COLUMN ADVOCATING WOMEN'S SUFFRAGE

(Under Auspices Local Committee.) Washington, July 16.—Secretary Bryan, in a formal statement issued tonight, came out for woman suffrage. He declared that he would ask no political right for himself that he was not willing to grant his wife, and announced his intention of supporting the proposed state constitutional amendment extending the franchise to women to be voted upon in Nebraska next November. Woman, Mr. Bryan said, had proved herself equal to every responsibility imposed upon her, and would not fail society in this emergency. Above all other arguments in favor of giving her the ballot he placed the right of the mother to a voice in the moulding of the environment of her children. "The mother," the secretary said, "can justly claim the right to employ every weapon which can be made effective for the protection of those whose interests she guards, and the

of the subject. People do not associate themselves together to secure a given end until they have reached a definite conclusion in regard to its desirability and feel that its accomplishment is worth the effort for which it calls. It is quite evident that those who disinterestedly desire woman's suffrage are willing to make greater sacrifices to secure it than those who disinterestedly oppose woman's suffrage are willing to make to prevent it. Why Mothers Are Interested. "As for myself, I am not in doubt as to my duty. It is not my purpose to discuss the subject with elaboration at this time, but I desire to give the argument to which I give the greatest weight. Without minimizing other arguments advanced in support of the extending of suffrage to woman, I place the emphasis upon the mother's right to a voice in moulding the environment which shall surround her children—an environment which operates powerfully in determining whether her offspring will crown her later years with joy or bring down her gray hairs in sorrow to the grave." "The Creator has placed upon the mother a burden which she could not shift if she so desired, and he has given her the disposition to bear it. Her life trembles in the balance at the child's birth, her active years are given to the care and nurture of her children; her nerve force and vital energy are expended in their behalf; her exhaustless love is poured out upon them. Because the result of her existence is bestowed upon them, they are a part of her very being—where your treasure is, there will your heart be also. When one considers the cost to parents, especially to the mother, of raising a child, it seems inevitable that anyone who would attempt to lead a child astray or rob its parents of the priceless reward to which they are entitled; and yet there are in every generation—aye, in every community—those who are inhuman enough to deliberately live in vain to make a wreckage of the lives of young men and women. They lay snares for them; they set traps for them; and the men who ply this ghastly trade for gain are allowed to use the child to advance their pecuniary interests. I am not willing to stay the mother's hand if she thinks that by the use of suffrage she can safeguard the welfare of those who are dearer to her than her own life.

The statement follows in full: "The voters of Nebraska will at the election next November adopt or reject a proposed amendment extending suffrage to women on equal terms with men. As a citizen of that state, it will be my duty to participate in the decision to be rendered at the polls. I have always delayed expressing an opinion on this subject, partly because I have been seeking information and partly because my time has been occupied with national questions upon which the entire country was acting; but now that the issue is presented in my state I take my position. I shall support the amendment. This claim is not being established in the matter of suffrage. On the contrary, the objections raised to woman suffrage appear to me to be invalid, while the arguments advanced in support of the proposition are, in my judgment, convincing. These objections, however honestly advanced, have proven impotent to retard woman's progress. "And are not objections refused to some extent by the fact that in the states which have adopted woman's suffrage (and in the other nations that have adopted it) there is no agitation to return to the situation which exists before a monopoly of the right to vote? Is it not fair to presume an effort would be made to correct the mistake if woman's suffrage had really failed to give satisfaction to the people where it has been tried? "If one were in doubt as to which side of the controversy to take, he would be justified, in giving weight to the fact that organization and enthusiasm are on the side of those who favor woman's suffrage. HERALD EXCHANGE GLEANINGS OF WEEK

South Sioux City Record: Orrin Garwood left Tuesday for Page, where he will take charge of a newspaper during the sickness of the editor. Page people will find Mr. Garwood a pleasant man to meet, and well qualified by experience and ambition to take the regular editor's chair.

Piece Leader: The souvenir edition of the Wayne Democrat and Herald was surely a beauty, and the enterprising editors of those papers are to be congratulated on their efforts. It is the best edition by far that we have seen this year.

Norfolk Daily News, July 20: Judge E. P. Weatherly who has been sequestered in bankruptcy for many years, was reappointed to that position for the ensuing year beginning August 1, according to an order received in the deputy clerk's office in the federal building today. The new order adds Wayne, Cedar, Dixon, and Dakota counties to Judge Weatherly's district.

Laurel Advocate: At the congregational meeting of the Presbyterian church Tuesday evening the trustees reported having effected a satisfactory settlement with the insurance companies for the recent damage by fire to the church building. It was decided to raise the building, put in a basement and heating plant at the same time the repairs are made of the damaged portion—provided sufficient funds can be raised, and there was no doubt expressed but that the funds would be forthcoming.

Dr. Bixby in Lincoln Journal: July 2, Editor E. W. Huse of the Wayne Herald issued a souvenir supplement to his paper which rather puts it over anything of the kind we have seen for many days. It contains sixty pages of valuable information concerning the county, the city of Wayne, the state normal at that place, and the brainy teachers who are making it go. It tells of the farm and manufacturing industries, the good things enjoyed by the people, and the things they are striving for. In short, it is a splendid advertisement of Wayne county.

YOUNG WOMEN DOING WORK OF MEN ON FARM

Norfolk Daily News: That women can do the work of a man, sometimes in a more satisfactory manner, came to light today when a News representative found two young women-school-teachers, aged 18 and 19 years, doing men's work in the harvest field. They not only did the work well, but claim the work which men call hard, is fun for them.

Several days ago when the owner of the Hille farm, northwest of town, was unable to secure satisfactory men to drive four horses and operate a self binder in his fine oats field, he called on Miss Sarah Bennett, teacher in district No. 3. He employed her for $2 a day—the same price paid to the experienced men harvesters. Miss Bennett accepted the position and is now hard at work driving the four horses and operating the machine which cuts, binds and deposits bundles of oats in the stubble field. Behind her work the men, who shock the oats.

On another farm, where her father is putting up alfalfa, Miss Eunice Bennett, aged 18, sister to Miss Sarah, was found by the News man, operating a mower. She too was well able to drive the horses. Miss Eunice is also a school teacher and was employed in the Henry Uecker district last year.

When the first cutting of a bumper alfalfa crop was started on the farm adjoining that of the Bennett place, Misses Eunice and Sarah had practically entire charge of harvesting several big fields of the hay. One of the girls managed the hay elevator, while another worked on the hay rake or mower. The work of the two young school teachers has attracted wide admiration among the farmers northwest of town.

If farm demonstrators are bringing desirable results to other counties, why wouldn't one help Wayne county? Wouldn't it pay to find out?

The character of the successor to the departed and scorned Huerta remains to be found out. It may not be possible from available native supply to select a president of Mexico who is sufficiently civilized to make an improvement in the affairs of that country.

The present committee of the Commercial club will soon wink out of its term having expired. The committee has rendered some desirable service during the past year, but avoided doing so much that nothing would be left for the new committee to accomplish. We would suggest to a new committee the advisability of extending the commercial organization to include farmers in the neighboring territory, and have monthly meetings of the entire club, thus permitting discussion of questions of vital interest to town and country alike. Paving Main street, strings of electroliners, and a few new buildings for the business district may well occupy attention during the coming year.

The party convention lacks the interest which was felt when it was the source of nominations. The old-time convention was the center of intense anxiety, and was full of excitement. The importance of the session made it necessary to see that everyone admitted as a delegate had proper credentials and was qualified to participate. Care was taken to distribute nominees in the interest of party harmony and strength. Biting speeches were made, and burning resolutions adopted.

Comparison, present conventions are mild and lamb-like. Candidates do not look to conventions, but battle for nominations in the primaries. All the nominees may live at one point. Geographical distribution is impossible.

The Gage county republican convention which was held at Beatrice this week, listened to speeches by party leaders, and adopted a set of resolutions that, though without fireworks, left no doubt of the prevailing quality of republicanism. The resolutions concluded by saying:

"We call upon all patriotic citizens to lay aside and forget their differences of minor issues, and rally under the standard of the republican party, which now as always stands for genuine patriotism, for sound and substantial progress, for the highest citizenship and statesmanship, for the protection and prosperity of the American farmer, manufacturer and laborer, and which believes in legislation in the interests of their own people instead of foreign competitors."

Convention resolutions lack the force and red fire which characterized them in the old days when people were more bitterly prejudiced. Few men agree exactly on anything, and nearly everyone has learned to tolerate—even treat with respect—the holding of contrary beliefs. Resolutions adopted by Saturday's conventions were brief and gentle, free from rancor and dynamic, free from fulsome praise and gushing superlatives. In the old-time county convention, the making of resolutions was placed in charge of two or three literate volucrarians, and the result was a series of flaming eruptions that stirred the blood, aroused enthusiasm, and excited prejudice. Old-time resolutions used one party with pride and the other with alarm, lauding one to the skies, and denouncing the other—suggested only to associate with the "imps of methermost darkness." But progress to higher standards of thinking has developed tolerance and moderation.

W. J. Bryan, secretary of state, has finally discovered that women's suffrage is right, and has issued a statement endorsing the movement in that direction. In conclusion, Mr.

Bryan says: "Politics will not suffer by woman's entrance into it. If the political world has grown more pure in spite of the evil influences that have operated to debauch it, will not be polluted by the presence and participation of woman. Neither should we doubt that woman can be trusted with the ballot. She has proven herself equal to every responsibility imposed upon her. She will not fail society in this emergency. Let her vote! And may that discernment which has through the ages ever enabled her to quickly grasp great truths—made her the last at the cross and the first at the sanctuary—direct her in the discharge of her political duties as to add new glories to her and through her still further bless our race."

How Absinth is Made.
 An old Moor to whom a trader tried to explain the gaudy nature of the order forbidding the sale of absinth in Morocco took a wholly unexpected attitude.

"Absinth," he said, "is an invention of the evil one. On its roots he pours the blood of a peacock; then when the leaves begin to grow he sprinkles them with the blood of a monkey; then he dips the stalks in the blood of a bear; lastly he mingles with the juice of the plant the blood of a pig."

"So that when the faithful drinks absinth at the first glass his appetite awakes, and he arises proud as a peacock; at the second glass he becomes excited and pestilence like a monkey; at the third he becomes quarrelsome and spiteful, like a bear; at the fourth he becomes besotted and falls to the earth and rolls like a log in the mire."

Italy's Deep Blue Skies.
 The sky of Italy is noted for its clearness. The blue is deeper than because the dust there is finer than in other northern countries, but because in the countries of the north, due to the greater coolness of the air, the vapor more readily condenses upon the dust particles. The dust particles thus become larger and consequently not so effective in turning back the blue rays of light, but others are produced, and a gray effect is produced. In a single location the blue of the sky may appear bluer at one time than another. The sky is often cloudy and is very blue, then a white cumulus cloud is outpuffed against it. The sky is then a deep white, by contrast with the brilliant white. After a shower, when the lower stratum of air is washed of its coarse dust particles, a deeper and purer blue is the result.

The Polar Star.
 As is well known to most readers, the north star marks the point in the stars to which the stars of the northern star point. But the poles have another motion called "precession" (much like the secondary motion of a spinning top), by which the stars changing poles describe a big circle in the sky, reaching from the present north star across to Vega. It requires over 25,000 years to complete, and during that time numerous stars will in turn inherit the title of north star. Eleven thousand years hence the star will fall to Vega, and a most worthy holder of that most important position in the skies he will be. When that time comes Polaris will be almost forgotten.—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

Its Only Guide.
 New diseases or new cures are always the main thing in the reading public. Therefore an enthusiastic reporter believed a story lay in waiting because of a rumor that germs of a new disease had been discovered. He located the doctor responsible for the find and questioned him.
 "What do you want?" he asked, "do these germs appear?"
 The doctor smiled. "You needn't be afraid," he said. "This is to be a fashionable disease and will appear only in the gurls with money."—New York Tribune.

The Price of a Kid.
 Cordova is full of fun, says C. Bogus Luffmann in his "Quiet Days in Spain," and in the leisurely pace of life there the observer has time to see and appreciate all of it.

In the market one day a spongy man with a big apron and a pompous manner was offering half of a small bird to a woman for a peseta. She objected that it was very tiny, and he fairly smothered her with "Woman! Do you want half a bull for a response?"

Which?
 Is woman more interesting than man, or the reverse? Man varies more, he has more genius in exceptional individuals, and less of genius-like insight in the average person. He competes; woman endures. He builds extensives, she at home. He fights; she preserves. One worthless opinion is that men are more interesting than women, but that woman is more interesting than man.—Harper's Weekly.

1. "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills for kidney backache, weak kidneys, bladder troubles, and urinary disorders. This mass of proof includes over 30,000 recommendations. Wayne is no exception. Here is one of the Wayne cases.

2. "My wife was troubled by a heavy, dull ache through my kidneys and back and I also had dizzy spells and headaches. The kidney secretions were unnatural and plainly showed that my kidneys need attention. Doan's Kidney Pills drove away the pain in my back and anted up my system. Since then whenever I have felt in need of a kidney medicine, I have taken Doan's Kidney Pills and they have relieved me. It gives me pleasure to see the public statement it gave before endorsing Doan's Kidney Pills."

I BELIEVE that I am right in the conclusion that thinking people do not want bargain glasses any more than they would want nature to endow them with a bargain pair of eyes. My work is and always will be just as good as I know how to make it. I must give satisfaction in order that my business may grow. If you will favor me with your patronage, I will see to it that you pay only a fair price and I will also promise you satisfaction, so much so that you will be perfectly willing to recommend my store as a safe and reliable place for your friends to come in search for eye help. I Do Nothing But Test Eyes AND MAKE GLASSES Repairing of all Kinds Done. R. N. DONAHE EXCLUSIVE OPTICAL STORE Business is good; there is a reason.

These pictures of father and mother—quaint in their old-fashioned clothes, are all the more precious because they recall the father and mother of your childhood. Some day your photograph will be just as precious to others. ATCHISON GLOBE SIGHTS. A man who thinks little boys are all little devils is getting old. The man who is a patriot for profit does the most flag waving. There are regions so dull that a joint debate will drag a crowd. What shall it profiteth a man to make much kale if he doesn't spend it? Unless he votes a straight ticket, part of a man's voting is against somebody. After a man passes thirty-five he doesn't regard a birthday as anything to celebrate. A burglar lives and learns that breaking into a house is easier than breaking out of prison. A married woman soon learns that a fuss brings better results in the gift line than an anniversary. This is a money-spending age but all of our poverty is blamed onto the soulless corporations. When a woman roars over the newest fashions, instead of raving over them, it signifies she is growing old. Considering the number of people who are fat men, built for sitting down rather than sprinting, comparatively few crooks get away. Thrift, properly directed, is a great virtue and provides an umbrella for a rainy day and sound sleep and longevity and other desirable devices and destinations. But some overlook it, never have any fun nor friends and finally die of overwork or dry rot, and there is great rejoicing among the lawyers and their kin. After the tightwad corners all the cash in sight, he learns too late that money can't buy everything; nor anything unless he spends it, and that also hurts.

"I would feel bloated and have headache and belching after eating. I also suffered from constipation. THE WEEK WITH THE CHURCHES

Presbyterian Church. (Rev. Alexander Corkey, Pastor.) Services will be held in the Presbyterian church as usual. Morning service at 10:30 to be followed by Sunday school at 12 m. Rev. Robert Corkey will preach.

There will be an ice cream social on church lawn Friday evening, beginning at 8 o'clock. Dr. Corkey will give a talk, and a band will furnish music. All are invited to come and enjoy the evening.

Evangelist, Pastor. To the Members and Friends of the First Presbyterian Church in Wayne:

Dear Collaborers in God's Kingdom: I have asked my brother to read you this letter from the pulpit, with genuine regret that I have to say to you that the recent generous offer made to me by Bellevue college has made it apparent to me that my work in Wayne is over. When I left for my leave of absence last month, I had fully intended to round out my five years in Wayne, and I looked forward to my return in the fall as a time when we would begin a far-reaching forward movement in Wayne. However, man proposes and God disposes.

During my years of labor among you I have had great joy in seeing the impressive signs of God's dealings with the souls of men. This has been evidenced in the large number of honorable citizens in Wayne who now profess a faith in Jesus Christ as Lord, and also in the great increase in the benevolent offerings of the church. Of course, the real results of my years of preaching and practicing the gospel of Christ among you, will be known until the great day, when I hope I shall not be ashamed.

In order that I may take up the responsible task to which I believe God's providence has called me at Bellevue, I have accepted my resignation as pastor in the hands of the session of the church, the resignation to take effect on October 1, next. In taking this action, I regret exceedingly to sever my pleasant associations with you all and leave Wayne. I have been treated royally by you all, and my poor efforts in the pulpit, on the platform, and with the pen have been received by you in a most kindly way, which I will appreciate as long as I live.

During my stay among you I have coveted no man's silver or gold, or lands, but I have coveted a place in your hearts as a man and a Christian. If only it can be said that my life has been the even smallest way toward the love of Jesus Christ, I am satisfied.

I thank you personally for your kindness to me and my family. Were it possible, I should like to write to each member of the church a personal letter of appreciation. Under new leadership, a splendid future awaits you. The whole church of God is awakening in our land to new energy in the big task of setting up God's kingdom on earth and saving men and women from sin here and there. This is the hope of Christians in all the churches to take hold of God with a new sense of responsibility, and a new sense of power.

I commend to your prayers and hearts my brother and his wife as they minister among you in my place. Like his seven brothers, he can confidently assert, "I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ."

Hoping you will not forget me in years to come, and praying God's blessing on you and yours, I am, Your servant in Christ, Alexander Corkey.

St. Paul's Lutheran Church. (Rev. E. B. Blessing, Pastor.) Sunday school every Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. The subject of the lesson will be "The Pounds and the Talents," Luke xii, 11-27. Every Sunday school scholar should be present next Sunday to attend the program in regard to the Sunday school picnic.

Services every Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. The subject of the sermon will be, "Let Us Draw Near," Heb. x, 22. When Jesus Christ came to earth, he did not come to be a stranger, but to be his friend, as he says, "The son of man came to seek and to save that which was lost." In the wonderful discourse of Christ, in the tenth chapter of St. John, he brings out this near relation under the name of a shepherd and his sheep, and says, "I am the good shepherd, and I know my own, and my own know me." Because Christ came to be man's friend, he often spoke to his hearers and said, "Follow me." He wished a personal contact, a closer relation. He instituted the Lord's supper, that his faithful ones could come to him, and know him as a friend that sticketh closer than a brother; thus, we can well heed the words of the writer of the Hebrews, "Let us draw near with true hearts."

The Lord's supper will be celebrated at the morning service. This will be the last communion service in the synodical year. As there are only four communion services during the year, every member should make it a point to be present. Do not forget the offering for benevolence. "God loveth a cheerful giver."

The Ladies' Aid society met at the home of Mrs. M. J. Juhl last Thursday. A very pleasant afternoon was spent. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Harry McMillan, on Wednesday, August 5.

The church and Sunday school picnic will be held in Bressler's grove, July 29.

Choir rehearsal every Tuesday evening at the church. Evening service will be held on the court-house lawn at 7 o'clock. A cordial invitation is extended to all who wish to worship with us.

Methodist Church.

(Rev. C. L. Meyers, Pastor.) Sunday school picnic coming. The fourth quarterly conference was held last Tuesday evening.

Some additional teachers were selected for the Sunday school at the board meeting Monday evening. The offering Sunday morning was not large enough to cover the apportionment.

Midweek prayer meeting on Wednesday of very special importance. Better meet with us.

Class meeting will be held in the league room at the usual hour.

When several people club together, the expense for the whole assembly vacation may be reduced to $25. Can you go anywhere else, stay so long, and get so much good as at Epworth League park?

Epworth league will continue to meet in the park Sunday evenings. You are requested to remain.

Miss Grace Elder was the first with a can of fruit for the hospital. Services of special interest to the Juniors next Sunday afternoon.

Annual conference will meet September 16 to 19. If any of the subscribers to the church notices know themselves not to be paid up, please help the treasurer.

If you have a church letter, bring it next Sunday morning. We need it.

Some new names were added to the Junior roll last Sunday.

First Baptist Church.

(Rev. B. P. Richardson, Pastor) Thirty boys and girls held their first communion last Sunday. Did your child hear it?

Seventy people were present at the young people's meeting Sunday evening. It was an inspiration to be there. Come next Sunday, after Clarence Linton will lead the meeting.

"Bobby Higgins' Sermon" will be the story-sermon for Sunday morning.

"Sowing and Reaping" will be the subject of the regular Sunday evening sermon. Many of the great texts of the bible have lost their power over our lives because they have become so common to us. We shall attempt to give new life to the great text.

Next week the pastor has planned to leave for his vacation. The regular services of the church will be continued during his absence.

The young people's ice cream social last Sunday evening was a decided success. A delightful spirit of cooperation exists among the young people. They are proving themselves an efficient factor in the church work and life.

Remember the Northeastern Baptist association meets this year at Tilden, August 28-30. We shall soon select our delegates. Let us be planning to get away long enough to attend.

Attend one of our interesting prayer meetings. It will be like a tonic to your spiritual life.

German Lutheran Church.

(Rev. Rudolph Moehring, Pastor.) Please don't forget that the president of our district, Rev. Fr. Wupper, D. D., will be here next Sunday morning, and will preach at 11 o'clock.

Sunday school at 10 a. m., as usual.

Starrs' Schoolhouse.

Rev. B. P. Richardson will hold preaching services at 3 p. m. Sunday school at 2 p. m.
