

FORMER WAYNE MAN IN FATAL AUTO RIDE

OSCAR WAMBERG KILLED Thrown Under Fast Running Auto- mobile on Road Between Hoskins and Norfolk.

Oscar Wamberg who lived in Wayne for a number of years, having been engaged in the meat market and live stock buying business at this place, removing from Norfolk to Norfolk, was instantly killed in an automobile accident while returning home from Hoskins Monday night. Mr. Wamberg had many friends in Wayne who regret to hear of his death.

News gives the following account of the fatal accident:

Oscar C. Wamberg, of Norfolk, aged 30, was killed shortly before 9 o'clock Monday night when his five-passenger automobile struck and killed Mrs. F. J. Hoskins, Norfolk road, five miles north and a half mile east of town. George Steinmetz who was riding with Wamberg, was thrown twenty feet clear of the wreck and escaped with a few slight bruises.

Wamberg's wreck was broken, and his skull was fractured. He leaves a wife and three children.

When the car turned over, after striking a culvert, Wamberg, was thrown under the running gear of the wheel. The edge of the seat struck his neck and head. He was driving at a fast rate of speed when the accident occurred. He did not see the culvert, and Steinmetz's efforts to "take the wheel" from him appeared to have no effect.

With the big car into a four-foot ditch on the side of the road.

Car Turns Turtle.

The car dashed madly along the ditch, one set of wheels on the ground, the other set in the ditch. When the culvert was reached, one of the tires burst and the car, under a terrific bang, awakening Adam Koch, a farmer living on the Ostrick farm. Then the car dashed on for a few feet and leaped into the air, turning turtle.

When Steinmetz picked himself up, he was dazed, but he quickly ran back to the wreck, and had difficulty in locating Wamberg under the car.

His efforts to raise the car were unsuccessful, and when he found his companion, he discovered that life was extinct. Hoping that he might be mistaken, Steinmetz rushed to the Koch farm, where he summoned Mr. Koch. Then P. J. Rasch, another farmer, appeared on the scene and the three men were unable to lift the car from the body.

Steinmetz was the only eyewitness to the accident. This officer searched the Koch farm, where he was summoned by Mr. Koch. Then P. J. Rasch, another farmer, appeared on the scene and the three men were unable to lift the car from the body.

Steinmetz was the only eyewitness to the accident. This officer searched the Koch farm, where he was summoned by Mr. Koch. Then P. J. Rasch, another farmer, appeared on the scene and the three men were unable to lift the car from the body.

It happened so quickly, I cannot say in how long a time," said Steinmetz. "I asked Wamberg to leave Hoskins earlier, but he did not leave until 8 o'clock. We were going at a fast rate of speed. It was dark, and it was hard to see through the street lights. We were approaching a culvert, but he did not seem to see it. I tried to take the wheel from him, but before I knew it we were in the ditch. Then we hit the culvert, and a second wheel was shot into the air. I ran to the car and found Oscar underneath. I knew he was dead, and then I ran to the farmhouse and asked them to telephone the Norfolk police."

Collision Last Month.

Wamberg has lived in Norfolk for some years. He was in the stock-buying business, purchasing hogs and cattle for local butchers. Occasionally he worked at the Fair Store stock buying. He made frequent trips to all parts of the country, on hog buying expeditions. It was one of these trips that took him to Wayne county Monday afternoon.

His home is in the L. Schenck east of Norfolk. He was on his route when the accident occurred.

About a month ago, Wamberg was in a head-on collision with I. T. Cook's automobile on Norfolk avenue and Fourth street. Some time ago it was reported on his car he was seriously hurt.

Earl Ray who had promised to return with Wamberg from Hoskins, Monday night, believes his life was saved by his sudden decision to come home on a train.

A peculiar phase of the automobile accident is the fact that the automobile had cleared the ditch and culvert before it turned turtle. When it was in the ditch it was in the air, the machine dropped into the middle of the road.

The physician does not believe Wamberg's life could have been saved if the car had been removed at this place. He declared death came instantly.

Stanton, Neb., Oct. 12.—Fred Barr was instantly killed, his father-in-law, Mr. Clark of Bristol, Neb., fatally injured, Mr. Clark injured to the extent of a broken leg, and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Barr and Ed Einkhouse all more or less injured when an automobile missed a fourteen-foot ditch on the highway, Saturday morning. The car struck the bottom of a twelve-foot ditch, pinning the occupants underneath. Harry Barr who was driving had only driven a car three weeks. Mr. Clark died at 10 o'clock this morning.

Fred Barr's neck was broken and his breast crushed in. Mr. Clark was still unconscious this morning, and it was not known whether or not he would live. He had four ribs broken, two of them fractured, one rib and two more places, a broken collar bone and many teeth missing as a result of a fragment of the machine going through his mouth.

About 10 o'clock Saturday night, the party started for the home of Mrs. J. J. Zander, some five miles northeast of Stanton. Where a social dance was being held. En route and within half a mile of their destination, Harry Barr who was driving, missed a culvert some fourteen feet in width, situated in the bend of the road. The auto, striking the opposite bank, turned end for end and tumbled at the same time, pinning the party under it in the bottom of the ditch, which is some twelve feet in depth at this place.

Bright charging four young men, Tree Hansen, Carl Willis, Everett Hogewald and James Crawford, with assault and unlawful assembly for the purpose of visiting the law. A hearing was set for this afternoon, and it is understood it will be postponed until next Tuesday.

It is reported that this action is the first proceeding in a determined effort to stop practice among some young men of the city of going to a molesting and annoying State Normal students.

WORK COMMENCED BY LIVE CONTESTANTS

GREAT SUCCESS EXPECTED Standing of Contestants Announced Next Week—Votes Counted Next Wednesday.

The race for the automobile and other prizes offered by the Herald and Nebraska Farmer in the subscription campaign is now taking on the form of a real contest. Contestants are busy in many parts of the county soliciting subscriptions. There is only one way votes can be secured, and that is on subscriptions to the Herald and Nebraska Farmer. It takes votes to win the prizes, for which the contestants are working.

Everyone in the county will be interested in one of the contestants before the contest is over. Each contestant has a number of friends and each one will make more friends during the campaign. The contestant who has the ability to make friends in large numbers will be the most successful in securing subscriptions.

Each subscription costs for a certain number of votes. One year to the Herald costs for 500 votes, and one year to the Nebraska Farmer costs for 500 votes. The subscription price of the Herald alone is $1.50 per year, but the two papers when combined cost only $1.50. A subscription to the two papers will double the vote, so everyone interested in the success of any contestant should subscribe for the two papers in order to help most.

Standing of Contestants.

The names of the contestants will be announced in the paper next week for the first time. Until then, no one will know how a favorite contestant stands, and no contestant will know who is in the lead. This gives every contestant time to get a good start before the standing is announced, and each contestant should take advantage of this opportunity, and begin work at once in order to have a good showing when the standing is announced next week.

The votes will be counted next Wednesday for the first time and all contestants must have their reports in the office by that time. In giving every contestant time to get a good start before the standing is announced in the paper the following day. Anyone wishing to favor any contestant may do so by handing a subscription to the Herald and requesting votes cast for a favorite contestant. This is not necessary, however, as all contestants are provided with receipt books and copies of the Herald list, so they can request for money paid them, and tell any subscriber just when his or her subscription expires.

Anyone wishing to enter the contest and who are working for prizes as follows:

Clara Wischoff, City.
Grace Lyons, Route 1.
Bennie Ahlens, Altoona.
Mrs. H. C. O'Brien, Carroll.
Elsie Podoll, Hoskins.
Clarence Cochran, Wakefield.
Axel Erlanson, Wakefield.

TEACHERS' MEETING PROVES SUCCESSFUL
FOUR HUNDRED PRESENT
Wayne Educators Take Part in Program—Emerson's Hospital—Appreciated.
The Northeast Nebraska Teachers' association held a very profitable meeting at Emerson Saturday. About four hundred teachers were present, and a spirit of enthusiasm prevailed. Wayne county was well represented, many of the State Normal as well as of the State Normal and city schools being present.
The forenoon was devoted to sectional programs including rural, primary, grammar, and high school sections. Miss Alwine Luers of the State Normal, preside at the primary section, where the subjects for consideration were "The Relation Between the Kindergarten and the Primary Grades," and "The Value of Story-Telling." In the rural section Prof. E. J. Hunter, of the State Normal, read a very inspiring paper on "Manual Training in the Rural Schools," in which he emphasized those things that could be done by rural teachers, especially such things as would create proper ideals toward which to strive.
Most of the time in the grammar section was devoted to the discussion of subject matter and methods of teaching history. The prevailing sentiment seemed to be in favor of new creation of current history, that the child may become acquainted with life as it is.
In the high school section, Prof.

O. R. Bowen presented a very thoughtful paper on the subject of "Vocational Training in the Philippines." He described the effects of such teaching as he observed there while engaged in high school work in the Philippines, and quoted Dr. Paul Monroe of Columbia university as saying, after a careful investigation of the work being done in the Islands, that the school system there is the most nearly ideal considered from the standpoint of the purpose it is meant to serve, of any in the world.
At all meetings of the day, music was provided by the school choruses of Emerson, under the direction of Mrs. Louise Murfice, supervisor of music for Wayne, Wakefield, and Emerson.
The Emerson meeting has always been held by the teachers of this section of the state to be one of the most profitable of the year. Much of the success of the meeting this year was due to the skillful management of Supt. H. M. Eaton of Emerson, and to the citizens of Emerson in providing entertainment for the large number of teachers in attendance.

the partition, so that there is now only one barrel where formerly were two. Fifteen or twenty years ago Old Fuzzy was a terrible slaughterer of game. It seemed to know when a deer or fox or bear was at hand. On such occasions, the gun was as good as a pointer dog. It would wiggle its lock as though conscious of game at hand, and anxious to be discharged. It was generally a faithful piece, though legend tells us that once, when Mr. Clark tried to load it, it got mad and sulked and refused to let the powder and shot go down to the bottom of the barrel, but swelled up as big as a man's leg. Aside from this one instance, it was faithful and straightforward in business, and established an enviable reputation. It killed hundreds of deer, numerous bears and wolves, and myriads of geese and ducks. It was in constant use for fifteen years, and then went into an honorable retirement for the reason there was no more game to kill. On Friday of last week, Old Fuzzy was seen in the stage bound for St. James, Cedar county. A friendly hand-held the ancient musketoon from falling, and it passed out of town and vision to the regret of all who saw it. Thus as we have said, ancient things are passing away from us.

Following were chosen to take charge of the work for the coming year: President, Frank Kloppe; vice president, Mrs. Ernest Elder; secretary and treasurer, Chris Peterson; organist, Mrs. George McEachen; janitor, Jim Smith.

The Sunday school meets at 2 o'clock every Sunday afternoon, and is composed of the members of various churches who live in the vicinity, the school being one of the important organizations promoting the social welfare of the community. Next Sunday there will be a preaching service at the close of the Sunday school, beginning at 3 o'clock, when Rev. Alexander Corkey will preach on the subject, "Our Common Gospel." There will be special music at the preaching service.

From Ponca Journal, October-24, 1884:

On by one, old landmarks pass away, and one by one, ancient relics disappear. The last relic of antiquity to slip out from the vision of the community was Old Fuzzy. Old Fuzzy is a gun. It is a gun which has been owned for many long years by Mr. Clark who brought it from Pennsylvania. It was originally discovered floating in the Allegheny river. Who made it or set it afloat, is a mystery which at this late day cannot be ascertained. Mr. Clark fished it out and when he came west, twenty-five years ago, brought it with him. It was a remarkable and intelligent gun, as when fully appeared afterward, when used by Mr. Clark in his excursions against game or Indians. The gun is long, slim, spindling looking weapon. Originally it was a double-barreled piece, but the lapse of time and cankered effects of rust have eaten through

Plenty of wholesome employment for head and hands is a strong safeguard against wrong-doing on the part of a boy or girl.

Colonel Roosevelt's syndicated articles on the European war appear in the Sunday papers. He still demands a greater navy and a greater standing army as a safeguard for peace—a contention to which few will agree since the example resulting from giant rival militarism beyond the Atlantic. However, it is quite like Roosevelt to insist on the tenableness of a position he has taken, no matter how plainly untenable it is proven to be by the facts.

Civilization in the United States has made a good deal of advancement in the last twenty years. In the black years of 1893-1896, when ten-cent corn was often deemed more valuable for fuel than for market, the eastern capitalist sought out the hard-pressed Nebraska farmer with much solicitude—not to give him relief, however, but to foreclose a mortgage and take his land. Now eastern capitalists, appreciating the conditions in the south where an immense cotton crop finds no market, have started a nation-wide movement to give financial relief. Truly, American civilization has improved.

Col. A. L. Bixby, poet and philosopher of the Lincoln Journal, has surrendered to the women, and is now supporting their plea for the right to vote. While perhaps yet doubting the practicability of women mixing in politics, he sees the simple justice in permitting them to have a direct voice in questions of government, and has lined himself up accordingly. When Bixby says against women's suffrage he was out of harmony with his otherwise sound and progressive attitude toward public policies. He is now quite in accord along all lines.

We could never see the justice in denouncing local candidates of an opposing party unless serious objection on grounds of fitness could be raised and sustained. If there is no difference in qualifications and general merits of candidates, partisans are naturally influenced to vote according to party affiliations. But if there is a difference, party lines are likely to be largely laid aside. The newspaper, with no public principles involved, to aim adverse criticism at the nominee of an opposing party, and to treat with extraordinary praise the nominee of its own party, appears cheap and behind the times, and of course exerts no influence on voters one way or the other. On state and national elections, carrying certain definite public policies, voters may properly be more partisan.

Letters are being sent out from New York, urging forward the movement asking people over the country to buy cotton of the south, and thus prevent sacrifice of the crop. The European war has raised the market for cotton. Each cotton bale, weighing about 500 pounds, is offered for $50, or 10 cents per pound. Cotton has not been sold below 10 cents in eleven years, and it is believed it will go to 15 cents after the war. It seems that southern planters need the money now, and therefore cannot hold the crop for future demand. It would look as though southern planters are not so resourceful as northern farmers. Nebraska farmers have sometimes suffered very short crops, and we do not remember that southern planters themselves in coming to the rescue. However, when the Nebraska farmer loses one crop, he usually has another crop to help him out somewhat. His agriculture is more diversified, and not so much dependent on one thing. But it would appear that southern planters, fortunate in having a big crop, forget temporarily without a market for it could borrow from southern capitalists and secure credit from southern dealers to tide them over. Northern farmers, even when they had little or no crop for security, were thus accommodated.

Four girls in a row usually don't give any of the sidewalk to anyone else. Otherwise, this staid old reporter thinks a good deal of the girls.

More than 64% of all the world's telephones are in the United States. There were, on January 1, 1913, exactly 8,729,592 telephones in operation in the United States and only 4,841,282 in all the rest of the world.

Here are the latest telephone statistics:

Country	Population (Estimated 1913)	Telephones (Jan. 1st, 1913)	% of World's Telephones
United States.....	97,402,000	8,729,592	64.32
Germany.....	66,000,000	1,102,072	9.93
Great Britain.....	46,123,000	728,738	5.44
France.....	38,910,000	253,195	2.18
Sweden.....	5,604,000	17,544	1.60
All other nations.....	11,480,000	2,289,133	16.88

The wonderful telephone development has been built up in the United States because the people here get the most efficient telephone service in the world and get it at a less cost than the people of any other nation.

 The public is hereby notified that there is at least one deadly disease that science has been able to cure in all the stages, and that is Cancer. The Cancer Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical profession. Cancer being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. The Cancer Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and giving to the patient strength by destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The Cancer Cure has so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for full particulars.

DON'T PAY TRIBUTE TO A COMMON STOVE

The scanty, cheerless, unhealthy warmth from your old, poorly-built common heating stove cost you at least twice as much money as the clean, sanitary, luxurious heat with which a Favorite Base Burner would supply your home, upstairs and down, day and night, all winter long, even in blizzard weather.

Favorite Base Burners

not only save from $10 to $20 a year on fuel bills, but also eliminate the injurious ash-dust and coal gases that pour from common stoves into your living rooms, undermining the health of your family, and damaging draperies, walls and furnishings. House-cleaning work is cut in half.

The Favorite is fitted paper-tight—the duty stove that is. The fire is always under complete control. No need to rekindle it during the entire heating season.

The famous oil separated fuel system is the principle reason why so few dollars are necessary to comfortably heat an entire home all winter long.

Why pay the highest possible price for the discomfort, disease, misery and fuel waste of a common stove, when we will sell you a Favorite Base Burner that at one stroke will cut your fuel bills in half and transform your house into a home?

This, says the Sun, the World-Herald enthusiastically agreeing, is a hard saying by a newspaper which pretends to respect Mr. Bryan.

I am saying that Mr. Bryan, for the sake of party regularly, supports candidates for office whom he personally distrusts and disapproves, is an insult to Mr. Bryan, then so be it. We are still compelled to say so.

DINNER TIME.

When dinner is ready, my worries depart, all gone are the sorrows that lacerated my heart; the scent of the victuals brings calmness and peace, the scent of the cabbage, the onions, the grease; my thoughts are of turnips and early low peas, of fat and of judding, spigott and grease. I kick up my heels and I stand on my head, for I am an optimist when 'am fe'. The wogs of my life are a pestilent lot; they keep me excited and worried and hot; the bills I must pay, with no money in sight, the fear that my health isn't perfectly right, the dread of results if I chance to fall sick, the coal I must buy—and they won't sell on tick, the high cost of living that's keeping me broke, the shriveling income that goes up in smoke—such worries are making me much like a wreck, but all are forgotten when dinner's on deck. The dinner gong calls to the succulent roast, the scalloped potatoes, the tea and the toast. The dinner gong sounds and I've no time to waste, I leap over tables and chairs in my haste. Gone, gone the foreboding, the brooding, the dread, for I am an optimist when I am fed!

THE UNHAPPY WARRIOR.

I'm not a happy warrior; I don't find scrapping pleasant, and no one could be sorer when I find trouble present. I do not think it glorious on sporting steeds to ride, and rant around, uproarious, demanding someone's hide. I'm fond of peace and pity, I hope to spend my life far from mix-ups, rioty, ar far from foolish strife. I'd do my share laborious, and draw my humble wage, and those who think war glorious may grind their swords and rage. I'd spend my lifetime happily, good friends with me and kings; alas, some neighbors scrappily insist on mixing things. Because I treat them smilingly, they think I have no spunk; I greet them so beguilingly they climb upon my trunk. They'd faint assault and batter me, because 'tis safe, they say, they'd punch my head and scatter me to make a holiday. And then I sweat them mightily, and lacerate their hair, and black their eyes so vitally they wish they were not there. Their garments are not wearable while peace remains in sight; but, game whiz, I am terrible, if folks must have a fight! Some countries are like men, I guess, they seem so meek and mild, until you prod them—when, I guess, you'll see them running wild!

THE PILGRIMAGE.

Life is a weary road to travel, and hard upon the feet, if we are bound to snarl and cavil at strangers we meet. We ought to howl to everyone passing, and not knock off their ties, for they will answer sate with sassing, or give us smiles for smiles. If you are quarrelsome and scrappy, nor prone to gain a friend, you'll find the pilgrimage unhappy and dismal to the end. But if you wear a smile that's winning a smile eight inches deep, some other chaps who see you grinning, will straightway cease to be contempt. A smile like yours or mine's contagious. Folks, seeing it, will say: "This life can't be so blamed outrageous. If I could only smile that way!" A scowl, alas, is just as catching; afar its influence goes; folks, seeing it, will soon be hatching another brood of woes. This life's a tune that's full of angles, a discord, lame and halt, if we go seeking rows and wrangles, and keep on finding fault. But it's an anthem grand, inspiring, sweet as the angels' song, if we go down the food inquiring who we can help along.

RETIRED.

The man who leads an active life grows weary of the business strife, which long since lost its zest; he yearns to quit the beastly grind, to leave all trafficking behind, and have some ease and rest—"Some day, when I have made my pile," he murmurs, with a longing smile. "I'll sell this blamed old store, and put in my declining days at checker games, with other jays, and labor never more." That time arrives, his store he sells, then for a month he's wearing bells, a gladome tour he has but when an idle month is spent, you will not find a sadder gent than he, from sea to sea. The time hangs heavy on his hands, and slowly flow the hour-glass sands as grease in winter time; each morn he greets with new despair, he finds that leisure is a snare, and idleness a crime. He hangs around the busy mart, with weary eyes and aching heart, and envies those who hump; they're finding life serene and glad, as they pursue the festive road—and he is at the dump. In seven months he ages more than in twice seven years before the rest that he desired, but makes him weaker by much; "Oh, what a chump!" he sighs, in Dutch. "It was who I married!" The wife man never means to quit, while he is competent and fit, and standing on his feet; the rest that comes twist sun and sun, when all your workday tasks are done—that rest alone is sweet.

SPENDING AND SAVING.

Jim Jimpon's drawn a princely wage for seven years of more; he's selling sassafras and sage at Dinky's hoodoo store, a salesman he is. Number One, he has a fetching style, so Dinky pays him lots of mon—and he should have his pile. On Saturday he draws his wage, so big it springs his knees; alas, he scatters it about, as though it grew on trees. By Tuesday noon he's all ways broke, his gorgeous roll he's blown; and so he hunts up Sammy Smoke, and works him for a loan. "This Sammy Smoke, a springald meek, a juniper in the store, he pulls down thirteen plunks a week, and never handled more. He keeps close tab on every buck, each week he salts down five, and while the others cuss their luck, he always seems to thrive. When Jim at last is out and down, as spenders always are, Sam Smoke will junket through the town in his own touring car. It isn't what a fellow earns that makes him poor or rich, it's what the gay high roller burns that dunks him in the ditch. Old age must come to all, you bet, unless we die to soon, and then what odious of regret fills life's late afternoon, if we in poverty are sunk, our last resources spent; how we bewail the vanished plunk that easy came and went!

PEACE.

If things were right, we'd never fight to add to our dominions; the love of peace would never cease to wave its snowy pinions. We would abhor the name of war, detect the sight of battle, with acythe and flail we'd savor the fate where men the sabres rattle. The ages scot, and man's a brute, and culture is a fable, and to our shame, we're much the same as Cain who butchered Abel. Our grace, I fear, is but veneer, and when you chance to scratch it, you find a wretch who longs to trich you three licks with a hatchet. The lessons dire of nations' ire we carelessly are spurning; two thousand years of blood and tears, and yet we're nothing learning! If we were wise, we'd all arise and can the fierce battalions sobus now, and to the plow we'd hitch their pawing stallions. It could be done, peace could be won, if all would work to gain it, with voice and pen, again, again, expound it and explain it. Too long the harps of poet shags have hoisted blood and battle, altered knights who yearn for fights, and all that sort of cattle. Now let us sing of peace, by jing, of home and happy labor, and let us show that spade or hoe is nobler than the sabre.

TIME TO ACT.

Don't Wait for Fatal Stages of Kidney Illness. Profit by Wayne People's Experiences.

Occasional attacks of backache, irregular urination, headaches and dizzy spells are frequent symptoms of kidney disorders. It's an error to neglect these ills. The attacks may pass off for a time, but generally return with greater intensity. Don't delay a minute. Begin taking Doan's Kidney Pills, and keep up their use until the desired results are obtained. Good work in Wayne proves the effectiveness of this great kidney remedy.

Mrs. Ira Hoshan, Wayne, says: "About a year ago, I was confined to my bed for several weeks by an attack of a gripe, and on recovering, found that my kidneys were badly disordered. I suffered intensely from sharp, darting pains across the small of my back, and there was much lameness through my loins. I did not rest well and the kidney secretions were unusually bad. After taking Doan's Kidney Pills a few days, I felt better, and in about three weeks, all symptoms of the trouble disappeared. I have never had a return attack."

Price, 50 cents, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Hoshan had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.—Ad.

Why Not Publish It?
When you want a fact to become generally known, the right way is to publish it. Mrs. Joseph Kallans, Peru, Ind., was troubled with belching, sour stomach, and frequent headaches. She writes: "I feel it my duty to let others who Chamberlain's Tablets have done for me. They have helped my digestion and regulated my bowels. Since using them, I have been entirely well."
