That Million Dollar Look

Go and see this wonderful photo-play to appear at the

... Crystal Theatre ... Tuesday and Wednesday Nights February 24-25

At our own private expense we have brought to this town one of the greatest picture plays that has ever been produced. For years we have been waiting and hoping for some book, or play, or sermon that would make clear the powerful lesson that this picture shows. It is a lesson that means greater success—business success, social success, personal success to every man who will take it home to himself—and apply it in his daily living.

We brought this picture to the Crystal Theatre because we believe that every red-coupsed American man who sees it can reap a profit from it—and become a bigger man through it—and we want to do our share to get it before as many folks right here at home as we can. It's helped us—we want you to enjoy its help too.

We are not going to spoil your enjoyment, your "thrill" and your excitement by telling you here what the story is. Wait and enjoy the surprise for yourself.

We're simply going to go on record with the statement that it will grip you from the first exposure to the last scene—and make you say a hundred times "Why wasn't this picture ever thought of before?"

Men have lost untold opportunities; have sacrificed dearest ambitions; have handicapped the hopes of years, purely and solely through a lack of the knowledge that this picture vividly and dramatically imparts

Men have beaten themselves out of big business gains, have closed the doors to countless success chances, have defeated themselves, not only in business, but in politics, in society—YES, EVEN IN LOVE—because they never studied and mastered the lesson that this picture makes clear to them.

If you want to play the game of success skillfully and victoriously; if you want to be a dominating factor in life's power circles—

Then don't fail to see "That Million Dollar Look" at the Crystal Theatre next Tuesday-Wednesday.

How to Detect the Alum Baking Powder

"Which are the alum baking powders; how can I avoid them unless they are named?" asks a housekeeper.

Here is one way: take the can of a low-priced powder in your hand and read the ingredient clause upon the back label. The law requires that if the powder contains alum, that fact must be there stated. If you find one of the ingredients named alum, or sulphate of aluminum, you have found an alum baking powder.

There is another and a better way. You don't have to know the names of the alum powders. Use Royal Baking Powder only; that assures you a cream of tartar powder, and the purest and most healthful baking powder beyond question.

PHILLOO HARRINGTON, HOSTS

Entertain Friends at Dinner and Pictures Showing Manufacture of Steel Posts.

Monday forenoon farmers began to arrive in Wayne from all directions in response to invitations from the Philloo & Harrington Lumber company, inviting friends from the surrounding country to enjoy a hot dinner at the Yillber cafe and also to attend an entertainment at the Crystal where an exhibition of moving pictures was shown, and most interesting lecture on the manufacture of steel posts delivered. One hundred and twenty-five guests sat down to a sumptuous dinner in the cafe, and this number was increased to upwards of two hundred when the entertainment at the Crystal began. After being entertained with the moving pictures, F. E. Ryan, a representative of the American Steel and Wire company, gave an interesting and highly instructive lecture on the manufacture of wire and steel, illustrating his remarks with stereopticon pictures showing the process of manufacture in the great mills of the company. He also described fully the efforts of the company to find a steel post which would reduce the wood posts in fencing, as all agree that the day of the wooden post is over. After several experiments a successful post was finally manufactured known as the "American Steel Post." The post has been used for over twenty years and it has proven itself successful, being light in weight and easily set, able to stand the wear and tear which the ordinary field fence post must endure, and strong enough to induce the farmer to supersede the old wooden posts with the durable metal. Pictures were exhibited on the screen showing how these steel fence posts are now in use in all parts of the country, and their popularity with railroads.

After the meeting closed orders were taken by the Philloo & Harrington Co. for several thousands of the steel fence posts, and many of the farmers declared themselves convinced that the wood post was going the way of the wooden bridge, and that steel fence posts and woven wire fences would soon be common in this part of the country. The large gathering of farmers was a high compliment to this enterprising Wayne firm, and the fine body of men who filed out of the Crystal after the lecture was over is proof that in Wayne county farming is a profession

TALKS AGAINST THE DEMOCRATIC TARIFF

Lincoln correspondence in Monday's Omaha Bee: "That the farmers of not only Nebraska, but the whole country, are beginning to feel the effect of the new tariff bill and that the loss to the agricultural interests of the country is likely to be enormous was shown in an address delivered by L. A. Welch, a young university law student, at the banquet of the Young Men's Republic club in Lincoln last week.

In speaking upon the effect the new democratic tariff bill had upon the "prosperity" of "Western" farmers, Mr. Welch said that he had taken the figures from the Congressional Record, which had compiled the reports from the office of the secretary of commerce and labor. He first showed the effect the new bill had had in the closing days of the iron and steel industries of the country in the eighty-seven days that the new law had been in operation, as follows:

with the imports of the same products in 1913, as follows:

"In October and November, 1912, there were 71,374 cattle imported into the United States, valued at $1,041,900. In the same months of 1913, after the democratic free trade bill had been in effect, the importation of cattle into the United States had increased 233,757, valued at $6,794,723.

"In the same months of 1912 the importations of corn into this country amounted to 281,810 bushels. In the same months of 1913 the importations had increased to 2,106,643 bushels.

"In the same two months of 1912 the imports of iron and steel into the United States from foreign countries was 57,400 bushels. In the same months, after the new democratic tariff law had gone into effect, the importations increased to 306,953 bushels."

OUR MAJESTIC RANGE EXHIBIT

Children's Day Program. See What The Future Users Have To Say.—Children's Day Proves a Great Feature Tuesday.

We advertised last week that the first 150 boys and girls who presented written answers to the Majestic Range salesman at our store to the question—"WHY IS THE MAJESTIC THE MOST DURABLE RANGE MADE?" would receive a Majestic canary bird free, and the one answering the question the most and best would receive a $100 prize. We are sure that they all had a good time as they gave their big cheers for the Majestic Range on leaving.

It is a very durable range, heats rapidly and evenly, and bakes well and is neat and beautiful in appearance. It is durable because of the quality of iron used in its manufacture. It is built of malleable and charcoal iron, which fact makes it exceedingly durable. Nothing about the range seems inferior, all parts alike being made of material of the best quality. Its use for many years has proved its trustworthiness and its title of a good REPUTATION.—Gordon Richardson.

Because it is made out of the best iron—malleable iron—and cannot be broken. It is air tight and lined with asbestos board throughout. It uses little fuel. It is so hard to keep clean, and will last a lifetime if taken care of. Steel does not resist rust like charcoal. The Great Majestic is a good stove for baking.—Len A. Martin.

Uncle Walt The Poet Philosopher

Be kind to old Dobbin, the generous steed that labors whenever he's told, and see he has lots of THE HORSE: The life-giving feed and blanket his frame when he's cold. The horse is the best of the servants of man, the one that is anxious to please; he pulls on his feet just as long as he can, and pulls when he's down on his knees. He'll work when you see that it's torture to walk, he'll work when he's fed and lamed; the story we'd hear if the horse could talk, would all human bosoms with shame. The horse is so faithful, so patient and good, he ought to be loved and caressed; too often men laugh him with whistles of wood, and score him with language unbecoming. Too often men work him until he is old then sell him to wandering hives, to men of the country, he hattered and sold, with another poor heartbroken slave. Be kind to old Dobbin, who never refused to look on you, early or late, whenever you look on a horse that's always yours; know that the owner's a slave. You'll know that his soul has been twisted away, or made on a dissolve plan; you'll know that he lacks all those qualities which thrive in the heart of a Man.

In our grandparent's time picture taking meant long sittings in uncomfortable, strained attitudes with success always more or less doubtful.

There was excuse in the old days for not having pictures taken at frequent intervals.

But today, clever photographic apparatus, in comfortable studios, with fast plates and fast lenses at their command, make the experience a pleasure.

And you owe this satisfaction to yourself and to your friends.

Assuming the proper attitude usually means putting up the monkey.

day morn, to hear the eminent divine, and no one speaks, with blighting scorn, about that goat on the roof. I wear it always out of doors, though it is old and out of styles, my credit's good at all the stores, and people greet me with a smile. But Sister Jane must buy a hat whenever new styles are advertised; if she should make refusal flat, she rarely would be ostracized. They'd freeze her out of all the clubs, and she would get, to her distress, the ice tongs from the lady dais who never think of aught but dress. And so I'm glad I'm not a dame, that I can wear my winter hat in winter hats, and clothe my frame in self-worn bands no-don-as like these, and still be greeted by my friends with cordial grasp and cheerful smiles; for all our dear brought freedom ends, when we are martyrs to the style.

I saw a poor old phantom, so warped and thin, that if it tried to haunt 'em the folks would surely grin.

THE GHOST All sooty and dejected, it way it did pursue, as though it half expected a good swift kick or two. I've seen a heap of speckles since I broke in the pavement with my spades, and actors to exercise the same, and they were stately always, and dignified and grand, with blue fire in their gaitways, and air of high command. Most shone that came back as have pride and self respect (at what they're duly cautious), and hold themselves erect; but this cheap ghost went sneaking toward the machine dump, then veered it, heard me speaking it fairly seemed to jump. I cried, "ghostly brother, what are you now about? And tell me, is your mother aware that you are out?" The specter drew its garment about its trembling limbs, and cried: "Oh, mortal villain, with pity in your joints, the dump is just before me, I'll vanish from its edge! Then lay some burial over me-I am the New Year Phlegm!"

The fellow who's always going, to morrow or day after that, to make a remarkable showing, PROCRASTINATE, is talking, I want to say, through his hat. The man who's always getting the dollars and putting up cobles of hay are those who get into the collars and strain at the harness today. I toil, and with crimson handans remove from my forehead the sweat, while others are saying "Mamma," and loafing and going in debt; and so, when the times are grown harder, when families and panics arise, the doughnuts and hams in my larder will sure be a shot for some eyes. I have my own faith in tomorrow; it is but an silly-gest ghost that hands out a pack of sorrow to people who bank on it most. Today is the day of achievement, the time when the harvest is ripe; tomorrow is the day of harvest, of dreams that were born of the pipe. Today is the port of Endeavor, where gardens are always in bloom; tomorrow is the harbor of Never, where deliriums drift to their doom. So work in the day that is present, nor count on next day or next week; the skies now are smiling and pleasant, tomorrow the tempest may shriek.

It's the same way over here: When my wife says to me, 'The ballot now or your rights.' On these fat old legs I'll chase. Shrieking to the polling place, There I'll vote to put an end to the strife.

On the energy and ambition of the young men will largely depend the future growth of Wayne. The early settlers have done their part in building and building. The young should now be encouraged to take up the burden of enterprise and press forward for new achievements.

Some editors would have us believe that West Point is a little Omaha. We cannot see it in that light—West Point Democrat. Does the Democrat editor mean, in a business sense, that one, judging from the advertising columns in his newspaper, would seriously entertain such a suspicion?

In his speech before the young men's republican club at Lincoln last week, Lieutenant Governor McFadden said the public stomach was about full of reform. It is the opinion of many that the patient—the country—has been overdone with panaceas and racked with surgical operations for several years and now ought to be given a chance to recover from the ill effects.

The snow storm in New York the first of the week is reported to have rivaled in severity the great storm of 1888. It was in January that year that a terrible blizzard swept the country and caused suffering and death. Teachers and school children were caught by the storm, and some perished. There has been no blizzard of equal severity since then in the middle west. The far east where people used to regard the weather of the west with shivering horror, would now seem to be the scene of the ugliest antics of the elements of the west, the weather of the middle west has been comparatively mild.

Mr. Weekes, editor of the Norfolk Press, who was defeated for postmaster in a recent primary, is manifestly disgusted with the way the new system would cut, and cannot conceal his rage toward the one who invented it. In her defeat, she thinks Congressmen should not "rob" voters. "Robbers" have ignored an opportunity to reward and strengthen a democratic newspaper. Her former kindly attitude toward Stephens has plainly turned to one of bitterness. And an editor is only human. If he is running such a partisan paper that he feels deserving of substantial defense, which is normal, sinks deep into his soul, and he cannot be stooped to support the one to whom he looked for office with the same ardent enthusiasm. It remains to be seen whether soothing words of appreciation will take the place of old passages in healing wounds inflicted in the late primary. Editors who have been defeated for postoffice will perhaps not make themselves so all-fired "sensitive" several that they will again feel they must have office.

The narrow skirt in Wayne this week made the "frigid" look as though she were bobbing along with her feet anywhere on the ground. The skirt is extremely fashionable—some think painfully and diabolically so. Some think the wearer suffers disadvantage and torture on account of being "wedged" as the impossibility of getting up anywhere on the ground is proved enough to believe the one who invented such a style ought to be cast into the utter darkness of northern Tartarus. However, others believe there is a blessed and unreasonable position to take. The more liberal-minded contend that the feet which have long been overlooked and neglected, will now receive a share of deserved attention. In the past the mental capacity has been doctored lavishly and has attracted chief notice. The feet are also wonderful institutions, and deserve some recognition beyond mere employment in the balance of the human corporeity.

THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

Recently Mr. E. H. Horn of New York University addressed a teachers' meeting at West Point, Mo., on "things which are interesting to both teachers and parents. He gave emphasis to the fact that parents often try to shirk responsibility, and shift the burden of training children on to teachers. These excerpts from his address are worth reading and considering: "The modern home is but a shell for the activities of the family, and upon the school."

"If you are going to teach, see hygiene, teach it to the parents, and let the parents teach it to their children."
"The public school has done a great deal to instruct the subnormal child, but totally neglected the super-normal child. It is better that one brilliant child be properly-taught than three dull-normal children."

To socialize a school is to level down to individualize a school is to raise up leaders."

"There is too strong a tendency to make school life easy and pleasant for the child. A child should be taught to like what he ought to do rather than to do only what he likes."

"Minnesota is known all over the Union for progressive ideas on education and its liberal financial support of all good educational movements."
"One of the best things being done in the Minnesota schools is the instruction of agriculture."

"There is too much criticism of an unhelpful nature being made of the public schools. I notice your railroad builder, James J. Hill, has joined the critics."

No Wonder He Was Snubbed by the Policeman.

The policeman of "Moosefoot" Crugan, are mostly of Indian origin. They are not particularly well dressed, impressive or intelligent, but they are always courteous and polite, while they are great sticklers for etiquette.

Through ignorance of their customs a foreigner sometimes finds himself in an embarrassing situation. One day last summer a well dressed American gentleman stepped up to a policeman in the Plaza Independencia and said in very good Spanish: "Will you please tell me where the Calle Rincón is?"

"YOU HAVE NO MANNERS, SIR."

The policeman looked haughtily at the stranger and turned away.

"The American tried again, with still more courtesy: "Would you be so extremely kind as to very accommodately tell me where the Calle Rincón is?"

To his astonishment the policeman returned: "You have no manners, sir!"

Needless to say, the American was quite abashed, but he had to find the Calle Rincón, so he put the question to a girl who was passing by.

"The youth answered her cordially and went some little distance to direct the stranger properly. After the American had thanked him he asked: "Why did the policeman refuse to answer me?"

"Because," replied the youth, "when you addressed him you committed a great breach of etiquette. You neglected to take off your hat and make a bow!"—Youth's Companion.

Temper.

Loosing one's temper means losing peace of spirit, losing clearness of vision, losing the respect of others, and usually losing the respect of bystanders.

Would Follow His Example.

After the battle of Prestonpans a witty Scottish farmer addressed himself by writing a letter upon it, which so stung one of the English officers, who had behaved very badly on the occasion, that he sent him a challenge to meet him in the most honorable manner. The second found the farmer busy with his bayonet and at once delivered the challenge of the redoubtable hero. The most unwarlike farmer turned toward him with the agricultural implement, cooly said: "Guns you took to Mister Smith and tell him I have time to come to him to give him satisfaction, but that if he likes to come here I'll take a look at him."—London Leader.

Methodist Minister Recommends Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

Give Chamberlain's Cough Remedy a trial and you are confident we will find it very effective and possible to use in all seasons of the year. For sale by all druggists.

Scrap Book

Burlison and His Fence. When Postmaster General Burlison was a member of the house he roused into the committee room one day and announced that he had at last obtained the iron fence around the old Pennsylvania station in Washington.

A cub reporter was happened to be present wrote a story about the fence and after stating the facts expressed the opinion that it would soon adorn one of the public squares in Burlison's district in Texas.

The Texas correspondents wired the story to their papers, and soon Burlison was deluged with telegrams.

Encountering the cub reporter, Burlison angrily demanded to know what he had written about the fence.

"What's the matter?" innocently asked the reporter.

"What's the matter?" shouted Burlison. "I will give you that fence at public auction; I paid $100 to have it painted black and have the top stid. I'll sell $75 freight on it to my home in Austin, Tex., where it was to be placed on my home grounds. What's the matter? Why, now I've got to give the fence away!"—Washington Star.

COMMISSIONERS PROCEEDINGS. Wayne, Neb., February 17, 1914.

Board met in per adjournment. All matters present.

The proceedings of January 8, 9, 13, 14, 15, 16 and February 3, were read and on motion approved.

Contract is hereby entered into with the Farmers' Landlord Lumber company for the furnishing of all lumber used by the county for the year 1914...

A. O. Miner files affidavit saying that for the year 1913 the southwest quarter 34-2-2 was transferred by one Elmer Adams from school district No. 17 to school district No. 69.

This affidavit was assessed with personal property on this particular piece of land, and placed by the assessor in school district No. 17, when as a matter of fact, by reason of such land being transferred, the personal property assessed thereon should also be assessed in school district No. 69.

This affidavit is filed with the 30 days as required by law, and that the difference in tax amounts to the sum of $20.02, and he now asks that the same be refunded.

The board after due consideration orders the treasurer to refund to the said W. O. Miner the sum of $20.02 the tax paid under protest.

The following claims were on motion and order allowed and warrants ordered drawn: Earl Merchant, Blacksmithing $178.25.

James Baker, registrar of births $25.00. Wm. Church, hauling sand $1.05.

Secretary of State, 18 volumes 1913 statutes $90.00. C. H. Fisher, clerk $234.66.

Handfuly Entertained. The adjournment on Monday handed down a decision in the county commissioner case of C. P. Farley vs. E. H. Carroll from this county, declaring that the term of office of a commissioner to be three years.

This case attracted state wide attention because it was the first case of its kind tried in the courts. Two years ago next fall E. H. Carroll defeated C. P. Farley for reelection. On January 1st succeeding his election, Farley refused to surrender his office and Carroll promptly started proceedings.

Last September the case came to trial in the district court and Judge Harvey ousted Farley, Carroll assuming the duties as commissioner at once. Farley appealed the case to the supreme court and has at last lost his last hope of retaining the office.

Out of the ruling made by the court he was forced to resign and T. H. Lux was appointed to fill the vacancy. He will now serve until after the election this fall.

Public Sale of Immured
DUROC-JERSEY
Bred Sows
...TO BE HELD AT...
SALE PAVILION
Wayne, Neb., SAT. FEB. 28th
Thirty-five Head

Twenty-three Spring gilts. Twelve tried Sows.

This will be a useful offering of the big useful and practical Duroc Jersey sows that are in so great demand at the present time. All of these sows were immured in September—double treatment—and are in perfect health at the present time. Such sires as Golden Model 4th, Valley King, Golden Model, Colonel Tippey, Advancer Model Second, Improver's Chief, Crimson Kant and Ohio Colonel will be represented among the sired sows. All the spring gilts are by Tolstoy Chief. Sows bred largely for March and April farrow. Two Tolstoy Chief, King's Beauty, Golden Model, Jr. and Valley King Second.

Buskirk's Big Type Duroc-Jersey Sows.

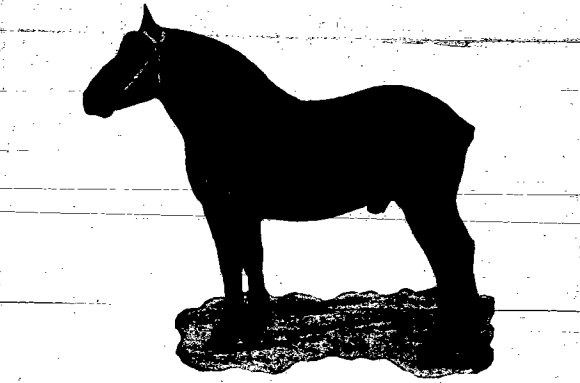

We recently inspected the herd of George Buskirk, Pender, Neb., who has been a breeder of big Duroc Jerseys for the past six years. He is a man who has gone out and purchased the very type and when you look over his herd today you can readily see the big advantage in selecting this kind of seed stock. He believes in getting the big, deep-bodied practical kind and growing the stuff out in such a manner that the sows will have plenty of room to carry good, big, strong litters. He has some of the biggest spring gilts in his herd that we have seen in our travels this year. They are not only big, but they have a large amount of quality and they uniformly have good, heavy bone and stand on excellent feet. Mr. Buskirk is a crack on good backs, good heads and good feet. All the spring gilts in this offering are sired by Tolstoy Chief, a superb Proud Chief, by the Ohio Chief out of a Tolstoy dam. He is a big rugged, deep-bodied, heavy-boned fellow, and sired an excellent string of gilts. A number of the tried sows will be mated with this lot. The spring gilts will be bred to the three other boars in this herd, which are all on the big type order. If you are looking for the kind that will raise you big strong litters, arrange to attend this sale. Don't forget that every sow is immured—double treatment—and if you cannot attend, send a bill—O. I. Purdy.

Sixth Annual Auction Sale Of

Percheron and Belgian Horses

Commencing at 1 o'clock, at Stock Pavilion, Carroll, Neb., Thursday, Feb. 26th.

Twenty-five Head of Draft Horses

Including twelve stallions from yearlings to 8-year-olds. Balance, high class grade geldings and mares, young, sound, heavy weight and best quality. These 25 head have been inspected, under Nebraska stallion law, all have sound certificates. They are the best toned kind, with plenty of weight and quality, one of the 3-year-olds now weighing 2200 pounds, one 5-year-old 1700 pounds, and several others reaching the ton mark. We are including several of our prize winners in this sale.

Wayne county has long been noted for its big draft horses. Why? The best stallions obtainable have been kept here and Wayne county geldings have brought fancy prices in the principal horse markets from here to Boston. Farmers should have a good draft stallion in every township. Two or more farmers can get together and purchase a good one. It will not only make them more money, but their entire community. It costs no more to raise a market topper than to produce a medium horse that sells at a much lower price. Send for catalogue.

Carroll is located on the C, St. P. M. & O. railroad, sixty miles west of Sioux City, Ia., and 120 miles northwest of Omaha.

THE WEEK WITH THE CHURCHES.

German Evangelical Lutheran Church. (Rev. R. Mochring, Pastor.) Services and Sunday school as usual next Sunday.

St. Mary's Catholic Church. (Rev. Wm. Keenan, Pastor.) There will be mass in Wayne Sunday morning at 8:30. Catechetical class at 9:30. Benediction in the evening at 7:30.

Methodist Church. (Rev. C. L. Myers, Pastor.) All say they had a delightful time at the 12th social. Over two hundred were present. Come again.

We are arranging a musical evening to be given by members of the faculty from the Wesleyan conservatory.

Prof. Alexander's band of thirteen pieces entertained us with thirteen sets of lectures at the "12th social. I see no reason why Wayne should not have a weekly open-air concert this summer.

We had our first missionary lesson at the league last Sunday evening. Many interesting facts were brought out. The more you know of the immigrant, the less prejudiced you will be.

We are just organizing a Home Department in the Sunday school. If you are eligible we would be pleased to have you to become a member.

Next Sunday morning the pastor will make an address in memory of Miss Francis Willard. Special seats reserved for the W. C. T. U. which organization is invited to attend in a body.

The pastor will also give an address to any person who lived in Wayne during the past year.

Place phone me, and I will come to you.

District Sunday school convention will be held in Wayne on March 21. Have you seen the "March 21st. Wayne is your birthday?"

Pastor will make a temperance address next Sunday evening.

Have you secured your discipline yet? We have them.

Fires Baptist Church. (Rev. B. P. Richardson, Pastor.) "The Victorious Kingdom" will be the subject of the sermon next Sunday morning. There is no place for discouragement in the service of a conquering leader. The Christian ought to respond with enthusiasm to the call of a triumphant kingdom.

"Conquering Man's Conqueror," will be the evening theme. It is inspiring to believe that no enemy is strong enough to conquer man, when he is helped with God.

The Missionary Ties, given last week at the home of Mrs. Dayton was quite successful.

lary, Ruth Ingham-Treasurer, Ralph

St. Paul's Lutheran Church. (Rev. F. E. Hiesing, Pastor.) Sunday school every Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. All parents may not be able to give their children wealth and possessions, with which to start in life, but they can give them a good education. But do not forget that an education is not complete when the child has gained all the knowledge he can in the public school, he must have a religious education; this he can get in the Sunday school. Will you help your child get a complete education? If so, send him to the Sunday school.

Services every Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. The subject of the sermon will be: "The Use of Christian Opportunities." Matt. 25:1-13. We read of one who lived over nineteen hundred years ago, "Never man so spoke." His great teachings surpassed the wisdom of the wisest in those days and since for they taught things of vital significance to human life. Among his great teachings, his parables are the most impressive. He opened many of them by drawing a likeness to the Kingdom of God. In the one we wish to consider he says: "Then shall the kingdom of heaven be likened unto ten virgins who took their lamps and went forth to meet the bridegroom." Here the ten virgins are pictured as having the same opportunity. Each one looks fresh in mind the fact—the bridegroom comes, but that as he did not come at the time they expected, some began to forget their great opportunity. Midnight came, and a cry went out upon the air—Behold the bridegroom! Come ye forth to meet him. The virgins who took their lamps and went forth to meet the bridegroom, they of the wise, help, but receive none, as they had only prepared for themselves; thus they are made to go elsewhere. While they were at the bridegroom comes, the wise enter and the door closes; they used their christian opportunity. The foolish return and find the door closed and can not enter in, for they have not used their christian opportunity. "Watch therefore, for ye know not the day nor the hour."

Evening services every Sunday evening at half past seven. The subject of the sermon next Sunday evening will be "Christ as a King," John 18:1-14. The Ladies Aid society will meet at the home of Mrs. E. C. Tweed, on Thursday of this week. It is hoped that all members will be present as this will be a special meeting.

Church school every Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock.

Catechetical class Saturday afternoon at half past two.

Spilled the Water.

The late Dr. Meikle of Springfield, the hero of many stories, once let me know that part of his desire to induce his guests to adopt his own "temperance" principles. He became aware of the practice published by some patrons of the Hydro of covering their beds with a certain kind of bedding, and of ordering shaving water at bed-time, which he thought would be sure to induce a refreshing sleep.

One night, who was sleeping under a heavy coverlet of hot water, he awoke and found that she was taking shaving water to the gentleman. "Come here," said the doctor, leading the girl to a bathroom. The maid followed in fear and trembling. The doctor pulled out a pen-knife and, taking a hunk of soap, cut a slice small enough to be slipped into the jug, with the caustic remark: "Soap won't hurt it. It's shaving water, you know." The nurse that entered in several bedtimes afterwards, but it is assured that, if known, they would be unprofitable.—Toronto Globe.

Clear the Way.

Lo, a cloud's about to vanish
From the day
And a beam's about to emanate
From clay!

Lo, the right's about to conquer
Clear the way!
With that shall many more
Enter smiling at the door.
With the sign, wrong shall fall
From the earth, and
That for ages long have held us
In their power.

Men of thought and men of action
Clear the way!

His Queer Request.

Civil War days had a fascinating story about his old friend, W. S. Penley; Penley was stopping at a country house in Kentucky, near Lexington, France, and the morning after his arrival, finding no moving picture, he rang the bell. "Answer me on the 'rall,'" he said to the maid. Who answered—? The maid returned and then, chucking it with laughter, ran down to her master. "Monseigneur," she cried, "your friend who arrived last night is mad. He has nothing on but his dressing gown, and he asked me to bring him a horse!" The host man and asked Penley what he could be wanted for, when he returned. "Penley's reply," we talk of a chival glass at home, don't we? I thought 'cheval' was the French word for mirror."

She Could Lecture Martin.

Mr. Frederick Townsend Martin, in his lecture "Faint Heartedness," tells a story of a titled lady, well known in English society, with very decided and outspoken opinions on certain subjects.

One day she was out at lunch and the conversation turned on the pleasure of the man present was his or her idea of what constituted enjoyment, and at last, Lady Henry remarked in her impressive manner, "For myself, I like dinners better than anything else."

"Dinners?" exclaimed her host in a tone of great surprise. "My dear Lady Henry, surely you are not a dour mart."

"Oh, no," drawled her ladyship. "I like dinners because I know I am certain to have a nut on either side of me who can't get away."

War Warning.

"Many a man goes to war without the slightest conception of what it really is," said a veteran of General Sherman's army in 1862. "I had counted on a detail made up of a dozen or two recruits that had just come up from the staff states. The first day we were near the enemy hill, I managed to find a deserted cabin and, after passing my picket out in front, I went to sleep. Next day, however, I discovered signs of Confederates in the cabin and were springing to drive us out of the cabin. The powder-hill I started to my picket and gave a snarl at astonishment. The young man stood in the middle of the clearing with the 'cut-throat' whistles around him. There was no sign of fear about him, but he was tremendously excited. He had noticed his picket and was wearing his arms, trying to attract the attention of the enemy, and shouting at the top of his voice in tones of remonstrance."

"Well, you fellows, over yonder, don't you all be shooting! In here, we're just going to have a look at

THE REAL WAY TO REDUCE THE COST OF LIVING.

Chicago letter Ocean: The House agricultural extension bill, popularly known as the Lever bill, passed by the Senate on Saturday without a dissenting vote, may safely take its place in history as the most important constructive legislation of the American Congress since the homestead act.

The measure is of peculiar importance to Chicago because it originated here with Howard H. Gross and other prominent and public-spirited citizens, organized as the National Soil Fertility League. Other local promoters of its work are: John L. Mitchell, H. W. Frank, Frank Baercker, K. S. Conway, Frederic A. Delano, H. F. Madge and Franklin MacVeagh. Among its more notable members outside of Chicago are: Former President Taft, W. J. Bryan, James J. Hill, Champ Clark, W. C. Brown and Dr. Van Hise of the University of Wisconsin.

This group of leading and thinking citizens and their associates say that the new law is the highest act of living which has become so oppressive of late years is that under a variety of influences the fertility of our soil is not advancing as it should—it is even relatively declining, as always does when countries cease to be "wise" unless proper corrective measures are taken.

The high cost of living is essentially the high cost of food. And the cost of food is relatively high because American farms are not so productive as they ought to be. The "Lever bill" is an effort toward scientific education of farmers on a scale of unprecedented magnitude and liberality.

The means are provided by an annual appropriation of $10,000,000 to each state, with further appropriations of $600,000 the first year and an increasing $500,000 each year until a total of $4,500,000 a year is reached, conditioned on the states providing equal funds for the same end purposes of the act. Of what is hoped from it Mr. Gross says:

"Most authorities agree that when this plan is in full operation, say ten or fifteen years hence, it will more than double the output of the farm. It will reduce the cost of production and increase the farmer's net income, and at the same time give the people a more abundant and cheaper food supply. If a farmer raises a sixty-bushel crop of corn on forty acres instead of a forty-bushel crop on sixty acres he would have the same amount of corn and the cost would be materially less. If the gain in crop value should be only 50 percent it would produce an annual income of two times the combined capital of all the national banks."

THE HUMAN HEART

Work of This Marvelous Twofold Pumping Machine.

HAS A LANGUAGE OF ITS OWN.

In Tones That Cannot Be Misunderstood It Tells Whether It Is Strong or Weak and if Ailing Tells the Place and Cause of Its Troubles.

When the doctor puts his ear to your neck or pines for the pulse, he is not only conducting the sounds more clearly, what does he hear? The sound of the normal heart is like the pronunciation of the syllable "lub-dub," close to each other. These syllables are heard in quick succession, and then comes a pause—the diastole or resting period of the heart. If this sound "lub" is not heard it shows that the aortic valves are destroyed or not working.

The latest explanation of this first sound "lub" is that it is caused by the muscular contraction of the heart and the impulse of the heart against the chest wall. The first sound is heard more clearly over the apex of the heart, the point of the chest nearest to the ventricle. The second sound is best heard over the aortic valves.

If you close a door with great force the slam is very loud and high in tone. In the heart is louder than usual. This is most important to the physician for the reason that there is a high arterial tension due to what is termed an aneurism.

If the sound "lub" is weaker than normal it would indicate the stiffness of the heart muscle and this is the case in fever. In typhoid fever—for instance, when this first sound is very weak, we know that the heart is so weak as to make the case alarming.

A heart is said to be a "murmur" when the sharp "lub" disappears and the first aortic valve bears a soft, low, noise called a "murmur." If you try to say "lub" with your lips open the sound uttered will be like that of the horse in the disassembled truck whose valves do not close properly.

The sound produced is something like "dub" and if the mitral valve does not work well the first syllable is softened into "lub." If both valves work poorly the sound is "lub-dub-lub-dub-lub-dub."

If both valves are very much out of order the sound is like that of a hollow, "who-who."

Most persons speak of the heart as if it were a single organ, but actually it is two hearts joined together, the right and the left heart. The right, sounds the loudest through the lungs so that it may be heard, or acted upon by the oxygen in the inhaled air, while the left heart sounds the loudest through the body in order to nourish the tissues.

Both of these hearts receive the blood from the large veins into the auricles, which by contracting send the blood on into the ventricles, and when these powerful muscles contract the right ventricle pumps the blood into the pulmonary artery on the way to the lungs and from the left ventricle into the aorta, which distributes the blood all over the body. After having nourished the nerves and muscles it returns through the veins to the heart, there to be pumped into the lungs for purification by the oxygen before again passing through the system.

The difference in the sounds of the right and left ventricle is traced to the difference in resistance of the pulmonary and the aortic artery. The pulmonary artery requires only one-fifth the strength of the aorta, so the pumping force required is less and the noise of the closing gates is that much less.

It is true, then, that when the physician listens to the beating of a patient's heart through his stethoscope the heart speaks to him in unmistakable language. When it plainly says "lub-dub" he knows that all is well with this pumping organ and that he may rest the patient on the shoulder, saying: "Nothing serious; you'll be all right in a day or two." When, however, the heart says "lub-dub" he knows that the aortic valve is not working properly and takes the proper steps to correct it. When the heart says "lub-dub" he is sure that the mitral valves are out of order, and he tries to reach them.

When the heart says "lub-dub" he draws a solemn face, for both valves are out of order, and when it says "lub-dub" he looks very grave and goes to work at once, for all is really wrong.—Detroit News-Tribune.

"What's the old lady worried about?" "Somebody told her there was a scheme to take away the tax at this source."—Kansas City Journal.

THE ART OF SELLING.

Real Salesmanship is a Light That Can't Be Obscured. The boss wants lookers, because he knows the looker of today is the buyer of tomorrow and he wants to make the lookers feel that his store is "the best place to trade," which is only another way of saying that it is the best place to do one's looking. He also knows that the looker of today can sometimes be converted into a buyer tomorrow.

Do not get it out from all of them if he did there would be less used for commissions to inquire laboriously into the relation between shopkeeper and customer. Real salesmanship will not care whether it is practiced and by whomsoever it is practiced. Real salesmanship is one light that can't be hidden under a bushel. It's a light that will shine as brightly on the shopkeeper and reach clear up to the old man in his private office, if you keep it burning long enough.

SPEED OF GAME BIRDS.

The Hazel Men Said to Be a Wonder in a Short Spurt.

What is the fastest game bird that flies? Of course, in seeking an answer the questioner is a trifle in the wrong. The Swiston points out, one must assume equal conditions of atmosphere and space for flight. For all creatures, human or other, seek the highest rate of speed under the influence of fear.

Yet, curiously enough, this is one of the forest haunting birds which, like the first aortic valve bears a soft, low, noise called a "murmur." If you try to say "lub" with your lips open the sound uttered will be like that of the horse in the disassembled truck whose valves do not close properly.

Inflammable Celluloid.

Celluloid, being first cousin of gun cotton and closely related to nitro-cellulose, is highly inflammable and should never be brought in close proximity to a flame. Celluloid is a compound of cellulose or vegetable fibrin, reduced by acids to gun cotton. Cellulose is found in all vegetable life, particularly in young plants. It is a starchy substance. Cotton follows primarily cellulose. After cotton fiber is cleaned it is submerged in acids, which quickly reduce it to celluloid in the form of nitro-cellulose, transparent as glass. Cambric is added further to thicken it, and the required coloring matter is thoroughly mixed in, after which only one treatment by heat and pressure into various useful and ornamental objects, such as combs, boxes, pins, paper cutters, ornaments, etc.—New York World.

Learn to Write Well.

First legibility, second signalfulness, should be the endeavor in handwriting and let the "character" and the "individuality" take care of themselves. If you wish to devise a signature hard to forge that is another thing, but one's everyday handwriting should be plain and as good looking as one can make it. The art of writing a neat, legible, well punctuated, correctly expressed and spelled letter should be one of the very high school graduates, and then more to every college graduate, and the thanks of the community are due to those who are testing and trying to improve our methods of education; but they must remember that the letter style is properly more loose and conversational than any other, and that brevity should not be criticised in the same way.—Kate Upon Clark in Leslie's.

Within the Law.

A real negro motony, of the old fashioned kind, was being run by a man who had a basket of "fresh eggs" on the arm and was offering them for sale.

"Are you sure they are perfectly fresh?" asked the lady who came out of the house.

"Yes, um, they are all right, Miss Bess." "Are they decidedly all right, Miss Bess?"—New York Post.

Exclusionism.

The pulpit pulper a barbed wire fence around himself because he instinctively knows he's a fourth classer and is afraid you'll find it out if you get too close.—Indianapolis Star.

CRIMINALITY saw that a woman was attending a party and she had a party had a basket of "fresh eggs" on the arm and was offering them for sale?—Puck.
