not a suitable decoration for a schoolroom. Better schoolrooms. Mr. Reed, the teacher, now accompanies the children when they sing.

Again, many schools are without a globe. It seems an utter impossibility to us to teach geographical relations properly without a globe of some sort. Good globes may be bought from $5 to $15. A twelve-inch hanging globe seems to be the most satisfactory in the country school rooms. Money spent to buy a good globe would be most profitably invested.

Much pleasure and profit is derived by playing upon the schoolground some facilities for play, such as swings, seesaws, merry-go-rounds, turning poles, etc. Basketball or volley ball is a very good game for the average rural school.

Rural schools are never too well supplied with reference books. There should be a statistics reference set, a number of texts in history, grammar, physiology, etc. Seventh and eighth grade pupils should be taught to do parallel reading, and this cannot be done without the reference material in the schoolroom.

Even going so prosaic a thing as oiling the floor or buying sweeping compound (if the school board will not attend to it) is one of the very best ways to invest the social money.

We will be glad to confer with any teacher concerning the investment of this money. A statement of what was purchased with this fund should be handed to the school board so that all may know how the money was invested.

OF GENERAL INTEREST.

School district No. 43 has had no teachers since school began in September. Miss Ethel Kitten is the teacher.

The pupils in districts No. 49, 77, and 81, have organized a Corn club and a Sewing circle, and are taking up the cause set out by the university. There are sixteen boys in the Corn club and eight girls in the sewing club. Mr. Pegley, teacher in district No. 77, has charge of the boys, and Miss Jullin, and Miss Porter of the girls' work. They meet every Friday afternoon after recess, the first three Fridays of the month in the separate schools, and the last Friday, all together, in No. 41, Miss Jullin's school. All are interested in the work.

The school in district No. 28 has recently placed an organ in the schoolroom. Mr. Reed, the teacher, now accompanies the children when they sing.

At a "hard time" so far as the district No. 51, sixteen dollars were cleared. The money will be used to buy new pictures for the schoolroom. Miss Forbes is the teacher.

District No. 63 will pay the new teacher, Mr. Arthur Hughes, $65 a month.

A Christmas tree and box social will be held in district No. 18 on Friday night, December 19. A program will be given by the school.

Some interesting rural school letters are coming from the new division of the Bureau of Education, Washington. J. L. McBrien of Nebraska, is at the head of the division of rural education.

Several of the teachers have been careless the last month about filling out the compulsory reports properly. In such cases, the reports have been returned for correction.

We are exceedingly proud of the professional spirit displayed by the teachers of the county last Saturday. On Friday when the roads were very rough and muddy, when the weather was threatening a downpour at any moment, at least two thirds of the teachers of the county were present at the teachers' meeting. Several drove fifteen miles to attend. Is there another county in the state that can equal us in grit!

Take care of the blockheads; the heads will take care of themselves.

Fort many a teacher you may know. Along life's slippery pathway walking.

Who left off thinking years ago. But kept on talking, talking.

Things are not good just because they are old; new does not necessarily insure their value, either.

Teachers' examinations January 10 and 11.

The definitions of words as given in the small school dictionary is not always enlightening to the small boy, witness the following: "The class had been assigned a list of words to be used in sentences, in the list being the word 'conceal.'" William read, "The cow had a conceal." The teacher demonstrated with him that "No, William, your sentence is not correct. Did you look the word up in the dictionary as you should?" Then William insisted, "I looked it up and that is what I hid, and that all cows had hides!"

FREE TRIP TO WASHINGTON.

Frontier County Boy Wm. Corn Growing Contest—Barry County a Close Second.

Eighty-eight bushels of corn per acre grown entirely by a boy is not such a bad record for the dry season just passed. Master Jess J. Corroll of Cambridge, aged 16, is the boy who turned the trick. He lives in a western county. He leaves for Washington, December 8. Twenty other boys in the corn-growing contest grew over fifty bushels per acre, and these boys were from fourteen different counties. Jess has won a total of $169 in prizes with his acre of corn this year. He was first in the western district last year with a yield of 100 bushels. Walter Pfing, age 17, of Barry county, has won first in the Eastern district this year with a yield of eighty-four bushels. He has won a total of $90, and will make the trip to Washington with Jess Corroll. The other prizes will be announced at Agricultural Extension next January.

Eight hundred fifty boys registered in the contest, but many had to drop out because of the drought. The state is divided into an Eastern and a Western division, and a prize of $50 given to the boy growing the largest yield in each district. In addition to this, the boy having the largest yield in the state gets a free trip to Washington, D. C. where he will meet the president, the secretary of agriculture, and the boys winning the prizes in the other states. All the National prizes are given by the United States Yards company of South Omaha. This contest is held every year under the direction of the Agricultural Extension Service, University Farm, Lincoln, Neb.

COUNTY SCHOOL EXHIBIT.

Although no prizes were offered, and it was the first time there has been an exhibit of school work in connection with the county teachers' meeting, a number of schools brought in excellent work. The largest exhibit came from the Corroll school. It was arranged on a bench at the school house, and covered one side of the courtroom. Large-sized exhibit, although not so wide, was uniformly good and offered many interesting items. The teacher demonstrated with him that "No, Wil-

CHRISTMASTIDE

CHRISTMAS with a darkness— Brighter than the blinding moon: Christmas into a child's eye: Warmer than the heart of Jones; Better than the heart of the world; Lovelier than the world can show.—Christian Scientist.

HEAR on every word. The wind is still; The stars are bright as if it were still; We'll have our Christmas merry still.

RING out, ye merry angels! Once— Bless our human race! If you have power to touch our senses— And set our stunted lives to move in noble, divine time.

And with your melodious deep organ tone. And with your melodious deep organ tone. And with your melodious deep organ tone.

IT is the Christmas time, And up and down 'twixt heaven and earth. In glorious grief and solemn mirth. The abiding angel choir.

SILENCE falls at the gateway Where the Babe was born. Sing with many a change. Christmas circles and horns.

THEIR stars which they saw in the east. Blood over where the young Child was.—Matthew.

MERRY Christmas! Hear their may make merry in our homes. May the joy of Christmas day. Make your whole year brighter.

A GAIN at Christmas did we weave. The holy rosy red Christmas wreath. Sing the songs of great joy that the angels sang: of glory to God and of good will to men.—John G. Whittier.

THE LEGEND OF THE MIS-TLETOE

Why is mistletoe always suspended in our homes? The reason is traced back to an old myth of the Norsemen. The mistletoe is a plant that grows in the woods, and is a symbol of life and hope.

The Reindeer

A Yuletide Tragedy

WHEN Josiah Gibbs found that his wife had lit for him, he was called it, and he bought him a box of cigars for his Christmas present. He grew wise and, with apparent sorrow, said to her.

"Now, isn't it too bad, my love? I discovered that cigar smoking was becoming so popular to me that I had quit it and have to content myself with a few whites now and then on my pipe with mild tobacco. Now, isn't it too bad?"

"I'm so sorry, dear," said Josiah Gibbs' wife. "But your friends will enjoy them, and I am sure that will please you."

Gibbs smiled grimly and, as his wife departed, winked knowingly at himself in the looking glass. And when he saw his friend Joe Spicer he told him how he had escaped his wife's Christmas gift.

"Gallant and diplomatic of you, old man!" Gibbs would say to Spicer on opportunity—and smile his snowing smile. And Joe would smile his.

"It's just a perfect shame, Josiah, that you couldn't take any pleasure in those cigars—my friend Spicer should have had his for me the best he could get—and he did."

Josiah Gibbs had instant business down at the office, where he wore his hair and snuff his pipe and tobacco out of the window. And he passed Joe Spicer without looking and without a knowing smile. But Joe still wore his—Browning's Magazine.
