school and Wayne high school resulted in a victory for the latter with a score of 36 to 11. In the handicraft classes of the high school, work is being taken up this second semester with enthusiasm. Present problems are on motifs made up of conventional elements. Some of the pupils are working on monogram problems, some on baskets, and some on advanced problems. In the grades, basketry is being started. The pupils of the fourth and fifth grades are working on red mats and those of the sixth grade on raffia mats. The fourth grade pupils for beginners, show great interest, and have made excellent starts. A new class was organized in the kindergarten last week. The pupils enrolled are: Helen Rundell, Greucille Cross, Lyle Hanson, Herman Eichhoff, Braden Carhart, and Fred Lueters. The boys of the second grade have had perfect attendance and punctuality during the last two weeks. The pupils are memorizing Stevenson's poem entitled "A Good Boy." This week, Miss Welch told them the story "The Hen That Laid the Golden Egg." They are drawing snowflakes. Rev. S. X. Cross addressed the high school last Friday on the subject of "Personal Influence." He defined a martyr as one who tries and fails, a hero as one who tries and succeeds, and a coward as one who tries and does not try at all. The influence of any person that counts is that which he exerts because of what he is. His address was much enjoyed. A girls' council has been organized in the high school for inquiring into and accomplishing the wants of the kindergarten last week. They are making arrangements for inter class games in basketball and perhaps games with other schools. The council includes Louise Bowe, chairman; Mary Lewis, Edna McVicker, Virginia Bowen, and Frances Oman.

Miss Herta Benning and Fred Hahn were married January 22, 1897, at the home of the bride's parents near Wayne, Rev. Mr. Eckhart officiating.

Deputy Grand Master B. A. Jones of Belden installed the following officers of Wayne Lodge 1181, O. O. F.: C. C. Childs, Master; George Fox, V. G.; Charles Warner, Secretary; H. Ley, treasurer; J. R. Hoover, R. S. N. G.; Ira Richards, L. S. N. G.; R. T. Carpenter, W. J. A. Welch, C. E. Vellop, R. S. V. G.; Charles Hollgren, L. S. S.; Mark Stringer, I. G.

C. K. Rash, living ten miles south-west of Wayne, on January 27, 1897, murdered his wife and three young children, killing them with an axe. The crime was discovered by neighbors and Sheriff Reynolds was notified. When the sheriff and assistants arrived, Rash was sitting at the window and made no resistance. He was taken to town and confined in the city jail. Rash had attended revival meetings, and his mind became unbalanced. It was on his return from one of the meetings that the crime was committed.

From the Wayne Herald-Tribune, February 4, 1896:

Miss Carrie Wise entertained a progress euchre party.

W. O. Gamble shipped five cars of broom corn to Chicago.

Market prices: Wheat, 45 cents; corn, 18 cents; oats, 16 cents; potatoes, 15 cents; hogs, 15 cents; eggs, 20 cents; hogs, $3.20.

From Ponca Journal January 25, 1883:

In the senate of this state are eleven farmers, ten lawyers, four merchants, three manufacturers, two bankers, one physician, one hotel-keeper, and finally, to keep them all in order, there is one editor.

The Omaha and Norfolk branches of the railroad are blocked with snow. Every cut is level full, and the trains are having a weary time trying to get through.

On Thursday and Friday, days and nights, a gale from the ice fields of the north, and the mercury, down to 30 degrees below zero, on Saturday night 25 degrees below, and on Sunday night 30 below. While enjoying this refreshing weather, Saturday evening, we received by mail from our old friend, Hon. A. H. Norris, who is now in Spring Garden, Chester, Virginia county, Nebraska, a package containing several samples of mammoth vegetable productions, which were gathered by him on the 14th inst., while resting under the shade of an orange tree.

The name of the Florida production sent us is the Pseudoceras Multum-magistensisobaculum. It is familiarly known in this country by the name of Magnus Floridensis: culstarracaboculum. The pods are about fourteen inches long and shaped like a canoe or coffin. The beans enclosed are an inch long and of a bright scarlet color. They grow on bushes and are for ornament and not for use. When Mr. Norris on the 11th inst. was resting from the heat and burden of the day under Excellent for Stomach Trouble. Chamberlain's Tablets are just fine for stomach trouble," writes Mrs. G. C. Duerum, Arnold, Pa., "I was bothered with this complaint for some time and frequently had bilious attacks. Chamberlain's Tablets afforded me great relief from the first, and since taking one bottle of them I feel like a different person." For sale by all dealers.—Ad.

Dangers of a Cold. Do you know that of all the minor ailments, colds are by far the most dangerous? It is not the colds themselves that you need to fear, but the serious diseases that they so often lead to. For that reason, every cold should be gotten rid of with the least possible delay. To accomplish this, you will find Chamberlain's Cough Remedy of great help to you. It loosens a cold, relieves the lungs, aids expectoration and enables the system to throw off the cold. For sale by all dealers.—Ad.

ORDER TO SHOW CAUSE

In the district court of Wayne county, Nebraska.

In the matter of the application of Ferdinand L. Wollschlager, administrator of the estate of Caroline Wollschlager, deceased, for license to sell real estate.

On this 2nd day of January, 1915, this cause came on for hearing upon the petition, under oath, of Ferdinand L. Wollschlager, administrator of the estate of Caroline Wollschlager, deceased, praying for license to sell the following described real estate of the said Caroline Wollschlager, deceased, to-wit: The north half of section nineteen (N. 1/2 Sec. 19) township twenty-five (Twp. 25) North of Range two (R. 2) east of the 6th P. M., and also to sell the north-west quarter of section twenty (N. W. 1/4 Sec. 20); and the south half of the southeast quarter of section eighteen (S. 1/2 S. 1/4 Sec. 18), township twenty-five (Twp. 25), north of Range two (R. 2) east of the 6th P. M., held under contract of purchase, executed by Caroline Wollschlager as purchaser and Minnie B. Hamilton as vendor, and to sell all right, title, and interest in and to said contract, belonging to the estate of the said Caroline Wollschlager, which said contract is recorded in book seven (7) at page 238 of the Miscellaneous Records in the office of the county clerk of Wayne county, Nebraska. To sell all the above described real state and interest therein for the purpose of paying debts allowed against said estate, and the costs of administration, and for the reason that there is not a sufficient amount of personal property in the possession of said Ferdinand L. Wollschlager, administrator, belonging to said estate to pay its expenses and costs. It is, therefore, ordered that all persons interested in said estate, and in said real estate, appear in open court in the City of Wayne, Wayne county, Nebraska, on the 15th day of February, 1915, at nine (9) o'clock a. m., to show cause, if any there be why said license should not be granted to said Ferdinand L. Wollschlager, administrator, to sell so much of said real estate as was not the homestead of decedent, and the interest of said estate therein, or to sell so much thereof as may be necessary to pay said debts, expenses, and costs. It is further ordered that a copy of this order be served upon all persons interested in said estate and in said real estate, by causing the same to be published once each week for four (4) successive weeks prior to the date of said hearing, in the Wayne Herald, a newspaper printed and published in said Wayne county, Nebraska. ANSON A. WELCH, Judge of the District Court. 174

RING OUT, YE BELLS!

IN every country, where man keeps New Year's the pealing of the bells is the first herald of dawn of the holiday. For fifteen centuries, ever since Bishop Paulinus introduced bells in the ceremonies of the Christian church, the custom has been followed. It grew out of the ancient habit of attracting malignant spirits with chimas so that the joy of the dead into the great beyond should be undisturbed.

The great bell of Moscow, the Liberty bell, John Bunyan's bell, the chimas of Old Church in Philadelphia, the some of the noted "bells" whose brass throats have told the coming of a new year. Modern skill has made the chimas a part of a complicated machine, operated by electricity and played by the ringer much as a pianist sits before "the instrument," but whether operated by old or modern methods the New Year's peals hold their place undiminished in the affections of man.

An Awkward Situation

"Unless I get help," declared the dejected, "this revolving door is going to lose me a prisoner."

"How so?"

"There's a fellow I want to take out of here. But this revolving door has got me blocked. He'll start out if I start in."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Impossible

"There's no use talking, it's impossible to suit that theatrical manager."

"Impossible, my boy. Nothing in this world is impossible."

"Yes, there is. He wants me to write a tragedy with a happy ending."—Detroit Free Press

Natural Result.

"My wife blushed when she found I was trying to read her face."

"Well, people usually do blush when their faces are getting read."—Baltimore American.

Literally.

"Booze always creeps upstairs nights in his stocking feet."

"Aren't all his wife, eh?"

"Scared out of his boots."—Boston Transcript.

The Foolish One.

"I think he is foolish to start buying a motorcar on his salary."

"He's not half so foolish as the agent."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

BATTLES AND RAIN

Absolutely No Physical Relation Exists Between Them.

AN ANCIENT MYTH RIDDLED.

No Amount of Gun or Cannon Fire Would Have Any Appreciable Effect Upon Either the Humidity or the Temperature of the Atmosphere.

"It is one of the extraordinary things of warfare," says a recent writer in Nature's Weekly (London), "that a big battle invariably produces rain."

Once in the early stage ago somebody remarked to somebody else that this frequently occurred after battles. The author of this casual statement was probably not a psychologist, else his conscience would have admonished him for having set afloat in the world the germ of a particularly fatuous fallacy. The evolution of the idea was probably complete long before the age of bronze. Big battles often followed by rain. Big battles invariably produce rain. Even the modern poet is not averse to indulge on the statement. The myth is first crystallized and probably in prehistoric times.

Had we enjoyed the privilege of personal acquaintance with the Neanderthal gentleman just mentioned we should have courteously entreated him to start another ball rolling down the ages, to wit: "A big sneeze is often followed by rain." The infinitesimal increase of the humidity of the atmosphere by an sneeze is a simple and obvious fact, whereas the immaterial amount of water vapor produced by the explosion of a few tons of ammunition can be hinted down only by an excursion into the fields of chemistry.

Since, however, we must put up with the myth in its present form, let us see how it happens that rain has so often followed battles as to suggest to big battlers that there was a physical relation between the one and the other.

First of all, no such relation exists. In the result of the active condensation in the atmosphere, and this is purely a question of humidity and temperature. If the humidity be sufficiently increased, or the temperature sufficiently lowered, condensation is inevitable—provided certain "nuclei" or centers of condensation (solid particles of hygroscopic gases) be present, and outside of the laboratory they always are present.

Now, it is conceivable that a warping army might produce a local rainstorm by setting fire to a great city. If the air be rather moist, a large conflagration, especially one that cumulates clouds above it, "the heated air rises and cools by expansion, just as it does from the sun heated surface a summer day, and condensation results. Under favorable conditions a very big fire might cause a smart shower, or even a thunderstorm, though usually the process goes no further than to form clouds."

A battle, however, cannot be supposed to have any appreciable effect upon either the temperature or the humidity of the air. Two explanations of the alleged production of rain by armies are the other pseudo-scientific. The popular one—viz, that the condensation of moisture is promoted by the concussion due to cannonading, or that the drops already condensed and constituting the clouds are jostled to the same process, with the result that they coalesce and fall as rain. As was once pointed out by Professor Newcomb, the effect of a violent explosion upon a body of moist air a quarter of a mile away is exactly the same as that of the clapping of one's hands upon the moist air of the room in which the experiment is performed—i. e., absolutely nil. Or, again, if we stand in the steam escaping from a kettle, and the steam itself shall not produce a shower, though we jostle the water drops just as the explosion does at a distance of a quarter of a mile.

The pseudo-scientific explanation is that the gases and smoke produced by explosions increase condensation by increasing the number of "nuclei" in the atmosphere. The nucleation of the atmosphere, as affected by ordinary dusts, by hygroscopic gases, by radioactive discharges, by ultra violet light and what not, is still an obscure subject. An outstanding result of recent investigations, however, appears to be that the lower atmosphere normally contains more than the minimum number of nuclei necessary for the process of condensation. That process, therefore, need not be made more active by a mere increase in the number. Thus various and abundant nuclei, in the form of gases, are still of the atmosphere by great manufacturing centers, yet these places do not have a heavier rainfall than the surrounding open country. Pittsburgh, for example, is one of the driest places in Pennsylvania. The suggestion that explosions may produce rain by furnishing nuclei to the atmosphere is, in fact, mere speculation, and probably could be easily refuted by laboratory experiments.—Scientific American.

OUR FIRST MILLIONAIRES.

Only Nineteen of Them in 1845, and Astor Led the List.

Had an income tax law been in effect in this country in the forties of the last century there would have been only one millionaire in New York city who would have paid on an income of $1,000,000, says the New York Times. That was John Jacob Astor, the founder of the present Astor fortune. In 1845 he was credited with $2,000,000. His name heads the list of wealthy citizens named in a pamphlet published in 1845. This was a slightly enlarged edition of a list of rich Manhattan residents which had been issued a few years before.

The entire list contains but nineteen millionaires. Next to Mr. Astor came Stephen Whitney, credited with $10,000,000. He began his fortune in retailing liquors, says the compiler of the 1845 list, but the great impetus to his fortune came from fortunate speculations in cotton and the real estate.

Next to him came William B. Astor, son of John Jacob, with $5,000,000. Then comes Peter G. Stuyvesant with $4,000,000. The old Peter Stuyvesant farm in the vicinity of St. Mark's church and Second avenue, which is owned, and increased enormously in value with the growth of the city, and many collateral members of the family now trace their wealth to the Stuyvesant acres.

SOLDIERS IN THE MAKING.

How Australian Boys Are Trained For Military Service.

Australian boys of twelve years begin a more or less military form of military training. It is an indignant, bappy-go-lucky sort of thing, designed primarily to be of physical advantage. When the lads are fourteen years old a limited military service is severely compulsory, with penalties for evasion and those laid upon employers and parents who interfere with the training, with physical exercises, drill, parades and rifle practice, for four years, whereupon these cadets are passed into the citizen forces.

Four whole day drills are required each year and twelve half day drills and twenty-four night drills. A perfect attendance upon these drills is obligatory—i. e., no excuses, no excuses for being absent, no excuses for being late. In Kalgoorlie, in Western Australia, a great dust storm blowing that night we watched a column of these "little conscripts" march past with rifles and bugles and drums, and they were smart to see—brown uniforms, with tricks of green and white—bright Australian hats—each up at the side in the Australian way. It is no farcical affair.

When we were in Brisbane, in Queensland, a score of recruit soldiers were packed off to the military barracks for ten days of close confinement and drill, and away they went in a big Cape wagon in charge of a sergeant major and under escort of some brilliant artillerymen, a melancholy little crew, these troops, then, taking ten days of absence from home and six hours of drill on the hot parade ground under a sergeant major who doubtless knew how to improve the patriotism of small conscripts. The march was with a swiftness—Norman Duncan in Harper's Magazine.

Mitten Money.
Sometimes when the weather is very cold and the pilot is rolling in a heavy sea off the Ambrose channel lightning the old pilot will think twice about the precarious ride in the small boat and the sea, strenuous climb up the air's side on a fog. And if he has not seen the old fellow may give one of the younger pilots a chance to take his turn. Should this bargain be concluded in the snug cabin the younger pilot usually receives the regular fee of the sum of $4 and this is called mitten money.—New York Sun.

Why the Mind Gilt Left.
"Why," asked the weary-looking woman, "do you constantly refer to your mind as being left of this book?"
"Because," replied the irritable man in a loud tone of voice, "a goat is supposed to be the only animal that thinks and acts as if he enjoyed it."—Washington Star.

A Place of Refuge.
"Her husband is a brute."
"Why, what did he do?"
"You know how superstitious she is. Well, when she started to throw a plate at his head during a quarrel the bearded wretch stood square in front of a mirror."—Boston Transcript.

The Trouble.
"The only trouble with my speech," said the remorseful man, "is that I didn't know when to stop."
"It's worse than that," replied Mr. Growcher. "The trouble is you didn't know when not to begin."—Washington Star.

Buttured.
Always fond of a practical joke, Lord Charles Berensford tells his "Memoirs" of an occasion when he and his friend Vyner entered the grand dining room of one of London's swell hotels where two men were engaged in a heated argument.

"There was in the great room a sideboard and a slab filled with pat of butter stood on the end of a pedestal table. I picked up a pat of butter from the end of a pedestal table and told Vyner that if he would come outside I would throw the pat of butter at a surprising distance."

READY FOR FIGHT.
"And so I will," he said. "The pat of butter described a beautiful yellow parabola at high speed and landed upon the eye of one of the combatants. The injured doubted his up and he thought that the other man had hit him, and was ready for fight. Drawing his right ear back, he struck his front teeth on the point of the nose. The next moment they were both lying on the floor, fighting like cats. My companion and I were laughing so much that we couldn't separate them, and they finally had to go to bed for a week to recover themselves of their wounds."

A Doubtful Complaint.
London Herald, the noted newspaper, tells the following story of a student: "I went into my club one day, looked into the reading room, and saw a great friend of mine talking to one of the ugliest men I have ever seen in my life. My friend called me over and much to my regret, saw I dislike ugly things in life, interested me to go to the club. He turned out to be quite a decent fellow and paid me the usual fifty compliments which all professional respect is covered with him about five minutes and when I had had enough he reiterated the statement that he was delighted to have met me, and added: "In my case, my friend, I was most anxious to know because I am always being taken for you!"—London Globe.

COUNTY BOARD.
Wayne, Neb., Jan. 12, 1915.
Board met in regular session. All members present.

Upon motion it is hereby resolved that each member of the board be and is hereby appointed a committee of one to investigate claims of demand upon the county for pauper maintenance at the poor house, and for temporary relief and also to investigate claims and demands of any party on county road and bridge funds to be expended in the several road districts of the county. P. M. Corbit is hereby directed to act as such committee in the First district; Henry Keithwick is hereby directed to act as such committee in the Second district; and George S. Farnham is hereby directed to act as such committee in the Third district.

Provided, however, that in case of emergency anywhere in the county, coming to the knowledge of any of the commissioners where it is necessary to expedite immediate relief to a pauper, and no other commissioner present, the commissioner present shall see that the necessary relief is provided. Each member shall report to the full board at its next session, and all reports prepared by him as such committee with his recommendation for action by the board. All justices of the peace, and the county clerk are hereby forbidden to give any aid whatsoever, except as stated below, to any persons requiring costly aid such as medical attendance, admittance to the poorhouse and other necessities shall make application direct to the commissioner of the district for which he acts.

Under this resolution, the county clerk and superintendent of the poor house are given authority to call the county physician for medical attendance when they deem it necessary. On motion the following resolutions were adopted: Resolved:

1. That a Board of Health for the county be appointed by the county board, the same to consist of three members, one of whom shall be a practicing physician.

2. That said Board of Health be and they are hereby empowered to enforce such regulations as may be adopted by this board to prevent the introduction of contagious, infectious or malignant diseases into the unincorporated territory of the county, and to enforce quarantine rules made for that purpose by it or the board of commissioners.

3. That in case in their judgment it shall become necessary to establish a "pesthouse," and if the pesthouse be established by the county board the same shall be under the supervision of the Board of Health, and the said Board of Health shall have power to cause such person to be removed thereto as they may deem necessary in order to enforce the quarantine rules and prevent the introduction and spread of such contagious diseases.

4. The said Board of Health or any member thereof may enter any premises in the county, within the corporate limits of any city or village for the purpose of determining whether or not any contagious diseases exist therein, and shall adopt such rules and regulations for their own control and for the control of said enforcement of the quarantine rules and regulations adopted by this board as in their judgment they may deem necessary. They shall elect such officers from their own body as the deem necessary, and shall keep a record of all their proceedings and persons quarantined.

5. The expenses of said Board of Health which are not properly chargeable to the persons affected with such contagious diseases, or persons occupying the premises where the same exists, shall be paid from the county treasury upon bills duly allowed by the board of county commissioners in the same manner as the other indebtedness against the county. The compensation of the members of the Board of Health shall be 25 cents a little time way, and for examination and quarantine of each family $2.

They shall be allowed by the county board and paid from the county treasury in the same manner as other bills against the county.

6. The county board may at any time remove any member of said Board of Health and appoint another in his place.

7. All persons who have been quarantined and the premises quarantined shall be thoroughly fumigated in the manner provided by the rules of quarantine, and adopted by this board, at the expense of such persons, and the occupant of the quarantined premises, and no person shall be raised until such persons and premises have been thoroughly fumigated.

Provided that paupers and premises occupied by paupers may be fumigated at the expense of the county. All fumigation shall be under the personal supervision of the county board, or the health officer, or the personal supervision of a practicing physician.

On motion the following regulations and rules for quarantine of contagious, infectious or malignant diseases were adopted:

1. Whenever within the limits of this county and without the corporate limits of any city or village, a person is suspected of having small pox, scarlet fever, diphtheria, or other contagious disease, he shall be immediately isolated within his own household as carefully as possible, and as soon as a contagious disease is recognized it will be the duty of the attending physician and householder, to give written notice of the same to the clerk of the county, giving the name of the person and of the family where it exists, with the number exposed and all other particulars that may be of any value.

2. The premises where the above contagious disease exists shall be immediately quarantined by the Board of Health through its proper Plapdorie in many instances, is a funny story about some great person.

In view of the theory that time is precious, a good deal of it is devoted to argument.
It sure aggravates a man to be accused of intoxication when he hasn't had a drink.
The world goes better although we aren't disposed to give the New Year's resolution much credit.

A Perfect Grand Piano in Upright Form

WE were exceptionally fortunate in securing the agency for this musical marvel.
It is really the most sensational achievement of our day in the development of the piano.

We invite every lover of music in the city to come in and learn about it. Don't be a back number—keep informed of what is doing in the most interesting and inspiring profession in the world.

We'd tell you all about it here, but lack of space forbids. Set an hour aside now for a visit to our store.
