IMPROVEMENTS IN RURAL TERRITORY

FARMERS MAKE HEADWAY

Advancement Excels That in Populous Centers—Farming Made Attractive.

A Herald representative took an auto ride through Plum Creek, Leola and Hunter precincts last Friday in company with John T. Bressler and A. C. Gant. Farm development in the last few years has been wonderful, and the rural territory in Wayne county has generally quite eliminated old-time objections to farm life.

The residences of Henry Albers, William Harrison and George Aistrop are probably not surpassed in Wayne county in size, finishing and conveniences. The smallest of the new large type, with biggest house in Wayne, they have their own lighting heating and water plants and sewerage systems.

These houses are examples of what Wayne county farmers are doing—more and more every day. Many have every modern improvement, though usually not building on the large scale followed by the three farmers mentioned.

The travelers visited Dan McManigal, one of the early settlers of Plum Creek. He is one of the survivors of the war which ended in the late part of the 19th century, and he bears more than one mark bearing evidence of his past in that sanguinary struggle.

Wednesday, April 15, at the Baptist parsonage in Wayne, Rev. B. P. Richardson quietly married Mr. John D. Sneath and Miss Ada Clark Leonard, both of Leslie precinct.

ENTERTAINMENT BY WAYNE CITY SCHOOLS

PROGRAM SCORES SUCCESS

Folk Games Show Purpose of Kindergarten in Different Grades Take Part.

The entertainment given by the public schools in the high school assembly room last Friday evening was in every respect, a decided success. After music by the high school orchestra a series of folk games was presented by a group of kindergarten children under the direction of Miss Essee Teich, which demonstrated the nature of some of the vital purposes of kindergarten training.

The grades followed in the order of their rank, each rendering a group of songs, among which those coming to especially pleasing were: "The Scissors Grauder," first and second grades; "Toboggan Slide," third and fourth grades; "March Wail" fifth grade; "Swing Song," sixth grade; "Memorial Day Song," seventh and eighth grades; "Ghosts of Little White Roses," high school girls' chorus; and "The Merry Miller," high school boys' and girls' chorus.

The recitation, by Willis Jelder and James O'Neal, the violin duet by Alice Blair and Joy Kingland, the character song by Dwight McKivier, and the oration by Ralph Ingham were all faultlessly rendered.

Indeed the character of the entire program was such as to reflect great credit on all the teachers and the music director, Mrs. Murfree, as well as upon the pupils.

J. H. KATE REMEMBERS WAYNE WITH ESTEEM

In the course of a letter to this office, J. H. Kate, formerly of this place, now at the head of the X-Ray incubator company at Des Moines, gives expression to the following which will be of interest to Wayne: "About the most interesting reading we have in our family comes in the Wayne papers. We are all well and happy, excepting that at times the 'old man' gets lonesome and would rather meet a friend from Wayne than open mail containing an armful of drafts.

"Our business has more than doubled over last season, and that has put us in the hole about 1,200 machines. We are still in, but as business is now letting up, I think we will catch up in another week. We are working about eighty-five people, and running about 110 machines. Charles Kate now has an interest in the business, so the writer has some one to help him out.

"Making money is some fun, but there are other things necessary to make life pleasant, and as far as I am the happiest when I am with friends, and I believe I have more friends in Wayne than any other place. Hoping to see you this summer. I remain Yours truly, J. H. Kate."

The editor notes with satisfaction Mr. Kate's kindly feeling for Wayne, and also notes his appreciation of friendship above money-getting.

A surplus of wealth usually proves its deficiency as a source of perfect happiness, and then the value of warm friendships looms larger and more impressively. Mr. Kate having reached this point, the editor would suggest that he take a quantity of his surplus cash and rear on his lots in the town he most esteems and where his friends are most numerous and best, a monument that will forever bear testimony to his love.

SUPREME VALUE IN HABITS OF INDUSTRY

(To The Wayne Herald.) Middle aged people are often critical of the young of this generation, charging them especially with being less serious minded and industrious than those of a generation ago. This condition is debited to the public schools, the craze for amusements, etc.

It would be well to analyze the conditions under which young people are now growing up in order that remedies may be applied where needed. I propose to point out a few of the relations of young people to the work of the community and indicate modes of betterment.

The young people of a generation ago were more largely on the farm than now. The farm has peculiar advantages for the promotion of industry. There the work of the children is economically produced and often necessary. This condition compels industry. Again, the work is done under the guidance, usually with the actual physical presence of father or mother, and in co-operation with the whole family. The result is that habits of work are easily formed. Again, the father and mother are experts at farm work and when the boy and girl grow up they have already passed through a valuable apprenticeship. They are well-learned workers in a task that is economically advantageous. In other words everything on the farm makes for industry and skill.

Contrast this with conditions in town. About the average house there is not work enough to keep a live boy busy an hour a day. Such as there is mean drudgery. It does not call for skill nor does its accomplishments induce to pride. It is not done under the eyes of the father, for he is in store or shop. If the family has a garden, it is of little if any, economic advantage and the boy is not encouraged by the help and advice of his father. His mother does the boshing and the lad shuns the gardening. It is "easy" work, not a man's job. If he could drive a team like the boy on the farm, work with his father, he would receive recognition, it would be different.

It seems to me that if fathers in Wayne wish their boys to become industrious, they must work definitely to that end.

We approach vacation time. Shall it be three months of idleness and foolishness for all the young people of Wayne? Let us see if we cannot prevent that disaster. Every boy in Wayne who is old enough should have a steady job for the summer. Probable the owners of the vicinity will be glad to employ all. Suppose the farmers be invited to leave word at certain places or with the secretary of the commercial club, stating the need of a boy or young man on the farm this summer. Now, some of the boys will not want to work. These should be looked after. Let every man in town who knows of a boy who is becoming addicted to idleness do all he can to put that boy to work.

Industry is a great help—a little practice will often accomplish wonders. Then, the merchants in town can furnish employment for many. But this, you say, does not help the younger children. True, and the younger children should likewise be taught industry. I wonder how many parents require a regular contribution to the work of the house, hold from each child in it every day. That suggestion is good—the year around.

But why not raise larger gardens this summer than ever before? Why not teach the children how to do gardening? Let the commercial club offer a prize for the best garden and let Professor Lackey print suggestions for the cards of games each week in the local papers. Then let the children keep the yards and alleys clean, but always with the cooperation of the elders and let every vacant lot in Wayne be cultivated this summer. At the close of the season we might have a big municipal celebration; inspect gardens, yards, etc., have reports on all the work done by the young people of Wayne during the summer months and have a roll of honor published in the papers. We should thus clean our city, cultivate city spirit and most of all save our young people from a season of idleness.—J. T. House.

It is expected that plans preliminary to submitting the question of voting bonds for the purpose of raising money with which to buy a new pump, enlarge the storage capacity and extend water mains for the city will be completed in time to hold a special election early next month. The proposed improvements are indispensable and press for early attention.

RULOW ACQUITTED OF CHARGE OF LIBEL

Harry Rulow, editor of the Hoskins Headlight, was discharged by the county court last Thursday after a hearing on the charge of criminal libel, complaint having been made by Miss Lizzie Deck. The charge grew out of the Hoskins postoffice row. Rulow was recently appointed postmaster, and those who opposed him have fought against giving him possession of the office.

GLEE CLUB'S VISIT HERE

Sunday's Omaha Bee—Creighton Varsity Glee, club is back from Wayne, Neb., where it appeared in concert under the auspices of the Wayne Normal school Thursday evening. The members reported a royal reception by the populace at that place and related several humorous episodes of the trip.

Delphin Kohler, medical student and tenor in the club, proved to be the goat. When the club changed cars at Emerson on the up trip, Kohler wandered out to see the town, and when he returned to the station the train was gone. He managed to catch a later train to Wayne and arrived just-in-time-for the concert.

Kohler's next embarrassment came away. The municipal ash pile, near the city hall, was moved early in the week. As a result of the general onslaught, the city looks cleaner and more inviting.

Randolph papers report a series of petty stealing and burglaries at that place. The latest was the burglary of the hardware store of the Edwards & Bradford Lumber Co. Some money and good-tipping taken. Charged with such burglary, Jack Richardson who kept bachelor's hall at Randolph, was arrested and bound over to the district court. It is said the stolen goods were found on his premises.

Norfolk Press: School friends of Supt. J. H. Kemp learn with regret that he will give up school work with the close of the year to engage in life insurance work. Superintendent Kemp is one of the men who has counted in Nebraska school affairs. He has been superintendent at Wayne five years and under his management the schools have made rapid improvement and have kept pace with the times. He has also been a successful and popular instructor in institutes and summer schools.—He will be missed in school circles throughout the state. In his new business life Mr. Kemp will be connected with C. M. Chittenden, district agent for the Northwestern Insurance company, and will continue his residence in Wayne. Phil Burgess, Carroll dealer in high grade horses, was in Wayne Tuesday.

President U. S. Conn of the State Normal went to Pilger Tuesday to visit the schools of that place.

Digging trenches for an extension of the sewerage system in the eastern part of the city is in progress this week.

A lot of scientific triumphs don't do the people much good.

As a rule, the patriot who says a good deal about the principle involved, is looking for a quarrel, and won't be happy till he gets it. Women continue to howl for their rights but it is a pertinent fact that the only thing a man has to "blossom" out in on Easter morning is a new hair cut.

Why Should We Carry Accident and Health INSURANCE?

Because no one is immune from accident or sickness. They are no respecter of persons. Accidents of the most serious character often occur at the most trivial causes, causes that can not be avoided. They hurt in every step.—Our 20th century improvements have accidents more numerous and naturally accident and health insurance is becoming popular and a necessity of the thinking man. Sometimes it is inevitable and the only time to provide against sickness is when we are in good health. THE WEEK WITH THE CHURCHES

Presbyterian Church. (Rev. Alexander Corch, Pastor.) "The Assurance of Christ: Why the Church Teaches the Doctrine" will be the subject of the morning sermon at the Presbyterian church next Sunday. As a prelude to the sermon the pastor will speak on "The Prayer Chain—Shall we break it?"

In the evening the pastor will speak on "The Ten Virgins." The morning service begins at 10:30, and the evening service of worship at 8 o'clock. The Sunday school meets at 12 and the C. E. prayer meeting at 7 p. m.

Niobrara Presbytery met this week at Wakefield. There were representatives from all sections of the Presbytery, which extends from Valentine to South Sioux City, and from the north as far south as Pender. The local church was represented at the Presbytery by the pastor and Elder W. A. K. Neely.

Under the auspices of the Brotherhood of the church an entertainment will be given on Monday evening, May 4, by James Robert Barkley, the well known cartoonist and clay-modder.

The Sunday school and its efficiency will be discussed by the congregation on Wednesday evening of next week. As the Bible is an out-law, even in the public schools of a Christian community like Wayne, a tremendous burden is placed on the churches in connection with the Sunday school, and the silent influence or the exclusion of the Bible from the day schools makes the work of the Sunday school difficult and disappointing. The whole situation will be discussed at a public meeting of the congregation on next Wednesday evening.

First Baptist Church. (Rev. B. P. Richardson, Pastor.) Dr. Essert's lectures contained a timely message for all our people. We hope most of our people heard him once, at least. Everything that is working for the help of man should interest Christians, because it belongs to the Kingdom of God. All these humanitarian movements of today are but different ways of manifesting the Spirit of Christ. The law of love is a very wide in its applications and has many methods of work.

Yet underneath all these movements for the betterment of humanity we find the church as not only furnishing the leadership, but very largely the supporters. The church is the hen that lays the golden egg—let us not magnify the egg so much as to be unable to see the hen. The church is the spiritual dynamo, and the focus-point of the light that is, love. They are the national fruit, growing from such a tree. And sometimes we find a Christian who is more deeply interested in the movements than in the church, which is the mother of them all.

"The Cross in Daily Life," the subject next Sunday morning. The cross represents the fundamental principle in the Christian life—what is it?

Sunday evening "Sources of Help" will be the subject. When do you seek help? The missionary committee will have charge of the young people's hour. They will study at this hour, the Sunday school and mission.

The monthly covenant meeting next Wednesday evening. Can we have an unusually large crowd? Tomorrow (Friday) the young people will have a social in the children's room. A good time to bring some young person and let all get acquainted.

When did you invite some one to the church? When did you speak to some one about Christ? How many people have you led to Christ?

St. Paul's Lutheran Church. (Rev. F. E. Blessing, Pastor.) Sunday school every Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. Again we urge the members of the congregation to attend the Sunday school, for if you keep your children in Sunday school and follow up the work which it does you will find that it will save your children from many of the dark blot of the world and yourself from many heartaches.

Regular preaching services every Sunday morning at 11 o'clock and in the evening at a quarter of eight. The subject of the sermon—next Sunday morning will be "The Way of the Cross." Evening—9:10. Looking back over the year just past and noting the opportunities of our forefathers, we find that they were not as great as the opportunities of the present. It has not been so many years since man tilled the soil with a sharp sickle and harvested his grain with a sickle, since he hauled his grain to market in wagons pulled by oxen and ground his flour at the old mill on the street. But today, great steam engines, pulling seven or eight plows, turn under the soil; man cuts his grain with a machine; he sends it to market by the train load and has his flour ground at the steam roller mill. Is this not a day of great opportunities? But there is still a greater opportunity than all of these, the opportunity of salvation. "How shall we escape, if we neglect so great salvation?"

The theme for Sunday evening will be "The World's Greatest Battle Field," Prov. 23:7.

The Ladies' Aid society met at the home of Mrs. C. J. Lund on last Thursday. There was a good attendance and a splendid meeting. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mr. Sedvic Swanson, Thursday, April 30. Miss Nellie Johnson will entertain.

Choir rehearsal every Tuesday evening at eight o'clock. A cordial invitation is extended to all who wish to worship with us.

Methodist Church. (Rev. C. J. Myers, Pastor.)

Sunday was a great day. Dr. Essert gave us a splendid sermon in the morning from 1 John 3:2. At 10 o'clock the league will meet for the last time at 6:30 as the time is here for the spring change. May 3, evening services will begin half hour later.

Some very important business for the church, which will meet Saturday night at the parsonage. Dr. Essert spoke before the Presbytery at Wakefield on Tuesday afternoon.

All persons who have sung in the choir or will now do so, are requested to meet for rehearsal at the church Thursday evening.

The Ladies' Aid society will have a tea and talk at Mrs. Rollie Ley's Thursday, April 23.

Plan for children's day, June 14, Mothers' day, May 10, anniversary of the Epworth League a week or two later, and the district Sunday school convention, May 28 and 29.

We suggest the organization of a law and order league for Wayne the purpose of which will be with other things to distribute literature on the white slave problem.

Do Methodists understand paragraph 57 of the discipline? "If the residence of a member who has removed cannot be ascertained for one year, the words 'written opposite certificate,' shall be written opposite the name in the record of church membership; and such name shall not be counted in the returns of statistics; but no member shall be so entered unless his postoffice address shall have been unknown to the pastor for at least one year."

Last Spring 67,000 persons were so listed. Does this account for a fraction of the small increase in membership?

When the days of spring grow more and more beautiful does your need of religious exercise decrease? The present indebtedness of the foreign missionary board is only $88,488 against $138,361 of a year ago.

Methodism began in the hearts of two young men in England in 1729. Philip Emburg began work in America in New York City in 1766 which resulted in the founding of John Street church. The first conference, known as the Christmas conference, was organized with eighty-three preachers and 14,088 members. In 1914, 20,395 preachers and 3,737,508 members are reported.

But the above figures are for the Methodist Episcopal church alone. Sunday morning the pastor will preach from Gen. 2:1 and in the evening from Luke 12:48.

Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Blair will sing Sunday morning the duet, "They Went Astray," from the Practical Song.

The German Evangelical Lutheran Church. (Rev. R. M. Moshing, Pastor.)

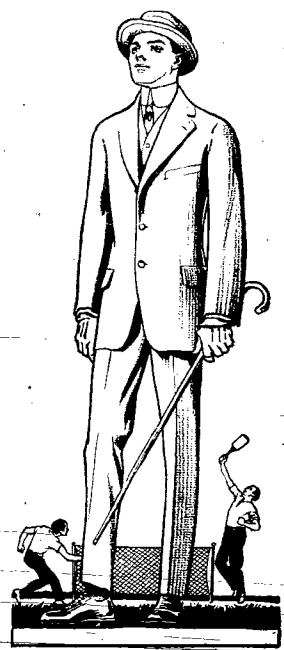

There will be no services next Sunday as the church is still undergoing repairs.

St. Mary's Catholic Church. (Rev. William Keams, Pastor.) Mass Sunday morning at 8:30. There will be no benediction in the evening as the pastor will be in Creighton.

Uncle Walt The Poet Philosopher

UNTIMELY GUESTS.
 It's hard to wear a saintly smile when bores exclaim together, "We've just dropped in to talk a while about the crops and weather." The scoundrel man gets down to brass, sells goods of scribbles sonnets, to earn the dollars of our dais and keep his wife in bonnets; he has no time to fool away, he needs each precious second; if man would stop his waiting hay, each moment must be reckoned. And so the talk; the anxious-eyed, must labor at his fences, if he would keep his wife supplied with coin for bridge expenses. And when his troubles are so thick that he could fairly blotter the bores come in, Hans, Tom and Dick, and sit and talk and rather. There ought to be a law, no thinks, for those who thrash the weather, compelling all such idle rinks to go and herd together. It isn't that but fools must evermore be bothered, by dizzy jags and dizzy jokes and gags they've lately fathered. Protect the man who to his work with righteous fervor passes, and boil the idler and the shirk in sulphur and molasses.

—PAINT UP.
 As I've often said before, you should toddle to the store, if your standoff's not too faint, and into "yellow" paint; then embellish house and barn, and the neighbors say, "By darn! What a lovely gorgeous hue! We must get to painting too!" That's the way great movements start; some wise gen with hero heart sets the pace, and then the gurgs follow where his path-way lies. If with glad and joyous whoop you should paint your chicken coop, red or yellow, pink or gray, you will see the neighbor joy to the nearest drugstore rush, there to buy some paint; a brush; and next day you'll see that many painting green stripes on his pump, and he'll give a coat of blue to the fence and a clothesline, too. In the spring Dame Nature tries to astonish human eyes, spreading on the colors thick; everything is span and speck; fields of green and silver and blue everywhere a pleasing hue. And her sunlight often falls on our gray and dingy walls, and it makes her sick and faint, that we don't indulge in paint. Buy a gallon can, a sweet new paint, the silver and the cow, paint the house and paint the shed, paint things yellow, paint them red!

THE EARLY FLY.
 The early fly is here; you see him buzzing near; so take your stand with club in hand, and soak him in the ear. The early flies are worst of all the breed accursed; for they'll give rise to countless flies which cannot be dispersed. One active fly will fly, unless you make neat to chew, and spoil the milk and pie. So like the Maid of Arc, arise in helm and sark, and swat the flies between the eyes, from daylight until dark. Thus save your native land, a swat in your hand, and then your name in Hall of Fame, on sculptured stone will stand. There is no better plan to help your fellow man; a peril dies with dying flies, so swat them while you can. Just so you kill the brutes, the method little new. Paint the sides and the back, one takes his gun and shoots. I know one earnest gink who draws his flies in ink; some fellows boil their flies in oil—a first rate scheme, I think. But any plan will drive away the flies a few, each passing day, so slay and slay, with purpose high and true.

LONG LIFE.
 "It would not live away," some poet paused to say, "when to his humble shack eight manuscript came back, I would not live away." 'en'though each passing day brought noble gifts to me, and prizes fair to see. If daylight never ceased, if in the golden East the glowing sun should stand at Jove's direct command, no longer go its way, and shine day after day, we'd weary of the sight, and we would long for night. And so with life, my friend; if it should never end, how tired we all would grow, of everything below! All things would then seem old, a tale that has been told too oft, without avail; the whole world would seem stale, and we would stand and rave: "Ten dollars for a grave! Won't some accomplished gurg instruct us how to die?" We've longed around too long a tired and jaded throng, we're tired of human toys, we're tired of mortal joys, we're tired of drawing breath, we're tired of all but death, which we'd regard a snap, but it is not on tap. We'd like ten yards of doom! Bring on the mist tomb, the casket and the hearse, for life's become a curse! I would not live away, my friend, by half a day!

WORDS.
 It isn't what you say, my friend, that makes the gray world brighter; fine words are furnished without end by any skillful writer; and silver words will rise and bloom the silver lining, and fill the space between the skies with language that is shining. We all can utter Noble Things, and sweet uplifting phrases, and think we've earned a crown and wings; because we talk big words. The meekest lightward in the town can hand words to the singer, but would he help the man who's down to get a good square dinner? The helpful word is good as wheat, if backed by helpful actions; but if you bone far grab to eat, without poor satisfaction. The sunny smile is worth its weight in gold if wisely flaunted, but smiling will not pay the freight, if winterwurst is wanted. I'd rather dry a widow's tears (if she is young and winsome) than flatter her with platitudes her ears and stand around and grin some. I'd rather give an orphan pie than hand him helpful stories concerning mansions the sky and all the future glories. Oh, let us not depend on talk, to fill this world with laughter, but help the needy on our block, and do our smiling after.

THE LOAFERS.
 When summer, soft and balmy, with zephyrs flying loose and weather cold and clammy is canned for future use; when Spring, the genial fairy, brings solace to our souls, and all the world is merry, the loafers leave their holes. They come, like the whole blamed slaughter, from holes, the Lord knows where, and on the corners gather, and chew and smoke and swear. They come, the ragged loafers, who'd rather die than work, as useless as the gophers that in the cornfields lurk; as useless as the foges that steal the farmer's geese, they sit on drygoods boxes—their small disturbs the peace. The peeters see them sitting all day, a drowsy sight, their perches never quitting from morning until noon, but the peeters ask them, or try to get their goats? Ah, No! No crops will grab them, for loafers all have votes. They are as independent as donkey eating hay, because they shine resplendent with electric day. They will defile the pavement, and stir up women's wrath; they ne'er knew what a shave meant, and never took a bath; they shun all sane endeavor. These skates with thirsty mouths, they'll slide forever, because they have their votes.

SECOND PRIZE ESSAY IN PANAMA CONTEST

Written by J. M. Smith, aged 14 years, for contest under direction of First National bank, Wayne, Neb.

THE PANAMA CANAL.
 The Panama canal which the United States have built across the Isthmus of Panama connects the two greatest oceans, the Pacific and the Atlantic. This great water way which Colonel George W. Goethals superintended will save time and mileage for the steamships carrying on commerce between the two oceans. The building of the canal first started in 1851 after a French engineer estimated the cost at $169,000,000 to complete it. The work was started by the French and altogether the cost was about $260,000,000. In 1881 we drew up a treaty with the Republic of Panama that we would pay them $10,000,000 for a strip of land ten miles wide along the Panama canal zone which contains about 436 square miles. They were paid $40,000,000 for the work which the French had completed. Work was started again, May 4, 1904, and was finished about Jan. 1, 1914, nearly a year before the time the treaty allowed. We chose a lock canal because it would be cheaper to build than a sea level canal. The canal was built between the cities of Panama and Colon, being the distance of fifty miles, and to have from digging all the way they built a dam across the Chagres river making a lake about the area of 164 square miles. There are twelve locks in pairs, and the Culebra cut is eighty feet deep and was the most important part of the whole canal.—J. M. Smith.

He is assistant cashier of a bank at Bloomfield. Walter Miller, street commissioner, fell from a twenty-foot pole this morning in the northeast part of the city while attempting to adjust an electric wire. He sustained a severe cut under the chin, which required the services of a physician. Dr. F. H. Essert of the Colorado conference, lectured to large audiences in Wayne on "white slavery" the first of the week. He presented an array of facts to support his war against the traffic under consideration, and aroused a good deal of interest. The Herald has spread into...

newly fitted quarters and now occupies two buildings, the old stand and the former postoffice room, vacated a year ago. Improvements have made the institution more inviting, convenient and comfortable. Situated in one building, formerly, it was impossible to avoid knocking elbows when more than two were gathered together. The extended quarters are roomy and have been arranged to serve the convenience of all departments.

DIES AS RESULT OF CORN IN WINDPIPE

The little daughter of Mr. Ad. The Little Lass, living near Wisner, died in an Omaha hospital Sunday evening at 10 o'clock as the result of a kernel of corn which lodged in her windpipe on Wednesday of last week. Unobserved, the child put a kernel of corn in her mouth and drew it into the windpipe. Local physicians were unable to give her relief and she was taken to a hospital in Omaha where the effort to save her life also proved unavailing. Funeral services were held in the German Lutheran church southwest of Wayne yesterday afternoon, conducted by the pastor, Rev. F. Klinschewsky, and were attended by a large crowd of sympathizing friends.

NORFOLK EXCITED.

Norfolk Daily News, April 21: Some excitement prevailed in Norfolk Sunday night when unwarranted rumors were circulated that the United States had declared war against Mexico. The excitement was allayed by The News bulletins which were read in the auditorium where a large crowd gathered to see the Sunday pictures. C. L. Anderson and Carl H. Pilger are in communication with Adj. Gen. Hall in an effort to organize a machine gun company in Norfolk. Mr. Anderson has asked the adjutant general to send him a supply of recruits in blanks and other necessities paper. It is understood that Gen. Hall is not an organization here whether hostilities break out or not. About 108 men would be enlisted. The company is equipped with thirty-six mules and six machine-guns.

SCHOOL NOTES

The pupils and teachers enjoyed the Paul Robeson African hunting pictures at the Crystal Monday. The girls' children under direction of Mrs. Murfree assisted with the musical institute at the M. E. church on Tuesday. The state elementary contest in which Russell Myers represents Northeast Nebraska in the humorous class, will probably be held on May 8. The school program on Friday evening was a success in every way. A good houseful enjoyed the entertainment and all who had a part on the somewhat lengthy program did exceptionally well. Mrs. Murfree deserves much praise for the success of the entertainment. The second session of the domestic science class served a luncheon on Thursday evening to the first section and a few invited guests. The guests were Rev. and Mrs. Alexander C. Gray, Mrs. Phillips, Mrs. Lathrop and Miss Braunger. Following is the menu: Tomato Bisque, Creamed Veal Loaf, Escalloped Potatoes, Buttered Asparagus on Toast, Olives, Bread and Butter Sandwiches, Coffee, Marmalade, Coffee, Cherry Nut Salad, Water, Orange Branflaten Cream, Black Walnut Cookies.

HANSEN-PAULSEN.

Wednesday, April 22, at 11 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Paulsen, near Carroll, took place the marriage of their only daughter, Anna Margerete, to Mr. George J. Hansen, Rev. F. W. Rex of Laurel, officiating. Promptly at the appointed hour, Miss Tillie Alkin of Laurel, rendered Lohengrin's wedding march and the bridesmaids, Misses Caroline Page and Abbe Hansen appeared, carrying pink and white carnations which were fashioned into arches. They took their places at the parlor entrance. Then came the two more bridesmaids, the Misses Gretchen Rethwisch and Nora Schluns, also carrying arches of carnations. They took their station inside of the parlor entrance and were followed by the bride and groom, who found their places under a large white wedding veil. There they were met by Rev. Rex, who in a few well chosen remarks spoke the words which made them one.

The bride wore a handsome gown of white silk crepe de chine and carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. Her bride's maids were neatly clad in simple white gowns. Following the ceremony and congratulations, a delicious four-course dinner was served in the dining room to about seventy-five guests. The rooms and tables were beautifully decorated with cut flowers, the soft scheme of pink and white prevailing throughout.

The bride is well known in and around Carroll, where she has grown to young womanhood, and has a large circle of friends. The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Hansen, and is a young man of good qualities. They will make their home on a farm near the bride's parents, where the groom has prepared and furnished a cozy home. No young people in this community have started on life's journey together with more promising outlook.

Mr. and Mrs. Hansen were the recipients of many beautiful and useful presents.

The Herald joins their host of friends in extending hearty good wishes. Mrs. W. M. Fox of Randolph, is visiting relatives in Wayne this week. Causing consternation is a boy's favorite amusement. A man likes to believe that he isn't half as bad as his wife believes he is.

THE STATE ASSOCIATION OF COMMERCIAL CLUBS

Lincoln Trade Review: Elsewhere will be found the program for the 11th annual convention of Nebraska association of commercial clubs, the meeting to be held in Grand Island, Wednesday and Thursday, May 6th and 7th. The program for this annual meeting is outlined in a comprehensive one and the central thought on the part of the executive committee in preparing the program was to build around the idea of co-operation between town and country.

This that is the spirit of the program is shown in the topics that will be presented for discussion. There is no more practical work than the commercial clubs in the average towns of this state can do than to develop this idea of community interests. A development of this kind has become a necessity and the more forcible the community welfare can be presented to different localities, the earlier will be the solution come to the difficulties and discouragements which exist in many places.

In community work, there ought to be no town boundaries; the surrounding country is just as much engaged in the welfare of its town as the town is itself because the life, growing and aggressive town means larger opportunities for every surrounding farmer, greater value to his land and enlarged opportunities for those things in life which come from social, educational and community interests.

It is to be hoped that the attendance at the coming annual meeting at Grand Island may be the largest in the record of the state association. Surely the program is sufficiently inviting and the need for general organization work is great enough to warrant good delegations from every town where there are commercial clubs, organizations, in being in attendance. It is in these organizations of this character have been building in the state, there has been an unparalleled growth in commercial clubs. Today there are thousands of members of these organizations and the membership in every locality better understands itself and is pulling together as never before.

It has been the history of past annual meetings that at some of them there have delegates attended and returned home from them without feeling that the meeting had been of the largest profit. This paper wants to make an appeal to its commercial club friends to see to it that their club is represented at Grand Island; to be alive to the good that can come from the state meeting and to all join together in making the coming session a record breaker in both interest and attendance.

THE FIELD OF BUSINESS.

Sioux City Journal, April 20: The New York securities market last week witnessed the most aggressive and persistent bear campaign carried on in many months. The hammering was kept up all week, and it was effective. New low marks were recorded for many stocks, railway securities leading the decline. New York Central, which was made a special target, recorded the lowest quotations in the last twenty-nine years.

The Mexican crisis was the only new condition on which Wall Street pessimism might have been based. However, announcement of the likelihood of delay in settling the railway rate question and the possible refusal of the requested increase aided the efforts of the bears. In general the campaign seemed to be due to an impression that the time was ripe for a successful manipulation of prices in a downward direction, a guess fully justified by the event.

Redundancy is the notable feature of the money market. Banking demand for commercial paper outruns the supply. In New York last week an issue of $65,000,000 municipal bonds, drawing interest at 4 1/2 per cent, was largely oversubscribed. The cordial reception of this issue caused an announcement that $30,000,000 of Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul mortgage bonds at 4 1/2 per cent would be issued shortly. This, in fact, indicates no indication of turning toward the optimistic side. In addition to the steady falling off in un-filled orders, export statistics for the first quarter of the year showed a reduction of almost 30 per cent from the corresponding period last year. The agricultural districts continue to make cheerful contributions to the commercial news. The cotton looms spinning the wheat belt in reports of augmented acreage and ideal prevailing conditions. Bank clearings last week aggregated $2,734,000,000, a decrease of 8 per cent, as compared with last year.

Rev. Thos. Wright will leave for Los Angeles, Calif., to attend the general conference of the M. E. church.

From Ponca Journal, April 25, 1884:

Wakefield is about to build a large Presbyterian church.

The lumber firm of Cassell, Crew & Martin has dissolved, Messrs. Crew and Martin withdrawing, and G. W. Cassell and R. Philcox forming a partnership and combining the business of the two lumber yards. Two evangelists, Woodward and Brookmiller, have been holding meetings in Dakota City during the past three or four weeks. The result has been deplorable, at least so far as some of the citizens are concerned, several having become so excited as to become unbalanced, mentally. One of them, Mr. Robert Goodwin, became insane last week, grew rapidly worse and on Tuesday was taken to the insane hospital at Lincoln. Mr. Goodwin was an excellent citizen and an old resident of Dakota county, who lived peacefully and comfortably on his farm a mile from Dakota City. He and his child are thus left alone, and in tears and mourning. The news was so sad that it went away to the hospital. They were requested to leave by a committee of citizens who deemed it their duty to protect their families from undue and unnatural excitement. The evangelists have gone to some town in Iowa.

From Ponca Journal, April 22, 1884:

Prof. Davies' musical classes are progressing in fine style, the pupils improving rapidly under his tuition. Mr. Brown, residing on the farm of N. S. Porter, will next week burn a kin of lime. Those who desire to purchase a first rate quality of lime will do well to call on him.

Sioux City has evidently become a moral town, like our own burg; saloons at 11 p. m. are being rigorously enforced, while for keeping open on Sunday taverns business firms were arraigned before the majesty of the law on Tuesday, some of whom were fined for Sabbath breaking, and the trials of others set for a future hearing.

Several deaths are reported this spring of children eating wild parsnips. Three boys at Omaha mistook the poisonous roots for turnips, and soon after eating of them all three were taken violently sick and two soon died. "On Sunday," says the Sioux City Journal of Tuesday, "two girls, aged 11 and 16, at Newell ate of parsnips found in an old garden and one of them died that evening." In a Minnesota exchange is given an account of a similar case, the victim being a lad seven years old.

We presume that Henry Glassmeier was testing the temperature of the ground, to see if it was ready for the sowing of his seed, last Sunday evening, when he was discovered lying on the ground under his new car, about a mile from his home, while his better-half sat in the car wishing she had her old driving team.

Last Thursday evening was the regular training night for the Royal Highlanders of Winside. The teachers of the Winside school are certainly deserving of a great deal of praise for their work during the year. The exhibition of the pupils' work was excellent, and all of those who were present Friday went home feeling that if their children did not succeed it would be necessary to look around for the best cause, as we consider ourselves most fortunate in having so splendid a corps of teachers.

RATTLED THE ENEMY.

An Uncanny Scotch Ruse That Sent Them Flying in Terror. Many of our boys served in English battles by land and sea and rarely did one of them come to grief. But in "Highways and Byways in the Land of the Living Dead" the name of his brother John, the honored name is linked with a story of defeat. In 1912 the Lord Percy of that day, the English nobleman who had the head of 7,000 men lay encamped not far from the river Tweed.

To scare away from their poor livestock the deer and wild cattle that were wont, when night fell, to ravage them, the Scotch county folk of that district used to sound at frequent intervals a strange kind of drum. To the ends of long poles they fixed what may be termed bugle rattles, made of dried skins tightly stretched over the ends of the wood, inside each skin they put a few round pebbles. When shaken vigorously these rattles would give out a noise quite terrifying to the ears of the deer.

The clever Scotchmen planned a strategy and in the twinkling of midnight sent a number of picked men carrying their rattles carefully poised and muffled, who stole unperceived from their beds to the stone to stone until they were close upon the enemy's camp on the heights at either side. Then they sounded the rattles with a sudden din truly infernal.

Picked horses, mad with terror, buckled loose, rushed through the camp and trampled over the soldiers. Those who sprang awake, deafened and bewildered by the unholly uproar, were met with a few comprehended, round sizes of iron balls, the weight of which had been captured by the wily Scots. On foot, in wrath and humiliation, Percy and his 7,000 fell back across the Tweed.

Seldom in sober fact and modern slang has a formidable force been so easily and completely rattled.
