We are indeed a changeable lot of mortals and yet with all the changes, we are never contented. We have actually known of people who have used Wayne Superlative Flour for years, and for reasons unknown, change to some half dozen other brands of flour and having tried them all return to the best on the market for the money, Wayne Superlative. They were satisfied at last.

How to Detect the Alum Baking Powder

"Which are the alum baking powders; how can I avoid them unless they are named?" asks a housekeeper.

Here is one way: take the can of a low-priced powder in your hand and read the ingredient clause upon the back label. The law requires that if the powder contains alum that fact must be stated. If you find one of the ingredients named alum, or sulphate of aluminum, you have found an alum baking powder.

There is another and a better way. You don't have to know the names of the alum powders. Use Royal Baking Powder only; that assures you a cream of tartar powder, and the purest and most healthful baking powder beyond question.

NARROW ESCAPE. Ewing, Neb., July 7.—On Sunday James, brother of John Johnson, George Meats and Lew Shober were the guests of averting what otherwise might and doubtless would have terminated in a serious if not fatal accident. These men, with their families were camped on the Elkhorn, four miles west of Ewing and while fishing their attention was attracted by cries further down the stream and around the bend in the river. On hurrying to the spot they discovered three young ladies struggling in the water and in almost an exhausted condition. John Johnson and George Gent immediately went to their rescue and it was with the greatest difficulty they were finally brought to the shore alive. Two of the young ladies were unconscious when rescued and but for Johnson's expert knowledge of the manner of treatment in such cases it is doubtful if they could have survived. As it was it took an hour to rid them of the water taken in and this was done by rolling them around in their bathing suits. The water from which they were rescued was ten feet deep. Two of the young ladies were named Long and the other Henderson, their ages ranging about 18 or 20 years, and all of them reside on the Golden ranch. They had been bathing and accidentally got beyond their depth.

PUT CRACKER IN BOTTLE. Monday's Norfolk Daily News. The only Fourth of July accident occurring on a railroad train in this vicinity, happened on Northwestern passenger train No. 206 near Brainerd Saturday. Three boys, riding in a coach, put a cannon cracker into a pop bottle and touched off the fuse. When the explosion came, the bottle broke into hundreds of pieces, the flying glass imbedding itself in the face of one of the youngsters. It is reported the boy is in a serious condition. The report of the accident was received in Northwestern headquarters here today. S. D. Relyea was a passenger for Sioux City yesterday morning.

HER BUSY DAY.

The British matron used to sit in gracious dignity, and knit, and patch her husband's duds; with earnest zeal she used to make the bread, the doughnuts and the cake, and "boil the fuscious spuds"; but times have changed; now, fiery-eyed, she lets her household duties slide, and trends her marital path, and in that land of good roast beef, the new era has been established, and shaken by her wrath. She says that she will have the vote, if she must set the aisle aloft, to drift to Kingdom Come; she burns cathedral, hall and school, and in her faintly reticent she packs the deadly bombs that treat for there is nothing parol through costly paintings on the wall of this that nuisance; she chases statesmen here and there, until they flunge, in their despair into the sobbing sea. The king's afraid to take a walk, lest some bold matron's club may knock him over the street; he shivers on his royal throne, and in her bowler, depressed alone, Queen Mary has cold feet. The judges send the girls to jail, and take, in fines, their modest place at the household gods and Lunnon Town to John of Groat's, the women, for their precious votes, kyoodle, shriek and yelp. So let us glad and thankful be that in this country of the free, the women are more wise; in gentlemanly style they fight that they may gain the sacred right; the ballot, best their eyes!

THE BULLDOG.

The bulldog is an ugly bird; his bandy legs are most absurd, his tail declined to grow; his insolent and wrinkled face would be accounted a disgrace to any creature. The bulldog's not a playful pup; he doesn't stand on end and chirp, nor gambol foolishly; he seems to take a somber view of mundane things—including you; that's why you climb a tree, he guards his master's household goods and would, against the greatest odds, that might be marshaled there, and when he casts his bloodstained lamp upon an agent or a tramp, that tourist says a prayer. He's not a pet, for bloodless chaps; he has no place with ladies; his only mental use; he seems to with-tip up, rolled. "Don't bother me—if I take hold, you'll never jar me loose!" Because we know that deadly grip and fear the jaws that never slip, we give him right of way; when he comes forth and says, "Bow wow," we lift our hats and humbly bow and sweat three quarts of whey. Oh, when the bulldog growls or barks, we don't dispute his chaste remarks, or try to set him right; we hit the pike and think of death, and do not have a normal breath until he's out of sight.

FALSE ALARMS.

I see the farmers toiling out in their fields of wheat, and they are glad, though broiling in fifty kinds of heat. "The fields are simply reeking with the finest grain," I hear, the farmer shrieking, "prosperity will reign! The crop is simply thumping! There is no end to wheat, and all of us are humping along to Easy Street!" I sit upon the fences and watch the toilers strain, and see no evidences of carnage or pain. What are the dismal grangers who raised their doleful cries, about the frightful dangers they feared from Hessian fiends? Where are the weeping farmers who falsely alarmed, and talk of smiting the wheat? Why is the howling hayseed, who said, "The drought is near, and surely I won't raise seed to plant a crop next year?" The prophets of disaster have canned the drought fro'n, and faster yet and faster they're hauling wheat to town, they say, "Why are they drawing the golden buck; no longer do they groan or complain about the luck. Most all our fears of evil are baseless. I repeat; we talk of rust and weevil, when we should talk of wheat."

THE ONE THEME.

You talk of Pope and Byron, of Milton, Keats and Scott, and I admit I'm tirin' of all that kind of oratory; you say the world is richer since Shakespeare sang his lays; to Jones our southw'ard pitcher, you give no word of praise. The game is over after inning he pitched a hitless game, and yet you come here, grinning to talk of Wordsworth's fame. You speak of Alexander, and say he was a brick, that storied old commander—who signed for words to the general, despite the times—when he tore through that briar wood!

perpetrator my thoughts are all of Jones. Your musty ancient heroes were doubtless wearing bells, your Hannibals and Nereos, your dauntless Willys. Tolls, but they are dead and planted, long since they met their fate, and I am now enchanted with Jones, whose curves are great. Of statesmen and of thinkers you come to spief a while, and they are surely clinkers when tomorrow's in style, but statesmanship is misty, and thinkers are a bore, when Jones, the true and irascible, is making batsmen sore. Forget the printed pages, the wreaths and halls of fame, forget the banes and the ages, and come and see the game!

THE MORNING.

When shades of night are falling, I always hit the hay; but from it I am crawling at early dawn of day. So help me, Alexander, I would not rest that treat; for there is nothing grander than morning, cool and sweet. The little birds are singing, as they go scooting by; the rising sun is stringing strange tints across the sky; the winds are softly sighing, and the dew on the grass, and butterflies are flying about the garden sans. Hushed is the workday clamor of busy mart and street, the sound of saw and hammer, the tread of weary feet, the voice of town lot booster, that stands in need of grand old words of wabster, rooster and the rest; for there is nothing else disturbs the peace. It is the sweetest portion of day, this hour of bliss; and sleep is an abortion at such a time as this. To see the bright sun breaking Night's chains, that had him bound; to see the old world waking to try another round, to see the shadows creeping away, a roated look-out, who would tie a sleeping till 9 or 10 o'clock?

HOT WEATHER.

The weather's hot and sizzling, and most obnoxious, now; the moisture keeps a drizzling down my bulging brow; it filters through my eyeballs, in manner most absurd, yet I am cheerful always, and chipper as a bird. To stovny wasters unending I've trained myself to look all day I am pretending that I am Dr. Cook. Attired in linen, thin, I make myself believe that up-old Illinois, with its water, is your leave. My Thomas cat is doing upon the easy chair, and I keep on supposing that it's a polar bear. "The igloo!" I have christened the house wherein I dwell, and often there I've listened to arctic tempests and howling winds, most astounding, and groaning in their way; and wringing hands, forgetting that there's such a thing as snow. The days will seem less dreary, if you are Peary, or Crook, can play that you are Peary, or falling Peary, Cook! Imagine you're existing in snow up your neck, and soon you will be roaring, "We need a fire, by heck!"

SIBILLANTS AND SONG.

A Combination That Does Not Produce a Satisfactory Result.

"Writing a story is a great and noble art," remarked a gentleman who has won laurels in both departments of industry, "are two very different matters. You can take liberties in the first case which you cannot in the case of lyrics, as with these you have to consider the 'singableness' of the words used."

"To avoid sibillants like a pestilence and to use open vowels such as A and E wherever possible in the two golden rules. English has been called an unsingable language, and certainly Italian and French are more liquid and easier to vocalize in. Open vowels are very important. Compare, for instance, the word 'thee' which is breathied out between the teeth, with its plural 'you,' which enables the singer to open the mouth widely. The relative singableness is apparent at once."

"An excessive use of sibillants produces a ludicrous hissing sound. (Read the last sentence aloud, and note the hiss.) To overcome a well known dramatist was once exercised enough to give an actor a speech in which he described "Dick sitting still as a stone and chomping the horse splendidly!"—London Answers.

BIRDS AND BRAINS.

The Canary Well Supplied, While the Poor Hen is Gladly Laid.

Naturalists have arrived at the conclusion that the brain in birds is large in proportion to the body. It is admitted that intelligence depends upon the weight of the brain; then the goldfinch must be placed at the top of the order of birds. The brain weighs one-fourteenth of its whole body weight. It must be remembered, however, that attempts to draw conclusions as to the intelligence of certain birds from an comparison of the weight of the brain with that of the body have been considered futile.

"In the brain forms from one-twenty-second to one-thirty-third of the whole body; in the canary, one-fourteenth; the sparrow, one-twenty-fifth; the chicken, one-twenty-seventh; the redstart, one-thirty-second; the blackbird, one-sixty-third; the duck, one-two-hundred-and-fifty-seventh; the eagle, one-thirty-seventh; the gannet, one-hundred-and-fifty-seventh; the domestic hen, one-four-hundred-and-twelfth."

By some, the preternaturally cunning raven is supposed to be the most highly developed of birds. Its courage is so great that the eagle respects it, and his intelligence prevents him from getting into unwise though suspected dangers.—London Spectator.

Bats and Bows.

Mr. Justice Barron of the Nebraska supreme court went east one summer and left his house in care of friends. One morning the telephone bell in the Letton house rang, and a woman asked for Mr. Letton. She was told the justice was not in town. She refused to believe that and asked where Mr. Letton was.

"He is on his way home now," the lady at the Letton house replied, "but he stopped off at Milwaukee to attend a meeting of the American Bar association."

"Evidently," said the woman at the other end of the wire superfluously, "there is some mistake. The justice Letton I know and want is not a school-keeper. He runs a grocery store."—Saturday Evening Post.

The Wayne Commercial club has nothing to apologize for in connection with its celebration Saturday.

There is enough division in each of the two old parties to prevent the other from feeling chesty over the prospect.

The Chicago Tribune which led the movement for the organization of the bull-moose party two years ago is now asking for a reunion of the republican party, contending that in all essentials there is no reasonable ground for disagreement. The only hope of preventing the democratic minority from continuing to hold the reins of government is to renounce the republican party, influenced by principles rather than the ambitions of selfish politicians.

Most of the people who attended the celebration in Wayne on the Fourth, belong to the Wayne trade and shipping, and they are doing their best to bring there. An essential in that direction is persistent newspaper advertising and the meeting of outside competition. Outsiders are after Wayne county trade by means of advertising. It is up to the reins of government to be satisfied with Wayne's rockery; likewise they will be satisfied with Wayne as a trading point.

The advisability of employing at the railway station, especially during the arrival and departure of trains, a police matron, has been suggested. The heavy travel from the highway line, changing cars here, and the many State Normal students, coming and going, prompt the suggestion. A police matron should be able to answer questions, give directions to strangers, and preserve order. She could also see that the depot was kept free from unnecessary dirt and damage. It is believed the officer proposed would be beneficial alike to Wayne and the railroad company.

As the Herald anticipated, some errors and oversights crept into the current edition. In the second Wayne paper last week. One advertisement, that of Marcus Kroger, was through oversight, left out entirely. Mr. Kroger was naturally disappointed. He would not have minded the advertisement if he hadn't wanted it, and its omission, though unintentional, gave him ground for complaint. Many others in town and country have said they did not expect an edition of the character issued and regret that they did not contract for space. A. G. Gardner, who has been in charge, endeavored to make plain to people the kind of publication proposed, and the invitation to enter was made general and cordial. Aside from an occasional blunder and disappointment to those who did not have the benefit of the paper, the edition was generally satisfactory and more than met expectations. Certainly the unusual advertising given Wayne county will bring good results.

The late Independence day celebration in Wayne showed striking and agreeable contrast to the manner of such occasions thirty and twenty years ago. In the early days people coming to celebrate, traveled along in lumber wagons, and after a tedious ride—near wagers—reached the town grounds, hot, fagged and sunburned. The parade consisted of a brass band and a decorated hack loaded with one goddess of liberty and little girls representing the different states. Some accident usually happened to scare the hazy rack of states and especially their own. The Fourth with Mrs. Holekman's parents at Emerson.

Mr. and Mrs. Lucian Carter, Clyde Williamson and Guy Francis spent the week-end at Crystal Lake.

than fight over the battles of the revolution—people contemplate the future. In the afternoon at the celebration thirty years ago, people patronized the rope swing operated by a horse and watched a crowd of boys catch a greased pig. At night, tired and worn, they drifted to the homes of their homes. People enjoyed themselves because they thought that way. But contrast that experience with the late Fourth in Wayne: People came on trucks and in automobiles, they did not feel overpowered fatigue by the time they got here. Farmers joined in making the parades successful, and the spirit of co-operation and satisfaction was manifest in everything said or done. The change is for the better, and the future is encouraging.

MUSICAL HEADS AND FACES.

They have a Shape All Their Own, Says a German Scientist.

"That all musicians are ' freaks ' so far as their physical appearance goes has been established beyond a doubt by a German scientist. Not only this, but he finds that, regardless of their race or stock, ability, all persons of marked musical aptitude show a close resemblance to one another in the shape of their heads and faces. The head and countenance of the typical musician often look very much like those of the lion or the sphinx."

The peculiar shape of a musician's head is due, according to the scientist, to the gradual expansion of the sound center of his brain and the consequent change in the conformation of his skull. This is why the heads of Wagner, Beethoven, Robert Schumann, Richard Strauss and other great musicians all have an eccentric, abnormal and sometimes fantastic appearance. A musician's sound center develops abnormally because it is there that everything in his life finds its motive."

The musical head and face are of a primitive type, because musical genius is a reversion to the time when men communicated their ideas by means of more or less inarticulate sounds. But, although the musician's physical appearance is barbarous in its lack of beauty and regularity, it contains no hint of degeneracy.

The typical musical head is characterized by the following broadness of the forehead, the broad nose and chin and the wide, extremely mobile mouth. The brow often overhangs greatly, as seen so notably in the case with Beethoven. The eyes are lustrous, but are separated, dreary expression. The hands are broad and strong.

"Musicians," says Dr. Soltan, "are absolute slaves to their sense of sound, and it is this that not only affects their physical appearance, but also their mental state. They are nervous and excitable. The main feature of the musical intellect is that mental excitement seeks a different outlet from that in the case of ordinary men."—New York American.

MARK TWAIN AS A LINGUIST.

His Grim Vow After He Firmly Decided to Learn French.

When Mark Twain was a young rebel at the common school, he learned French. He made up his mind to learn the French language. He did not want to go to the expense of a teacher, and so he bought a grammar and a conversation book and set to work. Before breakfast he porled over the lessons; late in the evening he read it again, and every available moment of the day he employed it with equal assiduity.

He soon began to look about for opportunities to be tested in his new accomplishment, accordingly he became a member of a French restaurant once a week.

Much!

Much may be said of the merits of Splendid Flour, but the housewives who use it will say much more. Do not hesitate to use Splendid if you are interested in securing a flour made upon honor, one that will produce a perfect loaf of bread and more loaves to the sack. The users of Splendid Flour have increased very much this year which is due to its superior quality. The guarantee on the back insures every patron entire satisfaction or money refunded.

Holsum Bread

If the weather is too hot to bake bread you may safely buy Holsum, will assure satisfactory results. Holsum arrives every morning, each loaf wrapped in wax paper. Buy the Burns' Holsum, the bread never touched by human hands.

Ralph Rundell

One day as he and his roommate were coming out of the restaurant they found on the sidewalk just outside the door a man sitting on a bench. He was asking first a passerby and then another the way to a certain street, but no one understood him. That was Mark's chance. The Frenchman looked at him with wistful eyes and began to talk. Mark listened attentively. Three or four times the stranger was compelled to repeat his questions, but Mark seemed to catch his drift. But he had scarcely spoken half a dozen words in reply, when the Frenchman fell to the sidewalk in a dead faint. The true cause of the stranger's fainting may never be known. Very likely he was punished, and perhaps he had been put out of this very restaurant because of his seedy appearance. But, whatever the cause, the joke was on Mark for once. Mark's roommate was careful enough of his friendship not to tell the incident at the office of the Morning Call, but he teased the rising humorist a good deal about it. When the fun had lasted long enough Mark set his jaw, and with unflinching determination wrote up on his features announced, "I'll teach French if it kills every Frenchman in the country!"—Youth's Companion.

Just had to win. On a southern race course, says a writer in the Cleveland Plain Dealer, which I shall designate no more than to say that it's a place where you lose money in the winter time. I took a young lady into the track, and she insisted on placing a bet on a horse. She wouldn't even let me help her do it.

The horse did worse than to come in first. He turned around and ran the other way. I said: "Well, you lost your bet. The horse you had your money on is running the wrong way."

She gurgled with satisfied glee. "Shows that a woman's instinct can't be wrong," she murmured triumphantly. "I played him both ways."

The President's Privilege. President Wilson has had his name mentioned by a professional mania just once in his life. That once was after he was elected president and before he was inaugurated. He had some time in New York and decided to use it in a visit to a man-cure. A stuffy blond person afflicted with the orange stick and pumice. She took the brand of the future president, began operations and began conversation at the same time. "Where do you live?" she asked archly. "In Princeton, N. J.," Mr. Wilson replied. "Oh," she said ecstatically, "what a privilege! Have you ever seen the house in which Mr. Cleveland lived?" Saturday Evening Post.

"The body of a man, evidently dead for five or six months, was found tied to a tree on a bluff one mile north of Calhoun, near Blair last Wednesday by Will Procton who was searching for bee trees. The man was wearing a suit and was a man with one empty chamber. The man was well dressed. In his pockets were found maps and a letter head of a hotel in LeRoy, no state given. On the maps were the names of O. P. Hazel, LeRoy; Elmer Meiser, L. D. Anderson, Ed. Hester and Geo. Salomonson. There was no money, but his watch and other contents of his pockets were intact. Randolph Times: The editor and his wife returned last Friday from their trip, and that day rode from the country about Beatrice and Wyoming, (within nine miles of the Kansas line) to Randolph. In thus traversing the north of the state on the east from north to south, a good idea of the crops was secured. Let us say that crop looks fine. The stories of the big wheat yield in southern Nebraska are not over-true. In Gage county and in the Kansas city section, the wheat by thousands upon thousands of acres of the finest winter wheat was cut last week and the shock fields are a beautiful sight. North of Lincoln the wheat was hardly ripe, at Fremont no north it was still green. In our opinion crop looks healthier, is more even and in better condition in this section than in the southern part of the state. Their heavy rains led to all day damage. Oats looked fine the way and to our mind it is a beautiful sight to see eastern Nebraska fields in the latter days of June. Harrington News: Franklin D. Stone, editor of the Harrington Herald is in a precarious condition in St. Joseph's hospital at Sioux City. He was taken ill early last week and failed very rapidly until Saturday morning, when at the advice of Dr. Rousch of Sioux City, who had been called in consultation, he was taken to St. Joseph's hospital. W. S. Weston took him to the city, accompanied by Mrs. Stone and Dr. Dorsey. Upon his arrival it was decided to perform an operation. The operation disclosed serious complications of appendicitis, an abscess and kidney trouble from which it was the fear of the surgeons that his recovery would be very doubtful. At last reports, however, he has rallied and hopes are entertained for his recovery. Latest news Thursday afternoon indicates further gains and a good fighting show for our doctor and his patient. Stone is a good man to lose. His only fault is that he won't go fishing as often as an indoor worker ought. We're all pulling hard for you, old man. West Point Republican: Norfolk is to have a big hog cholera demonstration and held meeting on Saturday, July 11. Friends of farmers from neighboring counties will attend. Dr. Chase, the hog cholera expert of Lincoln, will be in charge of the demonstration work. Cholera is on the rampage in Madison and other counties and the farmers are keenly alive to the situation. It is estimated that the Battle Creek meeting of last week has saved thousands of dollars. This meeting may be worth your time and attention. Pierce Call: R. M. Powers received a letter from Judge A. A. Welch the fore part of the week informing him that he had decided to appoint Attorney W. R. Ellis, of Bloomfield, court reporter for this county. "Bob" as he is familiarly called, has been acting in the capacity of court reporter since the death of the regular incumbent, Will Powers, of Norfolk, in March. During the many months of Mr. Powers' illness last fall and winter to know county in that capacity and was endorsed for the position by almost the entire bar of this district without regard to political affiliation. We understand his work was very satisfactory. Judge Welch's reason for giving the appointment to Knox county was that the county had never had a judge court reporter while the other counties in the district had been thus recognized in the past.

PEEP AT MEXICO

The Country's Area Now and What It Was Originally.

HAS LOST A VAST TERRITORY.

Nearly a Million Square Miles of the Land Have Been Added to the United States—Still a Big Country, Though, and Has an Enormous Coast Line.

It is interesting to note that the area of Mexico is practically as great as that of the United States between the Mississippi river and the Atlantic coast, the great lakes and the gulf of Mexico, together to attain from sea level to 18,000 feet.

Prior to 1836 Mexico, as a Spanish colony, and the United States covered approximately equal areas, but the Mexican war added nearly a million square miles to our territory, and the extent of Mexico now is less than one-fourth that of the continental United States.

The average density of population of Mexico approximates twenty per square mile, whereas in the United States, outside of the federal district, being the states of Texas and California, the former being less than Delaware, and the latter about the same density of population and the latter being nearly as large as New Hampshire, but with more than twice the number of inhabitants.

The form of government adopted by Mexico follows in general that of the United States, having executive, judicial and legislative divisions.

WEIRD HOUSE WARMING.

Bad For the Old and Helpless Native In Dutch New Guinea.

Concerning a discovery made on the natives of Dutch New Guinea, this interesting description is given by A. F. R. Wollaston in the Geographic Journal.

"The house was a rectangular wooden structure, not on piles about five feet from the ground. It sloped ladder or two or three poles tied together leads to a narrow platform."

"Outside the house were a number of men, women and children, the men occupied in cooking large quantities of the raw rice and potatoes and the lumps of pig's flesh."

"When we returned five days later we found the place utterly deserted and the house a bleached heap of ashes, on the top floor of which were lying the charred remains of the people."

Young Bessmer Had a Cautious Way of escaping the enemy.

"The most trivial incidents have often originated the fortunes of our richest men. Take, for example, the fortunes made out of the temporary power and genius, young Bessmer, had some idea of making steel out of iron, but a poor, newly started young man had no means of experimenting on a large scale."

"The late Lord Cromer added greatly to the humor of the nation. On one occasion, however, while he was still in the house of commons he tried to catch a fly with a flypaper."

"I am sorry to see you going about that despicable young fellow, my son, even if he has plenty of money."

Something like $80,000 a year is required to keep Uncle Sam's navy afloat. In addition most every other department of the government appropriates various sums for flags for buildings and ships under its control.

"Thousands of flags are required to supply the hundreds of vessels, from battleships to launches. On entering the sea the flag is the first impression of the eye."

"Each battleship, cruiser, gunboat or other large vessel carries a large flag to outfit its flag locker properly. Heaped up, they make a pile shoulder high and twenty or twenty-five feet long. The flags are of various colors and designs, but the name of the country is on the end of the flag."

TWO TIMES AT BAT.

Roger Had His Innings, and Then His Flag-Companion Had Hers.

Robert Hamilton, former captain of the Cardinals, made the doubtful hero of a story being told in St. Louis. According to the story told by a friend of Roger's, the latter, who is a certain young St. Louis lad to a ball game and explain its mysteries to her.

"Well, just sit tight and I'll tell you all about it, so you'll thoroughly understand its points."

"When will the game start?" "It's starting now," said Roger. "Do you see that first standing? Well, here the center of the diamond? Well, here's what we call the pitcher. He pitches the ball—see? The man who catches the ball is called the catcher. Sometimes catches it. Ha, ha! From right to left we have first base man, the second baseman, the short stop and the third baseman, and they way out toward the fence are the fielders. Now the batter has just hit the ball for a single. It is called a 'base on balls' because he allowed to take one 'base on the hit.'"

"'Top' came back the fair one. 'I know that. But what is the boob sticking out first base? Well, you know that he can't take a lead like that and get away with it! Who does he think he is? 'Ty Cobb or Bescher?'"

ATCHISON GLOBE SIGHTS. Nowadays the women are tanned all over. An optimist is one who hopes to get through with a bad day. You can usually tell a liar, but not nearly so much as he will tell you. Apologize to some men and they will also demand a check for a million. Don't make facing crises your life work; there aren't enough real ones to keep you busy. An Open Letter to the Women of this City Ladies: Our new match - the Safe Home Match - is just being introduced. It embodies all the knowledge that we - the largest manufacturers of matches - in this country - have been able to gather. It is non-poisonous. A child might suck the head or several heads of Safe Home Matches. He wouldn't be poisoned. He wouldn't even be seriously ill. Safe Home Matches do not spark or sputter. They light only on the tip. They are safe matches for the home. In efficiency they are probably 50% better than any match hitherto sold. They are so much safer matches that reliable than ordinary matches that the Underwriters' Laboratories put their label on every box. You are interested quite as much as we are in the introduction of a better, a safer match. We want your co-operation. May we have it? See All grocers. Ask for them by name. The Diamond Match Company

American Telephones

Lead the World

If telephone rates are high and service poor, the use of the service is necessarily limited, but if the rates are reasonable and the service good, they will be liberal use of the telephone.

The European governments have had no incentive to maintain good service and reasonable rates, as they have the private companies in America.

That is the reason Europe has only one telephone for every 150 persons, while in the United States there is one telephone for every ten persons.

Here are official telephone figures of the leading countries:

Concerning the recent fire at Wayne, the Tribune says: "The burning of the court house has opened the eyes of our citizens to the fact that Wayne must have an organized fire company and some facilities for fighting fire. If nothing more than a few buckets, axes and ladders in the way of apparatus be provided, the company should be ready, with someone to direct its movements."

A stranger whose appearance indicated that he had been diligently engaged in assisting the temperance cause by destroying all the whiskey he could get hold of, arrived in town Saturday evening on the train from Sioux City. On Sunday he organized himself into a storming party, and moved with determination upon old King Hall's works, and in the assault was overthrown. Whereupon he was seized and mercifully cast into the common jail where he languished until Monday morning. Then he was taken before Justice Knapp and paid $10 fine and $4 costs and left on the morning train.

From Ponca Journal, July 15, 1880.

The Sioux City Journal of Saturday, publishes the following railroad news of interest to this county:

"The widening of the track to standard gauge from the Ponca end progresses satisfactorily. The present thirty-pound rails are used down as far as the Omaha junction, ten miles west of this city. The narrow gauge engine and construction train has been brought down to this city and will be crossed over on the barge now being built.

The new bridges on the Ponca line are finished, and the bridging force is now working on the Omaha line, of which the first five or ten miles will be bridged before a construction train is put on. The bridging material used south of the slough will be wagoned in from Jackson.

Columbus Journal, 7: "The St. Paul and Sioux City road have purchased the right of way in Wayne county, and fifty teams are at work grading at the summit. This would look as though they didn't mean to be scared out of the country by the surveyors of the Union Pacific."

There is no local change in the situation on the Norfolk line. The graders of the St. Paul are still throwing dirt vigorously along nearly the whole line from Vincent's store to Norfolk, and the surveyors of the Union Pacific, when last heard from, were yet looking for a favorable line over the divide between Middle creek and the head of Elk creek.

As the St. Paul folks have appropriated the line surveyed by the Union Pacific men over the divide between Spring Branch and the South Logan, a new line will have to be surveyed there, and it will be some time, in any event, before any grading can be done.

A railroad man who returned from the sea of war yesterday, brings a renewal of the former report that J. J. Brown of Council Bluffs has grading contract from the Union Pacific company of forty miles from Norfolk toward Sioux City. The conclusion of the whole matter will probably be this: If the Union Pacific can arrive with the St. Paul to run trains over the track that it had from Norfolk to this city then the Union Pacific will not build the line it is surveying.

Otherwise, the Union Pacific branch will be built to Covington, opposite this city.

BIGGEST WHEAT CROP IN HISTORY OF STATE

Sunday's Omaha Bee: The wheat harvest is well under way all through the south part of Nebraska and threshing has commenced, and according to the reports coming to General Agent Utt of the Rock Island, the yield is unprecedented in Cass, Lancaster, Gage, Pawnee, Saline, Jefferson, Thayer and Nucholls, Nebraska counties through which the lines extend. Station reports gathered by the agents from among the farmers indicate that, with the exception of a small section in Cass, the yield is ranging from thirty-five to forty bushels per acre, the average being placed at around thirty-seven bushels.

While some threshing has been done, up to this time little, if any, of the new wheat has found its way to market, though it is expected to move during the next week or ten days. All reports indicate that the quality is above the average, the berry being plump and very large.

Hard to Get Help.

Considerable difficulty has been experienced in securing help, largely due to the fact that the warm weather of the last few days has ripened the grain very rapidly. In some of the counties along the south line of the state farmers are without the necessary number of horses to operate their binders that are being run night and day, and as a result of this shortage reports drift into the office of the Rock Island here that in several of the counties farmers have hired their binders behind their automobiles, they furnishing the motive power and doing much more effective work than can be accomplished otherwise.

It is said that six horses pulling a binder and working three in a shift will cut from ten to twelve acres in a twelve hour day, whereas an automobile will pull the machine along at a much greater speed, cutting from fifteen to eighteen acres during the same number of hours.

Farmers are said to figure that thirty-five bushels of wheat per acre is about three times the normal yield and consequently it is asserted that at this time they are anticipating the biggest wheat crop per acre ever raised in this state.

Reports from the grain fields indicate that it is not wheat alone that is a bumper crop. Oats promise the best yield in the history of the state, as does both rye and barley.

Fully realizing that a bumper crop of small grain is now being harvested all over Nebraska and the central west, the railroads are bending every energy to get the grain carrying equipment in condition so that there will not be any extraordinary shortage of freight cars.

The Rock Island road has received 4,000 new freight cars since one year ago and these will all be in service most of them in Nebraska and Kansas. In addition to these, 4,000 old cars are being put through the shops and all of them will be in condition to go out on the line by the middle of July. Five hundred automobile cars are being pressed into the service for the grain carrying trade and 1,000 stock cars are being converted into box cars, this being done by lining them with flooring.

The Northwestern by the middle of July will have in the neighborhood of 6,000 grain cars distributed at stations in Nebraska and Iowa, laid in on siding ready to be shunted to points where needed that they may be loaded out with the grain first threshed.

All of the other lines of the trans-

Missouri country are rushing their cars to the wheat raising districts, the Milwaukee, Burlington, Great Western, Missouri Pacific and Wash-burn sending hundreds of them into Nebraska and Kansas.
