

TED PERRY CLASHES WITH RAILROAD CO. DISPUTE OVER GROUND

Company's Workmen Building Fence Are Arrested for Sabbath Violation.

Sabbath violation in Wayne was given a jolt last Sunday when between twenty and thirty railroad workmen were arrested by Sheriff T. D. Fox for building a fence south of their track in the south part of town. Arrest on the ground of breaking the Sabbath prevented breaking until a restraining order against the railroad company could be prepared.

It appears that Edward Perry had a dispute with the railroad company over the ownership of a strip of land which he has occupied for many years, and of which he claims ownership. The railroad company claims that it belongs to its right-of-way.

Early Sunday morning Mr. Perry discovered an army of laborers building a fence presumably calculated to absorb the questioned strip, and addressing the men, he told them to quit and decamp. The boss did not heed his ultimatum, and Mr. Perry forthwith proceeded to summon a crowd of three lawyers, A. R. Davis, Fred S. Berry and L. A. Kitchin, and the sheriff of a proper restraining order requiring considerable time, the legal savants decided that the thing of first importance was to stop massing of the law which forbids work on the Sabbath. The sheriff was notified, and he went to the toilers and placed them under arrest. In the afternoon the restraining order was ready and was served. This step made Mr. Perry secure against further fence building with-out sanction of the courts.

After arrest, the workmen had made some headway with the fence, and Mr. Perry feared that an order would be secured restraining him from doing it. He acted before any thing of that sort could happen. He carefully observed the Sabbath, but when the midnight bell struck, announcing the advent of Monday, Mr. Perry issued into the scene, armed with the aid of a lantern and accompanied by a stalwart companion, picked his way to the ground in question. There the two worked like Trojans, and when the morning light broke over the scene, he found that the effort at fence building had been frustrated and the posts and other material for the purpose unceremoniously boosted off the disputed strip.

The next day John Doe and two more of the mob pleaded guilty to violating the Sabbath and were assessed and paid a total of $35. The railroad superintendent and an attorney from Sioux City were here to look after the railroad's interests. The attorney's office would be thrashed out in the courts.

LAUREL GIRL'S BRIEF TRIAL OF CITY LIFE

Sioux City Journal.—Wayne's "Laurel" girl, 29, who dreamed of a Nebraska school girl of "city life" were rudely shattered yesterday at the Northwestern passenger station when Gudrey De Pey, 15 year old, a self confessed runaway from the breakaway town of one her folk wouldn't let her marry, stepped from the train and was greeted by a waiting patrolman. The girl had her home at Laurel early in the morning.

Sioux City police were notified by the Laurel authorities of the girl's disappearance, and when she had been taken in charge the parents were communicated with. At police headquarters last night the girl was confronted by her mother. At first a flat refusal to return to her home at Laurel was given the parents by the runaway, but later at a "star chamber" session from which the police were excluded the daughter changed her mind. The De Pey family last night departed for Laurel.

The only explanation given to the police by the De Pey girl was that her parents would not tolerate her going to Laurel because she thought that she might as well go to the city and forget him."

NORTON FALLS FROM HIGH SCAFFOLDING

While papering the walls of the German Lutheran church yesterday morning, Mel Norton slipped and fell nine feet to the floor, dislocating his left shoulder, breaking the little finger of his left hand and bruising his left knee. Dr. F. C. Zolling was called, rendered necessary service.

AIKER OFFERS ADVICE. S. H. Aiker submits to the following invitation: "I thoroughly investigated the germinating power of our seed corn and find that it tests from 76 to 100, and on account of the dry season last year, I find that all the 1913 corn as a rule has small kernels, and thus we should be cautious to avoid using large plates in our planters which would get a corn too thick, and that means a great loss of crop this year. Further we have a dry and cool time this year to plow and to prepare the ground for corn and the recent rains make sprouts on all weeds and grass seed and while the soil apparently looks clean on the surface, the dirt is the proper thing to use ahead of the planter and follow up with harrow. This is my idea of farming."

DEATH OF LITTLE BOY. Maurice Ralph Rickabaugh, aged 5 years, 8 months and 4 days, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Rickabaugh, died yesterday morning at 2 o'clock from measles complicated by bronchial pneumonia. Funeral service will be conducted at the E. church tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock with interment in Greenwood cemetery. Wayne people will sympathize with the relatives in their sorrow.

VIELE'S HEARING AT LINCOLN ON TUESDAY

ARGUMENTS COME LATER

President of Normal Board Charged With Selling Furniture to Wayne Normal.

Lincoln, Neb., April 28.—On a charge made and filed with Governor Morehead that he had sold furniture to the state as a state officer, contrary to law, President A. H. Viele of the State Normal Board appeared before the governor this morning backed up by two lawyers in an effort to discredit the allegation that contracts let by the firm of Hoffman & Viele of Norfolk, of which the president was a member, had resulted in benefits to himself.

W. R. Hoffman, senior member of the firm, was on the stand most of the forenoon and admitted that the firm had sold furniture to the state under contract, but explained the matter by saying that Mr. Viele received no pecuniary benefit therefrom.

Copies of invoices of goods ordered by the firm in the firm name of different wholesale houses were introduced in evidence to show that the goods were furnished by the firm for the school and copies of the bills introduced, showing the goods were purchased. It was also shown that goods purchased by the firm had been shipped direct from the wholesale houses to the Wayne normal school, but Mr. Hoffman explained the matter by saying that it was all done by him personally because the firm had a financial rating which he did not have personally. It was also shown that goods bought in the firm name and in the possession of the firm in the home of Mr. Hoffman were shipped to Wayne in the name of W. R. Hoffman and that the vouchers drawn on the state were made in the name of W. R. Hoffman. It was admitted by Mr. Hoffman, however, that the warrants received for the goods were deposited in the bank to the credit of the firm of Hoffman & Viele.

Mr. Hoffman was very emphatic in his assertions that the matter of selling goods to the state had never been talked over by himself and Mr. Viele and that at no time in the eleven years that they had done business together had they talked over the matter of selling goods to the state. He said that the profits of the contracts made with the state, amounting to about $250, had been taken by himself on an agreement between himself and Mr. Viele as a compensation to him for illness and absence of Mr. Viele and his consequent inability to do his share in the business. When asked by Attorney Doyle if Mr. Viele was paid a salary as a member of the firm Mr. Hoffman acknowledged that he was and that his salary had been continued during the time he was ill and absent.

The testimony upon the stand given by President Viele was simply a corroboration of what Mr. Hoffman had testified to and nothing new.

Attorneys E. J. Hainer and C. P. Craft of Lincoln appeared in behalf of President Viele and T. J. Doyle appeared in behalf of George Bichel who made the charge.

Argument in the case will be made before the governor May 9.

CARBOLL MAN FILES SUIT FOR DAMAGES

L. B. Cobb of Carroll, has filed in the district court at Sioux City a suit against the William Tackberry company alleging damages of $15,000 on account of the death of his brother-in-law, Alfred Ernst, Saturday's Sioux City Journal makes this report of the case:
Fifty thousand dollars damages are demanded in a district court suit filed yesterday afternoon by L. B. Cobb, administrator of the estate of Alfred Ernst, against the William Tackberry company, Alfred Ernst died January 14, 1914, as a result of injuries suffered at the Tackberry warehouse, where he was employed. He was moving boxes from one floor to another and was injured when a freight elevator was crushed, causing his death, according to the petition.

THIRD PRIZE ESSAY IN PANAMA CANAL

Written by Owen Rees, aged 14, for contest under direction of First National Bank, Wayne.
THE PANAMA CANAL.
The Panama canal is practically completed. It has cost hundreds of millions of dollars. The people of the future will never appreciate the immense labor and cost of the work. The French had tried to make a canal there in the nineteenth century in a place narrower but more rocky than the Americans had, but they gave it up. The length of the canal is about fifty miles, and very mountainous. The cut looks much like an ordinary river. The only real work they are doing now is the dredging of the Culebra cut.

HEAVY RAIN FALLS —OVER WAYNE COUNTY

MUCH NEEDED MOISTURE

Fields Refreshed and Growing Crops Encouraged—Cold Spell Follows Rain.
Wayne county has been covered by a heavy fall of rain the past week, and growing crops have been greatly benefited. Vegetation has been refreshed, and everybody encouraged. Moisture fell intermittently all day Sunday—and was followed by a cold spell during which fires were necessary for comfort. Yesterday the elements turned warmer.

REPUBLICAN PAPER FAVORS PHIL H. KOHL

Pierce Call, republican: Phil Kohl, of Wayne, has recently filed for the job of State Senator of this district, comprising Pierce, Cumming and Wayne counties, subject to the democratic primaries in August.
Phil has served two terms in the Senate, being elected two years ago upon both the republican and democratic tickets.
"So far" as we learn he gave good satisfaction and made a clean record, and under those circumstances he is entitled to re-election without opposition. We certainly can give him our hearty support even though we do not jibe politically and even though we may be criticized for so doing. The time has passed when the legislature elects United States senators. The people now direct their representatives who to support and the national issues are no longer tied to the interests of the state.
We now can send men to Lincoln to enact laws for the state—to look after our interests and welfare—instead of putting in the greater portion of their time fighting and sea-sawing over who is to be the next United States senator. We hope the time will soon come when we will not be criticized for supporting a worthy man because he does not belong to our party. When we find a man who is openminded and has been tried and not found wanting, why should we be outspiced from supporting him because of his political affiliations? We believe Mr. Kohl as a man, a citizen and a representative of the people measures up to this high standard. We see no reason at the present time why any republican should reproach him in the primary. It would be most foolhardy for a democrat to do so.

negligent, it is asserted, because of the unreliable condition of the elevator and inadequate lighting of the warehouse. The elevator was out of repair, so that it sometimes started up or down without human agency, it is alleged in the suit. Starting of the elevator downward as Ernst stepped into it is given as the cause of the accident.

BANKERS NOT UNGRATEFUL.

The Northeast Nebraska Bankers convention has come and gone. The sunny and strain incident to the entertainment of more than two hundred visitors, in our city, are over. We, Wayne bankers, think the thing was well done. And now that our minds are relieved from anxiety for the comfort and enjoyment of our guests, we can realize fully how

They are busy in the new port of Bathon making a dry dock that will hold the largest ships.

Nearly all the power is electric. Each ship will have four locomotives to move it from one lock to another. Two to pull them and two to hold them back so they will be steady. There will be great warehouses to hold fuel and oil. It is a grand work and the great world's exhibition at San Francisco will be remembered for many centuries to come.—Owen Rees.

CATTLE FEEDING.

Daily Drovers' Journal, South Omaha: Now that a good share of the cattle and sheep that were fed during the winter have been sold in feeders are balancing their books and figuring how much they made ate neighborhood for many years. Hall fell during about twenty minutes on Sunday, the stones not being very large, but extremely numerous. Garden truck, just coming up, was beaten into the ground, leaves from the trees were cut off and strewn the ground and much damage was done in the city by the heavy wash of water in the streets. Much cement sidewalk was damaged, being undermined by the rushing water. Small grain is badly beaten down but will recover. Flower beds and all ornamental gardening is destroyed.

Taken altogether the storm was the worst experienced here for some time. Had it occurred a week or two weeks later the damage would have been very much greater. As it is, it will soon be restored. Rain much we are indebted to Wayne people for the success of this occasion.

We know that without their cooperation and help, it would have been impossible for us to have successfully conducted this big convention.

We want to express our appreciation especially to the Ladies' Aid society, which served our excellent banquet, and to the Commercial club, and to the automobile owners who made possible the big sightseeing tour about our beautiful city. We appreciate the kindness of the trustees of the Baptist church for the use of their beautiful edifice, and are grateful to the mayor and city council for their permission to hold the convention in the city hall.

We feel that our guests were well entertained because they were Wayne's guests. We are proud of or lost. It is not probable that there were many serious losses in feeding operations this season, although it was by no means a season of general profits. Other things being equal, however, it will be found that the man who came out best is the man who went in best.

In other words the profits went largely to the men who bought their feeders judiciously. Corn belt farmers must give this matter of buying their feeder cattle and sheep more attention. There is where a good share of the loss occurred this season.

PIERCE REPUBLICAN IS OUT FOR CONGRESS

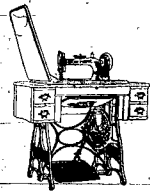

Pierce Call: It is with justifiable pride that The Call this week announces the candidacy of our townsmen, O. S. Spillman, for congressional honors. For several weeks past Mr. Spillman has been urged by friends to enter the race, many letters being received from friends and acquaintances over the district offering support and encouragement. He sent his filing papers to the Secretary of State on Wednesday of this week as a candidate for the republican nomination and from now until the primaries in August

ELUCUTION DEPARTMENT.

The State Normal male—quartet and Prof. Keckley of the elucution department will give an entertainment in the Normal chapel Thursday evening, May 7. This entertainment will consist of music by the quartet and an illustrated talk on Yellowstone Park by Mr. Keckley.

Mr. Keckley is well qualified to speak on this great region having spent several months in the park. Being a very interesting speaker, his talk will be a great treat.
The quartet has been working all winter in preparation for this entertainment and it appears that the people of Wayne are to listen to another big musical evening.

THE WEEK WITH THE CHURCHES

Presbyterian Church.

(Rev. Alexander Corkey, Pastor). "The Truth about Jonah" will be the subject of the sermon at the Presbyterian church next Sunday evening. The service begins at 8.

In the morning the sermon will be a discussion of the affirmation in the universal Christian creed: "I believe in the Holy Spirit." On Monday evening of next week the Brotherhood will be glad to see a full house to see and hear James R. Barkley, the cartoonist and crayon lecturer. Mr. Barkley will give a finished entertainment—drawing cartoons, illustrating poems and songs, and also giving an excellent demonstration of clay-modeling. The popular prices which the Brotherhood charges are meant merely to defray, in part, the expenses, and will enable every one to attend, as all students will be admitted for 10 cents, and adults for 20 cents. The entertainment will begin at eight o'clock at the Presbyterian church.

Rev. Lloyd Cunningham, a Wayne boy, and son of Mr. David Cunningham, was elected moderator of the Niobrara Presbytery at its meeting in Wakefield last week. Mr. Cunningham is now the pastor of the Presbyterian church at Atkinson.

At the services last Sabbath morning the pastor spoke on the doctrine of the ascension of Christ, declaring that the church had always taught this essential doctrine. He said, "The church has never been so marred, because it was a fact. The church teaches truth no matter how distasteful or how mysterious the truth may be, exactly like science. Many of the teachings of science have been highly distasteful to men."

as in the case of intoxicating liquors. Science proclaimed the truth about the poisonous nature of alcohol although men disliked to be thus shown the truth about their well-loved drink. So science teaches facts, no matter how strange and mysterious they may be. In the same way the church proclaims the facts of life and of salvation. The ascension of Christ receives its significance from the fact that his elevation to heaven meant his enthronement at God's right hand and He sits there with all authority today.

First Baptist Church.

(Rev. B. P. Richardson, Pastor). Communion service Sunday morning. Teachers' meeting this (Thursday) evening, at seven o'clock at the church.

Roll call Sunday evening at the young people's meeting. Let your voice and not an echo respond. Miss Grace Adams is the leader.

The young people's social Friday evening was a delightful occasion. Am sorry you were not able to be present.

There are two aspects of the Christian life—the inner spiritual life and the outer practical life. Both are essential. Be at every meeting next week. Wednesday at 8 p. m., a spiritual meeting.

Children's day on June 14. We owe it to ourselves and our children to observe these special days. On May 10 will be Mothers' day. This special day will be kept by us in honor of our mother. See announcement next week.

"What's the matter with Mexico?" This will be the subject of the sermon next Sunday evening. Every condition has an adequate cause. What is the underlying cause in Mexico?

"Winning our Souls" will be the subject of the communion address

Sunday morning. Salvation is more than a momentary transaction—it is the task of a life time. Jesus tells us how this achievement is accomplished.

One of the important aspects of society is that of fellowship. True fellowship fosters the best in our lives. Man does dedicate to his highest nature when he lives the life of the hermit. It takes more than brick walls and daily papers (even a Sunday paper) to develop a soul. It takes contact with other people. The Sunday church service affords the best opportunity for this highest fellowship. "Let us not forsake the assembling of ourselves together, as the custom of some is." Every time you are present at a church service, you uplift yourself and honor your Lord and master.

St. Paul's Lutheran Church.

(Rev. F. E. Blessing, Pastor).

Sunday school every Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. "We are needing more help in the Sunday school work; come and give us your assistance, if it is only your presence. Regular preaching services every Sunday-morning and evening. The morning services are at 11 o'clock and the subject will be "Christ's Demands from Men." Matt. 27:22.

There is not a business into which man can enter, without finding that there are some demands placed upon him. If he wish to be a lawyer or a doctor he must meet the demands which these vocations place upon him. The soldier must meet the demands of his general. Likewise a christian must meet the demands of his leader. Did not the jailor demand of Philipi realize it when he said: "What would I do to be saved?" After Peter had finished his sermon on the day of Pentecost, we read that the people who heard were pricked in the hearts, and said unto Peter and the rest of the apostles: "Brethren, what shall we do?" Peter realized that Christ had placed some requirements upon each or he could not have asked: "What shall I do unto Jesus who is called Christ?" Many in the days of Jesus felt His demands and went to him with the words: "What good thing shall I do, that I may have eternal life?"

In the evening the services begin at a quarter of eight and the subject will be: "Am I My Brother's Keeper?" Gen. 4:9.

Choir rehearsal every Tuesday evening at the church. The pictures of the catechetical class are finished and can be secured from the pastor.

Keep in mind the special services for Mothers' day. The Ladies' Aid society will meet at the home of Cedvic Swanson next Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Nellie Johnson will entertain. Next week is the election of officers.

A cordial invitation is extended to all who wish to worship with us.

Methodist Church.

(Rev. C. L. Myers, Pastor).

A genuine old-fashioned class meeting every Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. Special music each service. Sunday morning anthem by the choir: "Trust in the Lord."

Make a purchase of the Epworth League for your Sunday dinner. Food exchange and Candy at Beaumont's store Saturday afternoon.

All evening services begin half hour later now.

All requests under 21 are requested to meet at the church at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon, for the purpose of organizing a junior church.

Thursday night is the time for the regular rehearsal of the choir. Albert Herring will lead the League. Meet at the Silver Jubilee of the League May 17.

The German Evangelical Lutheran Church.

(Rev. R. Moore, Pastor).

The interior of the church has been greatly beautified by re-decoration, etc., of the work having just been completed. Much credit is due the ladies of the Aid society who furnished the necessary funds for the improvement.

CHANGED HIS SHAPE.

Effect of Open Air Life Upon the Man of Business of Today.

"The American man, the American business man of forty or fifty years, has got a new shape," said a tailor. "He's got a lean, straight shape—full chest, narrow hips. But if you could have seen him a generation ago!"

"The business man of forty expected to be fat and soft a generation ago. He rather adored, in fact, a fat, soft shape. The richest business men were fat and soft, and that made a fashion of it, just as Queen Alexandra's lace-trimmed made a limp fashionable in Victorian times."

"What stomachs our fathers had at forty or forty-five—feather bed stomachs, which they balanced by bending backward! A big stomach was a sign of success, a sign of gentility. If you were lean—why, you must be a laborer. Perhaps you didn't get enough to eat."

"What is the cause of the scientific, athletic figures of today?—Open air and exercise, that's the cause. Get it in the cause. Motoring is the cause."

"My friend," the tailor impressively ended, "my books show that the middle-aged business man of today is four inches bigger around the chest than the middle aged business man of 1890 and eighteen inches smaller around the stomach."—New York Tribune.

Glaciers.

It has been demonstrated that the glacier does not move in one block, but down, accommodating itself to the channel in which it moves. Professor Tyndall planted a row of sticks in a straight line across a glacier, and after a few days the line had become a crescent, showing that the movement of the glacier moved faster than the sides, just as in a river the stream is stronger in the center.

Why Should We Carry Accident and Health INSURANCE?

Because no one is immune from accident or sickness. They are no respecter of persons. Accidents of the most serious character oftentimes arise from the most trivial causes, causes that can not be averted. They lurk in every footstep. Our 20th century improvements have accidents more numerous and naturally "accident" and health insurance is becoming popular and a necessity of the thinking man. Sometimes it is inevitable and the only time to provide against sickness is when we are in good health. If you wish to see the best in accident and health insurance, something to prevent your income from stopping when most in need see

MUD.

The rains of springtime fall apace,
recalling Noah's flood, and turn this earth, once pleasant place, into a stretch of mud. The mud is splashing on my clothes, which fills my eyes with tears, and mud is clinging to my nose, and mud is in my ears. My whiskers catch a lot of mud when down the street I creep; and oft I slip, with dismal thud, into a mudhole deep. The good road bed I eat at noon, and eat very mealy spuds the cake of doughnut and the rime, the cake
—all taste of mud. From both heels to my diamond stud, the mud upon me shows; my feet, from padding in the mud, have webs between the toes. But people say: "Get up off sox! It's splendid for the oats!" And it will furnish grass for flocks of cows and geese and goats! This mud is what the farmers need, to make their turnips thrive; they whistle as they go, "the seed"
—they're glad that they're alive!" I try to think of things like these, and thus cool off my blood, when I am wading to my knees in fifty kinds of mud, but it is all in vain, by heck! I simply can't endure, for mud is streaming down my neck, and filling my socks and shoes.

SNAKES.

These sunny days bring forth the snakes from holes in garrets, cliffs
and cracks. The gentle bullsnake, mild and meek, set forth his proper prey to seek; of all good snakes he is the best; with high ambitions in his breast; he is the farmer's truest friend, because he daily puts an end to mice and other beasts which prey
upon that farmer's crops and hay.
He is most happy when he feasts on gophers and such mealy beasts;
and, being six or eight feet high
when stood on end, you can't deny that forty bushels of corn are bound to do the vermin harm. The bullsnake never bites a thing; he doesn't bite, he doesn't sting, or wrap you in his slimy fold, and squeeze you till he busts all holes.
As harmless as a babe of hay, he does his useful work all day, and when
at night he goes to rest, he's killed off many a wretched pest. And yet the farmers always take a chance to kill this grand old snake. They'll chase three miles or more to end
the labors of their trust friend.
They'll hobble forth from beds of pain to hack a bullsnake's form in twain, and leave him mangled, torn and raw—which shows there ought to be a law.

IN THE GARDEN.

Come into the garden, Maud, from your divan soft and snug; for the springtime is abroad, and the garden must be dug. Come into the garden, do, and you'll know what labor means; we'll toil the long summer through, and harvest a punter of beans. The winter's an also ran, spring's here, with its wrens and doves; so come with your sprinkling can and come with your leather gloves. The call of the soil is heard, the call that old Adam knew, and though it's a thing
absurd, we'll toil as our neighbors
do; our labor is all in vain, you know, or we do a stroke, all useless
the stress and strain; and the garden is a joke. For cutworms will take the corn, and chinchbugs destroy the peas, as sure as that we were born to fool with each task as these. The hail will destroy the beets, and also the succotash, and when we desire green eats, we'll buy them; and pay the cash. But come to the garden, Maud, regardless of things like these, get close to the fertile sod, and crawl on your hands and knees. Come forth to this verdant scene, away from your Persian rug! Oh, come with your Paris green, to kill the potato bug!

THE GIVERS.

The great, fine men are oft obscure; they have no wide, resounding fame, that experts warrant to endure until the finish of the game. Old Clinkbeard is such a man, and though he has no store of gold, he's always doing what he can to help along his fellowmen. He has no millions to disburse, but when he meets a hungry guy, he buys a quarter from his purse, which buys the groceries and the pie. The plot of blasted millionaires mean nothing of a sacrifice; they sit around in easy chairs; and count the seeds they have on ice; if Croesus gives ten thousand bucks to help some college off
the rocks, he's a hero; but a man and ducks—he has ten million in his box. The widow's mite, I do not doubt, in heaven made a bigger splash than sheekies Pharoahs shelled out from their large wads of ill-gained cash. And so the poor man

...he breaks the only woman in his pants, to buy some widow tea and cakes, is making angels sing and dance. In fertile soil he sows seed, and he shall reap a rich reward for he who gives the com-beeds is surely lending to the Lord.

OLD MAIDS.

All cuts should marry when they can. There's naught more fit usin' than a man. A husband has no faults in doubt, and yet he's good to have about; and she who doesn't get a mate will wish she had one, soon or late. That girl is off her tears if she sees who plans to have a high career, who sidesteps wives and wedding rings to follow after abstract things. I know so many ancient maids who in professions, arts and trades have tried to cut a mankewild in their own paths, and they are the brook: A loneliness, as of the lonely emblems the spinsters in its gloom, the jim crow honors they have won they'd sell at seven cents a ton. Their sun is sinking in the west, and they, unloved and uncared, must envy, as they bleakly roam, the girl with husband heart and home. Get married, then;
'embrace: don't fiddle with a career. Select a man who's true and good, whose head is not composed of wood, a man whose sound in wind and limb, then round him up and marry him. Oh, rush him to the altar rail, nor heed his prower or his wail. "Eh, eh," you say, when he's been won, "the best day's work I've ever done."

CHICKENS.

Now man goes forth and makes his garden, a hard and painful grudge;
and the crime beyond all crime he does destroys his peace of mind. His neighbor keeps a string of chickens;
and they, inflamed with greed, com-
e'er and scratch to beat the dickens, and dig up all the seed. And then the man whose wretched labor has set him seeing red, walks over to see that hemish neighbor and manures his head. Thus village feuds are often started, and people raise the fence, and men and dames are broken hearted because some hen ran loose. In any town where leggy chickens run loose, in scorn of law,
you may be sure that trouble thick-ens, and hearts are sore and raw.
Old hens and roosters have created
more trouble, caused more misery, could've seven weeks be stated by seven auctioneers. If you must keep a herd of Dorkings or other brands of fowls, oh, take them
where their frantic workings won't get up a grief and howl. To some lone wilderness, escort them, some desert far away; there you may cuddle them and sort them, and watch
the blooded tools lay.

it depresses prices in the great corn growing belt of the middle west from which they get the biggest

prices reduce the number of people
emigrating annually to the Pacific

Generous Webber.
Daniel Webster was a much greater
and more impressive human presence than the old Franklin house (apoon the corner of his own corner) which seems. The best stories were always about him and almost invariably blended upon his notorious subtleties in the matter of over-acting. Some of these anecdotes, for suitably obvious reasons, never get beyond the curiosity and old tradition of the town.
He was judiciously edited and passed into print. One which I had from original sources may possibly have escaped
the notice of our readers.
The noble Daniel, as everybody knows, was generous before he was just. He was kinder to help others out of debt
than to discharge his own obligations.
He would remember a friend in need and borrow money of a third person to relieve that friend's necessities and then forget to pay the party of the third part. Hence chronic financial embarrassment.
On one notable anniversary Daniel Webster was called upon to "say something" on five different topics of more or less specific gravity. The last and weightiest was that of the National Debt.
It was late, and the banquet had already passed the "walnuts and wine"
stage when the delighted Daniel rose warily for his estimulating outburst of oratory. Thrusting one hand into the expansive bosom of his coat, he stood there for a moment, his own obligations trying to think what his subject was supposed to be.
"The National Debt," whispered the neighboring prompting him.
With superhuman dignity the New England Demagogue, pulled himself together and in deep organ tones spoke thus:
"And now comes, my fellow citizens, to that momentous consideration, the matter of debt, the matter of our national debt"—fumbling in his waistcoat pocket—"why—I'll pay it myself."
—From "Reminiscences of Henry Clay Barbee."

HISTORY AND DESCRIPTION OF THE PORT OF VERA CRUZ

Quaint Cosmopolitan City Occupied by Americans in 1847.

Vera Cruz is the principal port in Mexico and was founded by the Spanish in the sixteenth century. It is about 180 miles from the City of Mexico and has a population of about 30,000.
The city is built on low, sandy,
fertile ground and is only four feet above sea level. Until 1847 it was subject to epidemics of fever. Until the late five years the harbor was a quaint, cozy, and somewhat chaotic and breakwaters constructed by the Mexican government under Diaz have improved it until it is as safe as any of the east coast of Mexico. The city of Vera Cruz is defended by an old fort called the Castle of San Juan de Ulva, one mile from the mainland on the Gulf coast. The harbor has a small dry dock, shipyard, lighthouse and military prison.

The city itself is perhaps the quaint-est in all Mexico. It is a mixture of the old and modern. There are many the new buildings, and in some places
there are still to be seen the old dwellings that date from the Spanish occupation. The low buildings of the Spanish style are mostly built of coral and their domes and arches have a picturesque effect from the harbor.

Vera Cruz was in the hands of Americans in 1847. General Scott captured it in the course of the Mexican war. As it is the harbor of the capital,
it is an important strategic point.
Sanitary conditions are good and the old time open sewers have been done away with. Asphalt is used very extensively for pavements, and in the poorer districts are cobblestones still found.

There are many churches of interest and many relics of the early days when the Spanish were in the city. The of supplies in their warfare against the Aztecs. Later Vera Cruz was the port from which the Spanish sent forth to Spain. The last Spanish in Mexico was banished down the fort in the harbor when the Mexicans revolted and drove the Spaniards out.
Temple, with a population of about 37,000, is the second port of Mexico and is 225 miles northwest of Vera Cruz. The harbor has a small the breakwaters and jetties have been finished, and it is seldom that long times delay navigation outside the harbor.

The city differs in appearance from other Mexican towns. The roofs of the buildings are pitched and gabled and the streets are paved. The government spent more than $3,000,000 on the custom house and pier, at which five steamers can load at the same time.

THE EARLY DAYS IN TWO COUNTIES.

From the Wayne Herald, May 3, 1888:
Local markets: Oats, 20 cents; wheat, 55 cents; corn, 35 cents.
Chris Sydow, Fred Thompson, Chris Thompson and Ran Frazier shipped three cars of cattle to the Chicago market.

County Superintendent Howard furnishes the following facts from the last school census report: The whole number of boys of school age in the county is 777. The number of girls is 731. Total of school age in the county, 1758; an increase of 172 over last year. In district number 17 (Wayne) the number of boys and girls is the same, 158; a total of 316. Outside of Wayne No. 9 was the most pupils, 52; No. 8 follows with 51.

Births: April 26, to Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Kortright, a daughter; April 27, to Mr. and Mrs. William Sonnenken, a daughter; to Rev. and Mrs. J. G. Pinger, a son.
Married, April 30, by County Judge E. Martin, J. S. Said and Martha Ann Harrison, both of Wayne county; April 29, at the M. E. church by Rev. William Gorst, H. L. Hixides of Concord to Miss Rose Likes of the same vicinity.
Horace Gregory and bride nee Alice Stone, arrive in Wayne from Anita, Ia.

Here is a sample of what will be done in the way of converting wild land into fertile farms in Wayne county this year. In one locality near Winside W. M. Wright will break out 450 acres, E. R. Chace 150 acres, a Mr. Haas 200 acres, and J. T. Bressler 100 acres. Besides this considerable tract will also be broken out and nearly every farmer in the vicinity will turn over considerable soil.

From the Wayne Herald, May 1, 1914:
Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Carter of Winside, celebrated their twenty-fifth wedding anniversary. The reception was held in the opera house, where 160 guests assembled.

A severe windstorm visits Wayne April 29, followed by heavy rain. Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Chace accompanied their daughter to Omaha to be treated for deafness.

Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Sweet of Eldridge, N. Y., visit their daughter, Mrs. E. D. Mitchell in Wayne.

On Saturday, April 25, 1914, Furcher, Durig & Co. received 1500 dozen eggs from farmers, a total of fifty-two cases.

From the Wayne Herald, May 5, 1914:
Judge Hunter issues a marriage license to Mr. Louis Krause and Miss Minnie Pele, both of Hoskins. Married, May 4, Miss Estella Griffith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Griffith to Mr. Edward C. Biggens of Fairfax, S. D.

A. M. Jacobs, contemplates the erection of a modern dwelling. The following members of the A. C. M. club attended a meeting of the district, following in club at Norfolk: Mrs. J. T. Bressler, Mrs. H. M. Crawford, Mrs. H. F. Wilson, Mrs. J. M. Pile, Mrs. E. S. Blair, Mrs. Walter Weber, Mrs. L. B. Orth.

From Ponca Journal, April 27, 1888:
The narrow gauge freight cars of the railroad are having new wide gauge trucks put under them at Covington. The cars are nearly as large as those on other roads, and when mounted on wide gauge trucks run on wide tracks, no one would notice the difference.

Mr. Daniel Crowley, a cousin of Hurley brothers, who has been here for the past week has just returned from the Logan valley and is so well pleased with the country that he has decided to locate. "From his appearance we should judge he would make a boss farmer."

William Gillan tells us that on Thursday evening of last week the citizens of Michigan witnessed most singular phenomenon in the air. Just above the western horizon a mass of fire appeared, of the shape and about the size of a large bell. Instead of moving rapidly along as meteors usually do, and which is supposed to have been, for two whole hours it remained stationary in the heavens, the while sputtering and spitting fire like an enraged feline, till about ten o'clock it suddenly burst with a loud report scattering fragments of fire in all directions, and resembling the explosion of a sky rocket.

From Ponca Journal, May 2, 1888:
Mr. Wiggins, the celebrated Canadian prophet, recently predicted that on Saturday last, the earth would be racked, scourged and devastated by earthquakes and storms. In pursuance of the programme, quite a number of storms broke out in various localities. Here in Ponca the rain came down in torrents, each drop being as big as a wash tub. The wind did no damage except in one instance, viz: it blew off the roof of the ice house at the creamery.

Josh Bennett met with an accident at the creamery on Saturday. It was in this wise: The engine was run by a fly wheel, and the book on the cover of the churn caught Bennett's clothing in the neighborhood of the lower part of his vest. Then a fearful struggle ensued between Josh on the one side and the steam engine on the other. Had he been a light man, the remorseless hook, under the full head of steam then on, would have flung him through the roof. But with Josh's avoirdupois, it only jounced the engine, and a little and he finally by weight, actually stopped the engine, it being the first instance of the kind on record. He got out of the trouble without injury except to his front clothing which was somewhat ripped up.

It has been supposed that the Ponca Coal and Mining company was defunct, we take pleasure in announcing that it is yet alive, and that its existence has been officially recognized by the high authority. On Monday, Deputy U. S. Marshal R. E. Allen presented to us (we being the secretary of the company, and the custodian of its archives,) an autograph letter attested by names of renown, whereby the Ponca Coal and Mining company are cravely yet urgently invited to come to Omaha and attend a pleasant and genial reception to be held there. It was intimated that several U. S. judges and other dignitaries would be present and participate in the festivities of the occasion. With this good example to start with, we cannot but hope that the other potentates, princes and powers of the earth, will also speedily come forward and tender to the Ponca Coal and Mining company the right hand of fellowship. The stock of the company will of course soon be in greater demand than it is even at this time. Under this boom, the company will not have to pull up stakes and move to other localities, but pipes, but will, instead, puncture the earth with other holes and shafts, and get out coal and sell stock, particularly the last.

Look to Your Plumbing. You know what happens in a house in which the plumbing is in poor condition—everybody in the house is liable to contract typhoid or some other fever. The digestive organs perform the same functions in the human body as the plumbing does for the house, and they should be kept in first class condition all the time. If you have any trouble with your digestion take Chamberlain's Tablets and you are certain to get relief. For sale by all dealers. Adv.

A CERTAIN WARNING.

It Was a Clever Ruse and Thoroughly Scared the Burglars. For a time during the eighteenth century in England there was a lull in the robbery industry owing to an incident. Shortly after the execution of an English burglar the only honest man I was ever acquainted with... I have had some things which may be of good use to the public. I have left in an honest man—the only honest man I was ever acquainted with...

It is said the hint was so effectual that for a long time afterwards burglars in that part of England went into panic-stricken retirement. And this being so, it is just as well they did not know that the letter was a clerical forgery, the work of that prince of wits and humorists, Dean Swift.

HOAKED THE STATESMEN.

And at the Same Time Paul Biraud Proved His Proposition.

Paul Biraud, a writer on the Paris Bulletin, has written an article which has been widely quoted. It was written for the purpose of being erected all over France to obscure heretofore, too many official speeches made to celebrate intellectual property, and French officials really are the blindest leaders of the blind.

Under this glorious motto he placed the title of his bogus committee, which he dubbed "public committee for the celebration of the centenary of Hegel's birth." He collected the names of 100 Radical deputies in alphabetical order and sent them each a letter, in which he said: "Thanks to the courtesy of a generous donor the committee of Hegel's birth are now enabled to erect a statue in his honor. We desire to inscribe your name on the program of the centenary of this great orator of the century." He received letters of acceptance from a large number of deputies, senators and ministers—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Doing Her Duty.

The ten days of warfare in the streets in the City of Mexico that have been described by the correspondents of the American Review were days of terror and bloodshed. Yet, says the Rev. William Watson in the Spirit of Missions, they were not without their amusing aspect. The German lady living next to Deaconess Church was particularly interesting and asked me if her family ought not to leave that neighborhood. When I advised her to do so, she remarked, "Oh, I do wish my bread was baked. I cannot go until I get it out of the oven." For a half-hour she stood back and forth between the oven and the front door. When the bread was baked she fled and left it behind.

Dr. M. L. Cleveland made a professional visit to Wakefield Tuesday afternoon.

When the Proof Can Be So Easily Investigated. When so many grateful citizens of Wayne testify to benefit derived from Doan's Kidney Pills, can you doubt the evidence? The proof is not far away—it is almost at your door. Read what a result was attained by one of our patients in giving testimony.

Mrs. Ira Hoshan, Wayne, Neb., says: "About a year ago I was confined to my bed for several weeks by an attack of La Grippe and in recovering found that my kidneys were badly disordered. I suffered intensely from sharp, darting pains across the small of my back and there was much lameness through my loins. I did not rest well and the kidney secretions were unnatural. After taking Doan's Kidney Pills for a few days, I felt better and in about three weeks, all symptoms of the trouble disappeared. I have never had a return attack."

ORDINANCE 222.

An ordinance levying an occupation, or license tax upon certain occupations, business and amusements within the limits of the City of Wayne, Nebraska, to raise revenue by taking such tax from persons and places within this state, and the enforcement thereof, repealing ordinance No. 204, and all ordinances, or parts of ordinances conflicting with the provisions of this ordinance. Be it ordained by the Mayor and City Council of the City of Wayne, Nebraska:

Section 1. That there is hereby levied an occupation or license tax on each and every occupation, business, or amusement within the limits of the city of Wayne, Nebraska, in this ordinance heretofore enumerated in the several different sums on the several different occupations, businesses, or amusements respectively as hereinafter specified, for the purpose of raising revenue thereby.

Section 2. The amount of said tax hereby levied for each occupation, or amusement, or business, is as follows: The sum of $25.00 per year on the business or occupation of conducting, operating, and maintaining a local telephone exchange. On the business of conducting, operating or a pool hall or billiard room, the sum of $100.00 per year for each table operated or maintained. On a circus exhibiting in the open air, or in tents within said city, or using the streets of said city for a parade, shall pay the sum of $25.00 per day. Each menagerie, entertainment or concert of any kind, in exhibiting, or operating in the open air, or in tents, shall pay the sum of $5.00 per day. Each carnival or street fair company consisting of paid shows, or riding devices, or free performances and concessions, shall pay the sum of $30.00 per week, or at their option, the sum of $10.00 per day. On the business, or occupation, of conducting a magic lantern show, or providing light, or other amusements, the sum of $1.00 per day, or night, charitable work excepted. The owner of any building, or structure, or lot where any such entertainment is conducted, is equally liable for the payment of such tax, but the owner of said premises may secure an annual license for the conducting of any such entertainment by making application to the City Clerk and paying an annual tax of the sum of $30.00. Such license shall apply only to the building, or premises described therein, and shall not be assigned or transferred.

Section 3. On the business, or occupation, of conducting a magic lantern show, or providing light, or other amusements, the sum of $1.00 per day, or night, charitable work excepted. The owner of any building, or structure, or lot where any such entertainment is conducted, is equally liable for the payment of such tax, but the owner of said premises may secure an annual license for the conducting of any such entertainment by making application to the City Clerk and paying an annual tax of the sum of $30.00. Such license shall apply only to the building, or premises described therein, and shall not be assigned or transferred.

Section 4. On the business, or occupation, of conducting a magic lantern show, or providing light, or other amusements, the sum of $1.00 per day, or night, charitable work excepted. The owner of any building, or structure, or lot where any such entertainment is conducted, is equally liable for the payment of such tax, but the owner of said premises may secure an annual license for the conducting of any such entertainment by making application to the City Clerk and paying an annual tax of the sum of $30.00. Such license shall apply only to the building, or premises described therein, and shall not be assigned or transferred.

Section 5. On the business, or occupation, of conducting a magic lantern show, or providing light, or other amusements, the sum of $1.00 per day, or night, charitable work excepted. The Claimant

He Had Recourse to a Brute For a Witness

By LOUISE B. CUMMINGS

There is in man a faculty for development that the lower animals do not possess.

As illustration of this faculty between man and animals occurred on the eighteenth century in the case of a young Irishman who emigrated to America and later returned to his native country. Arthur Donovan was a younger son of the Earl of Strongford. Young Donovan was devoted to hunting and since there was a family feud on the estate, he occupied his time largely with the sport. Neither of his two older brothers cared for it, so he had to come to look upon his father as his master, and he never went among them that they did not show their contempt for him.

Arthur was not only beloved by his dog, but by every one who knew him. He was a fine, manly fellow, while his older brothers were disposed to lead dissolute city life. The heir to the title and estates spent most of his time in America and before long he had become one of the aristocratic English nobles. Arthur, having only the reputation of being a sportsman, was not much taken notice of by the aristocratic English nobles, but he had made an especial friend of the duke of Devonshire. He was very young, but Arthur had found him capable of being trained in the art of the hunt. He had become his master, and his master's friend.

When it came to his time to travel this dog Arthur's eyes were turned to the duke of Devonshire and he was waiting at the park. He returned to the house, where a gentleman was waiting for him. He went to the duke's house to be with him for Virginia.

Arthur reached America long before the outbreak of the American Revolutionary war. In civil strife the side stronger takes is liable to be decided by circumstances. Perhaps young Donovan was influenced by a hearty antagonism to England, but the immediate cause of his advocating the American cause was meeting with John Paul Jones, who became famous as a naval commander. Jones was as much Scotch as Donovan was Irish.

John Paul Jones was a Scotchman, and the future commander of the Serpents and was with him during that famous battle, receiving a wound in the face which left a scar which he carried for the rest of his life.

At the end of the war Donovan had been in America ten years. Between eighteen and twenty-eight there he had been contented in observing the independence, but in this case there was more than his usual. When Arthur left Ireland his face was spoiled. It was covered with a scar which he wore partly to hide the scar he had received in battle. Then he had a thick growth of hair, which was now thin, and he had inherited a predisposition to become gray early.

As soon as hostilities ceased, with some money he had inherited he bought a tobacco plantation in Virginia, and settling down on it, there was every prospect of his living the life of a country gentleman.

When Arthur joined Paul Jones he was a young man in Ireland of the fact, and his father ordered that his name should be changed to Arthur in the family. Eight years passed without a word between him and them. The oldest son died of dysentery. The next younger brother, who had been sent with his regiment to America, was killed at the siege of Yorktown. The only one left was the youngest, Arthur, who was now married.

Arthur Donovan, Earl of Strongford by right, but he was a barrister between him and the title which would be difficult to pass. In London he had a counsel, a lawyer, a man of keen and unscrupulous lawyer. He was best of him and, with Arthur out of the country, he had a title and an estate. Secondly, Arthur had had no communication with his family for years, would likely have died long ago. He had been endeavoring to establish his claim against his cousin his having fought against him, especially with the so-called "brute" who would produce any one against him.

When the Earl of Strongford died, Arthur Donovan, taking the ground that Arthur was dead. To prove this he sent an agent to America with instructions to the effect of that if he could find any one bearing the name of Donovan and manufacture evidence that the deceased was the youngest son of the Earl of Strongford, there were plenty of Donovans in America, and a record was found of an Arthur Donovan in the city of Trenton, Ireland was much further from America in those days than now.

Arthur Donovan was not the task which would be today.

THE SURGEON'S GLOVES.

He Wears Them While Operating Since He Can't Get Clean Hands.

While the surgeon's success depends to a large extent upon his hands, they are at the same time a source of the greatest danger to himself and his patient.

No process has yet been discovered which makes it certain that a surgeon's hands are free from microbes and incapable of carrying infection to a patient. This is why the good surgeon will not perform the most trivial operation without first covering his hands with properly sterilized gloves.

Proved, scrubbing with soap and running water, followed by another thorough scrubbing in from 70 to 80 per cent alcohol, removes the outer layers of skin and bacteria and makes the surface of the hands sufficiently clean.

But there still remains the danger that many microbes which stay concealed in the tiny crevices at the base of the little hair glands will be forced to the surface by perspiration and the heat of the hands. These microbes multiply and make an infection of the wound possible. While practical experience shows that his danger is very slight, it is not altogether safe to make it undesirable ever to operate with the bare hands.—New York American.

SHOOTING THE RAPIDS.

Feats of the Arab Boys of Egypt, Who Are the Best of the World.

Among the most expert of swimmers are the Arab boys of Egypt. Like all other boys, they are fond of displaying their skill before their friends. To show they shoot the rapids of the Nile.

Sitting themselves astride a log or wood about six feet long and buoyant enough to support them waist high in water, they ride it with the seat and gestures of a jockey and with hands and feet kept straight with the line of the current.

The fall is shot with an ease and grace that to do away with the sense of danger one would expect to feel at seeing a human being hurled along amid such a boil and turmoil of waters, but once at the bottom the youngsters have the strength to support them until "holes" to turn out of the course.

To do this they avail themselves of the impetus acquired by the log in its short, and they keep themselves full length upon it, they seem, with a sudden stroke from the left leg and arm, to give it and themselves out of the current.

To fall in this way would be dangerous even to American swimmers. Immediately below the log rock upon which the heavy stream breaks with great violence.—Exchange.

NORMAL NOTES

Alraun gang has just been received and installed at Science hall.

An interesting meeting of the Y. W. C. A. was held Wednesday evening with Miss Stevenson as leader.

The Normal baseball team went to Wakefield Friday for a game with the high school boys of that place.

Dr. House and Professor Britell will serve as judges in the debate between Pierce and Randolph to be held at three next Friday evening.

The Normal male quartet, assisted by Professor Keeley, has decided on May 7 as the date of their entertainment. Watch for more definite announcements.

Superintendent N. M. Graham of Sioux Omaha, representing the board of examiners for state certificates, was a visitor Wednesday. While here he met the members of the graduating classes.

President L. D. Harvey of Stout Institute writes that he has made his plans to be at Wayne May 29. The subject of his address will be "Some New Ideals in Education."

Some expert exercises have been of unusual interest during the past week. Vocal solos by Willis Fleetwood and Ardath Conn and music by the orchestra were special features.

Miss Linda M. Winter has received notice of her election in the Sioux City, Ia. schools. Superintendent Clark has been showing a decided preference for teachers trained in the Wayne State Normal school, and next year there will be ten members of our alumni in the public schools of Sioux City.

Very appreciative audience listened to the entertainment given by the class in German last Saturday afternoon. The program was under the direction of Miss Kingsbury and the German language was used exclusively. It closed with a farce which was especially pleasing to those present.

Miss Kingsbury has received from the German-American Alliance of Nebraska a collection of pictures, books and magazines, and she will have an exhibition in the chapel on Wednesday.

Doubtless you have heard the story of the retired contractor who had engaged an artist to paint a portrait of his daughter. "Mind you," said to the astonished artist, "I want none of your cheap splashwork—three good features—"

Which bonnet leads me up to the story that a teacher in one of the west side schools told me the other day about an Illinois girl. Her parents seem, had been celebrating their silver wedding, and little Rosie the next morning, with commendable family pride, was boasting of the quality of the presents received.

"There was a whole set," she said, "of solid silver teaspoons."
"Are you sure, Rosie," asked the teacher, "that the spoons were solid?"
"Oh yes," was the reply triumphantly. "They were silver—triple plate—Chicago Inter Ocean."

Candle Power.

In computing candle power it must be remembered that as there are many different sizes of candles—the rate of burning and intensity of light radiated will vary, so that the standard candle, upon which England and the United States agree, stands at 100.

This standard candle is made of pure spermaceti per hour. And the 1000.000 candle power searchlight must emit a light equal to 1000.000 standard candles.—New York American.

Maybe He Got It Back.

Brown and Jones were leaning on a table in a cafe and talking intimately. They told Brown to Jones.

"Look here, old man. Suppose you were to come around to my apartment and see me in the morning, to walk up to my room and, receiving no answer to your knock, should come in and find my lifeless body stretched out cold across the bed, would you be as like that, what would you do?"

"I'll tell you," answered Jones after thinking it over. "I'll institute an immediate search for the $2000 I have owed me for two years."—Exchange.

HERALD EXCHANGE GLEANINGS WEEK

Rev. H. R. Bohlsen, pastor of St. Paul's German Lutheran church at Wahoo, died on Tuesday of last week after a brief illness from grip and pneumonia. Funeral services were held at Wisher Thursday. Rev. Bornemann of Wakenfield preaching services in German and Rev. Tegeler of Bremer in English. The remains were taken to Murdock, Cass county, for interment. He was aged 41 years, 2 months and 19 days, and leaves a wife and four children, besides three brothers and two sisters.

A man removing from Blair denies the newspaper report that he was going to leave because it was "such a hot place in which to live." One of the oldest buildings in Dakota City was last week destroyed by fire of unknown origin. In the long list of dealers who one after another occupied the building during the last thirty-five or forty years, E. J. Ruppert, who moved from Dakota City to Wayne, and who now lives at Des Moines, is being pushed forward as a candidate for superintendent of schools of Cedar county.

All the staff officers of the Norfolk high school paper, The Milestone, are wrestling with the mumps, and accordingly work on the publication has been delayed.

C. W. Baker of the Baker Construction company is quoted as saying that headway will soon be made on the proposed interurban electric line between Norfolk and Omaha. As to the delay, he says: "The work has been delayed because of action on the part of the state railway commission. We sold $1,000,000 worth of bonds for 72 and the railway commission wants them sold for 78."

Emerson Enterprise: E. Herrigfeld has just finished seeding down one hundred acres of his farm east of Emerson to timothy and clover and will try raising cattle instead of buying them at seven to eight cents and then feeding them for the market.

Tekamah Journal: The bottom land devastated by the fire was more serious nature than they have been for years. The shifting winds with the extreme dryness of the grass made the control of a piece of hay land almost impossible. Fire would burn the trees and the entire bottom was a black streak after all was finished. It is estimated that fully 1,000 tons of good hay was destroyed. The most of it was needed too for local consumption.

Lincoln Journal: Get into the confidence of any banker for a minute and he will probably admit that he expects decidedly easier financial conditions from now on, and particularly after the crops are harvested in the fall. The chances are about three to one that he will give the new bank system as the reason for his confidence. Any reason for business improvement is a good one now. It seems to be a mental condition in the main that keeps business from expanding. Any reasoning that brightens the mental view is to that extent good for business.

Coleridge Blade: The Wausa Gazette comments on the Blade's article regarding the unsatisfactory experience with semi-professional base ball and high school baseball and says that Wausa at one time had large ambitions and expended considerable sums on base ball but soon learned that it was a mistaken notion and while Wausa has always had a team, she has not, in recent years, tried to build up a world-beater out of hired players. The writer knows of a cracking good town that has turned out some mighty fast ball players—always used home material, and yet got so much advertising as Coleridge ever did with her team, and while the town now and then gave some benefit for the boys an idea of what they expect of the town may be learned when we state that this spring all they asked of the Commercial club was $100 for suits and paraphernalia, with the promise that no more money would be asked of the town.

IMPORTANT IF TRUE.—Lincoln Journal: "Something ought to be done for the misguided idiots who persist in digging dandelions out of their lawns," says Walter L. Ruppert, who will spend their time and break their backs digging out plants, not realizing that every time the tap root of a dandelion is broken off it has the same effect upon the plant as disking alfalfa. One of the weeds will come up from that root. That makes it a crime to dig up a dandelion. The cure is gasoline. A squirt of water from a can on the crown will end Mr. Dandelion. I have used gasoline enough to know that it will work. There are three dandelions were all I could find on a quarter of a block this morning, and the gasoline has already put them out of business."

"I want to remark," said J. E. Miller, "that I do not believe Walter Anderson uses gasoline on his landings or anywhere else than in his automobile. When a man goes to measure more than thirty-eight inches around his waistband he ceases to fight the pests. I reach the conclusion concerning Anderson because he owns two lots directly north of my place and no gasoline or anything else is used on them."

"Those lots belong to my mother-in-law," replied Mr. Anderson. "Anyway they are north of Miller's place and the wind is usually from the south. Thirty-eight inches, I bet Miller can't do this," and Mr. Anderson proceeded to place his hands on the floor without bending his legs and repeated the process several times.

BRIDGE NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given that bids will be received at the county clerk's office for Wayne county, Nebraska, for the furnishing of all necessary material and labor for the erection and completion of the following bridges, or so many thereof as shall be ordered built by the county commissioners for the year 1914.
