"PEG O' MY HEART"

It will appear serially in this paper.

The play ran 604 consecutive nights, or about two years, at a New York theater scoring one of the greatest hits of the past decade.

The story, like the play, was written by J. Hartley Manners. It is full of heart interest. It is witty and clever. Every line of it will entertain you.

A romping, madcap, bewitching Irish girl is turned over to the care of aristocratic English relatives.

They dislike her, but Peg holds her own with jaunty pride, and in the end, by her generosity and big heartedness, wins them over, and what is more, wins her fortune, and what is still more, wins a very gallant lover

"PEG O' MY HEART"

THOUGHTLESS FRIENDS.

They Mean Well Enough, but They Will Do Such Queer Things.
"Most of the annoyances of life are caused by friends," writes James Montgomery Flagg in "The American Magazine." "It doesn't annoy you when your enemy tries to get you in bad, you don't care anything else from him. It's his regular business. You'd feel that he was a pretty mean sort of enemy if he didn't try to procure one of your tires," then you can think and speak about him as a leoprous horned toad. But you can't think or speak about a friend that way, because he gets under your skin. He's your friend! That's all there is to it—he did it, and he's a feeble minded anticleric, but he's still your friend!"
"Only a dear friend would greet you when you're feeling peculiarly gay and fit with, 'So-a-ay! What's the trouble?' You look positively green, old horse! Don't you feel well? I don't take a long rest, that's right! I ought to like that hollow eyed look of yours, perhaps it's your best!"
Or come on behind you when you are looking calmly at some old picture in a window on the avenue and forgetting there are such things in the world as idiotic friends, and let his enormous fat nose pound hard down on you between your shoulders, so that you think for the moment that a proboscis made with hoofs on him the size of the rubbish receptacles on the corners has planted there in the interior of your lungs! Only a friend could inspire such diabolical and streaming hatred that rises up in the weeds of your soul, because he manages to turn you, see what bit you!"
Or if you happen to get certain friends to go motoring several times and have them to dine at little offices and you let two or three Sundays go by without asking them, it is only dear friends who would on such occasions meet time, greet you with a Hudson Bay expression, and a bucket of sarcasm!

"good medicine" and "bad medicine" anything that he fancies will change his fortunes for better or for worse. Imagine that Lo in his pontic antelope and meeting with no success. Presently he finds an empty cartridge shell on the top of a tomato tin, and shortly afterward he gets a shot at his game. Can he doubt that the piece of tin on the shell gave the luck? Not he. He wears that fragment of tomato tin or empty shell about his neck with his outer jewelry, and it is "good medicine."

Several years ago there was a Black-foot chief who lived in the vicinity of Beren Persons River, where now stands the city of Medicine Hat. He and his tribe were fond of hunting and of making war on their enemies, the Crees. This chief always wore a hoody dress of feathers that he called his "medicine hat," for he thought that it brought him good fortune.
It was a dark day for the chief when he last met the Crees at the place where now stands the growing city. He and his men fell upon the enemy with great bravery and overthrew them to ignominious flight. But just then a gust of wind whirled out of the west, caught the magic hat and tossed it into the swift running Saskatchewan river. Instantly the poor chief lost all confidence in himself and his cause, and with victory in his hand he forbore to grasp it, but fled over the plains toward the Rockies, followed by his tribe—YOUTH'S COMPANION.

Voltaire's Quick Wit.
When Voltaire was living in London a crowd gathered to mob him as he passed along the street. For what reason? Because he had not hitherto been stoutly confronting the mob, he mounted a stone and addressed them. "Brave Englishmen!" he cried, "am I not English? Why are you not having been born among you?" This speech was so effective that the crowd carried him on their shoulders to his lodgings.

His Companion.
"When you get so careful to leave out things," he advised, "is very often dangerous to children at the dinner table, but seldom received in an obtuse spirit. The caution was repeated not long since to a young man of vigorous appetite.
"Patience!" he said, "You might as well tell me, I wish my face and be careful to look off dirty."

A Famine's Fallings.
"Sometimes my little girl says she is dying at other times she says she is six. I don't understand it, there must be something wrong with her."
"O' wouldn't worry," a "kiss" mother of older females who can do as best for us, but the Indian distinguishes as MEDICINE HAT.

The Indian Chief From Whom the Canadian City Was Named.
Not many persons know what was the origin of the strange name borne by the Canadian city that Mr. Rudyard Kipling once called "the city born lucky."
The word "medicine" means more to us than it does to the Crees. Think of it! It means something nasty that is good for us, but the Indian distinguishes as

Come in and See the New Gingham, Lawns, White Goods and Dress Goods

THE WEEK WITH THE CHURCHES

First Baptist Church. (Rev. B. F. Richardson, Pastor.) Last Sunday's storm did not keep us from having two good services. The evening audience especially was good. It takes a bad storm, indeed, to keep business men away from their place of business during the week. They are there ready to serve if any customer should come. The Lord's work ought not to be any less important. It seems proper, that at all appointed hours of worship the services should be held, prepared to meet the needs of those who might come. An old college professor told us that he settled the question of church attendance on stormy nights in this way: He asked himself the question, if he would go down to the postoffice that night for five dollars. At once he replied in the affirmative. Then he said to himself, in that cause he ought to attend the service, for surely he ought to be as faithful to God as he would be to his own interest. "The Growth of a Prayer" will be the subject of the sermon Sunday morning. Read Luke xi:1-13. This is the bible classic on prayer. "Elijah, the Champion," will be the subject of our evening study. There is more real heroism revealed in this son of the desert than in most characters of history. Nineteen attended the young people's meeting last Sunday evening in the face of the storm. Miss Abbott gave us a splendid lesson. She had her topic well in hand. Miss Mildred Page is the leader for next week. Church bulletins have been put in the lobby of the postoffice and at each hotel for the purpose of a little

More than 10% of all Cement Used in the United States is

This is the Cement age—in the United States yearly the consumption is ONE BARREL FOR EVERY PERSON cement is used everywhere—for every conceivable purpose.

Cement has made possible the world's greatest engineering triumphs—canals—dams—irrigation projects—subways, etc. It enters into the construction of our homes—factories—public buildings—gates—streets—roads—airways—bridges—railroads—piers—etc. The farmer uses it for barns—doors—silos—cisterns—water troughs—fence posts—etc. Cement makes possible fire-proof concrete construction and will last forever. Directly or indirectly every person in the United States uses cement. You should know of the ability of cement construction. You should know about Lehigh; and the reasons which make it the National Cement. Our bible study and prayer meeting on each Wednesday evening. Some have not missed a single study since we began. It will pay you to attend this service.

St. Paul's English Lutheran Church. (Rev. E. E. Blessing, Pastor.) Sunday school at 10 a. m. Divine worship at 11 a. m. Luther League at 6:45 p. m. Evening worship at 7:45.

We are entering upon our Lenten season. Lutherans prefer to call it the Passion season. All through this season should run the story of our Lord's Passion. It could culminate in our Lord's death. And yet the death of Calvary is not the end. Beyond it is the resurrection: The death of Calvary made the resurrection possible. The sorrowful journey to Getsemane, and through it to Calvary, was our Lord's way to victory.

The Passion observance begins with the story of our Lord's temptation in the Wilderness. That is not a story of struggle and defeat, but of struggle with and victory over the temptations of the Evil One. The solemn services and meditations of the Passion season are not to be regarded as an end. There is no virtue in sack-cloth and ashes. It is to be a preparation for greater spiritual things. It is the way to a new life. Ours is a world come victory. Thus, during this season, let us contemplate and meditate upon the life of Jesus Christ, that we may be strengthened and victories will be ours.

The subject for Sunday morning's service is "God's Everlasting Gift to God." Rom. xii. 1. In the evening, the pastor will use the subject, "Meddling with God." Chron. xxxv. 21.

The Ladies' Aid society met at the home of Mrs. A. D. Erickson last Thursday afternoon. There was a very good attendance and the Lincoln program was greatly enjoyed by all. The next meeting will be held Thursday, February 25. The place will be announced next week.

Catchalot Club will meet Saturday afternoon at 2:30. A cordial invitation is extended to all who wish to worship with us.

German Evangelical Lutheran Church. (Rev. R. Moehring, Pastor.) Sunday school at 10 a. m. and preaching at 11 a. m.

Methodist Church. (Rev. A. S. Buell, Pastor.) We are hoping that the roads will soon be in condition again so that our country people may get to church. Those who could come have been faithful, but we miss the ones that have not been able to meet with us for several weeks. There was a good attendance at the services last Sunday, notwithstanding the inclement weather.

The Nebraska Wesleyan Glee Club evening with the church last Friday was a great success. The streets and sidewalks were a perfect glare of ice and it was raining at the time of the program, but the people came and filled the auditorium. The Glee club was in charge of Professor F. W. Kerns, one of the instructors in the university. The entire program pleased the audience very much. They seemed especially pleased with the solo by Glenn Gildersleeve, one of our own Wayne boys, who is singing in the Wesleyan, and a member of the Glee club. Professor F. W. Kerns very pleasingly rendered a violin solo, Conzonna, Op. 6 D Ambrosio. Arleigh Eaton was the versatile and pleasing reader and entertainer. The Glee club is composed of students in the Nebraska Wesleyan university, located at University place, Lincoln, Nebraska. This is the one school maintained by the Methodist people of the state. We have a truly great school and it will be pleased that pays its own expense and this university is no exception. Either the school must be supported by taxation, as our state and public schools are or they must receive help from some other source. Our university does not have a large endowment, but is maintained by the contributions of the common people of the state. Just now the Norfolk district is launching a campaign for the raising of $8000 under the leadership of Vice Chancellor I. B. Schreckengast. A good test of any institution is the record of her graduates. Measured by this test, the Nebraska Wesleyan university shines as a star of the first magnitude among the educational institutions of the land.

The subject for next Sunday morning's sermon will be "The Climax of a Christian Life." The evening message will be "The Power of Yielding."

Yes, I Mean It

If your little ones break a few cups or plates don't scold them, they can't help it, and a few cents spent at the Variety store will repair the damage.

If you need a few new things to fill in your Crochery supply, don't scratch your head and think you can't afford them. A few dimes or quarters will supplement your stock and you will not notice the expense.

If you think of buying a new dinner set, don't pick up your mail order catalogue and the first eyes and specs out hunting for a pattern at a bargain price. You can get the pattern and the bargain at the Variety Store without going any further. I will meet the price of any mail order concern in dinner ware. I have entire sets and samples of different patterns on hand, and if the whole dinner set is not in the store, I will get it for you in shorter time than you will from the outside concern, and cheaper besides.

Presbyterian Church. (Rev. S. Xanthopoulos, Cross, Pastor.) The sermon next Sunday morning will be on a subject of vast importance. The theme is "Am I My Brother's Keeper?" Read James Russell Lowell's poem "A Partable." We are asking a question about responsibility. What is the responsibility of every man? of the Christian? of the church?

The Sunday school continues the united service from 11:30. There are classes for all ages and stages. A teacher's training class offers normal training for all who want to teach in the Sunday school. The brotherhood supports a class for men. We should have every member of the church and congregation in the Sunday school.

The Y. S. C. E. held the regular monthly business meeting at the home of Miss Esther McCaheen on Monday evening. The reports of the various committees indicate that the society is making advance along all lines. One of the most interesting and helpful of the meetings in the church is the C. E. meeting at 6:30 each Sunday evening.

The popular evening service at 7:30 will be under the auspices of the Women's Missionary society. A good program has been prepared and the public is cordially invited to attend. Special music has been arranged and a number of recitations will be given. We believe you will not be disappointed if you attend this meeting.

Are you satisfied with what your church is doing? Are you as officers and teachers and people meeting your full duty in this age of wonderful opportunities? Are we working as effectively as Russell Christian Science, "movies," "stage" and other aggressive agencies? Let us be anxious to move on to yet higher standards of efficiency and usefulness. May our church press on to do its larger measure—what God desires of it.

CONTRARY TO REPORTS

Which may have been circulated, I am not going to run on an independent ticket for president. I care not who makes the laws for the people. I can make glasses that are satisfactory. I know this because my customers tell me so.

So when your eyes are troubling you, get a pair and I will be pleased to talk with you.

Remember, I devote my entire time to testing eyes and making my own glasses.

The Modern Ashless Fuel--Worth Reading About

You can now purchase an absolutely ashless and sootless fuel. It is called PETROLEUM CARBON COKE. Can be used in furnaces an entire season without removing a pound of ashes. For cook stoves it has no equal. Will not darken or soot cooking utensils.

Just Think of It! No Ashes, No Clinkers, No Soot!

Contains 2,000 more heat units in each pound than hard coal. Contains from 5,000 to 7,000 more heat units in each pound than other coke or soft coal. There is not another fuel of any description that does not contain from five to thirty per cent ashes, which is all waste or loss to the consumer. This is not a by-product made from coal as is the case with all coke. PETROLEUM COKE is a by-product obtained from the refining of Crude Oil. IT ALL CONSUMES. NO WASTE.

For open grates one cannot conceive of a more ideal fuel. Clean to handle; makes a beautiful fire and gives an intense heat. No ashes to bother with, or dirty your home. Printed directions for use sent with each delivery. For sale by

THE EARLY DAYS IN TWO COUNTIES

From the Wayne Herald-Tribune, February 26, 1886.

J. J. Tracy went to Tennessee. Mrs. A. C. Crockett went to Maine for a visit.

John Phillips sold his blacksmith shop to Mark Stringer.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Jones, February 21, 1886, a son.

David Shaw is building a house on his farm north of town.

P. C. Crockett is building a residence in the east part of town.

M. R. Dewitt of near Ponca, killed a wildcat weighing 22 pounds.

B. E. Fleming of Cleveland, Ohio, bought the P. P. Taylor street mercantile.

A. B. Slater, landed a farm near Walnut, Iowa, for a 400-acre tract owned by D. W. Britton's farm.

Market prices: Wheat 45 cents, corn 18 cents, oats 16 cents, potatoes 15 cents, butter 15 cents, eggs 15 cents, hogs $2.70.

From the Wayne Herald, February 18, 1897:

Mrs. Andrews entertained the Minerva club.

Mrs. E. M. Smith entertained at an evening party.

Frank Strahan rented the Dittz house and moved to town.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Worth, February 13, 1897, a girl.

Moses Herner, formerly of Wayne, died February 9, at Jerico, Mo.

Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Blanchard entertained the ladies of the Guild and their husbands.

The little daughter of John Hull, living nine miles south of Wayne, died February 12, 1897.

Mrs. Bengta Julin died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. P. N. Nelson, February 14, 1897, aged 73 years.

Charles Reynolds, a student at the State University, was in Wayne for a few days, visiting the schools here.

A two-day educational rally was held at the Presbyterian church. Some of the speakers were: Prof. Hoosie of the Peru State Normal, Prof. F. M. Fling of the State University, E. Cunningham, D. C. Main, A. P. Childs, J. M. Pile and Mrs. James Britton.

From Ponca Journal, February 22, 1883:

The blockade on the various railroads has been raised and travel resumed.

The legislature has been very diligent during the present session, is shown by the fact that up to the 16th inst. 428 bills were introduced.

Shleigh, N. G. (We are mistaken: while writing the above it commenced to snow, and in 20 minutes there was snow enough on the ground to extinguish Hades.)

The river is not in an attractive condition for those wishing to cross. A few more days of warm weather and the business of crossing on ice will be ended and a general break-up may be looked for.

One night last week some conscienceless reprobate, instigated by malice or love of mischief, attacked the front windows of Mr. J. Martin's store in Martinsburg and broke them in. We learn he has a clew to the perpetrator and it is to be hoped he will make it hot for him. This is the second time Mr. Martin has had his windows broken in.

YES, SHE DID KNOW.

And Proved It to Her Critical Old Singing Master.

Many years ago, in an old French town in France, a great choir under the famous old leader, Father Heleche, was having its final rehearsal for the production of the "Messe". The choir members were all dressed in the place, where the soprano solo takes up the refrain. "I know that my Redeemer liveth," the singer was a beautiful woman, whose voice had been faultlessly trained. As the tones came out high and clear the listeners were filled with wonder at her perfect technique. Her bowing was perfect, her note placing perfect, her pronunciation beyond criticism.

After he had noted these things with a pause, and all eyes were turned toward the old conductor to catch his look of approval—there was the surprise; however, when a sharp cry of astonishment was heard, as a comment on the orchestra to pause, and with a look of sorrow Father Heleche said to the singer, "My daughter, you do not really know that your Redeemer liveth, do you?"

With a flushed face she replied, "Why, yes, I think I do."

"Then sing it," he cried. "Sing it from your heart. Tell it to me so I will know that you know and know that you know the joy and power of it." Then with an imperious gesture he motioned for the orchestra to begin.

This time the young woman sang with no thought of herself or of technique and applause from her hearers. "That was the truth that she sang from her heart and experienced in her life and that she wished to send home to the hearts of the listeners. As the last note died away there was wonder at the craftsman's work, but there were quickened hearts that had been moved by the glorious message they had heard.

As the singer stood, forgetful of applause, the old master stepped up and with tears in his eyes kissed her on the forehead and said, "You do know, for you have told me—Exchange."

CHASING THE RAINBOW.

Curious Legends That Are Told in Different Countries.

We have all of us heard stories of the treasure at the end of the rainbow. There is a pot of gold there, you know. And if we cannot walk fast enough, run fast enough, we might find it and be ever thereafter happy.

That what our parents tell us when we are children, isn't it?

And sometimes we learn that the rainbow is a bridge, and the thunder the roar of the heavy wheels going over it.

These are the stories that we hear in childhood about the rainbow. Children of other lands hear many other stories.

In Greece nurses tell the children that if any one by chance stumbles over the end of the rainbow his or her sex is changed. A fine story that to tell a child.

The little Greeks make the rainbow run away from the ends of the rainbow instead of seeking them to find our pot of gold.

The little Turk hears from his nurse that if he can but touch the band of orange that spans the heavens in the sky he will be rich. He is to be rich with rubies for eyes and teeth of gold.

In many parts of Russia the rainbow is called a pump, and in Hungary it is called "God's pump" and "Noah's pump."

In Russia, in some provinces, the wells are covered with strong plait, so that the water cannot be drawn from them by the rainbow, and in other provinces it is said that three angels have charge of the rainbow—one to draw water through it from the earth, another to stir water from it to the clouds, and another to return the water to the earth in the form of rain.—Boston Herald.

Two Kettles of Water.

Sir Robert Hart, speaking of the far east and about customs in the market, told a story of a great Chinese scholar and high official who said that the foreign way of letting the young people fall in love and choose and the Chinese way of first choosing and then making acquaintance reminded him of two kettles of water.

The first—the foreign—was taken at the boiling point from the fire by a ladle and then grew cooler and cooler, whereas the second—the Chinese—was a kettle of cold water put on the fire by wood and, ever afterward, grew warmer and warmer, so that "said his friend, "after fifty or sixty years we are really in love with each other's exchange."

Why He Was Careful.

A man who believed in pedestrianism once had a friend to accompany him on a little jaunt. Every time they crossed the road his friend looked that one way and then the other and was fussy to notice if there came to be a motorcar in sight.

"It's all well enough to be careful," said the pedestrian, "but you seem to have let automobiles get on your nerves."

"I've good reason to be careful," said the friend. "I read in the morning paper that the 'New York' policy I carry is void if I get run over by one."—Judge.

The River Indus.

The River Indus to widen during the year may vary by miles. Traffic for long distances cannot be guaranteed because the shifting channels throw up mud flats and sand banks here and there, and the mud there is so thick that it obstructs the vision of the ancient boatsmen.

ORDER OF HEARING ON ORIGINAL PROBATE OF WILL.

The State of Nebraska, Wayne county ss.

In a county court, held at the county court room in and for said county of Wayne on the 2nd day of February, 1915.

Present, James Britton, County Judge.

In the matter of the estate of Otto Hogenen, deceased.

On reading and filing the petition of Lena Hogenen, praying that the instrument filed on the 30th day of January, 1915, and purporting to be the last Will and Testament of said deceased, may be proved, approved, probated and recorded as the last Will and Testament of said Otto Hogenen, deceased, and that the execution of said instrument may be committed and that the administration of said estate may be granted to Lena Hogenen as executrix.

Ordered, That February 23, A. D. 1915, at 1 o'clock P. M. be assigned for hearing said petition, when all persons interested in said matter may appear at a county court to be held in and for said county.

And this court do hereby certify that the cause why the prayer of the petitioner should not be granted; and that notice of the pendency of said petition and the hearing thereof, be given to all persons interested in said matter by publishing a copy of this order in the Wayne Herald, a weekly newspaper printed in said county, for three successive weeks prior to said day of hearing.

HERD BOOKS:

A Wonder Price 2nd 215055. He is one you can take your hat off to. He is going to make some hog. If he don't get started he can't trot with any of the big ones.

POLAND CHINA—Big Timm's Pride 220001. Read up on this pedigree and look this young boar over safe day, and if you see anything to hinder him from making a big hog, take me around the corner and tell me about it.

Golden Model Chief 152299. See the top fall hog at W. N. Shank's sale last August. Here is what Mr. Shank says about Golden Model Chief: "I consider this the best boar I ever raised, and we have raised good ones. He is about like High Model, same type and style, and practically the same breeding. P. F. Devore said he was the best fall boar he had seen this year."

DUROC JERSEY—Col Echo 164174, the good young boar. The gilts are bred to him. You will not have a chance to get him sale day, as we had a chance to sell him after we were done using him, so let him go.

The NEBRASKA SOLONS HAVE STORMY TIME

Lincoln, Neb., Feb. 16.—Vigorous clashes of legislative ideas in both senate and house during the past week have shown the streaks of legislative lightning far beyond the dome of the historic state capitol. Senate File 46, by Howell, an insurance bill, claimed by its supporters to prevent discrimination in fire insurance rates and alleged by its opponents to be a bill promoting a gigantic trust in these rates, was one of the causes of fighting in the senate during the past week, the bill having the unusual experience of being killed on its final passage and again re-introduced and placed in the renunciate by its own normal following day. The bill provides in general that all insurance companies must file a schedule of rates on the various classifications of property and stick to this rate schedule in the State. The supporters of the bill claim that this will remove the discrimination now admittedly practiced as between various cities in the state, while the opponents of the measure maintain that the foundation of a gigantic and oppressive insurance trust in Nebraska. The Thursday bill was put on its final passage in the senate and defeated by a vote of 13 for to 17 against. On the following day a motion to reconsider was introduced and passed the senate. Majority of Box Butte led the fight against the revival of the bill, but was unsuccessful in his attempt. A public hearing on the bill is staged for Thursday of this week at which legislative orators and interested persons may be expected to bring out the alleged good and bad features of this proposal.

The senate bill by Buhrman, requiring lumber offered for sale in Lincoln, Nebraska, and that following day, was defeated on final passage, receiving only three affirmative votes. Opponents claimed that there is no full measure lumber in the general sense in any lumber yard in Nebraska, and that mills do not sell full measure except on special order, and that at a high price.

A red-letter incident of the week creating another legislative thunder-storm was the killing in the senate of H. R. 112, the proposed law relating to the normal board to control the state normal schools, and which was passed by the house by an almost unanimous vote. This was the bill popularly known as the "political exaction" of Col. J. J. Majors of Peru. The senate made short shift of the measure and administered indefinite postponement at the first opportunity by a vote of 24 to 7. This result gave the honorable house almost an explicit mandate to re-introduce the bill by adopting a motion which placed all senate files at the very bottom of the house calendar. One day after the house awoke to the fact that this was a dangerous experiment which might cut both ways and rescinded its action. Senate files will now take their usual routine place on the house calendar.

S. F. 143, by Spirk of Saline; a constitutional amendment reducing the senate from 25 members to 10 and the house from 100 members to 50 and making the legislative term four years was placed on the senate calendar following a serious attempt to kill the measure in the early stages of its progress.

While in the killing mood, the senate took a rap at S. F. 123, by Bushe, providing for the election of election officials, one set to count during the day while election is in progress, thus hurrying the completion of returns. Indefinite postponement was administered to the measure and it now sleeps in the legislative graveyard.

The senate has indicated its approval of S. F. 9, by Shumway, which provides for the sterilization of habitual criminals and certain mental defectives and incompetent persons for the propagation of their kind. In committee of the whole the senate has advanced the bill to final passage, the vote indicating that the bill will pass the final test of the senate.

In the house the Howell senate resolution approving the Hitchcock bill in congress preventing the exportation of arms and munitions of war sleeps quietly in the hands of the judiciary committee, where it has rested for three weeks past. This bill has been alleged to be a factional proposal within the democratic party—the supporters of Senator Hitchcock for the resolution and the supporters of Mr. Bryan presumed to be vigorously against it. inquiry—and in the cradle of the house judiciary committee.

A tempest in the teapot developed in the house over the Peterson bill regulating street railways. While the bill refers to the city of Lincoln alone interested parties have made it a serious bone of contention and have apparently been interested pro and con in the matter.

The bill by Reuter permitting other than lawyers to practice in probate matters in the county court brought on one of the big storms in the house during this session. The lawyer members were universally opposed to the bill while the laymen looked with favor upon it. After a lively fight the bill was sent along its course towards enactment.

Taylor of Custer had the time of his life with his bill reducing the transcript fees of district court reporters to which was added an attempt to reduce their salary. The bill was killed in standing committee, was revived next day in the house and put on the calendar in the morning.

Present indications are that it is dead and that the boys who make pot hooks and scrolls for the district courts of the state will retain their fees and salary. Taylor is also giving a grilling to the heads of university affairs. He is chairman of a special committee to analyze the proposed educational appropriations presented in the house, and in that capacity has had before him several normal school officers at the head of university affairs. Rumor says that in these examinations they have been pinned down to uncomfortable brass tacks as to their expenditures, and that an atmosphere of pleasant anticipation does not pervade university circles at this time.

The house has killed a proposal for twice the number of deputy game wardens now employed. The senate has passed thirty-eight bills to date, of which fourteen were passed during the week. Among them are bills administered to the measure and it now sleeps in the legislative graveyard.

express companies to properly house live stock in their charge.

A computation of the appropriation bills now before the house discloses that the enormous sum of $11,491,049.00 is pending before the house in various appropriation bills. At the last session the total appropriations reached $28,200,000.00, was practically double the amount appropriated only a few years ago. An enormous amount of pruning remains to be done to reduce appropriations at this session to a total that will avoid a genuine resort on the part of the people.

The Monday afternoon session of the senate and house was confined largely to routine in committee of the vote in both bodies.

In the Senate, Quinby's bill to exempt fruit trees from taxation was lacking in votes on final passage, but was saved by the author by being referred to a standing committee before the death-dealing vote was announced.

In the house the Greenwall bill, to continue the lease of school lands in the hands of present holders at the same lease price as they are now paying, was introduced so as to take away from school land leases almost all the privileges awarded them by the present statute.

THE CUNNING OF CROWS.

In India These Birds Have Been Labeled "Shreds of Satan."

Travelers in the Orient have much to say about the Indian crow, a bird that for many centuries and probably actually has perhaps no equal. Corvus splendens—has had a reputation for being a cunning creature. But a naturalist who knows the Indian crow: At first hand has called them "shreds of Satan." Indians from Tartary to the Malay Peninsula cherish their bird, however, it should be said that life in India is not a little enlivened by their presence. A correspondent witnessed the following incident:

A small hawk had seized a little bird and perched on a leafless branch to devour it. The bird, in its struggle, drew two crows to the spot. They toppled and dived from branch to branch, busily discussing the strategy of their little bird.

Then one of them quipped away through the surrounding foliage. The other, in the meantime, drew from the perch and hovering within a foot of his mate, maintained a bustling movement of something like a saw. The hawk, in the meantime, paid no attention to the hawk. His prey grimly grasped beneath his feet, he angrily hissed and lunged at the hovering crow.
