THE GROWING TOWN.

Wymore Wymoreau: It is frequently asked why one town grows into a city while others with equally good locations remain villages. It is easily answered. Because in the one case there are men of push and energy who are not afraid to spend their time and money to boom the town. They erect substantial buildings, organize stock companies and establish factories, secure railroads, work for public improvements and use every means in their power to induce people to locate in their city. Wherever they go they tell of the advantages of their city, they write about them in every letter, they send circulars and newspapers to their acquaintances, whom they think can be induced to visit the city, and when anyone visits it they show him all the attractions of the place and treat him with such kindness that he falls in love with them and the city at once, buys property, goes into business and becomes a permanent citizen.

G. J. KNAPP EXPOUNDS SINGLE TAX SYSTEM

George J. Knapp, an inveterate Crucible club of this city, addressed a large audience in the auditorium at the city hall Tuesday evening on the single tax question.

Mr. Knapp is a forceful speaker, and has studied his subject carefully. His arguments in favor of the single tax are clear and convincing. He gives figures to show that any other system of taxation fails to affect all classes of people alike, since the possibility of evading assessment is so great. He declares that as a man's wealth increases, his desire and ability to evade taxation also increase; therefore, the rich man does not pay his share of tax. He also shows by reference to public records in communities where the single tax system is in force, that the farmer's taxes are reduced while public revenue is at the same time increased. From observation in such communities, he states that the single tax system is a booster proposition, since it attracts all kinds of manufacturing enterprises and thus benefits the laboring man. The Crucible club is doing a good work when it brings such speakers to the city, for they cause people to think on the great questions of the day, whether they hold the same opinions or not.

THE WEEK WITH THE CHURCHES

First Baptist Church.
(Rev. B. P. Richardson, Pastor.)
Communion service Sunday morning.

"Not by Bread Alone," will be the subject of the communion address. Jesus taught men how to have the religious life. We want to study the hidden sources of this wonderful life.

During this month we want to emphasize continually the place the mid-week meetings ought to have in the church. Perhaps there are good reasons why more people do not attend this meeting. We believe it is possible to make it the best meeting of the church. We are going to try to do this very thing. We need your help. Come with suggestions, plans, ideas and we shall give you a chance to give them. The time will be well spent. Come, try it, this month.

Miss Ina Hughes will be the young people's leader Sunday evening. Remember the society meets at 7 o'clock.

The pastor will preach at 8 o'clock Sunday evening. The ladies are making hold of their new missionary budget with strong enthusiasm and vigor. We believe the reason why the women are more interested in missions than men are, is because, in nearly every church, you will find a group of them, earnestly studying missions.

Do not forget the services we are planning for June 14. In the morning of that day, we are going to observe "Family Day." At this time we want fathers and mothers and children all to come. There will be two sermons—one for the little folks and one for the big folks. Won't you help make this service mean something to all of us.

In the evening of that day, the Sunday school children will present a splendid "Children's day" program.

Remember that Wednesday evening service. Come prepared to give ideas and receive inspiration.

Presbyterian Church.

(Rev. Alexander Corkey, Pastor.)
"A Pastor's Benediction" will be the subject of the evening sermon at the Presbyterian church, next Sunday. This will be the closing sermon of the pastor as he leaves for the east next week.

Children's day will be observed at the Presbyterian church next Sunday. The program includes the special program including the special exercises of the Cradle Roll, when nine members will receive diplomas. The ordinance of infant baptism will also be administered by 10:35 a. m.

The annual outing of the Women's Missionary society will be held at the home of Mrs. C. S. Ash on Thursday afternoon, June 11. All the members will have a part in the outing, which will consist in a budget of the latest news from the mission fields in which all will participate. Mrs. Nangle will also give an account of the work in Alaska. A social time will be enjoyed and refreshments will be served.

President A. B. Marshall, D. D., of the Omaha Theological seminary, will preach on Sunday, June 14, both morning and evening. Dr. Marshall has been called the greatest man eloquent; and he is one of the great preachers of the church. His administration as president of the theological seminary in Omaha has been very successful, and his visit to Wayne will be much appreciated. "A Good Neighbor" will be the subject of the afternoon discourse at the McEachen school house next Sunday. The Sunday school meets at 2:00 o'clock and the preaching services begin at 3 p. m. Believe college commencement exercises will be held on June 10th in the Presbyterian church at Bellevue. Rev. Alexander Corkey will deliver the address, subject being "The Imagination and Social Progress."

St. Paul's Lutheran Church.
(Rev. F. E. Blessing, Pastor.)
Sunday school every Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. We have very interesting subjects for consideration each Sunday. Next Sunday the subject will be "The Coming of the Kingdom." We would like to see more of the parents in Sunday school.

Regular preaching services every Sunday morning at 11 o'clock and in the evening at 8 o'clock.

The subject of the sermon for next Sunday morning will be "Ships that Pass in the Night," Job 29:3. We are familiar with scenes of shipwreck; the stories read in childhood

Don't Buy Paint that has been standing on someone's shelves for the past three or four years

---or more

PAINT THAT HAS BEEN IN STOCK FOR THIS LENGTH OF TIME OR EVEN LESS TIME, WILL SETTLE TO THE BOTTOM AND GET SO HARD YOU CAN HARDLY STIR IT—THE PIGMENTS HAVE BECOME SEPARATED FROM THE OILS, ETC., AND IT IS ALMOST IMPOSSIBLE TO GET THEM TO MIX PROPERLY AGAIN.

Our advice to you is to buy paint that you know is new and fresh—a paint that has been but recently received from the factory where it was made, and has not been standing on the shelf in someone's store. We have that paint. Our entire paint stock left the factory less than ninety days ago, and for that reason you are assured of getting FRESH PAINT if you buy from us.

WE EXCHANGE ALL OF THE PAINT WE GOT FROM BARRETT & DALLY FOR OUR PRESENT STOCK, SHIPPING THE OLD STOCK OUT OF TOWN. WE ARE THEREFORE PREPARED TO SUPPLY YOU WITH A STRICTLY FRESH ARTICLE—AND AT NO MORE THAN THE OTHER FELLOWS ARE CHARGING YOU FOR THEIR PAINT.

Another thing—no matter what color you ask for, we have it. If you doubt our word, try us and see.

Carhart Lumber Company

and the stern facts of later years have been vividly before our minds. We see the gallant vessel well fitted and prepared, sailing forth on her mission of transport or merchandise, moving along under favorable conditions, seeking to make the port where she is due. We see her overtaken by a storm or struck by a larger vessel, sinking lower and lower, until finally going down beneath the waves. It failed to pass safely through the night. But sad as the story is, there is a far more profound and pathetic sadness in the history, only too often to be told of many human souls, failing to pass in the night and thus going down beneath the waves of the world, a complete spiritual wreck.

In the evening the pastor will use the subject, "From a Prison to a Throne," Gen. 41:1-45.

CHAMPION ZYBSCKO.

Our flags are flying at half mast, and crepe is on our doors, our hearts melt to grief, and we are distant, alone, shorn. The wrestler's crown is ours no more, the garland of the wreath; our hearts are sad, our heads are sore, and we have aching teeth. From Poland's soil we have a great, when some is bent across his knee and broke. We cannot halt imported beef with vim, like sporting men, till we've recovered from our grief, and got back again. And now to Gatch's sylvan farm, we turn, in our despair; is there no talisman or charm, to lure him from his lair? Is there no way, we ask, to get the Gatch from his retreat? Will he defend the stony flag, or has he got cold feet? You know how at Jim Jeffrey's door we pounded, one day, when all our hearts were sick and sore, our laurels wrenched away, and Jeffrey came to bring them back, to give us back our laurels. It happened then—alas! alack! we'll tell some other time. And now all patriots demand that Gatch, the great and strong, should keep the laurels in this land, where surely they belong.

THE SPEED MANIAC.

Where'er he hies he simply flies, the dust behind him thickens; past my abode he burns his trail, my kites may fly, but he is quick. He toots his horn as though in scorn of folks who travel slowly; like falling star his noisy car attains a speedy. He does not care for our despair, nor heeds our angers; he is not to be stopped or scared, and zips, with drunken leaps and reels. For poor galoot who toils slow, he does not care a tinker; he scares the mules the farmer tows; they balk and kill the driver, and he tracks for meters back, his feet and mailed are lying; he merely sniffs at mangled stiffs, and still he goes a-flying. When brought to court this measly sport is taxed a few pingers, when he looks at the bars in jail for causing such disasters. Throughout the land this we stand—we stand it 'cause we've got to—and all our kicks don't serve to fix the saphead with a dose. Perhaps some time will come when crime will run a little dumber, it, along the pike, and chase and strike and maim the people on the pike.

A GLANCE AHEAD.

The sunmermer will soon arrive, that season which is hottest; then every man in town should strive to be the leading swartwit. For steaming winds and brazen skies which make the cornfields flourish, will fly through the south. They will make them and nourish. And flies are such a pesky crew, they made one's reason totter, and so the first thing that you do should be to buy a swatter. The good old doctors disagree as to the best way to get rid of 'em; one doc goes raw, another gets—we can't guess where they prance to. But on this question of the flies, they speak up as one sawbones; they tell us that we ought to rise up and smite them with a swatter. So haste and send your little son, or, failing him, your daughter, to hardware dealer with the men to buy a trusty swatter. And then from every town or we'll drive the pesky critters, and sing and cheer as we sweat and hand the flies their hitters. And thus we'll benefit the race—that isn't far-fetched, is it? We'll make the world a better place in which to sit and visit.

PLAIN SPEAKING.

I used to say just what I thought, on every mortal theme, and life was hectic then and hot, and every day a scream. I tried to show I had no spite any human foe, and no prejudice. I unchained my ears, or else they unchained my nose. But I was not dismayed, threat, nor humbled yet, by heck! And people often jammed my hat clear down around my neck. My wife and I, and my boys, as they said some martial toot, and every time I met a crowd they'd kick my coatails off. "A soul unchained still I have," I often would declaim; and then I'd buy a quart of molasses and spread it on my shirt, to keep me from getting so stiff, and to hold his soul, and, so, I would give a peaceful life, I cannot my sign. Instead of shouting off my bile at every time and place, I claimed they are good for coughs, croup, a large elastic, and as I work on my neck, I have found that I still had burning thoughts, I kept the blamed things down, and no one of the caustic shots for which I'd won renown. And now all day I sing and sing, and people like me much; my head's no longer in a sling. I do not need a crutch.

PAINTING.

Now the husband paints the fence—white, the house-wife, paints her face, and, with energy intense, we are painting, every place. We enjoy this useful toil, which will make the town more fair, and we smell of linseed oil, and there's ochre in our hair. Paint would beautify the spheres, and we have no useless sighs, if there's putty in our ears, and some varnish in our eyes. Wherever brush is laid, an improvement in life is seen; about the shade—like, lavender or green. You will say, "I am surprised, that you preach paint evermore; you have sure been subsidized by some paint and varnish store." But I bought that vat from the dealers in red lead, since I started urging men to embellish house and shed. Some men tell you how to pray, but I'm wearing out my throat, "Lord, Lord, Lord, Lord, Lord, Lord," it's because I hope to make this old world a brighter place that I urge you till I break both suspenders and a trace. Blow yourself or linseed oil, or blow yourself or lead, or any of your residences will spoil—paint it blue, with stripes of pink.

THE EARLY TOILER.

Some fellows arise from their beds in the morning, with a taskness in their living pulse, to the dawn, to everyone's rights in the neighborhood, scorning, they push their old mowers all over the lawn. Their mowers are rusty, and screech like old machinery, go clinkety-clank in a maddening way; the noise of a speedy, old mower will carry all over the village, at breaking of day. Then neighbors get up and lean out of their windows, and shovel our language that's added, and sour, and the best of the Choctaws and Hindos; that silence may reign till a civilized hour. In vain is their pleading; the mowers go clinking, the mowers go clanking their cogwheels and cams, and many a good' people are driven to drinking, and finally die of the Jimel Jams. There should be a jail for such slumber destroyers, a dark, mouldy dungeon, disgusting and stale, and also a cell for the cow hater, who is driven to defend them or see they get bail. But law doesn't cover such grievous offenses, and people must suffer till this life is gone, they still must be driven clean out of their senses, by the noise of a mowing machine.

HERALD EXCHANGE.

GLEANINGS OF WEEK

Stanton Pickett: Mrs. Charles McLeod and daughter, Miss Charlie, have returned from an extended trip through the south. They spent most of their time in Mississippi and both are much improved in health. Laurel Advocate: In writing the Advocate from Milliken; Colo.: Under date of May 20, Mrs. S. T. Wright says: "We are both unusually well and busily engaged with garden and flowers after business hours. Our weather is simply magnificent, and great quantities of rain make crop look fine and the country very prettily green." The small vegetables, and peas are about to bloom. At the annual high school field meet held at Osmond last Friday, Randolph won first place and bore home the cup, having made thirty-one points over the nearest rival. Magnet Mail: Fred Woolston returned this noon to his home at Omaha after a visit with relatives. Bloomington Monitor: Dean H. H. Hays of the Wayne State Normal was a caller at the school house, on Thursday, May 21, while on his way to Niobrara to deliver an address. Fremont Herald: Every vegetable is a medicine chest full of remedies that are recognized by every physician as of considerable value in the treatment of various diseases. Onions, for example, contain sulphur oil, and are recommended as a laxative, and aid in gastric digestion. They should have a prominent place in the diet of sufferers from rheumatism for they help ally the pains. Spinach is an organic form, and is rich in iron, and is a good food for the fine-indigestible fibre. Turnips and parsnips both have peculiar oily and principles which are of value as an aperient and diuretic. It is also very bilic at every time and place. I claimed they are good for coughs, croup, a large elastic, and as I work on my neck, I have found that I still had burning thoughts, I kept the blamed things down, and no one of the caustic shots for which I'd won renown. And now all day I sing and sing, and people like me of Wayne, delivered a fine address which was enjoyed by all. The orchestra and local sinners rendered some splendid selections.

At a special election held in Wakefield Friday Sunday baseball was defeated. There were 105 votes cast against, and 101 for it. The result makes it unlawful for any person over the age of 14 years to play baseball in a competition game on Sunday within the corporate limits of Wakefield. The engines for the new electric light plant at Wakefield have arrived and work is being rapidly pushed ahead so that the village will soon have electric lights. The Norfolk News of Monday reported the marriage of H. F. Slouger to Miss Marie O. Sharpe of Omaha. Mr. Slouger is a leading citizen of Gregory, S. D. Henry Sedivy, 17 years old, was drowned in the Niobrara river near Pisherville at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon while playing with his father. Both were in the water when the boy stepped into a pocket and went down. "He became entangled in the net and his father grabbed him. The boy said that his father was in danger of going down too, and he tried himself from his grasp. He did not come up again. The father searched for the body, finding it about 5 o'clock. The 8-year-old son of Henry Kruppewitz who lives north of Lynch, accidentally shot and killed himself at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon while playing with an old shotgun which he did not know how to load. He was with a number of other boys when the accident occurred. He lived until 2 o'clock this morning. The family moved here five months ago from near Madison where they have a number of relatives.

HAMMOND FOR GOVERNOR.

Lincoln Journal: Interest in the gubernatorial campaign will be appreciated by the announcement that Ross L. Hammond of Fremont has resigned as collector of internal revenue and has filed for the republican nomination for governor of Nebraska. This gives the party an opportunity to place in the field a candidate of ability, of splendid character, of attractive personality, and with a long record of support of progressive policies. During the campaign of 1912 Mr. Hammond remained with the regular organization, giving President Taft consistent support but refusing to join in bitter denunciation of republicans who felt it their duty to support the progressive party. As holder of an important public office he could hardly have taken any other course. Large numbers of progressive republicans who fought by Mr. Hammond's side during the battle that ended the rout of an old corporation machine in 1912 have no fault to find with that attitude. There is reason to believe that in case Mr. Hammond secures the nomination he will be able to win support from both wings of the party and perhaps almost completely heal the breach between them. There is reason to believe that Mr. Hammond has filed as a candidate because he has been led to think that it is duty to owe the party which has enabled him to hold a lucrative and honorable office for a long term of years. His motives in entering the race we believe to be creditable. The fact that a man honored in the past should feel such a sense of obligation as to abandon his plans for personal enjoyment in order to lead in the state campaign is distinctly encouraging. At the same time, of course, his candidacy does not restore other republicans from filing. A number of men have been mentioned who would lead the ticket effectively and serve with ability in case of their election. Any and all of them will be welcomed into the primary race by Mr. Hammond and his friends who only ask that the interests of the party be served by the selection of the most effective candidate.

SOLDIER DEAD ARE HONORED IN WAYNE.

ADDRESS BY REV. BLESSING

Graves of Nation's Dead Strewn With Flowers—The Honor Roll—Ideal Weather.

Decorations day was fittingly observed at this city, at 2:00 p. m. the line of march was formed at the First National bank corner. The Savidge carnival band headed the line, followed by the flower girls under the leadership of Mrs. Kollie Lee. Then came the Spanish war veterans, and last the members of Casey Post G. A. R., sixteen in number, with three visiting civil war veterans. They marched to the opera house where the following program was rendered before a large audience: Music—Crystal Theater Orchestra Selection—Normal Male Quartet Invocation—Rev. C. L. Myers Selection—Normal Male Quartet At the request of Casey Post G. A. R., "Redmond" then read the order given by General John A. Logan, for the first observance of Decoration Day. This was followed by the reading of Lincoln's Gettysburg speech by Professor J. G. Lewis; and a pleasing vocal solo by Mrs. A. R. Davis. Then followed the address by Rev. F. Blessing of the English Lutheran church, on the subject, "The Dawn of New Patriotism." In his discourse Rev. Blessing pictured three men as typical American citizens. The first is the man who seeks glory, honor and success for self alone. Another is he who strives for glory and renown for his nation. The third represents a small but rapidly increasing class who seek the welfare of fellowmen, and seek to exemplify in their lives the principle, "I am my brother's keeper." This he holds to true patriotism. At the conclusion of his address, the audience joined in singing "America" and the march was continued to the cemetery where the ceremonies of the day were concluded. Flowers were strewn upon the graves of the following departed soldiers: Alexander, Christopher Bernheimer, J. W. Brown, D. W. Britton, A. P. Childs, G. W. Culler, Louis Grasset, H. W. Hungerford, J. T. Mettlin, W. M. Mellor, S. H. McMakin, E. J. Nangle, James Pfaden, W. Skadden, G. Alfred Swanson, "Daisy," Elston, Henry Hodgson, F. W. Farran, Edward Reynolds, "Arno," Wright, Mark Stringer, W. O. Gamble, L. R. Tharp, W. M. Wright. Spanish war veterans: Elmer F. Bartlett, John P. Hyatt, Guy A. Lush, Archie E. Littell, J. W. McIntosh. The graves of Nathan Allen of the war of 1812, and Enoch Hunter and William Hunter civil war veterans, buried in La Salle cemetery, had been decorated during the forenoon by a committee from Casey Post G. A. R. The weather was ideal and the excellent program attracted large crowds. It was anticipated that music so generously provided by the Crystal Theater orchestra and the Savidge Carnival band.

Why Should We Carry Accident and Health INSURANCE?

Because no one is immune from accident or sickness. They are not respecters of persons. Accidents of the most serious character oftentimes arise from the most trivial causes, and they can not be averted. They lurk in every footstep. Our 20th century improvements have accidents more numerous and naturally accident and health insurance is becoming popular and a necessity of the thinking man. Sometimes it is inevitable and the only time to provide against sickness is when we are in good health. If you wish to see the best in accident and health insurance, something to prevent your income from stopping when most in need. A23

A woman and a real estate agent do not often agree as what is considered a "desirable" neighborhood. An Atchison woman who lately rented a house ideally described by the agent is threatening to move. The woman entertains every week with several tables of cards and, as she has heretofore always lived in cardplaying neighborhoods she has just run around the neighborhood and borrowed the card tables. At the new location there isn't a card table within four blocks and the woman is having to rent them. She is counting the amount paid for renting tables in with the house rent and says it is more than her husband can afford to pay for rent and the next time she will not take any agent's word as to the "desirability" of a neighborhood.
