tising used by its merchants to call the buying public's attention to the many splendid values which they are offering, also that Ralph Rundell is wide awake, and is keeping up with what just a little ahead of the times in an advertising respect is again practically demonstrated by what is perhaps the most elaborate system of advertising ever attempted by any business house in this section, namely, the giving away of the beautiful Chaxton, better brand piano which is now on exhibition at his store. These pianos retail at $200 each, guaranteed for ten years. The principal points of superiority of this celebrated Chaxton piano over any other of this class of instruments lie in its three strings in unison up overstring bass, the splendid pitched scale and true sounding board which use the Chaxton piano that rich, deep, even tone so much appreciated.

In a recent interview with Mr. Rundell regarding this decided innovation in advertising, Mr. Rundell stated: "We have been enjoying the patronage and confidence of the layers of this community for some time now and by trying to keep up with the times, I am proud to say that you can get it at Rundell's has become a household expression. In giving away this piano we are actuated by a double purpose to show our appreciation to the patronage of our friends during the past, also to encourage new trade, and to bring the many splendid values we are now showing in all lines to the attention of every buyer in this territory. The piano is equally and fair to all sizes.

OBITUARY.
Julius Tower was born at Rochester, Vt., on June 16, 1839. Most of his boyhood years were spent at Saxon's River, Vt. At 16 years of age, he went to Mendonville, Miss., and began his independent career in the grocery business there. After a few years, he began working his way through Knox College, Galesburg, Ill., where he completed the scientific course well into the second senior year, when he was prevented from graduating by a year's siege of sickness with typhoid fever. During the period of his college education, he engaged in teaching school, in which the gains were most efficient.

On December 31, 1866, he was married to Elizabeth Ellen Rankin at her home in Woodhill, Ill., where they spent the first eleven years of their married life. In 1875, the family moved to Harrison, Iowa, where in 1882 to Anamosa, Ia., in 1885 to Wayne, Neb., and in 1912 to Colopetree, Tex., where he died on January 23, 1914. Three sons were born to Mr. and Mrs. Tower, the first being Fred C. and H. Lawrence, all of whom are left to mourn this first-fruit of the earth, about 60 years of age. The earlier years of the deceased were devoted to business life, while the later years were divided between business pursuits and agriculture, which was the chosen field of action, where his inventive industry found the most unusual environment.

Mr. Tower was a loyal, totally abstemious, and always a worthy Mason. In the year 1881, he was confirmed in the Scottish Rites degree—a Knight Templar—and he was a member of the lodge for his marriage that Mr. Tower surrendered his heart to his Lord and united with the Methodist Episcopal church of Woodhill, Ill., as the profession of his faith in Christ, a profession which he held ever thereafter in inviolate sanctity.

German Evangelical Lutheran Church.
(Rev. J. Meibohm, Pastor.)
There will be no services in Wayne next Sunday as the pastor will be at Wauke to conduct services.

St. Paul's Lutheran Church.
(Rev. F. E. Blessing, Pastor.)
Sunday school every Sunday morning at 10 o'clock.

Regular preaching services every Sunday morning at 8 o'clock. The subject of the second Sunday morning will be "Invited Guests." John 1:28-30. Shortly after the baptism of Jesus Christ, John was standing with several of his followers, as Christ passed, and pointing to Christ, said unto them: "Behold the lamb of God." Then he said that "two disciples heard him speak and they followed Jesus." When Christ heard them following him, he looked around, and saw them at a distance and invited them closer, saying "Come and see." Christ does not want you to follow at a distance—after a fashion, when Christ was taken before Caiaphas, the high priest, but he invites us closer, that we may be of his father and may be helped by him, thus he says: "Come and see."

Evening services at half past seven every Sunday evening. The subject for next Sunday evening will be "Character and God's Pardon." Amos vii, 7. The regular sabbatarian communion will be held next Sunday morning. There will be a congregational meeting next Sunday morning after church services. All members are requested to be present.

The envelopes for benevolence will be sent out the last of the week. Please return them next Sunday, with your contributions.

The Ladies' Aid society will meet at the home of Mrs. Sias Mellick on Thursday, February 5.

Catechetical class Saturday afternoon at 2:30.

First Baptist Church.

(Rev. B. P. Richardson, Pastor.)
After some weeks of interruptions of our regular work, we are again to begin our regular order of services.
President F. C. Taylor gave many a saved interest in the work of our Baptist college at Grand Island. Many are coming to recognize the college as one of our valuable assets. We believe in the college and its ideals.

Sunday will be our communion service. This is one of the very best services of the month. It is the time when we especially like to see our members present. The subject of the pastor's address will be "Into the love of God and the patience of Christ."

Sunday evening at 6:30. At 7:30 the pastor will preach. The subject of the sermon will be "Holding the fort, my Son." It is the second sermon on Christ's early miracles.

Tomorrow (Friday) afternoon, the missionary society will hold their regular meeting at 2:30 p. m. Mrs. R. B. Garrison is the leader. All members are welcome.

We are anxious to enlist as many as possible of our young people in our teachers' training class. The books to be studied have arrived.

One hundred years ago, Judson began his memorable work in Persia. He marked the birthday of our Baptist missionary work. This event is being celebrated in all departments of church service.

The Ladies' Aid will meet next Tuesday evening, during the next two months. It is a great opportunity to come in touch with our missionary work.

Prayer meeting 7:30 Wednesday evening.

Mr. A. B. Davis is ready to pay favorably on a constitutional amendment outlawing the liquor traffic in the nation, and only nine more states are needed. He said the two sole friends of liquor in America today are ignorance and greed for money; that ignorance is being dispelled, and the men who are only reeking after the dollar are being driven from public life into well-deserved helplessness.

At the close of the address funds were contributed most liberally by the large congregation for the advancement of the cause represented by Prof. Carson, and interest and enthusiasm in temperance were manifest. "It is a war," exclaimed the leader, "of the temperance hosts in Nebraska; it is a war to the hilt. We ask no quarter from the liquor forces and we give none. We are determined to annihilate the traffic and we will do it with the help of God and of the loyal Christian people in America."

During the next few weeks the pastor will give a series of lectures on the book of Revelations at the Wednesday evening meetings. The lectures will be given with a view to explaining the symbolism of the book—so that its message may be better understood. At the first lecture on Wednesday evening of this week the meaning of the scriptures, trumpet, bowl, and other images was explained, and the general literary structure of this remarkable book set forth. As the last book written by an inspired writer for the human race, the Bible will be the most important thing we are for the present dispensation which will end with the Second Advent. There will be a young people's rally in the lecture room of the church. A special program will be given, and the work of the coming months explained.

Temperance Rally.
Last Sunday evening one of the largest and most enthusiastic temperance rallies ever held in Wayne took place at the Presbyterian church. The meeting was a union service conducted by the ministers of the Baptist, Methodist, Presbyterian and English Lutheran churches, and the congregation filled every nook and corner of the large edifice. The speaker for the occasion was Prof. H. D. Carson, superintendent of the anti-liquor league in Nebraska. He held of the remarkable growth of temperance sentiment in the past two years, of the rise of the question of national politics, and the prospects of a "dry" Nebraska within a very few years, and even spoke most hopefully of constitutional amendment which would exterminate the liquor question in the nation within ten years, just as slavery was exterminated. He pointed out that recent temperance legislation has been more drastic than ever and the saloon forces are being driven to the wall. They are already, according to their 1914. This notice will be published in the Wayne Herald for three weeks successively prior to the 15th day of February, 1914.

Six months are allowed for creditors to present their claims and one year for the Executor to settle said estate, from the 17th day of February, 1914. Our Winter Clearing Sale Starts Today

General Merchandise Ahern's Wayne, Nebraska

1500---Bargains In Winter Goods---1500

Can you remember of ever having had a chance to buy a $17.50 winter coat (new styles) for $6.00? Thirty-eight years ago, in 1876, they say we had a winter like this; perhaps the merchants had to sell $17.50 coats that year at such a big loss, we don't remember—do you?—but we do remember that at no time in our business experience has the weather made it necessary to cut the prices of coats and all other winter goods like we are doing it now. There has never been a time when you could save half the money you can right now on new, up-to-date goods which you know you will use during the next eight weeks and all next winter. For example, last season we had our coat stock down to seven coats by February 1st and $10.75 was the lowest price we had to make—today you can choose from 40 Coats equally as good and pay only $6.00 each. Last year, we were completely sold out and had to buy more blankets in January. This year, we have not sold half our first purchase and you can save $1.75 to $2.50 per pair by buying now. Our books show that last year we BOUGHT overshoes every week in January and February and sold them at regular prices; this year we have sold but a small part of our first purchase and now we are glad to sell men's $1.60 and $1.75 overshoes at $1.20, ladies' and children's sizes at equal reductions.

Our underwear stocks and sweater stocks have hardly been touched, and if you will study the prices in this ad, you'll see big savings on these goods. From your standpoint, these are great money-saving opportunities because coats and blankets and underwear and overshoes and sweaters, etc., are all goods which you NEED and will buy, either this year or next. And you could not earn several dollars any easier than buying next year's supplies right now. Another big advantage to you in buying these goods here is the fact that our goods are all new, that we guarantee them just as fully as if you paid full price and our guarantee means something because we will BE HERE next year to make it good.

Study carefully the big list of reduced prices in this ad. Among so many bargains you are sure to find enough things you need to save you several dollars in your buying. Come to the store and you will find over 1500 of these bargains; we know, because we have used over 1500 red tags in marking the reduced prices. You will see the old price tag on each piece of goods, and a red tag bearing the new price alongside of it, so you can compare and figure your saving. Don't wait; the earlier you come, the better chance to get your size and style, in some lines. Bring your eggs; we pay 27 cents a dozen—And bring your chickens; we pay 5-12 cents a pound. STUDY THE BIG LIST OF REDUCED PRICES.

We have all sizes from 16 years up and there are several extra size coats in dark grey and black that will fit women who take an extra big coat about the hips.

LOUISE FLEGE

WILLIAM FLEGE IS PRONOUNCED GUILTY MANSLAUGHTER IS THE VERDICT

Another Appeal to Supreme Court—Letter to Be Asked to Release Prisoner on Bond.

Pender, Neb., Jan. 28.—For the first time William Flége has been found guilty of killing his sister, Louise Flége, who was slain on June 30, 1910, at the Flége home near Wayne, Neb. The jury at 10:30 o'clock this morning, after being out since 9:30 last evening, brought in a verdict finding the accused guilty of manslaughter. The same verdict was returned at the second trial. The verdict in the first trial was "murder in the first degree."

The verdict carries with it an indefinite term of one to ten years in the penitentiary. The members of the jury in favor of the verdict were very much in the majority in the first ballot, the count being 11 to 3.

Flége Unmoved. William Flége accepted the verdict with calmness. While the foreman was reading the verdict, Flége and his brother, Henry, sat with heads erect, facing the jury. Fred, another brother, stood his head, while the verdict was being read.

The courtroom was filled when the jury filed in at 10:30 o'clock and the foreman declared they had reached a verdict. The audience received the verdict with surprise. This afternoon the attorneys for the defense filed a motion for a new trial, which the district judge overruled. The motion was very lengthy and contained eighty reasons why a new trial should be granted. The defense accepted the ruling and began preparations to appeal the case to the supreme court. The attorneys were allowed forty days for filing a bill of exceptions.

Sentence Pronounced. The defendant then stood and was informed that the jury had returned the verdict. The district judge then read Section 2953 of the criminal code which was read and the defendant was asked if he had anything to say why sentence should not be pronounced. He replied, "I didn't do it." He was then sentenced to be confined in the penitentiary of Nebraska for a period of not less than one year nor more than ten years at hard labor. Sundays excepted, no part of which is to be in solitary confinement, and to pay the costs of prosecution. The defendant accepted and was remanded to the custody of the sheriff, and the sentence was suspended for two weeks on motion of the defendant's counsel.

The attorneys for Flége asked the court to admit him to bail pending the action of the supreme court. This the judge would probably have granted, but being of the opinion that he could not do so under the statute, he denied the request. Fred Ammon, clerk of the supreme court, was ordered to immediately prepare a transcript of the pleading and Flége's attorneys were informed that the same would be ready by Monday. The supreme court will then be asked to admit Flége to bail pending a review of the case by that body.

STORY OF THE CRIME

On the afternoon of June 30, 1910, Louise Flége was murdered at the Flége farm near Wayne, Neb., by being shot in the head and once in the breast.

Miss Flége was shot from the rear, one bullet penetrating the base of her skull. The murderer held the gun so close to her that the powder blast burned the substance which she was wearing. The bullet made its exit just under the left eye. Evidently after the victim had fallen and was writing in the death agony the murderer shot her in the breast. This bullet entered in an upward course, so if the assassin had stood at her feet in a normal relation at his head, and decided to add another shot to thoroughly complete his criminal act.

William C. Davignon, at one time chief of police of Sioux City, was engaged by the county attorney of Dixon county to run down the murderer of the girl. Almost a month had passed before Albert Echtenkamp, a 17-year-old boy employed on the Flége farm, confessed to Sheriff Grant Mears, of Wayne county, that he had seen William Flége kill his sister after a quarrel following the noonday meal. He told of how, after dinner, he went out to the carriage of the automobile with water. He said he had hardly started to work on it when he heard Louise and William quarreling, and on looking up saw the two come out of the doorway together. He said they came out into the yard, and the girl screamed, "Leave me alone! Leave me alone! What have I done to you?" that William Flége then pulled a revolver and shot his sister, who dropped head-foremost. The boy said he then rushed to the barn, and just as he reached the door he heard another shot. Turning around, he saw the body of the girl stretched at full length upon the lawn.

Echtenkamp said that Flége then went into the house, but upon coming out told him if he said anything about the shooting he would give him some of the same medicine. The day Echtenkamp confessed William Flége was arrested and taken to the county jail at Ponca, Neb. On July 28 and 29 he was given a preliminary hearing and charged with the murder of his sister, Louise, and his bond fixed at $15,000 for his appearance before the district court on November 30.

The three brothers and the one sister put up a reward of $500 each for the arrest and conviction of the murderer, and the county of Dixon also posted a reward of $500, making a total of $2,500. At the first trial at Ponca, Flége was found guilty after the jury had been out six hours, and was sentenced to life imprisonment in the Nebraska penitentiary by Judge Graves. In April, 1911, he was released on bond pending a decision on his appeal to the Nebraska supreme court for a new trial. In November the supreme court granted Flége a new trial. His second trial at Pender, resulted in Flége being convicted of manslaughter on May 11, 1912. The supreme court granted Flége's plea for a new trial. The members of the Flége family are wealthy farmers, and the trials of William Flége have attracted wide attention. Miss Flége had lived with her brother for twenty six years. When the elder Flége died they left 300 acres of land near Wayne, Neb., to each of the three brothers, the condition that she make her home with her brother, Miss Flége was to receive $1,000, of which $750 was to come from William Flége and $250 from Henry Flége. The other sister, Augusta, who is the wife of Henry Everett, received $1,500 as her dower.

Miss Flége was 32 years old. She owned a quarter section of land in Clayburn county, Neb. Her education was gained in the schools of Washington county, Neb., where she was born.

Great Interest In Panama Essays

Boys and Girls Much Pleased with Chance to Try For Cash Prizes—School Authorities Co-operate—Jury Announced.

The First National Bank of Wayne, has announced the following as the Jury of Award for the Panama Canal essay contest for $18 in cash prizes: W. D. Redmond, J. W. Ziegler, A. R. Davis.

The school children have evinced a deep interest in the announcement made last week that a prize of $10 would be paid for the best 200-word essay written by a schoolboy or schoolgirl under sixteen years of age; a second prize of $5, and a third prize of $3.

The Os-borne Art Calendar, which shows the reproduction of Richard W. Eummell's painting in full color of the entire canal zone, has been the center of attraction in every schoolroom since it was placed on the walls and announcement made through these columns that prize contest was on.

Thus early, some of the essays have been mailed to the First National Bank.

Most of the boys and girls, however, are not sending along their first efforts, but are giving the Panama Canal careful study, carefully scrutinizing the picture on the calendar, and the descriptive matter that appears on the sheet which is attached to it. There is a demand all over town for looks on the Canal, and the "children of larger growth" are becoming as much interested as the smaller folk.

The Panama Canal picture and the prize contest have become the talk of the town, and, as we predicted a week ago, every one of us knows a lot more about the Canal, and the hundreds of millions of dollars and the thousands of lives that have been poured out in its building, than we knew a few weeks ago.

With February and March ahead, here is still time for a vigorous enterprise with Arctic weather.

Col. Bizby thinks women should not be allowed to vote until they have the wisdom and resolution to wear the right kind of clothes.

The good service of telling the young how to live correctly and develop healthy bodies and minds has been much neglected. Most of the Joy type of workers would insure cleaner living and higher citizenship.

Friends of the Sioux City Journal regret to know that its editor, Geo. D. Perkins, Iowa's ablest citizen, has been seriously ill of late. It is hoped his excellent ability and sound judgment will be guaranteed the Journal and indirectly the public for many years yet.

In speaking of the wanted independence of the officers of the progressive party, the Lincoln Journal wisely suggests, among other things, that it would be a pity if the rank and file of the old republicans of Nebraska are herded into hostile camps by the activity of men who are ambitious to become political leaders.

Wouldn't it be a sensible innovation if the girl graduates of the Wayne high school would adopt a uniform of simple and inexpensive gowns for the commencement season? They would win enthusiastic approval from all quarters. This custom established, students could follow with a still better one-uniformity of gowns throughout the year.

Col. A. L. Bizby is still hammering away in the Lincoln Journal in favor of church consolidation. He says there are many unoccupied seats in all churches, and believes fewer separate religious organizations would mean stronger ones. He argues that consolidation would not only reduce the burden of expense but increase the output of good results.

The south Platte country, particularly Lincoln, is likely to see a great deal of self rivalry in each party over nominations. As the democratic south of the Platte cannot get together on a candidate for governor, we would suggest that democrats north of the Platte look around for suitable timber. In that event we would expect to see the party in the North Platte territory unite with the E. Kohl of Wayne. As to the republican party, its leaders say this year should not concede everything to south Platte office seekers. North Platters should unite on a few men and push them to the front.

The Commercial club should be encouraged in its effort to bring about the paving of Main street. Its benevolent investment property sales would amply justify the cost. Paving would make the business district more inviting. It would add materially to the inducement for people to come here to trade. It would be a source of satisfaction to dealers who could thus more easily protect their stock against flying dirt. Paving would be an improvement of the highest importance. Many roads no larger than Wayne have paved streets and it would seem quite too soon for this place to move forward in this respect.

If Mrs. Weekes, editor of the Norfolk Press, wins the postmastership in the forthcoming primary at Norfolk, she will prove an exception to the rule among editors. Her success will not be due to popular desire to reward an editor, but will follow in spite of the fact that she is an editor. It will be because of her unique qualifications, aggressive and determined. Such criticism is drawn from the fact that up to this time not one editor has landed a postmastership in a primary contest in this district. It is a fact that editors, no matter how superlatively deserving, have not thus far shown themselves to be powerful vote getters. Candidates like to have them gone excited and they do not occur very often, but they do occur. The need of letting them occupy stalls at the public ear. If Mrs. Weekes wins, the fact that she is a woman will have surmounted the newspaper barrier.

C. Hunter, editor of the Review, and James Britton, an attorney, both of LaPorte, gave as a pleasant call on Saturday. They say Wayne county stands ready to vote aid to the Sioux City and Nebraska company if they will extend their road through that county.

LaPorte, the county seat of Wayne county, is getting to be a brisk town.

Four or five years ago, the court house was about all there was there. Now there are two dry goods stores, a drug store, and numerous shops and dwelling houses. Wayne county is settling up rapidly with an energetic class of citizens. Within the coming year, they will have one or two railroads, and ere long Wayne will be marked down as one of the most desirable counties in the state.

From Ponca Journal, Feb. 1, 1884:

Last week our paper resembled an ancient weather vane. Certain manifestations, on which the editing hand of time had been heavily laid for a thousand years. A small part only was legible; the balance demanded the closest scrutiny. These conversations took with ink marks and hieroglyphics, and good at guessing, in order to decipher it. In brief, the paper looked not as though run through a regular printing press, but had been tramped on by an elephant, beset with and bedaubed with a myriad of flies, and bedaubed and bespattered by gobs and patches of half frozen ink. Profanely, yet expressively, it looked like the devil. Now who did this paper present itself to our intelligent community in such a diabolical dress, and fit to be contemplated only through a pair of leather spectacles? We will tell you. Some of our readers may perchance remember that on Friday of last week, the day we started the paper, the mercury ran down to six degrees below zero. Indeed we believe it would have gone lower, had it not been afraid of getting frozen up, itself. A brisk wind prevailed. It is probably safe under such circumstances, to say that the air, though bracing, was cool. So cool, that a man's breath froze solid so that when he drew one in, it was like swallowing a sword. The press, the type, the ink and the paper were frozen, together with the patience of the compositors and the human kindness of the editors. Everything was frozen except wrath and profanity; those were thawed out to a deplorable extent. The press set the power press. It weighed five tons, and in size and difficulty in managing, bears, even in warm weather, the same relation to an ordinary press, that a four year old buffalo bull does to a suckling calf. It required the strength of six strong bull aching backs to turn the crank. And when turned, it was like passing the sheet under an iceberg. Two roaring engines, however, had no effect on it. It had whistling on thunder and lightning. As we have hinted, everything was frozen up the press moved painfully, the ink would not distribute, and the paper came out like a sin of ice, each sheet grimy and smeared. That is the reason why the printing looked like the signs and marks on antique prehistoric pottery, or like the half effaced inscriptions on ancient Egyptian monuments and hieroglyphics. But just as it was, we worked at this paper all through the infernal night. Ah, those who do not run newspapers, little know the troubles of life.

Uncle Walt The Poet-Philosopher

A bitter and bitter storm's abroad it is a bleak midwinter day, and slowly 'er the frozen sod the postman's pony picks his way. The postman and his horse are cold but fearlessly they face the gale; though storms increase a hundredfold, the farmer folk must have their mail. The hours drag on, the road grows rougher with each mile that's past, the weary pony feels its load, and staggers in the shrieking blast. But man and horse strive on the more; they never learned such words as fail though tempt heat and torrents pour the farmer folk must have their mail. At night the pony, in its shed, drops on its cold, exhausted frame; and after supper, to his bed the weary postman lies. The same Tommie, with the same old round, the same exhausting, thankless grind; the journey 'er frozen ground, the facing of the bitter wind. The postman does a hero's stunt to earn his scanty roll of kaiser's and 'mooons'; it's long as the shadows meet, 'ommo domoo has no shudder, in sound and fury it is strong. Its humor is a thing distorted, its chorus treats of 'spoons' and 'mooons'; it's long as the shadows meet, 'ommo domoo has no shudder, in sound and fury it is strong. Its humor is a thing distorted, its chorus treats of 'spoons' and 'mooons'; it's long as the shadows meet, 'ommo domoo has no shudder, in sound and fury it is strong.

Could anything, my friends, be sadder, than is the modern comic song? 'ommo domoo has no shudder, in sound and fury it is strong. Its humor is a thing distorted, its chorus treats of 'spoons' and 'mooons'; it's long as the shadows meet, 'ommo domoo has no shudder, in sound and fury it is strong.

A hurry, and sing good songs in dulcet tones! So many songs with truth are gleaming, so many touch the heart and bring, they're simply no excuse for screaming up and down the back! Kill off the 'spooning' and the 'mooing,' of which the loud voiced warblers take; one song you heard your mothers' rooming was worth ten million modern yells.

Oh, Home! It is a sacred place—or was, in olden days, before the people learned to chafe to moving picture playing. HOME SWEET HOME to tango dances and such things, to skylarking on a floor; and now the youthful laughter rings within the Home no more. You will recall, old men and dames, the homes of long ago, and how it recall the festive games the children used to know. The neighbors' kids would come along with their own kids to play, and merry as a bridal song the evening passed away. An evening spent away from home in olden days was scarce, the children had to journey to roam for pleasure everywhere. But now your home is but a shell where children sleep and eat; it serves that purpose very well—their home is on the street. Their home is where the lights are bright, where rag-time music flows; their noon's the middle of the night, their friends are—Lord, who knows? The windows of your home are dark, and silence broods 'er all you call it Home—got save the mark! 'Tis but a sty or stall!

Pass Christian, which is now on tap, was never known till recently, and then it sprang upon the PASS CHRISTIAN map with energy, and in 1892 it was discovered. I do not if it be a town, nor what the games they're playing there; you cannot keep a good Pass-down when Presidents are staying there. Pass Christian, by the public sheets, has boasted been, most feverishly, but silence broods upon the streets and in the halls of Beverly. One lung goes up, another down, for lungs—like humanity; humiliation holds one down, while one swells up with vanity. Pass Christian throbbed upon the wires for its brief day, however, while silent were the minstrel's lyres, and hushed the bells of Beverly. Pass Christian by excitement tossed, saw cowboys of every history, until her citizens were lost in all the crash and posty; one day unknown, the next day great, was ever like emergency? Beware—and proud she faced her fate, quiet equal to the urgency to entertain her hotel of guests she met them all endeavorly, while sorrow filled the mealy breast and chilled the hearts at Beverly.

Oh, let us paw around some more and roset the frightful white slave traffic, with vanity. Pass Christian throbbed upon the wires for its brief day, however, while silent were the minstrel's lyres, and hushed the bells of Beverly. Pass Christian by excitement tossed, saw cowboys of every history, until her citizens were lost in all the crash and posty; one day unknown, the next day great, was ever like emergency? In Mexico, in other days, fair maidens from their windows smiled, while pass Christian throbbed upon the wires for its brief day, however, while silent were the minstrel's lyres, and hushed the bells of Beverly.
