A Chance of a Life Time

And The Opportunity of This Age

For any Man, Father and Son, or Sons, or Two Brothers, to get a fine 400 acre farm and home, all in one body, almost level, just sloping enough for good drainage, close to Omaha and South Omaha, now second largest live stock and grain market in the United States.

DESCRIPTION

There is a very good eight- or nine-room house, good solid stone foundation from bottom of cellar clear up to the house, making a good cellar under the house.

BARN 64 by 80, with capacity for a hundred tons of hay, which is arranged for a hundred head of stock cattle in the barracks on end, thirty-eight stanchions for cows on side, and twenty-six stalls for horses on the other side; may be fed by simply pushing the hay into the racks from this great now; thus, during the real cold winter months the animal heat from all this stock keeps this barn as warm as many houses heated by a furnace, which means great saving in feed and labor.

Large Convenient Silo

There is an immense silo right at the barn door in the basement of which there is a capacity of from eight to ten tons of bran and shorts for your cows and calves.

A good double corn crib 28 by 32, with large driveway for machinery, hoghouse 12 by 60, henhouse 12 by 30, corn crib 34 by 52 double, and all outbuildings necessary.

Cultivation and Market Facilities

180 acres in cultivation, 65 acres finest hay land in the world, 160 acres in pasture, which has been feeding over one hundred head of cattle, and fifty-three head of mules and horses since early spring, and much of it is now knee high in grass, blue-grass, white and red clover with a good sprinkling of timothy. What does it mean to you, Mr. Farmer and Stockman, to be located so close to South Omaha with such a pasture and ever living spring water, where your commission man can call you on the phone, tell you of that good bunch of thin sheep stuff that you can buy from time to time, and within an hour, and a half can, unload them within a mile and a quarter of your own home and fine pasture, returning them to the yards within sixty days and almost doubling your money?

There is a little spring branch which seldom freezes in the winter; and is always cool and fresh in the summer; never becomes cold enough to hurt, and is not mirey.

The crops will now, as they have in the past, speak for this rich valley soil much louder than all we could say with printers' ink.

Don't wait. Write or Phone today, but better still, get on the train and come and look it over. Remember if not true to our description, we pay your expenses.

Prices and Terms

While we feel that this farm would be cheap at $160 per acre, we are offering it at $120 per acre, half cash and balance on any reasonable terms; would consider good 80 or 120 of equal value in exchange.

If interested at all, drop everything at once and come and investigate this fine valley farm while opportunity knocks at your door.

No better corn, winter wheat, alfalfa, and clover land can be found anywhere.

ANNUAL RECEPTION BY FACULTY MEMBERS STUDENTS ENTERTAINED

Address of Welcome by President, and Response by Student of Senior Class.

On Tuesday evening took place the regular reception that is given by the faculty to the students of the school at the opening of each semester. The students passed down the receiving line and were seated in the chapel, which was tastefully decorated with asters, marigolds and zinnias. An address of welcome was given by President Conn, followed by a witty response from Miss Grace Hedglin, a newly registered student and a member of the present senior class. The musical numbers consisted of two vocal solos by Mrs. E. A. Johnson with piano accompaniment by Izzetta Johnson; a vocal solo by Mrs. Reba Nangle-Jones, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. James Miller; and a vocal selection by Marjorie Kohl with Bessie Crockett as accompanist. Following the program, all repaired to library and science hall, where the remainder of the evening was spent in the playing of games and in a good social time.

NORMAL NOTES

President Conn made a business trip to Omaha Wednesday. Rev. E. P. Richardson was a chapel visitor Friday morning. The chapel exercises Wednesday morning were in charge of the Y. M. C. A.

The Y. W. C. A. enjoyed a hike to the country Saturday afternoon, with picnic dinner in the Von Segger grove.

Mrs. Burrett Wright will have charge of the work in grades one and two until the return of Miss Stocking.

The orchestra under the direction of Professor Coleman has organized with fifteen members. Some new instruments have been purchased, and there is every assurance of a good orchestra this year. The chorus class has also commenced work and promises to be a success both in number and in talent.

A plan of extension work was presented by President Conn at the first meeting of the faculty for this year, which was held on Monday afternoon. The details have not yet been definitely worked out, but the plan as submitted by President Dick of the Kearney normal is substantially as follows: At any convenient place where ten or more teachers will assemble on a Saturday afternoon, asking for some special subjects, a member or members of the faculty will meet them, outline the work, and give all possible assistance. After careful study, covering sufficient time, examinations will be given at the school conducting the extension work. In this way, the benefits of normal training may be carried to many more teachers than at present, and much help and inspiration may be given, especially to the rural school teachers who today are being neglected in teacher-training.

Built to Meet Your Personal Demands

No one had believed it possible to produce a heater that would burn hard coal, soft coal, and wood perfectly, in the same stove, until the ROUND OAK FOLKS produced their masterpiece—the "Double Burner." This vital step in advance represents years of investigation and two generations of stove builders' efforts. In using soft coal, the Double Hot Blast burns the smoke, soot, and gas, producing a clear, bright flame, develops all the heat from the fuel, and the large radiating body of the heater delivers it direct into your rooms, not out of the chimney. The patented Cone-Center Grate prevents the forming of clinkers and the seamless, one-piece ash pit, and doors ground on, give assurance of perfect control for life. The Double Fire Pot not only prevents the outside one burning red and unsightly, and from drawing away from the base, thereby leaking air under the fire, but forms a deep and narrow fire pot essential in the economical burning of hard coal. In selecting this specialty, we did not purchase a stove to sell at a price, but secured the agency for the "all fuel" heater that produces the maximum of results at the minimum cost of upkeep, and last a lifetime. Investigate! Have one delivered to your home this season.

lum is more savage. It tears into the flesh in an unmodified manner, and kicks around annoyingly after it strikes. But it seems at this distance, if we were going to be shot, we would not prefer one bullet above another, will be made out of whether it was in exact harmony with the approved fashion or not.

With the good resolution of the newly installed executive committee of the Commercial club, we are encouraged to believe unexampled progress will be made the year knitting together more closely and firmly the ties between city and country; and working out successfully plans for mutual development and benefit. We look for most towns to drift—bacial. An occasional exception, due to advantage and commercial enterprise, will be found. Wayne's good starts—its advantages in all things contributing to a big, healthy town—should make it an exception to the rule. The commercial club committee fully realizes the situation and following practical lines, will make a determined push for a bigger, busier, and better Wayne.

One of the specially deserving candidates before the people at this time is W. L. Minor who has been nominated at the late primary for state auditor on the republican ticket. Most of the candidates for state offices come from eastern Nebraska. Mr. Minor is an exception to the rule. His home is in Scotts Bluff county, where he has resided for nearly 15 years ago, and has since proved up on it. Prior to going to Lincoln to become deputy under the present auditor, Mr. Minor was engaged in the mercantile business at Morrill, and was postmaster at that place. When the auditor desired to run for congress in the Second district, Mr. Minor announced his candidacy for auditor, and the result was that he received a majority of over 12,000 in the primary. He is affable, honest, and capable, and ought to win with a big majority in the election in November.

Good Manufacturing!

If you know where to look, you will find on the outside of every case of Safe Home matches certain numbers, letters or symbols. To you these mean nothing. To us they mean a very great deal. They tell us many things, and enable us to determine:

(1) When the matches were made—year, month, day and hour.
(2) Where they were made—in which of five factories and on which of several hundred machines!
(3) The temperature and humidity in the air at the time of manufacture!
(4) The names of the men and women who made them!

Does this impress you as good manufacturing? Or doesn't it? We refer to it, not in a spirit of boastfulness, but to give you an idea of the extraordinary care that marks every step in the making of Safe Home matches.

The experiments and tests which we have made, in an honest effort to produce a perfect match, have cost us about a quarter of a million dollars. Why did we do all this research work? Because it is good business—because, in the long run, it will pay.

We do not ask you to pay more money for matches than you have been paying—merely to see that you get better matches for what you do pay. This you can do if you ask for Safe Home matches by name.

All grocers. Five cents a box.

WAKEFIELD PAPER'S ARTICLE ON UNION

A contributor to the Wakefield Republican of September 10 expresses that a farmer friend recently at Wakefield, the speaker who was hosting for the organization of a Farmers' Cooperative union, said nothing to which anyone could take exception but that the contents of papers distributed at the close of the meeting were in accord with the speech. The contributor who says he is a friend of farmers and townsmen alike, says this in part:

"In accordance with literature, spread broadcast, the union's first efforts are for the home market. In the letter was written in German and left unsealed in order that it might pass the censor, so I examined it before it was finally allowed to go forward."

"This in fact, our own home merchant, and banker, who have worked continuously for the upbuilding of the country at large, and the churches, are placed as the first victims, both of whom are the most in need—when accommodations become the greatest blessing to the poor and middle classes."

"But on the other hand, if the merchant and banker, who are your closest friends in need are the greatest evil to the farmers' happiness, by all means be fair, and have your main platform speakers condemn them—that the old as well as the new merchant and banker can stop taking care of the public's wants and best needs. If your home town is a nuisance and a drawback to prosperity, let's make short work of it and put them to farming."

"The writer was told by farmers themselves that they will save from three to six cents per sack on sugar in the car if they brought their white back at Wakefield, and the car of posts was nothing saved worth while, and proved less than satisfactory all around. The merchant could perhaps duplicate the same good at the same price, or less, if being asked to place a cash figure transaction by the carload."

"Wakefield has good merchants who have dealt out their wares to customers for these fifteen or thirty years, who have not lived higher, and it would be a thing most out of the question for the best fixed of the whole bunch, after closing out his business, selling his home (that is, if he could sell it at all when this change shall take place) and could pay out 100 acres of land at prevailing prices, more or less stock the farm for active farming operations."

"This fact is not only true in Wakefield, but pick any village or town in any part of the state, and show us where there is a man who does not have his home in the business. That is, unless he has dealt in lands or farming operations around his home town or elsewhere. Taken all in all, the merchant's profit goes for living and service rendered, and if his services are best avoided and of no good to the farmer, it is the farmer's duty to cut him out."

"We have wealthy farmers around Wakefield who arrived here on tickets from foreign lands, paid for by friends in this country, that today own 100 and 200 acres of land, and have money in the bank and only fifteen to twenty-five years since they landed here, and every merchant is proud of him and wants him to keep on prospering."

"The writer of this article has an complaint to make of our farmers—organizing into unions, for union there's strength—but merchants, bankers and lawyers ought to be eligible to membership as well, as farmers are not only eligible, but urged, to become members of village, city or town commercial clubs. Every town in this country wants farmers as members of their commercial clubs. These clubs are nothing more or less than for the purpose of promoting the best interests to town, country, and community. And if Farmers' Cooperative union means being wined for the greatest number of people, why not let merchants, bankers, and lawyers become members? Let's be fair and just, and work together against evil if there is anything that can be helped."

OTTO VOGET WRITES HOME FROM GERMANY

Norfolk Daily News, Sept. 19: Germany is provisioned for at least one year and the German and military leaders are confident of victory in the present war, according to a letter sent to the News by Otto A. Voget who, with his mother, is visiting his sister at Heidenau, near Dresden, Germany. The letter was written in German and left unsealed in order that it might pass the censor, so I examined it before it was finally allowed to go forward.

"I must write in German regarding the European war in order that I may have no trouble with the authorities," writes Mr. Voget. "I had great success with my concert company, but our program came to a sudden end in Geneva, Switzerland when the war was declared. We returned here to Heidenau, but it was a terrible journey. We were forced to travel over the French-Swiss frontier, because we are foreigners. I cannot describe the great discipline of these German soldiers."

"Germany, from my point of view, is in a very healthy condition in military respects. The soldiers and all the inhabitants have enough provisions to last them one full year. In Russia, England and France, the conditions are different. Russia, I understand, is short of provisions at this time and England has no reserves left. The soldiers' lives. Up to this writing, Germany has met with great success in the war and the confidence of the soldiers is undiminished."

"Americans are treated very well in Germany, but immediately after the declaration of war between England and Germany, the English residents in Germany had much trouble, because the Germans claim the English started the trouble. The German military movement, after the war declaration, was enormous."

"The first meeting of the Wayne County Teachers' Association in the present year was held at the high school building on Saturday, October 12. The morning session was called to order by County Superintendent Charlotte White, and the discussion during the morning session was on the work in American history. Mr. Hund gave a talk on the various proofs of the Northmen in America. The constitution of the association provides that the county superintendent shall act as president. Mr. Mason was elected vice president, and Elmer Lundberg secretary and treasurer. Miss Mamie Wallace, Mr. Howard and Mr. Gandy were appointed as the committee on programs for the ensuing year. The afternoon session was devoted to a study of 'School Interests and Duties,' under the leadership of Mr. Mason, and an interesting discussion of the subject of 'Pennmanship' by Messrs. Husted, Gandy, Howard, and Miss White.

THE EARLY DAYS IN TWO COUNTIES.

From the Wayne Herald, October 4, 1888:

The union labor convention called for last Thursday failed to meet. At the Methodist parsonage on the evening of October 2, Rev. William Gorman performed the ceremony that united in marriage Mr. Charles O'Sellon and Miss Maggie McNeill, both of Wayne county.

On Wednesday, September 23 at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Bennett, of Breanna precinct, took place the marriage of Mr. Perry F. Beneshoff and Miss Beulah Bennett, Rev. William Gorman officiating.

Two hundred and five round-trip tickets to Sioux City have been sold at this place since the corn palace opened.

The October term of the district court for Wayne county will continue its first session on the 26th. There are ninety-five cases on the docket.

From the Ponca Journal, October 10, 1884:

"The Cedar county fair, as we are informed, not as successful as it would have been had good weather prevailed. The rain poured down nearly all the time. The agricultural society of that county has five fair grounds, two near near Hartington, and it is to be hoped that with perseverance under difficulties they will come up smiling to the scratch next year, and try to over again.

The matched game of ball which was arranged to take place at Martinsburg today between Ponca and Wakefield clubs, for $100 and championship of northern Nebraska, has been declared off on account of inability to agree upon an umpire. It had been agreed that a gentleman from Omaha would umpire the game, but the Wakefields backed out and wanted an umpire from Hartington.

We were at Dakota City for a few minutes on Monday. Many of its former leaping citizens have moved away, and it is not a very lively town. Within a few years we believe that ancient and honorable town will be numbered among the things which were but are not. Attorney General Fowler removed to the city last week, and we understand that others will soon go to Norfolk or Emerson.

Pygmalion in Real Life.
 In M. J. Witt's "The Real Algoria" is a story told by the author of a sergeant of chasseurs at Batna. It relates to a certain colonel with a passion for feces, who was organizing a fête at Constantine in honor of a "fair ordered."

He ordered from L'Artiste that statues to adorn the park at a lions' expense. In a week, L'Artiste had 10 lions in a park. The sixth day came, but no statues appeared, and there was a stormy interview between the colonel and L'Artiste, who had been "daily and gloriously drunk."

"Be tranquil, mon colonel," said L'Artiste as he pocketed the second 10 lions. "They will be there. And they were the masterpiece of the sculptor's skill, ranged around the park the following evening.

"Oh, how beautiful, how marvellous!" cried the colonel's charming guest as he glanced from one pen of snow white marble to the next. "What men! How admirable!"

"Poor, M. J. Witt," said the interviewer, "I play in five languages—German, French, American, English and Irish."

Poor, M. J. Witt, expected at least a smile at her little joke, but the interviewer wrote it down quite seriously, and in due course the statement appeared in print.

Almost immediately another newspaper chided her, solemnly informing her that American, English and Irish were practically one and the same language. "Miss Lesling," it intoned, "should know better than make a mistake like this!"

A Lost Joker.
 Soon after Miss Mangle Lesling, the actress, went to Germany she was interviewed by the representative of a Berlin newspaper. The interviewer complimented her on being able to speak her lines in the piece without a trace of a foreign accent.

"Oh," replied Miss Lesling indignantly, "I play in five languages—German, French, American, English and Irish."

Poor, M. J. Witt, expected at least a smile at her little joke, but the interviewer wrote it down quite seriously, and in due course the statement appeared in print.

How Murphy Swam the Torment.
 During army maneuvers in the Philippines Sergeant Murphy with a patrol, keen for getting back to camp and supper, came to a ledge over a mountain torrent with the placard "Destroyed." Much averse to a long detour, the sergeant did a little reconnoitering and, finding the coast apparently clear, led his men to the bridge. Halfway they were caught by a galloping officer: "Hi! Can't you see that this bridge is supposed to be destroyed?" "Sure I do, sir," answered Murphy, "but this detour is supposed to be swimming." "And the passage was safely effected," Springfield Republican.

Something About Rates

As a public service corporation we are servants of the public and as such should discharge our duties efficiently.

To give the most efficient service, the construction, equipment and operation of this Company must conform to the best known practices.

To meet these requirements, the Company must charge such rates as will meet necessary operating expenses, provide adequate reserves for replacing worn-out or obsolete plant, and give a return on the money actually invested in the business that shall be reasonable and sufficient to invite new capital as required for expansion.

Should any earnings be made over and above those necessary to meet these requirements, we feel the amount should be used for the benefit of the public to further increase the efficiency and reliability of the service.

STICKY FEET OF THE FLY.

Why the Germ Laden Feet Constantly Touch the Feet and Shakes Them.

Before the world of science terrified the world with their talk of germs most people thought that the housefly was a harmless creature and very cleanly in his habits, since he seemed to spend a great part of his time in cleaning his legs, but since public opinion has turned against him some explanation has to be found for his apparent cleanliness. Says the Bibliothek der Unterhaltend und des Wissens:

"The fact that the fly can walk on a glazed or slippery perpendicular surface has long been a matter of observation. It was at first thought that the feet, but that, as it is so small that they could enter the pores of the smoothest surface and in that way bear the weight of his body. Later it was found that a sticky fluid was secreted by the feet, which caused them to adhere slightly to the wall. The advent of the microscope has made it possible to observe the precise facts about the fly's unusual powers.

"It is true that the fly's feet secrete a kind of grease, but not in a liquid form. Each leg has from 1,000 to 2,000 minute hairs, and each hair carries a certain amount of this fat. When the fly lights on a smooth surface the whole mass of hairs adheres to it, and each individual hair can be seen under the microscope to have a distinct grease spot, which has a little circular mark in its center made by the hair itself.

"On such sticky feet it is naturally the case that the fly collects a good deal of dust in the course of his daily peregrinations. If he wishes to walk clean he must spend a few hours every day keeping his feet clean of this coating of dirt."

The Wicked Hadn't Come.
 Lady Cardigan is very well known as a talker of good stories. One of them relates to an incident that happened a good many years ago when she was staying with Lord and Lady Wilton at Milton Mowbray. The then Lord Wilton, for various reasons, had gained the title among his tenants of "The Wicked Earl"—in fact, few of the country people ever called him anything else.

One Sunday Lady Cardigan and Lady Wilton went to church, unaccompanied by his lordship. The lady regularly was a very regular attendant. Lady Cardigan saw the verger look at them curiously as they entered the church, and he evidently noticed that Lord Wilton was not with them, but she was scarcely prepared for what followed.

It was the custom in the church to begin the service only after Lord Wilton and his party had arrived, but a few clerical men who were conducting the service that day was not aware of this, and he duly commenced.

"Then the wicked man?" "He's not come yet," the verger promptly interrupted in an agitated whisper.—Pearson's.

Among the Wounded.
 One of the crop of stories that came from West Point with the last graduating class was the remark of a cadet who was precious slow to failure in one of his studies. His father was at the Point for the graduation exercises. The cadet was inclined to attribute his slow progress to the lack of an instructor, in fixing the grades.

"His system of marking's pretty stiff, eh, son?" asked the pater sympathetically.

"Governor," replied the cadet earnestly, "that man's system isn't marked. It's unmarkable."—New York Post.

First Baptist Church. (Rev. B. P. Richardson, Pastor.) Last Sunday was a great day with our church in all its departments. The audiences were large and a splendid spirit of earnestness was manifested in every service. All felt it was worth while to put forth a spiritual effort.

Professor Davies and his choir rendered exceptional service throughout the day. The special program arranged for the opening of the Sunday school service was most fitting. Some think we should have a similar program for the Sunday school frequently.

The spirit of the young people's session was of the right sort. Earnest and enthusiastic, and serious, the young people spoke of their share in helping establish the Lord's kingdom.

We were glad to have with us the orchestra again. It adds very much to the interest of the work. We were especially pleased to have the orchestra help in the regular evening worship. If young people have talents, they should be used and nowhere else can they be used so well as in the service of Jesus Christ.

What we gained last Sunday we don't want to keep, but keep adding to it. There seems no reason why every Sunday should not be a day of deep significance. The divine help always awaits a willing, courageous, and enthusiastic people.

Let us have another good day next Sunday. The subject of the morning sermon will be, "The Rejection of Truth." In the evening, the pastor will preach on "Life's Best Success." One great work of the church is to hold before men and women the true ideals of life.

The Missionary committee will have charge of the young people's meeting Sunday. The subject will be a study of the needs of the American city.

Tomorrow (Friday) afternoon, the Missionary circle will meet with Mrs. Huff. Next week, prayer meeting will be our covenant meeting. Bring something good and take away something good. Are you going to the state convention? St. Paul's Lutheran Church. (Rev. F. B. Blessing, Pastor.) Sunday school every Sunday morning at 10 o'clock. The subject of the lesson will be "Review—Jesus, the Judge of Men," John iii. 14-21. The great divine service every Sunday morning at 11 o'clock and evening at 8 o'clock. The subject of the sermon for next Sunday morning will be "Waiting for God," Isaiah xxxv. 9. It was waiting time for the godly people at the land of Judah, when the prophet Isaiah spoke the words of the text. In his own country, disobedience and sin were bearing the nation on to some terrible doom. In the nation of Judah, the cup of iniquity was getting full, and overwhelming judgments were falling on one after another. Every man who believed in the covenant was placed in an attitude of waiting. This was it waiting time for many in the land of Judah. But going back to the period before Isaiah prophesied, we find that the history of God's chosen people is a series of waitings. Through along and cruel Egyptian bondage, they were called wait the day of their deliverance. Surrounded by perils, they stood at the shores of the Red sea, and were bidden to wait for the salvation of God. Forty years they wandered in the wilderness, waiting to cross into the land of promise. At last, they were forced to hang their harps on the willows in a strange land, waiting the completion of the seventy years of captivity. So today as we look about us at sin and its judgments pronounced upon it, we are not brought into an attitude of waiting for the salvation of the Lord?

The subject of the evening sermon will be "Life's Center and Circumference," Col. iii, 11.

The Ladies Aid society which was just organized, will meet at 7 o'clock in the evening. The subject for next Sunday will be "What Makes the Church Strong?" Matt. xvi, 13-20. All are invited to attend league service.

The Ladies Aid society will meet at the home of Miss Adla Stambaugh Thursday, September 24. All who wish to enter the catechetical class please speak to the pastor as soon as possible.

The Ladies Aid society is extended to all who wish to worship with us.

Home Missions. Mrs. Cotton Mather of Fort Collins, Colo., was the speaker at the Methodist church morning and evening, last Sunday. She represented the Woman's Home Missionary society, and in a very pleasing and forceful manner told of various phases of the work. The origin of the cause were touched upon. The work of the society being carried on among thirty-seven nationalities in the United States makes it in reality a foreign mission task, and one which is necessary for the upbuilding of this country. Even the foreign mission work is more limited and does not yield the benefits and work among foreigners in the United States does. The south is in great need of workers. The ignorance and poverty of the "mountain whites" is truly pitiable. This sort of missionary work has not the romance of the foreign work, and while the foreign missionary is honored as a hero, the worker in the south is ostracized. Mrs. Mather showed the necessity of earnest work in this field. An offering of $14 was made for the funding of the cause. Many new members of the local W. H. M. S. and much enthusiasm in the prosecution of its work should be the result of Mrs. Mather's visit.

THE TANGO COON. One of the sensational features in Terry's Uncle Tom's Cabin company's parade that is creating a riotous applause wherever seen at the exhibition of a tango dance performed by a specially constructed mechanical toy. Everyone is talking of the tango and its many variations that have been introduced to that popular class of entertainments art, but to witness the production of it, a multitude of steps, one should not miss this exhibition which is one of the special attractions in the Terry shows parade this season. It is highly amusing, a wonder, a novelty in mechanical construction, and a highly interesting exhibit. In Wayne, October 8. A woman's big feet are the largest ever seen in the world.
